9. O fear ye the Lord, all ye who dwell on the earth, from the hoary head to the prattling tongue; and put not far away the day of his visitation. For behold, I declare unto you, that his work will shortly overtake you, and from his hand ye cannot escape.

10. His purposes are fixed, and his decrees unalterable. His judgments are sure to the ungodly, who turn not from the error of their ways, and his mercies are free for those who flee vanity and vice; who regard the sacred and solemn truths manifested unto them, by setting their feet to run in the path of obedience.

11. I, Ezekiel, am a servant of the Most High, and my soul does bow at his sacred throne, to fulfill his holy will and keep his righteous laws. And no one whom He hath created with a rational soul, can be owned of Him, or feel his mercies flow unto them, unless they reverence that eternal law of righteousness established by Him, by falling low before Him, and keeping that which He requireth in his sacred word which He hath given.

12. I am indeed inviting you to ponder well the work required by your Heavenly Father, and let your whole souls be devoted to reflection; that ye may be able to comprehend your duty, and do it.

13. This is my desire for your welfare, all ye who dwell in time, and are capable of serving and honoring your Creator, by living righteously, walking humbly and dealing justly with all your fellow creatures. In this, God will accept you, and bless the work of your hands. Peace shall crown your souls, and thankfulness fill your hearts to an overflowing for his divine goodness.

14. Thus and thus shall it be with thee, O man, saith the spirit of the holy Prophet Ezekiel.

A WORD OF WARNING AND INVITATION BY THE PATRIARCH NOAH;

WRITTEN BY INSPIRATION AT ENFIELD, NEW HAMPSHIRE, AUGUST 9, 1843.

1. Bow down, all ye inhabitants of earth; hearken and hear the word of the living God. For lo! I am an holy Prophet of the Lord, who in ancient time, prophecied many years, of the purposes of God that would in after days take place; and because it did not come to pass immediately, the inhabitants of the earth disbelieved the warnings of God, and mocked and derided his mercy unto their needy souls, and would not be persuaded to believe, till the flood came and swept them from the face of the earth.

2. But verily, God wrought by means of his own choosing, and at his own appointed time; and all nations, kindreds and people, were compelled, by his judgments, to believe that his word was to be listened to and obeyed: for none, save the righteous few that were sheltered in the ark, were saved from the flood of waters that He sent upon the face of the whole earth, to destroy his creation, both man and beast, because of the abominations that were in her.

3. Therefore, be not likened unto those who lived in the past ages of the world, by refusing to comply with his terms of equity and justice, lest He again stretch out his heavy hand of judgment, and ye suffer like unto them; But lend a listening ear unto the sacred warnings which the Lord my God hath seen fit, through his tender mercy, to unfold in these last days, to the nations, that they may repent, believe and obey; that ye may escape the second flood, (though not of waters,) that He hath designed to send upon the abominable and polluted of this world.

4. For verily, as the Lord, in the days of old, spake unto the children of men through mortal clay, even now He doth, by the mouths of holy messengers, make known his decrees; and as truly as He fulfilled his purposes in former ages of the world, so true He will bring about every decree that has been spoken by the mouths of Prophets in this, his last display of his grace to the inhabitants of earth.

5. Therefore be persuaded to fear God and love mercy, that wisdom may dwell within your hearts, that ye may not be left to reject the word of the Almighty God, to your own destruction. For surely as the Lord has spoken by me, He hath written this Holy Roll and Book of warnings and instructions to the nations of the earth, that they may be left without a cloak to hide their iniquities, when He, by the aid of Eternal Wisdom, shall accomplish the work which is already begun.

6. How can frail mortals think to change the purposes of God, or alter the least command He has given to his creatures? And if any slight this, his word of warning and invitation unto them, because it did not come in a way that is pleasing to the carnal senses of vain mortals, then they must inevitably fall under loss, and be accountable for this, as all other transgressions.

7. But suffer not, O frail man, thy immortal soul to be guided by a spirit of opposition, or incline thy heart to the vain clamor of the caviler upon this solemn and sacred truth of the Most High God; but deal with the same, in that way that ye are willing to give an account for in the day of judgment.

8. And think not to veil thy doings from the All-seeing eye of Jehovah, who watches around the whole human family, as a tender parent watches his own household. Neither flatter yourselves that this is the planning of mortal man, to obtain a high name, or gain applause; for verily it was the express command of the Almighty: and in his solemn and holy fear, through tribulation and sufferings it has been written, to obey his requirement.

9. Again I warn all who are favored with a privilege of seeing or hearing this Holy Roll, that they handle it not without the fear of God, nor treat it with levity; for verily the Lord will not hold guiltless those who reject this, his offer of mercy unto them.

10. The Lord hath purposed to make an end of sin, and to put down every system of antichrist. And He hath already established in his Zion upon earth, a permanent foundation, where his holy fear is kept and his righteous laws maintained. So let the solemn feelings of your souls be increased, by this Holy Roll of light and truth; and let it be an ensign to the inhabitants of earth, throughout every generation; that the designed purposes of God in blessing may be fulfilled, and lasting good gained.

11. This is the word of the ancient Prophet Noah: and if the Lord failed not to speak through me in former days, I am still inspired with the same holy power, alive in the spirit, and persevering in the work of the Eternal Father. And by his spirit I have written this short word of tender charity and love to the kindreds of the earth.

12. For the powers of the earth shall be shaken; truth shall stand, and falsehood shall flee as dew before the sun. Though kingdoms and cities be dashed in pieces, and rent as a filthy garment, yet not one soul that walks in the true fear of the Lord, shall perish.

WORD OF THE LORD COMMUNICATED BY THE PROPHET MALACHI;

WRITTEN BY INSPIRATION AT ENFIELD, NEW HAMPSHIRE, AUGUST 15, 1843.

1. Hear ye and consider the word of the Lord, O ye inhabitants of earth, ere his heavy hand of judgment come upon you; for surely, his fierce wrath is waxing hotter and hotter, as the abominations of the inhabitants of the earth, daily increase.

2. Reflect and consider of your ways; see if ye have not forsaken Me, saith the Lord. Ye have strayed from the path of my appointing, and broken my law of nature which I commanded ye should keep throughout all generations, or never inherit my blessing and protection.

3. And am I a God who will promise and not bring to pass, as I have declared, though the pride of poor fallen man is risen, to trample upon every gift, which I have in my wisdom seen fit to bestow upon him?

4. Whenever I have revealed Myself to him, has he not been ready to spurn at the order of my revelation, and trample upon every thing that is holy or sacred; choosing rather to take sides with the adversary of his soul, than to hearken to my word?

5. Yea, saith the Lord; this have I seen until my righteous spirit is grieved, and I will not longer forbear. But I will pour out upon man, even of the vial of the wrath of my indignation, by the instruments of my vengeance, as I have declared by the mouths of my servants, the Prophets; for I am the same, yesterday and to-day; keeping mercy for the upright and sincere who desire the knowledge of my ways; but punishing the transgressor and evil doer with my heavy hand of judgment, and that in a day when they are not looking for it.

6. And this I am determined to do, till I soften the hearts of men to such a degree, that they will be willing to receive any thing at my hand which I am pleased to bestow.

7. Yea, saith the holy Prophet, this hath the Lord shown unto me; that He will pass through the land even with a mightier and more destructive hand, than He did through the land of Egypt, when He slew all the first-born. And all the plagues and calamities which the Lord brought upon the Egyptians, shall be looked upon as a small thing, to what He will cause to fall upon the inhabitants of earth in the day of his fierce wrath, when He shall send forth his destroying Angels to hurt and destroy all that is not consecrated to Him.

8. And in that day, He shall cause peace to depart from the earth; leaving the inhabitants thereof who serve the gods which they have set up, even their own lusts and selfish desires, to wage war with each other; spilling their brothers' blood, and performing every act of cruelty and abuse which Satan can invent; thereby bringing upon themselves, in a ten-fold proportion, the judgment which the Lord pronounced upon their father Cain, who first set them the example.

9. O ye dwellers on the earth, saith the holy Prophet; listen to my voice, for the day cometh when the voice of a Prophet of the Lord will sound precious to you. And know ye this, that I am now as when upon earth, a Prophet that is called to warn the souls of the children of men of their approaching danger.

10. And I declare unto you, though millions deride the warning I give, yet I say, there shall none escape the judgments of God, but such as are found striving to keep his law according to their best knowledge; and this He has condescended to make plain, and send to the children of men, that they may know of his statutes and judgments, and prepare for the day of his coming.

THE SOLEMN WARNING OF A HOLY ANGEL OF GOD;

GIVEN BY INSPIRATION AT WATERVLIET, NEW YORK, APRIL 10, 1843.

1. Thus saith the holy Angel, Beware, all ye children of men, how ye judge these things; for ye know not that in this, ye handle living embers, which may yet become your trouble; for God is not to be mocked, nor his word and work trodden under feet of men; for truly He has begun to work his strange work, and to fulfill his act, his strange act; therefore be ye not mockers lest your bands be made strong.

2. For lo! I work a work in your day which many will in no wise believe, although a man, yea, and although the voice of God declare it unto them. Therefore shall they be given up to hardness of heart to believe a lie.

3. And thus will the Lord suffer strong delusions to come upon those who seek to climb to Heaven some other way, save by that which God has laid out for all souls; yea, strong delusions, that they may believe a lie, and in the end fall under the condemnation of their own sins, which have not gone, in mercy, beforehand to judgment, but followed after, to condemnation and wrath.

4. So be warned, all ye children of men, who may hereafter be favored to read the solemn word of God, given in great mercy and loving kindness to the inhabitants of the earth, who wander upon every high hill of imagination concerning the things of God; and know not that they must come down into the lowest valley of humiliation and self-reproach, even like the prodigal son, ere they can find God or his infinite mercy.

5. So again do I the holy Angel of eternal truth, solemnly and in the fear of God my Heavenly Father, warn all, as ye wish to be treated in the day when the fierceness of his wrath shall deluge the earth, and its inhabitants; I say, as ye wish to be treated in this eventful day, which is now at hand, so in like manner treat ye the word which He giveth unto you;

6. And if ye cannot comprehend it, neither wish to become enlightened in the matter, take heed that ye do not rashly judge or oppose it; lest ye be found fighting even against God, and his holy work.

7. And this is my solemn warning unto one and all who may hereafter be favored with the word of God, sent forth directly from his mouth; wherein are contained his mind and will, and also his positive commands to the children of men; a solemn warning which will yet meet many of you in judgment.

A ROLL BROUGHT AND READ BY AN HOLY ANGEL OF GOD;

COPIED BY INSPIRATION AT NEW GLOUCESTER, MAINE, JULY 16, 1843.

Word of the Angel to the Writer.

Awake, awake, awake! Arise quickly O thou chosen instrument of the Lord your God, and bow your spirit and body exceeding low; yea, seven times bow low even to the dust; for I am an Angel of the Lord your God, and fear thou to disobey my word. Prepare quickly to write, word for word, while I read unto you this short Roll.

WORDS OF THE ROLL.

1. Fear, fear ye Me saith the Lord your God, for my arm is all powerful, and above Me there is none. And I will guard and protect mine heritage, yea all my chosen people, saith the Lord, who truly walk in my pure way; for I will have a people that truly serve Me; and unto these my holy chosen, will I speak my word and declare my holy will.

2. By reason of the sore abominations which are now on the earth, I have written, with mine own hand, my word of solemn warning to the inhabitants thereof, and showed plainly unto them in what way they shall receive my mercy and favor, and in no other.

3. But heavy judgments shall speedily follow the disobedient, who refuse to obey my word; for in mercy do I send it forth, that all may understand my requirements, and turn from the evil of their doings, and worship Me, the only living and true God.

4. Through great sufferings of spirit, and deep tribulation of soul,

I have prepared a holy and chosen one of mine, and sent my Angel unto the same, to read aloud from my Roll. And this instrument of mortal clay, hath written my word unto the nations of the earth, as the Angel did read it unto him, and hath written correctly word for word.

5. And lo! I have sent my holy Angel with this short Roll unto thee, thou chosen instrument, to read from the same, that thou mayest hear, read and clearly understand, and bear witness unto my word; for know ye, unto every branch of Zion I have, and will send the same, that my people may know and do my will, and in so doing escape my heavy judgments.

6. For know ye in this last display of my grace, I did purpose to bring down the haughtiness of man, and to stain the pride of all flesh; and this work I have surely commenced and it is swiftly going on, and by means of my own choosing I will accomplish it, both in, and out of Zion. So fear ye, vain mortals, to judge my work, for I am a God of all power, and will deal with the children of men according as their works shall merit.

WORDS OF THE HOLY PROPHET ISAIAH;

COPIED BY INSPIRATION AT ENFIELD, NEW HAMPSHIRE, AUGUST 11, 1843.

1. I am a holy Prophet of the Lord, sent forth by his mighty hand, to witness the work which He is about to perform in the earth: for the time hasteneth when the power of salvation will be sounded in his loving mercy, to every son and daughter of his creation. I was a true Prophet of the Lord when I inhabited mortal clay, and I still remain the Lord's Prophet.

2. Lo, all ye nations, give ear while the truth of the living God is sounded in your ears: for his sacred word He has sent forth in his Holy Roll. This I did witness, and this I saw before it was delivered to mortals on the earth; and know it contains the sacred truths of the living God, written by his own hand and sealed with true wisdom and love.

3. Ho, all ye people who dwell upon the face of the whole earth; know ye the Lord is performing a work by mighty signs and wonders. But marvel ye not at this; although his word will go forth as fire in the midst of stubble, to destroy all that is corruptible or unclean in his sight, yet know ye, it is by his All-righteous hand; for in his loving mercy hath He condescended to send his word unto you.

4. But with a warning voice do I warn every soul, when ye receive this sacred and holy word of salvation, to consider well from whom it was sent forth, and for what purpose it was intended.

5. It is not to build up the pride of self-exalted man, and set one above another; but it is to set free oppressed souls, and remove the yoke of bondage from their necks, that they may obtain true freedom and salvation; this He hath intended for every soul.

6. There will be various opinions concerning the Lord's work, but this does not alter it: He will do his work in his own time, in a manner of his own choosing. I say, let every soul beware how they slight, misuse or destroy this sacred word of the living God. If there be any that do these things, his judgments shall follow them; but unto those who give a listening ear and a heart to obey, the blessings of the living God shall be abundant.

7. As a friend to the lost children of men, and in love to the Father of light, have I written at this time; that it may be known that we, the Prophets, foresaw this very work, long ere this time; and now we do make it manifest to those who dwell on the earth, and in a way of God's own choosing.

A ROLL OF WARNING BY A HOLY ANGEL:

WRITTEN AT ENFIELD, NEW HAMPSHIRE, JULY 15, 1842.

1. Thus saith the holy Angel, I will sound my ter're vac' le o'ne trumpet to the nations of the earth, in my own appointed time; and they shall hear the sound of this ever blessed gospel, for it shall be sounded throughout all the earth. For lo, the inhabitants thereof are laden with sin and iniquity, and fierce judgments are awaiting them.

2. Therefore, saith the Lord, my word shall surely go forth from my Zion on earth, to the inhabitants of a sinful world; that they may take warning thereby, and be awakened before my heavy judgments roll on. For lo, the inhabitants of earth are filled with sin and abomination; and if they hearken not to my warning voice when they hear the sound thereof, I will meet them with heavy judgments, for these shall roll and roll through the land, in my own appointed time, and in the way of my own choosing; and they shall sweep down the haughty nations of the earth; yea, the wicked and rebellious shall feel my over-flowing scourge, saith the Almighty.

3. O hearken again ye children of men, and give heed to my warning voice, while I entreat you in mercy and loving kindness; O hearken and give ear to my solemn warnings, lest my heavy judgments fall upon you. For I will, in my own time, visit the earth; yea, through every empire, kingdom and city, shall my holy word be sounded; for I am the Lord God of Heaven and earth, and all nations shall bow before Me, and tremble at my presence.

4. O ye proud nations of the earth, thou wicked generation; shall I suffer you to remain on my footstool, in your corruptions? I tell you, nay; I will cut you off from the face of the earth; I will send forth famine and pestilence to destroy you; I will consume the nobles of the earth; I will destroy and lay low all that do not fear my name, saith the God of Heaven; I will not spare those who call on my name, and are not doers of my work. Surely, I have always had chosen witnesses on earth, and still have, even to this day, unto whom I do reveal my holy will; and all nations shall bow thereunto.

5. O hearken again unto my voice, and delay not; for the great day of my visitation is come. Ye may think ye lie down in safety, but I will cause you to rise up under judgment; for with heavy judgments I will visit you, that you may know that the great I AM speaketh not in vain; but my warning voice I send forth unto you, that ye may understand and do my holy will.

6. Verily I say unto you, Remember, the prophets of old I sent forth with my own hand, to warn the people; but they hearkened not unto Me the God of Heaven. Therefore I cut them off from my holy lan′ se′ va′ ne, and from the face of the earth; and even so I will do in this visitation to man.

7. For I will send forth my word, and declare unto them, that all nations shall have an offer of salvation, which is free for all souls; and they shall hear the sound thereof, for this I have declared from the beginning; and I created man a rational being, capable of choosing the way of life, which leadeth to happiness, or the way of death, which leadeth to misery. Therefore I say unto you, harden not your hearts against Me your Creator. For I have sent forth my spirit to the inhabitants of the earth, to strive with man, that he might, if he would, receive proffered mercy; for surely my judgments are pending; yea, kingdoms, thrones and dominions, shall fall at my hand, and desolation fill the land;

8. The earth shall tremble and quake, the seas roar, and foaming billows shall sweep over the mighty deep; yea, I will destroy in my own time, kingdoms and nations; and the high and nobles of the earth I will lay low. I will not stay my hand nor lighten my judgments, saith the Almighty, unless ye give ear to my solemn warnings.

9. O ye wicked and perverse generation! how long can ye remain in darkness, groping in sin and iniquity at the risk of your final salvation! For surely my word has gone forth in ages past, and remains unalterable, even to this day. Though the Heavens and earth pass away, my word shall not fail; but I will, in my own time, increase my judgments according to the abominations and wickedness that are in the land.

10. I will not save by profession; I will look upon the professor as those that profess not; and upon the rich and great men, yea, nobles, kings and princes, as though they possessed nothing; for in their hidden treasures are deceit and fraud, by speculation, and all manner of wickedness which I do abhor, saith the God of Heaven; and for this cause and many more, I have sent forth my destroying Angels to pull down their lofty towers; yea, to lay low, even to the ground, their high places.

11. My ter′re‵vac′ le o′ne trumpet shall sound through the land, and many will flock to my Zion on earth for refuge, over whom I will stretch out my protecting hand, and shield them from harm. But to those that put far away these solemn warnings, and say, No danger awaits us; on such I will pour out my wrath and indignation; I will smite them with my rod of justice, which I hold in my right hand to accomplish this mighty work of the latter day.

12. Therefore, hearken again to my voice, and repent of your doings, saith the Holy One of Israel; for I am determined on a decision with the inhabitants of earth. Hence, I entreat you in mercy; and will ye not hear? Will ye not come forth to the resurrection of life, and escape the awful judgments that await the sinner?

13. I say unto you, Every knee shall bow, and every tongue shall confess that I am the Lord. I will, in my own appointed time, cause my prophecies to be fulfilled, that the inhabitants of earth may know and feel sore tribulation for the abomination with which the earth is filled.

14. Never was there so great a day of my visitation to fallen man; and never, according to the truth manifested, was the earth so laden with sin and wickedness as at the present time. How long shall I suffer the earth with her heavy burden to cry unto Me? Shall I wait on the sinner that repenteth not? I tell you, nay;

15. I have appointed my time, and my work I will do; I will smite the sinner that oppresseth, and confound and bring to nought the lofty imaginations of men; they shall wander in desolate places, and say to the rocks and mountains, Fall on us, and hide us from Him that sitteth upon the throne. For great and terrible, saith the holy Angel, will be the day of the Lord which is declared unto you.

16. Therefore, I solemnly warn you, not to treat the things of God as abusing them. For know ye, there is but one true God, the great Eternal Giver of all good; just and righteous, who will reward every one according as his works shall be.

17. Therefore saith the Lord, Hearken again O my people, to my word; prepare ye to sound the ter're vac'le o'ne trumpet; for I have not spoken in vain, neither will I pass lightly over those who know my will and do it not; but those who do my pleasure, I will gather together from the four quarters of the earth, into my ark of safety.

18. Therefore, I say unto the children of Zion, Gird on your helmet, sword and shield, and be ye strong in the Lord; for lo, the time cometh when many will flock to Zion, some for good and some for evil. But I say unto you, stand ye firm and unshaken, and I will be your God and ye shall be my people, forever more: Amen.

A GOLDEN SEAL, CONTAINING THE TESTIMONY OF SIMON PETER,

IN BEHALF OF HIS FAITHFUL COMPANIONS WHO TOILED WITH HIM WHILE ON EARTH.

WRITTEN BY INSPIRATION AT CANTERBURY, NEW HAMPSHIRE, JUNE 30, 1843.

1. Hearken, O ye children of Zion, and give a willing ear, O ye fellow brethren and sisters of mine, who dwell on the earth. I am Peter, of whom ye read, an apostle of your blessed Lord and Savior, and a servant of the Most High God, whose command I make it my delight to obey.

2. I have long desired and been prepared for this opportunity; like a free volunteer, at this time, in union with my brethren and sisters, (the faithful apostles and servants of Christ,) I thankfully raise my voice to testify of those things which seem good in my sight; for I have long been an ear and eye witness of the great work of the Lord in the Heavens above, and on the earth; and especially in this his late sacred and glorious manifestation to the chosen people of his Zion.

3. I was near even at the side of your blessed Savior, in presence of your holy Mother Ann, at the time your Heavenly Father commissioned his holy Angels to go forth with the sacred Roll and Book, which I well know, and testify to all nations and people that move on the earth, his Almighty power did prepare, and send by his mighty Angel to his Church on the Holy Mount of Lebanon, there to be copied by mortal hand, in deep tribulation and the holy fear of God; which I know hath been done according to his own choosing; for I have accompanied the holy Angels, with many other glorified spirits, and have with them been a careful observer of the operations in Heaven and on earth, in preparing this sacred Roll and Book for the nations thereof, from the beginning to this time; and still shall be, till it reaches those for whom it was designed by the Almighty.

4. Be it known unto the many nations of this earth, that there are thousands and tens of thousands in the eternal world of light and life, who are ready and free to pour forth their thankfulness and gratitude in the hearing of mortals, for the great condescension of their Heavenly Father, in sending forth his permanent word of lengthened mercy to fallen man; and would be glad so to do, if time with mortals and room on the sacred pages would permit; for their souls even as mine, are filled with the tender love and sweet compassion of an All-wise and just Creator, for all who will strive to know and do the will of their Heavenly Father, from the time his word shall reach them, till on earth their days are ended.

5. I have heard their prayers, and seen them bowing low before the throne of Eternal Truth and Infinite Wisdom. O ye who are as good by nature as myself, my soul daily prayeth for you, that you may not be found fighting against God, neither be so unwise as to slight the day of his visitation to your needy souls, as many did in past ages. Trust in God, if his will ye would do; for if you trust in your own knowledge and strength, though ye may greatly desire to do right, ye may, in the trying moment, be left to feel the effects of your own weakness.

6. Receive the mercy of your God, that his most heavy judgments may not be yours to suffer. Choose wisely, and hearken to the voice of charity, and shut not your eyes against the light of truth which already beginneth to burn in your own consciences; but unite with every thing holy and good, whatever be the means by which it is offered, or whoever be the messenger by whom it may be conveyed to you; remembering at all times, it is not so much matter what the size, color, shape or costliness of the vessel is, as it is about the cleanliness, and the precious worth it contains.

7. As a brother, and friend to your precious souls, I feel to warn you all, to receive the messengers of your God when sent to you in charity and love, and treat them with kindness; for many will He yet send forth to every kindred and people on earth; but whether they will come unto you, spirits dwelling in natural bodies, or spirits freed from the earthly tabernacle, is not for you to lay out or determine.

8. Though my spirit sorroweth for the haughtiness and foolishness of mankind, yet I rejoice in the condescension of the Lord and his mighty Angels, and that He hath purposed to send forth his messengers to visit and awaken the sleepers in sin, and bring to life the dead, restore the lame, heal the sick, and bind up the broken hearted.

9. By the light of my God and his holy influence, I am led to see and know in part, that which will be in time to come.

10. Ye may say, Who is this that declareth these things to us? I am a co-worker with my brother, the faithful and beloved disciple of the holy Savior, John the Revelator; and when it shall please my God again to send me forth with my brethren and companions, as in the days of Christ's first appearing, I will go whither by the spirit of justice I am led; and will help to open the hearts of the children of men with the key of love and light, and awaken them with the word of faith, for the solemn word of the Lord, through the holy Revelator, to enter. And when these things come, then will ye know that my words are true.

11. Your noble dwellings, where kings and princes dwell in ease and indolence, shall be the places where food shall be prepared for the chosen servants of God; and sweet industry shall reign.

12. In many an unfinished shed, in barns, in cottages of the poorest peasants, in the once lonely deserts, shall the power, mercy and justice of God yet be displayed, and his word loudly echo.

13. To the thatched and unthatched roof, and to the meanest hovel shall some of the most renowned of this earth yet gather, and on their bended knees seek the forgiveness of their God, and humbly beg for his mercy; and by those whom they once disdained to comfort with the necessaries of life, shall they be taught the way of eternal life, and fed with the imperishable bread of Heaven.

14. Times and seasons may pass away before these things are all fulfilled; but the word of God standeth sure to the end; so be not faithless or unbelieving.

15. Before I hold my peace, I freely declare to you ye hearers, great and small, that the work of God, in the order of his grace, will bring you all on a level; the king and beggar shall eat from the same table, the peasant and prince shall drink from the same cup, and the professor and profane shall loudly acknowledge, they have both been destitute of the true power and word of salvation, and know not the living God as He is revealed.

16. Ye who read and understand the word of your God as recorded on the sacred pages of this book, will see that it is vain for you, any longer to stretch your senses to the ethereal skies, to find the Lord; or place your eyes there to look for the second appearing of Christ.

17. He hath appeared as declared in this book; and I bless the bright Eternal Two who have, in their own way and time, in beauty and order, displayed their might and wisdom, by placing at the head of the New Creation, the heavenly Bridegroom and Bride, as the spiritual Parents of all souls who have been begotten into the elements of eternal life; for as true as there is a God, every soul who ever finds access to his throne, must find it by and through them.

18. It is equally as impossible for a soul to enter into the spiritual creation, without spiritual Parents, and breathe the air of eternal life, as it would be for a child to enter into the natural world without natural parents.

19. But thanks and honor forever and evermore I will give to the Eternal Two, for the perfect way of life and redemption from the nature of sin, which they have revealed through Christ the Holy Savior and blessed Mother Ann Lee. They who worship the spirit dwelling in these, the two Anointed Ones, do truly worship God.

20. I bless the day that I found the second Eve, the Bride, the Lamb's wife, a Spiritual Mother, without which my salvation could not have been perfect, nor my joy full.

21. Blessed be her name in Heaven and on earth, and that pure gospel and perfect cross of self-denial which she daily taught and practiced in all her goings forth. Let her praise be spoken, and her goodness sounded throughout the whole earth, as well as that of the Holy Savior.

22. As I am a well wisher to all those who dwell on the earth, I have considered it a great privilege and sacred duty, to sign and seal the words of everlasting truth and light, by revealing in part my sympathetic feelings for all the creation of God.

23. O that none might be found so unwise, as to disregard the warnings of God, defy his mighty power or deny his holy name, or that of his holy messengers.

24. Desiring all those who read the foregoing, to remember, that the true saints of God are one in all things; and thus, having spoken to you, through an instrument of mortal clay, I have plainly shown you the feelings of my companions who suffered with me when on earth; with earnest feelings to do good to my fellow kindred, in the spirit of prayer and with Christ-like humility, I close my word by saying, O Heavenly Father, do be merciful and forgive them, for they know not what they do.

A HOLY ROLL WRITTEN BY JOHN THE REVELATOR;

COPIED BY INSPIRATION AT CANTERBURY, NEW HAMPSHIRE, JUNE 29, 1843.

1. Come listen candidly unto my words all ye travelers in time, for as a true friend and well wisher to your souls I address you. I am John, the beloved disciple of Christ; the brother of James, and the son of Zebedee.

2. By the goodness of God I was made a partaker of this saving gospel of life and salvation, in the first appearing of Christ upon earth. And by walking in perfect obedience to that doctrine sent forth by the Eternal Father, through him unto a lost world, I have ever found favor in the sight of God, and in no other way.

3. And I testify unto all people, that no souls, either in time or eternity, can ever be owned and accepted of God, short of acknowledging and obeying Him in that order where He has made Himself manifest, whether it be in accordance with their vain and exalted imaginations, yea or nay.

4. Whatever means it pleaseth God to make use of to reveal his will unto mortals, whether it be through the agency of man, woman or child, there must every soul bow, and acknowledge his word and his power, or never share in his mercy.

5. Therefore, as a wise parent would warn his son to flee from approaching danger, so do I warn you, O ye inhabitants of mortality, not to deny or defy the means which God hath chosen to make known his will unto you at the present time.

6. Remember, God hath ever chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise, and the weak things of the world to confound the mighty; yea, and base things, and even things which are not, to bring to nought things which are.

7. Behold Jehovah hath declared, that out of the midst of Zion his word should go forth to the nations of the earth. And where, O ye inhabitants of earth, would you look for the midst of Zion? Would you look into the divided and subdivided parties of men, where strife and contention reign perpetually?

8. Christ promised that his kingdom should be a kingdom of peace. And where, O ye children of men, can that kingdom of peace be found, if it be not where blood is not shed, and where strife and contention are not known? Where one mortal man is not exalted above another; but where all share alike the blessings of God; where they that were rich become as those that were poor and possessed nothing, and they that were poor, become even as those who possessed an abundance of this world's goods; they that had wives become even as though they had none; and all dwell together in perfect harmony, purity and righteousness, enjoying one faith, one Lord and one baptism, which is the baptism of fire and the Holy Spirit: who are daily crucifying the flesh, with all its affections and lusts, who walk not after the flesh, but after the spirit, and in the knowledge of God?

9. Of such is the kingdom of Christ, the Zion of God composed. And what rational soul can dispute, but that such a kingdom, is that kingdom of peace which belongeth to the Savior, rather than that which is filled with contentious strivings, and confused divisions, where each man careth for his own household and nothing more, and is daily striving to serve and please himself, rather than his Maker?

10. Through what means, I ask, O ye candid ones, would you that your Heavenly Father send forth his word unto you? If you despise the humble means which He hath chosen, where, I ask, would you that his word be given?

11. Would you that it be given unto the haughty kings, and bigoted princes of this earth, who are daily reveling in the most filthy abominations, whose hearts are polluted with iniquity, and whose hands are stained with innocent blood? Verily I say unto you, He would sooner send forth his word through an African babe, or a natural idiot.

12. But again I ask, Would you that your Heavenly Father send forth his word through your appointed priests and pretended ministers of the gospel of Christ, who, it is known by their fruits, and the declaration of their own mouths, daily commit sin; and who strive to indulge and gratify the cravings of their evil passions?

13. Or would you that He send his word forth through a meek and humble follower of Christ, who never sought to be honored and adored by mortals, but whose constant labor from his youth up, has been merely to know and do the will of God?

14. Such an instrument the Lord hath made choice of, to reveal his will unto mortals in the present case. And every rational soul who is endowed with one spark of true light, will acknowledge the means He has chosen, to be in wisdom, justice and goodness.

15. Although the people from whence the word of the Lord hath gone forth, are looked upon by mankind in general, as a mean and contemptible few, and even judged by some to be the very off-scouring of the earth; yet I declare unto you, and my word shall prove eternal truth, That even the most noble among men, will yet witness the day, that they would willingly make any sacrifice whatever, to obtain that perfect peace, and that heavenly undisturbed joy, which this little despised flock have merited, by their daily walk of humility and self-denial.

16. The flock of Christ never was known by great numbers, or much popularity; but his true and faithful followers were always few, and that few always suffered ridicule and persecution for his sake.

17. When our Savior came into the world, he came not in great pomp and worldly array, exalting the great and noble of the earth; and for this reason they despised him, and suffered him to be put to death.

18. He called unto him those who were needy. It was not the rich or the proud; but it was the poor and mean in the eyes of men, honest humble laborers in the things of this world, who sought not to be honored by their fellow mortals, although that saving gospel which he taught was offered freely to all, kings as well as beggars, if they would comply with its just and humiliating requirements.

19. But the self-exalted sense of human nature, was the same in ages past that it is in the present day; and the objections of an unbelieving world were no more vain and unstable, eighteen hundred years ago, concerning the first appearing of Christ, than they are in the present day concerning his second appearing, which it has pleased God should be through the instrumentality of a female.

20. The wisdom of God is foolishness to vain man, and ever was. His work is a pride-staining and humiliating work, and has been from the beginning; but what mortal shall dare to oppose the order of it?

21. Know ye, heavy judgments shall be set upon that soul, who will dare, knowingly, to oppose his work and his wisdom, insomuch as to abuse and persecute his subjects.

22. The sufferings of this little despised few, the followers of that chosen and anointed female, have ever been like unto those which Jesus of Nazareth and his faithful followers were caused to suffer by the wicked; and this is one convincing evidence to you, that the same spirit dwelt in her and her followers, which dwelt in Jesus and his followers; if it had not been so, that spirit of enmity never would have arisen as it did, to persecute and destroy her, and to put an end to that gospel which she taught.

23. The world loveth its own; but it hated Christ the Savior because he was not of the world, neither was the doctrine he taught; and for the same cause, did the world of mankind despise this woman, and her faithful, humble followers.

24. What rational soul can dispute the wisdom and propriety of a spiritual Mother in the new creation, any more than a spiritual Father? In the natural order and creation of the human race, the male and the female are both workers together; and the natural creation of all things is a figure of the spiritual; therefore no soul is born of God that does not acknowledge a spiritual Mother, as well as a spiritual Father.

25. That latter day of glory has been ushered in, which was predicted by the Prophets; that day in which the virgins should rejoice in the dances of them that make merry.

26. This is the morning of the day in which the marriage of the Lamb is come, and blessed are they which are called unto the marriage feast of the same. Rejoice and be glad all ye nations of the earth, for the heavenly Bridegroom and Bride stand at the head of the New Creation, proclaiming peace and full salvation unto all souls who are willing to hear and obey the word of the Lord.

27. The Lord hath sent forth his holy proclaiming Angels unto all the earth, to sound the awakening trumpet of full salvation and redemption unto lost souls. And his Angels of vengeance stand ready to pour forth his wrath, upon the Heaven-daring mockers of his sacred word.

28. Awaken and be enlightened, all ye children of men, look ye and behold the City of the New Jerusalem. That City of everlasting peace and purity, the kingdom of the Messiah; which I John the Revelator, did behold in a heavenly vision, when confined upon the Isle of Patmos.

29. I saw the word of the Lord, and the purity of his kingdom, even as it was to stand in the last dispensation of his goodness unto mortals. I saw, and I knew not what I saw, but I have since seen the fulfilling of many wonders; and all that which remaineth sealed, will yet be revealed.

30. But behold I saw a woman, clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars; and she being with child cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered, and brought forth a man child who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron. Therefore rejoice, all ye inhabitants of earth, that this woman, being the Eternal Mother of the whole Creation, even as Jehovah is the Father, has been delivered even of the remnant of her seed, which is the Lamb's Bride; the second Eve.

31. Give honor and praise, all ye sons of men, that the mystery of God is finished, and his true Church upon earth established. Bow down and worship before his throne, for the desire of all nations is come. Give honor and glory to Him unceasingly, for his lengthened mercy to fallen man.

32. Be ye not found caviling with the workings of his Holy Spirit, like the Scribes and Pharisees of old; nor contending with his holy Wisdom like the unbelieving Jews; lest, after the many warnings He has given you, He smite you with heavy displeasure, and cut off his mercy from your souls.

33. As a friend and well wisher to all, I solemnly warn you who dwell in mortal clay, to treat the word of your Heavenly Father, which is now sent forth in mercy and charity to all souls, with sacred reverence and holy fear. For know ye, every soul will have to render account to God for the use they make of that which He has given them. Amen. Sevac′ Selah′.

A ROLL OF SOLEMN WARNING, BY HOLY AND ETERNAL MOTHER WISDOM, BROUGHT BY HER WITNESSING ANGEL;

REVEALED AT CANTERBURY, NEW HAMPSHIRE, MAY 23, 1843.

1. Bow down and obey, all ye who hear my word, both ye who dwell in Zion, and ye who dwell in distant lands, say I Eternal Wisdom. O ves′ter lan sine ex fari′na, in words of solemn warning I sound my trumpet of wisdom unto you, through my witnessing Angel, Ah Se′lah Ves′perlon′.

2. Know ye, that I am Wisdom, eternal and unchangeable

Wisdom; one with God I am, ever was and always shall be; even as He is your Eternal Father, so do I Eternal Wisdom, stand as your everlasting Mother. With Him I sound forth mercy, with Him judgment proclaim; We stand as one, and work as but one alone; nothing doth He send forth upon the earth, either in mercy or judgment, without my everlasting seal, ETERNAL WISDOM; and nothing do I sound, or cause to be sounded forth, without his everlasting sign and approval.

3. Therefore marvel not that my words are sounded unto you, O ye of little faith and weak understanding; for even as He has condescended to stoop from his throne in Heaven, to notice his creature man now dwelling upon the earth, his footstool; even so do I accompany Him, to bless the word of his mouth, and bear witness to the truth contained in the Holy Roll, sent forth by his Almighty power, mercy and justice; and many times have I placed my seal thereon, and pronounced it wholesome and good, to stand unaltered and unchanged, till He in his infinite goodness, sees fit to send forth a further decree.

4. So beware, all who are called to read or to handle this word, in any way, shape or manner; for I have said and again say, that whosoever will, knowingly, alter, add or diminish one word contained in the Holy Roll, shall feel the judgments of God, and the heavy displeasure of Me, Eternal wisdom; and whosoever will destroy, or cause to be destroyed, this holy Book, or any part therein contained, O car′bo hes′per larth vile, and de veen′ through tem′po ha′ vo a′ zen; I say,

5. Though you burn this Book, the truth thereof shall burst forth in your souls, as an unquenchable fire and a tormenting flame; and if you bury it in the earth, the power of God shall cause it to breathe forth the curses and the heavy judgments which are written therein; yea the earth itself shall breathe forth plagues, pestilence and sore diseases, upon those whose hands or voices were raised, or whose hearts rejoiced, to have this the holy word of the Lord buried in the earth, to be trampled upon; and thus cause it to be a curse instead of a blessing unto you.

6. Therefore be wise, all ye inhabitants of the earth; and consider, ye cannot hide from the All-seeing eye of your God.

7. But why should man seek to destroy the word of Heaven, sent unto him from his God, given for his eternal good and happiness? It is because it strikes at the root of all evil, which is the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes and the pride of life; yea, because he is required to live strictly according to the law of grace, or strictly to the law of nature.

8. It is, saith Wisdom, for these reasons that he will seek to destroy this holy word; but know ye, all who hear my word, that ye cannot now, nor ever will be blessed, in any other way. Walk strictly according to the principles of one or the other, or you will merit the displeasure of your God.

9. Let those extensive buildings in which you have spent so many precious hours of your life in the filthy and obscene works of darkness, now be changed into houses of solemn prayer, or of honest employment; no more to be set apart for such foul and base purposes. There let holy songs of thanksgiving and praise, be sung unto the Lord for his long forbearance; there let solemn and sacred fear fill every soul;

10. There let the cries of the penitent, the humble, true seeker after righteousness, and the broken hearted, ascend to the throne of God, from the deepest recesses of your hearts; yea, bathe your floors with tears of true repentance and thankfulness, that He has seen fit to notice you in mercy, and warn you of his heavy judgments, which He will pour upon you, unless you quickly repent.

11. O may sweet repentance soften each heart, that the words of Heaven may sink deeply therein; which will cause you to be bowed down with fear and reverence, and filled with deep tribulation, that you may be prepared to meet your God in his mercy, and share in his forgiving love; for He will have mercy on the faithful, and compassion for the contrite spirit; those who regard Him, He will regard; but those who scorn his words, and disregard his sayings, He will scourge with his judgments, and meet them in his fury; yea, He will disregard them in their calamity, and withhold his protection when their fear cometh.

12. So beware how ye walk, and how ye use the givings of your God; for know ye, it is an awful thing to fall into the hands of the Almighty, to feel his judgments and heavy displeasure. Carefully use the words of Heaven at all times, wherever they may be revealed; through whatever means they may come, it matters not; if it pleaseth your God, you have no reason to complain.

13. But when you hear or see them, or even have them in your presence, the eye of the Lord is continually upon you, to behold the manner in which you regard them. Therefore be ye cautious how you use the things of God, and how you speak of the same.

14. And I do forbid, that any should take expressions or sentiments written in the Holy Roll, and use as common by-words, either in a light carnal way, or in any other, save with sacred reverence; for they are solemn indeed, and should not be used or blended with your own carnal words and ways, to express your ideas or feelings in any manner; but preserve them in their order, by themselves, solemn, sacred and divine; yea, preserve them as you would the most valuable treasure of silver or gold, for they are of much more importance.

15. And those of you who stand as rulers, often warn the people to use them carefully, and abuse not the books themselves, nor the solemn words therein contained; and set ye the same example before them, in all you say and do. So shall you be blessed, and your people likewise. In obedience to the words of Heaven, you shall be prospered, and in no other way.

16. Therefore be wise for your own souls' sake, and for your own prosperity and happiness, take heed how you walk; seek your God in true humility, and you will find He hath mercy; labor for wisdom, that you may act wisely.

17. My delight is in the upright souls; I dwell with the honest heart, and with the true seeker and doer of the Lord's will. I am not found in the high lofty regions, where dwell pride, arrogance and deceit, where each one strives to be the highest, where all strive to rule, and none to obey;

18. There I dwell not, saith Holy Wisdom; but in the lowly vale of humility and sweet repentance do I abide; there I shower my blessings, and cause every thing to grow in wisdom, and perfect order; there I have planted my vineyards, and there I have prepared holy fountains of everlasting waters wherewith to feed my flock. I have there planted beautiful groves, and the blessing of God has caused them to flourish exceedingly.

19. Come hither all who will, and walk in my pleasant valley; purify your souls from sin and I will delight in your offerings; wash in the pool of repentance, and you will be lovely; enter at the gate of final decision, bid adieu to the world without, take up your cross, no more to put it by, and you shall be mine forever.

20. My paths are pleasant, and all who will, may walk therein; but nothing that is sinful or unclean, hath any place in my valley, saith Wisdom; but straight as straightness, holy and divine are all things which are under my full blessing.

21. You must bear the cross, if you would wear the crown; you must lay down your carnal lives if you would share in life everlasting; you must regard the holy words of your God, and live according to his requirements, if you would enjoy peace on earth, and eternal happiness forever.

22. Worship your God to his acceptance, if you would that He receive your offerings; worship Him in spirit, with life and zeal, in truth and in reality, regardless of certain forms and ceremonies; and it will be accepted of Him; He will be merciful towards you, in well doing, in loving and obeying his word. But bow down, and give your ears to hear, and incline your hearts to understand and obey his holy word.

23. Thus my word is finished unto you at this time, say I, Holy and Eternal Wisdom.

WORDS OF THE ANGEL TO THE ANOINTED IN ZION.

O ye blessed of Holy Wisdom, the above did She sound unto me, to have written and given unto you, on the fourteenth morning of the fifth month, to do with as your wisdom would direct. But keep my words, said She, for they will yet prove a benefit; and time may yet unfold why I wrote them. I have no more to do with them, saith the Angel, as they are now correctly written, according to her holy and divine will.

APPENDIX;

CONTAINING A NARRATION OF FACTS, GIVEN BY DIVINE REVELATION; AND ALSO FROM LIVING WITNESSES, CORROBORATING THE REALITY OF THE FOREGOING.

The following, is a correct statement of the various interviews and communications, witnessed and received from the holy and mighty Angel of God, Ma′ne Me′rah, Vak′na Si′na Jah′, by Adah Zillah Potter. All of which transpired some months previous to the writing of the preceding word of the Lord, to the inhabitants of the earth.

Testimony of the inspired Writer.

I am but a dependent mortal, and of myself equally ignorant of the divine and mysterious purposes of the All-wise and ever righteous God, with my fellow companions of time. Nor do I assert, that, in my very small measure of natural wisdom and knowledge, I am able, in the least degree, to comprehend his ways, or his doings.

Yet, I am bold and confident to affirm, in the hearing or presence of all people, if so required to do, that I have received a knowledge and understanding of a mighty and merciful display of the infinite goodness of the one true and living God, to the inhabitants of the earth, which He is about to manifest unto them, through the medium of his holy Angels; and that from the same divine source, it has been shown and revealed unto me.

Therefore, to obey the voice of the Holy Angel, I feel called upon, by the powers of truth, at this time, to bear witness to the word of the Lord, which, by his holy Angels, is proclaimed unto the children of men. For I have known, for some months previous to this time, by the revelation of God, that the time was near at hand, even at the door, when He would, by means of his own choosing, make known his word, and reveal his will unto the inhabitants of the earth, even to the nations abroad.

And it is for these reasons, even because Heaven hath revealed it to me, and for a confirmation to what has been already stated, that I now add my testimony, and freely acknowledge the same; and also prove the truth of my word, by giving an account of what I have felt, seen and heard; yea, and received from the powers above, concerning the word and work of the holy and mighty Angel of God, that is now at work, for the good of the children of men.

First Interview.

It was in the evening of the twenty second of January, eighteen hundred and forty two, while I was busily employed putting all things in readiness, for the close of the week, that I distinctly heard my name called very loudly, and with much earnestness. I could not go so well at that moment, and I answered, I will come soon, for I supposed it to be some one in the adjoining room, that wished to see me: but the word was repeated three times, and I hastened to the place from whence the sound seemed to come, but there was no one present.

I soon saw in the middle of the room, four very large and bright lights, or balls of fire, as they appeared to be; they moved slowly each way, and after a little time, joined together in one exceedingly large light, or pillar of fire. At this moment, I heard a loud voice, which uttered many words, with such mighty force that I feared to stay in the room, and attempted to go out; but found I had not power to move my feet.

For some time, I could not understand one word that was sounded forth; but the first that I did understand, were as follows: Hark, hark! hearken, O thou child of mortality, unto the word that is, and shall be sounded aloud in thine ears, again and again, even until it is obeyed.

And lo, I say, a time, and a time, and a half time shall not pass by, before my voice shall be heard, and my word sounded forth to the nations abroad. But in the Zion of my likeness and true righteousness shall it be received first, and from thence shall it go forth; for thus and thus hath the God of Heaven and earth declared, and purposed that it should be.

Then why will you, O why will you yet fear to obey? What would you that your God would do in your presence, that you might fear his power, rather than that of mortal man?

From this moment, I was not sensible where I was; and after a little time of silence, the body of light, or pillar of fire, dispersed; and I saw a mighty Angel coming from the east, and I heard these words:

Woe, woe, and many woes shall be upon the mortal that shall see, and will not stop to behold; that shall hear, and will not hearken; or that shall understand and will not receive, and well consider upon that which the God of Heaven and earth, of the wise and unwise, the just and unjust, shall yet send forth, and cause to be proclaimed within Zion, and without Zion, in his own time.

The voice now ceased, and I could not determine whether the word proceeded from the brightness that remained before me, or from the mighty Angel. All was silent, for a short time, and then these words were repeated very forcibly, and loud.

Speak not of my presence, nor of what thou hast seen and heard, until thou hast permission, or until the time shall come; for I have now come forth to work mightily among the children of the earth: but in the heart of Zion I shall begin, and for a season, I shall pass to and fro, unseen and unknown as I really am.

O then thou mortal of my choice, remember the day and the hour, and number the times, and keep the time of my coming, even from this, the first time, until the time is fulfilled; for thou shalt remain my witness, unto the end.

February third, eighteen hundred forty two, early in the morning, between the hours of two and three, I heard a loud voice, resembling distant thunder; and as it came nearer, I could hear distinct words. After some minutes, I arose, and looked out of the window, to see if there was any thing the matter without; but I saw nothing in danger, and turned to go to my rest; and the voice sounded forth, yet louder than before, in the following words.

THE WORDS OF A HOLY ANGEL.

These twenty days, have I passed to and fro in the earth, and have softly sounded my word, and but very few have listened; and shall I longer hold my peace, and let the earth be troubled? I have passed and re-passed, to watch, guard and protect, and prepare the Zion of the living God, for that work which the Almighty hath purposed, should shortly begin in her.

But lo, I go, and a mightier one than I am, will soon come; for the All-powerful God will not longer be still; but will work mighty wonders in the earth, even that which is more marvelous than what has already been witnessed; and this He has surely declared in the ears of his chosen people, many times of late, by means of his own choosing.

So I say, let the inhabitants of the earth, both great and small, old and young, prepare to humble themselves as the dust, in the presence of the Lord their God, the mighty one of Israel. Let Zion tremble, and let all Israel fear before Him, and murmur not against his sacred requirements to them.

Let the mountains break forth with lamentation, and let the vallies be filled with sorrow and mourning; for mighty and terrible are the bands and strong holds of Satan, throughout the earth.

Surely, I say, many will there be, that will be led captive; and this, the captivity of Siar′ lavon′, will be far greater than the captivity of Babylon, in ancient days.

But well will it be with thee, O Zion, if in that day, thy walls are well fortified, and thou art found standing in that holy order and rectitude, in which thy God hath placed thee, and purposed that the nations of the earth should behold thee.

And woe, yea, a cursed woe, unto every soul that shall spread an evil report of the mysterious doings of their God in the Zion of his holiness, or shall go out among strangers, with an intent to do evil.

Woe unto them that shall seek to understand the mighty works of their God, among the children of men, for the sake, or by way of judging them, or their God who is at work with them. But a far greater woe shall be upon him, even to this day, that shall spread abroad, or declare falsely, in the name of the living God, or his holy Angels, that which has been and will be shown unto the inhabitants of Zion, before the full time.

For verily I say, a knowledge and understanding sufficient for the good of man, concerning Zion, will the Lord your God send forth, even in his own time and by means of his own choosing, entirely according to his own will. Amen.

The word was now finished, and all was silent.

Second Interview.

On February fifth, eighteen hundred forty two, about ten o'clock in the morning, I saw in the room, a large ball of light, or seemingly, a body of fire, moving slowly to the south; it then turned and passed by me to the north, and divided into four parts, and moved swiftly each way, east, west, north and south; and I saw them no more.

I thought to go to my work; but presently, I heard a loud and terrible voice, but did not see any thing. The word was as follows.

I am Ma'ne Me'rah, Vak'na Si'na Jah', or the mighty prophesying Angel of the God of Heaven and earth, sent forth at his command, to pass and repass to and fro, and to prophesy throughout the earth.

Within Zion, and without Zion, shall I pass continually, even as God has commanded me, until my time of prophesying is passed by, and the days of the fulfilling of the same shall come.

I do, and shall, speak of that which has been, of that which now is, and of that which is to come.

I am at this time, only as one that goeth before that which is to come, and will follow; and that which mortals shall yet see, and understand.

But the voice that soundeth forth the word at my command, no mortal eye shall behold from whence it cometh; but mortals shall hear and understand without fail; for the GREAT I AM hath spoken it, and his Eternal Wisdom hath declared it.

And again I say, I will pass to and fro, within Zion, and without Zion; and I will prophesy in the name of the GREAT JEHOVAH, that which He will assuredly bring to pass, until my time of prophesying is fulfilled, as the God of all nations has commanded me.

And if there are yet to be found in Zion, sinners or workers of iniquity, I will, without reserve, prophesy evil against them; yea, and against that part of Zion in which they dwell, and heavy woes shall follow my word; and they, and all such as rest at peace with them, shall be cast from before the righteous like stubble.

In the days of the fulfilling of my prophecy, shall these things be; for the Holy One of Israel, hath purposed and declared, that his kingdom on earth, should be a kingdom of righteousness; and his Zion, a holy City of perfect order and beauty, adorned with purity, and as a shining light to the nations around. Thus and thus shall it be, before the mighty work of the living God is accomplished.

And again; I am the power that ruleth and commandeth the voice; but no man shall see, or be able to tell from whence the word proceedeth from time to time, or comprehend the meaning of my word, very many times.

Yet, I am one that many shall hear, many shall see, many shall understand; and many shall believe that I am, and that I was sent forth at the command of the Almighty One; and shall indeed fear my coming.

But many more, yea, far greater will be the number, that will not believe that I am, or that I am sent forth by an Almighty and eternal power, and am indeed of the same; but will set at nought, and deride my word, and will put afar off the days of the fulfilling of it, and will sneer at those who will believe.

Yea, and such will devise harm, and plot mischief against those who will fear my power; and will seek to lie in wait and ensnare the mortal that shall be caused to declare these things in the ears of their fellow creatures; for truths, truths, and solemn truths, without reserve to the pretended ignorance of man, will I command to be sounded forth.

And I will no more cease to pass and re-pass to and fro, throughout the earth, or cause my prophecy to have an end, until my time shall come, yea, fully come; and of that time, no power has ever yet spoken; but it is not far distant, according to the times and seasons above.

Nay, no power in Heaven, hath ever yet said to mortals, I will cause my holy, proclaiming, or prophesying Angels, to cease their word, and return to my throne; neither hath the Almighty declared, that his word should be no more known, and acknowledged on the earth, or that a voice from the Heavens should no more be heard.

But He hath repeatedly declared, that He would work marvelously, and do mighty wonders out of the sight of man; and, at the same time, warned his own chosen people to be prepared and ready; plainly testifying, that what He had heretofore done, was but the beginning.

So let no one dare to say, Why is the word thus, or so? And marvel not, neither murmur in thy heart, O thou mortal that now beholdest my presence, hearest my name and understandest my word, even at this time, for lo I go, but I come again; so write correctly what thou hast heard, but speak not of it, but wait my return; Amen.

At this moment, I was surrounded by the same pillar of fire that I first saw, and the mighty Angel was in the midst of it; but I could not see to my satisfaction, because of the brightness. After a short time, all instantly disappeared, and I was standing by the door of the room, and knew not that I had moved.

I made mention of what I saw, but spoke not of the word, although it was very contrary to my feelings to keep silent; but remembering the word of the Holy Angel to me, at the first time, and feeling bound to obey the same, I dared not, as yet, make known in full, what I had seen and heard.

Third Interview.

February twenty first, eighteen hundred forty two, this morning, soon after I had finished my morning duties, I retired to my writing table; but as soon as I was seated, I felt some one, as I thought, take hold of my arms and hold them fast; but I could not see any thing around me. After a little time, I was released, and went to my writing; and very soon, I heard the following words, very powerfully and loudly spoken.

Where, O where is the mortal, that will condescend to listen to a mighty voice from the Heavens, and obey the same?

Where, O where is the tongue that will speak freely to declare the word, sounded forth to the nations abroad, and boldly testify to the truth of the same, in the ears of the inhabitants of the earth, within Zion and without Zion?

Shall the God of Heaven seek, and choose from among the monarchs, nobles, kings and princes, and mighty men of the earth, that would daily defy the name of the true and living God, and would readily take all the honor and glory of the word and the power to themselves, and would declare unto the people that it was their own?

I say, shall the God of Israel be tempted to do this, even to take from among these, a tongue, a mouth, or a hand, to do his will, or perform his work; because there can be none found in Zion, or among his peculiar people, that are willing, as yet, to become as clay in the hands of the potter, or as ore cast into the furnace, or as a tool in the hands of a cunning workman?

Shall it be so; or shall it be among the heathenish nations of time, that neither fear nor serve any God but such as they serve in their own vain imaginations? or shall it be among the ignorant natives of the wild desert, that have never, as yet, heard of the true God, or of his Christ; nay, not even in the mildest whisper?

I say, shall it be among these, that the holy God and Father of all, shall seek, and choose for Himself, after all his everlasting mercy and unbounded blessings, which He has bestowed upon, and showed unto the inhabitants of the Zion of his own likeness and glory on earth?

Can Zion's children bear this, rather than to humble themselves in the presence of that God, yet again and again, from whose hand they have so unboundedly received, and whose name they do really fear; whose word they have acknowledged, and whose voice they know in full reality?

Heaven forbid that it should be so; and I bear witness, that the Mighty One of Israel, yea, the God of the just and the unjust, purposeth to humble his Zion, and exalt her no more, until in her most holy courts, or in the heart of his holy city, there can be found instruments of his power, and mouths of his word, that are sufficiently humbled to pronounce the name of the God of their own deliverance, and boldly testify to his All-righteous and eternal power, before the children of men, and even in the presence of their own brethren, his chosen people.

Yea, such He hath purposed to choose, as will not deny his wonderful displays, or visitations on earth, in ages past or present, because they fear the sneers of the haughty, or the humbleness of the Lord's way.

Neither because the visitations of their God have been marvelous, and his word mysterious, and the effects of his power, that which they could not comprehend, in their own natural reason; nay, nor because they fear the many mortals that have, and will judge and despise it, and boldly declare that it is not of God, but of natural man.

Thus and so shall it be, for the voice of truth hath spoken it, and a short time will bring it to pass; but I say, well it is, and well it will be, with the children of the kingdom that put their trust in the Lord their God; and fear his word, and obey the same, instead of mortal power.

But woe unto the slothful and unbelieving soul, that dwelleth within the walls of the Holy City! Woe unto the heart that would fain be filled with flattery, that the work and mighty wonders of the Almighty, to the confounding of the natural wisdom, and down-bringing of the haughtiness of vain man, are at an end; and glory, yea, and rejoice in that day; and even in their hard understanding, surmise that the powers of Heaven would be no more displayed, and that each mortal might walk his own way, and fear no power greater than his own.

But, I say, let such mistaken mortals know, that their God has decreed, and declared, that when his time shall come, He will have mercy on whom He will have mercy; and well pleased will He be with every soul of his people, that is ready for his coming, even in his own time; for his holy messengers and proclaiming Angels, which He has sent forth to prepare the hearts of the children of men, as well as warn the children of the kingdom, have faithfully done their work, thus far; and even the darkest nations of the earth, He hath not left without many warnings of his mighty power, in some way or manner.

So let all Zion, and the nations far and near, know the hand of the Lord is not at rest, nor his ear slumbering, nor his eye closed; neither hath He said, I will no more stretch forth my hand of mercy, unto the nations of the earth, nor send unto them my word; neither hath He said, I will no more visit my Zion, nor proclaim my judgments through the Israel of my glory.

But He hath said, I will go before my own people, and work mighty wonders, even to the terror of the nations abroad. And this He will in no wise fail to do, according as He hath promised, and as He hath already prepared to begin.

Amen, my word is finished for this time; and you that have now listened to it, may now behold me, as I have at this time passed to and fro, that you may believe that I am; and understand, in a small measure, what I am about to do, in a short time.

The voice now ceased speaking, and I beheld, in the east, an Angel, moving slowly along, and soon came very near. The appearance was solemn and terrible; for the body, from the neck, was like that of a mighty man, and the head was like that of an eagle. He had four exceedingly large wings, two upon each shoulder; these were open and spread each way.

The feet were like the feet of the elephant, and seemed to be well shod with cast iron; in the right hand was a very large Roll, sealed with ninety nine seals; and in the left a Book, the lids or cover of which, was of some kind of metal, but I did not know what; and it was clasped together with a clasp of steel. I feared, but spoke not, for I knew not what to say; indeed I dared not speak.

The mighty Angel now spoke unto me in a voice like thunder, and said, Me, ye now hear and see, and ye know that I am; and from this time ye will not often hear me, though ye may see me yet again and again, for I am indeed the power. But the voice that ye shall hear, ye shall not know, neither shall ye see from whence it proceedeth, until the time shall come.

For hath not the God of his own chosen ones, made known his will, proclaimed his Almighty Power, showed forth his greatness of love and mercy, and made known the excellency of his kingdom, and condescended to send forth, even from his throne, his holy Angels with his righteous word of mercy, and call of charity, to his creature man even in the letter; and in a form so simple, and language so plain, that even the babes from the breast, might seemingly understand if they desired so to do?

Surely, this the God of Heaven hath done, and the same you may now behold. The Angel now held forth, first the Roll, and then the Book; and said, The time will surely come, and is not far distant, but is not yet.

But alas! alas! Si a' na qua', e fa' ma, Lo, these days in which that righteous God of never-ending charity, has now winked at the pretended ignorance and hard understanding of the children of men, and even of his own people, and hath showed mercy unto all, will be numbered and will pass away.

And there shall a day come, when the voice that shall be heard, even to the four quarters of the earth, within Zion and without Zion, shall utter words still more marvelous and mysterious in the ears of man, and hard to be understood; and even the wise among men will be troubled, to know the will of their God.

And then shall it be, that even Zion's inhabitants shall mourn for the days that are past, and reflect upon the loving kindness of their God, even the God of all power, in the days of his endless mercy and love.

And now, O thou mortal, whose eyes have beheld, and whose ears have heard, and whose heart hath been opened to understand the word of eternal truth sounded from a voice which you know not, hark, while I say unto thee, Go now and consider well upon these things; and marvel not, neither speak of all this in the hearing of the people, but write ye the whole, boldly and with good confidence.

For with the power that is given you that is not of your own, you shall be able to perform my work and do my will, or stand as a swift witness of that which I, in my own time, shall do; So number my times, and keep the time, for the full time shall come; Amen. I go, but come again.

Fourth Interview.

Early on the morning of March first, eighteen hundred forty two, I was awakened by a loud singing; I carefully listened to it, for it was very heavenly and harmonious. I soon saw a band of Angels passing through the place; they marched in regular order two abreast, about four feet from the ground; I could hear the words which they sung, but did not understand any save the following. Zion is the habitation of the living God, and here is the Holy Mount of his glory; and from this place shall his righteous word be sent forth; and we, his holy Angels, will proclaim the same to the nations of the earth.

They soon divided into four companies, and went each way out of sight. Instantly, I heard a mighty roaring like unto heavy thunder; I was sensible, that it was the coming of the mighty Angel; it came nearer and grew louder, and soon changed into a voice, and the words were these;

This day thou hast seen and will see and hear, O thou mortal that now listeneth to my word, that which will be pleasing to thee, and also, that which will cause thee sorrow of soul; for thou shalt not, as yet, fully understand nor have permission to make mention of my word unto the people.

So go your way and fear not, but remember I now tell you, that ere this day shall come again you shall see my work in a measure performed, and many of my words fast fulfilling.

I now went about my hand labor; but the sound of the mighty voice was so loud in my ears, for the most part of the day, that it seemed I could hear nothing else. I saw the mighty Angel four different times in the course of the day, and received many words from him, similar to what I had before received.

At the last time, which was about the hour of four in the afternoon, the word to me was, as follows. Know, and even remember from this day, that God your Heavenly Father, never has, and never will permit, or cause a promise to be made to his chosen people, nay, nor even to the nations of the earth, but what He has fulfilled, will fulfill, or cause to be fulfilled in his own time, and according to his divine will.

This was the end of the word at this time, and I retired to my room, feeling very sorrowful that I could not, as yet, feel at liberty to speak freely of all that I had seen and witnessed. In the evening of the same day, soon after I had retired to rest, I again heard the voice of the holy Angel, and the word was swift and powerful as follows;

Hearken, hearken, O thou mortal of my choice, while I declare boldly unto the people of the earth, that the days of preparation for the God of Heaven and earth to commence his own work in full, are fast passing by; and his time to work throughout the whole earth, is near at hand, and the time for his Christ, the Savior of men to be more fully known, as he now stands, the head of the New Creation, in his second manifestation, is not far off.

And I will now, loudly proclaim to all people within Zion and without Zion, that from this day I will no more rest, I will no more be still, and I will no more hold my peace, neither will I longer move slowly, nor be mild in my motion on flight; for the Almighty is ready to be displeased with his creatures, because of their readiness to say, The day of the Lord is fast passing by, and He will no longer go before us.

But I will assuredly be known, I will be heard, and I will appear in many shapes and forms; and my mighty power shall be felt and acknowledged by the inhabitants of Zion! And the nations far and near, shall fear me, but shall not know me, for a time; but in due season shall they know me, and shall confess that I am.

But, before that day shall fully come, many in Zion shall deny me in their hearts, because of my strange doings within the walls of her holy City: and they will be tempted to sound the same in the hearing of the children of men. But woe, woe and a lasting woe, be upon the soul now numbered in Zion, that shall presume to do this; and my vengeance shall be upon such, by day and by night.

I have already been seen and known in part, many times; and my power has been confessed in Zion; and even among the dark vain children of time, it has been feared, and freely acknowledged to be from an eternal source; but they know me not as yet.

I have spoken through the mouths of the holy Prophets, and wise men of old; I have appeared as one that was once an inhabitant on earth, or as a guardian Angel to the chosen people. I am the power, the strength and the might.

And now, O thou mortal that hast these four times beheld me, even as I am, and hast patiently listened to the voice that speaketh at my command; know thou, that I have never so fully made myself known on earth, save only to thy view, and in thy hearing: but now I go, and after some days I shall return, and when again I come, I will try you and will prove you many ways.

And after my next coming, which will be my fifth, you will no more see me for a season, as these four times you have done.

At that time, I will give you permission to make mention of all that I have said and shown unto you; but as yet deal carefully with it, for it is hardly the beginning.

So now I bid thee as before, to write the whole, and keep it sacred and safe; for in my time I shall call for it from thy hand. Amen.

The word was now finished, and all was silent. I arose and wrote the word, as I was commanded. The Angel at this time, appeared as at the third time; yet holding the Roll and Book, but did not speak concerning them. His appearance was truly fearful and terrible; but the voice still more so, if possible. I now went to my duty, and spoke not of what I had witnessed, relying upon the word of the Angel, that I should soon be permitted to make it known.

Fifth Interview.

On March twelfth, eighteen hundred forty two, while I was busily engaged in my duty, and in conversation with those around me upon various subjects, the holy and mighty Angel entered the room and stood before me, and showed forth many signs in my view; they were singular and strange, even so much so that I cannot well describe them on paper.

This scene was short, but was repeated three times; and now was my time of trial; for those present perceived that something singular was transacting to my view, and not to theirs.

I was asked many questions, but dared not answer, because of the word of the Angel; for I fully believed that in perfect obedience, all would be well with me in the end.

Soon after this, the Holy Angel entered again, and said to me, This is my fifth and last coming in this manner; but as I said, so have I done; I have indeed suffered you to be tempted and tried, and I have proved you to my satisfaction at this time. You may now speak of my presence, and make known my word; but when this you do, let it be boldly, yet wisely; for I am to be feared in very deed.

Suffer not my word to be written on loose sheets, but in a book by itself; and this have ready at my call, for lo my work is only begun. Number the times of my coming, even from the first sound that ye heard of me; when ye have beheld me as I now am, and when ye have only heard me from a voice that ye knew not.

Yea, I say keep my time, and number my times, and be ready to witness for me, and my word, in the presence of thy companions, and the hearing of all people, when my full time shall come.

For lo I now declare unto you, that unto my word among the nations abroad, there shall be no beginning known, and in Zion there shall be no end spoken of; for I am like the unceasing stream, and yet as the flowing tide.

My power no man can withstand, and my force he cannot stay. I am the same in the morning as at evening, and at midnight as at noon-day, I am one and the same mighty power.

My word, even that which is sounded from a voice unknown to mortals, shall not be trifled with; neither that which is within or without Zion. Let not this thing be, lest there be such confusion in the land as was never before known; lest there be tumults afar off and near by, among the children of men, and lest Zion be troubled, and know not the meaning of her troubles.

And now, even at this, my fifth coming, I repeat my words, and pronounce yet a heavier woe upon the soul of man now dwelling in Zion, that shall carry tidings therefrom; or make mention of the marvelous doings of their God and his holy Angels, as spreading it abroad, or sounding it in the ears of strangers without, until the full time shall come, which is not afar off;

Lest Zion's afflictions come upon her before the time, and to her travail in pain there be not an end, until her captive daughters become faint-hearted because of the very many days of their mourning, and her forsaken sons grow angry, because of oppression from those that were once of their own number.

So let Zion exalt not herself, but be humble; let the Rulers in her be wise; and if any man ask soberly seeking for true knowledge, if the voice of the living God, or of his Christ, the Redeemer of souls, hath been sounded aloud in your hearing, or among you, then hide not the thing from them; but boldly declare it with good confidence; showing forth your perfect faith in that God that has called you.

Verily I now call, and shall again call upon thee O Zion, to let thy light so shine that the nations afar off may behold thee, and seek a dwelling within thee; and that the sound of mighty wars, tumults and bloodshed, may be afar off from thy borders, and stain not thy walls because of thy readiness to proclaim the mighty goodness of thy God and the excellence of his power in the deliverance of his Zion on earth.

And again I say, My word shall not be trifled with; neither this, nor that which is to come; neither shall it be carelessly laid by for nought, or secretly concealed as a word of mischief; for verily I say, If Zion feareth to proclaim that which God delivereth into her trust, then, when a time sufficient has passed by and the Lord be weary of waiting, He will cause thee to repent.

Indeed I say, Then shall it be that I will, yea even I, the mighty proclaiming and prophesying Angel of the God of Heaven and earth, sent forth being filled with eternal power, publish upon thy walls O Zion, and proclaim upon thy house-tops, O Israel, that which has long been concealed within thee, and hid from the nations abroad, that the Lord thy God did send unto thee, by his holy Angels, that out of thee might go forth his judgments and statutes, and shine forth his perfect righteousness and glory.

And remember, ye rulers and watchmen, that in the day that is not afar off, I will go my own way, and will do whatsoever I will. I will answer no man a question, nor be asked of any man the meaning of my doings; for quite sufficient is my word, at these five times of my coming, for all to know and believe that I am.

The Angel now put forth his right hand and bade me take the Roll, and unseal it; but I could in no wise reach it; and he, stooping low, gave it to me. I took it, and unsealed the ninety and nine seals one at a time, and unrolled it upon the floor. I looked upon it for a moment, and feared to look longer; but the Angel said, Thou mayest read freely, but it will not profit thee, for it is yet to be written.

But now, seal again the Roll and hand it unto me. I did so, and he then said, Now hearken unto my word, which, if thou wilt obey, it shall be well with thee; for well hast thou thus far done, to conceal my word as I bade thee; but now, as soon as convenient, make known this, my fifth coming to the rulers in Zion, and also speak freely of all that has troubled and tried thee.

But show not my word, until thou hast correctly written, in one book, all that has been shown unto thee; even from the hour that thou wast warned of my coming until this time.

All this I say, that there be no trouble in my coming, nor confusion within or without Zion, because of the written words that may, and will be sent forth throughout the earth: but woe, woe unto the hand that dealeth unwisely with them.

This is my word, concerning that which has been and may be sounded forth in thy hearing; save the writing of the Book and Roll, which I now hold in my hands, and which will not again be unsealed, until the time shall come.

And let it be remembered, that my word is not exclusively to one part, nor to another part of Zion's inhabitants; but to every part, and to the nations abroad the same. But now, my last word unto thee, O thou mortal child, that hast these five times listened to me, and to the voice that abideth with me, is this;

Thou shalt in no wise provide for thyself an article of any kind, whereon to write my word; but as I shall command thee, so shalt thou do. Upon thy knees shalt thou place the Holy Bible, (for that is the [record of the] most sacred and holy word now known among the children of men;) and upon that thou shalt write, all that I shall command thee.

And that sign shall stand as a lasting memorial of my eternal power, within Zion and without Zion, for generations to come; and no name, save, Ma'ne Me'rah Vak'ne Si'na Jah', shall be upon [this] my word.

This is the end of my word for this time; I go now, yet come again in season; but not as I am now; but number my times, and keep my time, and be a ready witness for me. Amen.

MA′NE ME′RAH VAK′NA SI′NA JAH′.

In perfect obedience to the word of the Angel, I did write every word of it upon a Bible, only five and a half inches wide, and nine in length, which I laid upon my knees. And though many asked me why I did so, yet I told no one, until I had finished. I have now done all that I am as yet required to do; and to the whole communication I freely and confidently sign my name.

ADAH ZILLAH POTTER.

Sixth Interview.

On May first, eighteen hundred forty two, while assembled with many others, upon the Holy Mount, to sing praises and offer offerings holy and acceptable to that God whom we love, serve and worship, and who had called us there upon that day; I saw a band of Angels coming from the east, and the mighty Angel that I had before seen followed them; and they all tarried upon the sacred ground for some time, and were seen by many others that day.

The mighty Angel had somewhat changed his form and appearance; yet it was solemn and fearful. His wings were spread each way, and each appeared to extend near seven yards; and upon each wing were written many words, but I could not read them. His word at this time, was a lengthy prophecy, upon the place on which we were assembled; but he did not speak to me, save these words;

Child of earth, knowest thou what thou beholdest? I answered, I behold the mighty Angel of God, whose time I keep, and whose word I know. Then showing me the Roll and Book he said,

These, ye now behold closed and sealed; but when again ye see them, they shall be opened; and upon this holy ground, will I show forth signs of that which I shall hereafter declare openly, and proclaim aloud.

So go thy way, but forget not to witness for me, and my word and work; for at an unexpected hour shall I come, and in haste shall I perform my work.

Seventh Interview.

On July sixth, eighteen hundred forty two, wednesday morning, I was suddenly awakened, by the sound of these words. Count the time, keep the time, number the hours, number the days, and watch the signs; for the days of my prophecy are nearly fulfilled. And after a short season of rest shall pass by, I shall commence that work of which I have spoken unto thee, O thou child of mortality.

For five months only shall pass by, before I shall call at the same hour; and twelve months shall not end, before I will hasten my work, in the eyes and ears of man; and my time shall be kept, and the times numbered.

I arose, and wrote the words I had heard; and at that moment, the clock struck three. I knew the voice to be that of the mighty Angel that I had previously seen, although I saw nothing present.

I thought to go back to my rest, but was suddenly thrown on the floor; and it seemed to me, that the whole house rocked like a cradle for some minutes. Soon, I heard a noise, similar to the roaring or bursting of a mighty peal of thunder, or the firing of a cannon; and as the sound ceased, these words followed;

Arise and write; arise and follow me, and write, for no longer can the time be prolonged. I now was in the presence of the mighty Angel, and awful indeed was his appearance; for in addition to the frightful form in which he had before appeared, was a crest of scarlet red on his head; and from that proceeded a trail of crimson, which hung to the ground.

In his left hand he held a flag of the same, tinged with white; and this he gently waved high in the air, and then low to the ground, turning each way. Upon this, were many words written, but I could not read them. In his right hand were the Roll and Book, open.

The voice said, Seest thou the Roll and Book, yet again? I answered yea. Then humble thyself, and condescend to do my will; for my word, at this time, is short; but the work of my God is mighty, and is to be hastened. These seven times have I come unto thee, and shown unto thee these things that thou mightest witness for me, when I shall declare unto the people my mission on earth, and the work of the mighty God.

The Angel now handed me the Roll and said, Read now that thou mayest know what the Almighty requireth, and what I am about to do.

I read the four first seals, and found the ninety nine sealed Roll, to be a part of the Book; and the Book to be a word of the Lord to the inhabitants of the earth; and the whole was a word and work to be hastened; for the time was near by, for it to be accomplished.

The Book was now presented to me, and as I reached to take it, the mighty Angel still held in his hand one lid, and gave me the other; I then found it to be a leaf, or sheet, rolled or folded within these lids, after the form of some maps. The voice said that it would extend one hundred leagues, or seventy and seven paces [or spaces] of the Angel, when spread its full length.

The terrible Angel, in whose presence I stood trembling, said to me, Now, O thou mortal worm of the dust, speak quickly, and say whether thou art willing to obey my word or not; and tell me, even now, what thou thinkest of what thou beholdest. I answered, I think it a work too mighty for mortals to handle, or in the least degree to accomplish; and I am too sensible of my incapability to perform such a work, to condescend to begin; O then thou holy Angel, do in thy mercy release me from the burden of thy work, and I will readily witness for thee when thou desirest, and do with thy word as it is thy will.

The voice then said, Mortals have not this work to do; they have only to yield obedience to the God of Heaven, who will, in his own time, accomplish the whole, by and through the medium and power of his holy Angels; and his people will only have his word to proclaim, and his will to make known by means of his own, and signs which He will show unto them; and none need to fear what shall come, although various, numerous and marvelous in the eyes of mortals, will be the requirements of the Holy One. So bow thy spirit low, and take in thy hand the Roll; and at this hour, on the morrow, will I make known the order of writing the same.

The Angel now took the book and said, In one half time, will I again unseal and spread this in the view of mortals, and never again shall it be sealed; for then shall the time be fully come. The Angel now moved slowly out of my sight, towards the Holy Mount, and I found myself on the floor where I first fell; and very soon, the clock struck four.

Eighth Interview.

Thursday, July seventh, eighteen hundred forty two, I was awakened, just as the clock struck three, by these words; Up quickly, and gird thyself with that which I shall prepare for thee to wear; and at the hour of four, start for the Holy Mount, and there will I meet thee. Three mornings shalt thou do likewise; and upon the third morning shalt thou begin to write. One of the Rulers and a witness shall attend thee. Now this is my will and word at this time.

Surely, if this be done, then shall it be the beginning of that which is to be, and shall come, and all things will be in readiness; but if not, then will my work be the more hastened, and I, myself, will come with my Ven' sen ˋdes ter ˋda trum, and the Two Anointed Ones shall bear witness of me; and thou shalt, in time, be caused to suffer my Se lac' la vos' ton de moc' na, because of the many things I have shown unto thee.

For lo, I shall soon come again, but not as I am now; yet thou shalt know me, for as I said at first, I am not the word, nor the voice that soundeth it forth; but I am the power that performeth the work; and this all shall believe when again I shall return.

The word ceased, and I fell on my knees, and earnestly entreated of my Heavenly Father, and the Mighty Angel, to look upon me with pity as an ignorant and dependent mortal, and release me from the requirement, as I saw no way for me to perform it according to the word, in my then present circumstances.

At this instant, the Angel took both the Book and Roll, and arose out of my sight; and I arose from my knees, feeling perfectly released and comfortable in spirit, believing that my intercessions would be heard and granted.

From this time, I had no more knowledge or impressions of the holy Angel or his work, until some time in August following; when he, the mighty Angel, was seen by another person to unseal and spread an exceedingly large and lengthy Roll.

I saw the performance, and knew to my satisfaction it was the same; and I made mention of the Angel's word to me, on the seventh of July. There was no word to me at this time, and I felt no duty incumbent on me, concerning the word, until the morning of the twenty second of January, eighteen hundred forty three; which was precisely twelve months from the day that I first heard the Angel's voice, or received any knowledge of the mighty Angel or his work; and from the first date I was commanded to keep.

This day, which was the Sabbath, did the holy and mighty Angel appear to me and to many others; and his word to me was as follows; Hearken thou little one of sorrow, and thou true witness of me; for lo, I now say, Peace shall rest with thee for a season, even until I have comforted thee with a fulfilling of my many promises, and an answer to thy just desires.

I have indeed, come now to begin my work in the sight and hearing of many, and to command and attend the writing of the Book; and whomsoever I will, the same shall be the mortal instrument of the word.

But that which I required of thee on my last visit, shall be as a sign and witness to thee, of that which I shall now cause to be performed openly, and to the view of all. And rest assured that I shall, ere long, demand of thee the whole that I have shown and made known unto thee, previous to this day, even from the beginning; and be thou ready, at my call, to stand as my true witness, and to hand forth my word, prepared and ready, even as I have commanded thee from time to time.

Do this, and all shall be well with thee; for thus and thus have I done, that mortals might know and believe that I am, and that I have come forth in truth and reality. This is the end of my word unto thee, for a season and time; Amen.

Signed,

MA′NE ME′RAH VAK′NA SI′NA JAH′.

I have now finished the word that I felt in duty bound to write, concerning what has been shown unto me from time to time, respecting the word and work of the Lord, which, as appears clearly evident, is in reality sent forth, and is to be spread abroad among the children of men.

This word, and these things, I freely hand forth and relate, as solemn facts and realities; shown forth and revealed by a holy and supernatural power, and from a divine source, for some wise purpose. And I also testify that I, and many others, have been eye and ear witnesses of the perfect fulfilling of the Angel's word, so far as time has yet admitted.

I have now nothing more to say, save only that I saw the mighty Angel with the mortal writer of the foregoing Roll, several times, while writing the Book. And it is with a degree of pleasure, that I add my testimony, to the truth and reality of the whole word and work; and can readily hand forth this statement, as a witnessing word, in obedience to the word of the Holy Angel. And now, this whole word, I am willing and ready to seal with my life, or in whatever manner it may please a just and holy God to require it of me.

ADAH ZILLAH POTTER.

TESTIMONIAL EVIDENCE, GIVEN BY DIVINE REVELATION, AND WITNESSED BY HARRIET GOODWIN AT NEW LEBANON, COLUMBIA COUNTY, NEW YORK.

Sabbath morning, July tenth, eighteen hundred forty two, I saw, placed on the top of the dwelling house, a beautiful sign ; it reached the whole length of the house, and appeared to be about six feet wide. I could not at that time see any writing on the sign, it shone with such very great brightness. It resembled the color of gold.

At first, I was struck with fear at the sight ; I supposed it to be placed there by mortal hand. But I soon beheld three mighty Angels guarding it ; I then knew it to be something placed there by a supernatural power.

On saturday evening following, July sixteenth, I again beheld the same. On Sabbath morning the seventeenth, it was again made plain to my view, so that I could behold many of the letters ; but I could not read it. On the evening of the same day, after retiring to rest, I suddenly heard a voice sounding in my ears like peals of mighty thunder, which caused me to fear exceedingly ; saying,

Keep silent, O thou worm of dust ; for lo, I am the Almighty, who is able, in the twinkling of an eye, to crush that soul in atoms, who dares presume to make mention of my doings, before my time hath fully come. But lo, in my Zion have I placed my name, forevermore to stand ; there have I made myself known ; and from Zion shall my light and glory shine forth, throughout the whole earth.

The dwellings of my people shall I cause to glow with beauty, and upon their high towers and most sacred places will I place my name, word and will ; and from thence shall the same go forth to the nations of the earth ; while millions, from both far and near, shall flock together to behold my word, and admire, with astonishment and fear, the wonderful and marvelous doings of my all-righteous hand ; while the scoffer and mocker I will lay low before Me, and cause them to howl with agony ; and the filthy and unclean I will scourge and abase.

Behold, O thou babe in Israel, thou hast this day, in very deed, beheld, in a small measure, the doings of my hand ; but small it is to what your eyes shall yet behold ; for Lo, I am the Almighty Creator of Heaven and earth ; therefore great and wonderful is and shall be, the work of my hand. Here the word finished for this time.

On thursday evening following, July twenty first, after retiring to rest, I heard a trumpet sounded very loud and solemn, but heard not a word spoken ; yet I knew it to be from one of the guardian Angels on the house. I then turned my eyes towards the sound, and again beheld the sign ; but could not yet behold a word on it.

On the fourth day of August, I again heard the trumpet of one of the mighty Angels sounding ; which was truly solemn and heavenly. I looked towards the sign, and beheld it much plainer than I ever had before ; and could once in a while distinguish a letter, from amidst the dazzling brightness that surrounded it; and at length I could possibly discern a few words, written towards the bottom of it, which were as follows:

Lo! lo! I am the Almighty, the Ever Existing and Never Ending; holding in my right hand, the sword of my judgment and displeasure, and in my left, the vial of my wrath and indignation, with which I shall shortly visit the earth, and release her from the heavy weight under which she is now groaning.

I will not always strive to no purpose; I will not always threaten and not perform; I will no longer be blasphemed and mocked by the vile, the filthy and unclean. Here in my Zion have I placed my name, here are the chosen of my delight, my holy, holy people; and from thence shall my word go forth; and he that heareth it, and obeyeth it not, shall fall by the sword of my displeasure.

On Sabbath afternoon, August seventh, I again beheld the sign, and heard one of the Angels speak the following words: Behold, even seven times have passed by, and thou, O little one, hast been called to behold and witness this, the word of the Almighty. But rest assured, that thou hast not beheld, but in a small measure, that which is now placed upon the dwelling of the righteous.

But the word of thy God and my God, is this day fulfilled and obeyed; which was, that I, the Holy Angel of Almighty Power, should not rest, until seven times I had called forth the least child in this part of his Zion, whose eyes had beheld the glory of God, and whose lips had been moved to sound forth his sacred word; that she might stand as a witness of his marvelous doings.

But yet louder crieth the voice of Him who sitteth on high, O Mi ka′lon se vin′da; rest shall not crown thy spirit, nor peace and quietness prevail around thee, until my word be fully known and my righteous law fulfilled. Even seven times shalt thou loudly sound thy trumpet of alarm, and call forth him in whom I do take pleasure; who has, through sufferings sore, and sorrow deep, washed his garment white, and found favor in my sight; for lo, he shall suffer even as did my first begotten Son, many things for my name's sake, and the gospel's.

And on the sixth time that thou shalt call him forth, I will draw nigh, and crown him with wisdom and clothe him with power; and cause his eyes to open, that he shall see my glory, and the word of his God; and write in full concerning the same.

And on the seventh time he shall behold the whole, and write the same; and at that time I will cause four thousand of my most holy Angels to be present, and witness my word correctly written. For lo, I will have witnesses, both in Heaven and on earth; but through sufferings deep shall my word be obtained, and in tribulation shall it be written.

The voice then ceased, and the Holy Angel turned to me and said; Little one, hast thou not heard the voice of Almighty Power? I answered, yea.

Then go ye, and correctly write all that has passed in these seven interviews, and I will be with thee to help thee. But remember, I shall call forth many witnesses, ere the day cometh when mortal eyes shall behold the word of the Lord, written plain to be understood by the inhabitants of the earth.

Sabbath afternoon, August fourteenth, eighteen hundred and forty two, while in meeting, I saw a holy and mighty Angel enter the meeting room. He marched to the head of the room, and placed his wings upon many of the brethren and sisters, saying; Arise, arise, and witness for me; for lo I am an Angel of Almighty Power, sent from the throne of God to guard his heritage, his Zion on earth.

And surely great is my mission, and marvelous shall be my word and work; therefore I call you to arise and witness for me, with many others; for know ye, I shall work in the sight of man, and of the children of this world; and many things will I make plain to their view, and bring to their understanding. And not seven and a half times shall pass away, before they shall hear my voice, and acknowledge the goodness of their God, and behold his name printed on Zion, where He has placed it, forever more to stand. The Angel then disappeared, and I saw him no more at that time.

After meeting was closed, as I was returning home, feeling entirely free from the burden which I had previously felt, I was met by the Angel after I entered the dwelling; his wings were raised, and his countenance shone with great brightness, yet it was solemn and serene; which struck me with reverence and awe, insomuch that I had scarcely strength to stand.

The Angel looked at me in a very sacred and solemn manner, and bid me follow him back into the meeting room, which I did; and there I found one of the sisters; he then placed my hand in hers, and bid me walk with her and sing the little solemn song which he sung; this I did.

After walking a few moments, the Angel said to this certain sister, I would that thou, little one, learn this song and sing with me. I am an Angel of Almighty Power, and have come unto thee, clothed in thy Mother's spirit; and this is thy Mother's song of mourning, for surely she mourneth and weepeth for Zion, because great and heavy will yet be her tribulation; and her children will yet mourn and weep, in very deed with her.

The Angel then desired to march this song throughout the dwelling house, through every hall and in every retiring room, that all might feel the spirit of their Mother, and sense, in a small measure, a degree of her tribulation; which was done. The Angel then entered one of the rooms where several were assembled, and turning to the one whom his God had chosen to write the Sacred Roll, he said; O thou beloved one, prepare thy heart for tribulation; great has been, and great shall yet be thy tribulation.

The Angel then proceeded through the house, and after returning to the place where he had previously been speaking, he spoke the following words: O Holy Anointed, and dearly beloved, have not tribulation and persecution been the lot of God's people in Zion through all past ages? and hath not the Lord promised protection to them in obedience? Surely He has; and will fulfill according to his promise.

I am an Angel of Almighty Power sent from the throne of God, bearing on my wings a heavy cross: and it is the will of thy God that this cross be placed on my chosen instrument. Wilt thou not, O thou little one, take this cross from off my shoulders? He replied, The will of my God be done.

Also upon my head is placed a solemn and weighty Roll, containing the word of the Lord thy God, which has been written with his own finger, and placed on this thy dwelling place, for nations to behold; yea, that which shall yet be proclaimed in the earth.

And lo, I say unto you, it has been through tribulation deep, that this word has been handed forth; and in and through tribulation deep, and sufferings sore, shall it be obtained and written by mortal hand, for nations to behold. Even seven times have I called thee forth, O thou little one, to view this my word, or the word of thy God, though not through my loud and solemn trumpet; therefore thou hast not heard me, in full. But yet seven times more will I again call thee forth, to view this solemn and sacred word, before thou shalt write it; but on the sixth time thou shalt write concerning it, and on the seventh thou shalt write the whole.

Yea, even as the Lord did place a rainbow in the heavens, as a sign and sure promise unto Noah, that He never would again destroy the earth, or the inhabitants thereof, by floods of water; so shall the doings of my hand which ye have seen, stand as a sign unto his people, that ye have this day received his holy and sacred word, which shall yet be written by mortal hand, and made plain to mortal eyes; and be understood by many of the inhabitants of the earth.

I have now finished the word which my Heavenly Father gave me to speak; but I leave you not at present; nay, I the Holy Angel will remain with this little one, even Philemon, until this work is accomplished, and the word is finished. Amen, saith the Holy Angel.*

January first, eighteen hundred forty three, I heard a heavenly trumpet very loudly sounding. I listened, and the sound ceased; I paused for a moment, when I again heard it, which seemed to cause the regions above to shake with terror.

I then looked towards the northwest, and there beheld a beautiful rainbow; and on the rainbow, stood four thousand holy and mighty Angels, each holding in his right hand a flaming sword, and in his left, a vial of God's wrath and indignation. I gazed upon the scene, with admiration and reverence, yet feared exceedingly.

I again heard the heavenly trumpeters loudly sound their solemn trumpets, which caused the arches of heaven to echo; and at every blast I was struck with exceeding great fear and terror. I then heard a solemn and heavenly song sung, which was played upon instruments of music, by forty and four of the most holy Angels that marched in front.

* The inspired writer of this Roll and Book had been shown by an Angel, at times, for more than two years previous, that God had a word direct to the nations of the earth; but in what way it should be sent forth, it had never been shown me.

The Angel repeatedly informed me that God would direct and conduct this work in his own time, and according to his own will and pleasure. These things I kept and pondered in my own heart, until God should make his time known, entirely according to his own will. Of these things the inspired writer of this communication, knew nothing, as I had kept them entirely within my own heart.

PHILEMON STEWART.

They moved along slowly, while the rainbow still continued under their feet, until they reached the dwelling house, where the Roll or Sacred Sheet was spread. Then did the ninety and nine trumpet-sounding Angels raise their trumpets, and loudly blow a solemn blast, which they repeated fourteen times; signifying, that for fourteen days they would all attend to the writing of the Roll.

Then spake one of the mighty Angels, saying; For fourteen days shall we, the Holy Angels of Almighty Power, tarry with the son of man and inspire him with wisdom, light and understanding, that he may behold the glory of his God, and do his all-righteous will. Yea, we will open the eyes of his soul, and give unto him true knowledge and understanding; that he may, if he will, correctly write the word, and do the will of his All-wise and All-powerful Creator.

But let him not fear to write it in full, exact and correct, that every nation may know that God is a God of justice; impartial and merciful. And moreover I say, if he writeth not the word in full, but keepeth back a part, fearing man, and the powers of earth, rather than his God; I say, and understand ye; more tolerable was it, in ancient date, for the inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrah, than it will be for him. Far better would it have been, had he never existed on the earth; or, that a mill-stone be hung about his neck, and he be cast into the sea, than that he should see the days that he shall live to see.

But if he obeyeth the voice of his Father which is in Heaven, all shall be well with him. Though man be mighty, yet God is Almighty; though man be able to torture and perplex, yet God is able, in the twinkling of an eye, to crush and lay low the haughtiness of man, and raise up and exalt the humble seeker after true righteousness. Therefore, fear exceedingly; yea, tremble with fear.

Then the forty and four holy Angels, taking hold of the sheet, raised it up and said unto me, Look, behold and see, O thou babe in Israel, the word and doings of thy All-wise Creator. I looked and beheld the word of the Lord written in full, for the first time. It was written upon a sheet which, to my view, appeared like fire, and the letters were as letters of gold. And after the Angels had raised it up, about six feet from the roof of the house, taking it in the middle, it was then shown to me as I had before seen it, in the shape of a sign; the sheet was again spread, and I beheld it in full.

Then said the Angel; A time and a half time, and a half of a half time, shall in no wise pass away, nay, the sun shall not reach its meridian height at noon-day, nor the moon spread her gentle beams of light over you by night, even ninety and nine times, before ye shall behold the word of the Lord your God written in full, by mortal hand, and made plain to the view of the inhabitants of Zion.

Then did they roll up the Roll, and seal it with ninety and nine seals; and singing a song of rejoicing, and playing the same upon their instruments, they marched into the upper hall in the dwelling house, laid down the Roll, and vanished out of my sight.

January twenty second, eighteen hundred forty three, I again beheld the four thousand Angels approach the place of worship, with quickened steps; and as they entered, I heard a band of heavenly music, which sounded in my ears like many harpers playing upon their harps. Then the Angels raised their solemn trumpets, and gave a solemn blast; then said they, Peace be unto the righteous; yea peace, joy and tranquility shall crown the days, and rest in the bosoms of the true and upright soldiers of Christ.

But woe, woe, and a heavy woe shall rest upon that soul that shall presume to make mention of the doings of their God to the children of darkness before the time hath fully come, when his word He will reveal, and his will He will make known, in his own time and season, way and manner. Even of these, the vials of God's wrath and indignation, which we hold in our left hands, (and with which He hath purposed to visit the earth, and the inhabitants thereof,) shall they constantly drink; and as a dead and lifeless branch, shall they fall from the tree of life, to rise no more, through time or in eternity.

The Angels then formed a circle around the chosen instrument, and said; Thou child of sorrow, prepare thyself for death; for a sacrifice of all things even to the laying down of thy life doth thy God require! Thy path is paved with tribulation; therefore, in the bitterest of grief, the heaviest of sorrow and keenest of tribulation, shalt thou walk by day and by night; till thou art willing to sacrifice all to thy God, that thou mayest be able to know and do his will:

For never again will the Lord condescend to reveal his all-righteous will unto mortals, unless through tribulation, sorrow and grief, they have washed their garments white, and in the lowest of humility have bowed their spirits, and opened the door of their hearts with thankfulness and resignation, that He might enter and work.

We say not that the Lord requires you to give up your natural life; but He requires a willingness to sacrifice all things, even unto death. The Angels then sounded their trumpets, and I saw them no more at that time.

Early on the morning of the first day of February, eighteen hundred and forty three, I was awakened from my sleep, hearing the Angels again sounding their trumpets, and the forty and four most holy Angels playing upon their instruments of music. I looked towards the west, and again beheld the sheet spread. The Angels then raised their wings with joy, and loudly rung their bells of alarm; shouted a shout of rejoicing, and sung a solemn song of praise, saying;

Rejoice, O Zion! let thy inhabitants be joyful, and let joy and rejoicing prevail throughout thy borders. For lo, this day will the Lord of Heaven draw nigh, and clothe with wisdom and crown with strength, that soul who has, in sufferings and sorrow, laid himself low before God, even to the dust, that he might find favor in his sight, and be able to do his holy will. This day will He commence revealing that which has long been concealed; and this day shall long be remembered by thee, O Zion.

I did not hear or see any more at that time. But on the morning of the second day of February, I again heard the Angels sound their trumpets, and saw them take the sheet, and again roll it up and seal it, even with ninety and nine seals; they then carried it into the room where it was to be written, unsealed it and placed it upon the wall.

Then said the Angels to the chosen instrument, O thou child of sorrow, this day do we, the mighty and proclaiming Angels of the Lord, commence tarrying with thee, to feed and support thee, and to witness the word of the Lord correctly copied from this sacred sheet, by mortal hand, for mortal eyes to view; for this was thy Father's command, and this is our mission. He chooseth witnesses, both in the Heavens and on the earth; for out of the mouths of many witnesses shall his word be established.

On the fourth day of February, eighteen hundred forty three, I saw the instrument that was to write the Roll, go into his room, and the four hundred Angels follow him; and after he had commenced writing, I saw the Angels place a seal on every page as he wrote it, as their witness and testimony, that it was correctly written.

On the fifth of February, I saw yet another sheet placed upon the housetop, resembling the first, having the same word written upon it; and I saw an Angel standing at the top of it, having a head like a lion, and wings like an Angel. And as the instrument copied the word correctly, from the Roll, the Angel blotted it out.

And on the ninth day of February, I saw the Angels ascend even unto the throne of the Almighty, and there gather food, strength and blessing for the instrument; and with it I saw them feed him; saying, Be faithful, thou little one, even as thou hast been; for lo, thy God, thy Father and Eternal Maker, is well pleased with thee.

On the sixteenth day of February, I again heard the Angels sounding their trumpets; saying, Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord. Well be it with thee, because of thy obedience; because thou hast faithfully done the will, and correctly written the word of thy Father which is in Heaven. And whosoever shall put forth their hand to destroy it, shall fall by the sword of his displeasure, and be banished from his presence. The Angels soon disappeared, and I saw them no more.

TESTIMONIES OF ELEVEN MIGHTY ANGELS, THAT ATTENDED THE WRITING OF THE ROLL:

GIVEN BY INSPIRATION, FEBRUARY 16, 1843.

I, the Holy Angel of Almighty Power, by name, Al′sign te′re Jah′, do witness and testify that the word of the Lord has been correctly written by mortal hand.

I, the Holy Angel of the Lord, do solemnly affirm that the word which has long been concealed from mortal eyes, is now revealed by Almighty Power and made plain to mortal view.

I, the Holy Proclaiming Angel of the Lord, do solemnly testify that it has been through deep tribulation, and as heavy sorrow and suffering as mortal clay, or the inhabitant thereof, was able to endure, that the word of the Lord has been obtained and correctly written by mortal hand, for mortal eyes to view.

I, the mighty Angel of the Lord, by name, Con′ sole te′ re Jah mon′ shue, do solemnly testify that my eyes have beheld the word of the Lord correctly written by mortal hand; and it is in truth the invariable word of the Lord, which will stand unalterable through time and in eternity.

I, the holy Proclaiming Angel of truth, do firmly testify that it is the word of the Lord, which has been written by mortal hand; and should any one put forth a hand to destroy it, or alter in the least degree, either by adding to, or diminishing it; that soul shall surely fall by the sword of his displeasure, and drink of his furious wrath and indignation.

I, an Angel of Mighty Power, do testify, that the inspired writer of the Roll was chosen by the Lord Almighty to write his sacred word; and the will of his God he has done, and his duty faithfully executed.

I, a mighty Angel of glory, do firmly declare the word to be true that the forementioned Angels have testified.

I, a mighty Angel of the Lord, do solemnly protest, that not one promise of God, stated in his Sacred Roll and Book, shall fail or pass away; but shall be fulfilled, even to a jot and tittle.

I, a mighty Angel of warning, do solemnly affirm that the anger of a justly provoked God is greatly kindled against the inhabitants of earth; and He is about to visit her in the fury of his wrath and displeasure, and cut down her inhabitants in judgment, if they hearken not to his warning voice of mercy.

I, a Holy Angel of the Lord, do solemnly declare, that within the covers of this Sacred Book, is inserted the word of the Lord correctly written by mortal hand, which has been done in the true fear of God; and let all who peruse it, do it in a measure of the same holy fear in which it was given. For I will ever stand as a witness of the usage of this Sacred Roll; and with a just reward will I meet every soul when they have done with time.

I, a mighty Angel of the Lord, by name Pre′ line fi′ nan vas′ ten va′ ren ve′ ne; do firmly testify that we, the Holy Angels, have witnessed the contents of this Roll correctly written; and the word inserted therein is the word of that God who created and knoweth all things; though plain, yet it is true; then let every soul remember, that whom the Father loveth He chasteneth; and will kindly warn them to flee from the dangers that shall come.

Hear my word and obey the same, crieth the voice of Him who sitteth on High, and ruleth over all.

Inspired Witness,

Harriet Goodwin.

I can here testify, that the foregoing statements are no fiction, or vain imagination. But I have an evidence within my own heart, beyond all wavering or caviling feelings whatever, that it is truth and reality, that the Lord's time has fully come for his warning voice of mercy to be sounded throughout the four quarters of the earth; that He may gather the wheat into his garners, while He separateth the chaff therefrom, and burneth it with unquenchable fire; for saith God, Unto him that seeketh mercy aright will I show mercy; and, crieth the holy Angels of mercy, Whithersoever the word of the Lord Almighty goeth, there shall we go; and whosoever shall hearken and obey it, the same shall be blessed; but whosoever shall destroy or treat it with scorn and ridicule, the same shall be cursed.

These things have been made as plain to my view, as the natural elements above, or the inhabitants of earth below; therefore it would be as reasonable for me to dispute my existence, as to dispute the reality of them. I therefore stand as a witness before God and all men, through time and in eternity, that it is in truth and reality the word of the one only true and living God, which is contained in the pages of this sacred Book.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN ALLEN.

New Lebanon, N. Y. April 17, 1843.

Friends and Fellow Mortals;

In presenting to you this my testimony, and affixing my name hereunto as a witness of the divine origin of the Sacred Roll now laid before you, I am induced by no other motive than the pure love which I owe to that God who gave me life and breath, and by whose power I am sustained while passing through the scenes of time, and a fear to displease the same;

Yea, and to fulfill that duty which I owe to a companion in God's holy service, who has fulfilled a divine obligation in writing the Sacred Roll, that mortal eyes might see and behold the same. For I have walked hand in hand with him in sorrow deep, and known full well the grief and tribulation of his spirit, that he might be able to fulfill the holy will of his God and accomplish the same, according to his sacred requirements.

And I know of a truth that I am called upon by the powers of Heaven, manifested to me by the Holy Savior, Mother Ann Lee, Father William Lee, Father James Whittaker, with the ancient Prophets and holy Angels, who have appeared unto me, and by whose information I have become acquainted in a small degree, with the design of God, to raise my voice in favor and support of the truth of God's unbounded love and charity to poor frail man; and of the remarkable outpouring of his holy spirit among his chosen people, to which I have been both an eye witness, and an instrument in the work.

On the first of May, one thousand eight hundred and forty two, I plainly saw the preceding Roll, and was moved upon by the holy spirit of God, to sound forth words from the same, and to prophesy of the word of the Lord, that should go forth from Zion to the nations of the earth.

I plainly saw and beheld the sufferings of his faithful servants, who should be chosen, to do his will and effect his purposes; but I knew not by what mortal hand it should be written, when the time should come, or how it should go forth.

On the eighth and fifteenth of May, first and thirtieth of June, and fourteenth of September, did I again see the Roll, and oftentimes spake of the same to some of my companions.

February fourth, one thousand eight hundred and forty three, while ascending the Holy Mount in the service, and according to the will of the mighty Angel, I looked and beheld an innumerable host of flaming heralds, having wings; and they moved swiftly forward to meet us.

They held in their mouths the preceding Sacred Roll. In their right hands were offers of peace, love and good will to all men who would accept the offers of salvation and loving kindness sent forth from the Almighty; and in their left hands were held justice, truth and equity, with the wrath and sore displeasure of a righteous God, who is justly provoked to anger, to pour out in judgment upon all such as would not heed the friendly solicitations of the voice of Wisdom and Mercy.

Upon their heads were other sacred Rolls. Their countenances were open, bright and piercing, yet courteous, loving and merciful; in which it was plain to be seen that their mission required haste. Their bodies were like as a flaming fire, and larger than the usual size of man.

I beheld them for some length of time, and knew not but I saw them with my natural eyes; for I beheld them as plain as ever I beheld mortals: and as near as I could judge, they extended in length from north to south three fourths of a mile. Their breadth I knew not, as they moved towards us five deep, one exactly over another's head, at a little distance apart, and ten or fifteen feet from the ground; I could not therefore see the further side of them. Having come within a few rods of us, they disappeared and I saw them no more; but a deep impression and strange feeling was left upon me.

I saw the Roll several times previous to its being written, of which I have not heretofore mentioned; and the dates of which I cannot remember. But between three and four months before the Roll was written, the Angel brought and placed it before me, and put the burden of the same upon me, which at times would seemingly take my natural life; for I felt as though the loss of all creation rested upon me. I felt great tribulation of soul, but knew not what to do; for I felt incompetent and insufficient, in every sense of the word, to accomplish that which seemed to be put upon me to execute.

I continued in this situation about three days, when I prayed I might be released, or enabled to do the will of God; for in Him I put my trust, and notwithstanding my feelings of inability to perform what lay before me, I believed, if it were the will of God, I should have strength so to do; I then felt a sudden impression, that I was not the instrument intended of God to write the Roll; but that this burden was put upon me for a short season, that I might know the tribulation it would bring upon the mortal who should be chosen to do this solemn work.

I then prayed and anxiously desired that it might rest upon the inspired writer who wrote the Roll, for it seemed to me that this was the design of God.

I then beheld a short written roll brought by an Angel of God, which confirmed the same. I now felt entirely released, with the exception, that I daily felt an uncommon prayerful feeling, that the will of God might be done, and his purposes fully executed according to his pleasure.

And I now feel it my indispensable duty and privilege, solemnly to assert, that, by the operation of the spirit of God in my own soul, I am made to know that the preceding Roll is from the Almighty; and by his power and agreeably to his will, has it been written and sent forth for mortal eyes to view:

And though my blood should be the price, in consequence of this my testimony, yet I say unto you, this would be a pleasing sacrifice, rather than to renounce my faith and deny the holy work of my God; for I have both seen and felt the irresistible influence of his holy power, which I cannot deny. And to this, I affix my name; and I now commend my spirit to his holy power and into his gracious hands. JOHN ALLEN.

TESTIMONY OF LUTHER COPLEY.

On the eighteenth of April, eighteen hundred forty three, at the first hour of the day, I was called by the holy Angel, whose name is Te le vash′ ta la Jah′, to arise. And he said unto me, Thou mortal Instrument of my choice, one whom I have supported thus far, and shall continue so to do, until you reach the happy mansion of eternal peace and rest;

Arise, and boldly bear testimony of the work of thy God, regardless of mortals, who, though they can take the life of the body, cannot destroy the soul; but fear thou Him who can destroy both soul and body in Hell. I repeat again, (said the Angel,) Fear not the power of mortals, for in obedience I will support thee, through all trying scenes that thou mayest have to meet

Therefore, fearing that God whom I daily love, honor and glorify, in every faculty of my soul, for his boundless goodness in calling me when a child, to forsake the pleasures of a lost and sinful world, and for the many blessings of which I daily partake; though I feel myself small in his presence, and no better by nature than the rest of my fellow creatures, I feel loudly called upon, to add my testimony, with that of many others, to the truth of the word contained in the foregoing sacred pages.

I do firmly believe, without a doubt, that it came forth from the Almighty Jehovah, through means of his own choosing, and was written by the mortal hand of his own appointing; this I feel certain of, by what I have seen, heard and felt; and this I can never deny.

I can further testify without boasting, that I, through the goodness of God, have been made partaker of that soul-saving gospel, by which, in obedience thereunto, I am enabled to live day by day as I would be willing to die; and in this sin-destroying work I have been laboring for nearly forty years.

TESTIMONY OF HIRAM RUDE.

I do testify that I have been shown by the Angels of God, at five different times, in vision, a portion of that work now revealed in the Zion of God upon earth.

In the last of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand, eight hundred and twenty, I saw many things which have now taken place; and that the inspired writer of the foregoing Roll, would be employed as an instrument in the hands of God to do a work for Him, concerning the nations of the earth, and to declare, in the name of a just and holy God, that every sinful practice must be repented of and forsaken, before the soul could find acceptance with its God. That every high and exalted imagination, God would lay low even to the dust.

I also saw the following motto, which has been used by the Angel who inspired the writer of the foregoing Roll;

"Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall."

And again I do testify, that I saw two mighty Angels at the time of the writing of the foregoing Roll. The Angel of Mercy went before, and the Angel of Power followed after, with a red robe; whose eyes were like flames of fire.

Soon after, I saw the inspired writer of the foregoing Roll, dressed in the same manner, agreeably to the requirement of God. Thus I am confirmed beyond a doubt, that the writer of this Roll was inspired by the Angels of God.

TESTIMONY OF ABIGAIL CROSMAN.

The fear of God and the sacred reverence which I feel to his holy word, induce me at this time to declare that which I have seen, heard and felt, as a witness to the truth and divine source from whence the foregoing work proceeded.

This I am bold to testify before all people, feeling an undoubted assurance that the divine knowledge with which I have been privileged from time to time, proceeded from one and the same spirit, which caused the mortal hand to pen the word of the foregoing Roll.

I therefore make mention in short, of some interviews, which at the time received, were both strange and mysterious; but in obedience to the Angel, I wrote correctly what I saw and heard, not knowing the meaning thereof until the Book was opened, and its contents copied by mortal hand.

I am but a frail mortal; but through the mercy and blessing of God, have received a measure of his holy power, light and heavenly gifts; which have caused me to love and serve Him above all other beings, and render unto his service, every faculty I possess; and through which I have obtained an abiding evidence, a burning lamp of eternal truth, which can never be extinguished by vain reason or earthly knowledge.

On wednesday, April twentieth, eighteen hundred forty two, while sitting in silent meditation with my companions, I saw rising out of the south a cloud of fire and smoke; and in the midst thereof an Angel of might and terror. He held in his right hand a sharp sword, and in his left a vial of wrath.

I turned my eyes to the west, and beheld an innumerable company of armed men, arrayed in martial attire, marching swiftly to the south. When they approached the cloud of fire, they fell prostrate to the earth, and were destroyed.

The vision then ceased, but left upon my feelings a chill of horror and solemnity. I heard not the Angel's voice, neither made mention of what I had seen.

On the following day, the same vision again appeared before me, but with greater plainness than before. The Angel approached so near, that I could plainly behold his visage, and the terror of his countenance, but heard not his voice. This sight was truly awful, and caused my whole frame to tremble before it. His eyes appeared as balls of fire, and his presence bespoke judgment, vengeance and destruction.

The time soon arrived for our evening worship. While engaged in our devotion, I saw another Angel enter the room, holding in his right hand a flaming Lamp, and in his left, a Book; often going before the Leaders of the meeting, and opening it, as if desiring them to read. He spoke some in a language unknown to me, and soon disappeared.

I learned from his appearance, that the time had not come for the Book to be revealed, but the day was near at hand, when it should be read to the inhabitants of Zion.

The vision of the former Angel, caused in my feelings much anxiety, to know the meaning thereof; but I received no answer, save, that he was an Angel of judgment, sent forth by Almighty Power to visit the earth; and to the chosen of the Lord, he would make known the power of his hand, that they might seek a refuge from his wrath and indignation.

April twenty third, while employed in my duty through the day, I was visited with an unusual degree of solemnity, and many times a feeling of fear, as if about to behold a scene of horror and distress.

I prayed earnestly to know the cause thereof, but received no satisfactory answer; neither was I permitted to make known my feelings.

Towards evening, I went to my retiring room, and in a short time, saw again the two Angels before mentioned. As I beheld them, the latter spake unto me thus; Thou hast seen the sign in the south and in the west; now turn thine eyes to the north, and behold the vengeance of an Almighty God! I looked, and lo! Desolation, distress and sorrow, filled the land!

The Angel then said unto me, From this place were sent forth the company which ye saw fall before the Angel of judgment. Desolation hath marked their footsteps; their dwellings are as a dreary waste; and from their tent doors, judgment hath followed their goings, until they were consumed by the sword! But verily saith the Lord, judgments, still heavier, await their rulers and country!

The Angel now paused, and then spake unto me thus; Speak not of what you have seen, neither shall you know any more concerning the same, until the morning of the coming day.

You shall then receive further information, and correctly write all that you have seen and heard.

Accordingly, on the following morning (April twenty fourth,) while sitting with my companions, I was suddenly called by a sound from an invisible source, to behold the rising sun, which was then shining in the east.

I looked, and lo! it remained fixed, as if refusing again to illuminate the earth with its noon-day rays!

I was then commanded to turn my eyes to the north; there truly I beheld the most horrid spectacle my eyes ever witnessed.

I saw the wretched inhabitants, walking to and fro; friendless, destitute and forlorn: gnawing their tongues with anguish of soul, while their bodies were famishing with hunger, and constantly falling on every hand!

Their thrones, palaces and splendid dwellings, had become tombs for their dead bodies; Their lofty towers were laid low, even with the dust; and their kings and nobles had fallen prostrate to the earth, without a friend to raise them up, or listen to their cries and lamentations!

Others, who were left as spectators of the scene, were putting an end to their wretched existence, and that of their tender offspring, with their own hands!

This day being the Sabbath, the time for our morning meeting had now come, and I was called from this scene of horror, to behold the peace and quietness with which I was surrounded.

I went with my companions to our place of worship, but with a heavy heart. In a few moments I felt a trembling of the floor upon which I stood like that of an earthquake. I raised my eyes to see if others did not notice the same; but perceiving no alarm, I remained silent, and soon followed the same dreary scene, (but with increasing horror,) which I knew not but I had viewed for the last time.

The sun appeared as blood: the stars resumed their glittering, and the face of nature was one scene of midnight gloom!

The hand of desolation had reached from east to west, and from north to south; and the earth was encircled therewith, like unto a continual flame of lightning and constant roar of thunder!

I looked to find the chosen Israel of God, and beheld as it were, wings, gathering them together into one band, and hovering them from the vengeance of an Almighty God.

I also heard the tender calls of the Holy Angels, and the mourning of saints, for those who wandered from these wings of protection, and rejected the warning voice of their lovely Shepherds.

I observed that all who gathered beneath these holy wings, were safely protected from danger, and in a low and pleasant vale, united even as one body.

My vision now ceased, but the sensation produced thereby, can never be erased from my memory, while in time I remain.

On the following day, April twenty fifth, while engaged in worship, the Holy Angel whom I had previously seen with the Book and Lamp, again appeared to my view. At this time he opened not his Book, but placed himself before the Leaders of the meeting, and desired all present to bow in humble supplication and prayer, that the hand of desolation might be stayed, and the will of God be done.

I spake not of what I saw, to the assembly; but soon another instrument, being mightily exercised with the power of God, loudly proclaimed that the Angels of judgment were passing through the earth, and requested all present to bow low in supplication for the protection of Zion.

I have also seen at many different times, a Mighty Angel assemble with us, holding in his hand a large Book, with the following inscription written thereon. The word of Almighty God, written and sealed with his own hand, for the children of earth.

These things may appear to some, as phantoms of a disordered brain; but unto the candid and unprejudiced, must stand in their true light, unalterable truths, without veil or covering: the evidence of which nought but disobedience can remove from an enlightened mind, or darken with the clouds of unbelief.

I therefore testify unto all, that to me they are solemn realities, firmly grounded by a knowledge which I can never deny, should my life be required in consequence of a refusal.

Having proved by experience, the uprightness and integrity of this despised number, (called Shakers,) for the last twenty five years, I can with confidence bear witness that it is the vineyard of the Lord's planting, and by his merciful hand, daily supported.

TESTIMONY OF HANNAH BLAKE.

New Lebanon, N. Y. January 2, 1842;

Sabbath morning, about the hour of ten, as I sat in solemn meditation upon the everlasting goodness and mercy of God, I was surrounded by a company of Holy Angels, whose brightness was far superior to any thing my eyes ever beheld.

Upon their heads were written the name of the ALMIGHTY JEHOVAH JAH; just beneath, their own names were stamped in letters of pure gold, as it appeared to my view, and were as follows; First, the Mighty Angel of God; second, the Angel of Conviction; third, the Angel of Meekness and Love; fourth the Angel of Mercy and Truth.

Their appearance at first, terrified me, and caused me to fear and tremble exceedingly: but the mighty Angel soon spake unto me, saying, Fear not O thou little one of flesh and blood; but bow ye low, and hearken to my word, yea, look and behold our doings. I looked, and beheld upon the head of the Mighty Angel, a large Roll. He held in his right hand, a pen of pure gold; and in his left, a Book; and upon the cover was written thus—The true Record of Heaven.

The second Angel held a very large trumpet in his hand. The third opened another Book, which he held to my view; it was perfectly clean and white; and on his head was a flaming two-edged sword.

As I turned to view the fourth Angel, I saw him shut the Book, and seal it with yellow seals. He held a rod of truth, and waved the sceptre of mercy gently over my head. I bowed very low four times; and heard the voice of the Mighty Angel saying, I am he whose power thou hast often felt, and whose hand hath brought thee even to the dust of the earth. Therefore, fear thou exceedingly to disobey the word of thy God, O thou mortal frame; lest He smite thee with a curse, and separate thee from his holy people.

The Angel took from his head, the afore-mentioned Roll, and said, This is the word of the Lord God of Heaven and earth, and in his own time, even as He hath declared, it shall extend from east to west, and from pole to pole. Yea it shall go throughout the earth. For I have brought it from the Heavens, even from the eternal throne of light! and I will measure its length and breadth, and number its many folds.

The Roll was then opened, and held by the four holy Angels, and it formed a perfect cross, pointing to the four quarters of the earth. I viewed it with surprise, for I understood not the language in which it was written.

After a short pause, the Roll was again folded in forty eight folds, and upon the outside fold, were written the following words;

O Ha'lon, Ha'lon, don es que'! Heaven, and the Angels in Heaven bear witness, that this Sacred Roll is now sent to earth, by the Angel of Holy Power and Wisdom.

The Angel then placed the Roll upon his head, saying, In due season shall all things be accomplished according as the Lord hath commanded.

The second Angel then sounded his trumpet to the four winds, and bowed very low at each blast.

They then sung a solemn song, and at the close, I again heard the voice of the Mighty Angel saying;

I am the messenger, who was sent to proclaim the word of my God, through the mouths of the Prophets of old, and to warn the people to turn from their unrighteousness, and seek his mercy. I am he who protected Daniel in the Lions' den, and delivered Jonah from the whale's belly, to do the will of his God. Yea, I am indeed the Mighty Angel who hath ever guarded God's chosen people who feared his holy name, and kept his commandments.

I work in wisdom, and my doings cannot be comprehended by mortals until they are revealed. But I am ever present with the witnesses of truth; and whenever they have been sent abroad, I have witnessed the persecutions and sufferings they have borne, for the sake of their testimony; and many are the times I have caused their spirits to rejoice in the God of their salvation, while their enemies feared and trembled before me. And now, even at this time, hath the God of Heaven sent me forth, with these my companions, to warn the inhabitants of earth with this his solemn word, that they may, if they will, hear his voice in mercy, and seek a refuge beneath his protecting wings, before it be too late.

The Angel then gave his word, concerning the reception of the Roll on earth, and bade me copy the same in his presence, which I did; and he immediately vanished from my sight.

On the twenty third of April following, while I was engaged in solemn worship with my brethren and sisters, I again heard the voice of the Mighty Angel, but understood not his word, for it was in a language unintelligible. But soon I perceived that the Angel was viewing the people very closely; and upon his head, as he passed me, I saw a hand, and upon the back of it was written thus; THE HAND OF ALMIGHTY POWER IS NOW SENT FORTH ON THE EARTH.

I then heard a loud trumpet; I looked, and beheld in the southwest, about a half mile from me, a thick cloud of smoke; and the Angel spake and said, The hand of the Lord is numbering his chosen people, who faithfully bear the cross of Christ, and walk in his holy footsteps. For behold! the Angels of destruction are this night to pass the camp of Israel! Yea, verily I say; those whom the Lord hath sent throughout the earth to execute his judgments, shall this night come near to his Zion, and call upon her inmates to mourn and lament, for the lost children of men.

When he had made an end of speaking, I looked, and the cloud of smoke had vanished; and I saw instead thereof, a company of holy Angels approaching from the same direction.

They came near, and placed themselves in the center of the room, in a square form; each one holding a trumpet. The Mighty Angel spake a word to them in his own language; and immediately they all bowed low in prayer and supplication, and the assembly united in the same.

After they arose, I saw them divide into four companies, just a hundred each, and turning to the four winds of heaven, marched with hasty steps each way, singing as they went.

April twenty eighth, as I was traveling with my companions a little distance from home, I saw the Mighty Angel coming from the north, holding in his hand the trumpet of alarm: He sounded it to the four winds, and turning his face toward Zion, said with a loud voice, I will visit thee again and again, until the Lord shall make an end of his sayings, and thou art beautiful in his sight.

Again on the first day of the fifth month, I beheld the Angel with his company, and saw the Sacred Roll placed upon his head, as I at first beheld it.

May eighth, I beheld the Mighty Angel, and he spake unto me, saying, Famine and pestilence shall sweep through the land, and desolation shall come near to the borders of Zion.

But unto thee hath the God of Heaven turned his face, and unto thee will He make known his all-righteous will, and just judgments; and all who will obey his laws, and walk humbly in his presence, shall be known by Him in the day of his fierce anger, and indignation upon the wicked.

The Angel then rested his wings upon the Sanctuary, or house of worship, and spake thus, For a time and a half time, shall I dwell in Jerusalem; and when the time is fulfilled, I will again number my chosen, and the clean white book shall be filled, when the end shall be.

At four or five different times from this period, I have seen the Mighty Angel, and heard his voice, through the mouths of other instruments; and can testify to the same with boldness, in love and holy fear; for at a certain time, through another of his chosen witnesses in the month of August, I was called in haste and asked if I was not a witness for the Mighty Angel; I replied I was; and that I knew his voice, and feared his word with the true fear of God.

All these things, with many others not here mentioned, have proved to my soul the necessity of humbling myself, and seeking in humility, the favor and mercy of that God who created my immortal soul; knowing that unto Him, through the medium of his chosen witnesses, I shall and must give a correct account of every deed both good and evil.

Twenty four years of my life, have I spent among his people; and thanks everlasting be to the source of all good for my precious call. I was born March thirty first, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eleven.

TESTIMONY OF ORREN HASKINS.

The late manifestation of God to his people, which has been for a few years past, I have been privileged with the opportunity of witnessing, from the commencement, to the present time. And being one in the work, and feeling and realizing its operation in my own soul, and its powerful influence on all its subjects, I can, in singleness of heart, testify to the truth of the work and manifestation of divine power, through the medium of holy Angels, and those in whom Christ has revealed himself the second time, without sin unto salvation; and that God has begun a work which will, in his own time, extend to every nation, tongue and people, either in mercy or judgment.

The fulfillment of his promises which I have witnessed, establishes my faith beyond a doubt, that the power manifested, is genuine, and proceeds from God; and those who receive and obey it, will have to confess and acknowledge, that the fruit is good, and proceeds from a pure source; and it thus far has proved as such, and will, to all who seek a holy life of self-denial and the cross; the same cross which our Lord and Savior did bear.

Therefore, I feel under the most solemn obligation to God and man, to boldly testify the truth, and maintain the same, at the risk of all things else. And, although God has, in some instances, manifested Himself through mortals who have not proved true unto the end, and has caused them to sound forth his word with unshaken confidence to the inhabitants of earth, yet, without his holy power and true fear, they were nought, but as empty sounds.

But truth standeth unalterable; and those mortal instruments who were truly baptized into his holy spirit, and trusted in God, and Him alone, were supported, and led according to his will; and were attended with evidence beyond a doubt, that they were influenced by his holy spirit.

TESTIMONY OF DANIEL CROSMAN.

As I have been one that has been called and chosen by the special notice of God, to do his will and stand as a living witness, prepared only through scenes of deep tribulation, and by that means enabled to testify before all people, that which He hath in his wisdom seen fit to reveal to mortals;

It is from no other motives, than a solemn sense of duty which I owe to God and a tender regard for the good of all mankind, that has induced me to stand forth boldly in a cause which will undoubtedly meet with much opposition, and excite the feelings of many to search deep, in order to determine the cause from whence these things originated.

Therefore, choosing rather to obey the dictates of my own conscience in laboring to do the will of God as made known to me, in preference to seeking the favor and applause of those who are enemies to the cross of Christ, I shall labor in the fear of God, to testify of that which my eyes have seen, my ears have heard, and of which my soul has been partaker, and to which I can with boldness and confidence bear witness before all people, to be the real work of God, and not the invention of man or woman.

Some time previous to the Roll being written, many signs and forewarnings were given, indicating that God was about to bring to pass a great work among the children of this world, which thing I was confident would shortly take place; but in what way and manner it would be effected, was not then fully made known to me; but I can truly say, when the Roll came forth it corresponded perfectly with my feelings, and my faith was strengthened in the work; and I have no hesitation in saying that it was given by the special revelation of God, through means of his own choosing; and if vain mortals dare to trifle with, and make light of the solemn warnings therein contained, they will in no wise escape the sore displeasure of a justly provoked God, who will, in his own time, recompense every one according to their works.

TESTIMONY OF OLIVE WHEELER.

New Lebanon, N. Y. April 20, 1843.

I feel bound to write a few lines, testifying my full belief in the divine origin of the foregoing Roll, brought by the holy and mighty Angel of God.

On the fifth of February, eighteen hundred forty three, I distinctly heard the mighty Angel, beating, as it were, upon a drum three times. I then saw him enter the room where I was, and make some signs, for which I could not account; he then disappeared.

But after a little while, I looked out of the window, and to my surprise, saw him marching the street, with forty holy Angels. He appeared to me as a man clothed in white, black and red. Another Angel then appeared to me, who was an attendant of the mighty Angel; he passed through the house where I was, and showed forth a multitude of signs which were very singular and strange. All this, I was told, represented the work of God, and the present work of the holy Angel; which was, to warn a lost world to turn from the evil of their doings, and flee from the wrath to come.

And I do solemnly testify and declare to all, who may consider these few lines worth their notice, that the origin of the foregoing Roll is divine, and that it is the word of God, revealed, in his infinite mercy, to mortals on earth. And I will ever stand to the truth of this assertion, while time endureth.

OLIVE WHEELER.

I was born October 21, 1802, and was brought among this people by my father, March, A. D. 1809.

TESTIMONY OF EMILY BABCOCK.

The town of Ashford, County of Windham and state of Connecticut was the place of my nativity; where I was born April 9, 1823. I came into the united society in New Lebanon, November, 1825, where I have resided to the present time; and having received many divine manifestations, which have confirmed my faith in the present work of God among his people, I feel willing to declare the same to all my fellow mortals.

On the Sabbath, the sixth day of October, eighteen hundred forty two, as I came out of the meeting house, after attending solemn worship, I heard the sound of a mighty trumpet, which caused me to raise my eyes to see from whence the sound proceeded; when I beheld an Angel standing on the top of the center dwelling, holding in his right hand a trumpet, and in his left, a Roll or Book.

With his trumpet he sounded aloud, turning to the four quarters of the earth; and it was made known unto me, on my return home from meeting, by that power which is not of mortals, but of the Supreme Being, who is God of all, that a Roll should yet be revealed and spread abroad to all nations of the earth, that they might be forewarned of his judgments, and prepare for the same.

I saw no more of the Angel after that time, until the month of January, eighteen hundred forty three, when I again saw him bearing the Roll in his hand; and he spake unto me in a loud and mighty voice, saying; I am a holy Angel of power, from the throne of my God; and I have come before you at this time, in power and in truth; and I speak unto you of things very few of which ye shall understand now; but the time shall come, when you shall know the meaning of my sayings

Although the meaning of my words are unknown to you now, yet shall they bear with weight on your mind, until I shall see fit to reveal them to you, in a language that you can understand: so remember ye my word and forget it not.

This and this only did I understand at that time.

April fifth, eighteen hundred forty three, an Angel spake unto me, saying; I come, I come again at this time to make known unto you the meaning of the words which I before did speak, which you did not understand. So hearken and hear my word, and write the same; for I have now come to fulfill my promise.

I am the Angel that you, and many more mortals, have seen within a short time; I hold in my right hand a trumpet; and in my left, a Roll. Se to′ re ca′ lo ve′ rin de le′ ri, ere my time has come. For thus saith the Lord your God:

Behold, the time has now fully arrived, when all the inhabitants of earth, different nations, tongues and people, shall hear my indisputable word of truth and justice. Of my all-righteous judgments shall they be warned in due season; and all who strictly obey my warning voice, before it be too late, yea I say, all, every class and order that heed my word in due season, with the same shall it be well, now and hereafter. But those who slight, disregard, mock, scoff or deride my sacred Word, shall not escape my hand of judgment.

I have not thus warned the inhabitants of earth for nought; but that they might know in part, in a very small part, that which awaiteth them, and humble themselves, if they would, and turn to Me their God; for I am truly to be found of those that seek Me in truth, and in the sincerity of their souls.

To those who seek aright, shall it surely be given. The hungry soul will I feed with the bread of Heaven, and to the thirsty soul will I give to drink of the waters of life everlasting and eternal. I am the only true and living God of Heaven and earth; and not one word that I have spoken, or shall hereafter speak, or cause, by my power, to be written, shall ever fall or fail. So beware how, and in what manner ye treat my word, O ye children of men; consider, well consider, and seek to understand these my sayings.

Inspired Witness,

EMILY BABCOCK.

I can now boldly testify and affirm that what I have here stated is the truth, and that I am willing to meet my Maker at any hour. I know that I am nothing but a frail mortal, in the sight of my God; but that which is revealed to me by divine revelation, and the power of an Almighty God, I know to be true.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES X. SMITH.

I was born in Norwich, county of Chenango, state of New York, January twenty sixth, eighteen hundred and six; and was gathered into the United Society in New Lebanon July eighth, eighteen hundred sixteen. And having lived here for twenty seven years, in which time I have been familiar with the work of God, and in a special manner for the last few years, in which the windows of Heaven have been opened and a knowledge of the way and will of God made known to poor lost man, by the gift of divine inspiration and revelation; I feel it a duty I owe to God and my fellow creatures, to bear testimony to that which by the gift of God, I have seen, heard and felt.

In truth, and in the fear of God, I can say, that by the gift of divine revelation, I have seen the lost state of poor fallen man; I have seen that the whole element in which he is born into this world, is opposed to God, and to the spirit of his blessed Son; yea, and I can say by the light of divine inspiration, I have seen, as plain as I ever beheld by the light of the sun, the highways on this earth, that the way revealed by Christ and Mother Ann, is the only way whereby fallen man can find his redemption, and come into a state of purity and holiness, and be true children of the Parents of the New Creation of God.

I have witnessed the revelation of many things past, and things which were to come; many of which have come to pass according to prediction, which could have been revealed by no other power, than that which is able to comprehend all things, both visible and invisible.

And furthermore I believe and testify, that the word of God, as published in this Book, has been written by divine inspiration, and that it is the greatest offer in mercy that has ever been given to man to obtain the favor of a justly provoked God; and it is my firm belief that no soul who will yield obedience to it, will fall short of what has been promised therein; but will see the goodness of God and feel satisfied; while those who despise his offers in mercy, will have to share in his heavy judgments.

I have witnessed the operation of the work of God upon many souls, both upon the faithful and the unfaithful. With the faithful, I have seen the good seed take root and grow, until it brought forth all the heavenly virtues which adorn the true followers of Christ and Mother. While on the other hand, I have seen those who have been blessed with great light and power, yea, and even with the gift of inspiration, yield to the influence of a carnal mind, become unreconciled to the cross of Christ, lose their element in the way of God, and manifest clearly that the spirit of Christ had ceased to strive with them. As a witness for the truth, I do testify that I have no other hope of Eternal Life, only in obedience to this gospel.

JAMES x SMITH.

New Lebanon, N.Y. August 15, 1843.

TESTIMONY OF CHARLES McCARTIE.

I was born September fifth, eighteen hundred twenty one, in the City of New York; And having been a resident in this society for twelve years, I feel it incumbent upon me to assert that my faith is established in the testimony maintained among this people, that it has emanated from God and none else; that in, and among this people, all true prophetic types and figures relative to the latter day of glory, are fulfilled to the satisfaction of every unprejudiced and true seeker after righteousness; that in every jot and tittle, it fully accords with the self-denying gospel taught by Christ and his apostles, which was, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, take up his daily cross and follow me. And again; Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them.

These are two principal articles in the constitution of this society, and two main pillars which uphold this sacred temple, wherein dwell peace and good will towards all men; whereon rests that cloud, the type of which gave light unto the Israelites, while it was the cause of stumbling to the Egyptians; and when viewed from without it was darkness; but within, Moses and Aaron conversed with, and were covered with the glory of God.

It always has been, still is, and ever will be, the leading principle among this people, (notwithstanding the behavior of individuals to the contrary,) to follow peace with all men, and live a life of holiness, to deal justly, love mercy and walk humbly before their God; and if these will not accord with, and prove this to be true religion, then may it be said, that Christ was a grand deceiver, and the Scriptures pointed lies.

I feel confident in testifying my firm and unshaken belief in the divine emanation of the foregoing pages of this Book, believing and knowing it to have had its origin in God alone, and being his most merciful offer of redemption to fallen man; and I do not hesitate to affirm, that all who will take the doctrine herein contained, for their rule of life, and live accordingly, will assuredly find it a guide unto their feet, a lamp in their path, and a staff whereon to lean while sojourning through time. They will see the light of Heaven shining upon their path brighter and brighter, and they will grow more and more into the knowledge and love of godliness.

And they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord; for they shall all know Me, from the least of them unto the greatest, saith the Lord; for I will forgive their iniquities and I will remember their sins no more. And that God which they now view as a wrathful Sovereign, clothed in fury, dispensing judgment and desolation through the land, they will then behold as a kind and tender Shepherd, an affectionate and loving Father, watching over them with an eye of mercy and forbearance, and directing them in his wisdom, and with his arm of Almighty Power providing for their present and eternal happiness and welfare.

Believing, and being confirmed in my belief, that this testimony is the only door of hope, through which every soul must pass, in order to enter the kingdom of Heaven, and meet their God in peace, I earnestly desire that all who have a privilege to read or hear these sacred pages, may consider their weighty importance, and give them the attention they demand.

TESTIMONY OF SALLY MARIA STEWART.

Some time in the month of October, eighteen hundred and forty two, on the Sabbath, after divine worship, as I came out of the meeting house, I heard the sound of a trumpet, which seemed to be in the air. I looked up, and beheld on the north end of the centre house, a Mighty Angel, holding in his right hand a trumpet, and in his left a Roll or Book: and by the spirit of God it was then made known to me, that this Mighty Angel held the word of the Lord in his hand, which would yet be sounded to all nations of the earth. It was also made known to me at this time, who the instrument was, that the Lord had chosen to reveal the words of this Roll to the people.

Many times before this, I had seen this Mighty Angel, and knew him to be the same; and as a witness thereof, I here assert an instance which occurred on the evening of June fifth, eighteen hundred forty one, which I can testify before all people, to be the truth, and was spoken by the same Mighty Angel whom I afterwards saw standing on the centre house.

I was taken from things of time, by the Angel of Almighty power, to the top of a high mountain, where the Angel spake words unto me, as follows:

Hearken and give ear, while I tell you of things that will take place on earth; that when you hear of them, you may know that they are caused by the over-ruling hand of God; for He is about to send heavy judgments upon the inhabitants of this world. Then extending his hand towards the east, he said:

Look thou yonder; there lies a very wicked nation which have long sinned against a just and true God: and He, in his mercy, has borne with their iniquities, and held back his furious wrath; but now saith the Lord, vengeance is mine, and I will repay; yea, my vengeance shall be poured out upon the inhabitants thereof, and they shall know that I am Lord of Heaven and earth. And as the Angel turned with his hand extended, he said:

No quarter of this earth can escape the judgments of a justly provoked God; and many, very many of the inhabitants will be swept off from the face of the earth. Fires, famines, earthquakes and pestilence shall prevail; cities and towns shall sink under the mighty hand of God; yea, He will rule both sea and land, and his righteous judgments will roll, roll on, till all nations are brought low; for all men will yet fear and tremble at the word of my God.

Truly, the abominations of the children of men are great, and the scourge will be mighty. And, saith the Angel, all these things will yet be; yet never fear, but place your trust in God; for those who love and fear the Lord, and keep his commandments, He will protect from harm. And know thou, that none but the humble and meek can escape the judgments of Him who seeth all things; and whose power no mortal hand can stay. The Angel then left me. Inspired Witness,

SALLY MARIA STEWART.

I know I am but a feeble mortal; yet I can testify in truth, that what is contained in this Roll and Book, is the work of an Almighty God, sent forth by his Proclaiming Angel, to the inhabitants of earth; and this do I freely acknowledge, and will to the end of time, to be the work of God, and not of mortals; and this testimony given in the sincerity of my heart, I am willing to meet in the presence of God, the Father of all.

TESTIMONY OF DAVID A. BUCKINGHAM.

Thus saith one who has wholly devoted and consecrated himself, soul and body, time and talents to the service of his Creator God; whose eyes have seen, and whose ears have heard the wonderful things of God, and the great display of the Almighty, in this day of Christ's Second Coming; and whose soul has tasted of the holy things of Heaven, and the powers of the world to come;

Being a firm believer in the revelation of God, and the gift of divine inspiration, by which the Prophets of old, and the Apostles of Jesus Christ, were enabled to declare and to write the words of the Almighty, revealed in their day; even so do I firmly believe that, in this day of Christ's second appearing, the Heavenly Father in his never-ending mercy, has called forth Prophets and chosen Instruments, to proclaim his holy word and will to the inhabitants of earth. And I hesitate not to declare, that I have full faith and confidence in the substance of the foregoing pages of the Sacred Roll and Book, believing it to be the holy word of God, and written in a true gift of divine inspiration.

It has ever been the will and pleasure of the Almighty, through every age and dispensation of his grace to the lost children of men, to send forth his holy word of solemn warning, showing them their lost state and condition, and the dangerous situation they were in; giving them suitable time to repent in low humility of soul, that all who would, might escape the fury of his wrath. And it has ever been so, that the only true light and knowledge of Heaven, made known to the children of men, have been by and through the revelation of God, in such ways and means, and through such individuals, as He was pleased to appoint and anoint with his holy power, for the accomplishment of the same.

Why then should it appear incredible to any rational, candid and well informed mind, that the great Author of our existence, in his mercy, condescension and loving kindness, should, in this enlightened age of the world, again make a display of his mighty power, his love and infinite wisdom? and by the gift of divine Revelation and Inspiration, declare to the nations of the earth, the speedy fulfillment of the ancient predictions and prophecies, concerning the great day of his oming, wherein should be displayed the fullness of his glory?

Even as in ages that are past, so doth He now send forth his holy word of solemn warning to the inhabitants of earth, of the near approach of his rolling judgments which are already going forth through the land, that all who will, may turn from the evil of their doings, and in low humility of spirit, seek his mercy before it be too late. In this is clearly manifested the great wisdom, love and condescension of the Almighty to the lost children of men, in giving them a foreknowledge and timely warning of that which will shortly come to pass; that those who are willing to hearken to his word and keep his commands, may escape the fury of his wrath, and the vengeance of his hand.

Having full faith in the present great manifestation of God, and the gifts of divine revelation and inspiration existing in his holy Church on earth, I have not the least shadow of a doubt of the truth and reality of the foregoing pages, and of the divine authority by which they were written. And having been an eye witness of the manifestations of divine power attending the reading of the Sacred Roll, before a large assembly, after it was written by mortal hand, is sufficient evidence to me, (had I no other,) of the purity of its composition and divine origin, and of the supreme authority in which it is sent forth to the nations of the earth.

And even more than this, I have an indisputable knowledge in my own soul, of the holy spirit and power in which the Sacred Roll is given; and by which power, I can safely declare it to be the holy word of God, sent forth to the inhabitants of earth, to warn them of their danger, and give them timely notice of the displeasure of the Almighty in beholding the wickedness of the world.

Therefore, in the solemn fear of God, and in the sincerity of my soul, I write this testimony of my faith and feelings concerning the Sacred Roll and Book, in evidence thereof, for the benefit of my fellow beings, as being the greatest act of benevolence I am capable of bestowing. And having now passed the fortieth year of my age, and arriven to that point of life, in which man possesses the full powers and faculties of his mind; and also, having had a lengthy experience of twenty four years among these peculiar people, to become acquainted with their true life and character, I hope the reader will not consider me under a mask of deception concerning my religious belief, or that I am duped and influenced by others, to act contrary to what I consider to be right and just, in the performance of my duty either to God or man.

TESTIMONY OF WILLARD ALLEN.

On the eighth, ninth and tenth of April, one thousand eight hundred and forty two, there appeared unto me an Angel, having in his possession a Roll and Book, like unto one I heard read, on the ninth and eleventh of April, one thousand eight hundred and forty three.

The above Roll was unsealed in my presence, and the Angel read to me from it, on each day of his visit, from different sections, four different sentences; making in all, twelve.

The Angel then informed me, that this Roll and Book was to be written by mortal hand, and circulated for the general benefit of mankind. But the name of the one who should pen these things, and bring them to the sight and understanding of man, and the time of its accomplishment, was then concealed from my knowledge.

But in the reading of the foregoing Roll and Book, I recognized and knew the twelve sentences referred to above, as being the same, verbatim, as those read to me by the Angel a year before. And further, I also knew that the same Angel who read to me at that time, was in attendance on the reading of the foregoing Roll and Book, on the ninth and eleventh instant. And he there and then informed me, these were correct copies of those he had previously shown me.

I, the writer of the foregoing communication, was born April tenth, one thousand eight hundred and eight; and have spent seventeen years in obedience to my present faith and calling.

TESTIMONY OF JUSTICE HARWOOD.

As my belief is firm and unshaken in the powerful and mighty display of the work of God that has been showered upon his people for several years past, I feel it a duty to bear witness to the same.

I was born in Cummington, county of Berkshire and state of Massachusetts; August twentieth, seventeen hundred eighty nine; and was gathered into the United Society at Watervliet, in the year one thousand eight hundred and two.

I have been a close observer of the late strange and powerful work of God among his people, from the beginning; and have many times been overshadowed with the irresistible and mighty power of God, which I could not withstand, but by the influence of which I had to move as the spirit directed, which was convincing to me, beyond a doubt, that it was the mighty power of God; that power which no man or woman can counterfeit.

I further testify, that I firmly believe the foregoing Roll and Book contains the word of Almighty God, sent by his holy Angel, and by him revealed to an instrument of mortal clay; and that the instrument who was called by the holy Angel to perform this sacred duty, has written it as the Angel read to him, and is the word of Almighty God to fallen man; that word which will stand when all human inventions shall fall. And as a friend and well-wisher to all mankind, I would advise them to be careful how they treat this solemn warning from their Heavenly Father, and not speak evil of that which they do not understand. But read the Book candidly, without any prejudice, and consider its weighty truths, as the invention of neither man or woman, but the word of a holy God, which will meet every soul in mercy or in judgment.

Watervliet, N. Y. August 24, 1843. JUSTICE HARWOOD.

TESTIMONY OF PAULINA BATES.

In the commencement of this late manifestation, I became exceedingly desirous to have a part in the gifts of God, either by vision or revelation, or in whatever manner the Lord might see fit to notice me. Not that I had any doubt of its correctness, but for my own satisfaction and comfort I desired to know these things by experience.

But my fervent prayers and cries to God seemed for a time all of no effect; it appeared as though the Heavens were shut against me in this respect. I many times promised the Lord, upon my bended knees, that I would be true to the least gift of his spirit, which He might see fit to give me. And in process of time, the Lord in his wisdom saw fit to call me forth by his mighty power, to write, and also to speak his holy and eternal word, which He purposed to reveal to the children of his Zion upon the earth, by the mouth of his holy Angels, which He often sent from time to time, with the sacred volumes thereof.

These things I do know, and can bear witness to with confidence, before all men, even should I know that my natural life would become a sacrifice in consequence. Yea, rather than deny the same, or in the least flinch, by the fear of man, or forbear to declare my full confidence in the present work of God, both as an individual and as an inspired instrument, who has seen, handled and tasted the good things of God, and knows beyond a doubt that God is the Author of the same, I would cheerfully face death in any form.

But for all I have been called to speak or write of the word of God, sounded forth by his holy Angels and ministering spirits in this great display of his power, I stand ready to answer to God, knowing of myself I could do nothing; but by the power and gift of God have I been able to write and speak many things, in his holy name, that I, myself, was as ignorant of as a child unborn.

Many, very many proofs and confirmations have I had to confirm me, beyond a doubt, concerning that divine origin from whence these precious gifts and communications have been given; and I boldly say, and bear witness that I know them to be of God. And although wicked man, influenced by the father of all wickedness, should rise up and seek to destroy the work of God, and the power of his last manifestation to his people; and also his word which He has given in mercy to the children of men, yet he can never overthrow that which God hath so firmly established by his own mighty power and strength.

Although the way and means which God hath laid out for the redemption of all souls, may seem small and self-degrading, yet all will find, sooner or later, that sufficient therein is given to undermine and beat in pieces every false creed and form, and make, of those who call upon the name of the Lord for salvation, one people, of one heart and mind, seeing eye to eye, having one faith, one Lord and one baptism; which is the baptism of fire and the Holy Spirit that worketh the purification of the heart.

I have written the foregoing with my own hand, but not in my own strength; which word I am not afraid to meet both in Heaven and on earth; either before the Angels of God or the wicked inhabitants of earth. My soul stands undaunted, and with boldness do I place my name and testimony as a witness to the present manifestation of the revelation of God, to his called and chosen people; as being one who has been called to be a partaker, not only an eye or ear witness, but as one of the chosen instruments which God hath called, whereby to bring about his purposes. And thus is my word and my witness closed.

TESTIMONY OF JOSEPH WICKER.

About nine o'clock this evening, (April 20, 1843,) while engaged in prayer and supplication to God, I received a small Roll; and it was said to me, This is the word of the Lord. After receiving it, I returned it to the Angel who brought it, and I was required to write, while he read as follows:

Thus saith the Lord who upholdeth the righteous, and saith to Zion, Receive my word that I now send unto thee. My word is truth, and it shall not return unto Me void; but the word I have spoken, I will surely perform; and I will empty out the wicked, who despise judgment and scoff at my holy givings.

In mercy have I now sent forth my word anew unto the inhabitants of the earth; and I have again set life and death before them, teaching them plainly, what I require of the souls I have created, and warning them of the judgments which shall shortly pass through the earth, and enter the habitations of the sons and daughters of pride, who have chosen the paths of iniquity and the seal of destruction.

Lo, from my Holy Mount, from the centre of the Zion of my likeness on earth, have I caused this my word to go forth; and in truth and faithfulness have I caused it to be plainly written, that all who desire it, may clearly understand how to find my mercy and forgiveness.

O ye inhabitants of the earth, is it a strange thing, that I am able now, as in days of old, to make known my word unto you, through the means of my own choosing? Is my power diminished, so that I cannot reveal my word to souls who dwell in tabernacles of clay? Who hath taken from Me, or who hath removed my attributes? Will ye set bounds for Me, that I cannot pass, or determine what things I shall not do? When did I ever teach you that I would never again speak unto the sons of men?

If ye would be wise, receive my testimonies which I have revealed in this day of my favor and kindness unto sinful man, and reject not my laws.

Inspired Witness,

JOSEPH WICKER.

Strange as the contents of the foregoing pages may appear to the natural man, I feel no hesitation to declare my faith in the truth of the doctrines, warnings, invitations and instructions, set forth and inculcated in them; and that they are of divine origin, and eminently calculated to produce peace and happiness in all who observe and keep them.

I was born in the town and county of Bennington, state of Vermont, March 23, 1790; was gathered into the Society in April, 1806.

TESTIMONY OF JOSEPH PATTEN.

Feeling it a duty I owe to mankind, I thankfully bear witness to the truth and reality of the many wonderful manifestations of divine power which I have seen among the children of Zion.

As God did in the primitive church, so has He in these days, blessed his people with heavenly givings. Many are inspired to speak and write his word, to prophesy the things that come to pass, to speak in unknown tongues, to interpret what is so spoken, to discern spirits; and many other spiritual gifts.

Having received some of these divine gifts, I can say in the language of a holy apostle, What man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? Even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the spirit of God. Now we have received not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given us of God. Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual.

Having these lights before me, I feel no hesitation in declaring my entire conviction that the foregoing Roll and Book is true; that it has been produced by the divine spirit of inspiration, as much as those written by the ancient prophets, and other inspired servants of God.

The Lord our God has no where declared, in the record of his word, that He never would again bless his creatures with a further revelation of his will; but the scriptures teach us there is to be a revelation of the righteous judgment of God. And I feel the witness in my soul, that God has, in this latter day, revealed his will in divers ways, and concerning many things; and that his impending judgments will fall upon those who willfully disobey his commands, and refuse to repent of their transgressions.

My counsel to all is, Let truth have its perfect effect in your hearts; condemn not through prejudice, nor judge under the influence of envy; and let all conscientiously live according to the best light they have.

TESTIMONY OF MARTHA VAN VALEN.

On Saturday evening, December seventeenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty two, while in meeting, I saw a very powerful Angel enter the east side of the room, clothed in shining brightness. His appearance filled my soul with godly fear. He said to me, I am the Angel of Eternal Truth. Look thou! behold this Roll, which shall be written in my time. I looked and saw a very lengthy Roll held before me, and it was sealed with many seals.

The Angel broke the first seal, and commenced unrolling it. He unrolled a part, and then came to another seal. In this manner he continued unrolling and breaking the seals, until it was all unrolled. And by the space it covered in the room, it must have been about twenty feet long, and several feet wide. I saw it was covered with writing, but could not read one word of it.

Sabbath morning, December eighteenth, while in our morning meeting, I saw the same Angel with the same Roll; and he held it before me. At this time a very solemn feeling came over me, accompanied with a weight of tribulation. There was also another spirit standing by me; and I said, What does this mean? Is this for me to read? Nay, said the spirit, it is not for you to read; but it is the eternal word of God, and will be written and sent to all nations of the earth. You will yet know this to be true.

The Angel with the Roll now left the room, and I looked to see where he went; and saw him go towards New Lebanon. My impression then was, that the Roll would be written there, and sent forth as I had been told. This I mentioned to some of the family at the time.

The next day I saw the Roll again, and the Angel that unrolled and unsealed it as before. I did not count the number of the seals, neither did I know their meaning.

Tuesday afternoon, April fourth, one thousand eight hundred and forty three, a mighty Angel appeared to me. He first told his name, Ha la vac′ tha na′; and then said, O thou little one, bow before me.

The appearance of this mighty Angel was majestic and solemn. When he spake, his voice caused me to tremble with godly fear and reverence. After a pause, he said; Bow down thou mortal instrument, bow low, low, even to the dust of the earth, if thou wilt become a witness to the truth of the holy word of God, which in his wisdom He hath seen fit to cause to be written. Yea, the word of your Eternal Parents hath been revealed by a mighty and powerful Angel; and written by mortal hand at New Lebanon, the Mount of God.

O ye witnesses of the eternal word which is about to be sent forth to the different nations of the earth, through the mercy, power and wisdom of God, have ye not felt the solemn and awful weight of the word and work which have been revealed in the Zion of God upon earth? Can you not testify, in truth, that the Lord God hath declared, through his ministering Angels, that the fire of his Almighty truth should be spread through earth's remotest bounds? Yea, to this, and to more can ye bear witness.

Hark, hear the awful sound; Woe! woe! woe! awful woes are pronounced upon the inhabitants of the earth. A sign shall be given in the east. Terrible and mighty is the army that shall be sent to and fro in the earth, with vials filled with the wrath of God, to pour upon the proud, the high, the unjust, the unmerciful, the filthy worker, and those who regard not the laws of God or man.

All those who will trifle with, or in any way abuse, destroy or cause to be destroyed, the sacred words of truth written and sent forth to all the nations of the earth, by the command of the great Jehovah, better, far better would it be for them, if they had never been born. For, saith the Eternal God, I will meet those that do this thing, with heavy judgments. My words to them shall be like the roarings of mighty thunders; and no forgiveness shall they find, but through heavy sufferings. So take warning and be careful, O ye children of earth, how you treat that which you do not understand.

To all who are called to witness to this, the word of your God, know ye, there will disputers and cavilers arise, but fear them not; for what is written is the word of your God, and all the powers of darkness will never be able to destroy the truth thereof; but it will stand to the endless ages of eternity.

Inspired Witness,

MARTHA VAN VALEN.

As a witness, I boldly and firmly declare to all mankind, that what is here written is no fiction, but is the everlasting truth. It is simply what I saw and heard.

I was born in Fishkill, Duchess county, state of New York, May first, eighteen hundred and four; came here to live, April, eighteen hundred and thirty three.

Hancock, Mass. April 4, 1843. MARTHA VAN VALEN.

TESTIMONY OF JUDITH W. COLLINS.

On the twenty seventh day of April, eighteen hundred and forty two, feeling my soul filled with deep and heavy tribulation, I withdrew to a place of retirement, and there in secret did I humble myself; yea, in low humiliation did I pray with a fervent spirit to my Heavenly Parents, to enable me to know and to do their will. While in this labor of mind, I beheld a large Book lying on a table in the room; and was told to open it. I did so, but could read very little. I looked along in the Book, until I came to the three hundred and twelfth page.

April fourth, eighteen hundred and forty three, I retired to my room to meditate upon the solemn work of God. Many words came fresh to my mind, that I had been compelled by the power of God to speak concerning the judgments that would surely take place in the earth. While I was seriously and solemnly reflecting upon these things, the holy Angel of the Lord entered the room, and spake as follows:

Child of mortality, know thou that the work of God is a swift work, and it requires souls to be alive. Understand thou, for I have come to summon thee for a witness; therefore write thou thy name, that it may be recorded in the sacred Roll which God thy Heavenly Father hath purposed to send forth to the inhabitants of the earth.

I answered, O holy Angel, this will I freely do; for surely I have received from thee many precious and heavenly treasures. Yea, thou hast caused my mortal frame to tremble with holy power, and in the power of my God doth my soul live and rejoice. Should mortals rise against the truth declared unto them in this great manifestation of the Lord Almighty, and seek to destroy the lives of his chosen and living witnesses, I as a witness will support the truth of this written Word, to the laying down of my life. For I know it to be the word of God, sent forth according to his will, as a light to lead souls out of darkness, and cause them to seek salvation.

Then said the mighty Angel of the Lord, I now say unto you, O ye children of men, be careful and handle the word of God, which He has sent in mercy unto you, with fear and reverence. Remember this my word unto you. As you treat this word of God, so God will treat you. His eye will be upon you, and heavy judgments will He cause to fall upon the soul that dares to put forth a hand to destroy his holy word. The work of God is now going on; haste ye, and be ready. For He hath sent forth holy Prophets, to prophesy and make known the things which are to come.

Before this interview with the Angel, the Prophet Daniel wrote as follows: Great destruction shall go through the land; cities will be destroyed, with the inhabitants thereof. Many will be cut off in the prime of their days; fathers and mothers shall mourn for the untimely loss of their children, and children shall mourn for the loss of their parents.

Yea, saith the Eternal God, I will cause mighty storms to arise, and destroy many from off the earth. For I am He who gave creation birth; and in my own time will I sweep the earth with the besom of destruction. Think not, when earthquakes shake the earth from pole to pole, and droughts, wind and hail, destroy rich loaded fields of vegetation, that it is a natural consequence; but know ye, O ye inhabitants of earth, it is the work of your God. For many and great are your sins and transgressions; and if ye expect to find mercy and escape the heavy judgments of God, bow low and put away your sins, according to the word sent unto you, and you will find mercy and the salvation of your never-dying souls.

Inspired Witness,

JUDITH W. COLLINS.

I, as a witness, firmly and boldly declare to the world of mankind, that Christ hath appeared the second time without sin unto salvation; and that I have a part in this work, and have tasted the powers of the world to come; and for this I do bow low in thankfulness to my Heavenly Parents. And I fear not what man can do, for God is able to bring to pass all things according to his own mind and will.

TESTIMONY OF AVERILL HASKELL.

In the summer of eighteen hundred and forty two, while in deep and heavy tribulation, I frequently conversed with Angels and spirits. I often thought on the trials of the Savior, who suffered even unto death, to lay the foundation for the redemption of fallen man; I also thought how much Mother Ann and her faithful companions suffered in the cause of Christ. And I sometimes put the question to my own soul, Were some in this day, publicly to declare what they have both seen and heard, in gifts of vision, inspiration and revelation, would they not be exposed to a similar fate?

I often bowed my spirit in fervent supplication to my Heavenly Father, that He would, in mercy to the lost children of men, cause the mighty trumpet of his word to be sounded through and through the earth; and that a preparatory work might awaken the people to a sense of their loss from God.

On the evening of the eighth of June, eighteen hundred and forty two, while contemplating on the heavenly and divine blessings I was daily enjoying, through the loving kindness of God in opening the way of salvation, and calling me by the everlasting gospel, to be a member of the Church of Christ, while there were millions who knew not what God was about to accomplish on the earth; there appeared around me a light, and I heard a voice calling unto me, Thou chosen instrument, be ready; have your lamp trimmed and burning; for the Lord is about to visit the inhabitants of the earth.

I saw in the light, an Angel of God, and many unbodied spirits whom I knew, clothed with brightness, having a large and beautiful box. I asked for what purpose they had brought the box. They answered; That you may be a witness; and added, that the box was sent some time previous, by Holy Wisdom, to the Holy Anointed in the Church at New Lebanon; and that it had been seen in other places.

I was much pleased with the box; and asked what it contained. They answered; The word and seal of the Living God, and Holy Wisdom. The Angel then took from it a trumpet; he also took a Book, and opened it. It appeared like a book of considerable size, printed with ink and types. I read on the cover as follows:

"The Three Witnesses."
"Testimonies of Christ's second appearing."
"All flesh shall see the salvation of God."
"1843."

My heart flowed with thankfulness to my Eternal Parents, that they were about to send and make known their word and will for the salvation of the lost children of men. I did not take the Book; The angel said, We shall carry it to New Lebanon, and it will be written there, by some one, through the gift of inspiration.

With the most earnest feelings of my soul I entreated the Angel and spirits then present, to return there, and cause the book to be seen by the anointed instruments. Father James answering, said, It shall be seen there, and in other societies of Believers. And it shall be sent abroad, even to the ends of the earth: for it beareth the seal of the living God.

The Angel then sounded his mighty trumpet; the sound thereof was long and loud; and it seemed that it shook the whole earth, which appeared shrouded in gloom, and in many places thick darkness.

And I saw people thereon, walking to and fro, mourning and weeping; while thousands looked towards Zion with uplifted hands, crying, Lord show us the way. And I heard a voice from on high, saying, Fear ye your God, and tremble at his word, all ye people; for the Lord hath descended with a Book of his mercy and judgment, for all the lost sons and daughters of Adam.

The next day I endeavored to ascertain more fully what was meant by showing me this Book; and I received the following answer from Father James Whittaker.

The Book you saw, is the doctrine of the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, sent from God, to be revealed through his chosen instrument at New Lebanon, for all mankind, who are yet in their sins, bound by the spirit of evil, superstition and bigotry.

Many will believe the gospel, and will humble themselves under the mighty power of God. The people will quake; the earth will be shaken from the foundation; and the leaves of every tree will quiver.

Inspired Witness,

Averill Haskell.

I can solemnly testify, that the above is a true statement of what I heard and saw at the aforementioned date; and I am willing, if called upon, to bear witness to the truth of the same before all mortals, and also before my everlasting Judge in eternity.

TESTIMONY OF JEFFERSON WHITE.

On the ninth day of April, eighteen hundred forty three, while in deep tribulation, a holy Angel brought me a spiritual roll, at about eight o'clock A. M. This Angel was accompanied by several spirits and other Angels.

The Angel who brought the roll said he was the same Angel that brought the Book; that is, the word of the Lord, and showed it to Averill Haskell last June; and stated, that on the twenty fifth of February last, at three o'clock A. M. he showed me the same Book; which is to go to all nations, kindreds, tongues and people.

I recollect a Book was shown to me at that time; and the word from the Angel to me then was, that the time would come when it would be published to all nations, kindreds, tongues and people, and that the Angels of the Lord had gone forth, to sound aloud to the nations of the earth, to prepare them to receive the word of the Lord, which in his own time would be published to them.

The same holy Angel this day, testified to the truth of the Book, and so did the Angels and spirits that were with him. The holy Angel said he was sent here by his Heavenly Father, to have the seals affixed to the Book, from those who were by the Father selected in this branch of Zion, for that purpose; that they might be witnesses to all mankind of the truth of his word.

The holy Angel read the contents of the roll, which was a seal of the living God. I had a plain view of the words on the roll, and was satisfied that he read as it was written. I commenced writing at about half past eight o'clock A. M. and finished a few minutes before ten o'clock.

He read to me as follows;

Thus saith the All-wise Creator: I have in my wisdom purposed to send forth to all nations, kindreds, tongues and people, my word. And whoever will hearken thereto, will be saved from the judgments which will surely overtake those who reject this friendly call. For in mercy to the lost children of men, do I cause this my word, which is written in a Book and sealed with many living seals, to go to all nations; and wise will that soul be who accepts the offer of mercy so generously proffered.

But those who reject and rebel against the truth of God, which will be made known through the Book which I will cause to be published unto them, will have to drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which will be poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation.

This solemn warning I now give to all who are yet in their sins: Come out and be ye separate, and touch no more the unclean thing: and ye shall be my people and I will be your God: yea, ye shall be kings and priests unto Me, saith the Holy One of Israel, if ye will forsake your abominations, now while the call is unto you.

Therefore, be wise and hearken to my word, which will be sounded in your ears; for lo, my holy Angels have gone abroad, to sound aloud the gospel trumpet, to awaken sinners, that they may repent before it is too late.

I therefore warn all to consider well of their doings, and to read my word which I send unto them in mercy; for therein you will find clearly pointed out to you, the pathway of your duty. You will find therein written, that none will be owned of Me their God, except those who live up to my requirement as it is sent forth unto them. Such souls I will own; and it will be the delight of Holy Mother Wisdom to own and bless all who are true and faithful.

My word to all nations is: Forsake the evil of your doings; come out from your filthy abominations, and walk the lowly path laid out by the blessed Savior: in so doing you will find rest to your souls. But if any are so unwise as to reject the call of God to them, and say in their hearts it is not the word of God, it is the word of man, why should I fear it; I will cause that soul to know that the word I proclaim to all mankind, is not man or woman's word, but the word of the living God.

I have seals or witnesses to my word in every part of my Zion on earth, who know in truth and verity, that the word I send forth to all nations in my name, is the truth of the living God.

Inspired Writer,

JEFFERSON WHITE.

I can say in the sincerity of my heart, that the foregoing seal is the truth of the living God, made manifest to me. And rather than deny it I would part with all that I hold dear on earth, not even excepting my natural life; fearing not man, but fearing God, who knows the secret intents of the heart.

TESTIMONY OF MEDAD SMITH Jr.

Having had an opportunity to hear the foregoing Roll and Book, and having been blessed with a portion of the divine spirit, and received many precious gifts from the Father of light, in the late out-pouring of his spirit, I feel able to add my testimony, that the said Roll and Book is what it purports to be, the word of God given by divine inspiration.

Should any deem it strange that God should make a further revelation of his will to the inhabitants of earth, let them reflect that, Jehovah has promised to do his work, his strange work; and bring to pass his act, his strange act. In the latter day ye shall consider it.

If others would know whether this word is of God, let them prove it by living a life answerable to its requirements. If they feel that they cannot come up to the example set by Jesus of Nazareth, let them strictly keep the order of nature, and be an honor to their Creator in that order: but condemn not the word of the Lord; for such, indeed, is the foregoing Roll and Book.

The power of evil may blind creatures, and they may be left to treat the greatest mercies of God with scorn and contempt, trusting in a form of godliness, but not possessing the power of an endless life; and thus sin away their day and fall in darkness. It is highly important that souls should judge correctly of all things pertaining to salvation, lest they fail of securing an inheritance in the kingdom of God. But know ye, "The word of our God shall stand forever."

TESTIMONY OF PHEBE WILLCOX.

On the seventh day of April, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and forty three, I received the following message by a Holy Angel.

Thus saith the Lord, For many hundred years, sin and wickedness have daily increased, until the earth groaneth beneath her burden, and calleth aloud unto Me for deliverance. And though I have many times swept thousands from this earthly ball, in a moment, for their wickedness, and for a warning to others, yet the sinner forsaketh not the paths of destruction; but goeth on day after day, in sin and wickedness, with a lie upon his tongue, and blasphemy upon his lips.

O vain mortals! do you consider there is a God who seeth in secret, as well as openly? and that your works of iniquity, that ye seek to hide from mortals, are known to Me, with every thought, word and action; and that surely as your works have been, so shall your reward be, when you are called to stand before my bar of judgment?

O ye inhabitants of earth, fear and tremble beneath my Almighty hand; for lo, I will visit the earth and the dwellers thereon, with justice: the transgressor that will not repent, shall surely feel my sore displeasure, and the persecutor of my people I will banish from my presence; for no flesh can prevail against Me.

But the soul that heeds my words of warning, and calls upon my name when I am near, who is willing to forsake all that is of this world, and walk the strait and narrow path of self-denial and the cross, which in my wisdom is laid out for the restoration of all souls, I will be his God and Protector, when in my wrath the reproacher of my word shall be smitten: I will stretch forth my hand, and bless the righteous who regard my just requirements.

My Book of warnings I send forth in plainness; and my unchangeable word therein contained, standeth sure forever. In my wisdom, which no man can comprehend, it was given; and in my holy fear it was written.

Inspired Witness,

PHEBE WILLCOX.

I, the witness who received the above message, do here state with all boldness and confidence, that it is the truth of God revealed to me, by or through a mighty Angel of the Lord.

And I furthermore say, I fear not to meet this testimony when called to stand before the holy and eternal Judge of Heaven and earth.

And further, I feel it my duty to bear witness to the truth, which the Eternal Father, in his boundless mercy, has seen fit to send forth to the children of men; that every one may know his Master's will, and gain their relation to their God, which was lost by transgression.

TESTIMONY OF CALVIN J. PARKER.

I was born in Lenox, Berkshire county, state of Massachusetts, April sixteenth, seventeen hundred and ninety nine; came to live in the United Society at Tyringham, in the year eighteen hundred and twenty two; and as I am a well wisher to mankind, and desire they may enjoy peace, happiness and salvation, and feeling a deep interest in the offered mercies of God intended to secure these great blessings, I feel disposed to add my mite in confirmation of the truth of the foregoing Roll and Book.

I am aware that falsehood and deceit have had their influence upon the world of mankind, and that in nothing have these degrading vices been more successfully practiced, than in what is called religion; and that honest souls have often been deceived by interested hypocrites. Yet truth is immaculate, and will ultimately prevail.

Through the mercy of God, I have had a knowledge of his true work for several years. And in the late out-pouring of his holy spirit, I have not only heard and seen many wonderful things wrought by his divine power, but have been a happy sharer of many precious blessings, among which is the gift of inspiration; whereby I have been enabled to speak and write of the lovely things of God.

I have full confidence in the truth of the foregoing Roll and Book, fully believing it to be the true word of God, written by the inspiration of his holy spirit. And as such, I sincerely recommend it to all who may have an opportunity to read it, or hear it read.

I advise all to read with attention, and judge with candor. Let not prejudice blind you, nor the love of any idol cause you to evade the convictions of your souls; lest you become enemies to God, and find yourselves fighting against your greatest blessings.

TESTIMONY OF ELIZA L. CHAPIN.

On the evening of the first of September, eighteen hundred forty two, while engaged in the worship of God, my eyes were opened to spiritual discernment; and I beheld a very mighty, holy and powerful Angel, whose brightness was like that of the sun at its meridian height, bearing in his right hand a Book; having something written in his forehead, in letters which appeared to me like fire; but being in an unknown tongue, I knew not what it was. He said nothing; but the appearance of so holy a being struck me with solemn fear and reverence.

April sixth, eighteen hundred and forty three, at the fifth hour P. M., I heard a voice speak unto me, saying; O thou little one, I say unto thee, Bow low in silent prayer to thy Holy and Eternal Father. Eat not bread and drink not water, until I, the holy Angel of the Lord, shall cause thee to copy my word with thy mortal hand.

At the seventh hour, I heard the voice speak again and say; Haste ye now and write my word, or the word that shall be given thee.

Words of the Angel to the Inspired Writer.

I am the holy Angel of the Lord that thou didst see, bearing in my hand a Book; and in the Book was written the Roll, containing the word of the Lord God of Heaven and earth. And this Roll has been correctly copied by mortal hand.

Words of the Angel to the inhabitants of the earth.

O ye inhabitants of earth, ye sons and daughters of the children of men, hearken now to the warning voice of the Lord your God; for He hath sounded, and still loudly soundeth his holy Se vac′la ma′ca lan in the ears of many. His word, though strange, is heavy with his wisdom and holy power; fear ye and tremble before it. Let the sound thereof sink deep in your hearts; for the words of the Holy Father will forever stand, and the foundation laid by the two Anointed Ones will never be overthrown. Though their faithful children should be persecuted, even unto death, for the holy faith which they maintain, yet the stone cut out of the mountain, shall grow and flourish, saith the Holy Angel of the Lord.

The gifts and manifestations from those who are in eternity, to those who dwell on earth, and the mighty out-pourings of the spirit of the Most High God to mortals, I have been an eye and ear witness to, and a partaker of, for the last five years; and as a witness, I am willing and thankful to be accounted worthy to stand forth and declare this to be the truth, yea, the plain and simple truth. And to this do I affix my name, being willing to seal the same with my blood if called so to do.

TESTIMONY OF ROLLIN CRAMER.

On the twenty second of March, eighteen hundred forty three, between the hours of eight and nine, afternoon, I saw a mighty Angel place upon the floor of our dwelling house a large Book, which had the appearance of bright gold, with the following words written on the outside, 'The Lord Jehovah.' The book was not open, nor sealed; but appeared to be fastened together with a clasp.

The Angel bade me take it up, and he would direct me what to do with it. I did not feel willing to receive it at that time; but was under great fear, so that my flesh trembled on my bones, while I stood in the presence of the holy Angel.

I made known what I had seen, to one of the Leaders of the society; and he requested me to receive the Book, which I accordingly did on the following day: but received no information concerning it at that time, only a promise, that it should be made known in due season. And a short time after, I received information that the Book was to be written at New Lebanon; but nothing more was said about it at that time; and I thought much upon what I had heard concerning it.

April twenty sixth, I again saw the holy Angel with the Book open; and he spoke to me these words; Thus saith the Lord, Within the lids of this Book, shall my people place their names, when I in my wisdom shall think proper.

May fourteenth, I was called upon to write for the holy Angel, as follows: Bow low your spirit, O thou worm of the dust, and solemnly draft the words I shall read unto you at this time; for unto you am I sent to read the word of the Lord.

I, the Lord, have purposed, and in my own time will I bring to pass my decree. I lay my own plans; and no mortal power is able to frustrate, or overthrow my righteous law.

I have determined to visit the nations of the earth, with my sacred and eternal law, in this, my Holy Book; setting before them the order of nature, and my holy order of grace; and leaving them to choose either, and receive according to their choice.

For thus saith the Lord, My law of nature shall no longer be trodden under foot, by a filthy and polluted world, in the manner it has been for so many thousand years, and mankind go unpunished for the same.

Nay, I declare, saith the Lord of hosts, that I will visit the nations of the earth with my judgments severe, unless they come up to this my sacred word; for these are my solemn and weighty truths. And I have sent my holy Angel to testify these things to a mortal being, that he may be a witness for Me, that the foregoing is my sacred word.

The holy Angel then spake to me saying; will you boldly testify in the presence of your God, and witness for Him, in behalf of the foregoing, should you be brought before a gain-saying world, and you expected to have your life taken for the same?

Will you stand for this my sacred word, if you should see the flame of fire kindled to receive your mortal body for so doing? And will you proclaim this my holy word, to the nations of the earth, though you should be thrown to the wild beasts to be devoured by them for so doing? I answered, I feel no hesitation to testify to the truth of the foregoing, and stand as a witness for the same to the laying down of my life.

TESTIMONY OF ENOS LEONARD.

On the fourteenth of September, eighteen hundred forty two, at half past eleven o'clock in the forenoon, I was suddenly stopped by a mighty Angel, and remained insensible for a short time.

I looked up and saw the Angel standing before me, and in his hand he held a Roll and Book, which appeared to be as large as a common sized New Testament.

It was sealed, and the Angel opened the seals and Book, and said; This Book shall be laid before an instrument of mortal clay, and the instrument shall write therefrom until all be correctly written. The Angel then sealed the Book and disappeared.

TESTIMONY OF SETH BLANCHARD.

I was born in Petersham, county of Worcester and state of Massachusetts, October twenty first, seventeen hundred and eighty four. In the year eighteen hundred and thirteen, I received faith in the testimony of Christ's second appearance in Mother Ann Lee; and feeling that my soul's salvation depended upon my yielding obedience to that faith, I united myself to the society of Believers in Harvard, and with them have traveled in the work of purification and redemption to the present time.

Through this period, I have been a witness of many wonderful operations of the spirit and power of God among his people, and more especially within a few years. In this time I have seen, heard and felt that which has convinced me beyond the possibility of a doubt, that God our Heavenly Father, Holy Mother Wisdom, and many of the heavenly host, have descended from Heaven to earth, and made known their will through instruments of mortal clay. Of the reality of this I have no more doubt than I have of my own existence. We have found by experience, that the Lord is able to cause his creatures to know for a certainty, the operations of his power and the reality of his work. And when any soul has received this certain revelation, there is no opposite power that can destroy it, however foolish or inconsistent his faith may appear in the eyes of unbelievers.

I rejoice that I have received this faith, and now testify my confidence that the Word, which is now going forth to the children of men, is indeed the voice of their Almighty Father. And O! that they might be wise and accept of his tender mercy; for verily, they with us, will be accountable to Him, for the use they make of his Sacred Word.

And it is my fervent prayer that I may ever honor it in word and works; for should we, who have shared so freely in his loving kindness, deny or dishonor his holy word, it would be less tolerable for us in this great and final judgment that we are called into, than for any others; but this I will never do, for by the grace of God his word and law shall ever be my delight and pleasure. And now to this testimony I cheerfully subscribe my name.

Harvard, county of Worcester, state of Massachusetts; August 26, 1843. SETH BLANCHARD.

TESTIMONY OF JOSEPH HAMMOND.

I was born at Newton, county of Middlesex, state of Massachusetts, the twenty third day of June, seventeen hundred eighty nine. I first visited Believers at Harvard, in the summer of eighteen hundred ten, and received faith in the testimony of Christ's second appearing. I then united myself, by an honest confession of all my sins, and took up my abode with the Society there, the first week in the following October. Thus I have spent thirty three years of my earthly pilgrimage, in the two societies at Harvard and Shirley.

In the course of my experience, I have seen much of the operation of the spirit and power of God upon others, and have felt the same myself, both in outward operations, and in my spirit.

For several years past, God has been carrying on a mighty work in the societies of our communion, by the operations of his spirit, in various ways, and by means of his own choosing; but more especially through the heavenly gift of inspiration, both in speaking and writing.

And I feel it a great privilege to bear witness, that it is the work of God, carried on by his HOLY POWER, in DIVINE WISDOM, to cleanse his people thoroughly, and to lay a deep and broad foundation for the future increase of the work of salvation and redemption for a lost world.

In a particular manner, I feel to testify to all souls, that this work is the work of judgment, the Second Advent of the holy and redeeming spirit of Christ, without sin unto salvation; and that the preceding Holy Roll and Book, is the word of God to the nations of the earth; yea, the voice of the trump of the Mighty Archangel, calling souls to come forth from their graves of sin and pollution, where they lie buried; that they may bring forth fruit unto God, such as is mete for those who profess to be branches of the TRUE VINE.

This is my testimony, and this I am willing to seal, in any way that my Heavenly Father may require of me.

TESTIMONY OF LUCY CLARK.

The town of Harvard, county of Worcester and state of Massachusetts, was the place of my nativity. I was born October first, eighteen hundred and three; and was gathered into the United Society in said Harvard, in the year eighteen hundred and thirteen.

On the second day of July, eighteen hundred and forty three, I heard the cry of the Holy Angel, whose name is Solemn Warning, as follows:

To the inhabitants that dwell on the face of the whole earth, am I sent.

Come hearken, ye nations of the earth; attend and listen well to my solemn warnings, which I shall soon begin to cry throughout the land, when the word of the Lord shall be published to the nations of the earth. And woe to that soul that shall treat with indifference, the words which are contained in this sacred volume! For as you treat this, so will you be treated; for God will not be mocked by mortal man.

From the holy throne of God do I sound my word, and I will sound it, till many of the inhabitants of earth will hear and believe. For thus saith the Holy and Just One, Go thou, my Angel of Solemn Warning, and sound your trumpet; yea, sound through your trumpet, that the inhabitants of earth may hear and understand.

And I the holy Angel, say unto you, Touch not this Book for sport or for speculation, nor with any such intention in your hearts; for know ye for a certainty, that it is the word of the Lord God of hosts, which He has condescended to reveal on earth, for a way-mark for his creature man.

And those that do speculate upon and make derision of the same, will I meet, saith the Lord, in judgment and not in mercy: for my long forbearance is at an end, and I will visit the earth with sore destruction; and woe to the sons of men, if they repent not, nor turn to Me their God.

And thus saith He who ruleth all things; I have purposed to send forth my word to the inhabitants of earth, that they may have time to repent and mend their lives; and in so doing, to stay the heavy judgments which I have intended to bring upon the wicked for their transgressions, till they have had space for repentance.

And now say I, the holy Angel, repent and turn from your transgressions, before the heavy judgments of God roll in upon you. Depend ye, that He surely is in earnest, and nothing can stay his hand, save true repentance and forsaking all sin. His word will not linger by the way, but it will go forth into execution; and mightily and heavily will his judgments fall on the willful and disobedient, who repent not at the warning which is sent forth.

And again I say, Meddle not with this Sacred Word, only in solemn fear and reverence; lest ye be found fighting against God, and be smitten with a curse.

Say not within yourselves, that it is the work of man and not of God, and that it concerns you not. For to God you must render up your account; and happy will it be for every one that striveth not against his will, although revealed through mortal beings. I warn you not to judge this revelation of God; if you cannot understand all that is contained in this Book, judge it not; for you are not able to judge the work of God in righteousness.

But strive to practice what you can understand, and light will break into your souls, and ye will not be left in darkness; for God is a God of light, charity and forgiveness; and if souls heed the warnings that are sent unto them, and mend their ways, then will the Lord show mercy unto them, and they will be blessed according to their works.

TESTIMONY OF LUCY MYRICK.

On the thirtieth day of April, eighteen hundred forty three, after hearing the Sacred Roll, I felt the spirit of God upon me, and I saw the holy Angels marching around the house. The glory of God surrounded them, and they marched in it; which made them appear very beautiful.

At one time they all stopped their march, faced the east, and appeared to sound their trumpets, but I did not hear the sound. Next I looked around in the sanctuary where I was then sitting, and the glory of God seemed to fill the house.

I saw the spirit of the Holy Savior standing in the central part of the room; he motioned his hands and arms as though he was speaking, but I could not understand what he spake. And I felt that I was in the presence of many of the heavenly host.

Soon after this, I felt inspired by the Holy Angel of God, to speak his word. I felt the power of God run all over me, which caused me to feel that fear of God, that I dare not strive against his spirit through his holy Angel, whose word was as follows.

I am the holy Angel of God, and He hath sent me to this place to bear witness to all who now stand in my presence, that this Holy Roll and Book is the word of the Lord sent forth by his holy power, and directed by his spirit through his Holy Angel.

O ye inhabitants of Zion, believe it, for I say unto you it is the word of the Lord sent forth by his mighty hand. O ye children of Zion, who have the light of God in your souls, beware and be careful how ye treat his word; Walk in his holy fear, and bow your spirits in deep humility before Him.

He has not called you into his Zion for nought; but you are called by his Almighty power, that ye may be shining lights to a lost world; for He hath said that He would have a pure people, a people that would honor his name. And He will scourge and try his chosen, and prove them.

You must feel the scourging rod; but I warn you to stand firm, to bow your souls in humility, and walk in his holy fear; and his holy hand, and out-stretched arm will protect his chosen.

Be ye prepared, O beloved children, be ye prepared to go at his bidding, and do his holy work; for God will call you into a work which ye know not of. So I say again, be ye ready like wise virgins, with your lamps trimmed and burning, to sound forth his holy word, whenever you may be called; for He will call you to sound forth his living truth; and stand ye firm, for this holy way and work, in the most soul-trying hour, and fear none but God, though the enemies of truth surround you; for the Lord will protect the upright, if they bow in humility of soul before Him.

O come down, come down and sit in the dust before God, and his blessing shall rest upon you.

Inspired Witness,

Lucy Myrick.

I feel thankful to God for the privilege of writing that which He has given me as a witness to his holy word which I have attentively listened to for two days past; yet I feel very unworthy to be so noticed by my Heavenly Father.

I feel that I am a poor frail worm of the dust, and without God's holy power I can do nothing aright. I ever can and will, when called upon, testify that I know, by the spirit and power of God which I have felt, that this Holy Roll and Book is the word of the Lord; and I would rather give up my own natural life in any way, than ever contradict what I have herein stated.

I know this work was never framed by mortal power; and I will ever stand for the cause of God and his holy word, wherever it may be revealed.

TESTIMONY OF WILLIAM LEONARD.

I was born in the City and Province of Saint Johns, New Brunswick, on the fourteenth of September, eighteen hundred three. I came into the United States, and entered the gospel of Christ's second appearing at the age of twenty five years. I have been for fifteen years a member of that branch of the Church located in Harvard. And having experienced, with others, much of the heart-searching power, and many purifying operations of the spirit of God, I consider it a duty I owe to mankind, and a great privilege to be enabled to say, that his spirit has qualified me to give my plain testimony, without doubt or hesitation, to go with the present word of God that is now sent forth as a voice of solemn warning to the nations of the earth

In the Scriptures, God's work is compared to a light, that shines brighter and brighter until the perfect day; and this the Believers in Christ's Second Appearing have proved, in all God's dealings with them; especially in the many cleansing operations that his Holy Spirit has enabled them to pass through. God has certainly established an order among his people, unto which He is calling the children of men, to prepare all who will be honest and faithful, to stand as agents of his mercy and judgment to a lost world. And this is strikingly manifest, in the present solemn and soul-searching work among his people.

The purified inhabitants of the spiritual world, have for several years past been hastening the purification of the Church, that they might stand as a pattern of justice and righteousness to others, when the time should arrive that his holy word should go forth to the nations. God the Father, and Holy Mother Wisdom, Christ our Holy Savior and all our Heavenly Parents, with many holy Angels and purified spirits, have chosen instruments from among the people, through whom they have made known God's requirements upon the Church.

These instruments have been inspired at different seasons, to deliver his word, which has revived his laws, increased the work of self-denial, and clothed the Church with the fear of God, to that degree, that even the most faithful and upright have been made to tremble under the inspection of the All-seeing eye of the God that rules both the Heavens and the earth; and so great has been the out-pouring of his spirit and power, that none who have been inspired with holy faith, can doubt the day has arrived, that Christ's holy spirit and God's holy word is revealed from Heaven, by fire, among the subjects of the great work of judgment.

During the progress of this solemn work in all its stages, I have heard many, when in heavenly vision, or under the power of inspiration, declare in the spirit of prophecy, that God's word was about to go forth to the nations. And as I, with others of my cross-bearing companions, have been selected by the spirit of the Almighty, to deliver, by divine inspiration, many communications to the Church; these holy labors and exercises have endowed me with confidence to know the spirit, and realize to a certainty, the divine authority that dictated this solemn word of God.

I have at times, when called to deliver communications of the same divine character to the Church, experienced the same kind of suffering and tribulation, to prepare me for this holy calling, and have been baptized with the same divine influence, that was felt by the instrument who was chosen by the Angel to write this sacred and holy message to the children of men.

I have been inspired with the same holy power to write for the spirits, have felt a measure of the same distress and tribulation between parts of certain important messages; have been often raised from this state in a moment, again feeling that same holy fire kindled in my soul by attending spirits and Angels, when permitted to proceed, until each message was completed.

The Believers were hastening forward, anxiously looking for the fulfillment of God's promises, when tidings spread through the different branches of the Church in a regular line of order, that in the present Message, borne by the Angel, God's word was to go to the four quarters of the earth in its present form.

With my brethren and sisters I have listened attentively to the same; I have marked its form and language, I have viewed the mercy and judgment contained in its promises, and have felt the gift and heart-searching power that accompanies it. I was sensible of the presence of the Angel when it was first read in my hearing; and from all I have heard, seen, felt, delivered and experienced, I know, by divine revelation, that this is

God's holy word; that it was given by divine authority; that it is a message of great mercy or heavy judgment to the inhabitants of time; and that the Almighty is about to deal with the children of men as He has been dealing with his people, in calling them to judgment for the deeds done in the body. And should I be called to bear persecution and sufferings, or even to lay down my life in defence of this, God's holy word, I shall do it freely; for the gospel is dearer to me than life, and whatever I may be called to sacrifice, I will support it faithfully through time.

Although we are the subjects of God's great work, and have received, in the present generation, the first loud call to his solemn bar of judgment, yet we feel ourselves unworthy of the great notice we have received. We feel greatly humbled before God as poor needy mortals, and are sensible that all we have gained of purity and holiness in the gospel, has been freely given us of God, for what we have sacrificed to keep his holy laws.

With a spirit of earnest prayer to God, that this his holy word may be reverenced, that it may be a message of glad tidings to millions, and that all who read may understand, and bow to God in mercy, I close my testimony.

Harvard, Mass., August 26, 1843. WILLIAM LEONARD.

TESTIMONY OF JONAS NUTTING.

As I am one that was called in my childhood, into the fold of Christ, and have long been a member of the United Society, and have witnessed the increasing work of God among his chosen people on earth, for more than thirty years, and having experienced the same in my soul, I feel it my duty and privilege to bear witness to the same, as far as I have ability so to do.

I was born on the seventh of April, eighteen hundred and two; in the town of Westford, Middlesex county, Massachusetts. In the year eighteen hundred and ten, I was placed in the Society of which I am now a member; in the town of Shirley, state and county above named, where I have remained to the present time.

In the days of my childhood and youth, I was watched over with tenderness and care, and taught the path of innocence and virtue. The good instructions I received in my young days were of great utility to me, when I had arrived to riper years, and had become of suitable age to make my own choice in life.

It was then I began to reflect upon what course of life I should hereafter pursue; and like all the rest of my fellow beings, I was looking for that path which would yield me the most happiness.

On the one hand, I beheld the flowery path of nature spread out before me, with all its alluring charms. I looked around me, and beheld the greatest portion of mankind, both professor and profane, pursuing this downward path, which my reason and conscience taught me, led to inevitable ruin and destruction. On the other hand, I could view the little straight and narrow path which my Holy Savior trod, and which he said would lead to everlasting life.

So plain and so pointedly were these two paths laid open before me, that I was convinced, beyond a doubt, that I must sacrifice one for the other; and when I seriously contemplated this, my better reason prevailed, and I chose the path of self-denial and a daily cross; that path which has ever yielded me solid peace and happiness, in obedience to my most holy faith. Ever since I became firmly grounded in my present principles, I have had no cause to doubt the work of God.

I have seen the workings of his most holy power among this people, and have felt the same in a marvelous manner; especially in this late manifestation of his mercy to his chosen people for several years past. Yea, verily, I do know, beyond a doubt, that God opened the windows of Heaven, that He might reveal Himself as He did to his chosen people Israel, in ancient days.

And this has He done, by means of his own choosing, and in a way that is calculated to bring down the haughtiness of man. And I do know, beyond a doubt, that this work which God has begun in his Zion, is the little stone spoken of by the Prophet in ancient days, which was cut out of the mountain without hands; and which will yet grow and fill the whole earth, as the Holy Angel has proclaimed in the foregoing Sacred Roll and Book.

I have an incontestible evidence in my own soul, that the latter day of glory has been ushered in, and that Christ has made and will make, his second appearance without sin unto salvation, to as many as have looked or shall look for him, with full purpose of heart to obey his will.

I am fully confident that God has begun and will carry on his work until every knee shall bow and every tongue confess, either in mercy or in judgment, that it is the work of God, and not the invention of man; yea, I can testify, that this sacred word of the Holy and Proclaiming Angel, contains solemn truths, of everlasting importance to every soul; and let him that readeth, understand and be wise.

As one that has, by the goodness and mercy of God, been called to forsake all the alluring charms of this world, which are but passing bubbles, compared to the durable riches, and having full confidence in the promises of God, as contained in the foregoing solemn Roll, and as a witness of the same, I here subscribe my name.

TESTIMONY OF DANIEL MYRICK.

I was born September fourteenth, eighteen hundred fourteen, in Eastham, Barnstable county, state of Massachusetts; and was gathered into the United Society at Harvard, in the year eighteen hundred twenty seven.

The late remarkable manifestation among this people, I have known from its commencement. Its operation has been increasing mortification and humiliation to all carnal aspiring feelings of vain man; rendering its subjects more simple and devoted, and more willing to yield to the requirements of God.

From its purifying effects and supernatural energy, I freely and unhesitatingly declare it to be the work of a righteous and Holy God with his creatures, and his manifestation of love and mercy to the Zion of his likeness and his peculiar care; establishing her in order, clothing her in beauty, and making her the exemplification of all his requirements upon his lost creature man.

I have seen, known and experienced, its humiliating operation on those employed as agents or instruments in this weighty and solemn work; and many times have I seen them weighed down in sorrow and tribulation, by the solemnity and importance of the labor they were called to perform; then rise in the sublime energy of the power which inspired them, and unburden their souls of the solemn charge.

This is the nature and operation of that work which has brought forth that Sacred Word which is now to go forth to the inhabitants of earth, which does of itself carry intrinsic proof of its divine origin.

Having been familiar with the miraculous events of this sublime manifestation, from its very commencement to the present time, and having in some measure, felt the same divine energy upon my soul and body, which moved the mortal hand to write this Roll and Book, I do readily and cheerfully declare it to be the word of God to the nations of the earth.

Concerning the manifestation of the MOTHER SPIRIT, contained in this Roll, I would point all who never felt her mild, gentle and tender, yet strong influence, to the uniform testimony of all animate creation, and invite them to look "Through nature up to nature's God," and see if they can find any "image or likeness" of the unnatural and absurd, yet popular and prevailing notion of divinity. According to this divinity, I would ask, Where is the prototype of woman's existence? Where is her corresponding cause? The commonly received divinity would indeed make her existence as anomalous as the fabulous production of God, in the Heathen Mythology

But in thanksgiving and praise to my Eternal Parents, for light and truth, I must close this my testimony, and commend this Sacred Roll into the hands of the conscientious and upright, that they may ponder well, consider and be wise.

Harvard, Mass., August 26, 1843. DANIEL MYRICK.

TESTIMONY OF MINERVA L. HILL.

While assembled with my brethren and sisters in the holy sanctuary for devotion, on the twenty ninth of April, eighteen hundred and forty three, I saw a large company of Angels. The eyes of one were like flames of fire. They would sometimes spread their wings, which would fill the whole house with the glory of God. I also saw the Savior and Mother Ann, having burning candles in their right hands.

The Savior turned to me saying: These are the candles of the true and living God, the Father of all. With these candles we have searched Zion, and with them we will search all mankind. Yea, every one shall feel our searching power; for this the Lord hath spoken, and no man can alter it.

Little one, you have many times heard me say, that when my Heavenly Father should speak, the inhabitants of the earth should know it; and soon, very soon, He will speak, and all shall know it. The Roll of Eternal Truth is the beginning of his word; but his voice will continue to roll through the land, till the sons of men shall learn righteousness.

In the summer of eighteen hundred and thirty nine, I saw the Savior with a gold trumpet in his hand; and through it he repeated these words: When God my Heavenly Father shall speak, the inhabitants of the earth shall know it. And from that time, up to October seventh, one thousand eight hundred and forty two, did I many times hear him repeat the same. This was the last time, and yet I was left without knowing the meaning thereof. But now he has told me, and I know the meaning of his words.

Said he, Have not I told you many times, that the work of God would increase, and many should hear this gospel? Have I not told you that every promise of God and his holy Angels should be fulfilled? And have not many of them been fulfilled, already, in your sight? I answered, Yea, my heavenly Father, you have often told me these things; and many of them I have seen fulfilled.

He then said, The rest of the prophecies which you have heard from time to time, shall surely come to pass in God's own time; for this He has spoken, and no man can alter it.

He still continued to question me, saying: Are you willing at all times and in all places, to testify that this work is of God, and not of man? And can you promise to support the work of the Lord which you have heard, both now and forever, at all times and in all places? If you can, you may here place your name.

I answered, I will never deny this great work of God, and will therefore place my name as a witness to it; for I know it to be of God, and not of man. I can say from my heart, that I love it; for I know it will wholly destroy an evil nature. I will promise before God and his holy Angels, that I never will deny this work of inspiration; but will confess it before all mankind. I know I have seen my Holy Savior, Mother Ann and many of the holy Angels; and often felt that power of God, which I could not resist.

I am determined to be faithful and endure to the end; through dark and trying hours, through floods of tribulation, and through persecution. Yea, I will put my trust in God, for I know it is by his power and that alone, by which I can be supported.

TESTIMONY OF JOANNA RANDALL.

As I have been an instrument in the present work and manifestation from Heaven to earth, I can boldly testify before all men, that what has now been revealed from the throne of the Almighty Creator to the inhabitants of earth, are his solemn and sacred warnings, revealed through an instrument of mortal clay, to be sent forth to a lost world.

And I hereby testify, by what I have received heretofore, from the invisible spirits in eternity, that what is contained in this Sacred Book, did, in truth and in reality, proceed from the source and fountain of all good, and is that by which all souls will be judged at the bar of justice. And as a living witness of the same, I here subscribe my name.

TESTIMONY OF WILLIAM WETHERBEE.

Late in the evening, April twenty sixth, eighteen hundred and forty three, I retired to my room, for the purpose of writing a roll which was this day received from a holy and mighty Angel of God; and after laboring a while in solemn fear and prayer to God, for a portion of his divine spirit to rest upon me, I sensibly felt the presence of a mighty Angel of God by my side.

He reached forth his hand and took the roll, saying, Bow your spirit low O thou mortal child, and in solemn reverence, write the sacred words contained in this roll, as I read them unto you. He then opened the roll and read as follows:

Hearken, O ye children who dwell in this little branch of my Zion, saith the Lord your God; for I have words of solemn truth to speak unto you. I am that God whose words of eternal truth have just been sounded forth unto you: and which, according to my will, are soon to be sent forth unto a lost world.

And with my own voice do I call upon every branch of my Zion upon earth, to awake in spirit, and to witness and support my holy work, which in this day is swiftly going on. For the time has come that my tender mercies and my scourging judgments are to be carried to and fro through the earth, and dealt out to the inhabitants therein, according to their just merits.

And, O ye little ones in Zion, listen now to my solemn warnings unto you. Walk in low humiliation, that my scourging hand may not rest heavily upon you. Cleave to the Anointed Lead in Zion, and follow their example; for they are in truth my faithful servants, and the objects of my delight and pleasure; and upon them shall my blessing be poured with a liberal hand.

And unto you, my little ones, will I give a portion of the same blessings, if in faithfulness and perseverance you will walk the path of tribulation, self-denial and the cross of Christ, which they have walked before you.

But know ye my dear children, that if heavy tribulation and deep sufferings come upon them, I shall require you to realize a portion of the same; for ye are all children of one parentage, and ye must all sympathize together in sorrow and tribulation, as well as in joy and comfort.

Prepare, O prepare ye my people, for the days of tribulation which are near at hand. But fear not; for in obedience to my will and my word, ye shall be supported and able to bear whatever may fall to your lot. I am ever nigh to the meek and lowly soul, and I will never forsake nor turn away from those who will bow their spirits before Me, acknowledge my holy work and support the same, whether the number be few or many.

Therefore, awake and arise, O Zion, that thou mayest be prepared for thy light to shine forth into a lost world.

Now, saith the holy and mighty Angel of God, Listen yet longer, O ye children of Zion, and hearken ye nations of the earth; and know that I am commissioned and sent forth by the God of Heaven, to guard the Sacred Book containing his word and will, and to see how it is received, and what use is made of it, wherever it goes. And I shall notice and regard every soul, according as they regard this sacred and holy work.

Inspired Witness,

William H. Wetherbee.

I do, saith the mortal writer of this short roll, with gratitude and true thankfulness, declare my full faith and unshaken confidence in the present manifestation and work of God, which is now going forth through his Zion on earth, and which will soon go forth among the nations abroad.

And having a privilege to be a witness in this glorious work, though unworthy as I am, I am willing, and can thankfully and boldly testify and declare before all mankind, that I do know in my own soul, that it is the way and work of the living God into which I am called; and that it will be carried on by his Almighty power, until in his own time, his designs are fully accomplished. And I do also know, that the Sacred Roll and Book came forth from the eternal source of all good.

I feel truly thankful for the tender mercies of God that have been extended to me; and it is my sincere determination to go through to the end, and do all in my power, to honor, support and build up the gospel of my blessed Savior. And though persecution, deep tribulation and heavy sorrows roll on, yet I will never disown or dishonor my blessed Mother's name, nor her pure and holy gospel.

To this testimony, do I now with firmness affix my name; and will ever stand ready to meet the same.

TESTIMONY OF ANNIS C. GODFREY.

As God, in his mercy and condescension, has seen fit to notice me with his gifts from on high, I feel it my indispensable duty to bear witness to the work of the spirit, which is made manifest unto me.

On the morning of the twenty sixth of April, eighteen hundred forty three, I saw a mighty Angel with a shining roll in his hand. He was terrible, and out of his mouth proceeded flames of fire. And he spake unto me, saying:

O thou little one, bow your spirit low and hearken to my words; for I am a mighty Angel, sent forth from the eternal throne. And the fire which proceedeth from my mouth, is the fire of the Lord, which will go forth to destroy the wicked inhabitants of the earth who set at nought the word of God.

At the sight and voice of this mighty Angel, my spirit was brought into great tribulation. The Angel said unto me, Fear not; but walk softly before thy God, and protection thou shalt find. For wherever I can find a people, however few they are in number, who walk in humility's vale, they shall not feel the wrath of God.

Much I shall not say unto you; for in this roll are contained the words of the Almighty One, and of me the holy Angel, which are to be passed forth unto the children of Zion.

The Angel then gave me the roll, with a request that it should be placed in the hands of the Anointed.

In the afternoon, the Angel again came unto me and said; Little one, go thou and write the things which have been made known unto thee, respecting me. And I said, O thou mighty Angel, I am incapable of adding any thing to the much which has already been given. But he answered, saying: O thou little one, remember the words of the Savior to the poor woman who cast in her mite; for I say unto you it will be accepted of your God. Declare also, that at the eighth hour of this night, I will attend upon the writing of this roll, which I have placed in your hands.

And upon the instrument who shall be chosen to write it, will I bestow my mighty power. But you, I have called as a witness, that these things might be confirmed in the eyes of all.

Inspired Witness,

Annis C. Godfrey.

Thus have I written that which the Angel hath commanded me; and I can boldly, and with confidence, bear witness to the work of God which is now going on in Zion, and which He hath declared will soon spread abroad in the earth.

I have for some length of time been an instrument in this glorious manifestation, and been called to sound forth the word of my ever blessed Parents in Heaven, unto mortals on earth. But unto God is the glory due; for I am but as clay in the hands of the potter; and it shall be my labor through time, to walk worthy of my holy calling, that I may stand as a shining light in the house of my ever blessed Mother.

TESTIMONY OF WILLIAM WILLARD.

I was born in Providence, Rhode Island, December 2, A.D. 1809. At the age of eighteen years, I was by the goodness of God gathered into the fold of Zion, and made partaker of that gospel which saves the soul from sin and condemnation; and have, by yielding obedience to its requirements, gained that love and union to the people of God, and to his pure way, which feels more sacred, and stronger to me than any other union which mortals can possess: it is that bond of union which the transitory scenes of time and the pleasures of this world cannot yield to the soul, or take from those who have gained it by obedience to the cross of Christ.

Having a sure witness within me, truly and with confidence can I assert, that Christ has made his second appearing on earth, as recorded in the Sacred Roll and Book about to go forth to the nations of the earth; and to the truth and divine origin of the sacred words therein contained, I can say in truth and in sincerity of heart, and in the solemn fear of God, that I do believe they emanated from the source of divine light, manifested and revealed to, and through his chosen vessels; who have purified their hearts, made their garments white, suffered deep tribulation, and thereby become fit subjects for the holy spirit to rest upon.

Although not having received divine revelation from the spiritual world myself, I have seen, heard and felt that among the subjects of the present work of God, which brought abundant evidence with it, that it could proceed from no other source than from the eternal fountain of all good; and I should with equal propriety, dispute or doubt the existence of a God, as to dispute or doubt the revelation of God's will through chosen earthen vessels; And I firmly believe, having the strongest evidence within myself, that the spirit of the Lord is, through this medium, preparing the children of the new creation on earth, to receive his sacred word and will, to communicate to all nations who know it not; that all may be left without an excuse that "They know not Christ or of his second coming without sin unto salvation."

In addition to my duty, I feel thankful for the privilege of giving my testimony in favor of the way of God, that through the influence of divine wisdom I was enabled to find the door of mercy, the path of peace, and the only road to solid happiness; that I chose the narrow way, instead of the broad road to destruction, in my youth; that I have the privilege of devoting the best of my life, my time and talents to the honor of the gospel, and for the up-building of the kingdom of Christ; to lay up a treasure for my own soul, where moth and rust cannot corrupt; and it is my firm and fixed determination ever to remain faithful in this work, even to the sacrifising of all worldly pleasures and enjoyments.

In confirmation to the above testimony, I hereunto subscribe my name, this twenty second day of August, A. D. eighteen hundred and forty three.

WILLIAM WILLARD.

TESTIMONY OF WILLIAM TRIPURE.

I was born in the town of Elliot, county of York and state of Maine; from whence I was brought to this place in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty three, being then in the thirteenth year of my age; and having been a constant witness of the work of God among his people for several years past, I feel it a solemn duty to Him and to my fellow creatures, to give my testimony in favor of this sin-destroying, soul-redeeming work which has been sent forth upon earth, through the infinite mercy of Him who knoweth the hearts of the children of men, and is willing that all should come to the knowledge of the truth and be saved; for I know by the inspiration of his Holy Spirit upon my own soul, that this is the final day of his grace to the lost and wandering children of men, and will prove a savor of life or of death to every one.

And this sacred work that is now sent forth to the nations of the earth, is not the production of an excited imagination, or of the efforts of human genius; but through the deepest mortification and intense suffering of soul it has been written by the inspiration of the spirit of God, in his most solemn fear. And the sacred truths therein contained, require the serious consideration of every rational being; for whatever may be the opinions of mortals now, it alters not the purpose of God; for that time is approaching when every soul, either in mercy or in judgment, will have to acknowledge the divine origin of its sacred truths.

I have received that evidence of this late manifestation of the work and will of God, that no power on earth can shake; for I know I have seen my Holy Savior, and have often felt his spirit as plainly as though he still inhabited the earthly tabernacle of Jesus of Nazareth, and I had been in its presence.

And often have I felt the spirit of my blessed Mother Ann and the rest of my Heavenly Parents to whom I feel my soul deeply indebted, as the instruments of God, by whom, through deep tribulation and suffering, this blessed gospel of Christ's second appearance has been established on earth, for the redemption of all souls who are willing to comply with its sacred requirements. Therefore, whether I am called to meet joy or tribulation on earth, still I never can deny this undoubted faith which has been planted in my soul, by a power above the power of man.

But the aspirations of thankfulness from my soul, continually ascend to my God, through those beloved instruments whom He has chosen to revive this blessed gospel of salvation to a lost world, that I was called to forsake the allurements of nature in my youth, and bear the cross of my blessed Savior, by which I feel the protection and blessing of my Heavenly Father continually flowing through my soul, even as a stream that faileth not, and as a fountain that is never dry.

This Holy and Sacred Roll, which is here sent forth to the nations, has been attended throughout by those convincing proofs of its divine origin, that no reasonable, unprejudiced mind could deny; and whether it be received as the word of warning and mercy of God, or the fruits of a religious frenzy, it never will alter the nature of the work, or change the requirements of God upon the souls of the children of men; for He hath purposed a work of reformation throughout the earth, and He will effect it.

Therefore, I rejoice continually before Him, that the arm of his mercy has been extended to my needy soul, and the light of his grace has beamed forth to my heart; teaching, that to deny all ungodliness, and to walk in humility before Him, is the path of true peace and perfect safety, where the soul can feel that presence of heavenly spirits and the enlivening rays of holy love, unknown to those who seek for indulgence on the barren wilds of nature.

Canterbury, N. H., July 2, 1843. WILLIAM TRIPURE.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES M. OTIS.

I was born in Portsmouth, county of Rockingham, state of New Hampshire; on the seventeenth day of the ninth month, eighteen hundred and seventeen; and was gathered into the United Society at Canterbury, A. D. eighteen hundred and thirty one; since which time, it has been my labor to know the will of my God, and to do it;

And feeling it a duty which I owe to Him as well as to my fellow men, to bear witness to his work, and the great display of his marvelous power among his people, I cheerfully comply therewith.

Feeling a witness within my own breast, that I have received the true light and power of God which has been manifested in this latter day, I can boldly and fearlessly declare before all men, that this great and glorious display of power which has been in his true Church, is the work of an Almighty hand, that Over-ruling Power which causes Heaven and earth to move at its bidding, and setteth the wisdom of mortal man at defiance.

Know ye, all ye people who read the solemn warnings and divine instructions given in the sacred pages of the Roll and Book now sent forth to the nations of the earth, that it is the word of God given in mercy to the children of a lost world; and is now made manifest to them through a gift of inspiration, by the same Power which gave unto Moses, upon Mount Sinai's top, the commandments for the children of Israel.

Therefore read all ye people, and understand, lest the notice of your God pass, and ye be not benefited by the call; for the Lord of mercy and charity is calling loudly through the last trumpet, with a solemn blast; and hath sent his Angels forth unto all nations, tongues and people, that they may hear his word, repent, and escape his heavy wrath which is kindled against them, because of the abominations and corruptions which have been committed on the earth, and have arisen as mountains before Him.

Knowing that I have been blessed with heavenly gifts from the worlds of love, administered unto me by holy Angels and happy spirits, I hesitate not in declaring before all men the truth of God, which is, that the Sacred Roll and Book, containing the instructions and admonitions of Heaven, (unto which are added these testimonies of living witnesses,) is sent forth by the Almighty Power of Jehovah, unto whom every knee shall bow and every tongue confess.

I would not that any should think I speak at random, or with a spirit of enthusiasm or wild zeal; but plainly that which I know, as was fully declared by our Savior; If ye keep my commandments, then shall ye know of the doctrine, whether it be of God or whether I speak of myself.

This knowledge I have obtained, by obeying the commands and following the example of the Savior, (the pattern of the children of the new creation,) by walking even as he walked, according to the best of my understanding, forsaking that which led my soul astray from my God, and denying myself of all ungodliness; living soberly, righteously and godly, walking not after the flesh but after the spirit.

Hence, by daily bearing the cross of Christ, I am able to bind that lawless and corrupt passion which rules and reigns in the hearts of mankind, and live a life acceptable to my God.

There is but one path in which souls can walk to the acceptance of God: the same is the strait and narrow path, into which few as yet have sought an entrance.

I know within my own soul, even beyond the shadow of a doubt, that I have entered by the door of self-denial and the cross, into the narrow path where reign peace and purity; for which I rejoice with exceeding joy, and give thanks to my God with unceasing prayer.

Who will despise and turn away from the out-stretched hand of their God, which in mercy and charity is offered unto them, to lead them out from under the yoke and servitude of Satan, into the glorious liberty of saints and Angels, because it cometh not according to the wisdom of vain man?

And now by the same spirit which inspired the Prophets in former dispensations I would say, as a word in due season, Bow down, O ye people, and give heed to his word; Hear ye O Heavens and give ear O earth; for the Lord has spoken, and even so it shall come to pass.

Canterbury, N. H., June 25, 1843. JAMES M. OTIS.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN MALOON.

As a witness unto the truth of the foregoing Roll and Book, I do solemnly testify to all nations, tongues and people, that it is the unalterable truth of God. I have been not only an eye and ear witness of the remarkable outpourings of his divine spirit and power among his people, for the last six years, but a sharer in the same. I have many times felt the influence of the same power operating upon both soul and body; which gives me full confidence in the late work and manifestation of God to his people.

Having the evidence in my own soul, I feel free to declare before all men, that the foregoing Roll and Book is from God, Jehovah, the Father of all, the beginning and the end of all created things; yea, that God who hath made Himself manifest unto his true people in every age of the world.

And as God has in this latter day, in wisdom and charity, seen fit to notice his creature man, by renewing his laws and statutes, and showing him the only way whereby he can find favor in his sight, let souls be bowed in thankfulness and gratitude to Him for his unbounded mercy and charity. For God is not to be mocked, neither is his word to be trampled upon by the filthy and unclean of this world.

But He doth require that every soul should learn wisdom, and fear Him before too late; and as a friend to my fellow mortals, whose souls are as precious in the sight of God as mine, I would caution you to be careful how you treat the givings of God; for as you treat them, so God will treat you.

And furthermore, I do testify that I have found the true and living way of God, which brings peace and comfort to the soul, and finally gives it full victory over the least and last remains of a fallen nature.

Therefore, I will lift up my voice in thankfulness to Christ the Savior, and good Mother Ann Lee, who are the two anointed ones, and stand at the head of the new creation; who through sufferings and persecutions have opened the way of life and salvation, whereby we are made able to worship God to his acceptance, in the beauty of holiness. And I would invite all to come and partake of the waters of life freely, and thirst no more.

TESTIMONY OF JAMES C. BLANCHARD.

As I have been made a partaker of this blessed gospel, I can freely bear witness to the truth of it, that it is the power of God to salvation. And having the evidence within my own soul, I am thankful for the privilege, and feel it a duty to bear witness to the manifestation of the work of God; for it has saved me from the follies and sins of my youth.

Therefore, I can cheerfully recommend it to others as a sure and safe guide into all truth; for I have been made a partaker of that renovating power which has run through my mortal frame like streams of living water. That this is the same spirit which influenced our Holy Savior and his beloved apostles I have not the least shadow of a doubt.

I have no hesitation in saying, that the sacred pages of this holy Book have been written by the divine revelation of God; that the writer felt the true spirit of inspiration, and was directed by it, to write the words of the Holy Angel correctly. And I am thankful that the spirit of truth has gone forth, that the Holy Angel has been sent in mercy to sound the word of life to the nations of the earth, that they might learn obedience to the gospel of Christ, and be saved from the snares and temptations into which they are running.

And I can say, I love this blessed work; yea, I love my Mother and those who traveled with her in tribulation, to again open the way of salvation for all souls; and I will not deny this holy work, nor the means by which I have received it.

For I know that through this blessed work I have received the precious gifts of God, and have been an instrument of his Almighty power, which has caused me to turn, bend and shake like a tree shaken by the wind, and to speak in an unknown tongue by the gift of inspiration, that which I could not speak but by the gift of God.

I feel thankful that I have a part with the true people of God, and a peaceable home in Zion; and my prayer is, that this gospel may spread and flourish, and other souls be partakers of it; knowing that it originated in wisdom, and has been handed down to us through the mercy of God.

This Sacred Roll of heavenly truth, which is now sent forth to earth for thousands and millions to read, I pray may be received by all with thankful hearts; feeling sensible that it is not the production of mortal power, but is an emanation of divine wisdom. Therefore slight it not, O ye children of men; for it is a word of truth and precious counsel.

TESTIMONY OF MARY WHITCHER.

Being blessed with a home in Zion, where peace and tranquility reign; and having been made a partaker of that gospel, in this day of Christ's second appearing, which saves the soul from sin and condemnation, my heart is filled with thankfulness to my God, and my voice soundeth praise for the same.

Having the witness in my own soul, I can confidently state that Christ has made his second appearance upon earth, as is recorded in the Sacred Roll and Book now about to go forth to the nations of the earth.

And to the truth and divine origin of this Sacred Word, my spirit beareth witness; having received knowledge from a heavenly source, from time to time, in the late manifestation of holy and divine things, that the spirit of the Lord was preparing his Zion on earth to receive his word and will, to communicate to every nation, tongue and people, who know not the Christ or of his second coming, and true dwelling place on the earth; and having been blessed with the peculiar notice of God, I feel it a duty and privilege to testify of the same.

I know the Lord hath greatly blessed his chosen people in this latter day, with the out-pouring of his holy spirit in many ways, marvelous to the beholder, and soul-strengthening to the receiver; of which I have been a witness, and even a partaker.

My soul has often been filled with that heavenly love which casteth out all fear of mortals or any earthly danger; and with that holy power which hath caused me to speak in new tongues, to sing heavenly and divine songs from saints and Angels in glory; with whom I have been able to commune from time to time, and for many days in succession; which hath so established my faith in the reality of divine revelation and supernatural power, that no caviler or unbeliever could cause me to disbelieve what I have seen, felt and heard from the heavenly worlds above, or to deny my faith in the Sacred Word of God, now sent forth in mercy to his creature man, to call him from his wanderings, and to bring him nigher unto his Creator.

But I will stand true to the cause of Christ, to my own soul, and as a witness to the unalterable truth of the Sacred Word now sent forth for the nations of the earth, knowing it to be the word of God; and rather than deny the same, or my holy faith in Christ's second appearing, and obedience thereto, upon which my soul is anchored for salvation, I would suffer persecution or sacrifice my natural life.

I know the true kingdom of God is established on the earth, already completed in its order, and growing in the heavenly graces of purity and love. And that Christ the Savior and Mother Ann Lee are the Parents of the new creation, who stand first in this heavenly kingdom, anointed and appointed of God to lead souls out of nature's darkness, is known beyond a doubt, by all who have entered this peaceable fold, and are their true followers.

My spirit boweth down in thankfulness for the day in which I live, for the mercy, charity and blessing of God to my soul, before whom I am resolved to walk humbly, uprightly and in holy fear, till my days are finished on earth.

To these feelings of my own heart, and writing of my own hand, I freely affix my name.

TESTIMONY OF HESTER ANN ADAMS.

On the twenty fourth of July, eighteen hundred forty two, While I was worshiping my God under the divine influence of the spirit, I saw a large golden cross; and upon the cross were written these words.

"Behold ye the Inscription."

"Out of the midst of Zion, shall the nations of the earth hear the word of their God, while his people shall fear before Him continually, and praise his holy name forever and ever, and ever-more, Amen.

Even this cross which I have borne, shall every true disciple of mine bear, saith your Lord and Savior."

On the twenty eighth of December, eighteen hundred and forty two, I saw a holy and mighty Angel, holding in his hand a long and bright Roll; presently the Roll appeared in the form of a Book, and the Angel held the Book open before me. I gazed with astonishment and great fear.

The Angel then spake and said, What you see will yet go forth to every nation on the face of the earth; for holy Angels are passing and re-passing therein, sent by Gerah Veed, God Jehovah, to work a marvelous and strange work.

The heavy word which you see, is to be copied by mortal hand, as a holy Angel readeth word for word, from this Roll or Book, at the Holy Mount of the most High God; therefore bow down before me, and remember my word in time of need; for I will yet require mine own with usury.

Again on the first day of January, eighteen hundred and forty three, I saw a great and mighty Angel enter our place of sacred worship and prayer, where many, very many Angels were sounding their trumpets of praise. As this Angel entered, all was silent; presently they raised their wings, and bowed down low, saying in one united voice, Holy, holy is the Lord God of Heaven and earth; praise Him O Zion, shout aloud in solemn fear, for his mercy and charity endureth forever. Bow down all ye afar off, and be prepared for the word of your God.

Then the great and mighty Angel winged his way towards the south, saying, Blessed, blessed are they that believe and repent; for the word of the Lord will go forth to every nation, kindred, tongue and people. Move on ye mighty archers; for the day of liberty and freedom is proclaimed, and shall be proclaimed, saith the All-wise Ruler of the universe.

Inspired Witness,

HESTER ANN ADAMS.

As a witness to the words of unalterable truth, which the Lord my God hath commanded to be sent forth to the nations of the earth, I declare before all people, kindred and tongues, that it is the word of the Lord, even his warning word in due season.

Often my soul has been blessed with the soul-cheering power of Heaven; and I have been fed with the food of Angels, sweet and nourishing. My faith is established beyond a doubt, that this present work is of God; because I have had evidence in my own soul, of its purifying and cleansing power.

God is purity and love, and his people must possess the same, if they would merit his protection and blessing; for his word is eternal truth, pointed against every sin; and like a refiner's fire and fuller's soap, it will cleanse and purify the soul, and make it a fit temple for the Holy Spirit to dwell in. I am thankful I have been made a partaker of the purifying work of the gospel while young, that I may shun the flattering allurements of Satan, and gain wisdom and knowledge of heavenly and divine things, in lieu of the transitory pleasures of nature, which like a flower soon wither and fade away, and leave the soul like a barren wilderness or fruitless field.

This Sacred and Divine Roll carries evidence with itself, of its divine origin; surely the finger of God marked its way, and Wisdom Eternal pointed out its saving virtues; and I can say of a truth, that it was written by divine influence, without the aid of mortal wisdom.

I feel my unworthiness to hand forth my testimony, for I am but a poor frail mortal of myself; yet, considering the many blessings I have received from an all-powerful source, I feel it a duty I owe to my God, to my own soul, and to my fellow mortals, to declare my faith in the work of an holy God; for I know I have found that gospel which saves my soul from sin in the present tense, and in obedience will insure me a happy abode in the Heavens above.

And thereby I can procure that substance of eternal life which fadeth not away; but as an anchor will hold me in the hour of trial and temptation; and I am determined, with a firm and fixed resolution, to stand for the cause of truth and righteousness, even to the laying down of my life; and pursue with pleasure the path of wisdom and holiness, until life's short thread is spun, and my pulse shall cease to beat; then my spirit will be able to meet my God in peace.

I will stand for that gospel taught by the Savior, and again revived and made known to mortals through my ever blessed Mother Ann Lee; for it affords me that peace and solid comfort which the world, with all its pleasures, can neither give nor take away.

I here set my name to this my testimony, that I will stand a faithful servant in the house of my God, through life, and forevermore.

TESTIMONY OF MYRA A. BEAN.

Having been peculiarly favored and abundantly blessed with the givings of the Holy Spirit in divers ways and manners, I feel it to be my solemn duty, and esteem it a sacred privilege, to stand as a true witness of his word and work whenever I am favored with an opportunity. And at this peculiar time, I freely and thankfully testify, that I have had many heavenly manifestations of the word which is now, by the wisdom of God, sent forth unto the nations of the earth.

Out of the many evidences I have had, I give the following short sketch, which was penned previous to my hearing or seeing the copied Roll. March twenty eighth, eighteen hundred thirty eight, my senses were withdrawn from earth, and I beheld heavenly and divine things. I saw blessed Mother Ann, who held in her hand a large book; I looked at it, and saw the cover was yellow, and appeared to be of gold. She said unto me, Little one, the time will yet be, when you will know this book from beginning to end.

When I returned home, (having been absent twenty four hours,) I informed my leaders of the book I saw Mother holding in her hand.

January twenty second, eighteen hundred forty two, I saw an holy Angel with a large book, which seemed to be the same which I saw Mother have a long time before, as I noticed the cover and size of it. He spoke aloud before a large company of spirits, and said, When the Lord's own time cometh, this his word will go forth to the nations of the earth; first within, and from thence without Zion.

June tenth, eighteen hundred forty two, I was shown the same book again, and read therein certain passages of scripture. I inquired if it was the Bible, and was told it was the word of our Heavenly Father.

Thus having received much previous knowledge at different times, I have not the least reason to doubt the divine origin of this Sacred Roll and Book; but affirm it to be the true and unalterable word of our Heavenly Father, sent forth upon earth, by no other means than that of divine inspiration.

Wednesday evening, May twenty fourth, eighteen hundred forty three, the Angel of Almighty Power spake to me as follows; Thou feeble mortal, Look thou and behold my presence. Listen unto my word, and prepare thy hand to write quickly the same.

I am the great and mighty Angel who has read aloud unto an Instrument of flesh and blood, the word of your Heavenly Father. Yet fear me not; but listen attentively unto my word, for through many instruments, shall be declared the truth of the work, which the Holy and Eternal Father Jehovah is doing in the earth.

I am a great and mighty Angel, and my power is sufficient to execute the will of Him who sent me as a messenger of his word. Therefore, write thou my word, and alter not; for in me is wisdom; and by and through the words I have proclaimed in this Roll which lieth on my hand before you, shall every soul be judged; for the word of the Almighty do I proclaim, even as did Jesus Christ the Savior of souls, the Father of the New Creation.

Word of the Angel, sounded through a Golden Trumpet.

Gather near all ye nations, ye kindreds, tongues and people. For what purpose hath the Lord condescended to notice you with his word, but that ye may turn from the evil of your ways, forsake the sinful paths in which ye have hitherto walked, and seek Him unto salvation?

O ye people, consider for a moment one and all; pause and seriously reflect on the time you have misimproved. Then say ye within your hearts; "Our God is charity and mercy. His word He has now given us, and in love to our souls He has said, if we will now return to Him, his awful and heavy judgments He will withhold, and cause us and our possessions to share of his blessing.

O merciful Father, we will repent; we will cry fervently unto thee, for we know that because of the evil of our doings, thou hast become heavily displeased with us. We will humble our souls and fall low before thee, that thou mayest grant us a place in thy kingdom."

I speak unto you as a friend and well wisher to your souls, and say; Beware, O beware how you treat the sacred givings of your God; Fear ye his holy word. Know ye not, He who sendeth forth this word unto you, is able to utterly destroy you from his presence, in the twinkling of an eye? or to cause you to suffer his heavy judgments in any way He seeth fit, by heavy disease or torturing pain? Even so it is. The Lord giveth, and the Lord taketh away. Therefore trust ye in Him, obey his solemn word and heed his warning voice, that ye may become acceptable children in his sight.

I am an holy attendant of this his word: wherever it goeth I go also; for He sent me forth unto earth with it; and my work is not, neither can it be accomplished that I can return to my Heavenly Father in glory, until this his saving word goeth forth unto the nations of the earth.

Then shall I return with the Roll and Book which I now hold, and convey tidings unto Him of his people on earth. And there in mansions of bright glory will this be preserved, to be shown unto every soul who shall enter eternity, who has received the knowledge of these his sacred requirements; and by this shall they be judged:

Whoever has heeded the requirements herein contained, having bowed down to God in his order, shall find peace and justification in so doing; and whoever has disregarded and set at nought this sacred word, and pronounced that it never came from God, the sight of this, when presented before them, will cause them grief and sorrow inexpressible.

Therefore be wise, each one for yourselves. Repent ye and humble your souls as it well pleaseth your God; for He delighteth in the glory of all souls, and so do his holy Angels. Thus my word endeth at this time, saith the Holy and Mighty Angel.

Inspired Witness,
Myra A. Bean.

I can say without one faltering feeling in my soul, that I have tasted the good word of God, the bread and water of life; and have been a partaker of the power and gifts of God.

The workings of the holy spirit, are indeed beyond the comprehension of the natural man; but every soul who has been fully baptized into the life of the gospel, and bathed freely in the givings of God, by way of inspiration, is fully assured that God is the Author of the power by which they are led and governed.

I am bold to say, this holy power which has been showered down upon this people in various ways and manners, is, without dispute, from a heavenly and divine source; otherwise it would not work to the purification of its subjects; and this is the effect produced on every true and devoted instrument, who has been chosen in this late manifestation.

I have been a living subject of this power for six years past, and it has worked as a purifying fire in my soul, abased pride and self-exaltedness, and learned me a lesson of true humility never to be forgotten; that no external form or ceremony, no outside adornings, will answer the purpose of an honest heart, or gain favor in the sight of a true and righteous God; but the pure and genuine substance of the gospel, firmly established in the soul, wherein dwelleth that pure and holy faith with which good works are combined, will alone be accepted by our Heavenly Father and the holy and purified spirits in eternity.

In the many privileges I have enjoyed, I have often been blessed with the gift of heavenly visions, in which, many times, my spirit has been led entirely away from the things of time, insomuch that I knew nothing of surrounding objects for several hours together, but was viewing and conversing with unbodied spirits in eternity: some times with those who were enjoying perfect happiness, being purified from all sin, and at other times with those who were miserable and unhappy, because of their works of unrighteousness, and the condemnation thereof.

I have seen those souls who, when upon earth, honored and feared God, and lived according to his requirements made known unto them through whatsoever means He chose in the day in which they lived, rejoicing with holy Angels, and praising the name of their Heavenly Father, that they were blessed with his holy protection on earth, insomuch as to honor and obey his word; the happiness that those appeared to be enjoying, was indeed surpassing any that mortals could experience or even describe.

And to the reverse of this, I have seen those who, when upon earth, mocked God, who set at defiance his word and work, and cruelly treated his chosen people, in the most awful distress and heart-rending attitudes that could be imagined; the awful groans and bitter lamentations of these poor distressed souls, were sufficient to melt the stoutest heart into a flood of tears.

And when under the influence of the holy spirit and power of God, I have seen that which language is too feeble to describe; but what I have seen, is fresh in my memory, and I have faith to believe will continue to be through time. I view it not as vain imaginations, or fanciful notions of the youthful mind, but solemn realities to my soul, given for some wise purpose; and not all the inhabitants of earth could ever cause me to disbelieve or deny that which I have heard, seen and felt, when under the influence of divine power.

Being mindful that every soul is alike precious in the sight of God, I can but feel a particular interest in their salvation, and tenderly invite all, candidly to peruse, and wisely consider that which our Heavenly Father hath in mercy and charity sent forth unto all nations of the earth; and for the sake of enjoying present and eternal happiness, receive and obey the same.

I am thankful with every feeling of my soul, that I have been thus blessed with the givings of God; for I know they have given me an undoubted evidence of his invisible, yet Almighty power, and fully established my faith that this gospel, revealed to us through Mother Ann and her faithful followers, is the same as taught by Christ and his Apostles; and the power, which dwells among God's people in the present day, causing the subjects thereof to speak with new tongues, and to behold with spiritual sight that which belongeth to the eternal worlds, and by the spirit of inspiration to declare new and strange things, is the same as was given to the Apostles at the day of Pentecost.

I have received that living faith, which I feel bound forever to obey, and am heartily thankful unto all my gospel relation, who have been helpers to my soul in this self- denying, cross-bearing way of truth, peace and holiness. I never can cease to be thankful for my home in Zion, and my precious privilege with the chosen people of God; neither will I cease to praise my Eternal Parents, for the ever blessed means of salvation, which they have condescended to reveal unto mortals in this latter day.

TESTIMONY OF CYNTHIA B. BRADLEY.

May twenty first, A. D. eighteen hundred and forty three, as I was retired by myself, and my spirit drawn forth in prayer to God, I heard a rushing sound as the noise of distant waters; yet the sound was near. The power of God then fell upon me, and immediately I felt the presence of an holy Angel of God. He came and stood before me saying, Arise and write my word.

Word of the Angel.

I am a holy Angel of witness; I came from the throne of the Most High, even from the throne of Eternal Glory; and unto me it is given to declare the truth of God.

Behold the time, the time has fully come. He who is from everlasting, hath begun his work in the earth; yea, the Almighty Creator of Heaven and earth, hath condescended again to reveal his word to the poor lost children of men. In his own time, and in his own way, by means of his own choosing, hath He done this.

And I, the holy Angel of witness, do testify saying, Behold the time has come. I saw the holy and Mighty Angel stand before the throne of Eternal Power and Wisdom, and from thence receive an Holy Roll and Book, containing the word of God to the nations of the earth. With holy wisdom was he anointed, and with mighty power was he clothed, and commissioned to go to earth and reveal the contents of the Sacred Roll and Book, that it might be correctly copied by an instrument of mortal clay.

And say I, the holy witnessing Angel, This work is now accomplished. Within the walls of Zion, yea, even at the Holy Mount, did the holy and mighty Angel choose an instrument, whose spirit bowed to the requirement of God, and who freely and patiently endured sufferings and tribulation of soul, in obedience to his will.

And now the time has come; yea, the time has fully come. The word of the Lord is made manifest in Zion, and from her it shall go forth to the nations.

Amen, even so let it be, say I the holy Angel of Witness.
Inspired Witness,
CYNTHIA B. BRADLEY.

I am thankful for the blessed gospel of life and salvation; I am thankful I am made partaker of that saving grace, which was first revealed on earth through Christ my Holy Savior, and which hath been revived in this day by my ever blessed Mother Ann Lee; I rejoice to own my Father and my Mother in the New Creation; and rejoice to own the means by which I have been brought from darkness into light, from the bondage of sin and death, into the glorious liberty of a child of God.

I know that I have received the testimony of everlasting truth; that gospel which giveth endless life, and which is the power of God unto salvation. For by the power of this gospel, my soul has been awakened and raised from spiritual death, and made alive to God. Yea, in obedience to this gospel I am saved from sin, and my soul is filled with that peace which passeth understanding.

My faith is firmly established, and I feel that it is built on that foundation which is forever sure; even on the rock of ages which can never be moved. I believe in God, Jehovah, the holy and eternal source of Power and Wisdom; and in the revelation of the Father through Jesus of Nazareth. I believe that he was anointed to open the way of life and salvation. He is the true and first begotten Son of God, the Father of the New Creation.

And with the same confidence I believe in the revelation of Holy Wisdom, through Ann Lee. She was a chosen vessel appointed of God to convey the light of life to a world covered with gross darkness, and sunk in sin and pollution. Yea, she is the Mother of the new creation, the Bride, the Lamb's wife; and with Christ her Lord she is united in the work of man's redemption; and these are the Two Anointed Ones who stand before the Lord of the whole earth.

This is my faith, and I am willing to declare it before all people. I know I have found the true and living way; and that this gospel which I have received, is the means which God hath appointed for the salvation of all souls.

I have been greatly noticed and blessed of God, and have felt the givings of his holy power; and have received the true baptism of Christ, even the baptism of the Holy Spirit and fire, by which my soul has been cleansed and purified from sin. I have many times felt the power and influence of the Holy Spirit roll through my soul like flaming fire, and operating upon my mortal body. By this power I have been raised, as it were, from earth and earthly things, and made able to commune with holy Angels, and with the spirits of the just made perfect. I have been blessed with the gift of tongues, and many other precious and heavenly gifts which are as real to me as my existence.

Freely and thankfully do I bear witness to this truth; that the gift of divine revelation and inspiration does exist in the true church of Christ upon earth at the present day. For of this I have been made partaker; and can I doubt that which I have myself experienced? By no means.

I have received evidence in my own soul sufficient to convince me of the divine origin of the Holy Roll and Book which is now about to be published abroad. And I can with boldness testify that this Sacred Roll, containing the word, will and requirement of the Lord God of Heaven and earth, hath been received and written by the inspiration of his Holy Spirit. It is the unalterable word of the one true and living God; and it will forever stand.

To this testimony I will ever bear witness; and rather than deny this my faith, I will freely lay down my natural life.

TESTIMONY OF CALEB M. DYER.

It feels to me to be a privilege and duty to bear witness in confirmation of the late manifestation of the out-pouring of the spirit and power of God, having been a subject of the same, and having frequently witnessed, in different branches of the United Society, the same gifts and power, in speaking in tongues and of prophesying of future events; many of which have come to pass to my certain knowledge.

Therefore, I feel perfect confidence in the foregoing Roll and Book, that it is the word of God, given by the inspiration of his holy spirit; and as a well wisher for the present as well as future well being of every soul, may they use it as such; for it is evident and certain, that God's work with all the human family of Adam, will go on and be completed in his own way and time; and every one should be very cautious that they are not found striving against light and truth.

I was born August twenty fifth, one thousand and eight hundred; in the town of Stratford, county of Coos, state of New Hampshire; and was admitted into this United Society, at the age of twelve years.

Enfield, Grafton county, state of New Hampshire; June 29, 1843. CALEB M. DYER.

TESTIMONY OF ABRAHAM PERKINS.

Having for several years been an eye witness of the effects of the marvelous and wonderful power and out-pouring of the spirit of God among his peculiar and distinguished people, and also being a subject of its influence, often having been led by it to speak in different tongues, to hold communion with holy Angels and many of the departed of this life, some of whom have been cotemporaries with me, with whom I have associated and been acquainted, and others who inhabited the earth hundreds and thousands of years ago; and thus by their prophetic spirit moved upon to prophesy, and to reveal what had been, what is and what will be; some of which promises and revelations have already been fulfilled in my eyes, which confirms and strengthens my faith in the truth that others will be, in God's own time:

Therefore, with this evidence from divine revelation and the spirit of God given me, I have no hesitation in declaring my faith in the preceding call and requirement as being the word of God. To deny which, I should deem in me, sacrilege.

I feel interested for the happiness of all mankind, whether of my own nation, color, tongue or otherwise; and in the fear of God do I invite all to be deliberate and candid, that none be found fighting against their God and Benefactor, neither against their own peace and salvation.

As this work will prove itself, and the day is not far distant when the nations of the earth will have the evidence of its reality by actual experience of their own, if any should feel incredulous, it would be wise for such, at least, to maintain silence; that they no more incur the displeasure of the Almighty, and bring upon themselves his wrath with a heavier hand. For I would that all men could enjoy, even as I do, his approbation and love.

As an instrument in the hands of my God, to do what lies in my power towards accomplishing that work which He requires of his chosen people, I freely lend my aid in testimony of eternal truth for the benefit of my fellow men.

And in the diffusion of light and truth, the final work which God has purposed with his creatures, is hastened, our own forwarded, and our perfection and happiness augmented. And though for the defence of my faith, I meet many and heavy trials, though by the powers of earth I be not tolerated therein, or be deprived in the action thereof, yet my mind and conscience can never be controlled, but by the spirit of Christ. For the faith which I have adopted is my own, and my knowledge of its origin from a divine source too well grounded, ever to be denied; and therefore, that which I shall ever support.

TESTIMONY OF HORACE FOLSOM.

The undersigned, having been called out from the practices of a vain and wicked world by the spirit of truth; and having in many instances, by the same spirit, been led to bear witness of the manifestation of the spirit of God to his chosen people upon earth, which many times has appeared strange and marvelous, and even unaccounted for by the vainly wise, feels it a duty at the present time, freely to give his testimony in relation to the foregoing Roll and Book.

I believe it to be a work wrought by the hand of God Himself, and through mercy and charity sent to earth by the means of his own choosing, to give the inhabitants thereof an offer of receiving mercy at his hand, or judgment and indignation, in consequence of disregarding his law as sent forth to them.

I have many times, when under the immediate influence of the spirit, been shown by the spirits of the holy prophets and Angels, the dreadful calamities and awful judgments with which God has purposed to fill the earth; also the miseries and plagues with which He will scourge the rulers and great ones of the earth, if they refuse to yield obedience to his righteous commands; and at the same time, showing what inestimable riches and heavenly comfort those shall enjoy who make it their free choice to serve the Lord their God, and Him alone. This I received previous to my seeing the Roll and Book; and it was recorded at the time received.

Soon after hearing the sacred work read, I saw a company of Angels, who told me the Book had been written through great sufferings and tribulation of soul, and agreeably to the will of God: that I must not be ashamed to declare my belief of its divine origin; for it was that by which nations should be tried, and according to their works justified or condemned.

The Angels said they should bear witness to the divine work, for generations to come, and throughout every kingdom and nation upon the earth. So kindred people one and all, I freely declare to you that I have found the straight way of life, marked out by our Holy Savior, and walked by our blessed Mother Ann; which does save me from all sin, by walking in obedience thereunto; and it is my firm determination to abide faithful in my calling: for said Christ, He that endureth to the end, the same shall be saved.

This work, though crossing to the natural disposition of fallen man, brings true peace of mind; with an hundred fold in this life, and the promise of eternal life hereafter, according to the words of Christ.

And now I sincerely invite all who may hear the foregoing Roll and Book read, to consider it well; and if any are inclined to treat it with scorn or contempt, just let them reflect and see if they had not better let it alone, lest haply they be found to fight against God. If this work be of men, it will come to nought; but if it be of God, no one can stop it.

TESTIMONY OF TIMOTHY RANDLETT.

Having been made a partaker of this ever blessed gospel in my childhood, and having found that substance which preserves me from evil, and being one who has been called as an instrument to participate in the present manifestation of the marvelous work of the divine spirit, I can with confidence bear testimony, that the foregoing Roll and Book is the unchangeable word of God, sent forth from his Almighty throne, by his holy Angel, and copied by mortal hand agreeably to his will; I am confident, that it was designed by the Almighty to go through all nations, for a testimony unto them.

While writing this testimony I am suddenly called by a holy Angel to write the following, as he wings his way through the Heavens.

Words of the Angel.

Woe! woe! woe! to the inhabitants of earth; for the hand of the Almighty is stretched out in judgment upon the face thereof; for her abominations are great, and the multitude of her transgressions are without number; the stench of her whoredoms hath ascended up as the burning of Sodom.

The great whore of Babylon is seen marching through her streets in pomp and splendor, clothed in gaudy attire, and receiving homage from the highest monarch on his throne, to the lowest scullion in human shape; and in the blood of her fellow creatures are her garments deeply stained.

Repent, O repent, ye children of earth; for in judgment hath the Lord purposed to visit you, unless ye repent quickly; for his wrath is exceeding great, and his fierce anger cannot be stayed unless ye turn and seek to do his holy will, as it is made known in his Sacred Word; for He will judge you in righteousness.

As the angel ceased to sound, I said unto him, Holy Angel, for what purpose can this thing be, seeing the work is so nearly closed? He answered, What is that to thee? Do thy duty, and thou shalt be blameless.

July fifteenth, eighteen hundred and forty three, an holy Angel appeared before me, saying, I am a mighty Angel sent from the eternal Heavens; from the holy throne of the Great I AM have I come, and his will I must do. He hath sent me to proclaim to the four quarters of the earth, the great and mighty work which must shortly extend to all nations, to prepare the way for his holy word, which is given either for mercy or judgment; for saith the Angel, many signs shall be seen in the heavens and on the earth, and in the mighty waters.

Inspired Witness,

Timothy Randlett.

To the truth of this testimony, I am at all times ready to bear witness, if ever it be required; for the evidence which is given me from an invisible source, gives me that knowledge which I never can deny; for the consequence of so doing would be the loss of my eternal salvation. Yea, my natural life I should freely give, rather than deny this my testimony.

I was born December tenth, eighteen hundred and six, in Meredith, Strafford county, New Hampshire; was brought among this people by my parents, when a child.

TESTIMONY OF SUSANNAH CURTIS.

While assembled in the meeting house for worship, on the second day of October, eighteen hundred forty two, as I sat in silent meditation, suddenly there sounded in my ears a mighty trumpet, and a rushing like the trees of a forest when moved by a strong wind, which so affected my frame, that notwithstanding all my exertions to remain calm, I could not refrain from rocking with the great shaking, which appeared to put in motion every thing around me.

Every person in the assembly appeared with pale faces, looking earnestly upon one another, like those who were struck dumb and motionless with fear. But before I had time to consider, or make out in my mind any cause for this noise which I heard, there came two bright Angels from a south westerly direction, and flew swiftly over my left shoulder.

Their appearance was like that of a mighty man prepared for battle; they turned swiftly, passing twice from one end of the meeting house to the other, between the spectators, and those who were assembled for holy worship; and they, with their wings extended, soared over the spectators, sounding loudly the following words:

Ho, ho! Hearken all ye people, to the sound of the awakening trumpet; for it shall sound, and mighty power shall roll even to the ends of the earth. Some shall be offended when they hear, and others shall rejoice; but no powers of earth or hell shall be able to disannul or make void the word which has gone forth from the mouth of the Almighty God; for his bow is bent, and who can evade the arrows which are prepared to pierce the hearts of the scorner, and of those who desire not the knowledge of his ways?

O ye generations, lend a listening ear; and ye who are afar off, consider, and slight not the day of your visitation which in mercy is near at hand; for the word of the EVERLASTING is about to sound in your ears.

From the midst of my Holy Zion, saith the Lord, I will send forth my word unto you; and those who will not suffer it to have place in their hearts, but choose rather to walk in their own paths, I will meet in my fury, and cause them to drink a full portion of my fierce indignation. For I have long borne with the haughtiness of vain man, and suffered him to prosper in his folly, till my times and seasons are fulfilled.

But the time of forbearance hath an end, and it is nigh even at your door; therefore, let the wise meditate upon my word, and gather to the place of refuge before too late; for as I live, saith the Lord, I will ere long be known among all nations; either in mercy or judgment shall my power be made manifest, and not one soul which I have created, shall be left to doubt that I, who am invincible in strength, do bear rule in the Heavens, and preside over the destinies of man.

I will bestow my blessing upon every nation, according to the honor which is given to my name, by regarding the lessons of warning which I send among them; though the means I make use of, in my wisdom, may be far out of their sight, and very debasing to their loftiness and pride.

Whoso hath ears to hear, let them hear; for the day of reckoning cometh quickly, and blessed shall those be who are not found fighting against that light which I shall cause to shine into their consciences.

For powers shall shake and kingdoms rend, high hills shall flee away;
Through all the earth, from end to end, my sceptre I will sway.
I am the Lord, my word I'll sound, through every land and clime;
Mercy and judgment shall abound, at my appointed time.

Surely, my work hasteneth, and whoso is found worthy to proclaim my word to the children of men, shall be glorified, with my holy Prophets and martyrs, who have patiently suffered to perform my will; for though I lead them through the fire, yet their garments shall not be scorched, saith the Lord; and we, the holy Angels from before his throne, are his witnesses.

For lo! from the foundation of the world, we have never seen any put to shame, who put their trust in the mighty God of Jacob.

Then hearken, ye people, as o'er you we fly;
The great visitation of God draweth nigh;
And though through a child He may teach you his way,
Refuse not to hearken, but wisely obey.

The mighty Angels now passed on with the same speed in which they came, quickly disappearing from my view.

Inspired Witness,
Susannah Curtis.

I here add my testimony concerning the Sacred Roll and Book, which the Almighty hath in mercy sent forth for the nations of the earth; for I do know, beyond a doubt, having had sufficient evidence, that it is the word of the Lord written by divine inspiration.

I was born December twenty second, seventeen hundred ninety seven; in the town of Granby, county of Essex and state of Vermont. I was sixteen years of age when I embraced the testimony of Christ's second appearing.

Enfield, N. H., June 22, 1843. Susannah Curtis.

TESTIMONY OF MARY FALL.

I can hereby testify to all who may ever read the foregoing Roll and Book, that I do know of a truth, that it is the word of the Almighty God, sent forth in charity, in loving kindness and in mercy to the nations of the earth, that they may, if they will, take warning thereby, and reform their lives; yea, repent and turn from their iniquities, before the just judgments of the Almighty God be poured upon them.

May twenty third, one thousand eight hundred and forty two, a Holy Proclaiming Angel of God sounded these words unto me; The gospel shall go forth from Zion to the inhabitants of earth, through instruments of mortal clay; and this present generation shall behold it take place in their day and time. And although it was not made known to me in what year; yet I have ever felt confident, from that day to this, that I should live to see it, and be able to bear witness of the same.

And furthermore, I have received knowledge from an invisible source, that the judgments of God were soon to be poured out upon the inhabitants of earth; and that his mighty power would cause them to fear and tremble, insomuch that they could not stand upon their feet, but would fall to the earth like men in a field of battle; that they would be filled with distress and confusion, and many of the kings of the earth, the great and rich men, the chief captains and the mighty men, the bond men and free men, would seek to hide themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; and would say to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of Him that sitteth on the throne, and from his wrath; for the great day of his wrath is come, and who is able to stand?

But what is the voice of God to them? Even this: If ye seek to cover your abominations, after ye have heard my warning voice, I will expose you to open shame.

But O vain man! turn ye, turn ye from your iniquities, from your foul and beastly works of darkness, and come forth into light; enter into the one only true and living way, which is the truth and the light. Into this way ye must all enter, in order to be justified, and stand in union with Me, the Creator of all, who knoweth all things, and will reward every one as their works shall be.

June twenty seventh, one thousand eight hundred and forty two, I heard it proclaimed by a mighty Angel, that the time was nigh at hand when Zion should appear in full glory: for, said he, Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid; therefore, let your light shine even to the nations of the earth, that they may behold the glory of their Creator.

Although I am a frail mortal, yet I have received full faith that Christ is the anointed of God, and the Savior of all souls who follow him, who, in obedience to his teaching, will in the end find complete victory over every evil propensity.

I also know that Christ has made his second appearance on earth, in a chosen female known by the name of Ann Lee, and acknowledged by us as our blessed Mother in the work of redemption. She, with the help of God and her associates, did form a society, which is led by the same spirit that Christ manifested in his first appearing, which constitutes it the Church of Christ or true people of God.

I can further testify unto all, that I have heard, from an invisible source, at three different times, words concerning the foregoing Roll and Book, that God hath purposed to send forth to the nations of the earth. And I know it was revealed in mercy, for mortal hand to copy; and that the writer was inspired by the power of God, through the influence of his mighty Angels.

I can further testify, that by inspiration I do know that the Roll and Book has been copied correctly, as the Mighty Angel did read unto the inspired writer; yea, I do know that it has not been done by the will of man or woman, but by the will of Him that sitteth on the throne.

For the word of God through an Angel unto me, was as follows: Thus saith the Almighty, Wherever this my Roll and Book shall go, there I will send my Angels; and a true record shall be kept of its reception with every nation, kindred, tongue and people on the face of the globe.

Hearken again, O ye people, saith God. If ye refuse this my word unto you, or say it is the work of man or woman, I will in my fierce anger, pour out my heavy judgments upon you.

But if ye thankfully receive my word, and labor to understand and live up to the same, I will cause light to shine into your souls, till you are able to realize every requirement that is contained within the lids of this my Book, and receive the promised reward.

Inspired Witness,
Mary Fall.

Perhaps some cavilers may say, How do you know these things? I answer; It is because it has been made known to me by the influence of Almighty Power, through an Angel, bearing witness of the scenes of heavy tribulation which the inspired writer had to pass through, while copying the Roll and Book.

I am truly thankful that I have been made a partaker of this saving gospel, taught by blessed Mother Ann and her faithful successors, through whom I have received it.

Here I have been made welcome to drink at the fountain of life, and have been fed with the food of Angels; and in wisdom I have been blessed with knowledge and understanding of spiritual things, which are far greater to me than any of the perishable things of this life.

To the truth of this testimony I can, at any time, bear witness, if it should be required of me. It is firmly grounded by the knowledge I have had in this work, and it is that which I never can deny, but will maintain, even to the laying down of my life.

I was born July thirtieth, eighteen hundred and ten; in the town of Thornton, county of Grafton and state of New Hampshire; and was taken in with the people of God, when about seven years of age.

Enfield, N. H.; June 22, 1343. Mary Fall.

TESTIMONY OF REBECCA ROBINSON.

The writer, while in divine worship, July fourth, eighteen hundred and forty two, saw a mighty Angel of God, and he spake as follows: I am a holy Angel, and the words which I sound forth are truth. For lo, O ye inhabitants of Zion, the time is near at hand, that this gospel will be sounded to the nations of the earth, to awaken them from the slumbers of death.

And saith the Angel, When the word of the Lord shall go forth from his Zion upon earth, to the children of men, then will heavy tribulation and sufferings come upon the inhabitants thereof. So be ye prepared to meet them; for the Lord Almighty hath sent forth his Angels of mercy and judgment, with his word of eternal truth, to pass and re-pass, to view and review the inhabitants of the earth.

Therefore, I again say, Prepare, O prepare, ye indwellers of Zion; for now is your day, your precious time to gain a durable treasure, that which will abide with you, that which will be a strength and support to your immortal souls, when trying scenes shall roll on. Treasure freely of the sacred givings of God your Heavenly Father, while He does so abundantly shower his blessings upon you, that ye may have wherewith to feed the poor and hungry souls who will yet cry to you for help and strength.

Again, some time in the month of November, one thousand eight hundred and forty two, while in the worship of God, I saw a mighty Angel who appeared like a flaming fire; and he had in his right hand a large shining Roll. He passed through the room three or four times, back and forth, holding out the Roll as he passed.

He then came towards me and said, O thou little one of mortality, look and behold what the Lord hath done for the inhabitants of the earth; for from Zion shall his law go forth even unto every nation, tongue and people that dwell thereon, that she may be delivered from the heavy burden of sin and iniquity under which she now lies; and God is about to make Himself known to her inhabitants who are groping in sin and darkness, who know not God, neither have learned his holy way.

But He hath decreed that the children of men should know that there is a God, who is able to stain the pride of all flesh, and lay low the haughtiness of vain mortals; and that He has given sufficient power in this day of Christ's second appearing, to save every soul that will comply with his offers of mercy, in the order that He Himself has prepared and made plain before them. The Angel now ceased speaking.

I greatly feared the Angel would bid me take the Roll to write; for I felt that it contained weighty matters, and was more than I was able to perform. After a little time the Angel disappeared from my view.

May fourth, eighteen hundred and forty three, while assembled in our sacred place of worship, I saw four mighty Angels who attended the reading of the Sacred Roll; and they had in their right hands a large trumpet, resembling very bright silver; and in their left, a golden sceptre of truth. They turned in every direction, and sounded through their trumpets very loud and powerful; in the mean time holding out their golden sceptres of truth as they turned. After they had finished sounding, they spoke in one united voice, as follows:

We are the holy witnessing Angels of the living God, and thus has the Lord Jehovah, who knoweth all things in Heaven and on earth, whose arm of mercy and judgment is stretched out to all the inhabitants thereof, caused this his sacred and saving word, to be correctly written by mortal hand, through heavy sufferings and deep tribulation, for the perusal of the nations of the earth; that they may know his word and law, which will prove a savor of life unto life to those who hearken and obey the same, and of death unto death to the disobedient and rebellious.

The Angels now vanished out of my sight.

Inspired Witness,

Rebecca Robinson.

Feeling it a duty which God requires of me, I freely add my testimony as a witness, for all who may read the foregoing sacred pages.

I can testify, and that beyond a doubt, by what I have seen and felt, that this Sacred Roll was handed forth from God by his holy Angels, and correctly written under the divine inspiration of the power of God, and Him alone.

To this I will ever stand; and this I will maintain and support, even to the laying down of my natural life. Yea, this I would do under the most excruciating tortures, if my God required it, rather than deny the late manifestation and work of God; for I know it is of Him, and will forever stand.

TESTIMONY OF OTIS SAWYER.

The City of Portland, county of Cumberland and state of Maine, was my native place; I was born May second, eighteen hundred and fifteen, and was received into the United Society in July, eighteen hundred and twenty two, where I have ever since lived, and of which I am a member. And having witnessed and tested, by many years experience, the effects of obedience to, and having gained full confidence and an unshaken faith in the present testimony of the gospel of Christ, in which he has the second time appeared, without sin unto full and free salvation, which was immutably established by the revelation, power and gift of God, in and through his chosen witnesses in this favored land of freedom and liberty, and having been made partaker of its benign and saving influence, I can with full confidence testify of the same.

That God has of late opened the spiritual avenues from the invisible to the visible world, by which the heavenly host have been brought nigh; and that He hath, through this means, poured out his spirit and power in a most wonderful and marvelous manner among this peculiar people, evidently to prepare them for some great and mighty event of his will, operating by tongues, signs, visions, prophecies, inspiration and revelation, is a fact established beyond all doubt or equivocation in my mind, having been in some degree a subject of it; for what my eyes have seen and my ears have heard, and what has been made plain and evident to my senses by the power of God, I never can dispute or deny. And that these gifts have been and still are clearly and plainly demonstrated beyond a doubt, I can, with many others, boldly and confidently bear witness; for "We are witnesses of these things; and so is also the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given us."

And this wonderful display of Almighty power, is a sure evidence that God is about to commence a new era with mankind; for here hath He established the law and order of grace, of his new and spiritual kingdom; and now is the mystery finished, and his kingdom in its fullness revealed, and Zion is immutably established on earth.

Therefore, it is obvious, agreeable to divine prediction, that from hence must proceed the word and law of God to the nations both afar off and near.

And this is demonstrated in the Sacred Roll and Book to the nations of the earth, which I believe to be the sacred word of the Lord God of Heaven and earth, as much as any part of the writings of the ancient Prophets or Apostles, contained in the Old or New Testament; and the same power that influenced them to write, inspired the mortal writer and guided the pen of him who wrote this holy and sacred word; and I unhesitatingly declare my faith in the same, that it is not the work or device of mortals, but the merciful condescension of an Almighty God to his frail creature man.

And I solemnly and conscientiously testify, in the fear of God, to all who may see or hear this testimony, that I never will deny the present display of God's holy power, or the word of his Sacred Roll; nor renounce my faith in this everlasting gospel, whatever may be the result of its promulgation; but will boldly and confidently support and stand in defence of the same, and in support of what I have written, to the utmost extent of my feeble abilities, and seal the same with my blood if so required, and suffered by my God. In confirmation whereof I hereunto sign my name this twenty third day of August, one thousand eight hundred and forty three.

New Gloucester, county of Cumberland and state of Maine. } OTIS SAWYER.

TESTIMONY OF MERRILL BAILEY.

The town of Colebrook, county of Coos and state of New Hampshire, was the place of my nativity; I was born August twenty eighth, one thousand and eight hundred. I came with my parents to live with the United Society in this place, in the year one thousand eight hundred and twelve, where I have remained until the present time.

Having gained a measure of understanding in the present testimony of Christ's second appearing, and having full faith and a firm belief that this is the only true way of God, I feel free to declare my faith to all men, concerning this people, and concerning the strange work that is going on among them; for it is a strange and marvelous work in the eyes of mankind.

This is the Church that was spoken of by the Prophets in ancient days, that was to be established in the latter day when the true worship and gifts of God were to be restored. The same power that inspired the Prophets of God among the children of Israel, and which caused them to sound forth and write God's word to that nation, and to the nations of the earth, causes, or inspires his chosen ones in this day, to sound forth or write his word to this Church, and to the nations of the earth at the present time. Yea, that same power that operated upon the Apostles at the day of Pentecost, and which caused them to break forth in tongues and speak as the spirit gave them utterance, has been these few years past, and still is, operating among the children of Zion; although in a more remarkable manner in the gift of revelation.

I feel full confidence in declaring the same, because I have felt that same power operating upon my own soul, and upon my mortal body, and have been an eye and ear witness of the same, with many others. I believe the Sacred Roll and Book that is to be sent forth to the nations of the earth, is the word of the Lord to the inhabitants thereof, and is in great mercy and condescension sent forth to mankind, in due season, in the order of God's providence, that they may know his mind and will, and turn to Him and live; for as He hath declared, He hath no pleasure in the death of the wicked.

Thus I have stated, in a few words, my faith in the present work of God and display of his power; and it is that which I own, and will ever maintain to the laying down of my natural life, if so required; yea, though persecution should rage and deep tribulation roll on, yet I will not deny my Lord and Savior; for he that is not willing to suffer with him, is not worthy to reign with him. In witness whereof I subscribe my name this twenty eighth day of August, eighteen hundred and forty three.

Alfred, county of York and state of Maine. MERRILL BAILEY.

TESTIMONY OF LYDIA NOWELL.

I was born in the town of Shapleigh, county of York and state of Maine, October twelfth, eighteen hundred and eight; and have lived with Believers twenty two years. And my faith being firmly established in the gift and revelation of God, and gospel of Christ, in his second appearing, I esteem it a duty and privilege to bear witness to the same, and to the display of heavenly and divine gifts, with which, of late, this people have been so abundantly blessed.

I can with confidence declare this to be the only true way of God, and the pure gospel of Christ, or He would never have blessed them to such an extent, with the gifts of the Holy spirit, of visions, tongues and revelation, and in many and various ways, to purify and cleanse his chosen people from the nature of sin. All who walk in obedience to his revealed will, and the established order of his Zion on earth, have tasted of the good word of God and the powers of the world to come.

This I have received, and this I am not ashamed to assert and witness to at any time. I have felt and witnessed the operation of God's power in this late manifestation, which has caused souls to break forth into sublime songs of the New Jerusalem, and speak for Angels and Ministering spirits of God, to the delight and astonishment of every beholder.

And having been thus blessed and noticed of God, to partake of his saving gospel, I feel under the greatest obligation to be faithful and true to my trust. I will ever stand as a true witness to the sacred word of God, now about to be sent forth to the nations of the earth, so long as I am blessed with my right reason, and remain on the shores of time. In testimony whereof I hereunto subscribe my name, this twenty eighth day of August, eighteen hundred and forty three.

Alfred, state of Maine. LYDIA NOWELL.

TESTIMONY OF LAVINA P. McINTIRE.

At nine o'clock Sabbath evening, April eighteenth, eighteen hundred forty three, the Prophet Zephaniah gave me a white marble Box, wherein he said was a Roll and Book.

Not knowing what the Prophet intended for me to do with the box, I retired to my room, where I intended to examine it; but had not time to do this, before the prophet told me the box must be given to the Holy Anointed of this place, and by them conveyed to Holy Ground, or Canterbury, N. H., where it would be opened and the contents of the Roll and Book clearly ascertained.

July eighteenth, as I was about to copy what I had received from the prophet, suddenly there appeared a bright light passing and re-passing before me, and these words followed, spoken by a holy Angel:

The box which the prophet gave you, was to you a sealed box; and would have remained so, had you retained it longer; for the time had not fully come for you to know what the Roll and Book contained. But now it hath been sounded in your ears, and made plain to your understanding; for it was never intended from the beginning, that this great and all-wise purpose should be veiled in mystery.

But know ye, it has been through the prayers and intercessions of Angels and purified spirits in Heaven, that this Sacred Roll and Book has been sent forth for the nations of the earth; and that it has caused much tribulation and sufferings of soul to be felt, by many of the inhabitants of Zion on earth; but the end of sufferings will not fully come, until all have had an offer of this soul-saving gospel, taught by Christ and your ever blessed Mother Ann Lee.

Many of the holy Angels have already gone forth to the earth, to awaken souls to a sense of their lost state, and to prepare them for the ushering in of this great and glorious work; and many there are who will embrace it in sincerity of heart.

This word of eternal truth will not return void, but will prove a savor of life unto life, or of death unto death. So let all those who have been made partakers of the heavenly and divine revelations and manifestations of God, which have been sent forth from time to time, look well to their goings; for his judgments are already determined upon the disobedient and rebellious, who seek to do their own wills, rather than subject themselves to the will of God their Heavenly Father.

But those who fear God and keep his commandments, will be objects of his peculiar delight; and when his judgments are abroad in the earth, He will hide them as in the hollow of his hand; yea, He will stretch forth his arm of love to protect them, and none shall be able to turn it aside.

Inspired Witness,
LAVINA P. McINTIRE.

I was born March twenty eighth, eighteen hundred and seven, in the town of New Portland, Franklin county and state of Maine. When at the age of ten years, my parents placed me under the care of the United Society of Believers, where I have remained from that time to this, it being about twenty six years. Although I was young, yet in obedience to what I was taught, I found salvation from sin.

I can with confidence and sincerity of soul, declare unto all who may hereafter read this, that in obedience to the doctrine and principles of Christ, taught by the leading influence of this Society, I have found the way of life and salvation, and do know it is the only way, whereby any soul can find acceptance with God, and an entrance into his pure and peaceable kingdom; for it is founded on the divine revelation of God, and has been by Him sustained, from the commencement of it unto the present time.

Although the mighty power of God has of late, been displayed in a marvelous and wonderful manner, in the gift of revelation, inspiration and prophecy, yet it is only an increase of the same light and power, which has characterized this church ever since it was first established in this favored land. It is no doubt a strange work, and marvelous in the sight of the world; but it is nevertheless true. I know, and can confidently assert that I have felt and witnessed the power of God, and that He has blessed this people with the gifts of the Holy Spirit in various ways and manners, and that in this He has more plainly and fully revealed his will, than in any preceding dispensation.

My faith is firmly established in this gospel, and in the revelation of God; and I do solemnly declare that I will stand in defence and support of the same, and maintain the principles of this pure and holy faith to the end of my days.

New Gloucester, Maine, August 23, 1843. LAVINA P. MCINTIRE.

TESTIMONY OF SOPHIA F. MACE.

On the morning of the eighteenth of September, eighteen hundred and forty two, as I was busily engaged in my usual occupation, I heard a sudden noise like that of a strong wind, and rain beating powerfully upon the house. I quickly arose and passed along towards the window, and observed that the natural elements were all calm and still; but I cannot describe or paint on paper that which I saw and felt. The heavenly music which I heard, and the bright Angels which I saw, took every natural thing from my view, and my soul was swallowed up in adoration and love to God.

A mighty Angel advanced towards me, holding in one hand a Book, and in the other a large Roll. I was about to turn away from the sight, for fear of some further requirement, when the holy Angel spake to me as follows: Stop, and behold the work of the Lord your God, and me the holy Angel who am shod with Eternal Truth, and in whom is no darkness at all; for my dwelling is before the throne of God, and I am sent forth unto the Zion of God, to proclaim his power and to sound forth his word of solemn warning unto the nations of the earth.

Look ye and behold this Roll, and the seals thereon, which the Lord your God doth purpose, in his own due time, (which time is nigh even at your doors,) to open, publish and send abroad unto the inhabitants of the earth; so bow exceeding low, all ye indwellers of Zion, and seek to obey and strictly keep the laws of your God, and in so doing receive the blessing of Heaven.

The Angel then disappeared from my sight, and I saw nor heard any thing more concerning the Roll, until on the morning of the eighteenth of January, eighteen hundred and forty three, while I was engaged in my morning duties, I heard a sound as of continued shouting, which sounded very heavenly and melodious, and I was deeply struck with the solemn fear of God. I saw nothing at first; but this shouting, or melodious sound, apparently drew nearer and nearer, until it took my whole sensation.

I looked and beheld a bright band of Angels, and many good and happified spirits; they were unitedly marching in regular order through our dooryard and dwellings; and as they marched towards me, I saw the great and powerful Angel of the Lord, holding or bearing the Roll which spread far and wide; (the length and breadth I did not exactly know.)

Then spake the Holy Angel these words unto me: Know thou that I am an holy proclaiming Angel of the Lord, and the same Angel, holding the same Roll in my hand which I plainly showed unto thee four months ago this very day, which is now unsealed, opened and revealed in the Zion of God on earth, by the will, word and command of God your Heavenly Father, and is speedily preparing to go abroad in the world.

And his Angels are already sent, passing and re-passing from Heaven to earth, and from earth to Heaven; for the inhabitants of earth have strayed far from their God, and their filthy abominations have come up before Him, and his cup of indignation is filled to overflowing for the same, unless they return unto his righteous law. But the mercy and charity of the Lord your God is unboundedly great towards his creature man; for in his own will and time, doth He purpose to extend this, his Roll and word of solemn warning unto the children of earth, that they may learn to fear Him, and to square their lives by his unerring word, and in so doing appease his anger, and enjoy his parental blessing and protection.

And for this, his notice unto poor fallen man, the Angels in Heaven do greatly rejoice, and holy spirits do sing with joy and thanksgiving around the throne of God and the Lamb, in shouts and in songs of victory over the beast and his image, and are continually bowing around his throne, imploring that the mercy and forgiveness of God may be extended unto poor frail mortals, and his true light shine forth into their hearts, to cause them to desist from doing evil, and learn to do good to their own souls, and do unto others, even as they would that others should do unto them.

Inspired Witness,

Sophia F. Mace.

I know, and hereby testify and bear witness unto the solemn work and revelation of God, now going on throughout Zion; for it is that which I have seen, felt and known; and by my own experience do I testify unto the same; for I would sooner give up my natural life, than to deny this, if I were called so to do.

And I furthermore testify, and bear witness with boldness and with confidence, before God and all people, that the solemn and weighty Roll, which the Lord God hath caused to be written by divine revelation, is not the invention of man or of woman; but the unalterable word of the Lord God, and that by which every soul must finally be judged.

New Gloucester, Maine, July 17, 1843. SOPHIA F. MACE.

A SHORT COMMUNICATION FROM A HOLY SPIRIT,

RECEIVED AT UNION VILLAGE, WARREN COUNTY, OHIO; MAY 14, 1843.

Thus saith the Spirit; O my children, unite your souls as the heart of one, and move forward with the increasing work of God. Marvelous and great are the mysteries revealed in this your day; for truly the Lord hath made known his will and word to his people on earth, and will declare the same to all nations and people, in his own time.

Marvel not, though I tell you I have been a witness of the holy word of God revealed to mortal clay, which must shortly be given to the rulers of the land, and to the nations afar off.*

But know ye, when a living testimony hath gone forth from Zion, then shall tribulation be fully realized among God's chosen people; therefore, stand ye firm and strong, and fear not what an unbelieving world may inflict upon you. But keep ye low and quiet; stand firm and unshaken, amidst storms and tribulation, for the holy hand of God will cover and protect his chosen, from every harm; Zion shall flourish, bloom and grow, like a well watered garden; her beauty and glory shall spread far and wide; and many shall flock to her peaceful borders, to learn the holy way of righteousness.

Then O ye children, how necessary it is, that you keep your stores full, and your souls well supplied with the beautiful gifts of God; for they will adorn the soul with heavenly beauty and glory; yea, and your light shall shine forth as the morning sun; and all who behold it shall say, Behold the light and glory of Zion! the beautiful City of God, where dwell peace and righteousness, abounding with the blessings of Heaven forevermore.

Now, saith the spirit, I have not much to say at this time, but I have a little anthem which I will give you; that you may know that the Lord is visiting the earth, in mercy and in judgment.

Anthem.

Lo, the Angel of the Lord is swiftly flying over the earth; sounding,

---

The inspired writer had no knowledge of this Roll and Book, only by divine revelation, at the time the above was written.*

sounding through his holy trumpet, saying, Hear, O hear ye my warning voice! For lo, the God of Heaven, clothed with might and power, is descending in mercy and in judgment; and He will smite the inhabitants of the earth with sore and heavy judgments, for the wickedness thereof is very great.

Then, O ye children of his holy name; O ye se ve′se, le′no voo′, be ye lowly; for the humble, the holy and pure, shall abide in the day of God's visitation; for they are his faithful servants, marked with his holy name.

Then fear ye not, ye lovely chosen of your God; for ye shall be as an ensign lifted up, and as a banner of pure light; for, saith the Lord, whose ways are just and true, I will be your God, and ye shall be my O′ le an sa voo′, and my ce les′ ta, li la va′. I will guide and comfort you, through all scenes of tribulation, and you shall be the jewels of my holy love, and the glory of my righteous name, protected by my holy hand forevermore.

A SEAL FROM THE LORD JEHOVAH;

Read by a Holy Angel and copied by inspiration, at Union Village, Warren county, Ohio, June 26, 1843; as an evidence of the truth and correctness of the Great Roll, which was written in his own name for the nations of the earth: and which has been correctly copied through deep tribulation, by a mortal Instrument of God's own choosing, at the Holy Mount.

I AM that I AM. Before Me there was not, and above Me there is none; And behold, out of my mouth has gone forth my everlasting commandment, and the word of Eternal Truth; to which no mortal clay shall add, neither shall they diminish, unless they are anointed of my Holy Spirit and commanded so to do.

For I have spoken it in my wisdom, according as I have intended; and let no one that is ever blessed with a privilege of reading or hearing this Sacred Word of mine, suffer themselves to cavil, or yield to an unbelieving spirit, and doubt of its divine origin.

I say, be careful that you do not suffer yourselves to harbor such feelings; for great will be the blasphemy of all such as do this; and sore will be my judgments that shall fall upon them, to humble them low to the dust, till they shall know that I am the holy and righteous God of Zion, against whom no man shall raise his voice, or put forth his hand, and prosper; but every soul shall bow before Me, in low humiliation, and bend their knees in humble prayer; and with their own tongues confess in the presence of my witnesses, the evils which they have done, or never see my kingdom in peace.

I will deal with every soul in righteousness, according to their works; and blessed shall be the humble soul, that will come at the call of mercy, and bow down to seek a place in my holy Zion; and not wait to be driven by judgments, to seek a refuge and a hiding place.

For lo, in the day when the earth shall be visited with famine and desolation, and many sore judgments which I will send; and when my holy Angels shall blow their trumpets like many mighty thunders, to awaken those who are resting in their sins, then shall the nations of the earth tremble and be sore afraid; and they will call on the rocks and mountains to cover them, and hide them from the face of the Almighty.

I call on thee, O Zion, to keep my holy laws and commandments, without the least deviation from the true spirit of the gospel; also to walk low and humbly, and pray to Me, by night and day; for in times of my own appointing, I will send exceeding heavy sufferings upon you; that I may in truth call you my well tried and beloved few, and that you may be true examples of patience and meekness to all who come to learn the way of peace and righteousness.

And more than this, I do require you to be so prepared, that you can stand united in one spirit, steadfast as the rock of ages, and keep your faith firm and unshaken, although you may be called to suffer imprisonment, banishment, and many other cruel and barbarous things, which the wicked may inflict upon you.

But remember, my beloved few, if you will keep my holy way, and cry to Me in meekness and humiliation, with one spirit and one mind, desiring Me to help you to endure, I will not leave nor forsake you; but in all that you bear for righteousness' sake, I will be with you, and my hand shall be as the strength of thousands in your defence. Yea, I will watch over the lambs of my fold, and will protect my heritage, and rescue them from danger, so that not one upright soul shall be lost.

When I had written my Word for the nations of the earth, I called certain of my Angels, and read it in their hearing; and they bowed and said, Amen to what thou hast written, O Lord; But who shall reveal it to mortals? for great indeed is the weight which it doth bring.

Then I chose from among the Angels, one of the most holy, and clothed the same with my spirit; and told him to go to the Holy Mount, where dwell my Daughter's first-born, and, as soon as he could, to show it to some of my instruments there; and according as I commanded the Angel, so was it done, and the Angel returned to Me with the Roll, to wait for the time, that what was therein contained should be revealed.

And when the Angel returned, I was troubled, because of the heavy sufferings and deep tribulation which I knew it would bring upon my people; both in preparing it for the nations of the earth, and from what would take place after it was spread abroad.

But now my spirit rejoices, to see that my word is correctly copied; and that it is owned and blessed by my Holy Anointed, as far as it has been made known. And I do truly desire that every branch of my holy house may lend a liberal hand in the expense of preparing my word for the nations and kindreds of the earth; and you shall not be the losers, but your reward shall be double what you give.

I do also desire that each and every one would carefully and wisely consider their present day and calling, and labor to walk according to it. For if you are ever so faithful, you cannot be too well prepared for days to come, in which you will see much tribulation, and many heavy trials.

I have, for some time past, been careful to warn all my people to prepare; for I would surely do a great work in the earth, through which no soul would be able to stand, and find favor in my sight, but such as would hearken to my warnings. And now, as the time is drawing very near, and is even at the door, I say, Blessed are ye that have hearkened to my warnings, and have kept my commandments; for it shall be well with you: And those who have not done this, must bear the reward of their own labor, and feast upon such fruit as they have gathered.

For I have been merciful to all, and sent repeated and timely warnings; that all who had done wrong, and wandered from the path, might have time to see their own state, repent and come down, where they could find their union and relation to Me, by obedience to the order which I have established for the protection and safe-going of my people.

Now I say unto all who love my ways, and walk in them; Fear not the slanders of the wicked, nor the reproach of the ungodly; for my holy Zion shall sit as a Queen, and feast on the good of her labors, while those who will not obey my voice, shall perish in the dust.

Great and marvelous is the work which I will do before the eyes of many, who are now living; therefore I say, Prepare, and do not delay the time, for you know not the day or hour in which I will do my work, and bring to pass that which I have promised by the word of my mouth. And lest you should be like the unbelieving Jews, I say again, Prepare, O prepare! and do not delay the time, till it is too late.

This Seal I give unto you, my beloved and well tried servants, as an evidence, and a warning to my people to prepare for the great day of my visitation among the nations and kingdoms of the earth; which will deeply interest every faithful child of my holy house upon earth.

TESTIMONY OF SUSAN H. WHITCHER, AND OTHERS.

In confirmation of the sacred word of this holy Roll and Book, we, the undersigned, do hereby certify and declare before all men, that we have full confidence in what is herein stated, and that the word thereof has been written by and through the influence of that same Power divine, and holy Spirit of eternal truth and revelation, which caused the Prophets of old, and the Apostles of Jesus Christ to write the sacred pages of that holy Book, (the Bible,) so universally acknowledged by the enlightened nations of the earth, to be the true and holy word of God.

And we furthermore declare, that we have not only been eye and ear witnesses of the out-pourings of the holy spirit of God, by gifts of divine inspiration and revelation in this our day; but we have been active subjects of this holy work and power, and have felt, existing in our souls, the same spirit and infusion of divine power which has caused us to move in obedience to, and in communion with the saints and Angels of God, in testifying and bearing witness to his holy words of truth and righteousness.

And we hesitate not to say, that we have an internal evidence of the gift of divine revelation, and of the reality of this holy influence existing in the soul, and many times manifested by operating upon the mortal body, that it is of God, and originated from no other source whatever. And we would as soon doubt our natural existence, as to doubt, or in any wise disbelieve the gift of divine revelation, now existing in the true Church of Christ.

We therefore solemnly and coescientiously testify and declare, whatever may be the consequences, that we have full faith in the word recorded in the foregoing pages of this holy Book, and do hereby cheerfully and voluntarily subscribe our names as instruments in the holy work of God, in this day of Christ's Second Coming.

TESTIMONY OF SETH Y. WELLS.

The work of Eternal Power and Wisdom is incomprehensible to man; it is indeed far above all mortal commendation. But if the testimony of mortal man can be of any avail, in calling the serious and solemn attention of his fellow mortals to the sacred and holy word of the Almighty Creator of Heaven and earth, for their own salvation, then it is obviously his duty to give it, if in his power.

As mortal witnesses may indeed have some weight on the minds of their fellow mortals, I feel perfectly willing to cast in my mite for that purpose, and consider it my duty and privilege to extend the testimony of my faith and confidence in the work of God, as far as lies in my power; and I trust that this my testimony will not be entirely useless to the readers of this Sacred Book, and doubt not those of my former acquaintance will appreciate it according to its merits.

Having carefully examined this work in the manuscript of the inspired writer, I am fully and firmly convinced that the work is of God, that it is a visible display of his infinite mercy and goodness to man; and believing it will be under his Divine blessing and protection, and trusting to the guidance of his Holy Spirit, I will give such testimony as I can maintain in life and in death, and such as I can willingly meet at the bar of God in the eternal world.

I am now nearly seventy six years of age, and it is almost forty five years since I embraced this blessed gospel of Christ's second appearing, which was about eighteen years after its promulgation in America, in the year seventeen hundred and eighty. About ten years previous to my coming into this Society, I was connected with various literary institutions, and for a number of years was employed in teaching a public school. My employment in the Society now is, and for many years has been in the capacity of Secretary and Clerk. In this capacity I consider it my duty and privilege to employ my faculties for the benefit of the Society, and for the promotion of God's holy work; and in this I feel myself under his divine blessing.

My long privilege and extensive acquaintance with the people in the various branches of this communion, have given me sufficient opportunities of acquiring a full knowledge of the principles and practice of the Society in all its departments, both spiritual and temporal. And I can truly say with all confidence, that for strict morality, practical piety, and true godliness, there is not another such community of Christians existing on earth.

During the last five years, there has been the greatest work of God wrought among the inhabitants of all the Societies in this communion, both in the eastern and western states, that was ever wrought on earth since the fall of man. These assertions may appear doubtful to some, and probably incredible to many; but they are true, and will yet be confirmed to millions.

The wonderful work of God which took place in the days of the Apostles, when the Holy Spirit descended from Heaven upon the assembly of christian Believers, at the day of Pentecost, has ever been considered as a marvelous display of divine power, which then excited the astonishment of those who were eye and ear witnesses of the remarkable events of that day. And these events are still considered by the common professors of christianity, as the greatest manifestation of spiritual power that has ever taken place since that memorable period.

But let it be considered, that the work of God is an increasing work; and although a long night of darkness succeeded the falling away of the primitive Church, which overshadowed the natural world for many ages; yet in the spiritual world, where the spirits of darkness could not prevail, the work of God has not been stationary, but has been constantly increasing, from one degree to another, even from the beginning; and ever will continue to increase, through the endless ages of eternity.

Therefore, every new dispensation of the grace of God, must and does exceed the preceding. The apostolic gifts, and the work of that day, exceeded the dispensation of Moses, with all its legal restrictions and ceremonies of types and shadows; though not altogether so obvious to the natural senses of fallen man. So does the work of God in this day, and under the present dispensation of the gospel of Christ's second appearing, far exceed the apostolic dispensation, though unseen by, and unknown to a lost and unbelieving world.

However doubtful this may appear to many; yet those who are in the work, and see and feel its effects, can no more doubt it than they can doubt that the light of the sun far out-shines that of the moon.

Some will probably be ready to impute our strong language and confident assertions to enthusiasm. But the true followers of Christ are no enthusiasts; they are not exalted in imagination, and raised in spirit, as on eagles' wings, to the third Heavens, fancying themselves superior to the rest of their fellow mortals; but far from it. Indeed they consider themselves no better by nature than the rest of mankind. All that distinguishes them from others, is what the gospel of Christ has done for them, in consequence of their faithful obedience to it.

Therefore they are not high-minded nor self-exalted; but a calm, considerate and steady people, clothed in the spirit of meekness and lowliness of heart, and feel their daily dependence on the condescending mercy and goodness of their Heavenly Father, for their protection against evil, and for their blessing and prosperity in the gospel of their Lord and Savior. They feel themselves, in reality, but as little children in Christ; learning of him the blessed way of salvation from a fallen, sinful nature; and though poor in spirit, and despised by a vain, ungodly world, yet they are not of the world: for their Savior hath chosen them out of the world, and hath declared, saying, If ye were of the world, the world would love its own; but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

But every faithful and honest hearted soul is truly of that class of Believers who have forsaken all for Christ's sake and the gospel's, and have, according to his promise, received a hundred fold of the blessings of this life; and they have no doubt, if they continue faithful, that they shall receive eternal life in the world to come. Indeed the truly faithful, who have gained a fruitful travel in the gospel, daily feel the spirit of eternal life increasing and growing in their own souls, which feels infinitely more precious and important to them, than the momentary enjoyments of time.

The mighty manifestations of God to his chosen people, are truly wonderful, very wonderful; far beyond any thing ever before revealed on earth. It has often seemed as though the Heavens and earth had come together, and that we were in reality, surrounded by the heavenly hosts; yet those heavenly and divine manifestations, with which we have so often been favored, are not understood by the world of mankind; nor can they understand them except by revelation from God, or faith in the testimony of his appointed agents.

The word of the Almighty, contained in the preceding pages, one would suppose, might carry conviction to every soul that reads it, that it is indeed the word of God, and not of man. Though the societies in the various branches of this communion, have been, from time to time, greatly favored with divine messages, for the benefit of the people; yet this is the first which has been given, during the present season of inspired manifestations, with Divine authority to publish it to the world of mankind.

Many of the youth, both male and female, in all the societies of this communion, have been blessed with gifts of divine inspiration, as were the prophets of old. Indeed, they have often been inspired by the spirits of the ancient prophets, and by many other departed spirits, and also by the Angels of Heaven, to convey divine messages to the society, to families and individuals. And it is worthy of remark, that the principle instruments chosen by Divine Wisdom, to convey these sacred messages to their respective societies and families, were such as have been taken into the community in childhood, and are mostly classed among the youth, and have had nothing more than a common school education.

Even the inspired individual who wrote the preceding pages from the Almighty, as they were read to him by a holy Angel of the Lord, was taken into the Society when a child under seven years of age, and has received but an ordinary education, from a common school in this Society; and though capable of committing his ideas to paper, he is not what is usually called a correct writer of the English language; and he knows no other.

Perhaps some may be ready to inquire, why such youthful ones were selected to receive these divine messages, and convey them to the Society, instead of the more aged and experienced members? To which I answer; Because God, in his infinite wisdom, chose such as were young and inexperienced, whose honesty and integrity would be less liable to the suspicion of fraud, by an unbelieving world, than those more advanced in years, that his Almighty power and wisdom might be more clearly manifested, and show with greater certainty, that it was, in truth, the work of God, and not of man.

It is well known throughout all the societies in this communion, both in the eastern and western states of the American Union, that though many of these youthful instruments of divine inspiration were, in many instances, personly unknown to each other; yet their inspired communications, in their nature and spirit, are found to be in perfect accordance, one with another, and with the doctrines of the gospel taught by our heavenly Parents, and practiced throughout this communion. Even the same sacred truths, in substance, have, in some instances, been communicated at the same time by different individuals, entirely unknown to each other; and no possible chance, at the time, for any correspondence between them.

When these things are known and considered, I feel confident that no candid person, who is desirous to know the truth, could witness these circumstances, and hear these communications from the mouths of the youthful speakers, without readily admitting that the work is of God, and that their words are the words of divine inspiration; and surely none but obstinate unbelievers and determined infidels would attempt to controvert it.

As the word of the Lord God of Heaven and earth contained in the preceding pages, speaks for itself, and is confirmed by so many inspired and faithful witnesses, and by such angelic and divine testimonies from Heaven, I will merely add, that I have not the least shadow of a doubt, that this word is in reality what it purports to be, "A Holy, Divine and Sacred Roll and Book," emanating from the ALMIGHTY CREATOR OF ALL.

So testifies

New Lebanon, N. Y. May 15, 1843. SETH Y. WELLS.

TESTIMONY OF BENJAMIN SETH YOUNGS.

For the sake of brevity, and in consideration of the very marvelous display of the mercy and goodness of the Almighty, of late, and now made known to mortals, by the tongue and pen of his holy Angels; I must pass over many of the peculiar incidents of my youthful days; my early convictions for sin, and my struggles to know and to find the mercy and favor of my God; and endeavor to make my words few, and acceptable.

I was born in Schenectady, state of New York, September seventeenth, seventeen hundred and seventy four. My father, Seth Youngs, came from Windsor, Connecticut; was a member of the Presbyterian Church in Schenectady; and brought me up very strictly in that order, until I was about sixteen years of age.

In the spring of the year seventeen hundred and ninety one, a religious movement having taken place in Johnstown among the Methodists, my father joined that Society, and immediately removed there with his family. These movements affected me nothing. But, frequently attending their meetings, and seriously reflecting on the discourses, my early convictions returned upon me; and on the eleventh of September, the same year, I also became a member, and with full purpose of heart, set out to seek and serve the Lord.

For the space of about two years, I did earnestly beseech the God of Heaven, that I might be saved from sin. It was not from any open or outbreaking sin or sins, that I sought deliverance; from these, my education, and the moral sense of the duty I owed to myself and to my fellow mortals, preserved me. It was from the nature of sin, that I prayed and struggled to find redemption.

It was from the secret, deceitful and base desires, from the sordid, filthy, soul-darkening, and soul-debasing passions of a fallen and fleshly nature, that I prayed to God for salvation. But this salvation I found not! And I found by search, and by reflecting on the lives of all the ordained ministers, pastors and preachers, and all their churches, of every class and denomination professing christianity, within my knowledge, that they possessed it not!

Among all these, "A glorious Church,"(such as the true Church of Christ is, and should be,) A Church "not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing; holy and without blemish," I found not; it existed not! Eph. v, 27.

Many were the times and seasons in which I sought seclusion from the sight and hearing of mortals, in order that I might humble myself before God, pour out the sorrows of my soul before Him, and implore his mercy and his favor. Many are the solitary places, to which the holy Angels can witness, where I have poured out the feelings and desires of my hungry and afflicted soul, in tears, and in earnest prayer, in cries and supplications, on my face, and on my bended knees before God, that He would show me the way of salvation,—the salvation dwelling in his Zion, in his holy Church, in his saints.

And, in my prayers and supplications, many solemn promises did I make unto the Lord God, my Creator, that if in his mercy and goodness, He would condescend to show me his salvation, I would sacrifice my all and my life, at his holy will and pleasure; and that while I lived on earth, I would faithfully serve Him, and Him only.

This salvation, a salvation from all sin, the Lord in his infinite goodness did, in his own way and time, bestow upon me. His holy Church, his chosen and peculiar people, his Zion upon earth, I did find; and thus far, by his grace and holy favor, my promise I have kept.

I had often heard of a strange people at Niskeuna, (now Watervliet,) who professed to be Christians. The reports concerning them, were uniformly evil; and of all sects or denominations of professing christians, whom I knew, or of whom I had either read or heard, of these, through ignorance and the prejudices of a false education, I had formed the most unfavorable opinion.

But in consequence of the decline of our religion; or in other words, the decrease of unanimity, of brotherly love and charity, and the prevalence of self, and "worldly mindedness," together with my sad disappointment in not having found a pure and holy Church, as delineated in the sacred Book, I had resolved to quit all my connection and acquaintance, and to cross the wide ocean to Europe, and thence to Palestine.

But an over-ruling Providence prevented me. I had, from my earliest light and conviction, sought salvation, and the mercy and favor of my God. I had, from my earliest recollection, looked upon the sacred writings, the Bible, with the most profound veneration, which were my study and delight; and now, for the first time, were forcibly applied to my condition, and the state of things, the words of the Holy Savior, that, of his true followers, "All manner of evil should be spoken falsely, for his name's sake." These words wrought effectually on my mind; I soon resolved, and changed my self-projected course.

On the twenty third of November, seventeen hundred and ninety three, I visited those people, of whom "all manner of evil" was spoken. When entering on the premises of the people, I prayed earnestly, "O Lord, my God and my Creator! suffer me not to be deluded, suffer me not to be deceived! but into thy truth, O Lord, do thou guide me!"

I remained with them about three days; had free converse with some of the leading characters; also with some who came from England with Mother Ann, and with numbers of others, both male and female, all on the subject of the way and work of God. And although they brought to my view many new and strange ideas, I found nothing in reason to be contradicted.

On the Sabbath following, I attended their very still and solemn meeting. In their singular devotions and mode of worship, I saw nothing but solemnity, I felt nothing but the love and fear of God.

In this meeting, as I was a stranger, the emotions of my spirit were to me, at that time, unaccountable. Had those I beheld in their solemn devotions, and myself, been conceived in the womb of a holy mother, and nursed on the same lap, I could not have felt a purer love, nor a more sincere attachment, than I did to this people.

During my stay, I was fully convinced, that the foundation of their faith was more deeply laid, than their adversaries, or any of the denominations professing christianity knew, or were in the least apprised of. And I found, moreover, that all and singular, the evil reports circulated against this people, were, and are, utterly false, and without the least shadow of a foundation in truth.

The order and harmony, the industry, the neatness and cleanliness, their seclusion from the world, and its fading pleasures, their self-denying lives, their freedom in conversation, humility and childlike simplicityof mann ers, their charity to the poor and needy, and to the widow and fatherless of this world; their holy walk, and godly example; the peace that reigned within their borders; and above all, the visible Seal, or impress of Heaven, on their countenances.

"Ye shall know them by their fruits. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Therefore, by their fruits ye shall know them." It was not for me to doubt; it was not for me to hesitate, what path to pursue. If there was a pure Church of Christ on earth in which he dwelt, if there were a people of God on earth, to whom He revealed his will, this was the Church, and these were the people.

With these plain and incontrovertible evidences, to my sight and understanding, and the indelible impressions stamped upon my mind, of their truth and reality, it will not appear strange, that I should become an advocate in this holy cause, and a witness of "That which mine ears have heard, that which mine eyes have looked upon, and that which my hands have handled, of the Word of life."

No sooner had I obeyed the heavenly calling, by honestly confessing every known sin and error of my life, one by one, before God and his witnesses, than I felt the effusions of the holy Spirit of peace, distilling into my soul like the refreshing dews of heaven! By faithfulness, and strict obedience to the order and counsels of God, in my visible Lead, I became baptized with the "baptism of the Holy Spirit," and tasted of the "powers of the world to come:"

By which means, I was enabled to live free from all and every sin within my knowledge, to govern, control and subdue, all the impure and unruly passions of my evil nature, and to give up and forsake all, for Christ, and the kingdom of Heaven's sake. And I can and do testify, in humble gratitude to my Heavenly Father, the God of this my salvation, that I have received in full, the promise made by his beloved Son, (Matthew xix, 29,) in the kind and parental care, in the pure love and fraternal affection, and in the enjoyment of fathers and mothers, and brethren and sisters, "an hundred fold," with the full assurance of "everlasting life."

I have been a member of the United Society called "Believers" in the present appearing of Christ, for upwards of forty nine years. I have been, for longer and shorter periods of time, personally and intimately acquainted with all the United Societies in the United States, (except two in the state of Maine:) At New Lebanon, Watervliet and Groveland, in the state of New York; at Hancock, Tyringham, Harvard and Shirley, in the state of Massachusetts; at Enfield, in the state of Connecticut; at Canterbury and Enfield, in the state of New Hampshire; at Union Village, near Lebanon; Watervliet, near Dayton; North Union, near Cleaveland; and White Water Village, in the state of Ohio; at Pleasant Hill, on Shawnee Run, and South Union, (Jasper Valley,) in the state of Kentucky.

Of all these Societies, as one and the same "peculiar people," I can and do bear witness, in the holy fear of Him who knoweth and seeth all things, and who "searcheth the reins and hearts" of the children of men; That they are the "Zion of God's likeness" on earth, the work of his own

Almighty hand; and in this his Zion hath He placed his fire and his furnace, to try, to purify, and to cleanse his people from all sin and dross; and hath also placed in them his holy Tabernacle, his Mercy seat, and his salvation for all men; even his "salvation for all the ends of the earth." [Isa. xlvi, 13; lii, 10.

Thus saith one who knows, one whose ears have heard, whose eyes have beheld and looked upon the marvelous work of God among his chosen people; whose hands have handled of the Word of Life, and whose soul has been bathed in the river of life, and drank of its pure and living waters: Christ the Anointing, the Savior of men, has verily made his second appearing in the woman Ann Lee, whom God had before ordained and chosen to be the "Mother of the New Creation" and of the redemption of fallen man, according to the testimony of the holy Prophets, and of Christ the Savior, and his holy Apostles; as the holy Scriptures bear record:

That through her by the holy anointing power of God, the Eternal Father, and Holy Eternal Mother Wisdom, the Eternal Two in One, after whose "image and likeness," man was at first created, hath Christ in this latter day and age, set up his "Everlasting kingdom of Righteousness" among men, and commenced his reign of "Peace upon earth."

This is She of whom the Holy Spirit by the holy Prophets hath spoken; "This is the name wherewith She shall be called, "The Lord our Righteousness." [Jer. xxxiii, 16.] "I will make thy name to be remembered in all generations; therefore shall the people praise thee forever:" [Psa. xlv. 9–17.] "Let us be glad and rejoice, and give honor to him: for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready."[Rev. xix, 7–9.]

Now look at this, all ye who read and venerate the Holy Bible, and believe what is therein contained; Reflect, and in the candor of your souls, consider well this testimony in all its bearings: Are not these the people that should "come and sing in the height of Zion, and flow together to the goodness of the Lord?" [Jer. xxxi, 12.] Are not these the "Clouds of Heaven," in which the "Son of man," the Christ in whom ye believe, should come, and whom every eye should see? [Mat. xxvi, 64. I. Thess. iii, 13; II. Thess. i, 10; Rev. i, 7.]

Look at this, all ye ministers, pastors, and teachers of the people; consider your accountability to the God of Heaven; and reflect well on the many earnest prayers and supplications you have offered up to Him, that "his kingdom might come; and that his will might be done on earth, as it is done in Heaven." Remember also the Jews, who fully believed in the Messiah that was to come; how that when he came, they denied the Holy One and the Just, killed the Prince of life, and crucified the Lord of glory. [Acts iii, 14, 15; I. Cor. ii, 8.]

Consider also the natural blindness of man, his hardness of heart, and his obstinacy and rebellion against the work of his God and Creator, in all ages; lest, like unto the Jews, trouble come upon you, "because ye knew not the time of your visitation." [Luke xix, 44.]

In the year eighteen hundred and five, I was sent (on foot, with two others,) as a messenger to the western country; particularly to the people of the Revival in Kentucky, and the adjacent states.

Among these we found the mighty operations of the spirit and power of God in preparing them for the gospel. I have seen the bodies of men and women, shaken as trees with a tempest; and others cast down prostrate to the earth, and lying sometimes for hours, cold and stiff, like corpses! and again reviving, and going forth in melodious songs and dances; with many other signs and wonderful operations of the spirit and power of God, in this preparatory work. In this country, the gospel was extensively preached, believed and received with joy, by such as were prepared.

After remaining in the western country for upwards of thirty years, during which time I was employed as a public writer and speaker, and as one of the leaders, I returned, with others of my brethren and sisters from the east, who had presided in different parts, until the Churches and Societies in that country were established.

Let it here be remembered, that no honest souls who ever believed and received this gospel, whether through written, printed, or verbal testimony, and lived in strict obedience to their faith, but they have received power over all sin, the mercy and favor of God, and his salvation: No honest and faithful soul has ever failed of this: And to this testimony, thousands now living in the enjoyment of this gospel, can bear witness.

It must not be understood from this testimony, or any part thereof, as in the least intimating that in the concerns and establishment of the Church of God and the Zion of his likeness upon earth, there is no dross among the gold; else would there be no necessity for the Almighty to place in it his "refining fire, and his purifying furnace;" else also, the parable of the Savior, of the "kingdom of heaven being like a net cast into the sea," would be of no meaning.

Passing over those transient beings, who seek after nothing but loaves and fishes; I have known many who had enjoyed great privileges, and for a season were prosperous, but who in the progress of the work, found the way too self-denying, and too narrow for all their inclinations, again turn to the "beggarly elements of this world, like the dog to his vomit, and like the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire."

I have known moreover, of such as were endowed with the gifts of God from on High, and had "tasted of the powers of the world to come; received the gifts of inspiration and prophecy, and through unfaithfulness to "fall away"!

And that this their falling away, came in consequence of the cross, the purity and innocence; the truth, faithfulness and uprightness, which God required at their hands, and to which they were unwilling to submit; And hence "They went out from us, and made it manifest that they were not of us". [I. John ii, 19.]

After this concession, in favor of the efficacy, purity and stability, of the work of God in this latter day, suffice it to know, that the "Holy City" which the Almighty by his holy Spirit in his beloved and faithful servant John, showed coming down from God out of Heaven, is now established and increasing on the earth; and that there can "in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie."

Within the seven last years, great and marvelous have been the displays and operations of the Spirit of God and his Almighty Power among his people; in signs and open visions, showing the various states and torments of the damned; as also, in miniature, the happified states and conditions of the blessed; in revelations and prophecies, relating to his wonderful works, both in the visible and invisible worlds, past, present and to come: as also great have been the operations of his All-searching Power, to prepare his people for the coming day.

Great and marvelous, beyond the power of mortal tongue to utter, or the pen of mortals to describe, have been the manifestations of the condescension, the mercy and goodness of the Almighty God and "Father of All," in preparing and raising up Prophets, and Prophetesses, "instruments of his own choosing," that through them, by the ministration of his holy Angels;—

By the ministration of the spirits of his "Anointed Ones" our heavenly Parents, and the spirits of his ancient Prophets and Saints, who surround his throne, and who once inhabited mortality, and had their dwellings and their occupations on the earth and among men:— I say;—

That by these, through the "Instruments of his own choosing," hath the Almighty God, and Father of all, in his marvelous condescension, his wisdom, his mercy and his goodness, seen fit to make known his holy will, his counsels and his laws; first, to all the inhabitants of his Zion; and from them, to all the nations and inhabitants of the earth; as this Sacred Roll and Book bears record.

Of these, the Instruments, through whom God had chosen to communicate his will to mortals, I feel it incumbent on me to bear testimony. From the first commencement of this mighty and wonderful work, as far as my knowledge of it has extended, I have been an eye and an ear witness to its humiliating power, when first operating upon those who were called upon to declare the words put into their mouths to speak, or were put into their hands to read, by the holy Angels, and other Messengers from on High, until the sacred injunction was cheerfully obeyed.

I have been a witness to many of the scenes of mortification, of sorrow, of humiliation and sufferings both of body and mind, through which they have had to pass, to prepare them for this, the most sacred of duties. I have seen their tears, have heard their groans and their cries, and their humble prayers to God, and their supplications to his people for their prayers, that they might be enabled to do his will, and perform the duties required at their hands.

And I do testify, from indisputable evidence, and with the most scrupulous regard to truth, that the messages and communications proceeding from their mouths, were not of mortal diction; but by the Divine agency they were uttered; and that they proceeded from the source of Eternal Truth; as their sacred writings also bear witness.

The foregoing Sacred Roll, I have heard read before a large assembly, by the chosen mortal Instrument that wrote it; the reading of which was attended with manifestations of power, and the Divine favor from on High. And from my experience in the work of God, and its searching operations upon the heart, and by revelation and the inspirations of his holy Spirit; I do bear witness, and testify, that the contents of this Sacred Roll and Book, came from, and are sent forth to mortals by, God the Father, the Creator of Heaven and earth:

That it is the greatest act of condescension, of mercy and loving kindness, the Almighty Eternal Father ever did bestow upon mortals, the work of his hands, since man was upon the earth; to warn them of their danger, of his fast approaching judgments, and the calamities that must shortly befall them, for their sins and wickedness, and their rebellion against Him; Thus explicitly to teach, instruct, and show them the way to find his holy favor and protection.

Will ye condescend to look at this, O ye Kings and Queens, ye Princes and Princesses, and all ye Rulers and Nobles of the earth? Will ye look at this, the great condescension of the Almighty to man, the work of his hands, and the object of his care? Consider well the words of God, your Heavenly Father, in this Sacred Roll and Book, now sent unto you in this your age and day of visitation.

Remember Nineveh, Tyre and Sidon; Babylon and Jerusalem; and the many opulent cities and powerful kingdoms of past ages, who had the counsels and heard the warning voice of the Almighty through his holy Prophets; but they regarded not; and what and where are they now! Hearken therefore, unto the warning voice of God your Heavenly Father, which in mercy and loving kindness, He hath now sent to all the children of men, that they may find his favor and protection, lest like those who in past ages disregarded his holy word, "Your cities likewise become a desolation, and without inhabitant."

To conclude: That great and distressing calamities, by sea and land, by fire and flood, are fast approaching, and that the mighty Angels of the God of Heaven have already gone forth to execute his judgments in the earth, there is no doubt. And from what we have seen, heard and felt, of the very wonderful works of God among his people, within the few years past, we are compelled to accord with the language of the Holy Spirit, "Great and marvelous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways thou King of saints. Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for thy judgments are made manifest."

With pure and true regard for the peace, prosperity and happiness of my fellow mortals, I am,

TESTIMONY OF WILLIAM P. WILLIAMS.

I was born in Pittsfield, Berkshire county, state of Massachusetts, April ninth, seventeen hundred and ninety one; and united with the Society of Believers in Hancock, in the year eighteen hundred and seven; and have, during thirty six years, practically proved the testimony of the gospel maintained in this Society, and have, during this time, found salvation and peace in compliance therewith. Here I find the gospel of Christ's second appearing, which to my soul yields the peaceable fruits of righteousness, which are as "a well of water springing up unto everlasting life." Here I can commune with God, and unite with the angelic host, in praise to Him, for the power that saves me from sin and iniquity, while walking this vale below.

In the late manifestation of God, in which He has, in a peculiar and wonderful manner, wrought among his people, I have witnessed many sublime exhibitions of his mighty power. Sensible I am, that nothing less than such a power could have brought souls to see, sense and feel, what has been clearly realized by his people in this day. They have been brought to feel such nearness to God, and such humiliation of spirit, that they are induced to walk exceedingly careful in his holy fear.

I approve of the Sacred Roll and Book, which is sent forth to the nations of the earth, and I can say in the solemn fear of God, I have no reason to doubt its divine origin. My soul's desire and prayer to God is, that those who read may understand, and treat the word in such a manner, that they are willing to meet the reward of their doings at the bar of Almighty God.

Hancock, Mass.; September 20, 1843. WILLIAM P. WILLIAMS.

TESTIMONY OF JOHN LYON.

Having been called in my youth by the blessed gospel of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ, manifested in his second appearing through the spirit of eternal truth, revealed in and through our blessed Mother Ann Lee, which call was to forsake sin; yea, that which is most highly esteemed by a lost and sinful world, and with which I unhesitatingly complied, I gave myself up to know the will of God and do it; made the holy Scriptures the book of my delight, searched them through and through without scepticism, infidelity, or desire to find something to feast a carnal mind, which resulted in the discovery of a harmonious connection of the events relating to the work of God with man; showing He had begun a work with him, and in due time would bring it to a close.

In this labor, I was often blessed of God with manifestations and revelations from Him, with various supernatural gifts of the spirit, such as were manifested in the primitive Church, in the days of Christ and the Apostles. Thus, I found the promise of the Holy Savior fully verified, viz: "If any man will do his will, He shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself."

The question will then arise, How shall we know his will? I answer; To believe in the revelation of God, and to practice the same as He has made it known, through inspiration in his faithful servants, from the beginning; and will continue to do, until He makes a final close of his work with the human race, notwithstanding the erroneous doctrine so strongly maintained in the senses of mankind, that the day of miracles is past, which supersedes the necessity, or destroys a faith and confidence in looking for any revelation or inspiration from God in our day; notwithstanding it has been carried to such length, that many look upon any thing asserted as a revelation from God to his chosen witnesses, who deny themselves daily to do his holy will, as blasphemy.

How shocking the delusion, how thick the darkness which has been spread over this sinful and benighted world! I have often been told, even by those who profess to be a light to the blind, that there are no such things in this day as miracles, inspiration or supernatural communication from God to man; that it ceased with the apostolic age.

O how dark and blind! Are we to be made to believe, that about the time John wrote his revelation, God was deprived of his attributes of power and wisdom, and became so imbecile, that He could not reveal or make known his will to his faithful witnesses, who lived up to the best light they had, from that day to this; although the light and power of Christ was not known on the earth during the reign of antichrist, being twelve hundred and sixty years.

Again: if there has been no revelation or inspiration since the apostolic age, where shall we find the origin of this wonderful doctrine? from whence did it come? It is certain, it cannot be derived from the holy Scriptures, (the former revelation,) with any propriety. Then we must look for it from another source.

If there has been no revelation by inspiration from God to man, since the days of the Apostles, we must conclude this soul-darkening doctrine is the progeny of Antichrist, brought forth from the prolific womb of the mother of harlots, with all the rest of her abominations.

If any think they can support this doctrine from the Apostle's words, (I. Cor. xiii, 8;) "Charity never faileth; but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away," let them look into ecclesiastical history, and they will learn the reason why the apostolic gifts ceased.

There they will find, as soon as God raised up a witness or Prophet, to Himself, inspired with his word and power, against the abominations of this mother of harlots, sometimes called the Church, then the fury of the scarlet colored beast was raised against such inspired instrument, until he was extirpated from the earth.

But charity never faileth; because those souls who had it in possession, were out of their reach; for they could only kill the bodies, who were made the instruments of his word and power, but could not touch the soul, where faith, hope and charity had their residence.

If any still think the day of revelation is past, let them declare to the world what it was the seven thunders uttered, if they can. If not, let them consider the declaration of the Angel to Christ's servant, John: "In the days of the voice of the seventh Angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God should be finished, as he hath declared to the prophets." [Rev. x, 7.]

Thus all may see, there remained a mystery to be revealed and finished, when the time should come for the seventh Angel to sound; and although a mystery, yet we have a clue to the work that should be ushered in at the sounding of the Angel. [Rev. xi, 18.] "And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead, that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and to them that fear thy name, small and great; and shouldest destroy them which destroy the earth."

Now the nations of the earth have the privilege of hearing the seventh trumpet. The call of the Almighty Jehovah has gone forth in mercy and loving kindness, to the children of men, giving them opportunity and time for repentance, by humbling themselves before Him, and forsaking their filthy abominations; for who is it that destroys the earth, but such as fill it with corruption and violence, like the antedeluvians in the days of Noah?

And now let all nations, kindreds, tongues and people to whom these sacred warnings shall come, consider that the end of all flesh came before God in the days of Noah; at which time Almighty Power and Truth declared; "My spirit shall not always strive with man."

Therefore, let every soul understand that the seventh trumpet is the last call to the children of men; and that all souls have the privilege of forsaking their filthy abominations, while the mercy of God is held out to them; and thus receive the reward of those who fear his name, and walk humbly before Him; or if they choose, rebel against his warning voice, and remain in their pollutions, and receive a stroke in vengeance from his Almighty arm, which is now stretched out to decide his controversy with all flesh.

And now, as one that has obtained the mercy of God, through confessing and forsaking all sin, and yielding myself in obedience to the revelation of God in this present dispensation of his grace to a lost world, I can freely testify to all the inhabitants of the earth, to whom the Sacred Roll and Book is directed, that I do fully and conscientiously believe that the word of the Proclamation and Roll, contained in said Book, is the revelation of God, and given by his Almighty Power and Wisdom, by inspiration.

And furthermore, that I do positively know that the laws, requirements and sentiments therein contained, are perfectly consistent with every declaration of his will to man; and also with his attributes of justice, mercy and truth; and is the voice of the Arch-angel, with the last trumpet to the nations of the earth; and also the time for the full manifestation of what was sounded when the seven thunders uttered their voices, which was sealed up until the fullness of time should come, when it would be revealed by the sounding of the mighty Angel, with the great and last trump.

I wish to be understood, that I am far from thinking that by writing the above, I am making eternal truth more permanent; as I conceive that no effort of mortals can add or diminish its authority.

But having had a long experience in the work of the present dispensation, and being somewhat extensively known, or that my name has had much circulation, I thought it might perhaps be the means of calling the attention of some who have known my long experience, to pause long enough to turn their attention to the sacred volume sent forth to the nations of the earth, and cause them to peruse and ponder upon the sacred truths contained therein; it being more than forty five years, since I first heard the voice of the Arch-angel, with the great and last trumpet, which then shook the earth or elements of nature in which my soul was enveloped;

And from that time, I have had no hesitation but that God had begun his final work of visitation with man; and would carry it on, until He had made a decisive work with the children of men.

Although I am but as a speck or a mote, in the scale of created beings; yet, whatever I am as an intelligent being, though never so small, it is my duty to be a co-worker with God, so long as I have given myself up to do his will. And as He has arisen to shake the heavens and the earth according to his promise, then I must work with Him and shake.

So whoever is found on his side, must humble themselves and be co-workers with Him, to shake out sin and pollution from their own souls, and thereby prepare themselves to be true inhabitants of the Holy City.

This is the true desire of one who is no better by nature, than the rest of his fellow beings.

Enfield, N. H. July 17, 1843. JOHN LYON.

TESTIMONY OF ELISHA POTE.

To all unto whom these pages may come:

The undersigned is one who has had personal knowledge of the wonderful displays of the gifts and power of God, which have attended the present testimony of Christ's second appearing, from the time it was first declared in this land by God's chosen witnesses, who were commissioned from Heaven to do that work, and who spake as they were moved upon by the Holy Spirit, viz; by divine inspiration, unto the present day.

I was born in Gorham, county of Cumberland and state of Maine, July twenty fifth, seventeen hundred and sixty four; and connected myself with this Society at the age of twenty years.

I have been acquainted with the gifts and operations of divine power which have attended the present work of God from the beginning, or for sixty years past; therefore, I can testify to what I have seen, heard and felt.

I have learned this one important lesson; not to have my faith stand in the wisdom of this world, nor in great natural gifts or talents; for the Lord hath said, I will confound the wisdom of the wise, and bring to nought the understanding of the prudent. Do all believe this? Whether they do or not, it remains an unalterable truth, which all will have to learn, before they can enter into the kingdom of Heaven. Their faith must center to, and stand in the revelation and power of God, and not in the wisdom of this world, which cometh to nought.

There is nothing which can be said or written on this subject, which will add weight of evidence, as it respects divine revelation; for this is immutable and unchangeable, and carries its own evidence; but blind mortals will shut their eyes and harden their hearts, against light, and their own conviction, until desolation overtakes them.

I feel to warn all, in the spirit of love and charity, not to slight or turn a deaf ear to the solemn warnings which are now sent forth into the world, by the great Jehovah, the righteous Judge of both quick and dead, whose judgments are according to truth and justice.

View the present state of what is called the christian world; and what do we find? Contention, strife, divisions and subdivisions, party against party, so that poor distressed souls hardly know where to find a resting place. Behold the abominations which are committed, and then cloaked under the mask of christianity! These things are plainly described by the testimony of eternal truth, now sent forth from the throne of God through his Angels, and given to instruments of mortal clay, as a medium through which the mind and purpose of God are made known to the nations of the earth.

I would ask, Is there any thing between the lids of this Book, now sent forth to all nations; can you find a phrase or sentence, which is not according to truth, or which does not correspond with the revelation of God to man? Then let all hearken to it and tremble, and pray that they may be able to enter immediately into the obedience of its sacred requirements, that they may escape the judgments which are soon to fall upon the wicked.

For "it will surely come, it will not tarry." The Lord hath spoken, and it will come to pass; though the old heavens and earth may pass away, not one jot or tittle of the word of our God will fail.

Think not that the present warning, which is now sent abroad, is the production of a wild fanaticism, or a cunningly devised fable, or any thing short of the special command of the God of Heaven, sent forth by a heavenly Messenger, and communicated to a dying world, through the medium of earthen vessels.

What think ye? Do you believe that messengers were sent to declare the word of the Lord to the Prophets; and they sent to the people? O yea, some will say; we fully believe that. Has God altered? or has the order of his communication changed? I say, nay; but the spirit of divine inspiration has been withdrawn from those corrupt churches who name the name of Christ, and do not depart from iniquity, whose sins have separated them from their God.

The time has now come, for the fulfillment of the promises of God, which have been predicted by the Patriarchs and Prophets, from the early ages of the world, respecting the Church of the latter day. This Church, whose foundation is laid in the revelation of God, and has ever been supported by the same, independent of worldly wisdom, or earthly power, is now established on earth; and the gifts of the primitive Church are restored, according to promise.

It is through the medium of this Church thus established, that the proclaiming Angel has sent forth this declaration to all the inhabitants of earth; and in the language of the Prophet I would say, O! earth, earth! hear the word of the Lord; for He has a controversy with the inhabitants of the whole earth, for they are sunken in their abominations, and polluted in their sins, and the day of retribution draweth nigh.

There is a warning voice gone forth from Heaven, and I feel bold to declare unto all, what the effect will be, (though I do not expect to live to see it;) that, so far as the declarations of the proclaiming Angel are promulgated and made known to mankind, so far they will become accountable; for all who slight the call of God to them, and willfully reject these sacred requirements, the judgments herein threatened will surely fall upon them, and they cannot escape; but on the other hand, all who humble themselves and accept of the merciful terms herein offered, will find peace and protection; and God will hide them in his pavilion, while his judgments fall with pain upon the wicked.

My fellow mortals, the way to find the protection and favor of God, is made plain and easy; and what can be more reasonable? I exhort all to leave their sins, by repentance, and their iniquities, by turning to God.

Having had a long experience in this self-denying way, and being somewhat extensively known as a public speaker and elder in the United Society for many years of my life, I leave this as my closing testimony, for the benefit of mankind; and do conscientiously and cheerfully recommend this, the way of life and salvation, to all who seek to know and serve the Lord.

Alfred, Maine; July 22, 1843. ELISHA POTE.

TESTIMONY OF DANIEL MOSELEY AND OTHERS.

Perhaps it may be some satisfaction to many who may read the foregoing sacred pages, to hear the opinion or testimony of some concerning the same who are far advanced in life; and who have been eye and ear witnesses of the increasing work of God among his people, in this day of Christ's second appearing, for nearly sixty years; as well as of the late and special outpouring of God's spirit and power in the different branches or societies of this community, throughout the United States.

We say, among his people, without arrogance or boasting, and without the least disparagement to others; for the Lord never displayed and continued such divine and marvelous gifts among a people whom He did not own and bless; even the same gifts which existed in the apostolic church; including visions, revelations, divers kinds of tongues, and the gift of prophecy.

But these gifts cannot be truly exercised only by the direction of that Power who gave them; mortal man is only an organ or instrument through which the Divine Spirit operates.

It is readily admitted that the credulity of mankind, in ancient and modern times, has often been imposed upon by false pretenders to divine revelation; insomuch that many have stopped their ears, and shut their eyes against every thing that bears the name of divine inspiration. But all this does not by any means, prove that divine inspiration or revelation does not in truth and reality exist; but on the contrary, it proves that there is a substantial reality in both; for there cannot be a counterfeit without a genuine original pattern of the same name. There cannot be a counterfeit coin or bank bill, without the existence of a genuine original character bearing the same name and description; the imitation of which is the object of the counterfeiter. But as there is evidence accompanying each of these, sufficient, under a watchful and discerning eye, to show the difference between the true and false, so there is in relation to true and counterfeit inspiration or revelation.

It would be blasphemy in a high degree, as well as the height of folly and presumption, for any mortal of common reason, to attempt to make, or publish a sacred proclamation to all the world, in the name and authority of the Almighty Creator, unless he was conscious, beyond all doubt, that he was authorized or commanded so to do by that Divine Authority. And that the foregoing Sacred Roll and Book, have been authorized and written by divine inspiration, we are confident beyond all doubt; whereas we have had, and still have, abundance of evidence to establish the truth of it.

It has been our serious impression, for some years past, that God would, ere long, visit the children of men in a manner more extraordinary than He had done for many ages: and this impression has been corroborated from time to time, and finally confirmed by that spirit of prophecy which has already, in many instances, proved itself to be from the God of Truth.

Many events known to this community, having recently been foretold by the spirit of prophecy, have already taken place; all concurring to prove that God is about "to do his work, his strange work, and bring to pass his act, his strange act," among the nations of the earth. Some of these prophecies, alluding to the same event, have been proclaimed through various individuals, remotely situated from each other, and without any previous correspondence whatever; yet with that similarity of expression and other circumstances which could only proceed from the light of eternal truth.

And we have no more reason to doubt the fulfillment of what now stands predicted in the aforesaid Sacred Roll and Book, than we have of that which has already taken place.

Finally, from what we have seen, heard and felt of the marvelous operations of the spirit of God in this community, for six years past, we as fully believe the contents of the preceding Sacred Roll to have emanated from Almighty Power and Wisdom, and that the same were communicated to the writer by divine inspiration, as therein stated, as we believe that God spake to the people in ages past, by Moses and the Prophets; or that He wrought miracles by Christ and his Apostles: Or as fully as we believe any part of that sacred volume, denominated The Scriptures of truth.

Indeed, the evidence in the present display of God's power is more clear and striking to us, than that in former dispensations, because it is more immediate and impressive: and as such, we feel in duty bound to treat and sustain it with reverence and godly fear.

Should any suppose the preceding pages exceptionable, because they are not written agreeably to the popular style and refinement of the present age, let them consider that, in this respect, they bear the greater analogy to the sacred Scriptures; and also to all divine proclamations in every age; and that God never was, and we have no reason to believe He ever will be dependent on mortals, for language to communicate his requirements to man.

But the foregoing divine Message is written in plain, simple, unaffected language, (though solemn and weighty,) adapted to every capacity of common understanding. And however incredulous, or indifferent many may be respecting this solemn Proclamation, or whatever may be their treatment of the same, this cannot invalidate the purpose of God, nor weaken our confidence in his word; we confidently believe it will be verified; and that it will finally effect that for which it was designed by the hand of Almighty Power.

It is the prevailing belief with many in this, and perhaps other countries, that the Second Advent, or day of judgment is near at hand; and so it is. That event has already commenced, although, as yet, out of their sight: but every eye will yet see it. Therefore these impressions are, no doubt, correct, emanating from an invisible reality; and go far to confirm the truth of what was said to the prophet Daniel concerning the near approach of that day; That many should run to and fro, and that knowledge should be increased.

But some have run before their tidings were ready: they have undertaken to limit the time, and prescribe the manner in which this great work is to take place, by calculating the prophecies relating to that event, according to their own natural wisdom; but they have been hitherto, and will forever be disappointed in all their human plans. They have mistaken both the time of its commencement, and the manner of its operations. They have greatly transcended the limits of man, by limiting the times and seasons which God hath reserved in his own power until the event should declare it.

And although that day has already commenced, having been declared by the event; yet it has come as a thief in the night, and "as a snare upon all them that dwell upon the face of the whole earth," according to the testimony of eternal truth. But "every eye shall see him;" (in the clouds of his witnesses;) for God is about to "destroy the face of the covering cast over all people, and the vail that is spread over all nations."

Thus having been members of this community for about sixty years, we have given a brief sketch of what we have experienced in that work of God which was promised to take place in the latter day; and especially of the late and universal out-pouring of God's spirit among his chosen people. We have ever found this work replete with all the promises of God to his Church in the latter day. It is that gospel which is the power of God to salvation in the present tense.

And being now far advanced in life, it would not be reasonable to suppose that we should have any selfish or improper motives, with a view to excite a false impression in the minds of our fellow mortals: there is nothing more foreign from our intention; but out of love and good will to all mankind, we leave this testimony as a conscientious seal of that sacred truth, by which we are willing to be judged at the final bar of Eternal Justice.

WITNESSES OF THE WORK OF GOD IN ALL AGES OF THE WORLD; AND TESTIMONY OF THE ETERNAL TWO IN ONE, TO THE ORDER OF THEIR ANOINTING ON EARTH.

REVEALED AT NEW LEBANON, N. Y. FEBRUARY 17, 1843.

PART I.

1. Listen O ye Heavens, and keep silent all ye powers of earth, for that I AM, who have manifested myself in part to the creatures of my creation, both in Heaven and on earth, will now declare again, through the medium of my ever true and faithful witness, (Eternal Wisdom,) truths, concerning my work with the creatures of my kingdoms in Heaven and on earth, that bear testimony to my unerring mercy and justice which I have dealt out without measure unto them, ever since them I created.

2. Thus saith the faithful Mother Wisdom, the Eternal Mother of my Anointed, in Heaven and on earth, to the children of my kingdom established on earth; listen unto her voice.

3. I AM, THE ETERNAL, is a God of perfect order: harmony marks his way, in order and harmony did He create the Heavens and the earth, in order and harmony did He place all the powers therein; In subjection to his eternal and unchangeable laws of order and harmony, did He form the creatures thereof, and place them in order therein.

4. And this order, He has manifested in all his works to the creatures of his creation, so far as was necessary to hold them in that order wherein they were placed, so long as they walked in obedience thereto.

5. And He has now sent Me, Wisdom, to witness thereto, and declare again the order of his manifestation to his creatures, both in Heaven and on the earth; therefore hearken unto Me.

6. The witnesses of the order of God throughout, remain to be seen by his creatures. When He said, Let there be light, I was with Him, and light was created; the witness whereof is manifest unto this day. And that at no period the witness should be invisible, the moon He also created to rule the night, and to declare that his justice remains unmoved.

7. When He gave the earth, the seas and the heavens, with the orbs that roll therein their bounds, I was there, and saw all that was done; and the witness thereof remaineth unto this day.

8. When He formed the creatures with his word, and placed them upon his creation, gave them their ranks of superiority and power, and their laws for action, which are unchangeable, I was there, and witnessed that all was good, and subject to his unchangeable law; the witness whereof yet remaineth, and will remain to the end of time.

9. When He formed man, his noblest creature, in the image of Himself, and placed him at the head of his creation, to lead and direct the creatures thereof in obedience to his will, I was there, and saw all that was done; in witness whereof, his creature man yet remaineth.

10. When He gave unto man his laws, and the limits of his power, when He made known to him his will and pleasure; when He showed unto him his work, and the blessings he should enjoy by faithfully performing the same; when He showed unto him the way of life and happiness, and the fruit of the tree of life of which he might eat, I was there and saw all that was done; the witness whereof I have come to declare.

11. When He told him that if he ate of the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, he should surely die, I was there and witnessed to the truth of the same; and the witness thereof is manifested to this day, in every thing that He has created.

12. Death was his portion, for disobedience; and in death doth he yet remain; judgment is written on his brow, and stamped on the soles of his feet; the witness whereof remaineth and declareth the truth thereof.

13. And with his feet, did God's creature man walk in forbidden paths; with his hands did he handle unclean things; with his tongue did he curse his Maker and take his name in vain; with his heart did he mock his God, and the judgments pronounced upon him by his God.

14. Yea, and the whole desire of his heart was evil; therefore, it repented God that He had made him; and He promised to destroy him from the face of the earth. And when He did all this, I, Mother Wisdom, was there; and pronounced it agreeable to his unalterable decree of justice.

15. Again, when He had left a chosen seed to re-people the earth, and gave them their laws and ordinances, and promised unto them that He never would again drown the earth with water, I was there. And when He set his bow in the cloud as a token of the same, I saw it, and We pronounced it good; the witness whereof yet remaineth in the heavens.

16. When in peace He promised a blessing to the chosen few He had saved from the ravages of his destruction, giving unto them his laws, to multiply and replenish the earth, I was there, and bore witness that all was agreeable to his unalterable law of justice; and the multitude of people, which now inhabit the earth, are a witness of this unto this day.

17. When men began again to do wickedly, and forget the Lord their God, and bow down themselves to idols, He then destroyed their cities with fire, and sank them into the bowels of the earth, and covered them with stagnant waters; the witness whereof remaineth unto this day, as a memorial against them.

18. When they began to war and fight, and destroy each other, and to trust in their own arms for strength, then did He select a chosen people, to rule among the nations; and endowed them with his power, which He allowed them to use after the manner of men, to fight and destroy the kingdoms of the earth, which were wicked, and again to set up his standard upon earth.

19. Yea, He resolved to meet them in their own path, and there execute his laws of justice; and He gave unto them his laws and his statutes, which He had designed for his creature man; and they did, in reality, meet man in his own paths; for these laws were, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth: Whosoever sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed. And the destruction of the human family which has been upon the earth, the desolated kingdoms and wide wastes, remain as a witness of the truth of this, unto this day.

20. When He promised, in the seed of Abraham the nations of the earth should be blessed, I was there, and saw that it was agreeable to his attribute of mercy. The witness of this, his most holy promise, has been declared, is now declaring; and the work which will be performed by his Two ANOINTED ONES, CHRIST AND Mother Ann, will yet continue to declare and witness to its truth.

21. When his chosen people began to forget their God, and to follow their own lusts, He warned them by the mouths of his holy Prophets, to repent and turn to Him, but they refused; In consequence whereof, through the mouths of his holy Prophets, He did pronounce the destruction of their place and nation, and to scatter them to the four quarters of the earth; the scattered remnant of which, remaineth as a witness of the same unto this day.

22. When again through the mouths of his holy Prophets, He promised unto them a Savior, who should set up his kingdom on earth, and restore again peace to his creature man, I was there, and saw that it was agreeable to his attributes of mercy and truth.

23. And the witness of his goodness, in sending his only begotten Son, to save his people from their sins, and restore to them the blessings of his protection, was manifested by the mighty miracles which he wrought, and the good deeds which he did to the fallen race of mankind, who had lost the protection of their God, and been left to destroy each other; in which manner of going, they must inevitably have been left to destroy themselves, together with their possessions.

24. But the precepts of his beloved Son, his only begotten, and his word to the nations of the earth were, Peace on earth, good will to man. As a witness of the reality of this Jesus being the Son of God, his life and death bear record.

25. For God has declared, and borne witness, by all created things, that his law is order, and his kingdom is peace; That the Heavens, wherein is his throne, should be peace; and that the earth, which is his footstool, should not be noise and tumult; but that all should harmonize one with the other.

26. And his beloved Son declared that peace was his mission, peace was the name of his kingdom; and, as there was nought in the world but wars and tumults, he boldly declared unto them, that his kingdom was not of this world, else would his servants fight; That the world must come to an end; that the inhabitants thereof must be regenerated and born anew, or never see their God in peace.

27. The witness of this testimony, I, Wisdom, do declare unto you, is manifested in the sacred record of the word of God, which I have caused to be preserved by the order of my providence, for the conviction of the human race.

28. Though by some, this Holy Book has been set at nought and derided, declared to be false, and the work of man's hand; yet, I have punished, and will continue to punish the Heaven-daring spirit that will do this, with judgments too awful for man to utter.

29. But I, Wisdom, do now call Heaven and earth to declare, that this was the Son of God, the Savior of the world, the blessing that was promised to the nations; yet the world received him not, but crucified him, and tried to overthrow his kingdom.

30. And this is the witness that declareth unto all, that his kingdom is not of this world; for the world would not tear down a building of its own.

31. The order of God doth declare, that like produces like. Had Christ been of the world, had his life been conformed to the lawless passions of the children thereof, they would have loved him; and his followers would not have been the subjects of their derision and scorn; but destruction was the law of their god, and it they determined to obey.

32. Yet, the Almighty had purposed, again to restore the earth to its order and place; and in accordance therewith, He boldly declared, through the mouths of the Prophets, and through his only begotten Son, that his work should be perfected; that He would again send the Savior to the world; and that sin and sinners should be cast from his kingdom which should be established therein, never more to be destroyed.

33. For his unalterable attributes of love, mercy and order, forbid that mankind should remain lords therein, and worship gods of their own forming.

34. But, as He said to his first chosen people, Thou shalt have no other gods but Me; so shall it remain to the end of time; and the judgments which He has sent, and will send to the inhabitants of the earth, shall bear witness, that this his word is true and faithful, and correspondent to his unalterable law of justice.

35. When God in his mercy did again send the Savior, the second time to the world, without sin unto salvation; then I, Wisdom, was there, and did declare that it is finished; this is the perfect day; this is the last display of God's grace to his fallen creature man.

36. The order of his grace is now complete; Through this medium, shall earth again harmonize with Heaven, and God's eternal plan of order and harmony, be fully accomplished.

37. The witness of this, is now manifested by the communications from Heaven, to those in this sacred order of grace upon the earth; which have been, still are, and forever shall be manifested, with the power and glory of the Eternal God, out of the sight of mortal power, and contrary to the devices of mortal reason; yet, conformable, in every particular, to the manifestation of his will to man, throughout all generations; which is, that he should be his image on earth, and the object of his delight and pleasure.

38. The power and wisdom of God, I, Wisdom, do declare unto you, is now vested in the Son and Daughter, the Two Anointed Ones, the head of this, his new earth, and the Lord of the new Heavens, the Father and Mother of the New Creation.

39. Through these, his mediators, He will continue to bestow his blessings upon the nations of the earth, till time shall have an end. This is his means of redemption to the fallen race; and this, his sacred order of grace, shall yet be revered, throughout the nations of the earth.

GOD DECLARETH THE VESTMENT OF HIS POWER, IN WHICH HE HATH CLOTHED THE TWO ANOINTED ONES.

PART II.

1. Thus saith the Lord, Listen O my people, and hearken all ye people who dwell on the earth; for I will declare unto you, the means whereby you may find access to my throne, and a rest within my kingdom.

2. My Two Anointed Ones, Jesus Christ and Mother Ann, the Father and Mother of all souls born into the New Creation, I have sent upon the earth, clothed with the garment of my power, to reveal to my creature man, (who has strayed from my paths, and marked out for himself a way and ways of death,) the way of life and liberty, to lead and direct him in the narrow way, direct to the mansions of my love.

3. Know ye, O my people, and know ye, all the inhabitants of the earth, that power is given to the Two Anointed Ones, over my creature man, in Heaven and on the earth. Yea, even over Angels in Heaven, are they Lord and Savior.

4. And whatsoever they shall bind on earth, shall be bound in Heaven; and whatsoever they shall loose on earth, shall be loosed in Heaven. Lo! them I have called to judge the earth, and the Heavens; and whatsoever is by them condemned and cast off, shall never enter my eternal kingdom of peace; such I will neither know, nor receive; but my judgments, which through these Anointed Ones I have pronounced upon the inhabitants of the earth, shall meet them when they look not for Me. I will sweep them with the besom of destruction from my presence; yea, they shall neither abide in the Heavens nor upon the earth.

5. And whatsoever is by them accepted, shall be accepted by Me, at my eternal throne, and shall have a place in my kingdom, in the endless ages of eternity.

6. Therefore, hear ye, all ye people, and receive, with hearts of gratitude, whatsoever may be bestowed upon you, by my Holy and Chosen Ones. Yea, let every soul bow unceasingly, and give thanks for the many blessings they have bestowed, and still are bestowing upon you, from my heavenly kingdom.

7. Hearken ye, therefore, unto them; for they will teach you of my ways, that you may walk in my paths. But know ye every soul of man, yea, every spirit in Heaven and on earth, that ye cannot pass by this order of my Anointing, and find access to my throne. Ye cannot enter, but by this door of mercy; for thus will I be revealed in Heaven and on earth. Amen.

WORD AND SEAL OF THE ETERNAL FATHER, BROUGHT AND READ BY A HOLY ANGEL.

COPIED BY INSPIRATION AT CANTERBURY NEW HAMPSHIRE, MARCH 26, 1843.

1. Thus saith the holy spirit of Eternal Truth and of Endless Light in one voice; Great have been the out-pourings of my spirit upon my Zion, and many are the blessings which I have bestowed upon her inhabitants. And behold, I have chosen and prepared Me Instruments who shall move at my will, in the various parts of my Zion, which I have established by my own hand in this devoted land of America; who shall stand as living witnesses to the weighty and important word which I, the living God, did write and seal with my many seals, and send forth from my Eternal Throne; guarded by the Holy Savior and many holy Angels, unto my Holy Mount, to be revealed in the strength and union of my holy order there, and copied by mortal hand, through deep tribulation and heavy sufferings.

2. And behold this is now done as pleaseth Me; for the Lion of the tribe of Judah hath prevailed to open the book, and loose the seals thereof. Ninety and nine are the seals revealed; but lo! in wisdom I planned it; for one was, and is not, and again is, and may this be affixed, in due season and order, to that word which I have purposed should benefit the nations of this earth, in my own way and time.

3. Thus saith the Holy Angel who brought the word and Seal; The last shall be first, and the first last; then write and fear not while I read the words on the Seal, for the will of God must be done.

The Hundredth, or Unchangeable Seal of the Living God.

1. Thus saith the Lord God of hosts; If any man shall carelessly or purposely add, alter, or diminish this sacred and permanent word of mine, by writing, printing, translating or reading it in any degree, shape or manner whatever, I will reward him in judgment seven fold; and he shall feel my anger, both day and night, for times and seasons, yea, until the sin shall be washed away by the waters of true repentance, and consumed by the fire of my justice.

2. Cursed shall be the body and soul that shall alter my Word, or cause it to be destroyed; yea, the tongue that shall blaspheme it also; and every one who may dare to lift up their voice, or put forth a hand to aid in burning my word, shall not escape the awful plagues which shall be poured out on the earth; for with a curse, I, the God of justice, will smite them, from the crown of their heads to the soles of their feet; and in inexpressible anguish shall they lament with bitterness their sin.

3. But to those who shall seek to keep my word holy and safe from all harm, believe, repent and obey in sacred fear; bend their knees in prayer, bow their souls and bodies low even to the dust, and raise their feeble voices to my throne, in tears of repentance and entreaty, I will hearken in love, and like a kind Father draw near and befriend them.

4. I will lead them to the true light of salvation; make them my holy and well beloved servants, and they shall dwell in my kingdom forever, saith the Holy and Just One; for I am the Beginning and Ending, and this is my unchangeable Seal which shall forever stand. Amen, even so let it be.

CLOSING WORD OF THE MIGHTY ANGEL OF GOD;

REVEALED AT NEW LEBANON, NEW YORK, APRIL 17, 1843.

1. Give ear unto my voice, all ye nations of the earth, and listen with attention all ye dwellers in Zion's habitations.

2. By the command of my God have I been required closely to examine all that enters between the lids of this sacred book, whether brought forward as testimonies from those who at times had clearly seen it by the immediate inspiration of God, for many months previous to the writing of this Roll and Book, in different societies, and in various places, held in my hands or borne upon the wings of other holy Angels; or whether it be merely as witnesses to the truth of that word herein contained.

3. My God did require that there should be many signers to his word, not for the sake of substantiating its truth; for it hath proceeded and come forth from no other source, than the source of eternal truth itself; but that all the inhabitants of the earth may know that God has a seed remaining upon the earth, a little chosen few, a poor afflicted and despised people, yet numbered in the Zion of his likeness; who are ready and thankful for a privilege to do his will and pleasure, should it cost them all the enjoyments of life, and even the sacrifice of life itself.

4. My God doth not require, saith the mighty Angel, that all the inhabitants of Zion should sign this his first word to the children of men, in this the last dispensation of his grace to them, by affixing their own personal names; neither does He require that all whom He hath caused to be used as inspired agents, in this his late manifestation, should sign their names, individually; but a number sufficient to show the general union and approbation of the body of Zion at large, are permitted to sign it.

5. And further than this, says the Angel, is unnecessary, and not, at present, required by your God. But wait God's time for further requirements. Remember that He hath declared to all nations, that He worketh in a time of his own appointing, and willeth at his pleasure, the work for mortal man to be engaged in.

6. Therefore, hear and understand, all ye inhabitants of the earth, that but a few of those who have forsaken all for Christ's sake, now in this his second coming, without sin unto salvation, have placed their individual names in this Book;

7. Yet there are many, not herein named at this time, who stand equally justified before their God, as those who have affixed their names. And many there are, of various ages and classes, who have not signed their names as inspired instruments or agents, although they have had equal evidence in their own souls, with those who have signed, of the sublime and divine manifestations, for several years past, of a pure and holy God, to the inhabitants of Zion.

8. I, the Holy and Mighty Angel of God, do proclaim unto all people, both in and out of Zion, that God is able to make use of such an agency as He chooses, to convey his word and his will to the people:

9. But remember, that souls may be blessed with great gifts of discerning spirits, and of inspiration and revelation; yet lose their own salvation at last. These gifts can save none, any further than they yield true obedience to the revealed will of God, made known to them for their protection.

10. Again, I do testify unto all, that the true children of my Heavenly Father's kingdom, take no delight in having their names sounded abroad in the earth; they had much rather remain through life secluded, and enter eternity, having been unknown by the world at large. But if by any means, the will of God requireth their names to go abroad, they yield as rendering obedience, not as pleasing themselves.

11. God's word is truth, and needeth not the aid of mortals for its support; yet, for the sake of the unbeliever, He doth require a short testimony from such as He hath shown the Roll and Book which He was about to send forth to the inhabitants of earth, and that previous to the time of its being written.

12. As the inspired writer of the Roll and Book, was not suffered by his God, to know of these things until after the requirement of writing this Sacred Word had been accomplished, saith the Holy Angel, through whom this word has been revealed to man;

13. Therefore, read, and reflect in solemn silence; for here are truths recorded, that will stand in time and in the endless ages of eternity; not the "cunningly devised fables" of man or of woman; but truths of that God, before whom all must shortly appear, in mercy or in judgment.

14. And all that is placed between these sacred lids, I have closely examined, according to the direction of God, my Heavenly Father. And the spirit and substance of all herein contained, I pronounce and declare to all the inhabitants of earth, to be solemn and unalterable truths of God; and that which will stand for the same, in the endless ages of eternity.

15. Though the mortal writers or instruments of the word stand or fall from their present faith, and that sincerity of heart, in which they have written these testimonies, it can alter nothing, as respects the solemn truths they do contain.

16. They only alter their own situation; and by denying the sacred truths which, by the spirit of God, have been sounded through their mouths, they disinherit themselves from his Holy Kingdom; And their testimonies shall stand before the eyes of all people, as a solemn and awful record against them, both in time and in eternity, saith the Angel.

17. There never was, and never will be a dispensation of the mercy and grace of God opened to mankind, that can save them from their sins while walking in disobedience to its requirements.

18. But the greater the privilege that God hath granted them, by favoring them with his divine and sacred influence, the greater must be their horror and condemnation in turning therefrom, and walking again in open disobedience to that true light and sacred power, which, by the mercy of God, had once been suffered to rest upon their souls.

19. Therefore, hearken and understand, all ye nations, kindreds, tongues and people; for I, the mighty, holy and proclaiming Angel of God, do declare in your ears, and to your understanding, solemn truths of God.

20. None of the agents nor instruments that were ever used by the command of God, or in the hands of holy Angels, to sound forth his word and will to the people, were ever finally saved thereby, short of walking in strict obedience to that which was required of them, in the order that God had appointed.

21. But whenever they turn their feelings in disobedience to these requirements, and reject the same, they rapidly hasten their own destruction, and separation from the holy spirit of God. Whether they be instruments that have been used in the Zion of his likeness, or whether they be instruments that are abroad in the world, it altereth not the path that all must pursue, to find their own souls' salvation and protection from the power of evil, which is the path of strict and true obedience to that revealed will and order of God that is established for their souls' protection in the day and time in which they live.

22. By the fruits shall mankind discern whether the work be of God, saith the holy and mighty Angel, whose word faileth not. Therefore read and understand, by holy fear and sacred reverence, the word of that God who giveth immortality, and eternal life to all who keep his commandments.

LA TRADICIÓ LLATINA DEL LLIBRE DELS ÀNGELS DE FRANCESC EIXIMENIS[1]

1. Sempre s'ha comparat la immensitat oceànica de les obres del gironí Francesc Eiximenis amb les del mallorquí Ramon Llull, i és ben cert que, en tots dos casos, el pes material de la seva obra completa és més que remarcable. Tradicionalment també s'ha defensat, però, que els distingia, entre moltes altres coses, la intensitat i l'extensió de l'impacte en l'Europa del seu temps. La distribució dels manuscrits conservats, les notícies de manuscrits perduts i les influències sabudes d'aquests dos autors els atorguen graus d'influència força diferents. A l'excel·lent Llull DB (la base de dades on-line sobre Ramon Llull de la Universitat de Barcelona) s'hi poden consultar notícies sobre més d'un miler de testimonis lul·lians antics, repartits al llarg i ample del globus terraqui; si poguéssiu fer el mateix amb Francesc Eiximenis, us trobaríeu amb dos-cents cinquanta testimonis antics.[2] Hi ha un desfasament evident, tot i que també cal remarcar que dos centenars de testimonis antics per a un autor català és una xifra més que respectable. Més enllà de les xifres, cal fer tanmateix una distinció important entre aquests dos autors: Llull, que va començar escrivint les seves obres en català, o potser en àrab, ben aviat es va adonar de la necessitat estratègica de canviar cap a la llengua sàvia, el llatí, si volia influir d'una manera eficaç en els cercles intel·lectuals (especialment els de la Universitat de París) que havien d'ajudar-lo en els seus projectes. En conseqüència, la immensa majoria de les obres del catàleg lul·lià són llatines. Les obres de Francesc Eiximenis tenen sempre com a llengua principal la catalana (si exceptuem l'Ars praedicandi populo, el Psalterium laudatorium, el Pastorale, o el polèmic De triplici statu mundi, totes elles obres escolars o destinades a un públic especialitzat) i estan destinades a lectors de la Corona d'Aragó.

[2] A la primavera del 2006 s'activarà a la Universitat de Girona una base de dades sobre Francesc Eiximenis (Eiximenis DB), germana de la Llull DB, en el marc del programa coordinat CODITECAM (Corpus Digital de Textos Catalans Medievals). Més informació a http://www.narpan.net.

Encara hi ha un altre aspecte que acosta les obres del menoret i del beat: les seves obres no només van circular en la llengua en què es van escriure, sinó que també van circular (i molt!) en traduccions antigues a diverses llengües. Aquestes tradicions plurilingües són ben conegudes pels filòlegs des de fa més d'un segle, però tot just ara s'han començat a estudiar en profunditat, en bona part gràcies a les innovacions metodològiques que ha introduït la Nova Edició de les Obres de Ramon Llull. La voluntat que guia aquesta empresa és, resumint, integrar la tradició indirecta (és a dir la que no està en la llengua original del text i les possibles cites d'altres autors) en l'aparat crític de les obres, seguint el convenciment que les traduccions poden aportar informació textual pertanyent a branques perdudes de la tradició original, i que només un estudi conjunt de totes les tradicions d'una obra pot posar en relleu la història de la tradició del text, és a dir la història de la seva transmissió material i les vicissituds històriques dels seus copistes i lectors. Pel que sabem avui, l'obra de Francesc Eiximenis ha estat traduïda antigament a quatre llengües: al propi català, en el cas de les obres originalment en llengua llatina (el Psalterium laudatorium traduït per Guillem Fontana com a Psaltiri devotíssim); al castellà, com en el cas del Llibre de les dones, del Llibre dels àngels i de la Vida de Jesucrist; al francès, hi tenim traduccions del Llibre dels àngels i de la Vida de Jesucrist; al llatí, excepcionalment, el Llibre dels àngels; i, finalment, al flamenc, també en el cas únic del Llibre dels àngels. Deixo de banda la traducció de fragments i les cites incrustades o manipulades en les obres d'altres autors, en diverses llengües (cf. García López, Guixeras). Tanmateix, el més interessant d'aquesta tradició eiximeniana plurilingüe és que ens demostra, si hem de jutjar per les còpies conservades, el seu èxit internacional. Només comptant els manuscrits, de la traducció castellana del Llibre de les dones se'n conserven 10 testimonis (en català, la meitat). De la Vida de Jesucrist conservem 2 testimonis francesos i 3 de castellans, davant dels 7 testimonis catalans sencers, i molts de parcials. I, finalment, del Llibre dels àngels (que actualment es conserva en 18 manuscrits catalans sencers) es conserven també 7 testimonis castellans, 16 testimonis francesos i 3 testimonis llatins. Per tant, crec que s'hauria de matisar l'opinió canònica de la manca d'influència europea del menoret: a la llum del que acabem de dir podem afirmar que Eiximenis va influir (i va influir molt) a la França dels segles XV i XVI i, també, a l'Espanya dels segles XV, XVI, XVII i XVIII. Per acabar aquest repàs necessàriament molt ràpid a la recepció d'Eiximenis, cal recalcar que la seva presència europea, en la majoria de casos, va ser deguda precisament, a l'interès que va despertar en personatges pertanyents als grans nuclis d'influència, a les elits: a aquells grups als quals també va voler arribar, un segle abans, Ramon Llull.

Fent un cop d'ull als lectors francesos d'Eiximenis, i afegint que alguns testimonis més pobres ens indiquen circulacions complementàries, ens adonarem del tipus especial de públic de les obres del menoret. La bellíssima còpia de la Vida de Jesucrist (BNP fr. 29) pertanyia a Joana de França, filla de Carles VII i muller Joan II, duc de Bourbon. Més tard una altra muller del duc, Caterina d'Armanyac, va heretar aquest mateix còdex. Entre els manuscrits francesos del Llibre dels àngels, el luxós ms. A (BNP fr. 24773) era propietat de

Denis Aladant, notari del rei de França. El ms. B (BNP fr. 1777) duu una subscripció d'Anna de Cuise, vídua de Jean Rapine, mestre d'hostal i governador d'Auxerre. El ms. E (BNP fr. 186), que és la còpia més luxosa en francès, no presenta subscripcions, però les seves cinc miniatures esplèndides sí que proporcionen molts indicis iconogràfics d'un comitent elevat: l'orla que les acompanya duu sempre un escut blau amb tres flors de lis centrat a la barra de sota, l'escut reial de França des de Carles VI (XIV-XV) a Enric III (finals XVI). Un cop s'hagi completat la descripció dels manuscrits francesos podrem, segurament, orientar molt millor les zones i els cercles a través dels quals es va anar introduint Eiximenis a la França del quatre-cents (vegeu ara Wittlin; i Martí 2006 i en premsa). I tot i que ara no m'hi puc estendre, cal si més no apuntar que en la tradició castellana del Llibre de les dones i el Llibre dels àngels la selecció de públic és equivalent (vegeu Messeguer, Viera 1976 i 1980, Perarnau, Santiago; i de manera més decisiva Clausell 1993, 1995-96, 1996, 2004 i Rojas).

2. A banda dels treballs pioners de Jaume Massó i Torrents, Martí de Barcelona, Andreu Ivars i Curt Wittlin, les tradicions textuals indirectes de l'obra d'Eiximenis no s'han començat a estudiar de manera sistemàtica fins molt recentment, gràcies sobretot a investigadors de l'entorn de la Universitat de Girona que preparen edicions crítiques sobre la tradició castellana del menoret. Les aportacions de Carme Clausell sobre el Llibre de les dones castellà i de Raquel Rojas sobre el Llibre dels àngels castellà són molt interessants en aquest sentit perquè ja han començat a proporcionar dades concretes per confirmar o rectificar les panoràmiques que els estudiosos anteriors havien ofert com a marc de treball. Per a la tradició francesa, el treball que Curt Wittlin presenta en aquest mateix volum d'actes inaugura la tradició moderna d'estudis, que no havia tingut cap aportació de relleu des del catàleg de Massó i Torrents i Martí de Barcelona (vegeu també, en breu, Martí 2006 i Martí en premsa).

La meva intenció, en aquest article, és ajudar a posar les bases per a l'estudi de la tercera de les tradicions multilingües del Llibre dels àngels, la llatina. L'objectiu del present treball és, doncs, presentar una primera descripció codicològica dels tres manuscrits que conserven la recensió llatina i l'edició d'un capítol de control per tal d'il·lustrar l'estil i els procediments de traducció d'aquesta recensió. Aquest és un primer pas per poder-la estudiar perquè fins ara no comptàvem amb cap treball sobre els manuscrits que descric a continuació, ni sobre la versió llatina del Llibre dels àngels. Les úniques referències que en teníem provenien de les descripcions de Massó i Torrents i Martí de Barcelona que, essencialment, reproduïen el que es desprèn dels catàlegs de les biblioteques d'origen. A partir de les descripcions que ara publiquem s'haurà de començar a caracteritzar els comitents de les còpies i, en conseqüència, el ambients pels quals circulava l'obra.

Com a primeres observacions puc avançar que, com era d'esperar, els manuscrits de la versió llatina ens duen a ambients eclesiàstics: el capítol catedralici d'Albi (A) o la cartoixa de Vall de Benedicció d'Avinyó (B), fundada el 1356 pel papa Innocenci IV, la cartoixa més gran de la França tardomedieval (cf. Maier i Forbin). Tots dos són centres importants de l'església occitana quatrecentista amb una remarcable producció manuscrita El tercer manuscrit no té un origen deduïble del propi manuscrit, però és indubtablement una còpia de mà francesa, possiblement borgonyona, i presenta lligams formals i materials ben interessants amb alguns dels manuscrits de la versió francesa del Llibre dels àngels (cf. Martí en premsa). Tots els manuscrits són quatrecentistes, però els manuscrits occitans semblen de la primera meitat del segle XV, mentre que l'exemplar francès està datat el 1476.

A Albi, Biblioteca Municipal, ms. 32 (actualment a la Mediateca Pierre Almaric). Volum de 302 × 250mm, amb 164 folis de paper, 161 escrits (el text s’acaba a f. 161r i els tres bifolis que completen el plec són en blanc. La caixa presenta un marge exterior de 53mm; interior, 23mm; superior, 32mm; inferior, 70mm; i està composta per dues columnes de 59 línies de text, separades per 17mm. El ratllat de la caixa es veu perfectament i dibuixa, des del marge, les ratlles inicial i final de la columna amb una línia especial. La caixa d’escriptura dibuixa dues columnes de 184 × 59mm, amb un marge superior de 50-55mm, inferior 105-112mm, intern 25mm, extern 73-80mm. Tot el pautat sembla en tinta. S’observen rastres de perforació, però molt malmesos per les enquadernacions successives. Tot el text pertany a una sola mà quatrecentista, a vegades molt cursivitzada, que no té cap tret de bastarda. El còdex es compon de plecs variats (1-2^{10}, 3-9^{14}, 10-11^{16}, 12^{18}), amb reclams inferiors poc elaborats, centrats. Vegem en detall l’estructura de plecs:

1	5+5 (0)-9	il·legible: escapçat
2	5+5 10-19	Vniu(er)sa plebs
3	7+7 20-32	escapçat il·legible
4	7+7 33-46
5	7+7 47-60
6	7+7 61-74	escapçat il·legible
7	7+7 75-88
8	7+7 89-102	escapçat il·legible
9	7+7 103-115
10	8+8 116-131	sublimis
11	8+8 132-147	uiuunt et scitis tallat
12	9+9 148-165

Les rúbriques interiors, sempre vermelles, van justificades amb el text sense solució de continuïtat i la caplletra rudimentària està dintre del marge i ocupa 2-4 ratlles. Aquest manuscrit presenta les rúbriques integrades en l'inici de cada tractat. La foliació, moderna i a ploma, es troba situada a l'angle superior dret dels rectos de cada foli. És correcta i correlativa. El còdex duu dues etiquetes antigues enganxades: una a la coberta davantera "Francisci Eiximenii / de Angelis liber totius" i a la coberta del darrera: "Ad maiorem Dei gloriam / Eximeuis de Angelis. / 1422". A l'interior altres etiquetes modernes amb signatures alternatives: dues amb el n. 48; una amb el n. 125, una de pell "F. Eximeuis / de Angelis" i una altra que indica "Nº de la V. 52 / Nº du C. Imp. ~~95~~ 32 / Nº du C. de la B. [...] / Nombre de feuillets 162". Segons el catàleg, el manuscrit, prové del capítol d'Albi, però al f. 1r s'hi pot llegir "Ad Usum fratrum Praedicatorum Ref. Conu. Albiensis.", i al marge dret, a mitja plana: "Ad usum Convent(us) / Albi(ensis)". Per tant, si bé originàriament podia haver estat a la biblioteca capitular d'Albi, a la Biblioteca Municipal hi va ingressar procedent del convent dels dominicans de la vila del Tarn. Al catàleg imprès també hi ha una indicació en rotulador "125". La relligadura ha estat restaurada modernament en vellut verd, amb restes de les cobertes antigues. Quatre nervis al llom. L'estat de conservació és molt bo, encara que els fulls, en alguns llocs, estan tacats. Comença: "Incipit liber angelo(rum) (com)positus / per Reu(er)endum prens i(n) (Christo) et / do(mino) dominum franciscus exime / nis patriarcham (Jher)osolimitanus) / et ep(iscopu)m elnen(sis) in sacra pagina / quarum magistrum egregium. Prim(mu) ca(pitulum)", i a continuació ja hi ha el text de I,1. Descripcions a Catalogue, t. 15, pp. 121-122; Massó i Torrents (102), sigla B, número 100; Martí de Barcelona (210), número 38.

B Marsella, Bibliothèque Municipale, ms. 284. Còdex cartaci de 116 folis de 283mm × 199mm. No està datat expressament però la lletra semigòtica sembla de mitjans del segle XV. Les guardes són de paper (inici i final 1+1). En el paper del text s'observen dos tipus diferents de filigranes: ff. 1-60 i 73-84, del tipus croissant (6,5 ×3,5mm) de Briquet, semblant als nn. 5224 i 5225 (Brescia 1388 i 1421); ff. 61-72 i 85-116, del tipus main aux quatre doigts serrés (7 × 2mm), semblant als nn. 11090 i 11088, datades a Lió a mitjans del XV i a Draguignan el 1437, respectivament. Hi ha una foliació antiga (als versos), i una de moderna (als rectos) que no té en compte les llacunes i és completa i correlativa. La moderna compta el full de guarda, l'antiga, no. La caixa d'escriptura mesura 199 x 130mm, i l'intercolumnat és de 125mm. Hi ha petites variacions en el nombre de ratlles, p.e.: f. 3r (esquerre 39, dreta 41), f. 108r (esquerra 36, dreta 36). Dels deu plecs del còdex, nou són sexterns (6+6) i el novè és un tern (3+3) factici. Actualment el còdex presenta aquesta fasciculació:

I	6+6 (2-13)
II	6+6 (14-25)	fit i(n)t(er)
III	6+6 (26-37)	però el 37 està afegit amb una pestanya
IV	6+6 (38-48)	·ville·
V	6+6 (49-60)	et lu(m)bos
VI	6+6 (61-72)	tallat il·legible
VII	6+6 (73-84)	legim(us)
VIII	6+6 (85-96)
IX	3[2]+3 (97-104)	·tencat·[3]
X	6+6 (105-116)

[3] L'estat actual del plec IX permet de deduir una estructura amb dos fulls afegits ([1]+1[1]+2 ‖ +3), però no resulta fàcil comprovar-ho perquè l'enquadernació impedeix treure'n l'aigua clara.

L’ordenació del plecs del còdex, doncs, presenta diverses irregularitats. Si s’observa la foliació pot deduir-se que, segurament a causa d’una desenquadernació, s’han perdut diversos plecs i que el relligador va ordenar incorrectament els plecs que avui es conserven:

f. ·xxxii·→ f. ·xxxiiij· (salta un full)

f. ·lx·→ f. ·clxix· (salta del final del plec 5 al 15)

f. ·clxxx·→ f. ·lxxiij· (salta del 15 al 7)

f. ·xcvij·→ f. ·cviij· (salta del 8 al 10)

f. ·cix·→ f. ·cxx·

f. ·cxxj·→ f. ·cxxxij·

f. ·cxxxiij·→ f. ·cxliiij·→·cxciij· (final)

En l’estat actual, doncs, en el còdex només s’hi poden llegir els capítols I,1-III,24; V,10-V23; III,39-IV,1; IV,12-IV,14; IV,23-IV,25; IV,26-IV,38; IV,45-IV,46; V,37-final.[4]

No es veuen signatures de plecs, ni restes de perforat. El ratllat és a punta seca. Dues columnes de text justificat. No hi ha solució de continuïtat entre capítols, només la rúbrica en vermell i la caplletra en vermell rudimentària que ocupa entre 2 i 5 ratlles. Tampoc hi ha marques especials que indiquin l’inici dels llibres, que van seguits sense solució de continuïtat, només indicats per una rúbrica més llarga. Els reclams són molt rudimentaris i majoritàriament absents pel tallat de l’enquadernador. Estan centrats sota la columna dreta del verso dels folis. Tot el text del còdex és d’una sola mà cursiva amb trets lleugers de bastarda, que a voltes treballa molt de pressa. El relligat, en pell tant en el llom com en la coberta, data del segle XVII. Al llom cinc nervis sobresortints al primer entrenervi superior en daurat, requadrat, “LIBER / ANGE / FRAN / EXIM”. Al tercer entrenervi, en daurat, una fulla. Al quart entrenervi, en daurat, la cota “1300”. A la part superior del llom hi ha enganxat un paper amb la cota “04930...”. Al segon entrenervi superior un paper enganxat amb la cota “Eα /16”. L’estat general del còdex és bo, però alguns fulls presenten forats de corc abundants i, com ja s’ha comentat falten alguns plecs. Al f. 2r, a baix, centrat, el segell de la “Bibliothèque de Marseille”. A la guarda de coberta, un teixell amb els indicacions: “Eα 16”, a ploma i a sota en bolígraf “Albanus 284”. Al recto de la primera guarda, en llapis, “Ms 284” , a dalt a la dreta, i centrat a mitja plana, a ploma, en lletra del XIX “Ce volume continent 116 feuillets / 17 juin 1884”. Al f. 2 (·j·^{r}) torna a aparèixer, en llapis, “Ms. 284”, a dalt a la dreta. Dues inscripcions ens indiquen la procedència del còdex: al f. 3r: “Cartusie vallisbenedict(i)onis” [molt bastarda] i 14r: “Vallisb(e)n(e)dictionis”, més gran. Procedeix de la Cartoixa de Vall de Benedicció, a Villeneuve lez Avignon, al departament del Gard, al davant d’Avinyó, a l’altra riba del Ròdan. De fet, la biblioteca municipal de Marsella es va crear amb els fons eclesiàstics recollits durant la Revolució, i “la plus considerable et la plus importante [partie] de ces livres est celle qui vient de la Chartreuse de Marseille; et comme cette maison ne remontait qu’au milieu du XVIIe siècle, c’est à la Chartreuse de Villeneuve près d’Avignon, sa fondatrice, qu’on appartenu primitivement presque tous les manuscrits que la ville a eus des Chartreux” (Albanès 1894: 108). Incipit: (2ra) “Jncipit liber angelor(um) / composit(us) per Reu(er)endu(m) / p(at)rem in (Christo) et d(e)um / d(omi)n(u)m franciscum Exime(n)is / patriarcha(m) []er[]i / tanu(m) et ep(sicopu)m elnen(sem) in / sacra pagina magistrum / Egregium” [En vermell amb lletra de cos més gran. La J en vermell s’allarga 7 ratlles fora de la caixa d’escriptura. El primera capítol comença amb una caplletra A en blau i vermell que ocupa 7 ratlles. Explicit: (116^{rb}) “Explicit liber angeloru(m) / quem co(m)posuit reuerendus / magister franciscus eximenis / de ordine minoru(m) et patri- / archa q(uon)dam jerusolimitan(us) / ·Amen·” [Emmarcat amb un gran calderó vermell i un cargolet al final]. El manuscrit ha estat descrit per Catalogue, t. 15 (1894 107-108).[5] Cf. també Martí de Barcelona (210), número 39.

[4] Precisem una mica més. Llibre I (ii^{r}-xv^{r}): el capítol 3 ha fos el 3 i el 4. Llibre II (xv^{r}-xxxii^{v}) a la rúbrica del 13 diu erròniament ·xiiij·. Llibre III (xxxii^{v}-lx^{v}...) acaba tallat al capítol III,24. Salta a V,10, acèfal, fins a V,23 tallat (clxix^{r}-clxxx^{v}). Salta al III,39, acèfal, fins al III,59 (lxxiij^{r}-xcvij^{v}). Reclams rudimentaris i alguns absents pel tallat de l’enquadernador. Estan sagnats a la dreta de la caixa. Duen també el número de plec. Els plecs conserven les signatures originals que es veuen perfectament a la zona inferior dreta dels fulls. Són el tipus aj, ajj, etc. Correlació de signatures: abcdefghiklmnopqrstv. També és perfectament observable el perforat (32 puncions al marge exterior i 2 als encapçalaments de columna), que afecta tant el pergamí com el paper. El ratllat que se’n deriva també es conserva traçat en vermell, amb ratlles finíssimes, dibuixant la caixa, les columnes de la caixa i les línies (31 ratlles de text per cara). La caixa d’escriptura mesura 171 × 100mm i té els marges següents: exterior 55mm, interior 20mm, inferior 55mm, superior 25mm. No hi ha solució de continuïtat entre capítols, només la rúbrica en vermell i la caplletra en vermell rudimentària que ocupa 2 ratlles. Text d’una sola mà cursiva bastarda francesa amb molts canvis de ductus. La decoració de les inicials és rudimentària, alternant vermell i blau. Les inicials de tractat combinen blau i vermell i són més grans (5 ratlles). La inicial del llibre (6r) és una A de cinc ratlles amb or brunyit amb un fons remarcat que combina burdeus i blau amb filigrana floral blanca. El marge interior, al llarg de tota la caixa, està ocupat per una orla floral en negre amb fulles d’or brunyit i verdes i flors vermelles i blaves. El relligat data del segle XIX. La matèria del llom és pell i la coberta és de cartró. L’estat de conservació és molt bo. El col·lofó diu: “Complet(us) Anno d(omi)ni Mº ccccº lxxvjº xijª noue(m)bris”. El còdex presenta també un exlibris a la guarda IVv: “Fran(ciscus) Ximenius de Angelis / huius operis nullus meminis”, de mà del XVIII. A sota, una altra mà del XIX: “fortasse unicus codex latini textus eiusdem operis et cuius / textus catalanus necnon versiones gallic. et castill. noscuntur [sic] / A.R.” A dalt del f. 1r es pot llegir “co(m)prato in Lione” (XVII?). A la guarda de la coberta Ir “C. 27. inf.”. A la guarda II “nº 27. P^{te}. Inf.” Al marge de 1r una altra mà “S. 81” A la guarda IVv una “S” ratllada i encara a sota una “P.”. 3. Editem a continuació, com a mostra, un capítol (tractat IV, capítol I) de la traducció llatina del Llibre dels àngels d’Eiximenis. Per a les conclusions sobre els lligams de la recensió llatina amb la resta de tradicions, em permeto remetre a Martí (en premsa). Mentrestant es pot comparar amb el text crític català de Martí (2003 37-42). El text llatí que segueix ha estat fixat tenint com a base el testimoni d’Albí (A), al qual s’han col·lacionat els altres dos manuscrits (B Marsella, C Milà). El text s’esmena quan es necessari i les variants descartades s'anoten a l'aparat crític (que no inclou, però, cap variant gràfica). Cal tenir en compte que el text de Marsella és incomplet perquè està afectat per una de les llacunes que infesten aquest manuscrit.

{0} Capitulum primum in quo docetur qualis fuit creatio et ordinatio angelorum in eorum exordio

{2} Et ut melius veniamus directe ad istum punctum, loquemur prius modicum de modo quo fuerunt instituti et creati a Deo. Et post hoc videbimus quomodo fuerunt positi in temptacionem et quomodo propter hoc venerunt postea ad scisma et diuisionem, et consequenter ad victoriam et triumphum.

{4} Est vero quod de ista creationis angelorum Moyses non fecit aliquam mensionem literalem scribendo creationem mundi —secundum quod apparet Genesis, primo—, quod equidem fecit per multipli ratione. Prima, quia ipse intendebat scribere creationem et processum humani generis et rerum homini factarum. Et in hoc non opportebat loqui de angelis. Secunda, quia cum ipse scribevat librum illum populo rudi, illiterati et rusticali, ideo solum scripsit sibi res corporales et que percipi possunt aut sensibiliter et non curavit de altioribus. Tercia, quia populus ille quasi de nichilo sumebat occasionem ydolatrandi, propter quod potuit timere quod si statim in principio libri fuisset eis locutus de angelis, quod ibi fecissens sibi tantas et tam periculosas questiones et dubitationes monissent quam forsan leviter cecidissent in ydolatriam uel in aliquem errorem. Quarta, quod ipse sciebat quod angeli debebant apparere dicto populo in specie corporali, sicut de facto legimus Judicum, ii^{o}. Propter quod, maluit quod per excellenciam sensibiliem faceret eis fidem existencie angelorum quod faciet solum testimonium sui libri, quia amplius se inclinaverunt ad credendum sic, sicut gens rustica et ruralis.

{8} Quintus puntus est quod eorum temptacio fuit talis: quod eis fuerunt posite alique veritates: Prima erat lex obedientie que eis nunciabat velle Deum quod si ipsi volebant deum videre et habere suum consorcium in gloria, quod ad statum illum habebant ascendere per servicium faciendum aliquibus creaturis infimis que eis demonstrarentur. Secunda veritas fuit quod voluntas Dei fuit quod una creatura ascenderet ad altitudinem divinam per servicium ad dandum complementum multum speciali bonitati, nobilitati et pulchritudini ipsius mundi. Super istis veritatibus eis propositis ipsi deliberaverunt per aliquid parum tempus; et habita eorum deliberacionem, una pars (id est maiorem) attendit ad primam veritarem et non approbavit, dicens ei non apparere justum naturam angelicam servire nature inferiori et quod lex per Deum eis posita magis apparebat temptativa quam preceptiva: et ideo non opportebat ibi sibi obedire. Alia autem pars attendens illam eadem veritatem iudicauit totum contrarium, approbans legem divinam in toto, dicens quod non decebat minores iudicare mandatum sui maioris. Et quod lex illa non erat solum temptans ymmo adhuc precipiens et mandans; et illi sante legi ipsi volebant obedire sicut humiles servi dei Deo omnipotenti.

{9} Primi praetera cogitantes in secundam veritate (id est quod creatura debebat ascendere ad altitudinem divinam), ibi requieverunt in quantum dicta veritas poterat respicere eorum proprium bonum. Et erat inter ipsos unus de ordine seraphini vocatus Luciffer et inter omnes erat melius dotatus donis nature, cui data erat a Deo preeminentiam principatus super omnes alios. Et iste, cum aliquibus de maioribus habentes respectum ad suum proprium bonum quod expectabant habere consenterunt illi et concluserunt sic concilium suum, quod dictus Lu<aquí acaba Marsella>cifer deliberavit, cum tertia parte dictorum angelorum qui ibi erant de qualem ordinem et de qualem ierarchiam quod dignum erat taliter creaturam esse posita in tali statu propter rationes breviter factas, id est propter melioramentum et exaltamentum mundi. Et inclinati ad suum bonum proprium implicaverunt se in hoc quod eis non proponebatur, id est que esset illa creatura. Et cum hoc ordinare et eligere pertinet ad solum Deum, ipsi omnes stulte de se presumentes concordaverunt quod illa creatura debebat esse altior omni alia creatura per Deum creata. Et cum creatura illa omnibus altiis altior esset princeps eorum Lucifer, sequebatur quod ipse debebat ascendere ad altitudinem divinam. Et ipse Lucifer cogitans quod sicut ipsi deliberaverant ipsa de facto Deus exequeretur, ideo statim concupivit habere dictum statum et alii concupierunt dicto Lucifero. Etiam et ipse Lucifer videns quos sic concupiscendo non poterat habere, invidit et invidens iratus fuit contra Deum et odiverit eum eo quod non dabat sibi et alii et cum eo et in isto odio et invidia peccatum eorum fuit consumatum et perfectum.

Michaeli (qui iam erat princeps in ordine principatuum) quod expelleret a paradiso tertiam partem angelorum, id est illos qui consensuerunt Lucifero in sua irreverentia et presumpcione et odio contra ipsum. Et ille cum multitudine angelorum sui principatus, eiecit a paradiso Luciferum et posuit in inferno profundo cum principalibus principibus qui sibi consensuerant. Et ibi sunt et erunt semper in multa pena et tormento. Et postea eiecit alios minores in isto aere super nos, ad dandum eis locum et opportunitatem ad temptandum nos. Et ibi non torquentur igne sed multa invidia torquentur et displicentia quando vident nos sursum ascendere et occupare locum unde ipsi ceciderunt. Et sic stabunt usque ad finem mundi; et post iudicium generale erunt perpetuo clausi in inferno cum eorum malo principe.

De ista materia loquetur sanctus Johannes, in Apochalipsi XII et Magister sententiarum in secundo libro et doctores super dictum Secundum scriventes.

المقدمة

لازالت الكتابة عن الصابئة وديانتهم وتاريخهم، مستمرة الى يومنا هذا، ولا زال المجال طويل امام الباحثين، فهذه المسألة لم تجد الحل الواضح بعد، ولم تصل الابحاث المختلفة الى اتفاق حول منشأ وتطور هذه الديانة ولغتها وافكارها، فسنة بعد سنة توضح لنا الاكتشافات الثغرات الموجودة في معرفتنا بالعصر. وتقودنا الى تنقيح الكثير من الآراء التي تم تقبلها سابقاً.

ابدية خالدة، اذ لا يمكن ان نتخيل وجود الديانة الصابئية المندائية بدون وجود الماء الجاري، لان اغلب طقوس هذه الديانة تتم بوجود الماء. ويعتبر الماء رمزاً للحياة، وحتى انه يعتبر الحياة نفسها. ومن هنا جاء تواجد واستقرار الصابئة الى جانب الانهار ومناطق الاهوار، لانسجامه مع الفرائض الدينية المندائية.

ويضم الكتاب فصولاً اخرى، تتحدث عن الفكر المندائي وعن الخلق وتكوين الكون وعوالم النور والظلام والى خلق وتكوين الانسان. كذلك عن معنى الاحتفالات والمناسبات المندائية. وعن اهم الامور التي تهم الفرد في وقتنا الحاضر الا وهو موضوع التبشير بالمندائية وموقف الدين منه.

ان هذه البحوث والدراسات في عقائد الصابئة تعطي الدارس والباحث والقاريء تصوراً واضحاً عن الديانة الصابئية، لانها تناولت احدث الدراسات والبحوث، خاصة وان الكتاب قد اخرج تحت رعاية ابناء هذه الطائفة وان الهدف من اصداره هو تعريف الناطقين بالعربية بثقافة وعادات وافكار المندائيين، ولقد بذلنا جهدا مخلصاً لابراز هذه المواضيع المهمة في المسألة المندائية، ولازال البحث يتطلب المزيد من العمل والتقصي وربط الحقائق. وسنكون ممتنين لقرائنا الكرام الذين سيساهموا في انتقاد هذا العمل وتوجيهه للاحسن في المستقبل.

واخيرا اتقدم بالشكر الجزيل الى جميع من ساهم وساعد بنحو ما في تهيئة هذا الكتاب.

من مناطق سكن الصابئة المندائيين

توصل المعماريين ومصممي الديكور والأثاث العالميين في العصر الحاضر لنظرية استغلال الأثاث لأغراض متعددة تتناسب مع الوقت والمكان وتدعى مودة (المكان والزمان)، مثلا أرائك الجلوس المستعملة نهارا تتحول الى أسرة ليلا، طاولة طعام صغيرة الى طاولة كبيرة، صناديق ذات استعمال معين تتحول الى إستعمالات اخرى في وقت آخر، وهكذا نجد ان ماكان يمارسه السومريون القدماء الذين عاشوا في جنوب العراق منذ اكثر من خمسة آلاف سنة يعود الينا من جديد في القرن العشرين ومن اوربا. والجدير بالذكر ان سكنة هذه المناطق اي مناطق أهوار العراق والذين يطلق عليهم اسم المعدان لازالوا يمارسون هذه المودة – استعمالات الوقت والمكان – فمثلا مبنى المضيف عادة مايكون مبنى كبير يشبه البرميل ويملكه شيخ العشيرة وهو مكان استقبال الضيوف ويؤدي مهمة غرفة الاسقبال في البيوت حيث يتم فيه قضاء ساعات عديدة مع الضيوف تقدم خلالها قهوة مركزة مرة المذاق، ويتم السؤال عن حال الضيف وربما يكرر السؤال نفسه عدة مرات، ثم يتحول المضيف قبل الظهر لمركز تجارة ومداولة بين الشيخ والوسطاء والفلاحين، تتابع فيه الامور الزراعية والمالية، ويتم عقد الصفقات بين مختلف الاطراف وتسوى مشاكل السرقات والمشاكل الاجتماعية المختلفة، ويتم ذلك بكلمة الشرف التي غالبا مايلتزم بها الجميع، وعند الظهيرة يقوم الشيخ ومن معه بالصلاة بأتجاه المدخل الرئيسي والذي يكون اتجاهه بأتجاه مكة، ثم يتحول المضيف بعد ذلك الى غرفة طعام او مطعم كبير يقدم فيه طبق كبير جدا، صينية مملوءة بالرز واللحم

الظأن (الخروف) ويتقدم الضيوف وكبار السن للأكل في البداية ومن ثم الأقل عمرا حتى يصل الدور للأطفال الصغار ومن بعدهم ترمى العظام الخالية من اللحم للكلاب. وصاحب المضيف يراقب ويدير نظام التقديم والاحتياجات، والعادة ان يقوم احد العاملين في المضيف بجلب حوض وابريق نحاس مملوء بالماء يصب منه للحاضرين لغسل ايديهم وذلك قبل وبعد تناول الطعام. ثم يتحول المكان مرة اخرى الى غرفة مسامرة تقدم فيها القهوة ويجلس صاحب المضيف ليأكل بعد ان اطمئن الى ان كل شيء قد جرى حسب عادة اهل الاهوار في اصول الضيافة، وحينما يشعر بعض الضيوف او الحاضرين بعد وجبة الغذاء الدسمة بالنعاس، يلقون بأجسادهم على الارض في زوايا المضيف ملتحفين بعباءاتهم ويغطون في النوم حتى يتم ايقاظهم عند تقديم وجبة طعام جديدة، وها نرى ان المضيف تحول مرة اخرى لغرفة نوم او محل استراحة في فترة القيلولة (الظهيرة) وأدى وظيفة اخرى. اما في الليل فيستغل المكان للسمر تحت ضوء المصابيح النفطية المتدلية من السقف بواسطة الحبال، وبعدها تفرش الارض بالمنادر واللحف والوسائد لنوم الضيوف.

وتقسم الاهوار الى ثلاثة اقسام وهي أهوار المنطقة الشرقية (شرق نهر دجلة) والاهوار الوسطية (غرب نهر دجلة وشمال الفرات)

والاهوار الجنوبية (جنوب الفرات وغرب شط العرب)، وتوجد أهوار دائمية اخرى جنوب الشطرة على شط الغراف.

والاهوار ليست فراغ، بل هي تاريخ وتراث، عاشت آلاف السنين منذ العهد السومري الى البابلي والعباسي والعثماني...

يقطن الاهوار عشائر متعددة ويطلق عليهم اسم المعدان، وحياة المعدان كما يصفها احد شيوخهم بسيطة وبدائية جدا، فليس لديهم شئ سوى الجاموس، القصب والماء. ولاتوجد هناك أرض يابسة بل ان المشحوف (البلم) هو واسطة النقل الوحيدة لأي مكان، وتهاجر الى الاهوار الطيور البرية من اوربا سنويا ويتكاثر فيها سمك "البني" و"الشبوط".

هنا عاش الكثير من الصابئة المندائيين. فبعد الغزو المغولي وتدهور الحضارة العباسية، والفتح العثماني من بعد، وتعرض المندائيين للاضطهاد في هذه العهود المختلفة، اضطروا الى الانحسار والاختباء في القرى الممتدة في جنوب نهر الفرات ونهر كارون واهوار العراق وايران. وكانت هذه المنطقة، لظروفها الجغرافية الخاصة بعيدة الى حد ما عن سطوة الحكام وبطشهم. ولان الصابئة جماعة مسالمة ويحترف افرادها حرفاً ضرورية للفلاحين والصيادين، ولا يطمعون بأكثر من اعطائهم الفرصة لممارسة طقوسهم الدينية الخاصة، ضمنوا البقاء والاستمرار طوال القرون الماضية في هذه المنطقة.

ويمكن القول بأن الصابئة لم يكونوا متواجدين في الاهوار فقط، بل كان تواجدهم في المدن الكبيرة ايضاً، مثل العمارة والبصرة، ويشير الرحالة "بيترو ديلا فال" في القرن السابغ عشر الى مدينة البصرة فيصفها: بانها مدينة كبيرة ومزدهرة، اهلها من العرب مع قليل من الاتراك وكذلك بعض الصابئيين. حيث اسماهم خطأً بنصارى القديس

يوحنا. ولغتهم كلدانية خشنة، وتسمى مندائي، وهم يتكلمون اللغة العربية، التي كانت تستعمل في المجالات العامة.

وقد وصفهم "سير اوستن هنري لايارد" عام ١٨٤٠، بان دينهم اقرب ما يكون الى المانوية. ووصفهم كذلك بانهم طائفة قديمة واطلق عليهم خطأً اتباع القديس يوحنا.

يشير "كفن يونغ" في كتابه "عودة الى الاهوار"، ان "ج. تي. تايلر" نائب القنصل البريطاني في سنة ١٨٥٣ قد عثر على لفائف من صفائح الرصاص في جرة وجدت في احدى المدافن في منطقة الاهوار ، كتبت باللغة المندائية تحمل صلوات وادعية، يعود تاريخها الى القرن السادس الميلادي، وتخص الصابئين – او الصابئة ، الذين عاشوا على اقل تقدير في هذه المنطقة لمدة ثلاث عشر قرناً. وجاء بوصفهم ايضاً بانهم اناس لهم ملامح جميلة ورجالهم لايحلقون ذقونهم الكثة، وهم ذوي فائدة كبيرة لغيرهم، وكانوا يعاملون معاملة جافة وبدون احترام من قبل السلطات التركية والفارسية. وكلاهما يفرضان عليهم الانضمام الى الملة المحمدية، ويستحصلون الاموال منهم.

ينحدر مشحوف الاهوار اليوم من العصر السومري، فقد عثر ليونارد ويلي على مشحوف من الفضة طوله قدمان في حفريات مدينة "اور" التي تبعد ٤٠ ميلا عن مركز الاهوار الحالية. ولربما كان لهذه المشاحيف اهمية دينية فقد وجد البعض منها في داخل القبور. ويستعمل

تقول الاسطورة السومرية ان "مردوك"، الألـه العظيم قد بنى مرسى من القصب على سطح الماء، ومنه بدأ تكوين العالم. لقد دلت الحفريات في اور عن تواجد السومريين في هذه المنطقة منذ اكثر من ستة الاف سنة، هؤلاء الاقوام مخترعي اول كتابة في جنوب وادي الرافدين، وتدل الرسومات على الاختام الاسطوانية على ان بيوت

يصل طول بعض المضائف الكبيرة الى خمسة وعشرون مترا ويبلغ عرضها وأرتفاعها أربعة أمتار ونصف، وتحتوي في أغلب الأحيان على خمسة عشر أو تسعة عشر قوسا جبارا هم العنصر الأساسي في تشييد المبنى.

أما الموقد فيقع بالثلث الأول من المضيف ويتوسط المكان، وقربه أواني القهوة (الدلال) وهي جمع (دلة) و(الفناجين) . أما الدلال

فهي ذات أحجام وأستعمالات مختلفة، ويقارب إرتفاع أكبرها ستون سنتيمترا وتسمى (قم قم) وتفرغ فيها رواسب القهوة المتبقية في الأواني الأخرى، وتحضر القهوة بالدلال الكبيرة ثم تفرغ بهدوء بعد غليها في الدلال الأصغر حجما، وتوزع القهوة الطازجة بأصغر الدلال، ويعاد تحضير القهوة الطازجة من جديد عند قدوم ضيف مهم، والمعروف ان تحضير القهوة يتم بصورة كاملة داخل المضيف فقط بعد ان تحمص وتسحن حبات القهوة بهاون من الصفر الأصفر وعلى ضربات موسيقية رنانة وبصورة نغمية جميلة تدعوا سامعيها للقدوم لبيت الضيافة، اما ساقي القهوة فيحمل الدلة الصغيرة بيدة اليمنى والفناجين بيدة اليسرى ويسكب قليلا منها بالفنجان الى الشيخ لتذوقها، وبعدها يأمر الشيخ بتقديم القهوة لأهم الضيوف ومن بعده للجالسين على يمينه، كما ان المضيف لايخلو من تقديم الشاي (الجاي) ويكون عادة غامق اللون وحلو المذاق ويقدم بكأس زجاجية صغيرة الحجم وضيقة في وسطها ومحزمة بخط ذهبي تسمى (إستكان).

إن المضائف بصورة عامة سواء كانت على نهر دجلة أو الفرات هي إنجاز معماري رائع استعمل فيه القصب كمادة شمولية جيدة ومرنة للبناء والجمال، غطت كافة مكونات البناء من الأساس الى الأعمدة، الجدران، السقوف، الشبابيك، الأبواب، الديكور والأرضيات، وهي بذلك تعتبر بحق مادة شمولية رخيصة الثمن تواجدت في مناطق الاهوار وتم إستغلالها بكافة الوسائل الممكنة، وهي تعتبر تأريخيا مصدر الألهام للمعماري البابلي والآشوري الذي حاكى الأقواس القصبية لكي يبني قلاعا وقصورا على نمطها مستعملا الطين والآجر.

ان المضائف في الأهوار لهي جزء من مظاهر الحياة في جنوب العراق ولأكثر من خمسة آلاف سنة. ولكن... ونحن اذ نكتب عنها اليوم نراها وللأسف الشديد قد زالت او في طريقها للزوال والى الأبد.

الصابئة - المندائيين

يعرفون اللغة الارامية، قد اطلقوا عليهم اسم (الصابئين) او المغتسلة.

جاء في كتاب "هران كويثا" اي حران السفلى او الداخلية، وهو كتاب ترجم من اللغة المندائية الي اللغة الانكليزية وتوجد نسخة منة في مكتبة المتحف العراقي – حول هجرة (الناصورايي) "الناصورائيين"، وتعني الكهان الصابئين الذين يملكون المعرفة الدينية الحقيقية، (الناصيروثا) من اورشليم الى جبال ميديا، "طور ادمداي" ومدينة حران الواقعة في تلك الجبال. وان نزوحهم قد تم قبل سنة ٧٠ ميلادية اي قبل سقوط اورشليم ومن حران بدأت هجرتهم الثانية تحت رعاية الملك البارثي الصديق (ارطبانوس) ويسمونة (اردوان ملكا) الي القسم الادنى من بلاد ما بين النهرين حيث اقاموا مراكز في محل يدعى (طيب ماثه) – الطيب الحالية في الجنوب الشرقي من مدينة العمارة. ويتطرق الكتاب الى ذكر الفتح الاسلامي، وان المندائيين قد حصلوا على التسامح الديني واداء الجزية. وتكمن اهمية هذه الوثيقة التاريخية في تأكيدها للروايات الشفوية التي يتناقلها الصابئة عن هجرتهم من حران الى موطنهم الحالي في جنوب العراق، وكذلك عن هجرتهم الاولى من فلسطين. وقد اكد المستشرقون المتخصصون بدراسة المندائية، واستنادا للمخطوطات التي عثر عليها في نجع حمادي في مصر عام ١٩٤٥ عن هجرتهم من القدس في القرن الاول للميلاد زمن الملك اردبان الثالث.

(والجزية واجبة على جميع اهل الذمة، ممن في السواد وغيرهم من اهل الحيرة وسائر البلدان، من اليهود، والنصارى، والمجوس، والصابئين، والسامره).

ويفهم مما تقدم ان الصابئين الساكنين في البطائح هم المقصودون في القران الكريم، وانهم هم الذين خضعوا للجزية، شانهم في ذلك شأن جميع اهل الذمة من الكتابيين، وقد استفاد الحرانيين من هذا التسامح المفروض لصابئة البطائح فاتخذوا اسم الصابئة واحتموا به. كما كتب كثيرمن الجغرافيين والمؤرخين والمهتمين باخبار الملل والنحل، وغيرهم عن الصابئة، واماكن تواجدهم في شرقي الجزيرة العربية وغربيها، واشاروا الى وجودهم منذ ازمنة سحيقة في القدم كزمن شيت بن آدم، وزمن ابراهيم الخليل، وعهود تسبق اليهودية، وقد ذكرهم بن النديم في كتاب الفهرست عام ٣٧٧ هجرية، فاورد تراجم لاعلامهم من اطباء،

ومهندسين، وفلكين، وادباء، ممن عاصروا الخلافة العباسية، وعاشوا ضمن المجتمع الاسلامي في بغداد انذاك، ومنهم: ابو اسحاق الصابي، ثابت بن قرة، سنان بن ثابت، وكثيرين غيرهم مثل ابو الفتح المندائي وغرس النعمة، مؤلف كتاب (الهفوات النادرة). واورد بن النديم ايضا خبر وجود الصابئة، او المغتسلة في منطقة البطائح وميسان مؤكدا وجودهم اثناء كتابة الفهرست، ذكر ذلك في معرض حديثه عن فاتق والد ماني مؤسس المانوية في القرن الثالث للميلاد، الذي التجأ الى صابئة ميسان بعد ان هتف به هاتف يدعوه الى عبادة الله ونبذ الاصنام.

لقد تم العثور على قطع نقود تحمل كتابة مندائية، وذلك في

اللغة المندائية

واللغة المندائية اوكما يطلق عليها لغة العلم، هي اللغة التي كتبت فيها المخطوطات الصابئية، وتتكون الابجدية المندائية من اربع وعشرون حرفا تجمعها الكلمات الاتية:

ابجد، هوز، حطي، كلمن، سعفص، قرشت.

ويضاف اليها حرفان هما اد، آ وتقرا الحروف ممدودة على الوجه التالي:

آ، با، جا، دا، ها، وا، زا، ها، طا، يا، كا، لا، ما، نا، سا، ئي، با(فا)، صا،
قا، را، شا، تا، اد، آ

الحرف الاول (آ) موجود في اول الابجدية واخرها. ويمثل رمز الكمال ونور الحياة، وبدأ ونهاية كل شئ، وان ترتيبها هو الترتيب الاصلي للابجدية العربية، وهي خالية من الروافد، كما اطلق عليها ابن النديم وهي: (ثخذ، ضغظ).

والمندائية لهجة من الارامية، والتي تنتسب بدورها الى المجموعة او الاسرة العربية او السامية، واشتقها العالم الالماني "شولتز"، سنة ١٧٨١ من قائمة الانساب الواردة في العهد القديم، ونسبها الى سام بن نوح. كما ان الدراسات والبحوث التي اجريت من قبل لغويين متخصصين، اظهرت بان المندائية هي من اسهل اللهجات العربية القديمة، واقلها تأثرا باللغات الاجنبية كاليونانية وذلك لعزلتها وانزوائها. وان صورة الحروف المندائية اقرب الى صورة الحروف العربية من غيرها من الابجديات القديمة. وان كثيراً من مفردات المندائية موجود ضمن المفردات العربية، وكذلك معظم حروف الجر مثل اللام، من، الى، وعلى، وحروف النفي مثل لا، وما، ولا الناهية والواو، وغيرها. كما نجد كلمة (اكا) بمعنى هنا او موجود، والكلمة واردة في اللهجة الشعبية العراقية اذ تقول (اكو)، وبالنفي تكون بالمندائية (لكا)، وبالعامية العراقية (ماكو).

والكتب المندائية المقدسة ليست مطبوعة، وقد قام بنسخها باليد، الكتاب الكهنوتيون طيلة قرون عديدة. ويعتقد افراد الطائفة ان امتلاكها يحفظهم من الشرور في الدنيا والاخرة. وان قليلا من العامة من يستطيع ان يقرأ أو يكتب هذه اللغة، فتعلمها مقصور على الطبقة الكهنوتية. والجدير بالذكر ان اغلب المخطوطات ربما قد دون ايام الساسانيين، او بعد الفتح العربي لبلاد الرافدين، ويدون كتاب "كنزا ربا" قائمة بملوك البارثيين والساسانيين، ولم يلاحظ في كتبهم تاثير، او استعمال كلمات من لغات اخرى كالاغريقية، المستعارة في اللغات السورية والفلسطينية، لكنها استعارت كثيرا من التعابير الارامية – العبرية بصورة خاصة. ولا يسمح للغرباء بالاطلاع على كتب الصابئة المقدسة، وذلك لاحتوائها على اسرار تخص الطائفة نفسها. وليس هنالك كثير من النسخ القديمة جدا، ويعود ذلك لفقدانها. فالصابئون كما هو معروف قد سكنوا مناطق اكثر مساكنها من اكواخ القصب، توقد فيها النار شتاء وتتشب فيها الحرائق بشكل عام، وتوجد عند بعضهم نسخ قد اتلفت حواشيها بفعل الحرائق. ولا يسمح مطلقا بتدوين الكتب المقدسة على الجلد، (لان ذبح الحيوانات تدمير للحياة ولذا فالجلد غير طاهر). بل ان اكثرها دون على ورق البردي وعلى المعادن والحجر. وهناك بعض الكتب مثل كتاب "سيدرا اد نشماتا" كتاب الارواح – طقس "المسختا" قد دون على رقائق الرصاص، وربما يعود هذا التقليد باستعمال الصفائح ناجما عن ضرورة

١- كتاب "دراشة اديهيا"، كتاب يحيى عام ١٩١٥ ويتناول شؤون النبي يحيى المعمدان عليه السلام.

٢- كتاب "سدرة ادنشماته"، كتاب الارواح – طقس "المسختا" ١٩٢٠.

٣- كتاب "الف ترسر شياله"، الف واثنى عشر سؤال ويتكون من خمسة اجزاء يتناول الجزء الاول الاخطاء في الطقوس وطريقة غفرانها وايضاح الشعائر . الخ.

٤- كتاب "تفسير بغرا"، ويعتني بالمعنى الداخلي للوجبات الطقسية.

٥- ديوان "حران كويثا"، حران الداخلية او السفلى.

٦- كتاب "اسفر ملواشه"، مخطوط لاغراض التنجيم والحسابات الفلكية.

٧- ديوان "نهرواثا"، وهو خارطة مزخرفة، ونص ايضاحي لانهار العالم، حيث يجعلها جميعا تتغذى من "فرات زيوا" اي الفرات النوراني.

٨- ديوان " اباثر"، وهو ديوان مصور وطوله ٩ ياردات.

٩- ديوان "الما الايا"، وديوان "ملكوثا اليثا"، ترجمت مؤخرا وتوجد نسخة منهما في المتحف العراقي.

١٠- كتاب "النياني"، ويتضمن الوضوء والصلوات المختلفة.

يحتوي المتحف البريطاني على كتاب "شرح طراسا تاغه اد شيشلام

ربه"، التي تهتم بطقوس تكريس الكهان وطقوس تكريس المندي. وتحتوي مكتبة "بودلين"، على الكثير المخطوطات المندائية.

وهم ليسوا بمجوس لعدم تقديمهم وتعظيمهم للنار، فهم يعتقدون ان السجود للنار امر محرم كل التحريم، "توره واسغادي مبطل باطلي" النار والسجود لها باطل مبطل.

اما اعتقادهم باليوم الاخر، فقد يكونون من اكثر الاديان وضوحا وتشددا في هذا الشان، فالعالم الدنيوي في عقيدتهم، ما هو الا منفى وسجن مؤقت للروح التي ستنبعث بعد الموت متحررة من سجنها المادي، لتلتحق بالملأ الاعلى، وفق حساب عسير يعد لها، ووفق وزن توزن فيه، فاما الىالجنة، او الى المطهر "المطراثا" حيث تعذب فيه بدرجات متفاوتة، الى ان تتطهر من ذنوبها فتلتحق بالملأ الأعلى هي

ايضا، فالروح في عقيدتهم خالدة والجسم فان.

وجوهر الدين الصابئي هوالتوحيد و تقديس قوانين الحياة والخصب، فالحياة العظمى لديهم تجسيد لقوة كونية خلاقة نافعة غير مرئية، وان الحديث عنه دائما بصيغة الجمع المبهمة، ويظل تجريدا غامضا يسمى بالحياة العظمى رمز الحياة الماء الحي او الماء الجاري

"يردنه" ومن هذا ياتي ان أحد طقوسهم الرئيسية هو الاغتسال والتعميد في الماء الجاري.

اما القوة الثانية في دينهم، فتتمثل في مجموعة الملائكة النورانيين، او الارواح النورانية، الذين بواسطتهم يمنح الخالق البشر نعم النور والصحة والقوة والفضيلة والعدل.

والقوة الثالثة في دينهم هي الأعتقاد بخلود الروح وبصلتها الوثقى بارواح اسلافها، صلة آلهية مباشرة.

والدين المندائي يشابه الاديان التوحيدية الاخرى بالتعبد الى الخالق، فان التهيأ للقيام باي عمل يومي او حياتي يسبقه ذكر "بشميهون اد هي ربي" اي بأسم الحي العظيم وضرورة الانتهاء بذكر أسم الخالق أيضا "هي زكن" أي أسم الحي مزكى، كما ان كل آية تبدأ وتنتهي بذكر الخالق بنفس الطريقة.

وتوصي الديانة الصابئية المندائية بالأخلاق الحسنة، والعمل الصالح وتعتبر ذلك أول مبدأ من مبادئ الدين الحق . فالصوم الأعظم يكون بالأمساك عن السيئات، وقد ورد بهذا المعنى في كتاب "كنزا ربا" القسم الايمن ما يلي:

صوموا صوما عظيما لا عن
مأكل او مشرب هذه الدنيا
امسكوا اعينكم عن الغمز والرمز،
ولا تنظروا بسوء او تعملوه،
امسكوا اذانكم عن التصنت
لابواب الاخرين.
امسكوا افواهكم عن قول الكذب
والزيف والتأويل ولا تحبوا
الاباطيل.

امسكوا ضمائركم عن ظنون السوء
والبغض والفرقة ولا تدعوها
تحتل افئدتكم.
ان الذي يحتل قلبه البغض
لا يعتبر مسلما مؤمنا.
امسكوا ايديكم عن ارتكاب القتل
وعن السرقة.
امسكوا اجسادكم عن معاشرة
ازواج الاخرين.
امسكوا ركبكم عن السجود
للشيطان.
امسكوا ارجلكم عن السعاية في
السوء.
امرناكم كلكم ان اسمعوا
الله.

ومن تعاليم الصابئة ان من واجب المعلم، ان يعلم غيره، وان من واجب الجاهل التوجه لطلب العلم، وقد ورد بذلك ما يلي:

راس علمك ان تعلم الآخرين
بكلمات طيبة زكية.
ويل لعالم لايعطي من علمه
ويل لجاهل مغلق على جهله.
كل من يعلم ولا يعلم يطرد
ويلعن.
كل من لا يقود ابنه الى المعلم

يكون مذنبا في يوم الدين.

وفي عبادة الخالق وتحريم عبادة الاجرام جاء مايلي:

لا تسبحوا للكواكب والابراج
ولا تسبحوا للشمس والقمر
المنورين هذا العالم وسبحوا
للذي وهبها النور.
هذه كلها اشباح لا تهبكم قوة
ولا تعين حظوظكم وليس لها
عليكم سلطان من اليوم الى يوم
الدين ولا ياتيكم من لدنها علم

طقوس الاغتسالات

الاول – ويدعى "الرشامه"، اي (الوضوء) وتتم بدون مساعدة الكاهن، وتجري يوميا، وتشابه الوضوء لدى المسلمين ويعتبر هذا عماد صغير للتخلص من النجاسات الصغرى، ولوقاية المرء من الاخطار اليومية، كما انه تكرار للايمان بالحياة الابدية.

الثاني – ويدعى "طماشة" وهي ثلاث ارتماسات في النهر بدون كاهن، وهي ما تجريها المرأة بعد الحيض وبعد الولادة. كما تجرى بعد لمس جثة الميت، وبعد الجنابة في المضاجعة والاحتلام. او حتى من نجاسة او اتصال بشخص نجس فالنجاسات معدية.

الثالث – "مصبته" أي التعميد أو الصباغة، وتتم بواسطة كاهن في اوقات الزواج، الولادة او التماس او حمل الميت .... الخ. والتعميد يجري يوم الاحد وفي اعياد معينة، وخاصة في الايام الخمسة الكبيسة "البنجه". ويتم ذلك في المندي او بيت العبادة ويطلق عليه ايضا "مشكنه"

والمندي من السمات البارزة في الدين المندائي، ويجب ان يجاور النهر او قناة ماء جار، وهذا ما يشير الى الارتباط بعبادة الماء القديمة البدائية. ويحاط المندي بسياج لحجب الطقوس عن الأعين المتطلعة. تلتحق بالمندي بركة التعميد التي تقع في جنوبه، وتتصل بطرفيها قناتان واحدة لاخذ الماء من النهر والاخرى لصبه فيه لغرض ابقاء الماء جاريا بصورة مستمرة. والمندي عبارة عن بناء بسيط من القصب والبواري المطلية بالطين، وهو مشابه لاكواخ القصب التي يقطنها سكنة الاهوار في جنوب العراق. وهو على شكل جمالي مستطيل الشكل، اطول جداريه هما الشمالي والجنوبي. ويواجه الداخل اليه من الباب الاتجاه الشمالي، الذي يتوجه اليه الشخص عند اداء الصلاة. ولا توجد في المندي نوافذ ولازينات داخلية والنور الوحيد ياتيه من الباب، ويتم اجراء اغلب المراسيم الدينية في الساحات المحيطة به. ويطهر المندي سنويا من قبل الكهان وتكون هذه المراسيم طويلة نسبيا، وقد بني حديثا مندي في منطقة القادسية على احد فروع نهر دجلة في بغداد وأن بناءه قد تم بالطابوق والخرسانة المسلحة.

الملابس الدينية "الرسته"

الملابس الدينية الصابئية وتدعى "رستا" وتستعمل في مراسيم التعميد والزواج والوفاة وهي بيضاء ترمز الى كساء النور الذي ترتديه الروح الطاهرة. ويحتفظ اغلب المندائيين بهذا الرداء لاستعماله في هذه المناسبات. ويعتقد الصابئة بانهم في زمن ما كانوا لا يرتدون الا البياض، وان من الخطيئة ارتداء الملابس الملونة.

والرستة الكاملة تحتوي على تسعة قطع للكهنة، وسبعة قطع لافراد الطائفة عامة وتتكون من:

١- القميص: "سدره"، وهي من قماش قطني ابيض يعمل حسب المقاسات المطلوبة

حوالي ستة اذرع للرجل الحي وسبعة الى ثمانية للميت.

٢- الدشه: او "دشا"، وهي رقعة من نفس القماش تخاط من الخارج اعلى الناحية اليمنى من فتحة الصدر.

٣- السروال: "الشروال".

٤- التكه: "تكه"، وهي الخيط الذي يشد السروال الى البطن ويترك احد طرفي التكة بدون خياطة وحين يربطان يتدلى الطرف المخاط الى جهة اليمين.

٥- العمامة: "برزنقا"، وهي من الموزلين الابيض عرضها حوالي الذراع تلف ثلاثة مرات حول الراس وتترك احدى النهايتين مدلاة فوق الكتف الايسر.

٦- االقبوعة: "النصيفه"، وهي قطعة طويلة من الخام او الموزلين تلقى على الكتفين.

٧- الزنار: "الهميانه"، وهي نسيج مجوف من ستين خيطا صوفيا تحاك بطريقة خاصة. تربط بمسكها بالمنتصف امام الجسم ثم تلف الى الخلف وتقاطع طرفاها ثم تلف الى الامام حيث تعقد عقدتين. وتكون احدى النهايتين مشرشبة وتسمى كركوشه والاخرى مخاطة وتسمى عروه وهذه تكون فوق الكركوشه اثناء الربط وتتدلى الكركوشه الى الجهة اليسرى. ويقول العامي اثناء عملية الزنار هذه الكلمات: (هميانه اترس، بترين طابي، بترين كطري) اي ارسم الزنار بطهارتين وعقدتين.

٨- التاج: "التاغه"، للكاهن فقط وهي حلقة من الحرير الابيض او القطن.

٩- حلقة ذهب: "شوم ياور"، للكاهن فقط تلبس في خنصر اليد اليمنى مكتوب عليها "شوم ياور زيوا" (الروح العظمى).

كذلك يحمل الكاهن عصا من الزيتون. فبينما تكون "الرسته" للنور فالعصا وتدعى "مركنه" ترتبط عادة بالماء ويقال عنها (عصا الماء الحي). وتدفن مع الكاهن عند موته.

التعميد

يطلق الصابئة على اول تعميد للفرد الصابئ اسم تعميد "زهريثه"، وهو

التعميد الذي يدخل ذلك الفرد ضمن مجموعة "المندائيين الصابئين" وبدونه يبقى الفرد معلقا.

نرى ان المندائيين يتعمدون عدة مرات على خلاف الدين المسيحي حيث يكون التعميد مرة واحدة بحياة الشخص فقط.

شعائر النحر - الذباحة

ان الحلال من الطعام هو كل نبات له بذر. لحم الأغنام. انواع الطيور، كالدجاج والبط والوز وغيرها. وكذلك الاسماك، ويحرم اكل الغراب والزاغ والزركي وكذلك لحم الجمل والحصان والخنزير والكلب والفار واالارنب والقط. ويعتبرون ذبح الجاموس أو البقر من الجرائم الكبرى ولاتوجد اية اهمية دينية للبقرة. وتناول اللحم لدى الصابئة قليل عمليا. والاتجاة بخصوص عملية النحر اعتذاري مشوب بالندم، وحسب اعتقادهم من الخطيئة أن تنحر حتى اذا كان ذلك حسب طقوس النحر المعتادة . ويجوز النحر في جميع ايام السنة ماعدا أيام الصوم عن اكل اللحم (المبطلات). ويوصى بالنحر في أول كل شهر وفي المناسبات الاخرى كالأعياد والاعراس والمآتم وغيرها.

وتراعى الامورالتالية عند القيام بنحر الحيوان:

١- تطهير الحيوان المراد نحره بالماء، والتأكد من نظافته وسلامته البدنية ولايمكن ذبح الحيوان الناقص الخلقة.

٢- تطهير السكين بتسخينها وغسلها بالماء، وتكون عادة من الحديد وبدون ممسك خشبي، يستعاض عنه بقطعة من غصن التوت او الغرب اثناء الذبح.

٣- يرتدي القائم بالنحر ملابس دينية خاصة "الرسته"، ويكون شخصا صحيح البدن.

٤- ضرورة وجود شخص ثان يشهد بصحة قيام الناحر باصول النحر وبموجب الاصول الدينية ورغبة منه في توفير طعام للناس.

٥- يكون الناحر جالسا والشاهد واقفا.

٦- تبدأ المراسيم بقراءة الرهمي أي الدعاء التمهيدي وتدقيق الملابس الدينية قطعة قطعة.

٧- تتلي صيغة الذبح المرافقة لها وهي:

بسم الحي ربي العليم وباسم
ملائكته النورانيين، نحرا

زكيا يهب قوة وعافية لكل
الذين يأكلون منه واسم الله
العليم مذكور عليك.

٨- بعد الانتهاء من عملية نحر الحيوان يقوم الناحر بغسل يديه وذكر اسم الله تعالى والتحلل من خطيئة الذبح وهو يتلي الدعاء التالي:

باسم الحي ربي العليم ذبحت
بالحديد وحللت يدي بالماء
انا الخاطئ والهي الغافر
قوني واغفر خطاياي وحوبائي
وزلاتي وذنوبي ومساوئي
انا فلان بن فلانه، اسم الله
العليم مذكور علي.

شعائر الزواج

الدين الصابئي يشجع الزواج ويعتبر الاعزب مذنبا تجاه دينه في الدنيا والآخرة، وحسب قول احد الكهنة لو لم تخلق المرأة لما كان هناك شمس ولا قمر ولا زراعة ولا ماء.

ان تعدد الزوجات عادة مايكون استثناء لضرورة الخلفة، ويفضل الصابئة الزواج بالواحدة. والمقاييس الاخلاقية عندهم صلبة. ولا يعترف الدين بالطلاق بل يكون الافتراق هو الحل. ويسمح بزواج الاقارب مثل ابناء العم وابناء الخالات. وليس هناك الحاح على الفتاة اذا ما رأت في الزيجة المطلوبة شيئا لا ترغب نفسها فيه. كما لا يوجد حدود للمهر وانما يعتمد على رضا الطرفين. ويتم عقد الزواج في يوم الاحد.

وتجتاز الفتاة اختبارا لتحديد عذريتها التي يوليها الصابئة

اهتماما كبيرا والتي تحدد بموجبها نوع الطقوس، ومرتبه الكاهن لاجراء مراسيم الزواج.

وتسال العروس عادة وهي في مكانها من قبل احد الكهان، وامام الشهود لثلاثة مرات ما اذا كانت راغبة بالزواج من الرجل، ويسأل العريس مرتان عن رغبته بالزواج بالفتاة.

وخلال قراءة الادعية واجراء المراسيم، تكسر مشربتان فخاريتان رمزا لكسر الشر والباطل، ويؤدي الزوج قسم الأخلاص والامانة (كشطا ياقرا) ويقول فيه:

> هذا عهد قطعته على نفسي امام الشهود، باني سآخذ،
> فلانة بنت فلانة، زوجة شرعية لي، يشهد الله الحي العظيم،
> ويشهد رسله وملائكته الاثيريون، ويشهد هؤلاء الكهنة
> والمندائيون، كلهم شهودي باني لن احيد عن عهدي وميثاقي،
> ولن اخون زوجتي أو اغشها، وسوف اوليها رعايتي واسالمها
> بالحق وأفي بعهودي التي ربطتني بها أمام اللة تعالى.

اما القسم الذي تؤديه الفتاة فيكون بعد ان يناولها الكاهن قطعة الرغيف الذي اكل منه الزوج ويطلب منها أن تقسم انها سوف لا تأكل إلا منه. فتفعل وتكون بذلك قد اعطت وعدا بانها تشاركة الحياة هو وحده.

شعائر الموت

يعتقد الصابئون بان الجسد هو وعاء النفس، وان نفس الانسان نسمة من ذات الله تعالى، وانها لابد عائدة اليه ومتحدة به بعد الموت، لذلك نجدهم يحرصون على طهارة الجسد والنفس قبل الموت، وذلك بالمحافظة على جسم المريض وملابسه وكذلك وجوب حضور احد رجال الدين او احد المتدينين قبيل الوفاة بغية الاستماع الي كلماته الاخيرة والصلاة علية قبل الموت. اما بعد الموت فانهم يقيمون الصلوات ويقدمون طعام الغفران من اليوم الاول وحتى اليوم الخامس والاربعين.

وتقدم الصدقات وتقام الصلوات في ايام الاعياد والمناسبات الدينية طلبا للرحمة ولراحة نفس الميت من لدن الله تعالى. وهذه بعض الاقوال:

> لاتبكوا موتاكم، ولا تنهبوا
> اموالهم وابلهم، واطلبوا لهم
> الصحة، واقرأوا من اجلهم
> الصلوات والادعية والكتب
> والاسفار طالبين أن تغمرهم
> الرحمة الآلهية.

التقويم المندائي والاعياد

تقسم السنة لدى الصابئين الي اثني عشر شهرا ولكل شهر ثلاثون يوما، ويضيفون خمسة ايام كبيسة تسمي (بروانايي) أو البنجة قبل الشهر

التاسع، فيكون طول السنة عندهم ثلاثمائة وخمسة وستين يوما، وتنقص سنتهم لربع يوم عن السنة الشمسية (الميلادية)، وتبعا لهذا الفرق نجد ان اسماء الاشهر والاعياد والمناسبات لديهم لم تعد في اماكنها من فصول السنة، التي عينت لها في الأصل. واستمر هذا الفرق، وتراكمت الايام، حتى غدا عيد راس السنة الكبير وهو عيد التكريس يقع في اواخر تموز حاليا، في حين ان موقعه الاصلي كان في اول شباط. والصابئون يحسبون بدء الاربع والعشرين ساعة للنهار والليل من الفجر، اي ان يوم الثلاثاء مثلا تتبعها ليلة الثلاثاء، وهذا ينطبق على تقديمهم للنور على الظلام مع تلازمهما فالنهار يسبق الليل والنور يسبق الظلام.

ومن الاعياد المهمة:

عيد راس السنة – (التكريس)، او العيد الكبير، وهو ذكرى هبة الله تعالى "الحياة". ويقولون ان الملائكة الاثيرين قد صعدوا بهذه المناسبة للشكران. ولكن الروح الخبيثة او الشيطان لم يصعد بل بقى لافساد حياة الانسان، ومن اجل ذلك يفضل الصابئة الاجتماع في بيوتهم وتكريس اوقاتهم للعباده والدعاء حتى يتقرر مصير الانسان بتغلب قوى الخير وانتصارها. وتكون مدة التكريس ستا وثلاثين ساعة يخرجون بعدها ويقيمون شعائر العيد في اليوم الاخير من السنة المنتهية.

العيد الصغير – وهو عيد الازدهار، وموعده الاصلي الثامن عشر من ايار (مايس) ويطلق عليه هبة الله الصغرى، وهو ذكرى عودة الملاك الرسول جبرئيل "هيبل زيوا" الى السماء بعد نزوله للارض مبشرا بانتشار النور واندحار الظلام.

عيد "البنجة" - او عيد الخمسة ايام، ويسمى عيد الخليقة "برونايي"، وهي ذكرى الايام التي بلغ بها الخلق تمامه. وتدعى هذه الايام ايام الذكرى (ذخرانا متقري) وهي ايام مضيئة لانها تمثل فجر الحياة المكتمل، ويقع في نهاية الشهر الثامن، ويقام فيه التعميد والصلوات وتقديم الطيبات على ارواح الموتى.

عيد التعميد - "دهوا اد يمانا"، وهو ذكرى تعميد الاباء الصالحين القدامى، كشيت وانوش وسام ويحيى يوحنا عليهم السلام. ويقع هذا العيد في نهاية الشهر العاشر.

خاتمة

ان دراسة دين الصابئين مهمة جدا للبحث في العقائد الدينية الاخرى، فهي مهمة حيث المكان والزمان والموضوع، لانها قديمة العلاقة بكل مكان تتعلق به مسيرة الاديان الاخرى، ثم ان لغتها المقدسة تشير الى زمان متوسط بين اللغات القديمة المهجورة واللغة السريانية الحديثة، كما انها ترينا ملتقى التوحيدالقديم والوثنية القديمة.

الماء الحي

العنصر الوسيط بين الطقوس والمعتقدات المندائية (١)

يواجه المندائيون في الوقت الحاضر وكأية مجموعة صغيرة منعزلة تحاول العيش تحت نظام صارم لتطبيق وممارسة معتقداتها الدينية القديمة، صعوبات كثيرة نتيجة لاختلاطهم مع العالم المتحضر وتأثرهم بالتطور الثقافي والتكنولوجي المستمر. "ليدي دراور"، اشارت الى هذه الصعوبات في سنة ١٩٣٧ (٢)، ولا تشير التقارير اللاحقة لتلك الفترة بالتفاؤل. (٣) كما أن الحرب العراقية الايرانية قد فاقمت من وضع الطائفة المندائية كثيرا. (٤) فقد حذر "سوكس" من احتمال وقوع كارثة مدمرة للطائفة وبدون علم الحكومة العراقية، وذلك لتواجد اغلبية هذه الطائفة في مناطق الاهوار والتي تقع على مخزون نفطي هائل. (٥)

ان اغلب الدراسات عن المندائيين كانت تدور حول منشأهم، جذورهم التاريخية، أصل وتطور دينهم، لغتهم، وغيرها. منذ عدة سنوات أشارت "بكلي"، في دراستها الخاصة الى علاقة الطقوس

* على حد علمنا لم يرسل الكنزبرا عبدالله احد المرشحين للكهانة لدراسة اللغة المندائية في المانيا.

بالمعتقدات في مراسيم شعائر الموت الجماعية (المسخثا)،* وفي هذه الدراسة انتقدت "بكلي" الباحثين، الذين تجاهلوا اهمية العلاقة بين الطقوس والمعتقدات لدى المندائيين.

> "مازال الباحثون بالمندائية عموما يعتبرون العلاقة بين الطقوس والمعتقدات علاقة غير جوهرية ولا ترتبط مع بعضها البعض وعندما يظهر الاهتمام بالطقوس فأن محاولات استخلاص المعنى الحقيقي لهذه الطقوس ضمن اطار المعتقدات الدينية تكون ضعيفة ومحدودة". (٧)

ان دراستي هذه هي استجابة لمخاوف "بكلي"، حول اهمية البحث في علاقة الطقوس بالمعتقدات من خلال ظاهرة مراسيم التعميد المندائي "مصبتا"، وذلك بألقاء الضوء على اهمية عنصر الماء الحي في اطار المعتقدات وطقوس التعميد، لكونه منبع الحياة وحلقة الوصل المستمرة بين عالم النور والعالم الارضي.

ان دراسة "فيديكرين"، لطقوس التتويج في مراسيم التعميد المندائي قد اوضحت بعضا من اوجه العلاقة بين الطقوس والمعتقدات (٨) وقد اعتمد "فيدكرين"، مبدأ المقارنة بالتحري عن التعميد وعلاقته بطقوس التتويج.

ان ما نطرحه في هذا البحث هو تحقيق خاص ومحدد لعلاقة الطقوس بالمعتقدات المندائية نفسها.

١. الماء الحي (ميا هيي): المعتقدات (٩،١٠)

الموضوع: الماء، الضياء والحياة، الماء هنا حلقة وصل بين عالم النور والارض.

---

* المسخثا: غفران – قداس على روح الميت او من هو بحكم الميت (الصابئة المندائيون– دراور).

الماء الحي نشأ في عالم النور. ان ما ورد حول هذا الموضوع في، (GR)* يختلف من مكان لآخر، وليس من السهل ايضاحه. فمثلا عن منشأ الماء الحي او مكانه نسبة لموقعه في عمليات التكوين تذكر(8-3 379 XV GR)

وكمثال:

بعيد عالم النور كانت الحياة،
ومن الحياة جاء الماء.
من الحياة جاء الماء،
ومن الماء جاء البهاء.
ومن البهاء جاء النور،
ومن النور جاء الاثري.

وفي (26-19 73 III GR)، يذكر فيها ان الحياة قد تكونت من الماء بقوة ملك النور:

الثمرة العظيمة جاءت،
ومنها جاءت اليردنا.
اليردنا العظيمة جاءت،
المياه الحية جاءت
المياه المتلألئة جاءت،
ومن الماء الحي جئت انا الحياة.

بالرغم من وجود بعض الاختلافات في هذه التفاصيل لكننا نرى وضوح العلاقة الوثيقة بين الحياة والنور والماء.

---

* GR: كنزا يمينا، وهو القسم الايمن من كتاب المندائيين المقدس كنزا ربا او الكنز العظيم.

 الاثري: مفردها اثرا وهم كائنات نورانية خيرة.

يقابل الماء الحي في عالم النور الماء الاسود (ميا سياوي) (١١) في عالم الظلام.(١٢) لكن الماء الحي ارفع منزلة من الماء الاسود لكونه أقدم من الظلام (GR III 75 23).

ان الماء الاسود كما يقال قد احاط بالارض بعد تكوينها من قبل "بثاهيل"* (GR 174 37-38)، وفي هذه المياه السوداء صب خيط رفيع من ماء اليردنا النوراني من قبل "مندادهيي." (١٣) ونتيجة لذلك اصبح الماء# حلوا وعذبا." وهكذا لينعم ابناء الانسان بشربه ويكون مثيلاً للحياة العظمى" (GR 266 35-37)

ان حكاية ارسال الماء الحي الى العالم الارضي قد وردت في المعتقدات باكثر من مكان## مع بعض الاختلافات في تفاصيلها. (GR XV مثلا، تشير الى كيفية ارسال الماء الحي لعالم الارض بحراسة "شلمي وندبي" (١٤) وكيف تذمر الماء الحي بسبب عذابه واضعاف قوته (GR XV 308, 31-32)، ولكن هذين الحارسين طلبا منه الخلود والسكينة، لانها اوامر من الحياة العظمى، وهي لغرض نشر البهاء، واعطاء المساعدة للارواح وتهيئة المناخ اللازم للتعميد الحي والشفاء (GR XV 310, 9-18)،. وهناك نص آخر يبين بوضوح مدى ارتباط الماء مع عالم النور (GR XV 354 4-13)، وخاصة 12-13:

وهكذا لتتدفق المياه للامام
وان رباط هذا العالم قد تم. (١٥)

* بثاهيل: احد الملائكة الموكلين بالعالم الارضي.

 مندادهيي: (عارف الحياة) او المخلص وهو الموكل بتدبير ومراقبة العوالم كلها. ويعتبر المحور المركزي في العقيدة المندائية.

يقصدبه الماء اليردنا في العالم الارضي.

##يعود الى المعتقدات المندائية.

ان مفهوم نقل الماء الحي السماوي ومزجه بالماء الارضي يتكرر الكلام عنه لدى المندائيين وينعكس ذلك وبدون تمييز باستعمالهم كلمة يردنا (الماء الحي في عالم النور)، ويردنا (ماء الانهار الجارية في العالم الارضي). (١٦)

ان ما نراه من مفهوم ارسال الماء الحي السماوي واختلاطه بالماء الاسود ماء العالم الارضي، والعلاقة الوطيدة لمفهوم الحياة، النور والماء، هي اكثر المظاهر اهمية لمبدأ الخلاص في مفهوم المعتقدات المندائية.

ان نزول (اليردنا) الماء الحي السماوي واختلاطه بـ(اليردنا) في العالم الارضي قد عزز العلاقة الوطيدة، بين عالم النور والعالم الارضي وبالنتيجة ادى الى نشوء الحياة في هذا العالم. فلو ان يردنا الماء الحي السماوي لم يختلط مع ماء الارض، لبقي ماء الارض اسوداً وبدون حياة وبقي كما كان عند التكوين (GR V 174 37-38) ولبقيت ارواح المندائيين حبيسة في عالم الظلام.*

٢. الماء الحي (ميا هيي): طقوس التعميد (١٧)

١. استعمالات الماء في الطقوس المندائية:

يدخل الماء في كثير من الطقوس المندائية، منها طقوس الغمر او الغطس في مراسيم (التعميد، المسختا، تكريس الكاهن، الزواج، النحر المقدس). وكذلك في طقوس التطهر: (الرشاما، الطماشا#، الاغتسال، تكريس المندي، غسل ارجل المرشح للكهانة، غسل السكين قبل البدء

---

* يقصد بها وجود المندائيين بعد التكوين.

 الرشاما: الوضوء الذي يجري قبل الصلاة.

الطماشا: الغطس في الماء الجاري ثلاث مرات من اجل التطهر.

وبعد الانتهاء من مراسيم النحر المقدس)، وكذلك شرب "الممبوها"## في مراسيم التعميد والمسخثا، وفي عمل "الهمرا" وهو خليط من الماء والنبيذ+ يستعمل في مراسيم الزواج.

ان الغطس، او الاغتسال في مراسيم التعميد (المصبتا) او بعض الصور المختصرة منه، والذي يعتبرالعمود الرئيسي في حياة المندائيين ويكون مكملا لاغلب الطقوس المندائية الاخرى. والتعميد (المصبتا) مشتقة من المصطلح صبُتّا ومفردها (صُبي)، [الفعل صبْا يعني يتعمد، يغمر، يغطس، لاجل الصبغ] وهذا ما يدل على جوهر المندائية. (١٨)

٢. طقوس التعميد عموما:

يجري التعميد عند المندائيين عادة في يوم الاحد من كل اسبوع، وكذلك في المناسبات الدينية الاخرى وخاصة في الايام الخمسة (البنجة)*، ويكون اجراؤه ضروريا بعد الزواج، الولادة، ملامسة الميت، المرض، بعد السفر، اقتراف ذنب مثل السرقة، القتل، الزنا وهذا يتطلب اكثر من تعميد واحد. (١٩)

وتقسم هذه الطقوس الى قسمين: قسم الاغتسال ويتم داخل الماء، والقسم الآخر ويتم على ضفة النهر بعد اجراء الاغتسال ويتضمن

الممبوها: الماء المقدس الذي يستعمل في الطقوس الدينية.

+ الهمرا: لا يستعمل النبيذ المعروف بالمعنى الاعتيادي، انما معنى (همرا) عصير الخصب المقدس، يصنع من هرس عنبة واحدة مع تمرة واحدة في وعاء صغير ويمزج بالماء على ان لا يتجاوز استعمالها نهاراً واحداً.

* البنجة: (برونايي)، عيد الخليقة وهي خمسة ايام كبيسة لا تحتسب ضمن ايام الاشهر او التقويم السنوي المندائي.

 التعمييد لا يزيل الخطايا او الذنوب الكبيرة مثل القتل، السرقة، الزنا، انما يفتح بابا لقبول التوبة الصادقة.

تناول الطعام القدسي، الخبز والماء المقدسان، المسح بالزيت# وتراتيل الصلاة.

٣. المعتقدات في مراسيم صلوات التعميد:

تحتوي صلوات التعميد على رموز عميقة المعنى، وعلى مستويات متباينة، فقد ورد في كتاب (CP 1)، معتقدين متشابهين في تركيبتهما عن العالمين السماوي والارضي. الصلاة تفتتح بنبذة موجزة عن تفاصيل نشوء الكون، يتبعها سرد قصصي قصير عن الشخص الذي لا يضع التاج، ولقائه بالكواكب السبعة، اما تفاصيل مراسيم التتويج السماوية، فتأتي في الجزء النهائي للصلاة الطقسية الخاصة بالعالم الارضي والتي يتلوها الكاهن اثناء مراسيم وضع عمامته فوق رأسه. وهذه الصلاة تحتوي على نوع من المعتقدات والتعليقات حول الشعائر الدنيوية، فمثلا: (CP 13)، يذكر عن كيفية نزول الكاهن الى "اليردنا" الماء الجاري وكأنه ينزل برفقة مساعدين اسطوريين هم "شلمي وندبي، هيبل، شيتل وانوش."##

هناك ايضا صلاة تتضمن تفاصيل للمعتقدات فقط، لا بد للمرء ان يربطها بنفسه بالطقوس الدنيوية، فمثلا: في (CP 4)، نجد ان حقيقة ما يراد وصفه هو، ما يقوم به الاثري في داخل سكنهم السماوي "شخنثا" بأهداء الاكاليل المعلقة فوق رؤسهم لشجرة البهاء وتعليقها فوق اغصانها. والصلاة هذه تتلى من قبل الكاهن عند وضع اكليل الآس على رأسه.

المقصود بالزيت هو زيت السمسم، ولا يستعمل اي نوع من انواع الزيوت الاخرى.

ان شلمي وندبي، هما حارسا الماء الجاري (يردنا)، اما هيبل، شيتل، وانش، فهم على وجه العموم حراس اليابسة (الارض) وما عليها.

لـ"كشطا" (تصافح الأيدي الطقسي واشارة لاعطاء علامة الصدق)، وذلك قبل مشاركة رجل الدين في تناول الطعام (الخبز والماء).

"كشطا تجعلك كاملا اخي – الأثرى"، ان هذه المشاركة الطقسية تمارس على شاكلة ما يقوم به الأثري في مساكنهم "شخيناثا"[*].

"الشذا هو عطرك اخي – الأثرى، لكونك انت المليء بالبهاء".

من هذا يتكون الانطباع بأن الحاجز الفاصل بين عالم النور وعالم الارض قد تلاشى وانعدم، حتى انه لم يبق هناك عالم سماوي وعالم ارضي بل تداخل الاثنان مع بعضهما من خلال تأدية هذه المراسيم.

٤. الغمر في الماء قسم من اقسام طقوس التعميد.(CP 12-21):

الموضوع: الماء، النور والحياة، الماء في هذه الحالة يكون حلقة الوصل بين عالم النور وعالم لارض.

أ. الماء، النور والحياة وحدة مترابطة مع بعضها.

مصطلح النور يكون متلازما مع مصطلح "اليردنا" اي الماء الجاري، فمثلا في (CP 12) (ان تكوين شخنثا – المسكن في عالم النور – مرتبطة مع عملية افتتاح اليردنا)، اما في (CP 18)، (٢٠) فأن (يردنا العظيم الآتي من الحياة الاولى والتي كلها مليئة باشعاع المجد المتوهجة في تنا[])، كما جاء ايضا في (DMasb 51, 11-19) (تعليقات حول

---

[*] شخيناثا: جمع شخنثا وهي، بيوت العبادة السماوية في عالم النور، اما في العالم الارضي فتكون بيوت العبادة لتهيئة الفرد (المعمد) للدخول في ملكوت عالم النور. وهذه نقطة جوهرية تسند ما اوردته (الباحثة) وتوضح العلاقة الوثيقة بين عالم النور والعالم الارضي وكيفية زوال الحواجز بينهما. لتفاصيل اكثر راجع ديوان "ملكوثا اليثا".

[] تنا: الضباب، الدخان الكوني، ويلعب دورا هاما في عمليات الخلق والتكوين التي تمت وتتم في عالم النور وعالم الظلام.

الصلاة في بداية الطقوس المقامة في داخل الماء) (قدوم البهاء والنور وتنوير اليردنا).

وفي (9 CP) يشار الى "تعميد النور العظيم" وهو اصطلاح يكرر لوصف صورة ملابس البهاء (19 ,92 CP)

اما بالنسبة الى علاقة الماء والحياة، وعلى ابسط المستويات، فهي: ان الماء معزز الحياة، لكونه يدخل في مراسيم صلاة وضع الاكليل، (19 CP)، ويوصف فيها تثبيت الاكليل الذي لايذبل ولا يفقد اوراقه.

والاكثر اهمية هو ان اليردنا يظهر كعنصر خالق للحياة، ففي (18 CP)، يذكر عن تكون الماء ونشوء الحياة من مائها الخاص. يتبعه سرد لكيفية قيام الحياة بتكوين الاشياء الحية داخل الماء.

كما يورد (14 CP) سردا عن ياور#، الذي اقام الاثري (شرايين الحياة) في اليردنا بقوة ادواته المائية. ويشابه ذلك تعميد الروح التي ترتفع الى الاعلى لتصل الى موقع النور العظيم والمقام الابدي.

وكذلك وجدت مثل هذه المفاهيم في خارج نصوص مراسيم التعميد، وتظهر بوضوح في احدى فقرات (32 ATS II)، حيث يشبه الماء في قارورة الكاهن وكأنه ماء الرجل، وبينت ذلك الليدي دراوور في مثالين من المعتقدات التي اوردتها حول، ان (أنشبي)* قد حملت بـ(يوحنا المعمدان) بعد ان شربت من اليردنا (٢١)، وذكر قسم من هذه المعتقدات في (10-18 115 J)، وكذلك في (2-5 5 HG).

ب. الماء حلقة الوصل بين عالم النور والارض.

ياور: احد كائنات النور، ويعني المشع، البراق.

* أنشبي: (اليصبات)، زوجة الاب زكريا.

على المستوى البسيط، يكون الماء شاهدا اوممرا للروح* في عروجها الى عالم النور، (CP 21) اما على المستوى العميق، فيكون اليردنا الوكيل للوسائل التي يتم عن طريقها العروج.

(CP 18) يشير الى معادلة متكونة من ثلاثة اقسام تتعلق بالروح التي تحرم الهدم من اجل البناء، الخطأ من اجل الصواب، ومكان الخوف من اجل مكان الضياء.

وبعد ان حددنا العلاقة الوثيقة بين الماء، النور والحياة، في كل من الطقوس والمعتقدات ووجدنا ان النور والحياة يوصفان بأنهما الطريق او الدليل لعروج الروح الى عالم النور (٢٢)، ومن المحتمل كذلك ان يكون نفس العمل قد اعطي ضمنيا للماء كما ورد في (CP :18)

> ...سآخذ بيده واكون حاميه ودليله الى مكان الضياء العظيم والمقام الابدي (٢٣).

مما ورد اعلاه نرى، انه من المعقول الافتراض بأن الماء الحي هو الحياة، وانبعث من المكان الآلهي، وهو الوسيلة التي عن طريقها تعرج الروح المتعمدة الى عالم النور، سواء كانت هذه الرحلة متأتية من خلال التصور الناتج عن ممارسة طقوس التعميد (٢٤) او الموعود بها من خلال رحلة ما بعد الموت. (٢٥)

اما اذا تعمقنا في المعنى، فأن الماء اليردنا يكون حلقة وصل بين عالم النور والعالم الارضي، لأن اليردنا في الطقوس يصبح اكثر سماويا. ويكون هذا أكثر وضوحا واقناعا في صلاة الافتتاح (بتاها اد يردنا) وصلاة التأسيس (قايمتا اد يردنا).

*الروح: المقصود بها هنا (نيشمثا) اي نسمة الحياة، وهي ممصطلح يطلق على الشخص اثناء التعميد سواء في هذا العالم او في العالم الآخر.

طقس افتتاح اليردنا كما يمارس حاليا يتم قبل نزول الكاهن الى الماء .(CP 12) ويتم التأسيس بعد صعود المتعمد على ضفة النهر (CP 20) وغمر الكاهن لكأسه وقنينته في الماء وخروجه على ضفة النهر حيث يشرع بصلاة التأسيس.

"سيكيلبيرغ"، يعتقد انه عند اداء صلاة الافتتاح يصبح الماء الحي متدفقا في مجراه بالرغم من عدم ارتباط الصلاة بالماء. (٢٦) "رودلف"، يفترض ان افتتاح اليردنا له علاقة بذكريات وتاريخ الديانة، فهو يصف الكاهن وهو في حوض المندي يعطي اوامره لتصبح القناة سالكة، لكي يتدفق الماء فيها وكأنه ماء حي، (٢٧) وفي نفس الوقت يرى ان صلاة الافتتاح ما هي الا عمل رمزي يخدم فكرة، ان الماء الحي يجب ان يكون متدفقا وليس ساكنا او مقطوعاَ.

اما ما تبقى من طقوس الطهارة الاقل تعلقاً بالماء هما: (الرشاما والطماشا)، ولايشترط فيهما اجراء صلاة الافتتاح او صلاة التأسيس. ولكن هناك بعض التشابه في طريقة التمهيد لمراسيم الطماشا. "...اطلق علي قوى اليردنا، واجعلها تأتي (علي)". (٢٩) ويتبين عدم ضرورة افتتاح او تأسيس الماء بعد هذه الصلاة. وهنا يطرح السؤال التالي: لماذا يزداد الاهتمام باليردنا في بعض الطقوس وليس في غيرها؟

* تاهما: الماء الغير صالح للشرب، وهو ماء راكد غير صاف وعلى النقيض من الماء الحي الجاري (يردنا).

والجدير بالذكر فانه يتعين على الدارس ان يأخذ بعين الاعتبار وجود اختلافات في نصوص بعض المصادر والتي يظهر فيها بعض التناقض في تفاصيل مراسيم التعميد وكذلك في ما تحتويه الصلاة القدسية مثلا:

(GR IV 144, 29-145, 10)، تسرد حكاية التعميد الآلهي لهيبل زيوا* وذلك قبل البدء في رحلته الى عالم الظلام. عندما رأى اليردنا الألق، الضياء وبهاء منداهيي، (عصا الزيتون)# عصا الماء الحي، بدأ يلهو ويقفز ويجري ويدور حول نفسه كالدوامة (GR IV 145 2-4)، وكان علي ان اعطي أمري ليهدأ اليردنا كي يستطيع هيبل زيوا ان يتعمد (٣١) (GR IV 145 5-10)، ويشير هذا القسم من المراسيم، الى ان منداهيي قد اجرى التعميد وصعد الى ضفة اليردنا (٣٢)، (GR, V 145, 22-23)، ان تهدئة اليردنا قد حدثت قبل التعميد، وليس بعده كما جاء في (CP 20).

(DMasb 55 8)، يصف الصعود الى الضفة بعد الانتهاء من ملأ القنينة، مطابقاً لما ورد في (CP 20)، ولكن ما ورد في تعقيب (CP 21) هو ان اليردنا قد اصبح نشيطا مرة اخرى مع او بعد هذه الصلاة:

 هيبل زيوا: (واهب النور)، وهو كبرائيل الرسول، أحد ملائكة الرب.

عصا الزيتون "المركنة": عصا من شجرة الزيتون طولها بطول صاحبها تقريبا تستعمل حين اداء الطقوس الدينية على اليابسة وفي الماء من قبل رجال الدين فقط.

"عندما قام آيار ربا وجميع اخوانه الملائكة الستين (خارج اليردنا) ودعوا، قمت انا، وحينها دار جميع اليردني كلهم كالدوامة، تموجوا ورقصوا ولم يهدؤا في مرقدهم" (DMasb 55 13-16).

الجدول التالي يقارن ثلاثة مصادر ذكرت تفاصيل عما ورد اعلاه.

DMasb 51-55	GR V 144، 29-145، 10	CP 12-21، 82
	(اليردنا نشيط قبل البدء بالطقوس)
		افتتاح اليردنا
	تهدئة اليردنا
تعميد	تعميد	تعميد
ملأ القارورة بالماء	CP 82	ملأ القارورة بالماءCP 82 +
تهدئة وغلق اليردنا		تأسيس/ تهدئة اليردنا CP 20 +
	تأسيس التعميد
CP 82 + نشيبد الحق "كشطا" فوق اليردناCP 20)
صعود + CP 21+ نشاط اليردني شديد في نهاية هذا الجزء من الطقوس	صعود	صعود + CP 21

ان النموذج الاساسي في اسلوب CP هو: الافتتاح – تحريك اليردنا + التعميد + التأسيس – تهدئة اليردنا. اما في اسلوب GR فهو: (نشاط اليردنا وتفاعلها يبدأ قبل المباشرة بالمراسيم) + تهدئة اليردنا + التعميد + تأسيس التعميد. (٣٣) اما في (DMasb) فالاسلوب: التعميد + تهدئة اليردنا + نشاط اليردنا في نهاية المراسيم المقامة في الماء.

عندما نأخذ الفقرات الثلاثة اعلاه بنظر الاعتبار، يتضح لنا عدم وجود ترابط بين عمل اليردنا وتكريس الافتتاح / وغلق التكريس / التأسيس. (٣٤) وبمناقشة ما يدعى (بقيمتا) اي صلاة التأسيس (٣٥)، يوجز"رودولف"، المشاكل في هذا الجزء من المراسيم كالآتي:

> ظهور الفروقات بين التأسيس والتحرر، فمن الممكن القول: ان التأسيس يتجاوب تجاوبا أيجابياً، اما التحرر فيكون تجاوبه سلبيا غير فاعل او منتج، وهكذا يكون التكريس وانهاء التكريس، واستناداً على ما لدينا من المعطيات المتوفرة، فأن هذه الاختلافات لا يمكننا الغاؤها بسهولة او توضيحها بالتحديد.

سطح الماء بأدواته. اما في مرحلة التأسيس والانتهاء من طقوس التعميد، فأن القوى الحياتية الكامنة لليردنا، تقل وتضعف، ونتيجة لذلك يقل الخطر على اولئك الذين يكونون في تماس معه.

ان الخطر لا يكمن في الماء فقط بل عند المرشحين للتعميد انفسهم، فهم في حالة انتقال من الحالة الهامشية الى حالة المشاركة الكاملة في عالم النور، ويعني ذلك هو الانتقال من حالة الظلام الى حالة النور، من حالة تحمل الخطايا الى حالة الحياة، والذين هم في حالة الانتقال هذه يكونون اكثر عرضة لخطر الماء. (٣٧)

تصف العالمة الانثروبولوجية "دوكلاس"، حالة الانتقال كما يلي:

> يقع الخطر في حالة الانتقال لامر بسيط جداً، فهذه الحالة اي حالة الانتقال تقع بين حالتين، لا تمثلانه لعدم ثباته وتغيره...وتستطيع الطقوس السيطرة على هذا الخطر وذلك بعزله فترة من الزمن عن حالته الاولى ورفعه للحالة الجديدة معلنةً عن انتقاله الى الحالة الجديدة وبهذا لن تكون فقط فترة التحول خطرا لوحدها بل ان ما تمر به طقوس الفصل بين الحالتين هي اكثر خطورة في هذه المراسيم.

انا ارى وضوحا كاملا في هذا العمل الذي يتمثل في عزل الاشخاص بعضهم عن الآخر في طقوس التعميد سواء الرمزية او الفعلية منها وادخال كل فرد على حدة لتعميده باليردنا.

ان الخطورة في هذا الجزء من الطقوس تأتي من ثلاثة مسببات: الروح في حالة انتقال؛ الماء الارضي في حالة تحول، لانفتاحه بأعلى طاقاته الكامنة نحو اليردنا السماوي؛ وان الروح والماء كليهما يلتقيان في هذه النقطة، عندما يكونان في حالة الانتقال الخطرة. وبالرغم من اننا نتكلم عن الخطر، فأنه من الضروري ايضاً معرفة مقدار حجم

الطاقة الكامنة في كل من الروح والماء. ولابد من الاشارة الى انه في هذه المرحلة بالذات تكون حياة عالم النور الوسيط للروح.

الخلاصة

يبقى الكثير مما يستحق البحث، فهناك مثلا: موضوع الوسطاء الآخرين، "بكلي"، في دراستها لموضوع "المسختا"، تشير الى ان رجال الدين المندائيين هم الوسطاء والممثلين للشخصيات الروحانية النورانية، وهم القادرون على عبور الحواجز ما بين عالم الارض وعالم النور. (٣٩) وبحثنا هذا لايسمح لنا بالأسترسال لانتقاد مثل هذه النظريات، بل يتوجب التنبه الى ان مراسيم التطهر الصغرى بالماء "الرشاما والطماشا"، يجريان بشكل فاعل من قبل الشخص المندائي العادي بدون الاستعانة بالكاهن ليكون وسيطاً.

هناك اسئلة اخرى، بعضها حقاً يحتاج لمناقشة مع الطائفة المندائية، مثلا: ماذا تعني وساطة الحياة الى الروح؟ كيف يشرح المندائيون حالتهم بعد انتهائهم من مراسيم التعميد ؟ ما هو المعنى للباس النور في ضوء استمرار حياتهم العملية على الارض ؟ ماهي انواع النشاطات في الواقع العملي عندما تتلاقى العناصرالمختلفة مع بعضها في المرحلة الهامشية للمتعمد مثل الماء، الروح، وكذلك الاتحاد التزاوجي السرمدي بين الطقوس الارضية والسماوية ؟

ان كان حقيقة حضور عالم النور في مراسيم التعميد الارضية فهل يعني هذا ان التعميد الارضي والسماوي هما واحد ؟ (٤٠) فان كان كذلك، حينها نتساءل اين يضع المندائي نفسه في حركة التعميد هذه ؟

هناك عدم توافق في اراء الباحثين حول ما اذا كانت الروح لها حصة في عالم النور. "رودولف"، بالاتفاق مع "دراور"، يعتقدان بأنها

ليست اكثر من حلم الهي "سماوي" وهي نظرة معاكسة لنظرية، "روزنشتاين"، الذي يعتقد بأن التعميد هي رحلة الهية "سماوية". (٤١)

ان العرض الطويل اللامتناهي حول التصورات السماوية والارضية في طقوس الصلاة ربما يثير الجدل، فمن الممكن ان يكون بعض من الشيء السماوي يثير البهجة للروح، حتى لو كان ذلك لفترة قصيرة من خلال طقوس التعميد. وبالرغم من انها او انه لايزال حيا من الناحية الفيزياوية "الجسمانية" ويعيش على الارض، فأن ذلك ممكن طبقا لوجهة النظر المندائية، وهذا ما يبرر موقف المندائيين تجاه التاريخ والزمن، حيث ان الاحداث الاساسية لعالم النور، تكون جميعها مهمة لهم، بخلاف الحوادث التاريخية في عالمنا الارضي، حيث تكون ذات شأن ثانوي وغير مهمة. (٤٢)

بالرغم من ان العديد من هناك الاسئلة المتبقية يتوجب الاجابة عليها، الا ان نقطتين اصبحتا واضحتين في اطار هذا التحقيق:

اولاً – ان طقوس التعميد المندائية مرتبطة ارتباطا وثيقا مع المعتقدات المندائية.

ثانياً – ان عنصر الماء الحي طبقاً لمفاهيم طقوس التعميد والمعتقدات، هو العنصر الوسيط بين عالم النور والعالم الارضي، وهو يعمل كالجسر الرابط بين عالم النور وعالم الظلام.

وبسبب من ان ارسال الماء الحي النظر الاولي، الذي هو نوع من انواع الحياة وامتزاجه بالماء الارضي، فأن التعميد يخلق الحياة في الروح المندائية، ومنها يظهر المعنى أن تكون الروح شريكة في عالم النور، وتكون قد شاركت الذين توفوا وذهبوا الى تلك الحياة.

هناك فوائد اخرى تأتي عن التعميد المندائي، مثل غفران الخطايا، التطهر، التبرك والشفاء، (CP 7, 9, 18, 23, 24)، وقطعا يعود هذا بالنتيجة الحتمية لارتباط الروح مع عالم النور.

٢٣- (Rudolph Kult 81 n. 8) غير متأكد من يكون القائد، اهو الكاهن ام اليردنا. اضافة الى مفهوم التعميد كطريق لعالم النور ، فأن التعميد السماوي لهيبل زيوا كما في GR V 163,28-164.5، يمكن ان يفسر على انه عملية نقاء وعودة الى العالم السماوي.

مندادهيي الماء للعودة الى طبيعته، ليتسنى ليوحنا المعمدان من الوقوف على ارض صلبة في وسط النهر.

٣٢- "بعد ذلك اسس مندادهيي التعميد. خرج صاعدا من اليردنا ودخل في الكشطا مع العظماء."

٣٣- ان المصطلحين تأسيس التعميد وتأسيس اليردنا ليسا غير مرتبطين كما يتراءى، فمثلاً كورت (Kult,73)، يعطي المرادف termini technici للتعميد "كأستقبال اليردنا" و"الدخول الى اليردنا".

٣٦- يتبين من مضمون الصلوات ان هناك خطراً من داخل الماء. CP 13 يتضح ان ذهاب الكاهن الى الماء قبل تعميد الروح[*]، هو بمثابة دفاع ضد الشر، وهو يطلب من حماة اليردنا السماويين ضمان وختم وحراسة اولئك الذين سينزلون الى الماء. ان مثل هذا الخطر المتأتي من اليردنا يمكن ملاحظته في عدة مصادر مختلفة، فمثلا يذكر HG8, 7-9 ، ان نهر الاردن وروافده قد فاضوا فوق الضفاف، واطفأوا نور راية الاعداء الذين حطموا الناصورائيين[]، اما في ATS I, 34. فيشير الى قوى الشر التي تستولي على اليردنا في راس السنة الجديدة، عندما يكون حراس النور الروحانيين غائبين عن حراستها. ان من يدخل يده في اليردنا في هذا الوقت "سيكون من نصيب النار".

٣٧- ان الخطر المتكون من حالة الانتقال قد يظهر اكثر وضوحا في مراسيم المسخثا، والتي يؤدي فيها، ارتكاب اي خطأ في تلاوة اي قسم من التراتيل الى تدمير الروح. انظر كذلك: ARR 49, 4-50, 24.

مخطوطات
البحر الميت

متى وكيف عثر عليها؟

تقع خربة قمران على ارض ترتفع بحوالي مائة قدم عن الطريق المعبدة، وعلى بعد ميل وربع من البحر الميت. واول ما يرى الناظر برج القلعة الماثل لوقتنا الحاضر، ولايزال فيها طابقان في حالة جيدة، وذلك لسماكة الجدران الحجرية التي تقارب ثلاثة اقدام، والمؤكد انها بنيت لاغراض دفاعية. يلاصق البرج عدد من الاحواض المختلفة الحجوم، مرتبطة بشبكة معقدة من القنوات المائية، ربما كان بعضها يستعمل لاغراض طقوس الاغتسال والتعميد، وربما كانت تستعمل لخزن الماء اللازم لجماعة قمران . وتقع المقبرة في الارض المحصورة ما بين قمران والبحر الميت . وعثر فيها على ما يقارب الف ومائتين قبرا بشكل روابي من الحجر المصفوف باتجاه مضاد لشرائع اليهودية والاسلام في الدفن وهو الاتجاه الشمالي الجنوبي، والذي يطابق تماما شريعة المندائيين في دفن موتاهم.

في سنة ١٩٤٧ تم اكتشاف مخطوطات دينية في هذه المنطقة اطلق عليها " مخطوطات قمران " وكانت فلسطين انذاك تحت الانتداب البريطاني.

عنزة هاربة في تلك المنحدرات الصخرية الشاهقة في منطقة قمران، وحينها رأى فتحة في واجهة المنحدر اندفع خلالها، فوجد نفسه داخل مغارة صغيرة الحجم ذات سقف عال، عرضها ستة اقدام وعمقها اربعة وعشرون قدما، وكانت تحتوي على عدد من الجرات الخزفية الكبيرة الحجم نسبيا، يقرب ارتفاعها من ثلاثة اقدام، والكثير منها كان مهشما، ومن المرجح ان ثمانية جرات فقط كانت سليمة، بعضها محتفظ بغطاء يشبه السلطانية " الطاس "، وقد وجد "محمد الذيب" في احدها ثلاث لفات من الرق مغلفة بقماش ابيض مهتري.

بتاريخ ٢٤ تشرين الثاني / نوفمبر ١٩٤٧، وقبل ان يقوم "سوكينك" بمعاينة المخطوطات لدى رئيس الاساقفة صوموئيل، كان على موعد سري مع تاجر آثار يدعى " الارمني " ولضيق الوقت لم يستطع "سوكينك" ان يحصل على تصريح مرور من السلطات العسكرية، لذا كان مضطرا للقائه في نقطة التفتيش الفاصلة بين الحيين اليهودي والعربي في القدس، والتحدث معه من خلال الاسلاك الشائكة. واستطاع التاجر ان يعرض جزءا من مخطوطات مكتوبة باللغة العبرية، واوضح التاجر ان هذه جزء من مخطوطات يملكها احد التجار في بيت لحم، وانها قد وجدت من قبل بعض البدو، وسئل "سوكينك" ما اذا كان يرغب بشرائها ؟ وهل لها قيمة تاريخية ؟ وهل هي اصلية ام مزورة ؟ حينها طلب "سوكينك" لقاء اخر، وقد تم بالفعل بعد ثلاثة ايام، في هذا اللقاء حصل "سوكينك" على بطاقة مرور للقسم الشرقي من القدس، حيث تمكن من معاينة بعض القطع بدقة، وعندما اقتنع بانها ذات اهمية كبيرة قرر الذهاب الى "بيت لحم" لرؤية المزيد، وتم له ذلك في يوم ٢٩ تشرين الثاني / نوفمبر. وتفحص "سوكينك" ثلاثة مخطوطات، كانت معروضة

للبيع، سمح له باخذها لدراستها. وفي منتصف تلك الليلة، اذيع خبر موافقة الامم المتحدة على تاسيس دولة اسرائيل، حينها قرر سوكينك شراء المخطوطات الثلاثة. وهذه المخطوطات هي:

"الحرب ما بين ابناء النور وابناء الظلام" ومخطوطة "صلاة الشكر" "واشيا MS2".

مخطوطات دينية عثر عليها في فلسطين

قرر سعد تجهيز قوة صغيرة من الافراد للذهاب الى قبيلة التعمرية، وهناك شاهد البدوي الذي جاءه بالمخطوطة وتم ايقافه وارغامه للذهاب مع الفرقة لمكان العثور على المخطوطات، واتجه الجميع الى البحر الميت، وقد استطاعت هذه البعثة اكتشاف اربعة كهوف في "وادي مربعات" والواقعة على بعد احد عشر ميلا جنوب قمران، وقرابة ميلان من البحر الميت.

حدد تاريخ المخطوطات التي عثر عليها في هذه المنطقة بالقرن الثاني الميلادي وبالتحديد في وقت الانتفاضة التي قامت في فلسطين ضد الحكم الروماني بقيادة "سيمون بار خوشبا" ما بين ١٣٢-١٣٥ ميلادية. ومن ضمن المخطوطات التي عثر عليها في هذه المنطقة، رسالتان موقعتان بخط سيمون توضح الوضع القانوني

والاقتصادي، والادارة المدنية لجماعة الانتفاضة والتي كانت على حافة الانتصار ضد الاحتلال الروماني.

بعد هذا الاكتشاف قام الاب "Devaux" مع "Harding" وخمسة عشر مساعدا بالتنقيب المنظم والمتواصل في الموقع لمدة خمسة سنوات، وانتهت بعام ١٩٥٦.

تحرت فرقة الاب، "Devaux" مائتان وسبعون موقعا، (٣٧) موقعا عثر فيها على بقايا فخاريات خزفية لاكثر من مائة جرة، وضمن الاكتشافات التي عثر عليها في كهف رقم (٣) مخطوطتان او بالاحرى جزءان لمخطوطة واحدة اسطوانية الشكل من النحاس، كانت بحالة صدأ رديئة، كتب عليها بواسطة الضرب او التخريم، وتم تقطيعها الى شرائح في مختبرات مانجستر لغرض قراءتها، وقد احتوت هذه المخطوطة على تصنيف وكميات الكنوز الذهبية والفضية واوعية واواني دينية وغيرها، واسماء مخطوطات مختلفة. والجدير بالذكر ان ابان الاحتلال الروماني تم اخفاء وتوزيع هذه الكنوز في مناطق سرية مختلفة. وحسب احصائية الباحثون، يكون مجموع الكنوز المذكورة قرابة خمسة وستون طنا من الفضة، وستة وعشرون طنا من الذهب، ولا زال الجدال قائم ليومنا هذا عما اذا كانت مثل هذه الكنوز موجودة حقيقة.

تصنيفها في سنة ١٩٥٩.

"مخطوطات توراتية تعود على اقل تقدير ل ٢٠٠ سنة قبل الميلاد معروضة للبيع، تصلح ان تكون هدية مثلى لمؤسسات تعليمية او دينية لشخص او مجموعة، الاتصال. Box F 206"

هذه المخطوطات الاربعة مع ثلاثة اخرى غيرها، كان بروفسور "سوكينك" وهو والد "ايجال يادين" قد اشتراها سابقا، محفوظة الان في بناء شيد لهذا الغرض يسمى "مرقد الكتاب" في القدس.

في نهاية عام ١٩٥٤ تكون مركزان مستقلان، متخصصان في دراسة مخطوطات البحر الميت، تحت رعاية باحثين، لا تربطهم اية اتصالات، او تعاون، او تبادل معلومات على الاطلاق، سوى ما يتسرب من معلومات تنشر في مجلات البحوث الدينية، وهذان المركزان هما:

مركز "مرقد الكتاب" في القدس الغربية، وبحوزته سبعة مخطوطات وجدت في خربة قمران.

مركز "متحف روكفلر للدراسات الشرقية" برعاية مجموعة الباحثين العالميين، وبحوزته مئات المخطوطات واللقي المختلفة من مناطق البحر الميت. وقد تغير هذا الوضع، بعد حرب ١٩٦٧، حيث

استولت اسرائيل على متحف "روكفلر" وكل ما يحتويه من مخطوطات وآثار، واعتبرته احدى الغنائم الثمينة التي حصلت عليها بعد الحرب.

ان ما تم نشره من ترجمات لهذه المخطوطات لحد الان يعتبر جزءا صغيرا، لا يزيد عن ٢٥٪ من مجموع ماقد عثر عليه وذلك لعوامل عديدة، منها تعارض ما جاء في هذه المخطوطات مع افكار الاديان الموجودة حاليا كاليهودية والمسيحية، وكذلك لاختلافات شخصية بين العلماء انفسهم في تفسير ما ورد في المخطوطات، وغيرها من اسباب.

لقد حدد اخيرا عام ١٩٩٦ كتاريخ ادنى لنشر محتوى الموجودات، ويعتبر هذا التاريخ غير واقعي او ممكن التحقيق.وهذا ما اثبته التاريخ.

المندائية
ومخطوطات البحر الميت

لما كان المندائيين يتوجهون راساً ليوحنا المعمدان، واصبح الآن ارتباطه مع الاسينيين واضحاً، اذن فمن الممكن الافتراض ان مخطوطات البحر الميت ستلقي الضوء على الديانة المندائية القديمة.

على اية حال فقد ظهرت عقبات عديدة وتباينات مهمة تجعل من العسير تتبع الخطوط الاساسية للمنشأ، بالرغم من توفر اوجه تماثل كثيرة بين عقيدة وطقوس المندائيين وبين تلك العقائد والطقوس المهمة للاسينيين.

كانت توجد في قمران آنذاك مجموعة الفرسيين الاسينيين، ومجموعة اخرى باسم الصدوقيين الاسينيين. الاولى اكثر شرقية في توجهاتها، والثانية اكثر غربية. وهذا التحليل سيعالج المعضلات في العلاقة الاسينية – المندائية اذا ما افترضنا ان الامر هو كالآتي:

مجموعة الفرسيين – الاسينيين اضحت في النهاية المندائيين، مجموعة الصدوقيين – الاسينيين اضحت المسيحيين. يوحنا المعمدان كان مرتبطاً بالفرسيين – الاسينيين وارتبط الجميع مع بعضهم تنظيمياً في مرحلة تولي المسيح لمنصبه الكهنوتي، لكن توتر العلاقات بينهم في ذلك الوقت ادى الى انفصالهم. فتوجهت مجموعة الفرسيين – الاسينيين نحو دمشق ومن هناك نزحت الى عمق الشرق.

من المخطوطات القمرانية التي كانت من اعمالهم، "ميثاق دمشق"، "كتيب الضبط"، "بيشارم"، وكانت مخطوطة المعبد من وجهة نظرهم احد اعمالهم الاولى انه ليس من العسير بيان العديد من التماثلات بين معتقدات المندائيين وتلك المعتقدات العائدة للمعمدان وللمخطوطات. ان وجود العنصر الفرسي في تعليلنا سيجيب على سبب الاختلافات بين (الفرسية) والاسينية، علما بان الفرسية قد اثرت مسبقاً بالاسينية.

التماثل بين اعتقادات المندائيين وما ورد في المخطوطات

التماثل بين الاسينيين والمندائيين مناقشة مختصرة:

١- التوكيد على الاغتسال بالماء:

انها نقطة مركزية لدى المندائيين ان يكون تواجدهم قرب ضفاف الانهار، وشعائر التعميد عندهم تكون على ثلاث مراحل (الرشاما، الطماشا، والمصبتا). اضافة الى انواع اخرى من الاغتسال واعلى مرحلة يستخدم فيها الزيت والخبز المقدسان (٦).

٢- اما التطبيق الاسييني لهذه الشعائر فهو كالتالي (٧):

يمارس الاغتسال على درجات ومراحل قبل المباشرة بقبول الشخص بعضوية الجماعة. والتعميد يعطي المرشح عضوية مؤقتة، اما علامة العضوية الكاملة والتي تعطى للذين وهبوا كل ممتلكاتهم ودخلوا الرهبنة، فهو (الخمر)، ويطلق عليه "شراب الجماعة".وقبل هذا اي قبل الدخول بالعضوية يتم اغتسالهم بالماء حسب المرتبة القدسية، بدأً بماء البحر كأوطأ مرتبة، ثم بالماء الجاري او الماء الحي ماء الانهار كمرتبة اعلى، وتأتي مياه الخزانات الساكنة في خزانات التعميد كمرتبة اعلى من سواها. ويمر المرشح للعضوية في المرحلة الاخيرة من التعميد بماء الخزانات، ويطلب من الاشخاص الكاملي العضوية تكرار نقاوتهم عن طريق الاغتسال اليومي بالماء. ومن المعروف ان الخزانات الهائلة في قمران ذات السلالم التي تقود الى داخلها قد خصصت لهذا الغرض.

ان فرقة الناصورائيين الاسينيين (التي ارتبطت بالفرسية كما سنوضحها لاحقاً) ستعالج لنا ماهية التركيز على الماء وقبول الزواج عند المندائيين.

٣- النور والحياة:

النور والحياة مصطلحان متساويان لدى المندائيين (١١). وهما مهمان لطائفة قمران الاسينية. وقد اطلقوا على انفسهم في احدى المراحل اسم ابناء النور (١٢)، وتوحي مقولة في Jn 1:6-8 "يوحنا.... لم يكن النور" وتعني ان يوحنا المعمدان اعلن انه الكاهن الاعلى للطائفة، وكسليل منحدر من "صادوق"، مستعملا رمز "مينورا"، (شمعدان ذو سبعة فروع يوضع عادة داخل الهيكل). قال معلم الحق عن نفسه: "انا اضيء كضوء السباعية المتوهجة" (١٣). المسيحيون يجادلون ادعاء "يوحنا المعمدان" هذا، ويقولون ان "المسيح" هو الكاهن الاعلى وهو النور (١٤). وبما ان النور كان رمزا للكاهن الاعلى بالاضافة الى اعتماد التقويم الشمسي (انظر لاحقاً) فان هذان العنصران يبقيان المحور الرئيسي لانحدار الطائفة.

كذلك، فان الحياة، النور مترابطان. فمثل هذا التعبير قد ورد في كتاب "الضبط"، "ربما تقبلوا نور الحياة" (١٥). "الحياة" كانت طريقة للتحدث عن ادخال شخص في عضوية المجموعة، كمثل رجل قد "ولد من جديد" وبدأ في الوقت نفسه بالتثقف الغنوصي للحصول على المعرفة الروحية.

٤- قوانين الطهارة:

اكد المندائيون على توخي الحذر من النجاسات الليلية، ومن المراة الطامث فهي بنظرهم غير طاهرة (١٦)، كذلك جاء في "مخطوطة المعبد"، الذي يشير للانظمة المتعلقة بالاشخاص المطرودين من فناء المعبد المقدس، الذين زاولوا النجاسات الليلية، فهؤلاء لن يسمح لهم بالدخول الى المعبد "الا بعد مرور ثلاثة ايام، وعليهم غسل ملابسهم والاغتسال في اليوم الاول واليوم الثالث، وعند حلول الغروب يسمح لهم بالدخول الى الحرم المقدس". وتشير نفس المخطوطة عن مكان خارج المدينة مخصص للمرأة الطامث، والتي تعامل كمن اصيب بالجذام (١٧).

المندائيون والاسينيون كلاهما ارتديا الملابس البيضاء، ويشمل هذا اللباس الاسينيين غير الرهبان مثل الثيرابيين (الحكماء) المصريين، الذين كانوا يرتدون في وقت الصيف الملابس المصنوعة من الكتان الابيض (١٨). اما الناصورائيين فقد ارتدوا اللباس الاسود في مرحلة قبل التكريس، لكن كهنتهم كانوا يرتدون الملابس البيضاء.

٥- اتجاه شمال - جنوب:

تميزت المقبرة الهائلة في قمران بكون قبورها قد وضعت باتجاه الشمال الجنوب، وان موضع الراس في الجنوب (١٩)، وتبنى المعابد المندائية كذلك باتجاه الشمال - الجنوب، ويقع حوض التعميد في الجهة الجنوبية والبناء في الجهة الشمالية (٢٠). وكلا الحالتان تختلفان عن التطبيقات

اليهودية الاعتيادية، والتي تفضل الاتجاه الشرقي. ويبنى المعبد اليهودي باتجاه شرق – غرب، ويقع مدخله في الجهة الشرقية (٢١).

في موقع خربة قمران يقع فناء طويل باتجاه الشمال – الجنوب، وله نفس ابعاد (الهيكل) الخيمة اليهودية في البرية، مع صف من الحجر فوق الثلث الشمالي. وكان هذا البناء محط جدل في كتابي، فهذا المكان كان المعبد البديل للاسينيين، تم بنائه عندما طردوا من معبد اورشليم. ابعاده كابعاد الخيمة (الهيكل)، ووضع باتجاه شمال- جنوب، تعبيراً على كونه لا يمثل المعبد الحقيقي، والذي يجب ان يكون في اورشليم فقط (٢٢). وبمرور الزمن وبعد فشلهم باستعادة المعبد الحقيقي مرة اخرى، تولد الاعتقاد بأن اتجاه شمال-جنوب هو احد اساليب التعبير عن فكرة المعبد الروحي، كما اشير الى ذلك في "كتيب الضبط" (٢٣). بجانب الابنية التي تعود لخربة مرد، والتي تبعد ٦ اميال في العمق من قمران كذلك يتواجد في الوادي تنظيم لنفقين (للجداول الشتوية) شمال موقع المبنى الذي اقيمت فيه على ما يدل ممارسات التعميد، وهذان النفقان الطويلان قد بنيا تحت الارض، احدهما في الجانب الجنوبي والثاني في الجانب الشمالي للوادي (٢٤). انا اعتقد، ان في هذا المكان قد جرى شكلا من اشكال التعبير المسرحي "للولادة" عن طريق الاغتسال في مياه الجداول. واستنادا الى تعدد مراتب العضوية، فان اوطأ مستوى للتعميد اقيم على الضفة الجنوبية وتلتها الدرجة الاعلى على الضفة الشمالية، بعدها ينحدر المتعمد الى اسفل الوادي، والذي يقود رأسا الى قمران، لغرض التقدم للحصول على مرتبة اعلى في العضوية.

التماثل بين الفرسيين والمندائيين

من الممكن تتبع اثار العلاقة بين الاسينيين الناصورائيين وبين الفرسيين من خلال الثيرابيين (الحكماء)، المصريين. فهؤلاء في حقيقة الامر من

"الثيرابيون" (الحكماء) لم يتعاطوا شرب الخمر في احتفالاتهم (٢٧)، وهم بذلك يشابهون الناصورائيين. ومن الواضح ان يلتقي كل من الفرسيين من النظام الثيرابي والاسينيين الناصورائيين، فكلاهما لم يمارسا نظام (العزوبية) وكان يسمح لهما بالزواج في حالة رغبتهما بذلك. والفرسيون هنا قد تبنوا الخط الرئيسي لوجهة النظر اليهودية ضرورة الاستمرار والتواصل البشرية حسب ميثاق ابراهيم. وهذه نقطة متميزة تحتسب للمندائيين لكونهم يشجعون الزواج ويرفضون العزوبية. (نوع اخر من الثيرابيين كانوا ميالين نحو الصدوقيين، ايدوا فكرة العزوبية لاجل المحافظة على النظام النسكي).

ما اوردناه اعلاه هو بالاحرى عرض مختصر عن مدى علاقة "المندائيين" - "بالاسينيين". ومن الممكن الانطلاق من هنا والاستمرار في اعطاء مقارنات وادلة اخرى من خلال دراسة تفصيلية اعمق. ويلاحظ ان النظرية تزداد قوة، على كون "المندائيين" هم الاسلاف الحقيقيين لاحد فروع "الاسينية"، فان كان الامر كذلك، وهم لايزالون على قيد الحياة، كذلك، فانهم بذلك يملكون تراثا تاريخيا لايقدر بثمن.

الاحتفالات المندائية

المقدمة

تشكل الاحتفالات جانبا مهماً من حياة الانسان على الارض منذ القدم، ولقد ارتبطت ارتباطا وثيقا مع افكاره ومعتقداته الدينية والاجتماعية والسياسية والفلسفية، ولكي يتضح لنا معنى الاحتفال ومفهومه لابد ان نعرج قليلا على دلالته اللغوية.

الاحتفال: هو من الفعل حفَّل ومعناه اللبن في الضرع والماء في المكان. ويقال حفّل الناقة ونحوها، لم يحلبها اياماً ليجتمع اللبن في ضرعها، وحفّل الشيء جلاه واظهر حسنه. ويقال حفّل الجارية أي زينها. واحتفل الشيء، أي اجتمع وظهر حسنه أو زينته.

من هنا نجد ان المعنى اللغوي قد تجسد برافد منه الى المعنى الاصطلاحي لكلمة الاحتفال فأصبحت تعني: الاجتماع واللقاء والذكرى لأظهار ملامح مناسبة عزيزة.

أما مفهوم العيد في منظور كل الأديان فهو يعتبر عنصراً جوهرياً من عناصر العبادة بواسطة الطقوس المخصصة لبعض الأزمنة، تكرم الجماعة عادة في بهجة وفرح، هذا أو ذاك الوجه من وجوه الحياة البشريه، فهي ترفع آيات الشكر وتلتمس حماية الآلة.

أ- الاحتفالات الطقسية:

١- الرشامه والبراخه (الوضوء والصلاة): تؤدى بثلاثة أوقات في اليوم ويتم الوضوء قبل لصلاة، ويكون بالماء الجاري.

وفي "البراخه" الصلاة يتم تجسيد معاني التوحيد والحمد والتبجيل والسجود للخالق، (هي ربي: الحي العظيم) وهي تؤدى بشكل فردي أو جماعي ويمكن ان تجرى بدون رجل دين.

٢- "الطماشه" (الأغتسال): وهي نوع من انواع التعميد الذاتي وتسمى (التعميد الصغير)، ويتم بواسطة الغطس في الماء الجاري، مع تلاوة الآيات الخاصة قبل الدخول في الماء واثناء الارتماس، فيكتسي الشخص بحلة النور والطهر والنقاء من خلال الماء والأدعية الدينية- ويمكن

القيام بها دون الاستعانة برجل دين . ويتم أجراء هذا الطقس يوميا ويعد واجباً عند حدوث النجاسات المادية والمعنوية.

٤- طقوس الزواج: يعتبر الزواج طقساً مقدساً وواجباً على كل فرد مندائي، وهو رمز الخصب. فيه يجد الأنسان نصفه الآخر فيكتمل ديناً ودنيا، وتكون غايته الأنجاب والتكاثر واستمرار الحياة.

وتعد أحتفالات طقوس الزواج من أجمل الأحتفالات الدينية والأجتماعية، فتقام الأفراح ويحتفى بالخطيبين بين الأهل والأصدقاء.

وفي صباح يوم الاحد يعمدان التعميد الخاص بالزواج تمهيداً لأداء قسم الزوجية ليحافظ كل منهما على الآخر ويكون بينهما ميثاق الصدق والمحبة وعدم الخيانة.

ومن خلال الطقوس يُنَصّب الزوج والزوجة كملكين يدخلان في مملكتهما (مملكة الفردوس السعيد) ويتجسد ذلك بالمعاني والرموز الموجه للمساهمة في بناء الحياة، ومما تجدر الأشارة اليه ان الزوجين يصبحان من خلال هذه الأحتفالات جسدين بروح واحدة لا انفصام بها حتى بعد الممات.

ولا يتم غسل الجسم بعد الوفاة لأنه أصبح كالجماد فهو فاقد للروح وتجرى طقوس تهيئ للروح الراحة في مخاضها لتولد مرة اخرى من جديد وتعيش حياتها الأبدية.

وعلى العموم فان المندائيين يؤمنون بأن الجسد فان، جُبل من الأرض والى الأرض يعود. أما الروح فتخرج في معراج طويل تحاسب وتتطهر لتصل في النهاية الى مقرها في عالم النور.

وهناك طقوس احتفالية اخرى اهمها تكريس رجل الدين الذي يستمر سبعة ايام بلياليها لا يغمض له جفن وهي مناسبة تتويجه ودخوله عالماً آخر. وهناك ايضاً طقوس احتفالية لتكريس المندي (المعبد)، وطقوس تحرير الروح "المسختا"، وطقوس طعام الغفران والصدقات المباركة وغيرها.

تعتبر الاعياد أهم أنواع الأحتفالات المندائية وهي ذات طابع ديني وشعبي فلكلوري، وعادة تكون فيها التجمعات المندائية بأجمل صورها، وتأتي بمواعيد ثابتة في التقويم اذ تقسم السنة المندائية الى اثنى عشر شهراً وكل شهر مدته ثلاثون يوماً، يضاف اليها [خمسة أيام كبيسة، ويكون المجموع ثلاثمئة وخمسة وستين يوماً]، (وتهمل ربع اليوم فتتخلف يوم كل اربع سنوات). ويشابه هذا التقويم (الشمسي) التقاويم القديمة، البابلي، المصري والفارسي ولم يستعمل المندائيون التقويم القمري.

ومما هو جدير بالذكر أن أيام الأعياد خاصة البنجة تكون ذات مكانة اعتبارية رفيعة تختلف عن مكانة الأيام العادية ويستعار لها المعنى الذي تُشَبَّهُ به فتعتبر ايام الاعياد البرونايي الخمسة مثلا (كهنة وملوك) والأيام الاخرى هي عامة الناس (المندائيين) (يعتبر رجال الدين المندائيين ملوك متوجين مكرسين على الارض لهذا السبب فهم يقومون بأجراء الطقوس الدينية الاحتفالية عموما لترسيم وتكريس ابناء العامة وتتويجهم بالاكاليل ورسامتهم بأسم الحي ليكونوا طاهرين وعلى اتصال مستمر بعالم النور والحياة الذي هبطوا منه. خاصة في التعميد كما ذكرنا سابقاً).

أذ ان النصوص المندائية تذكر ان الأعياد عموماً ترتبط بعمليات الخلق والتكوين المختلفة ومراحلها المتعددة وتتعكس بثلاثة مستويات:

الأول: الخلق والتكوين للعوالم غير المادية والارواح الأثيرية الموجودة فيها.
الثاني: خلق العالم المادي وخاصة الارض وأيامها وفصولها وما عليها من حياة.
الثالث: خلق وتكوين الانسان وولادته كجنين مرتين:

الاولى: من رحم الام للحياة المادية، حيث تدخل فيها (الروح جسداً مادياً.

والثانية: من رحم كوني للحياة الروحية، تدخل فيها الروح جسداً اثيرياً. ولهذا فاننا في حديثنا عن الأعياد سوف نتطرق الى هذه المستويات ونصيبها من تلك الايام.

أولاً: عيد راس السنة المندائية الجديدة "دهفاربا" او العيد الكبير، ويسمى ايضاً نوروز ربا، والمعروف بين جميع المندائيين وغيرهم بعيد "الكرصة". وتتم الأحتفالات فيه على ثلاث مراحل:

الأولى: في آخر يوم من أيام السنة المنصرمة والذي يسمى "كنشي وزهلي" (الأجتماع والنقاء)، وفيه تكون الاستعدادات على قدم وساق لأستقبال السنة الجديدة. حيث يبدأ المندائيون منذ الفجر بالتجمع على ضفة "اليردنا" استعداداً لنيل بركات المصبتا "التعميد". وتجرى عمليات ذبح الطيور وذكور الخراف والتي يعمل منها طعام الغفران "اللوفاني" في موائد طقسية تحتوي على جميع انواع الفواكه والخضر، ويعمل الخبز الفطير معها. وتكون الصلوات والأناشيد بالملابس الدينية البيضاء "الرسته" وتوزع الصدقات والكساء الجديد على الجميع ويتم التطهير الديني "الطماشه" للأشخاص والأدوات المستعملة ويحضر الطعام والشراب الكافي لمدة ست وثلاثين ساعة والتي تمثل المرحلة الثانية من

ان هذا الاحتفال يعود الى التكوين العلوي المسؤول عن نشوء العوالم والاجيال لذلك (فهو يوم جيد ينتظره العالم والاجيال) [على حد التعبير المندائي] وتتجدد لدى الصابئة المندائيين ذكرى هذا الاحتفال سنوياً فيبدأ في نهاية آخر نهار من السنة المنصرمة، ويبقون معتكفين لاستقبال ولادة اليوم الاول من السنة الجديدة ولا يخرجون الا بعد انتهائه اي في اليوم الثاني من السنة. وفي تلك الفترة (ساعة٣٦) يرتفع الأثري "الملائكة" حراس الارض "هيبل وشيتل وانوش" وحراس اليردنا "شلمي وندبي" الى عالمهم فتخلو الارض من حماتها النورانيين، وتلوث الارواح الشريرة المياه الجارية فتصبح خطراً، وهذا يفسر اعتكاف الصابئة في منازلهم ودأبهم على عمل الكثير من الاحترازات كي لا تصيبهم الشرور والملوثات سواء كانت الروحية منها او المادية خلال هذه الساعات. ويبقون في فترة اختبار لايمانهم وتماسكهم وارتباطهم بأصولهم وتعاليمهم.

لينهلوا من منبع الحياة الاولى والمعرفة العظيمة فيزدادون قوة وتلاحماً وهياماً بمحبة الحي العظيم الأبدية.

ولهذا فان يوم رأس السنة الجديدة يُعَدُّ (بداية البنيان) -[كما ورد ذلك في النصوص المندائية: انظر ديوان "الف ترسر شيالي"]- للعالم وتمثل الست والثلاثون ساعة من الاعتكاف ست وثلاثين يوماً للصيام موزعة على ايام السنة وبنفس الوقت فهي تتمثل بثلاثمائة وستين يوماً اي بدورة فلكية سنوية -(بعد ان تضاف لها الخمسة ايام الكبيسة الخاصة "بالبرونايا")، وهي تنعكس بدورها لتشير الى اسرار بناء وتكوين العالم الارضي. ومما تجدر الاشارة اليه أن النصوص المندائية تربط اسرار بداية التكوين هذه بأسرار بداية تكوين الجنين او النطفة في رحم الأم. ويتمثل ذلك بالنسبة للارض في نزول قطرات الماء عليها فتتكون فيها الحياة فيما بعد كذلك يتكون الجنين من نزول قطرة الاب في رحم الأم لتكوين حياة جديدة وبذلك تستمر الحياة.

الحكايات المتنوعة، ويقضون الفترة كلها دون ان يغمض لهم جفن خشية التلوث.

اما بالنسبة لرجال الدين فيكون جهدهم مضاعفا خلال هذه الفترة فهم يقومون بفترات التأمل الطويل والدعاء والقراءة في الكتب الدينية وفك رموز الأحداث القادمة وأستلهام الأفكار المناسبة لتدبير السنة الجديدة.

بعد انتهاء الست والثلاثين ساعة يؤدي الجميع طقوس الأغتسال "الطماشة" ويلبسون ملابس العيد الجديدة ويهنأون بعضهم البعض فيفرحون بخروجهم من الاعتكاف لانه يمثل عودة النور والخير والحماية للارض وانتصاره على الظلام والشر. ويبدأون بزيارة الآباء الروحيين "رجال الدين" ليأخذوا منهم النصح والأرشاد والتوجيهات للعام الجديد. ثم يتزاورون فيما بينهم وفي البدء يعودون على ذوي المصاب والارامل واليتامى والفقراء ليخففوا عنهم. ويبقون محتفلين لفترة طويلة قد تصل عند البعض اكثر من خمسة عشر يوماً.

ثانياً: عيد "دهفا هنينا" (العيد الصغير) هبة الله الصغرى ويسمى أيضاً (دهفا اد طرما) أي عيد النضوج ويقع في اليوم الثامن عشر من شهر (اول بهار) اي اول الربيع، وهومناسبة يُحتفل بها لعودة الملاك "هيبل زيوا" كبرائيل شليها كبرائيل الرسول من رحلته في عوالم الظلام والارض ورجوعه الى عوالم النور.

ويعد هذا العيد احتفالية هامة ومباركة جداً، فهو ذكرى لثلاث مناسبات كونية كبيرة هي:

١- كبس الظلام ودحره بعد معرفة وأستلاب أسرار قوته، وكسر قوى الشر المسيطرة على العالم المادي.

٢- نشوء الحياة على الأرض بعد تصلبها وتكوّن المخلوقات المختلفة ونشوء الجنان المثمرة والحيوات المختلفة وتهيئة الأرض بكل مستلزمات الوجود لظهور الأنسان العاقل (آدم).

٣- الاحتفال بتعميد الملاك هيبل زيوا في عالم النور بعد عروجه من عالم الظلام وانتهاء مهمته على الارض.

ان مدة هذا العيد يوم واحد، تجرى فيه مراسيم الأغتسال "الطماشه" والتعميد وتهيئة طعام الغفران واقامة الموائد المشتركة للمندائيين.

ومن التقاليد الهامة في هذا العيد اعداد وجبة الفطور المشتركة للجميع في اماكن العبادة والبيوت. وتتألف من الرز والماش (الموَّش) واللَّبن (الروب) وتناول أقراص البهثا (الخبز المقدس) والتمر الممزوج مع السمسم المقلي المسحوق، الذي يعمل على شكلين هما في العامية العراقية (المريس وحلاوة العيد). وهذه الأغذية هي اشارة رمزية للتعبير عن ازدهار الخيرات كالنبات (المتمثل بالحبوب كالرز والحنطة والماش) وكذلك الحيوان (المتمثل بمنتجاته كاللبن والمش -الدهن-)، اضاف الى وجود ما يعرف بطعام الملائكة الروحي الذي هو التمر المزيت (بزيت السمسم).

ثالثاً: "عيد البرونايي" (البنجة) عيد الخليقة الكبرى، وهي خمسة ايام لاتحسب بالتقويم وتقع في آخر الصيف. تعد أهم الأعياد المندائية وتعتبر احتفالاً وكرنفالاً دينياً أكثر مما هو اجتماعياً. فهي ذكرى خلق وتكوين عوالم النور والارواح الاثيرية الأولى. وفيها تفتح بوابات النور وتنزل الملائكة والأرواح الطاهرة فيعم نورها في الأرض لتصبح جزءاً من عالم النور. لذلك فأن هذه الأيام المقدسة لا تحسب ضمن أيام وأشهر السنة، ولا تحسب من العمر. وكلها نهار ليس فيها

ليل، لأن الليل دنس ولا مكان له بينها (فهي يوم واحد لا يداخله ظلام)، انها حقا أيام النور والعبادة.

وتعتبر هذه الأيام أسرار البداية المقدسة وفجر الحياة الأولى التي اوجدها الحي العظيم والتي تبتهج فيها الروح لانها من سر الأب (الخالق مسبح اسمه) لذلك فأنها من حصة الروح المعرّجة الى (اصلها) الحياة الأولى.

وبهذا يجري المندائيون أحتفالات طقسية عامة وكبيرة فيغتسلون ويتعمدون مراراً ويهيأون طعام الغفران الذي يسمى (لوفاني دخرانا) (أي طعام الذكرى) ولهذا السبب تسمى هذه الأيام تسمية أخرى هي (أيام الدخرانا او الدخراني) أي ذكرى الأرواح.

ولهذا فأنه من الواجب على المندائيين أن يتعمدوا بهذا اليوم كما تعمد ابيهم الأول آدم -مبارك اسمه- وبذلك فهو مناسبة جيدة تُنتظر لتعميد الأطفال الصغار لادخالهم في المندائية الحقة.

خامساً: عيد "شوشيان" (عيد الأزدهار)، ومدته يومان، السادس والسابع من الشهر الأول للسنة الجديدة، وهو ذكرى ظهور الحياة الكونية الرابعة (عالم بشاهيل)، وانتهاء التكوين وذلك يؤشر بداية حلول السلام على الأرض.

ويعتبر الاحتفال بهذا العيد متمماً لأحتفالات العيد الكبير وتابعا له؛ لكنه طبعاً الأقل شأناً على الصعيد الديني والأجتماعي (اذ لا تتم فيه مراسيم التعميد) ويكتفي المندائيون بالأغتسال (الطماشة) ويضعون الطيبات في اواني دينية خاصة (طرايين) ويضعون الرايات البيض، وتعلق اكاليل الغَرَب أوالصفصاف التي تجلب مكرسة من رجال الدين على أبواب المنازل وهي عادة مندائية معروفة تدل على التطلع للسلام والخير. وهي توفر الحماية للبيت وساكنيه، وتجلب بركات الخصب والصحة وتجعلهم من أتباع نبع الضياء "نباط زيوا". ومن ناحية اخرى فأن اكليل الغَرَب يمثل القلب والبيت الذي علق فيه يمثل الجسم. (على حد التعبير المندائي في ديوان "الف ترسر شيالي").

وهناك مناسبات اخرى مثل: "دك الفل"، الذي هو عبارة عن مزج التمر مع السمسم المسحوق وتشكيله بكرات صغيرة. وهي ترمز الى الطعام المقدس، وتخلد فيها ذكرى بدء رحلة هيبل زيوا وهبوطه الى العالم، اذ كان غذاؤه فيها التمر المزيت بزيت السمسم، (الفل) [حسب

التقليد الموروث في التراث الشفوي المندائي]. وهناك ايضا يوم ابو الهريس (العاشورية) الذي يعتبر عادة متوارثة عند المندائيين يقومون فيها بعمل "الهريس" المتكون من عدة انواع من الحبوب، تطهى بطريقة طقسية وتقدم مع بعض الاغذية الاخرى على الموائد الطاهرة لاقامة طعام "اللوفاني"، لاحياء ذكرى طلب الغفران السنوي "لارواح الاباء القدامى" من النبي آدم مبارك اسمه والى وقتنا هذا.

بعد هذا العرض يمكن لنا ان نوضح المفاهيم التالية التي تتعلق بموضوع الأحتفالات:

آ- بالنسبة للفرد:

١- ان ممارسة الفرد للانواع المختلفة من الأحتفالات يفسر الظاهرة السلوكية له ويمكن من خلالها توجيهه بالاتجاه الايجابي الذي يخدم الفرد نفسه والمجتمع.

٢- من خلال دراستنا لأثر هذه الأحتفالات على نفسية المحتفل فأننا نستطيع القول أنها تعكس جوانب الفرح والنشوة والرضا، التي تترك آثارها الواضحة على شخصيته فتخفف عنه ضغط الحياة ومتاعبها وتعطيه الأمل والتجدد للعمل والعطاء لنفسه ولأسرته ولمجتمعه.

٣- ان الأحتفالات تحرك مشاعر الفرد تجاه المجموع وتضفي عليه ملامح الأعتزاز بالنفس والمتأتي من الأعتداد بالعقيدة والتراث والمساهمة في الدفاع عنها من أجل بقائها واستمرارها.

٤- ان التدريب المتواصل والدوري للفرد يحصل من جراء كثرة الممارسة والمشاركة في الأحتفالات، وتهيئة متطلباتها التفصيلية (المادية والمعنوية) والذي يكون عادة منذ الصغر فيتطبع بها وتصبح جزءاً من عاداته ومفاهيمه المادية والروحية والفلسفية للحياة.

٥- يعرف الفرد من خلال هذه الأحتفالات، ان هناك متابعة آلهية لها القدرة على محاسبته، غير (القوانين والأعراف) وذلك مما ينمي لديه

رادعا كبيراً يوقظ ضميره وفكره ويمنعه أحياناً او يقلل من ارتكابه للشر والضرر بنفسه أو بالآخرين. ويعرف أيضاً أنه يثاب على اعماله الصالحة ويعاقب على أعماله السيئة لذلك فهي تطبعه بالأخلاق الجيدة وتعلمه على الاحترام.

٦- ان هذه الطقوس الأحتفالية تؤكد على النظافة والطهر الروحي والجسدي لذاك فأن ممارستها يكون عاملاً مضافاً لتحقيق الصحة النفسية والروحية والجسمانية للفرد وتجعله انساناً سوياً.

٧- تؤكد مفاهيم هذه الأحتفالات على المعرفة والتعلم وتدعوه للتفكر في وجود الأنسان وما حوله ووجود الأشياء الغيبية، وتعطيه الدافع للبحث والدراسة والتجربة والمحاولة للوصول الى الحالة الافضل.

ب- بالنسبة للأسرة:

٣- الحرص على تربية الاطفال وتعليمهم وغرس القيم الروحية والمادية وحب الاسرة والجماعة التي ينتمي اليها ليكونوا في الاتجاه الأيجابي في الحياة الفردية والعامة.

ج- بالنسبة للمجتمع:

٣- ان هذه هي احتفالات الطهر والنظافة والاعتكاف تشير من جانب مادي واستناداً الى (التراث المندائي) الى المحافظة على حياة الجماعة من الشرور والاعتداءات المختلفة والاوبئة التي تنتشر بشكل سريع

وكبير كالطاعون والكوليرا اذ ان استخدام الطرق الصحيحة والوقائية مثل عدم الأختلاط وتعقيم المياه والنظافة يبرر ذلك من جانب عملي.
وقد واجه المندائيون ضربات مؤلمة بهذا الاتجاه من جراء الحروب والامراض الفتاكة.

ومن المرجح أن تكون بعض تعبيرات الأحتفالات المندائية رمزية تشير الى هذه الحوادث التي واجهت المجتمع في السابق ومن ذلك مثلا الاعتكاف في البيوت ووضع الرايات البيض والأكاليل على الأبواب لأنها رمز المسالمة والأشارة الى اعلان شعار الجماعة في تحريم القتل والقتال ذلك كله يشير الى ايجابيتهم للتعامل مع المجتمع والمحافظة على الحياة بكل اشكالها.

٤- تجسد هذه الاحتفالات عموماً موضوع الصراع الأزلي ورموزه المعروفة والمتداخلة التي تشكل وحدة الكون: كالحياة والموت النور والظلام الخير والشر الحق والباطل الفضيلة والرذيلة الكرم والبخل وهذا يشير الى اهتمام الأحتفالات المندائية بتجسيد المعاني الجيدة والعمل على تطبيقها من خلال هذه الممارسات.

٥- ان وجود تشابه كبير للاحتفالات المندائية مع احتفالات شعوب وعقائد وأديان آخرى كأحتفالات رأس السنة البابلية وعيد الربيع لدى الفرس والبارسيين والعراقيين وآخرين أضافة الى تشابهها في بعض العادات الاجتماعية والطقسية التي تصاحب ممارسة هذه الاحتفالات يعكس التمازج الحضاري الحاصل بين شعوب هذه المنطقة.

وفي النهاية لابد ان نقول مايلي:

١- ان الحديث بلغة الرموز هو ديدن الكتابات المندائية -(خاصة المتعلقة بتبيان ماهية الأحتفالات وضوابطها)- التي تصور وتجعل من الحياة المادية جزءاً متواصلاً وممتزجاً مع الحياة الروحية فلكل حركة

وفعل ومادة تفسير روحي يتخلله بعض الجوانب العلمية والثوابت المعروفة مما يجعله أكثر اقناعاً ويساهم في تجسيد هذه الممارسات بأيمان وصدق وفعالية.

٢- الأحتفالات المندائية عموماً ذات طابع ديني تتخلله بعض الممارسات الأجتماعية العامة التي ركزت سلطتها ومفاهيمها لتصبح اقوى حتى من بعض التقاليد الدينية.

المندائية والتكوين

يعتبر الدين الصابئي المندائي من الاديان المتميزة، التي ذكرت موضوع الخلق والتكوين بصورة انفرد بها عن باقي الاديان فقد ذكر هذا الموضوع بتفاصيل دقيقة ومطولة وغير بعيدة عن النظريات العلمية الحديثة وبلغة فلسفية عميقة.

فقد تحدث كتاب "سيدرا اد آدم" (صحف آدم المقدسة) "كنزا ربا" (الكنز العظيم)، بشكل واسع احتل جزءا كبيرا ومتميزا من مجلده الضخم. وقد جاء موضوع الخلق والتكوين الموضوع الثاني في الصحف المقدسة بعد موضوع الحديث عن الخالق واسمائه الحسنى وصفاته الجليلة الموقرة.

وسيكون ذلك مدخلنا هنا لنلقي نظرة عن المفهوم المندائي لطبيعة الخلق والتكوين.

في اول صحيفة من صحف آدم نجد فيها "بوثة" التوحيد (اي سورة او دعاء) وهي تشير الى ان الحي العظيم الازلي هو الخالق وهو الآمر بتكوين كل شيء وتبدأ هكذا:

مشبا ماري بلبا دخيا	مسبح ربي بقلب طاهر
شبيت ماري بلبا دخيا	سبحت لربي بقلب طاهر
ماريهون اد كلهون آلمي	رب العوالم كلها
مشابا ومرورب وميقر ومقيم	مسبح ومعظم وميقر ومقيم
الاها ربا راما	الاله العظيم العالي
وشبيها ملكا راما دنهورا	سبحانه ملك النور العلي
ازيزا هكيما، يدويا هزايا	العزيز الحكيم، والعليم البصير
اد لا اهوا كث لا اهوا	لا وجود بدونه
ولا هاوي كث اد لا هاوي	وما من شيء لولاه

ليس له اب يكبره او اقدم منه
ولا مولود كان قبله ولا اخ يقاسمه الملكوت
ولا توأم يشاركه الملك...
مسبح ومبارك انت الهي في كل وقت والى الابد...
انت منذ البدء وباق لما لا نهاية...
الاها ادمن نافشي افرش اد لا باطل ولا مبطل اشمخ يا هيي ربي.
الرب الذي انبعث من ذاته لا باطل ولا مبطل اسمك ايها الحي العظيم.
بعد هذه المقدمة يمكن ان نسأل كيف حدث الخلق وكيف تكونت الارض ونشأت الحياة عليها، وكيف خلق الانسان؟

هذه كلها تساؤلات تطرح نفسها وتحتاج الى اجابات وافية مفصلة ولطالما احدثت صراعا فكريا وفلسفيا وعقائديا في المجتمعات البشرية المختلفة.

في هذه الصفحات سنتطرق بأختصار شديد للاجابة على هذه التساؤلات من وجهة نظر الصابئة المندائيين.

ان اول ما نواجهه في الصحف المقدسة، الحديث عن الخلق الاول الذي كان بأمر من الحي العظيم ويوصف بأنه: "نطق" او "صرخة"، اي "استدعاء" وان ذلك كان بالكلمة ويسمى بالمندائية (هوا بميمرا) اي "الخلق بالكلمة".

وهناك العديد من النصوص تشير بوضوح الى ذلك نذكر منها مثلا (بميمرخ هوا كل مندام): بكلمتك (ايها الحي العظيم) خلق كل شيء. وايضا في نص اخر يشير الى خلق الارواح النورانية:

"بكلمة من الحي العظيم خلق "اثري" (والاثري هم درجة خاصة ورفيعة من الملائكة النورانيين)، ان عالم الارواح النورانية

انبعث من الذات العليا بارادة (الحي العظيم) وهو اول مراحل الخلق، كما جاء في النص التالي:

بشميهون اد هيي ربي
باسم الحي العظيم
هو "ملك النور" تكلم بقوة عظمى وبقول كبير تكونت ملائكة النور، من
ضياء نقي ومن النور العظيم الذي لايخبو (ولا ينطفيء) ملائكة التسبيح
ازدهروا، وتكونوا ونصبوا،
ملائكة التسبيح نهضوا ووقفوا وبعثت فيهم الحياة،
لا يوجد لهم نهاية ولا عدد، كلهم مليئون بالتسبيح،
ويسبحون لملك النور العظيم، بضيائه الوفير.
والذي لايمكن لأحد، بفم ومن لحم ودم، ان يصفه بلسانه،
ونوره عظيم وليس بامكان احد بشفتيه ان يعبر عنه.

يصور التكوين الاول بأنه كان (كالثمرة) وهذه الثمرة كانت في داخل ثمرة (عظيمة). وكانت هذه (الثمرة) ذات كتلة متعاظمة ممتلئة محتدمة المحتوى، تضم عناصر فريدة كثيرة ومتنوعة (ليس لها مثيل في دقتها).

وتشرح النصوص الدينية هذا الموضوع بشكل واسع وتجعل منه بداية ملحمة كونية لقصة النشوء والتكوين الاول.

لقد حصل ان تحرك المحتوى وهاج في تلك الثمرة التي في ذلك الرحم الكبير وتفاعل بسبب ما حصل من التضاغط والتسخين في "تنا" (وهومصطلح مهم يعني المادة الكونية التي تؤسس وتملأ المنشأ الكوني الاول الذي تحدثنا عنه، وتوصف كالضباب الكوني او البخار الكثيف او الغاز المتصاعد الذي ينفتح ويصب في المنبع العظيم الاول للحياة).

توضح ما ذكرناه ونذكر هنا على سبيل المثال النص التالي من "كنزا ربا" البوثة الاولى وكما يلي:

"... هذه العوالم... تفتتت وانقسمت الى اصناف كثيرة وتهاوت على شكل أراض..."

وتذكر النصوص المندائية ايضا ان ذلك كان بنظام دقيق (وبأمر من الرب) كان يأخذ طريقه في تأسيس حياة بعد اخرى، فتكون "الاثري" الملائكة بالتكوين والنشوء الاول.

وسوف نذكر الان ترجمة لعدد من النصوص الدينية توضح ما ذكرناه عن فكرة الخلق والتكوين :

النص التالي من "قلستا" الجزء الاول (سيدرا اد نشماثا) البوثة الاولى يتحدث عن الوجود الازلي للحي العظيم (مسبح اسمه) وعن خلقه للملائكة والاثري والعوالم والسلالات الكونية المختلفة المكونة للحياة الاولى:

(بأسم الحي وبأسم عارف الحياة، وبأسم الكائن الاول (الذي هو قبل كل شيء) وكان قبل تكون الماء والضياء والنور والاشعاع، الكائن الذي خلق بكلمته، ونطق بكلماته. من قوله وكلماته (اثمرت، ازهرت، نضجت) تكونت سلالات واستقرت الحياة الاولى بمقراتها).

(ويقصد بالسلالات هي سلالات الحياة الاولى التي ترمز الى الملائكة والاثري وعوالمهم الفسيحة).

ونذكر نصا اخر حول اصل الثمرة من كتاب "كنزا ربا":

باسم الحي العظيم
عندما كانت الثمرة في داخل الثمرة
وعندما كان الاثير في داخل الاثير

وحينما كان "مانا" هناك ....
من قبل ان تكون العوالم (الكائنات) كلها
حينذاك كانت الثمرة العظيمة
واذ كانت الثمرة العظيمة، داخل الثمرة العظيمة
كان "ملك النور العظيم" ذو الجلال (قبلها وقبل كل شيء)
ومن "ملك النور العظيم" ذو الجلال
كان اثير البهاء العظيم.
ومن اثير البهاء العظيم، كان الاشعاع الحي
ومن الاشعاع الحي كان الضياء.

(بالنسبة للاشعاع الحي او ما نسميه بالمندائية (ايشاثا هيتا): هو (اشعاع الحراة الحية)، الذي يوصف في النصوص المندائية بانه القوة الحركية الدقيقة الخفية والموجودة في كل الاشياء، وهي قوة ذاتية دافعة للاجسام الظاهرة والخفية، (لان المندائيين يؤمنون بوجود الاجسام الظاهرة في الكون المرئي ويؤمنون كذلك بوجود الاجسام غير الظاهرة في الكون اللامرئي بالنسبة لنا).

ثم ننتقل الى ذكر ترجمة بعض المقاطع من "البواثا" المندائية (سور، اصحاحات) في الصحف المقدسة والتي تتحدث عن النشوء والتكوين والطريقة التي بدأ وتحرك بها بواسطة وجود وفعل "تنا" التي تملأ الرحم الكوني او ما سميناه بالثمرة العظيمة.

مبارك "تنا" الخفي، الذي هو بداخل الرحم الكبير الخفي الاول.
توهج الالق العظيم
بضياء وفير
تسخن الضياء
وانصهرت "تنا"

وتكونت مساكن (مقرات) لها في ملكوت الحي العظيم.

ونص اخر يفصل العمليات والتحولات التي حدثت في "تنا" وكذلك تكون الماء ونشوء الحياة:

حينما توهجت الحياة من الضياء في "تنا"،
وحينما انبعثت من الحي العظيم في الالق الكبير
الذي يشع هناك،
ارتفعت وكونت موضعا في "تنا"
تسخن الضياء، وانصهرت "تنا"،
ونشأ ماء (وتكون)،
ووجدت الحياة.

ومقطع اخر:

انصهرت وتحللت التنات (المتوالدة، المتكاثرة) من "كنا" الاولى فاضاءت ارض الاثير. (ويقصد بـ (كنا الاولى): المجمع الكوني الاول في (الثمرة والرحم الكوني) وهو الذي يشغل بعض فراغات الكون فهو الاساس الذي توجد فيه وتشغل جزأ منه).

وتشير النصوص المندائية ايضا الى ان "تنا" هيئة خفية لايمكن ادراكها هي مادة التكاثر في الوعاء الكوني الكبير والمعد لنشوء النفوس والارواح الاثيرية كما جاء في هذا المقطع:

("التنات" و"النطفات" الكونية تحتضن بعضها في ظل الالق العظيم).

واخيرا نذكر بعض ما جاء في احد نصوص الصحف المقدسة والذي اشار انه بامر الحي العظيم وبقوته ظهر الماء في الثمرة العظيمة ونشأت الحياة وتكون جميع الاثري وكائنات النور وكما يلي:

بقوة "ملك النور" كانت الحياة الاولى والثمرة العظيمة،
واذ كانت الثمرة العظيمة، كان فيها الماء الجاري "يردنا" وكان "يردنا"
عظيما
وكانت المياه الحية الجارية، وكانت المياه النقية المتألقة
ومن تلك المياه الجارية الحية
كانت تلك الحياة،
ومن ثم تكون جميع الاثري وكائنات النور.

وتكون من الثمرة العظيمة ٨٨٠٠ مليون اثري او كائن نوراني، (في عوالمهم التي استقرت بأرض النور).

واذا شئنا ان نتابع بعد هذه البداية عمليات النشوء والتكوين اللاحقة التي تمت فأننا يمكن ان نقسمها الى اربع حيوات (او اربع مراحل) تفصل بين الواحدة والاخرى مدة زمنية طويلة، ونختار جزءا مقتضبا من احد النصوص "البواثا" في الصحف المقدسة "سيدرا اد نشماثا" البوثا الاولى وكما يلي:

لقد نطق وتكلم ملك النور السامي العظيم.
ان قدم الحياة الاولى عن تكون ووجود الحياة الثانية، (٦٠٠ مليون سنة)، [ستة آلاف روبان].
وقدم الحياة الثانية عن تكون ووجود الحياة الثالثة، (٦٠٠ مليون سنة).
وقدم الحياة الثالثة عن تكون ووجود اي اثري، (٦٠٠ مليون سنة).

> وقدم وتكون اي اثري عن كل ما هو مادي (ارضي وفان)، وعن تكون المجموعة الشمسية (السبعة اسياد البيت المادي)، هو ٧٧٠٠ مليون سنة [٧٧٠ الف روبان]، ولزمن بعيد لا حدود له (ولا يمكن حسابه وتقديره).
> -(الروبان هنا يساوي ١٠٠،٠٠٠، وقد ياتي بقيمة ١٠،٠٠٠ او ١،٠٠٠،٠٠٠)-

وليس لدينا هنا المجال الكافي لتبيان التفاصيل المتشعبة والكاملة لكل ما جرى، وبيان وتوضيح خصائص وميزات كل حياة، غير اننا نذكر ان كل حياة من الحيوات الاربعة احتوت على الاف الالاف وملايين الملايين من العوالم وساكنيها، وقد امتاز كل عالم بسعته التي لايمكن ان نصفها بوسائلنا التقليدية، وكذلك فقد نشأ فيها سكان يختلفون بين عالم وآخر. وقد وصفوا بدقة وأشارات رمزية وبشفرات خاصة في اللفائف السرية المحفوظة لدينا.

عالم الظلام

ان الحديث عن عالم الظلام يمكن ان يكون اسهل بعض الشيء من الحديث عن عالم النور.

تذكر النصوص المندائية المقدسة ان عالم الظلام موجود كوجود عالم النور، لكن النور اقدم من الظلام، وسابق له في الوجود، غير ان الاختلاف بينهما هو في العناصر المكونة لهما.

فنجد تكون الاثير الوهاج في عالم النور قبل الماء الاسود في عالم الظلام، والماء الحي قبل الماء الاسن، وشعاع الحرارة الحية قبل شعاع النار الآكلة. ومن ذلك نعلم ان النور سابق الظلام في الوجود لكن لكل واحد منهما عالمه الخاص، وهذا التعبير بمثابة حصر للثنائية.

يعتبر عالم الظلام صورة نقيضة لعالم النور. ومن جانب آخر فاننا نجد في النص التالي من "القلستا"، (البوثة الاولى) توضيح الحديث عن تكون العوالم المادية التي لها صلة وثيقة بعالم الظلام:

في ذلك الزمن البعيد، الذي ليس له حدود،
حيث لم تكن هناك ارض صلبة، وليس فيها ساكنين،
اذ كان بداخلها الماء الآسن (الاسود)،
تشكل منها وظهرت للوجود

آلاف آلاف الاسرار،
وما لا يحصى من الكائنات الشريرة.

ان المبدأ "الناصورائي" وهو (الفقه الديني والفكر الفلسفي المندائي العميق) يقول:

ان "المياه السوداء"، كانت موجودة في البداية كشكل من اشكال الفوضى، ويصور الشر عادة كملازم حتمي للمادة، ويظهر من تلقاء نفسه كنتيجة للازدواجية التي هي التعبير الاول عن وحدتهما، وهذه الحتمية تظهر مرة بعد اخرى في التعليم السري الناصورائي.

اما بالنسبة للعلاقة بين النور والظلام وعوالمهما فيمكن ان نطالع المقطع التالي من نصوص ديوان "الف ترسر شيالي"، وكما يلي:

"لان النور والظلام مرتبطين سوية،
واذا لم يكن هناك ظلام، لما كان النور قد وجد".

ان عوالم الظلام وعوالم النور هي جسد ونظير وهي تكمل احداهما الاخرى. (النظير في الفلسفة المندائية اسمى واكمل وعادة يكون غير مادي وهو اسبق والعبارة التشبيهية هنا مع جسد الانسان والجسد النظير له في عالم "مشوني كشطا").

فلا تستطيع اي منهما الانفصال عن او الاقتراب من الاخرى، (كما لاتستطيع اي منهما الاتحاد بالاخرى). (والاكثر من ذلك ان كل واحدة تستمد قوة من الاخرى).

ان الاعتماد المتبادل المشترك والتضاد (كذلك) في الشركة، غالبا ما يشرح في النصوص المندائية ويفسر كما في النص التالي من ديوان ترسر:

"انظر وتعلم بأنه بين الظلام والنور لايمكن ان يكون اتحاد او ميثاق بل على العكس، كراهية وعداء، وعدم وفاق، لان الظلام هو خصم للنور".
هما يسار ويمين.
وهما سيكونان بالتالي "الروح الحيوي" "ونسمة الحياة".

وتشير النصوص المندائية ايضا الى ان عالم الظلام نشأ ايضا من " التنا" والخاصة بعالم الظلام والتي تختلف بطبيعتها عن "تنا" عالم النور التي اشرنا اليها في بداية الموضوع، فتكون الظلام وتوسعت اغراسه ومواطنه بوجود الماء الاسود الاول كما هو واضح في المقطع التالي من صحف آدم المقدسة، وفيه يجيب مواطنو عالم الظلام على تساؤل الملاك كبرائيل حينما سألهم عن اصلهم عندما نزل اليهم يقولون:
اتينا من "تنا" الظلام (من اغراس الظلام الاول)،
ومن نهاية الماء الاسود.

يجيب سكان الظلام على تساؤلات رسل الحي العظيم حول موطنهم واصلهم يقولون:
لا نعلم شيئا، من اين اتينا.
موطننا هو موطن الظلام، الذي لا نور فيه.
موطننا هو موطن العصيان، الذي لاهدوء فيه
موطننا هو موطن الفوضى، الذي لا نظام فيه.
موطننا هو موطن الاشرار، الذي لا خير فيه.

ومما تجدر الاشارة اليه ان هناك علاقة وثيقة بين الظلام والماء الاسود الآسن الكثيف، وهي فكرة خاصة بالديانة المندائية.

ونلاحظ كذلك ان الظلام موجود منذ البدء بطبيعته الشريرة المخالفة للنور وانه نشأ بكيانه الخاص وعوالمه الفسيحة الواسعة وان له مياه "جارية" "يردنا" خاصة به كما هو الحال بالنسبة لعالم النور، ويغلي فيها الماء الاسود الذي نشأت منه كائنات الظلام ومواطنها (اي اراضيها).

تكوين العالم المادي وتكوين العالم الارضي

ونلاحظ ان تكون الارض كان ضمن المرحلة المتأخرة لتكون العوالم المادية والتي هي تابعة اصلا لمرحلة تكون عالم الظلام لانها عبارة عن سلسلة حلقاتها متصلة ومترابطة.

وتشير النصوص المندائية الى ان الظهور الاول لأرضنا هذه كان ضمن ظهور الأراضي الاخرى في الكون، حيث كان (الكون المادي) كالبحر الهائج المضطرب الذي تناثرت امواجه في كل مكان، ويوصف هذا البحر ايضا بأنه بحر كوني واسع كبير مترامي الاطراف، يغلي ويفور، هائج ومائج، وهو مليء بالحمم المتوهجة، والمشتعلة النتنة، والتي رميت في بحر الظلام الكبير، فأستقرت به الكواكب وشمسنا والقمر والنجوم والافلاك، وكانت ارضنا مضافة للتكوينات

السبع الاولى المادية التي ظهرت في باديء الامر، مع تكوين البروج الاثني عشر، وكانت هذه جميعا ضمن سلطة عالم الظلام والواقعة تحت تأثيره، وقد اعتبرت كمقرات تابعة لنظام ذلك العالم (المظلم).

وتوصف ارضنا والكواكب والنجوم في الكون المادي والمرئي في النصوص المندائية بأنها في هذه المرحلة البدائية من التكوين لم تكن مستقرة وهي غير مأهولة بالساكنين ويشار ايضا الى انها كانت عبارة عن كتل هائمة مضرة ليس بينها نظام كامل يرتبها بالتمام.

وقبل ان نسترسل في توضيح كيفية تكوين وتنظيم العالم المادي وتصليب الارض من الضروري ان نشير الى دور عوالم النور في تحديد قوة وسلطة عالم الظلام والعالم المادي، اذ انها قامت بذلك الدور ليتسنى لها ان تجعل التوازن والنظام والترتيب والاستقرار يستتب في الكون والعالم المادي، حتى لا تضطرب الاعمال التي كلفت عوالم النور للقيام بها والسيطرة على كل العوالم المتكونة في الكون (بسبب التوسع الذي حصل في التكوين وكذلك نشوء النقص وعدم الاكتمال) وذلك كي يكون بالامكان نشوء الحياة عليها كما حدث ذلك في عوالم النور والاراضي السرية الغير مرئية التابعة لها.

١- استكشاف عوالم الظلام المتكونة ومعرفة اسرارها المتولدة الجديدة والمجهولة بالنسبة لعوالم النور.

٢- تحديد وتحجيم وتحييد قوة تلك العوالم الهائجة المضطربة التي تهدد الاعمال التي يمكن القيام بها في العالم المادي المتكون.

٣- تهيئة وترتيب العالم المادي بسبب ظهور النقص والخلل وتوجيهه بنظام دقيق لا يمكن الخروج عنه وبالتالي استقراره بعلاقات منتظمة في الكون تأخذ طريقها الحتمي وبالأتجاه الصحيح.

٤- اختيار عوالم لتهيئة مستلزمات نشوء الحياة عليها.

ولهذا فقد َنفَذَ كبرائيل الرسول مهمته بأدق صورة بعد استطلاعات وعدة رحلات. وقد تحدثت النصوص المندائية عن ذلك بما يشبه الملحمة الكبيرة، وتم اختيار الارض كمكان من بين العوالم التي يمكن ان تكون مناسبة لنشوء الحياة فيها، وبالتالي فأنها ستكون في المستقبل بيتا صالحا لابينا آدم المادي وذريته. ويمكن ان نذكر مقطعا من احد النصوص الدينية في صحف آدم المقدسة، البوثة الاولى والذي يأمرفيه "ملك النور العظيم" الملاك "هيبل زيوا" كبرائيل الرسول بالتوجه الى عالم الظلام وتنفيذ المهمة التي كلف بها:

قم، واذهب الى عالم الظلام، المليء بالشر
والنار الاكلة.
اذهب، واكبس عالم الظلام، والاسرار التي تكونت منه
اذهب، واكبس الظلام ومواطنيه، الذين تكونوا منه.
..... سويّ الارض .....
ابسط السماء.

فيجيب، في مقطع آخر:

اهبط الى (العمق الاسود البعيد) الذي ملؤه النتانة (ربما اشارة الى الغازات المتصاعدة المختلفة) لاكمال الاعمال التي لم تسر او(تترتب) بالتمام والنظام.

ونص اخر:

عندما لم تكن هناك ارقا اد "تيبل" اي ارض وعندما لم يتكون العالم
الارضي بعد،
ولم يحدث التصلب، ولم يتكون
وعندما كان الماء اسودا،
ارتحل، وجاء "هيبل زيوا" كبرائيل الرسول ومساعدوه
وجاءوا الى العالم الارضي ورابطوا فيه.
ورمى "هيبل زيوا" الحدود والفواصل، فقاس الماء
وجعله يتكون الى فروع (اقسام).

وقد كلف الملاك "بثاهيل" بأن يأخذ دوره في محاولة السيطرة على العالم المادي وتصلب الارض. وقد قام بذلك على مراحل كان الفشل يصاحبه في البداية الى ان استعان بالحي العظيم ان يعطيه القوة والحكمة والوسائل اللازمة للتكثيف والتصليب وكذلك المساعدة من كبرائيل الرسول كما نلاحظ في النص التالي:

نهض بثاهيل اثرا ومضى وهبط في وسط المواطن،
في المواطن حيث لا وجود لعوالم النور ...
لقد قام بالتأثير على كتلة الارض الضخمة ...
ورمى فيها اشعاع الحرارة الحية (الوهاج)،
اشعاع الحرارة الحية رماه فيها ...
وتمازجت اشعاعات الحرارة الحية
بالماء الاسن (الكثيف الاسود الثقيل)
وبفعل شذى الحرارة الحية
سقط غبار، وغطى كل شيء وسدت البحار
وامتلات جميع الحفر.

حدث الجفاف، وتكون التصلب، وسقط في الماء وارتفع ستار.
صعد "بثاهيل" وانتصب في قلب السماء،
وعندما اراد ان يمسك (يسوي، ويجهز) غلاف الارض، احاط به الفانون،
احاطت به الكواكب السبعة، والاثنا عشر (البروج).
وعندما امسك غلاف الارض (سيطر عليها)،
صعد بها وأوثقها (بنظام) بقبة السماء (بقبة الافلاك الفسيحة)
وعندما امسك دائرة السماء العالية
صعد بها الى العلى واوثقها بمقره.
بعد ذلك قيدت الكواكب،
وصعدت واخذت مكانها في (قبة الافلاك)
الكواكب وقفوا، وشدوا بوثاقهم
اي وضعت في مساراتها.

ويذكر ايضا ان الارض بعد تصلبها اخذت شكلا مخالفا لشكلها الاول قبل ان تتكثف وتتصلب، وان ذلك الشكل سُوّي من جميع الجهات بما يعرف في المندائية بمصطلح "يونابيت" اي مهارة فائقة، فاصبح كالبيضة المفلطحة المضغوطة من اعلاها واسفلها فهي نتاج العالم المادي وهي تسبح في بحر من الظلام وتتشد بربط سري خفي متين مع دائرة السماء، وتقيد بوثاق مع قبة الافلاك في العالم المادي.

وتذكر النصوص المندائية ان الارض تكثفت في البدء بتصلب يبلغ ١٢٠٠٠ الف فرسخ وان داخلها اصبح كثيفا واكثر تماسكا وبصلادة وقوة الجحيم فيه حيث مراجل الظلام الساخنة الملتهبة التي لاتطاق واصبحت مقيدة في محيط سميك واسوار منيعة من المعادن والصخور والمياه السوداء الاسنة "ميا سياوي" تفرقت في البواطن البعيدة.

وكونت جميع النباتات وبذورها في الارض وجعل كل جنس متكون يختلف عن الاخر واعدت الاشجار ونضجت الثمار واصبحت صالحة للحياة واوجدت الحيوانات والدواب وذوات الاربع وكل اصنافها ذكرا وانثى.

وقد اشارت نصوص كثيرة ومتنوعة تشرح بتفصيل واف كيف تم نشوء الحياة على الارض وتدرج مراحلها كما في النص التالي:

وفيه أمر الحي العظيم الى الملاك هيبل زيوا كبرائيل الرسول ان يهبط الى عالم الظلام ويعد الارض لنشوء آدم وتجديد دورة الحياة في ذلك العالم وربطه مع الحياة الاولى وكما يلي:

> اذهب، واكبس عالم الظلام، والاسرار التي كونت فيه، صلب الارض ونجد السماء، واجعل فيها نجوما وامنح الشمس نورا والقمرسطوعا والنجوم التماعا........

ويستمر النص ليوضح كيفية ظهور الحياة على الارض بجميع اشكالها (راجع البوثة الاولى من كنزا ربا يمينا).

،ويمكن لنا في النهاية ان نعطي فكرة موجزة وملخصة عن النقاط المهمة والجوهرية في عقيدة الخلق والتكوين المندائية ونلخصها بما يلي:

١- ان الخالق الحي العظيم ازلي الوجود ليست له بداية ولا نهاية وهو قد انبعث من ذاته وكينونته خفية لايمكن ان تدرك ولذلك فهو الحقيقة الوحيدة والازلية في الوجود.

٢- ان بأمره حدث الخلق، واخذ طريقه في التكوين والنشوء والتطور، وكل حياة نشأ وتولد عنها عوالم وحيوات اخرى.

٣- (الثمرة) ان بداية التكوين كانت في (الرحم الكوني الاول) وهي صلدة ممتلئة متسخنة تأخذ طريقها للنضوج والتفتح وبالتالي المخاض والولادة الكبرى.

٤- نشوء مبدأ النظائر المنعكسة (الشبيه) ويكون عادة العنصر الاثيري هو الخفيف والعنصر المادي هو الثقيل والفاني وهو نظام يظهر كثيرا في النصوص المندائية.

٥- وجود عالم النور اسبق من وجود عالم الظلام، وهما يسيران في خطين متوازيين بينهما بعض جسور التعاون والارتباط.

٧- وجود حركة ذاتية وحركة تابعة مُسّيرة في كل شيء متكون، بسبب امتلاكه لاشعاعات خاصة تسمى "ايشاتا".

ومما تجدر الاشارة له ان الارض ستكون نهايتها وفناؤها بأن تلقى بفرن الجحيم المشتعل وتصبح وقودا له.

ان كل شيء في نظر المندائيين يرجع الى البداية ويدور وهذه احدى النقاط المركزية في العقيدة المندائية ، فالابجدية المندائية تبدأ

ويمكن ان نخرج بنتيجة هي ان الخالق وضع اسراره العظيمة في خلائقه العجيبة وصنعه البديع وقد منحهم الحياة.

خلق الانسان

آدم وحواء

يعتبر موضوع وجود الانسان على الارض من المواضيع الهامة التي شغلت بال الكثيرين والى يومنا هذا، وقد استعرضنا في مكان اخر كيفية تكون ونشوء عوالم النور وعوالم الظلام، وكيفية نشوء الكون. واشرنا الى ان عوالم الظلام والعوالم المادية توسعت بشكل مضطرد وكبير وزادت قوتها وانقسمت وتوالدت واصبح تأثيرها قويا في الكون، وبسبب كل ذلك كان هناك عدم استقرار وعدم اتزان، والنظام اصبح غير كامل او مستتب في تلك العوالم، مما يجعلها تتوسع بشكل فوضى اكثر فاكثر. ان ذلك كله قد دعا عوالم النور للتدخل (بعد اخذ القوة اللازمة والتكليف من الحي العظيم) للقيام بتحييد قوى عوالم الظلام، وتنظيم الكون المادي والعمل على استقراره وجعله خاضعا لقوانين النظام العام في كل حركاته وتاثيراته وفعالياته، التي من شأنها ان تؤدي بالتالي الى نشوء الحياة في هذا الكون.

وقد وقع الاختيار على ارضنا هذه لتكوين حياة جديدة تضاف الى سلسلة الحيوات الكثيرة التي نشأت قبلها في الكون وتماثلها في

بعض جوانبها الحياتية. ونخص بالذكر منها عالم "مشوني كشطا" اي (عالم الحق المرتفع)، وهو عالم النماذج العليا والنظائر للانسانية الكونية، [على غراره انشأ العالم الارضي الجديد، الذي يعتبر نموذجه المادي في الكون المرئي او المنظور]، والذي تكون فيه "ادكاس زيوا" اي آدم المضيء او مايسمى "آدم كسيا" اي آدم الخفي، وزوجه "هوا انانا" اي حواء السحابة، وتكونت فيه ذريتهما، وقد نشأت الحياة في ذلك العالم قبل عالمنا الارضي، واصبح مأهولا بنوع خاص من الادميين الكونيين الذين تميزوا بصفات خاصة (اكثر نقاء من عالمنا): فهم يتغذون دون فضلات ويتكاثرون دون نجاسات، وفيه تتواجد الاجساد المضيئة والنظائر الاكثر خفة من (اللحم والدم)، وينتقلون بين العوالم المختلفة وفق نظام دقيق وخاص، وبسفن فضائية معدة لهذا الغرض. ويعد آدم الخفي (ادكاس) العنصر الاصلي والنموذج الاول للانسانية الكونية، ويعتبر انبثاقا من الحياة الاولى، وقد تجلى فيما بعد منه آدم الارضي بصفته المادية، واكسبه حيوية وبهاء عن طريق نسمة الحياة (نشمثا) لينير بها جسده المادي المظلم، لذلك فان سر (آدم الخفي – ادكاس – وعالمه) موجود في كل انسان مادي كما سيتبين لنا من ذلك لاحقا.

ولكي نفهم كيف وجد الانسان لابد ان نتحدث قليلا عن الفترة السابقة له، ونشير الى التهيئة التي حصلت لاظهار الجسد المادي (بغرا).

ونقول: ان ذلك حدث بعدما تكونت الحياة الرابعة "بثاهيل" والذي هو نتاج رحلة "اثري" وهم كائنات نورانية خيرة : او ما يسمون برسل النور، الى عالم الظلام، والتي اصبح بعدها "بثاهيل" المشرف

والمتسلط على العوالم التي تليه، وقد تمت له السيطرة عليها وتسخيرها لاستقرار العالم المادي، وبالتالي التهيئة لبناء البيت الارضي لكي يتقبل ويحتوي وجود الحياة المزمع انشائها فيه.

على اثر ذلك قُدم الى "ابثاهيل" اقتراحا موجها من قبل حكام الكواكب والاجرام وبعض من ملوك عالم الظلام (وخاصةالروهة) حول التعاون والاشتراك معه في تثبيت الارض واعمارها وانشاء الحياة فيها، واكدوا انهم سيحافظون على النظام في هذا العالم وسيكونون صالحين، وكما جاء في ترجمة النص التالي من صحف آدم المقدسة:

باسم الحي العظيم

"اتينا لنكون خدما لك، سنكون بجانبك، ونكون مساعديك.
مساعديك سنكون، في كل شيء تفعله،
وسندعك بسلام على عرشك، ونحافظ على النظام في العالم،
سنكون صالحين".

وقد وافق "بثاهيل" على ما قدموه واتفق مع مدبري هذه العوالم المظلمة لان الارض كانت تابعة لسلطتهم وتأثيراتهم الفعالة، وبتسخيرهم سيتمكن من مزج الافعال الروحانية والمادية مع بعضها ليكون النماذج الحياتية الملائمة للحياة في هذا الكوكب.

بعد ذلك لم يلتزم حكام الظلام وملوك الكواكب بحدود عملهم وفعلوا ما يناسب طبيعتهم، فجعلوا حصتهم فيه اكبر، ووضعوا فيه اسرار قوتهم وتسلطهم.

وقد فقد الملاك "بثاهيل" على اثر ذلك سلطته الكاملة على الارض، وكانت الاعمال ناقصة ومبعثرة، وقد مرت بفترة اضطراب جديدة.

لقد امتلئت الارض بالحياة بشتى الاصناف ومختلف الانواع، ونشير ايضا في دائرة الحديث الى نشوء وظهور الحيوانات الضخمة المختلفة وكتل اللحم الكبيرة المنتشرة – (والتي هي ربما تشير الى ما يعرف في العصر الحديث بالديناصورات) –، اضافة الى التنينات

والافاعي والزواحف والكائنات الهائجة المجنونة والاشكال الغريبة من الحيوانات والمخلوقات، ويذكر بهذا الخصوص ان الكثير منها كان ضارا مخيفا مرعبا يمتلأ بالشر ويثير الرعب في الخلق.

لذلك فان جسد الانسان يوصف سلبيا لانه يحتوي على اسرار المادة. ومن انعكاساتها ما نلاحظه على الانسان من تصرفات غير

علوية كالغضب والثورة، الحدة والعنف، الهيجان والخوف، التفتت والانقسام، اضافة الى تقلب الاراء كتقلب الرياح، والحزن والبكاء، والطرب والعبث، الشراسة والقهر، العوق والعيوب، النقص والزيادة، المرض والاورام والاوجاع، الموت والفناء... الخ من صفات العالم المادي والمتسلطين عليه، وقد اخذ الجسد المتكون صفات المادة لانه جبل منها، لذلك فانه يكون شديد التأثر بما يؤثر على المادة.

وربما بعض ما ذكرناه توا يشير الى احتواء الانسان على الكثير من اسرار الكون المختلفة اذا لم نقل معظمها، لذلك يعرف المندائيون من خلال تعاليمهم ان من أراد البحث عن اسرار تكوين جسد الانسان فليبحث في عناصر ومكونات الارض والسماء فسيجدها مجتمعة في جسده وكل كيانه وهو بذلك يعطينا نموذجا مصغرا عن الاسرار الكبرى في الكون، لانه يعتبر سر الكون المصغر الموضوع على الارض، ويطلق على الانسان احيانا بالكون الصغير والعالم المحيط حوله بالكون الكبير. فليتفكر الانسان في اسرار خلقه ووجوده لعله يعرف ما يبحث عنه ويسأل.

حواء

مادمنا قد وصلنا الى هذه النقطة فيمكن ان نعرج على ذكر تكوين حواء، ويشار الى انها قد كونت (فيما بعد) من الطينة نفسها، ولم تذكر

النصوص المندائية انها خلقت من جسم آدم وانما تكونت وخرجت من وعائها الخاص، لكنها كانت على هيئته، كذلك نجد ان حواء بنيت على مثيل وهيئة "انانا اد نهورا" سحابة النور ويقصدبها "هوا انانا" زوجة آدم الخفي. كما جاء في النص التالي:

> "جعلت ... حواء على مثيل انانا دنهورا، جعلتها سيدة الدنيا كلها"، وادخلت فيها صفات من "الروها"، ولذا فقد اصبحت لحواء بعض المميزات جعلتها توصف (بالارض)، وصارت تختلف عن الرجل آدم الذي وضعت فيه صفات ومميزات جعلته يوصف بالسماء، لذلك فاتحادهما يشكل وحدة مترابطة في الكون (السماء والارض) - (الذكر او الرجل والانثى او المراة) - وهما يمثلان الاتحاد والانتاج ومنهما خرجت ذرية البشر، ويوصف فعل الرجل مع المراة بانه كالمطر الذي ينزل من السماء فيسقي الارض الجافة الصحراء القاحلة، يحيها ويجعلها تزهو بالحياة النضرة.

ومن الجدير بالذكر فان العزوبة توصف بأنها كالنهر الذي جف منه الماء فتشققت ضفتيه وانهارتا فاندرس ولم يبق له ذكر أو اثر.

وبعد تشكيل جسد (الانسان) آدم المادي يرمي الملاك "بثاهيل" فيه (روها) أي روحا من روحه الخاصة التي هيأت له من بيت ابائه (والتي تحمل صفات العوالم التي جاء منها، والعوالم التي تسلط عليها)، ونذكر على سبيل المثال لا الحصر مقطعا من احد النصوص المقدسة الذي يوضح بعضا مما تطرقنا اليه وكما يلي:

باسم الحي العظيم

بعد ان شارك "بثاهيل" في تكوين العالم الارضي
كون ابنه آدم مثيلا (شبيها) لهيئته،
وعلى غرار هيئة آدم، تكونت زوجه حواء.
والقى "بثاهيل" في جسد آدم "روها" روحا من روحه الخاصة

ومن حكام الكواكب رمى كل واحد فيه شيئا من اسراره.
ومع ذلك كان "بثاهيل" وحكام الكواكب الذين معه
عاجزين عن انهاض آدم وزوجه حواء.

ونلاحظ من نصوص اخرى ان هناك عناصر واسرار متعددة وضعت في جسد الانسان وقد ساهم كثيرون غير الذين ذكرناهم في ان تتكون جميع اجزائه بانتظام وتدب فيها الحياة، ومع ذلك نجد ان الانسان هذا لم ينتصب. وبقي غير عاقل لا يفهم ما حوله، ولا يدري ما يدور في الارض والسماء، وسنعرض بعد قليل مقطعا من نص فريد في ملحمة التكوين هذه، وفيه يوصف ادم بانه سيصبح ملك هذا العالم، وكالاتي:

باسم الحي العظيم

عندما جاء "بثاهيل" وتكلم الى حكام الكواكب قائلا:
نريد ان نكون آدم، ليصبح ملك الدنيا.
عندما نطق بذلك، تحاور حكام الكواكب فيما بينهم وقالوا له:
اننا سنكون آدم ... لانه يعود لنا.
ثم تكلم "بثاهيل" الاثرا مع حكام الكواكب وقال لهم:
آدم هو ملك هذا العالم،
يجب ان تقدموا له الرعاية وتقوموا على خدمته باكمل وجه.
ثم كونوا جسد آدم ووضعوه جانبا، ولم تكن فيه (نشمثا) نسمة الحياة.
عندما كونوا جسد آدم، ولم يتمكنوا من احلال الحياة فيه،
نادوا على "آير" ليجوف عظامه، فتجوفت عظامه
وتكون فيها النخاع، نخاع تكون فيها، ليصبح قويا ويقف على قدميه.
نادوا (ضباب الجداول، ووهج الحرارة المشعة) لتدخلا في جسده،
فتطبق راحة يده، ويضرب بذراعيه، ويحدث صخبا، وينتفض ليصبح قويا.
وتكلم حكام الكواكب وقالوا لبثاهيل :

اعطنا من الروح (روها) لنزرعها في جسده،
الروح التي جلبتها معك .....
حاول حكام الكواكب، وحاول ايضا "بثاهيل"
وعلى الرغم من كل محاولاتهم،
لم يتمكنوا من جعل آدم يقف على قدميه.

ونستنتج من ذلك كله ان عملهم لم يكن كاملا او ناجحا، اذ انهم لم يستطيعوا ان يجعلوا آدم عاقلا او فاهما وعارفا بالحياة العظيمة، ولم يتمكنوا (مع كل ما فعلوه وهو كثير وكبير) من ان يجعلوه يقف على قدميه وينتصب بالتمام اضافة الى ان عينيه لم تكن تميزان الوجود والمعنى الحقيقي للحياة، وكان اخرسا من الكلام والنطق الآدمي.

وكما يرد من حديث في التراث المندائي المتوارث (لقد كان يمشي على اربع، ويخرج اصواتا ليست آدمية تشبه اصوات الحيوانات كصوت الخراف وصهيل الخيول) لانه لم يكن حينها مكتملا، لقد كان عبارة عن جسد في روح "روها"، وهذه الروح التي وضعت فيه من قبل بثاهيل جعلته مثله مثل باقي الكائنات الحية المتكونة في الارض، لان الملاك بثاهيل ومشاركيه قد وضعوا في الاحياء بعد تكوين بذرتها الاولى "روها" روح وهي عبارة عن الروح الحيوية في الكائنات والتي تعطي الحياة والفعالية للاجساد المادية او لخلايا الاجسام الحية.

وتمثل "روها" سلبيا لانها ليست من الحياة الاولى انما هي من عالم ادنى، والكائن الذي يحتوي على جسد وروحا لا يمكنه ان يصعد بعد الموت اكثر وابعد من عالم "بثاهيل".

من هنا يتبين لنا مدى الفشل الذي اصاب البناء المتكون للاجساد المادية، والذي استمر ربما لفترات طويلة من الزمن في عمر التاريخ السحيق، هذا مما يثبت للمشتركين في هذه العملية الكبيرة

قصورهم وعجزهم من ان يجعلوا اعمالهم تتصف بالكمال والحكمة الكاملة.

وبعد ان يثبت فشلهم يلتجأ الملاك "بثاهيل" الى ابائه في عوالم النور ليخبرهم عن الاعمال التي اقيمت في الارض، كذلك فهو قد صعد حائرا متوسلا مصليا للحي العظيم، طالبا الغفران عما حدث من اخطاء وانحرافات واعمال ناقصة في العالم المادي وعلى الارض، والتي لا تعطى فيه سلطة كبيرة لعالم النور، وبذلك فانه طلب المساعدة والتوجيه لاكمال وتنظيم وتعديل خط سير الاعمال التي تم البدأ فيها والتي كانت السلطة فيها اكبر لعالم الظلام.

على اثر ذلك يعاقب الملاك "بثاهيل" ويحدد في عالمه وبعد فترة لا نريد التطرق الى تفاصيلها تأتيه رحمة الحي الواسعة، بعد ان اعطي الفرصة الكافية ليكتشف بنفسه حقيقة عبث وتخريب قوى العالم المادي في الارض، وبعد ان وعى الى ما فعل، وشاهد نتائج الاعمال التي اقيمت وصنعت، وبعد ان راى مواضع النقص والخلل في ذلك العالم، وتيقن ان القوى المسيطرة عليه (قوى العالم المادي) تنفذ ارادتها وتعبث، وتصنع الشر والصراع والكره والقتل والتلوث والدمار.

ان غفران الحي العظيم ورحمته جاءت لتعطي جميع عوالم النور القوة والتصميم بشكل اكبر مما كانوا عليه لتحسين وتنظيم الاعمال التي حدثت في العالم الارضي وبالتالي التدخل للسيطرة عليه.

والفضيلة والصلاح والصلاة والدعاء والتسبيح الذي تقيمه في الارض، فيسود السلام وتسود المحبة ويثبت الايمان، وتنهار اعمال كل قوى الظلام وخططهم (لذلك فهي مرسلة لتخوض صراعا ابديا في العالم المادي الارضي)، تقوم فيه الانسان وتجعله ينتصب على قدميه، ويعي ويعرف حقيقة ما حوله، ويؤمن بالحي العظيم وملائكته النورانيين (ابائه الاولين) وكتبه وتعاليمه، التي تحصن الانسان بالنور والطهر والمعرفة اي "تاصيروثا"، والتي هي سلاح "النشمثا" في هذا العالم، وبها تهزم الشر ومساعديه. ويعمد ادم بعدها في "يردنا" الحياة العظيم ليعيش مرحلة جديدة من الفكر ويقيم صرح الحضارة الانسانية.

لقد كان هبوط نشمثا الى العالم الارضي بمثابة اختبار صعب وصراع خطير لنسمة الحياة كان يجب عليها ان تخوضه، لانها وحدها القادرة على جعل جسم آدم ينتصب ويعرف الحياة، وهي الوحيدة القادرة على اضاءة جسده المظلم (لانه متكون من اللحم والدم)، اضافة الى انها الوحيدة التي باستطاعتها ان تقيد الاسد الهائج في داخل الانسان، وتكبح نزواته ونوازعه المادية كما هو واضح في النص التالي:

يا نشمثا الحياة الطاهرة، يا نشمثا قفي واذهبي هناك
وادخلي الجسد وابق مقيدة في القصر (الجسد)
ومن خلالك سيقيد الاسد الهائج، وسيقتل الشرير في مكانه،
ومن خلالك سيقيد ملك الظلام ...
دخلت الجسد في ذلك الرداء الذي امر لها به
سكنت الجسد والاسرار في داخله اضاءت.

وقبل ان تدخل "نشمثا" في الجسد نلاحظ انها تتردد في الذهاب للعالم المادي وتمتنع من الدخول في آدم، لانها لو دخلت ستصبح حبيسة فيه الى انتهاء الدهور والعالم، وعندما وجدت انه لابد لها ان تقوم بدورها

في دحر قوة الظلام، وتنفيذ امر الحي العظيم كي تكتمل الاعمال الناقصة وتصبح خاضعة للنظام العام فيها، طلبت "نشمثا" نسمة الحياة ان يتوفر لها في العالم الارضي كل ما كان متوفرا لها في عالم النور كالانهار النقية الجارية المتصلة بيردنا الماء الحي، والاثير والاشجار والفواكه النافعة والنسيم الطيب وروائح عالم النور والايات والتسبيحات... الخ، وبالذات طلبت ان يكون هذا العالم شبيها بالعالم الذي يسكنه الادميون الكونيون في عالم "مشوني كشطا" عالم العهد، طلبت ذلك كي تكون لها حصانة وسلاح تستطيع من خلاله مواجهة الشر والظلام ودحره، وكان سلاحها هو المعرفة والحق والنور والعهد والصدق والمحبة والتسامح والسلام ... الخ من مرادفات الخير، وتتحدث نصوص كثيرة عن نزول "نشمثا" الى العالم المادي وتصف نواحها وترددها من دخول الجسد ومطالبها ومحاربة الاشرار لها، وفيما يلي احد النصوص من صحف آدم المقدسة يصف ذلك:

باسم الحي العظيم

ليمجد النور السني
بعد ان مدت السماء وتصلبت الارض ...
بعد ان جاء حكام الكواكب الى هنا
كونوا جسم آدم، ولكنهم لم يرموا به "نشمثا"
ومن اجل جسد آدم اتت "نشمثا" من ملكوت الحي العظيم،
من ملكوت الحي العظيم اتت "نشمثا"، يرافقها الاثري الثلاثة
ووضعوها خارج الجسد، خارج الجسد وضعوها.
ارادوها ان تدخل الجسد، ولكنها ابت، اخذت تبكي (وتولول) وتنوح
وتذرف
الدموع ...

وتطلب "نشمثا" من رسول الحي "مندادهيي" سلاحا ساميا ليبعد عنها الاشرار فيجيبها "مندادهيي":

سلاحك هو "ناصيروثا" المعرفة،
(سلاحك هو) كلمات الصدق التي جاءت اليك من موطن النور، وهنا قالت "نشمثا":

باسم الحي العظيم وبعون "مندادهيي" ذهبت الى هناك ودخلت الجسد
ذهبت الى هناك ودخلت الجسد، وجعلت ذاتي اسيرة فيه
ومن اليوم الذي دخلت فيه الجسد، كنت قرينته على مر الدهور،
على مر الدهور كنت قرينته، وكان الاشرار من الاعماق غاضبين علي.
والنصر للحي العظيم.

يعد دخول "نشمثا" في جسد آدم ظهر تحولا كبيرا في مجرى سير عملية خلق آدم الانسان الكامل، بعد ان عانى مراحل طويلة وتغيرات كبيرة في بنائه وتركيبه، فاصبح كيانه يحتوي على ثلاثة تراكيب الاول: هو الجسد (بغرا) والثاني: هو الروح الحيوي "روها" وهو تركيب غير مادي انما مرتبط بالجسد والمادة وهو الذي يعطي خلاياه الحيوية والنشاط، ويسير كل فعاليات الجسد فهي مرتبطة مع الحياة المادية والرغبات، وهي التي تدفع الانسان لارتكاب الشر والسير في طرق الشيطان والظلام لان لها صلة وعلاقة بعالمه. اما الثالث والاخير: فهو نسمة الحياة "نشمثا"، وهي النور الذي اضاء العالم المظلم الصغير (جسد الانسان)، وكذلك فقد اضاءت بصلواتها وتسبيحاتها واعمالها الخيرة الكون المادي باجمعه.

وبهذا فان وجود "النشمثا" في العالم المادي اعطى القوة والثبات لملائكة النور ان تحمي الارض وتقيم العدل والخير عليها، وترعى الانسان وتحارب الشر وتطرده وتحد من فعاليته.

وتتحدث النصوص المندائية عن ردود فعل قوى الشر ومحاولاتهم وخططهم الخبيثة الشريرة كي يحيد آدم عن طريق النور والحق والخير كما جاء في ترجمة النص التالي من الصحف المقدسة:

باسم الحي العظيم
عندما سمعت "الروها" وحكام الكواكب بذلك
جلسوا كلهم في حزن هناك، بحزن جلسوا كلهم هناك،
ونهضوا لوضع الخطط (الشريرة) وقالوا :
نريد ان نقبض على آدم ونمسك به،
وسنحتجزه معنا في العالم الارضي وقالوا:

عندما يتكلم آدم بصوت رقيق (صوت الايمان) سنتكلم نحن بصوت العصيان...

نود ان نحكم قبضتنا على العالم الارضي
وسنجعل فيه صورا واشكال متعددة
وسنحتضن الحياة الدنيا
ونقيم فيها تجمعا، تجمعا نقيم في الحياة الدنيا،
وسنمسك بآدم، وندخله في تجمعنا، في تجمعنا سندخله،
ونعلق قلبه ونجعله في قبضتنا،
ونصطاده عبر الابواق والمزامير، حتى لاينفصل عنا،
سنكون في الحياة الدنيا سبعة اشكال،
من مختلف الصنوف والانواع.

ونلاحظ من نصوص اخرى ان قوى الاشرار تريد تضليل آدم لانه بعد دخول "تشمثا" فيه لم تكن لديه زوجة، فيحاولون اغراءه لتكون لهم ذرية منه وليوقعوه في الخطيئة، لكن عوالم النور تتدخل بواسطة رسل الحي العظيم ويكون للملاك مندادهيي المعرفة والعلم بكل خطط الاشرار، لذلك يقومون باعمال مضادة لدحر الشر، ويأتون بحواء رفيقة لآدم، ويقيمون لهما زواجا شرعيا وحسب الطقوس الدينية، كما يقام في عالم (مشوني كشطا). لتنتشر ذريتهما في الارض وبهما تستيقض الحياة الدنيا، ويكون آدم ملك الدنيا وسيدها، ويعلم كل شيء في الحياة هو وذريته. كما جاء في النص التالي الذي يتحدث فيه "مندادهي":

> عندما يخطط الاشرار شرا، اخطط انا مندادهي خيرا، ليؤثر الخير في الحياة الدنيا.

ويلتمس الملائكة الاثري ان يمنحوا غرسة لآدم هي (حواء) ليتكاثر نسله في الدنيا يقولون:

> امنح لنا غرسة نغرسها لآدم، ليتكاثر نسله في الدنيا...
> سنقيم عرسا لآدم، ونعلمه ليتخذ له امرأة.
> سنعطي آدم امراة، ونكوّن له شريكة، شريكة سنكوّن له
> ليتكاثر بذلك نسله،
> سننشد الترانيم (ونقيم) الشعائر، وعلى الحياة ان تقيم البناء (بيت الزواج).

ويذكر ايضا في نصوص الصحف المقدسة ان آدم وحواء كانا في جنة الاشجار عندما حلت فيهما الـ "تشمثا" نسمة الحياة، ويشار فيها ايضا ان الرب العظيم مسبح اسمه امر في ان يكون ملائكة النار (ملاخي اد نورا)، الذين هم من عالم الظلام خدما لآدم، وقد جاءوا وسجدوا امامه الا واحداً هو ابليس الشرير لم ينفذ امر ربه، وقد عوقب على فعله.

وبعد ان تزوج آدم حواء انجب (ثلاثة ابناء) الاول : "هيبل"، ثم ابنه الثاني "شيتل"، ثم اخوه الثالث "انوش" وكانوا على غرار هيئة "هيبل وشيتل وانوش" اولاد آدم كسيا (آدم الخفي) في عالم "مشوني كشطا".

ومما هو جدير بالذكر ان آدم كسيا انجب ثلاثة توائم والذين يعتبرون كما هو في بعض التعابير "الآدميون الكونيون" وكان كل توأم ذكراً وانثى، واسماؤهم كما وردت في المقطع التالي من الصحف المقدسة:

على راس الجيل الاول "شربثا قدميتا"، كان "ادكاس زيوا"
وانانا دنهورا كانت هناك.
وعندما كانت في حملها الاول ولد "هيبل وانات هيي"،
وعندما كانت في حملها الثاني ولدت "انن انصاب وانهر زيوا"
وباسمائهم سرت العوالم.
ومن الحمل الثالث ولد "برهيي – ابن الحياة، و"دموث هيي" – مثيل الحياة.
ولكن السؤال الذي يطرح نفسه كيف تكاثر نسل آدم وحواء على الارض ؟

يعتقد الصابئة المندائيون ان التكاثر تم عن طريق زواج ابناء آدم الارضي من بنات آدم الخفي، اللواتي جلبن لهم من عالم "مشوني كشطا" ، لذلك فاننا الان من ذرية اباؤنا فيها ارضيين وامهاتنا من نسل كوني، وهذا هو احد الاسباب التي تجعل الصابئي المندائي ينتسب لامه في الاسم الديني "ملواشا" الذي يستعمل في جميع الطقوس الدينية، وهو غير الاسم المتعارف عليه في المعاملات اليومية، وبهذا تحتفظ المراة المندائية بنظرة احترام جيدة في مجتمعها.

وقد تكاثر نسل ابناء آدم في الارض، وزهت بهم الدنيا، وقد علم آدم وذريته كل المعارف والتعاليم الدينية والضوابط الاخلاقية

والاجتماعية، وثبتت من ذلك العصر واجبات الانسان وحدوده على الارض، ووضحت له المحللات والمحرمات خلال فترة وجوده الموقت فيها، ليصعد فيما بعد نقيا طاهرا دون خطايا، ونعرض لكم النص التالي الذي يوضح ذلك، ويشير الى عدم الغرور، في الدنيا والابتعاد عن مغريات العالم الفاني، ويعلم آدم المعرفة ويرشد في الطريق القويم وكما يلي:

باسم الحي العظيم

ملاك (اثرا) ينادي ويوصل المعرفة الى آدم، الانسان. يقول لآدم:
لا تغف ولا تنم، ولا تنس ما حملك ربك،
لا تكن من ابناء البيت (الدنيا)، ولا تكن مذنبا في "تيبل" الارض الفانية.
لا تحب الطمع، والصور الخيالية الكاذبة (لان الكذابين والاشرار والمخادعين سينتشرون في الارض).
لا تشرب المسكر، ولا تنس ربك في فكرك،
في قدومك وخروجك،
لا تنس ربك،في جلوسك وقيامك،
لا تنس ربك، في استراحتك واسترخائك،
لا تنس ربك ، ...
لا تقل انني المخلوق الاول الذي يمكنه عمل كل شيء دون حماقة.
يا آدم لا تغويك الدنيا، فهي فانية.

ولا نجد في الدين المندائي قصة "قابيل" وقتله لاخيه "هابيل"، انما "هابيل" هو نفسه "هيبل" الذي يوصف بانه تقي ورع.

وتذكر التعاليم الدينية المندائية ان الانسان يعيش في هذه الدنيا فترة موقتة، وانها دار فناء وزوال، ينتقل الانسان منها بعد ذلك ليعيش حياته الابدية، ويحيى للابد بالنعيم السرمدي في ارض النور، بعد ان

يحاسب عما فعل في حياته الاولى، والتي ستعتبر له فيما بعد بمثابة جواز المرور في العالم الاخر.

وبعد موت جسد الانسان تخرج روحه وتحاسب في دور الحساب "مطراثا"، وهي اماكن عذاب وتطهير الارواح، والذي لم يرتكب الكبائر واعماله طيبة، فسوف يحاسب ويطهر ثم يصعد في معراج طويل الى عوالم النور، اما الذي ارتكب الخطايا الكبيرة ولم يعمل الصالحات، فانه يبقى في مطهرات خاصة الى (يوما اد دينا) يوم الدين الى يوم تفنى الدنيا كلها في (يوما ربا اد فرقانا) يوم الفرقان العظيم، وربما سنخصص في المستقبل موضوعا نتحدث فيه عن كيفية عروج الروح الى العالم الاخر.

ومما يذكر ايضا ان البشر، بعد ذلك قد تكاثر بشكل كبير ثم افني جنسه لثلاث مرات، وقد كان فناءه في البداية بالسيف والمرض، والتي قضت عليه ولم يتبق الا النبي "رام" وزوجه "رود"، وتكاثر مرة اخرى وافني جنسه، بالنار ولم ينج الا النبي "شوربي" وزوجه "شرهبيل"، وتكاثر مرة اخرى واصابه الفناء الثالث بالطوفان، ولم ينج الا "نوح" وزوجه وابنه "سام" وزوجه، ونحن بانتظار الفناء الرابع، والذي هو ليس ببعيد، والذي يشار فيه الى ان الانسان في اخر الزمان سوف يفنى بالهواء.

خلاصة

مما سبق يمكن ان نخرج بالنتائج التالية:

١- هناك كون مرئي منظور وآخر غير منظور، وان كلا الكونين له عوالم كثيرة جدا وواسعة لايمكن حسابها اوحساب سعتها بوسائلنا التقليدية ولا يمكن للانسان الاعتيادي معرفة جميع اسرارها المكنونة.

٢- الايمان بوجود كائنات ومخلوقات كثيرة في الكون اجمع، وان قسما منها في عوالم مضيئة ذات صفات نقية خيرة، والقسم الاخر في عوالم مظلمة ذات صفات شريرة، وكذلك فان هناك قسما اخر مابين هذا وذاك. وان التعامل مع هذه الكائنات يتطلب معرفة عميقة جدا في علوم الناصيروثا.

٣- يمكن للكائنات النورانية الخروج من عوالمها والهبوط الى عوالم ادنى منها مع اجراء بعض الاحترازات والتغييرات التي تلائم حالتها بعد الهبوط، وفي عين الوقت لايمكن للكائنات الظلامية ان تقوم بذلك او ان تخرج من نطاق حدودها المقررة، بسبب عجز قوتها وقصور الوسائل التي تعتمدها.

٦- في المندائية يشار الى انه لايمكن في آن واحد، ضبط وقياس مكان وحركة وسرعة وعدد دقائق النظام العام، التي تؤلف الكون بسبب

قصور الانسان وعجز وسائله، مع كل التقدم الذي يحصل عليه ويحرزه في هذا العالم، وهذا ما يؤكده علماء الفلك والفيزياء النووية والذرية.

٧- وجود آدميون لهم مواصفات خاصة يعيشون في عوالم كثيرة اخرى غير عالمنا الارضي. وان لهم اتصالات وزيارات مستمرة مع عالمنا الى هذا الوقت والوقت القادم.

٨- هناك بعض الصور الرمزية تشير الى تلك الكائنات والى البشر الكونيين ومركباتهم الفضائية المتنوعة.

٩- لم تتكون الحياة على الارض بسهولة الا بعد مرور فترات طويلة من الزمن تفاعلت واتحدت خلالها عناصر كثيرة لتنتج التراكيب الحياتية المتنوعة. ولقد تعاونت قوى كونية كثيرة لتوفير الظروف المناسبة لظهور واتحاد هذه العناصر.

١٠- من الثابت في الدين الصابيء المندائي ظهور الكائنات الحية المختلفة قبل ظهور الشكل النهائي والكامل لآدم.

١١- يحتوي كيان الانسان على ثلاثة اشياء رئيسية هي: الجسد والروح ونسمة الحياة.

١٢- ان جسم الانسان فان، اما "روها" و"نشمثا" فهما خالدتان تصعدان في معراج طويل للحساب وفي النهاية تحصل لهما شرارة الاتحاد العظيم (لوفا).

١٣- ان الحياة المادية بضمنها الانسان لن تستمر على الارض وان الارض بعده بفترة طويلة ستحترق وتصبح وقودا لبحر النار المستعرة الاكلة.

اما من الناحية الفلسفية في الموضوع فيمكن ان نذكر النقاط التالية باختصار.

١- ان فلسفة الخلق لدى الصابئة المندائيين تشير الى سعة الفكر وعمق التحليلات التي تناولتها، اضافة الى انها عرضت وبدقة الحديث عن

انواع العناصر والمركبات التي تدخل في تركيب الموجودات، وكذلك فقد تناولت الكون وابعاده وعوالمه ومحتوياته.

٢- بالنسبة لفلسفة تكون الحياة والكائنات الحية والانسان فقد تميزت بتناولها الموضوعي والعلمي المتسلسل والخاص بظهور الكائنات المختلفة وحتى ظهور الانسان الكامل الذي اطلق عليه (آدم العاقل) والذي حمل صفات وخصائص فريدة تميزه عن باقي احياء الارض.

٣- التأكيد المتواصل على الاستفادة من العقل واعمال الفكر لمعرفة الاسرار والتقاط اسرار الحياة المبعثرة وتجميعها والعمل بها بالاتجاه الصحيح لخدمة الانسان.

المندائية والتبشير

معنى التبشير

التبشير: هو ابلاغ الخبر الطيب الذي هو البشارة، والتبشير كلمة عربية (محدثة)، المعجم الوسيط، ص ٥٨، تعني الدعوة الى الدين تقول:

بُشّر فلاناً: اي اخبر بخبر مفرح، ويقال: (بشّره به)، وبشر صاحب الدّين الناس: وعدهم بثواب الله، نفس المصدر.

يعد التبشير واحداً من اهم المواضيع التي واجهت العقائد والأديان التي ظهرت على مر العصور والى وقتنا الحاضر، لتحديد موقفها منه.

وتكمن الأهمية في ان التبشير يلعب دوراً هاماً في تحديد هوية وميزات مجموعة أو مجتمع ما من النواحي الأنسانية المختلفة: كالفكرية والأجتماعية والسياسية...الخ.

والظاهر ان موضوع التبشير قديم حديث يحمل بين طياته صراعاً أزلياً. وقد وضعت له معالجات مختلفة خضعت لبعض الضوابط والقوانين.

ولا يهمنا في وقفتنا القصيرة هذه الخوض في ماهية التبشير وتاريخ ظهوره عند الأقوام المختلفة بقدر ما يهمنا معرفته في دين الصابئة المندائيين، وهو موضوع ملح خاصة ضمن ظروف الصابئة في الوقت الحاضر ويستحق منا الوقفة والتحليل.

يعد الدين الصابئي المندائي ديناً غير تبشيري في الوقت الحاضر، فهو لايقبل احداً من ديانات أو عقائد اخرى للدخول فيه كما انه لايقبل رجوع الخارجين عنه – (الا في حدود ضيقة وضمن بعض الشروط).

ترى هل ان هذا الدين هو غير تبشيري حقاً ؟

واذا كان تبشيرياً فلماذا اغلق باب التبشير فيه ومتى؟

وهل هناك تعاليم ونصوص دينية وردت في مصادر التراث المندائي المختلفة تدعو الى التبشير او عدمه اعتمدها رجال الدين لتحديد موقفهم من هذه المسألة؟

هذه الاسئلة وغيرها سنحاول الأجابة عنها بشكل واضح وصريح مقرونة بالنصوص الدينية والشواهد التاريخية قدر المستطاع، بعيدة عن اي اغراض سوى الغرض العلمي وايضاح الحقائق.

فكرة الوحي الأولى

كما نعرف ان دين الصابئة المندائيين دين توحيدي قديم، تنسب تعاليمه ومبادئ شريعته الى النبي الأول (آدم العاقل) ومن جاء بعده من أنبياء الصابئة كشيتل (شيت) ونوح وأبنه سام ويهيا يوهانا وغيرهم. لقد اشار الكثير من الكتاب المسلمين (المفسرين الفقهاء والمؤرخين) الى ان الناس كانوا في السابق على دين الصابئة، وأرجعهم البعض الى النبي شيت وآخرون الى صابئى بن متوشلخ، وغيرهم الى ادريس عازميون المصري (هرمس الهرامسة) .. انظر المسعودي البيروني..وغيرهم. وتعتبر هذه التعاليم هي تعاليم عقيدة النور التي يعتنقها ويمارسها "الآدميون الكونيون" في العوالم الأخرى، كعالم "مشوني كشطا"، الذي يسكنه آدم كسيا او أدكاس (آدم الخفي) وهّوه أنانا (حواء السحابة) وذريتهما والتي هي أصلاً تعاليم الكائنات النورانية في عوالم النور المختلفة المتعددة. (يمكن ان نلمس هذه الفلسفة في معظم النصوص المندائية وقد عالجت دراور هذا الموضوع في عدة دراسات وخاصة في كتابها (آدم كسيا)، وقد انزلت هذه التعاليم بأمر الرب الى آدم وحواء وذريتهما على الأرض، وكان المعلم الملاك هيبل زيوا (كَبرائيل شليها: جبرائيل الرسول)، الذي افهمهم تعاليم عقيدة النور للأنسان على الأرض

وكما جاء في ترجمة النص التالي من صحف آدم المقدسة (كنزا ربا) الكنز العظيم:

> "....أنا الرسول الطاهر، دعاني وأمرني ربي، وقال: إذهب واطلق نداءاً (الشريعة المندائية) لآدم وزوجه حواء ولاجياله كلها، نداءا ساميا اطلق لهم وعلمهم كل شيء..." كنزا يمينا ١٣:١٣ وما بعده.

وفي موضع آخر من نفس النص يأمره الرب أن يتكلم مع آدم (كرمز للأنسانية العاقلة) ويعلمه ويكون رحيماً عليه ورفيقاً معه وكما يلي:

> "..وتكلم اليه لينير قلبه، وعلّمه لينير فكره، كن له رحيماً، وكن له رفيقاً. ..ابسط المعرفة لآدم ولزوجه حواء ولأجياله كلها..." كنزا يمينا ١٣ : ١٣ وما بعده.

وبعد سرد طويل من الوصايا والأحكام نواجه النص التالي الذي يؤكد انها الكلمة والشهادة الاولى وكما يلي:

> "...هذا هو النداء الاول الذي وهب لآدم الرجل رأس البشرية الحية (العاقلة)، فكان الكلمة الاولى وكان الشهادة الاولى..." كنزا يمينا ٢٦: ٥ وما بعده.

ولذلك فقد حفظت تعاليم ملك النور السامي هيي ربي قدمايي (الحي العظيم الأزلي). في هذا العالم من خلال الرسول الأول والأنبياء والمعلمين والآباء القدامى الأولين جيلاً بعد جيل ودوراً بعد آخر [والأدوار هي أدوار الفناء الثلاثة التي واجهها الجنس البشري على الأرض بالسيف والمرض، النار، والماء على التوالي وقد عرجت فيها الأرواح الى العالم الآخر وهم على عقيدة واحدة. وستبقى محفوظة الى نهاية العالم في دورنا الحالي الرابع والأخير الذي يعيش نهايته المحتومة

والتي ستكون بالهواء. هذا بأختصار شديد جوهر فكرة الوحي الأولى التي يؤمن بها الصابئة المندائيون.

نظرة الدين المندائي

من ذلك يمكن ان نستنتج ان دين آدم لم يكن بالأساس لشريحة معينة من البشر إنما هو لكل ذريته واجياله على الأرض. غير ان وجود قوى الشر والشيطان أظهر صراعاً ابدياً مع الأنسانية في هذا العالم المادي (والواقع اصلاً تحت سيطرتهم)، وقد نتج من ذلك وبمرور الزمن وتعدد الأجيال ان يبتعد البعض عن مباديء الشريعة الأولى وقد ساعدت طبيعة الظروف الحياتية والمادية التي يواجهها الأنسان علىذلك الابتعاد أيضاً فظهرت عقائد وأديان مختلفة، ساهم في تأسيسها عدد كبير من الشخصيات التي كانت لها قوة التأثير في المجتمع سواء كان هذا التأثير روحياً، اجتماعياً، سياسياً او اقتصادياً.

وهناك نصوص متعددة تؤشر ما ذكرناه وردت في صحف آدم المقدسة (كنزا ربا) والنص التالي يتحدث عن العصر الأخير (الدور الرابع) بعد الطوفان والى نهاية العالم في عصرنا الحالي ويوضح كيف سيظهر الانبياء الكذبة في بقاع الارض وكيف ستتفرق وتختلف الشعوب واللغات، ويعرج النص للحديث عن الجبابرة والحكام الذين سيظهرون ويثيرون الصراعات والحروب ولاسباب ذاتية ودنيوية وكما يلي :

> "...ثم يظهر الانبياء الكذبة ويتجسدون ويكونون في كل مدينة وفي كل مكان، وتتفرق الامم وتنقسم (تتعدد) الالسن في كل مكان وموقع... سيتجزأ العالم ويتسلط الجبابرة على كل جزء وسيغزو كل جزء الجزء الآخر (ستنشب الحروب بين الاجزاء اي المدن، الدول...الخ) وسيسفك الدم في العالم > وكل جزء سيبتدع لنفسه سببا لحربه مع الآخر..." كنزا يمينا ٥٠: ١٥ وما بعده.

ولذلك فإننا نجد أن عدداً من النصوص في الصحف المقدسة قد عالجت هذا الموضوع، وحذرت من الابتعاد عن مبادىء عقيدة التوحيد الأولى.
كما نلاحظ في النصوص التالية التي يتحدث فيها الملاك كبرائيل الرسول الأول للأنسانية وكما يلي:

> "...وكل صالح ومؤمن يثبت ايمانه على العقيدة الاولى سيحصل على النعيم الى الأبد". كنزا يمينا ٤٥:.٧ وما بعده.
> " أنا الرسول الأول، انادي معلماً واقول لكل الناصورائيين الذين هم كائنون (الاحياء) والذين سيكونون وسيولدون لاتستمعوا لاقوالهم (يقصد الانبياء الكذبة) ولا تنحرفوا عن طريق الحي العظيم (طريق الحياة الصحيح)..."
> كنزا يمينا ٢٤: ١٠ وما بعده..

ومن خلال هذه النصوص واخرى مشابهة لها يمكن ان ندرك أن الصابئة المندائيين وعبر حلقات التاريخ وحقبه المختلفة حاولوا جاهدين الحفاظ على عقيدة النور والحياة (شريعة آدم والآباء الأقدمين من بعده) وقد خاضوا من أجل ذلك صراعاً مريراً وعلى جميع المستويات (خاصة الفكرية منها والعقائدية).

وعند متابعة رحلتنا بين النصوص المندائية التي تدور حول الموضوع نجد ان قسماً آخر منها يحذر من الأختلاط والتبشير، ومع ذلك فأنها في ذات الوقت لم تهمل بشكل كامل نشر العقيدة الأولى والتبشير بها بل أنها حددت أسس وضوابط لقبول وأحتضان غير الموحدين من أصحاب العقائد الزائفة وجعل الايمان بملك النور العظيم يثبت بقلوبهم.

لنطالع مثلاً النص المهم التالي من الصحف المقدسة الذي يخاطب فيه الملاك كبرائيل (بأمر الرب) اصحاب العقيدة الأولى (الصابئة المندائيين) وكما يلي:

> " ...كل ساجد للاشرار والاصنام والصور ابتعدوا عنه، لاتتخذوا منه صديقاً، ولكن اذا اردتموه (تاقت نفسكم اليه) واحببتموه، فاسمعوه الكتب والتعاليم (الكلمات) والتسبيحات التي وهبها لكم ربكم، فاذا استمع (استجاب) واصبح مؤمناً واعترف بملك النور العلي الاله الذي انبعث من ذاته، فاحبوه وقربوه بجانبكم واعطوه من كل ما تملكون. اما اذا لم يستمع ولم يعترف ولم يؤمن فسيحاسب هو (نفسه) على خطاياه " ... كنزا يمينا ١٥: ٢وما بعده.

ونطالع في نص مهم آخر يتحدث عن أسرى هذا العالم وكيفية تحريرهم من العبودية والضلال (اللتين يمقتهما الدين المندائي)، وهو يشير الى أن تحرير الأنسان من _(الأسر سواءً المادي اي اسرى الحرب او الفكري، الذي يتعلق بالأيمان والعقيدة)- هو ليس فقط عن طريق المال إنما الأهم من ذلك تحريره عن طريق الصدقة العظمى والأيمان، وكلام الرب الطاهر الذي يحرر الأنسان فيخلصه ويخرجه من الظلام الى النور ومن الضلال الى الحق ومن العصيان الى الصلاة ومن الكفر الى الأيمان بالرب العظيم وهو بذلك سينال رضا الرب وبركاته وكما يلي:

> " إذا رأيتم أسيراً مؤمناً وصادقاً فاعطوا الفدية عنه وحرروه، ولكن ليس بالذهب والفضة وحدهما تحررون الانفس (الاشخاص) بل تحررونها بالصدق والايمان، وبكلام الفم الطاهر تحررون الانفس من الظلام الى النور، ومن الخطأ الى الصواب ومن الضلالة والعصيان الى الصلاة والتسبيح، ومن الكفر الى الايمان بربكم من يحرر نفسه فستكون له حضوة ومنزلة على الدوام..." كنزا يمينا ١٥: ٩ ومابعده.

وتأكيداً على هذا النص فقد ورد في نص آخر ما يشير الى مكافئة من يحرر أسيراً وكما يلي:

> "... من يحرر أسيراً سيخرج رسول الحي لملاقاته". كنزا يمينا ١٦ :٥.

أما في داخل الشعب فلم يكن الأمر سهلاً فقد واجه الصابئة نزيفاً مستمراً بين أصحابهم نتيجة للظروف المختلفة التي تعرضوا لها والتي كان تأثيرها السلبي يزداد يوماً بعد الآخر. لذلك فقد عالجت النصوص الواردة في الصحف المقدسة وبينت الوسائل الكفيلة والناجعة التي من شأنها المحافظة على الناس. نقرأ مثلاً ترجمة للنص التالي الذي يوجه فيه الملاك كبرائيل حديث الرب الى المؤمنين مخاطباً إياهم قائلاً:

> " علموا الناس حتى لاتتعثر قلوبهم، وأسمعوهم الاقوال العذبة والتسبيحات التي انا جلبتها لكم..." كنزا يمينا ١٩:١٩ وما بعده.

ونجد في نص آخر كيفية معالجة االأشخاص الذين يسقطون بسبب ضلالهم ويشير الى ضرورة انتشالهم من الضلال ومساعدتهم وتقديم العون لهم وزرع الأيمان في قلوبهم بكل الوسائل. ويعرج النص ذاكراً عن ان مثل هؤلاء إذا اصروا على السير في طريق الضلال من جديد بعد كل ما قُدّم لهم فيؤكد على ضرورة عدم إلتزامهم (مساعدتهم) وتقديم الجهود والمعونات الى من هو بحاجة فعلية لها والى من يقدرها وترجمة النص كما يلي:

> " إذا ما ضل إنسان مرة فارفعوه واسندوه، وإذا ضل هذا الأنسان للمرة الثانية فارفعوه واسندوه، واذا ضل انسان للمرة الثالثة فارفعوه واسندوه واسمعوه كتب ووصايا وصلاة وتسبيح ربكم. لكن عندما تسندونه ويرفض ان يساعد (الاسناد)، فأقلعوا الكرمة السيئة، وآتوا بكرمة طيبة (جيدة) وأزرعوها بمكانها، لأنهم طالما نادوه باذنه ولم يستمع، وأروه بعينه ولم ير، فانه في يوم النهاية سيلاقي نهايته، سيسقط في العذاب الذي يهوي به الاشرار والذي منه لايصعدون". كنزا يمينا ٢٢: ٢٠ وما بعده.

لقد واجه المندائيون أخطاراً هددت وجودهم وكيانهم خاصة وأنهم كانوا من أتباع مباديء السلام والصلاح والمحافظة على الحياة، اذ ان عقيدتهم التي يتمسكون بها تنهاهم عن القتل والقتال وعن التمسك بمتاع هذه الدنيا فكيف يتحقق هذا الأمر مع وجود اطماع الأنسان وظهور الدول والتوسع وحب التسلط والسيطرة، ونقرأ النص التالي الذي ينهى بشكل واضح وصريح الأبتعاد عن حب المال والقتل وكما يلي:

> "كل من يحب الذهب والفضة ومقتنيات هذا العالم ويقوم بجريمة قتل يرمى في النار الحامية". كنزا يمينا ٤:١٧: وما بعده.

وبنفس المعاني نطالع نصا آخر ينصح أيضاً بعدم الوثوق بالملوك والحكام وقوتهم أو ما يجلبونه من أسرى أو أموال لأن كل ذلك زائل وفي النهاية سوف لن ينقذهم سلطانهم وما يملكون من العذاب والحساب وكما يلي:

> "... ايها المختارون لا تضعوا ثقتكم بملوك ومتسلطي ومردة هذا العالم، ولا على الجيوش والسلاح والحرب والحشود التي يحشدون والاسرى الذين يأسرون في هذا العالم، ولا على الذهب ولا على الفضة، يثيرون الصراع ويجمعون الاموال ويتركونها في الدنيا ويذهبون في النار المستعرة، بأيديهم سيحملون الجمر وشفاههم ستكوى باللهيب، سيبطل جبروتهم وسلطانهم ولن يبقى معهم لا ذهبهم ولا فضتهم ولن يكون لهم من يعينهم. لن يكون لهم مخلصا لا ملكهم ولا اموالهم، سيمحى سلطانهم وسينالون بالقضاء جزاءهم". كنزا يمينا ٦:١٧ وما بعده.

وهناك أمثلة عديدة تحث على ترك متاع الدنيا والسلطة والأنشغال بالعبادة والعمل الصالح النافع للأنسان والمجتمع.

ومن ناحية أخرى ادى ظهور اليهود وأنتشارهم في فلسطين والأقاليم المجاورة، وازدياد نفوذهم وتأثيرهم الفكري والسياسي في مناطق تواجد الصابئة المندائيين الى حدوث ردود أفعال قوية تجاههم بسبب مخالفتهم لهم في امور كثيرة سواء ما يتعلق منها بالعقيدة أم بالطقوس.

لذلك فقد ورد في بعض النصوص ما يشير الى ضرورة الأبتعاد عن اولئك الأناس الذين تمردوا على الرب وقد شبه الشخص الذي على هذه الشاكلة في أحد النصوص بالعبد الذي يتمرد على سيده (ربه) وقد أوصى النص ذاته الى الأبتعاد عن اليهود وأشار الى عدم مخالطتهم لأنهم لم يثبتوا على جوهر العقيدة وكما هو موضح فيما يلي:

> "...اوصيكم يا اصفيائي، لاتتصلوا بذلك العبد الزاني الذي يتمرد على سيده. لا تكونوا مع اليهود اولئك الذين لم يثبتوا على قول واحد، احدهم يسيء للآخر، وملك ينقص من الآخر، ونبي يكذب الآخر..." كنزا يمينا ٢٢:١٣وما بعده.

وفي نص آخر نجد حديث الرب الى الملاك كبرائيل شليها (جبرائيل الرسول) بان يذهب ويعلم آدم وحواء وذريتهم ويبلغهم أن لا يضللهم الأشرار (الذين سيظهرون في العالم) لأنهم سوف لن ينفعوهم (في الدار الآخرة) وكما يلي:

> "... قل لهم: أن لا يضللهم الأشرار والشيطان الذين لا فائدة منهم..."، كنزا يمينا ٢٢:١٣ وما بعده.

مما تقدم يمكن أن نفهم ولو بصورة مبدئية موقف دين الصابئة المندائيين من التبشير وتأكيده على نشر العقيدة المندائية، ومع ذلك فان الامر لم يكن سهلا خاصة اذا عرفنا انهم يعيشون في خضم المخاطر والقوى المتعاظمة في المنطقة والتي عمدت ليس فقط على مخالفتهم بل جاهدت بشتى الوسائل على اجبارهم ترك ديانتهم، وقد قتل الكثيرون منهم وتشرد آخرون ونطالع في النص التالي ما يشير الى وعد الرب المؤمنين والثابتين على العقيدة الاولى بأنهم سيكونون دون خطيئة طاهرين في دار الآخرة في حالة تعرضهم للقتل، بسبب حبهم لربهم وكما يلي:

> "...كل من يسلم جسمه للقتل بسبب محبته لربه فسوف يكون زكيا (طاهرا) دون اثم...". كنزا يمينا ١٦: ١٠ وما بعده.

ويمكن لنا ان نحدد الفترة ما بين القرن الثاني قبل الميلاد والقرن الأول الميلادي بأنها من المراحل الصعبة والمهمة في حياتهم، والتي كانت نواة لبلورة العديد من الأفكار التي وصلت الينا في الوقت الحاضر، لذلك سوف نركز حديثنا القادم عنها وعن المراحل التي تليها.

عاش المندائيون الشرقيون الذين سكنوا بلاد ما بين النهرين وأجزاء من بلاد فارس حياة هادئة نسبياً إذ لم يصلنا عنهم انهم مروا

يدل على ذلك ما رُوي من أخبار المندائيين في هذه الفترة والذي ورد جزءا منه في بعض المصادر المندائية خاصة في كتاب "دراشا إديهيا" وديوان "هران كويثا" ونصوص متفرقة اخرى.

منه وتطلب غفران الرب ورحمته على يديه فتستمع لأقواله وتصطبغ بصباغته وترتسم برسم الحياة والطهر.

ولم يكن يبغي سوى هداية الناس لطريق النور وإسماعهم وصايا الرب، فكان يعلمهم في الليل ويصبغ المؤمنين والتائبين في النهار كما تبين ذلك العديد من نصوص كتاب دراشا إد يهيا (كتاب يحيى) فنراه يفتتح بعضها بالصيغة التالية:

> "يهيا درش بليلوي، يوهنا برامشي إد ليلي، يهيا دارش بليلوي وأمر...":
> يحيى يعظ في الليالي، يوحنا عند امسيات الليالي، يحيى يصرح في الليالي ويقول...":

وقد كان الناس يحبونه ويلتفون حوله ويأخذون بوصاياه وتعاليمه لقد كان نقياً طاهراً عابداً لم يدنسه أي شيء ولم يطلب ملكاً أوعرشاً دنيوياً أو عيشاً رغيداً ولم ينغمس بشهوات أوملذات هذه الدنيا. وكما نجده يتحدث عن نفسه في النص التالي من كتابه:

> "... انا حررت نفسي من العالم ومن الأعمال المقيتة والسيئة والباطلة.
> سألني السبعة الأموات الذين لم يروا الحياة: بقوة من تنتصب؟ ومن تسبح في صلواتك؟ قلت لهم: أني قائم بقوة ابي وتسبيحات الكائن الذي نصبني.
> انا لم أبن بيتاً بين اليهود، ولم أنشيء عرشا في أورشليم، لم انغمس في حب أكاليل الزهور، (الشهوات)...". دراشا اد يهيا ٧٧: ٣ وما بعده.

وقد عمد ابونا "يوحنا المعمدان" آلافاً مؤلفة من الناس وكما يقول هو:

> "... لمدة اثنين واربعين عاما من حياتي أصبغ وقد صبغت الافاً وآلاف..."، كنزا ربا بوثة وفاة يوحنا. وكذلك بنفس المعنى راجع ديوان "هران كويثا" ٤٥ وما بعده وكذلك في دواوين اخرى.

وحتى الخارجين عن المندائية والذين سموا أنفسهم ظاهرا يهودا فقد صبغهم ونقلهم من الظلام الى النور أي من اليهودية الى المندائية، وحتى الذين هم من أصل يهودي هداهم وعلمهم وصبغهم بصبغة الحياة والنور.

ونجد في النص التالي من الصحف المقدسة أن ملاك الرب (متجسدا مع يوحنا المعمدان بلباس ليس من لحم ودم) يأتي بقوة الرب وأمره الى أورشليم في زمن الملك (بلاتس) فيعمل المعجزات ويساعدهم ويهديهم ويكسب الصادقين بأيمانهم اليه من اليهود فيكونون مندائيين مؤمنيين ويخرجهم من الظلام الى النور ومن ضلال افكارهم الى الحقيقة ويعلمهم أن يهتدوا الى اله ورب جميع المخلوقات "ملك النور العظيم" وكما يلي:

> ".. ويأتي بسنين بلطوس (بلاتس) ملك الدنيا، انوش اثرا يأتي الى الدنيا (العالمين) بقوة ملك النور العلي، مشافيا للمرضى ومفتحا (لعيون) العمي ومطهرا للجرب ومقيما للمقعدين والكسيحين فيمشون. وجاعلا الصم والبكم يتكلمون، ومحييا للموتى، هاديا للايمان (اناسا) من اليهود _(اي اخرجهم من اليهودية وادخلهم في المندائية فاصبحوا بدرجة "مهيمني" المؤمنين وهو مصطلح مندائي يطلق على المتدينين المندائيين)_ ومريا اياهم انه يوجد موت وتوجد حياة، ويوجد ظلام ويوجد نور، ويوجد خطأ (كفر، ضلال) ويوجد صواب (ايمان، حق)، وهاديا بذلك اليهود الى اسم ملك النور العلي (اي يجعلهم مؤمنين بعقيدة المندائيين التي هي عقيدة الرب ملك النور)...."
> كنزا ربا ٢٩: ٨ وما بعده

هنا نجد دعوة الرب للانسان في العودة الى طريق الايمان الاول (عقيدة آدم) عن طريق رسل الرب وانبياء الحق، من ذلك نعرف بوضوح ان عددا ليس قليلا من اليهود قد دخل المندائية فعلا ومما يؤكد ذلك ايضا

كون قائد الدعوة الى ذلك هو النبي المبارك (يحيى يوحنا) وهو من اصل يهودي عمد بقوة الرب بواسطة المندائيين فاصبح احد المعلمين (الانبياء) الكبار لدينهم وربما في ذلك حكمة هي ان يخرج انسانا من اليهود ليقودهم الى المندائية ((ويخلصهم من شراك اليهودية))، على حد التعبير المندائي، بواسطة التعميد بالماء الحي وكلمات النور. وفعلا فقد نجح في كسب الجموع الغفيرة الى دعوته ونجد ذلك واضحا في سيرته وكذلك في مجمل الاحاديث التي دونها في كتابه المقدس.

ومن هنا يمكننا ان نلاحظ ان يوحنا المعمدان كان ينوّر الناس بالمعرفة الحقة ويعمدهم باسم الحي العظيم (ملك النور)، ويكسب الأنفس التائهة ويضمها الى حلبته، وبذلك نجده يصف نفسه "بصياد السمك"، الذي يدخل الهور في قاربه يجمع السمك الطيب (الجيد) ويدخلهم في شباكه الطاهرة ويطرد الصيادين الآخرين (عنهم) [أي المبشرين من الأديان والعقائد الاخرى]، ويقيدهم ويمنعهم من اصطياد وسرقة أسماكه "المسماة بأسمه" والمنتشرة في المياه.

عن ذلك يتحدث يهيا يوهانا ويخاطب الصيادين الآخرين قائلاً:

"...(ارجعوا) سمككم...انها قد نتنت... وليس من أحد يود ابتياعها. لقد جئتم بصيدكم من الأهوار البعيدة... اللعنة عليكم... اللعنة على من يشتري منكم ... اللعنة على دلالكم، اللعنة على قاربكم الذي لم تملأوه... أنكم لم تأتوا بالملح لترشوه على سمككم الذي اشتريتموه... وفيما كان الصيادون واقفين، يقترب منهم "الصياد" بخفة... ويُعد شبكة الصيد (السلية)، وينشرها عليهم فيصيدهم ويسحبها... فيتوسلون اليه "حررنا من شباكك... حتى لا تقفز سمكة من سمكاتك الى قاربنا... نحن لا نصيد سمكاً يسمى باسمك.."

ويقول هو: "حين سمعتهم يتحدثون هكذا ضربتهم بهراوتي المصنوعة من الحديد... وربطتهم بحبال من ليف وحطمت قواربهم وأحرقت شباكهم. وأرغمتهم على أن يقسموا بأن لا يصيدوا السمك الطيب بعدها، وأن لا

ومن خلال ما ذكرناه يمكن ان نعثر على بعض التعبيرات الأصطلاحية التي تهمنا في هذا الموضوع نطالع مثلاً:

"...نحن لا نصيد سمكاً بأسمك..." وهو يدل على ان المندائيين جماعته كانوا جماعة مميزة اذ أنها تسمى بأسمه.

من ذلك نستنتج أن يوحنا المعمدان حاول جاهداً المحافظة على الصابئة المندائيين أتباعه ودفع مسيرتهم بقوة نحو الأمام وقد دعا اليهود للتعميد وطلب غفران الخطايا والألتزام بالفضيلة وأشار المؤرخ اليهودي (جوزيفوس) في كتابه "العصور القديمة"، الى ذلك كذلك اشار الى شدة تعلق الناس بيوحنا وقد ذكر انهم كانوا مستعدين في كل شيء للتصرف وفق مشورته. (لمزيد من المعلومات راجع المصدر السابق ص١١٤). ومن ناحية اخرى فأن يوحنا المعمدان قد ساعد في هداية الضالين واعانة المضطهدين من اتباعه المندائيين الذين عانوا كثيرا قبل مجيئه خاصة في مدينة أورشليم وما جاورها وكما يذكر ذلك في بعض العبارات في كتاب دراشا إد يهيا :

> "... لم أرغب في النزول الى مدينة أورشليم ... وحدثت فيها الأضطهادات ضد أتباعي... ".

لذلك فأنه عندما ذهب الى أورشليم أخذ يبشر بالدين الذي سار عليه المندائيون قبله وقد أعطى اصحابه القوة والمنعة، وترد في نفس الكتاب نصوص كثيرة تتحدث عن سيرته وسعيه المستمر للحفاظ على الناصورائيين وخاصة من حقد ومكائد اليهود وحكامهم وكهنتهم، فقد أصابهم الرعب والاستياء من قوة دعوته وأزدياد أتباعه وتلاميذه.

من الأمور المهمة التي يجدر بنا التوقف عندها في المرحلة التي تلت وفاة يوحنا هو دخول المؤمنة "مَرَيْي" الى دين الصابئة المندائيين بعد تركها لديانتها الاولى "اليهودية"، [مريي شامرت يهدوثا (مريي تركت اليهودية)..., JB 130]. ولم تكن امرأة عادية بل كانت ابنة أحد كبار كهنة اليهود وهي امرأة معروفة بين قومها، وتسرد نصوص كتاب "القلستا" وكذلك كتاب "دراشا إد يهيا" قصة تعرفها على المندائيين وأيمانها بدينهم وادراكها جوهر عقيدة الناصورائيين [وهم فقهاء المندائيين والطبقة القيادية العليا التي يرجع اليها المندائيون في تأدية طقوسهم وتعليمهم ومعظم شؤون حياتهم]، وكيف انها تعلمت خفية بعد مراقبتها لهم. وتسرد القصة أحداثاً مطولة حول ذلك، وكيف انها لم تقبل بسهولة بين المندائيين ثم اصبحت أحد الرموز الدينية العظيمة التي يضرب المثل بها وبأيمانها وصبرها وتحملها الضغوط الكبيرة من قبل أهلها والكهنة والحكام من اليهود. وقد باءت جهودهم بالفشل في اقناعها بالارتداد عن دين الناصورائيين، وقد أصبحت فيما بعد صوتاً قوياً للأيمان ومشعلاً للنور يتجمع حوله الناس ليهتدوا ويزدادوا تمسكاً بعقيدتهم كما كان يفعل من قبل النبي يوحنا المعمدان لانها عاصرته ونهلت من نبع المعرفة الذي فاض منه.

ولنطالع مثلاً بعضاً مما كان يقال عنها من قبل اليهود، عندما شعروا أنها تلتجأ الى الناصورائيين من المندائيين وتترك شريعة اليهود وكما ورد في كتاب القلستا (القسم الثاني) النياني (أناشيد وصلوات يوم الجمعة صباحا):

> ".... (ان مريي)... صارت تكره اليهودية وتحب الناصيروثا، انها تكره
> باب بيت الأمة (الهيكل) وتحب باب المشخنا (المندي، المعبد المندائي) ،
> انها تكره (الطوطفتا) القبعة (التعويذة) وتحب أكليل الآس [وهو الأكليل
> الذي يتوج به الشخص المصطبغ أثناء صباغته]، يدها تعمل الأعمال يوم
> السبت، وفي يوم الأحد تمنع يدها عنها، ان مريي (اصبحت) تكره الناموس
> [قانون شريعة اليهود]. " CP. p. 173:7 ff (No 149)

وفي آخر هذاالنص نجدها تذكر أنها لم تحصل الا على حب منداهيي (العارف بالحياة) والذي يسندها لتنتقل من الظلام الى النور وكما يلي:

> "... الذي أحببته لا أكرهه والذي كرهته لا أحبه (ولا حب بي) غير حب
> منداهيي الذي يقف معي ويمد لي يد العون والقوة لأنتقل من مكان الظلام
> الى مكان النور...". CP. p. 174 :2f (No.149)

ومما هو جدير بالذكر في هذا الموضوع ورود التعبير الأصطلاحي الذي هو الأنتقال من الظلام (مكان الظلام) الى النور (مكان النور) وهو تعبير اصطلاحي مندائي (غنوصي)، يستعمل كثيراً في النصوص المندائية وفي معظمها يرمز الى حصول التغيير، المنهج والعقيدة، من السلب الى الأيجاب، ومن الخطأ الى الصواب أي من الظلام الى النور، وعلى ذلك يستند جوهر الصباغة (التعميد) المندائي، إذ انه يخرج الأنسان من ظلام المادة الى نور الروح (المعرفة).

ان ما ذكرناه (حول يوحنا وتلامذته ومريي)، يشير الى المنافسة والصراع الحاصلين بين اليهود والصابئة المندائيين وبالأحرى مع الناصورائيين، اضافة الى ذلك فإن النصوص الدينية الواردة في دراشا اد يهيا والقلستا حول مريي، توضح جانبا من معاناة المندائيين وخاصة المؤمنين الجدد من الاديان والعقائد الاخرى.

ويضيف ديوان "هران كويثا" ان الرب قد ارسل الملاك "انش اثرا" ليضع لليهود القصاص العادل جزاءا على ما فعلوه مع اتباعه الناصورائيين الذين اريقت دماء الكثيرين منهم الى حد لم ينج منهم الا القليلين، لذلك تدمر أورشليم ويحرق الهيكل وتحول الى أكوام من الخرائب. انظر "هران كويثا" ٦٩ وما بعده.

اي حتى عام ٢٤٠م حيث انفصل عنهم وشرع يدعو الى مذهبه الخاص الذي سمي بالمانوية، والى ذلك اشار بن النديم، الفهرست, ص٤٠٧.

ورغم ان النصوص المندائية لاتذكر شيئا واضحا يدل على هذه الحادثة الا ان توثيقها من قبل الاخرين يثبت بنسبة كبيرة ان والد ماني وعائلته قبلوا بين المندائيين والاهم من هذا ان ماني نفسه ولد بينهم وتعهدوه وعلموه اصول دينهم ومعتقداتهم ومن مضمون الكتابات المانوية وفلسفتها يتأكد لدينا بأن ماني لا بد ان يكون قد اطلع بشكل واسع على كتاباتهم وتعاليمهم ودواوينهم السرية خاصة تلك التي تحتوي رسومات ومصطلحات باطنية.

وطريقة تعاملها مع مثل تلك الحالات، فلم تهتم كثيرا بتدوين التاريخ او الحوادث التفصيلية التي واجهتهم عبر المراحل الزمنية التي عاشوها.

من المعلوم ان الديانة الصابئية المندائية ديانة معرفية اي (غنوصية)، وهي تعتمد (المعرفة) اساسا يوضح فلسفة منهجها العقائدي.

ان هذه المعرفة لا تأتي عن طريق التعليم والدرس وحدهما انما بالأساس تعتمد على الفيض الآلهي الذي يظهر ذاته في كشف معرفي روحاني غير مادي، لايعتمد على البشر في اظهاره انما يعتمد الطهر والنقاء الروحي والجسدي (المادي) ليصل مرحلة الذروة والتي يتمكن فيها من الرؤية الروحية والاتصال بقوى النور، ومن ثم الاطلاع على

الاسرار المقدسة وفهم جوهرها وادراك معارف الكون والوجود المختلفة.

ان سر (المعرفة) هذا في نظر المندائيين ومعظم الطوائف المعرفية (الغنوصية)، لا ينتقل الا لانسان نقي النسب اي من نفس جذر المندائيين، وهذا عموما كان النهج العام الذي سلكته العديد من الديانات والعقائد خاصة قبل ظهور المسيحية.

وعموما فان اعتقاد الطوائف المعرفية (الغنوصية) ينصب في التزامها باسرار او (مقدسات)، لكي تساعد وتنقي الروح لتضمن ولادتها من جديد في جسد روحي، او تحررها وصعودها من عالم المادة، وهذه تكون عادة مطابقة لطقوس تقليدية وموسمية (احتفالية) موجودة، والتي لها ترجمة باطنية وفي حالة الناصورائين -المندائيين، تعتمد هذه الترجمة من قصة الخلق، خاصة على الانسان الكوني (الآلهي) آدم كسيا (آدم الخفي) ككاهن او ملك ممسوح ومتوج انظر "دراور، آدم كسيا، ص، ٨.

من ذلك يمكننا ان نفهم انه في الحالة الانسانية او الجنس البشري يجب ان يكون ممسوحا ومتوجا كاهنا وملكا، فيكون صورة مماثلة للملك الالهي، وهو فوق كل شيء يعد رمزا مقدسا للاتحاد والأنبعاث (القيامة).

وعندما يرسم أي كاهن مندائي فأنه يمسح بالزيت (زيت السمسم، اي الزيت المقدس) ويتوّج ويعطى شارة الملك- وهي الخاتم والصولجان والتاج، لأنه الممثل الأرضي للأنسان السماوي أو الكوني.

وكل شخص مصطبغ بالمصبتا (متعمد بالمعمودية) يدخل في جسد آدم الكوني، كتوقع لأتحاده (لوفا) مع الجسد المفتدى للنخبة، بواسطة رشمه (رسامته) بماء مقدس و(تتويجه) بأكليل آس، هذه الأحتفالات تعاد وتكرر ساعة موته ايضا مع اختلاف أن رشمه

(رسامته) تكون بالزيت -(بعد طمشه ثلاثاً بالماء ورشامته به)-، لأنه كمؤمن حقيقي يموت في حالة من النقاء سيصبح بعدها واحدا مع الأنسانية (الكونية)، الممنوحة حالة روحية والتي تدعى آدم كسيا (الخفي، الكوني) لمزيد من التفاصيل انظر المصدر السابق ص١٠٤.

وبعد الموت تتسلم روح الميت جسدها الروحي خلال الخلق المتجدد الفائق للطبيعة لجسده الكوني، فيكتب له عندها التحرر والخلاص والوصول الى عالم الانوار الذي اتت منه قبل ان تكون في الارض، والى تلك الفكرة يشير عزيز سباهي الى:

> "ان الغنوصية تنطلق من أنها تضع في أيدي النخبة المختارة تلك الأسرار الخفية التي تيسر لها سبيل الخلاص وتمكنها من التغلب على القوى الشريرة التي خلقت العالم. ومهمة العمل الغنوصي هي تحرير النفس البشرية التي هي في الأصل شرارة، قبس من الجوهر المقدس من أسر الجسد الدنيوي"، اصول الصابئة المندائيين ص ١٤٦.

وقد كان ذلك سبباً مهماً في ان لايكون هناك قبول الا لمن كان منهم او من نوع الفرع الأصيل في شجرتهم الموروثة من نسل آدم النقي لأن الوالدين من فروع اخرى - (وهم اصحاب العقائد والأديان الأخرى غير المندائية) - لم يكونوا في الأصل قد تنقوا أو تطهروا

بواسطة تلك الممارسات والمعارف والأسرار التي تحدثنا عنها في اعلاه هذا اضافة الى ظهور الختان والممارسات الطقسية المخالفة لهم في كثير من الاديان.

وقد شدد "الناصورائيون" على رفض هذه الامور الى حد التزمت والعزلة واتخاذ مواقف صلبة خاصة في غضون الحقب المتأخرة ولحد الآن.

لقد كان وما يزال اليهود يعتقدون بانهم شعب الله المختار الذي لايقبل الداخلين به. والى الآن لايحسب يهوديا من وُلِدَ من أب يهودي وأم غير يهودية، وقد تساهلوا في بعض الأزمان بقبول الأشخاص المولودين من أم يهودية وأب غير يهودي واعتبروهم يهوداً من الدرجة الثانية، ومثل ذلك نجده في معاملة اليهود السود أو من هم ليسوا من الأصول النقية او المعروفة.

يكن للناصورائيين المندائيين الذين معظمهم او العديد منهم كانوا ربما من اجناس مختلفة، وبوجود الصوفية البارثية واليونانية حولهم من كل الجهات حتى في التقاليد الموروثة، (لم يكن) ما يربطهم بمثل هذه العادات حتى لو انهم مارسوها في وقت ما". وتضيف ايضا قائلة: "ان الختان كريه بالنسبة للناصيروثا لأن اي قطع في الجسم البشري هو قطع لذلك الذي صنع في صورة الله، واي رجل فيه عيب في اعضائه الجنسية يكون غير لائق او مؤهل لان يصبح كاهناً"، دراور آدم كسيا، ص، ٧.

وقد اعتبر المسلمون الأسلام ناسخا للأديان التي سبقها وأبدى شيئاً من التسامح تجاه الاديان االتوحيدية (اليهودية، الصابئية والمسيحية) وجعلوا دعوتهم تبشيرية شملت العالم كله كما فعل المسيحون قبلهم.

ان عدد الصابئة القليل والمحدود في الوقت الحاضر والخوف من ذوبانهم في المجتمعات الكبيرة لدول العالم المختلفة والتي بدأوا يتوافدون عليها في السنين الأخيرة يحتم على المندائيين الالتفات الى هذا الجانب والحد من ظاهرة الزواج من خارج الطائفة لانه يشكل اليوم خطراً حقيقياً بأنهائها خاصة اذا عرفنا ان الكثير من الذكور قد قتلوا في الحروب وقسم آخر هاجر واصبح الفارق بين عدد النساء الى الرجال كبيرا ولن يمكن الحد من نزيف الطائفة المستمر الا من خلال اتخاذ الوسائل الناجعة للحفاظ عليها من الذوبان ولن يكون ذلك الا بتحصين المندائيين بالمعرفة والايمان وجهادهم في الحفاظ على ابنائهم من الضياع والتأكيد على جانب الاصالة المندائية التي طالما دافع عنها اباؤنا واجدادنا طيلة القرون العتيدة الماضية.

كان الصابئون المندائيون يقطنون تلك المناطق حين فتحت الجيوش الاسلامية بلاد الساسانين وكانت اعدادهم تكفي لذكرهم في القران الكريم بثلاث ايات هي الاية 62 "سورة البقرة" والاية 69 "سورة المائدة" والاية 17 "سورة الحج" باعتبارهم دينا كتابيا ويمنحهم الحماية ويسميهم "الصابئين". هذة التسمية التي لايزالون يعرفون بها حتى اليوم, والتي تضمن لهم وجودهم وعيشهم بين المسلمين كدين كتابي.

(والجزية واجبة على جميع اهل الذمة, ممن في السواد وغيرهم من اهل الحيرة وسائر البلدان, من اليهود, والنصارى, والمجوس, والصابئين, والسامره).

ويفهم مما تقدم ان الصابئين الساكنين في البطائح هم المقصودون في القران الكريم, وانهم هم الذين خضعوا للجزية, شانهم في ذلك شأن جميع اهل الذمة من الكتابيين, وقد استفاد الحرانيين من هذا التسامح المفروض لصابئة البطائح فاتخذوا اسم الصابئة واحتموا به. كما كتب كثيرمن الجغرافيون والمؤرخون والمهتمون باخبار الملل والنحل, وغيرهم عن الصابئة, واماكن تواجدهم في شرقي الجزيرة العربية وغربيها, واشاروا الى ازمنة سحيقة في القدم كزمن شيت بن ادم, وزمن ابراهيم الخليل, وعهود تسبق اليهودية, وقد ذكرهم بن النديم في كتاب الفهرست عام 377 هجرية, فاورد تراجم لاعلامهم من اطباء, ومهندسين, وفلكين, وادباء, ممن عاصروا الخلافة العباسية, وعاشوا ضمن المجتمع الاسلامي في بغداد انذاك, ومنهم: ابو اسحاق الصابي, ثابت بن قرة, سنان بن ثابت, وكثيرين غيرهم مثل ابو الفتح المندائي وغرس النعمة الصابئي, مؤلف كتاب (الهفوات النادرة). واورد بن النديم ايضا خبر وجود الصابئة, او المغتسلة في منطقة البطائح وميسان مؤكدا وجودهم اثناء كتابة الفهرست, ذكر ذلك في معرض حديثه عن فاتق والد ماني مؤسس المانوية في القرن الثالث للميلاد, الذي التجأ الى صابئة ميسان بعد ان هتف به هاتف يدعوه الى عبادة الله ونبذ الاصنام.

وعلى خلاف ذلك فان الصابئين في الوقت الحاضر, والذين سكنوا الحواضر وابتعدوا عن شواطئ الانهار, وتفرقوا في المدن طلبا للرزق ودخلوا الوظائف الحكومية, قد ابتعدوا كثيرا عن الصابئين الذين يمارسون شعائرهم الدينية بصورة بدائية, كما كان يمارسها

الاسلاف, فاستعاضوا في كثير من شعائرهم بالماء المعقم بدلا من ماء النهر الجاري, وحلقوا شعور رؤوسهم وذقونهم, واتخذوا الزي العصري لباسا لهم كسائر الاقوام من حولهم تماشيا مع ظروف العصر.

عندما نذكر الصابئة, يتبادر لاذهان البعض من العراقيين المتزوجين تلك اللحظات السعيدة التي كانوا فيها يرافقون خطيباتهم الى محلات الصاغة في شارع النهر, في بغداد او سوق الصيادلة في البصرة, لشراء خاتم الخطوبة وهدايا الزواج والتي يجدوها عند الصابئة دائما, فهم قد ورثوا هذه الصناعة من اب لجد, وابان الانتداب البريطاني للعراق, كان الصابئة يتمركزون في مدينة العمارة وقد اشتهروا في ذلك الوقت بصياغة الفضة وتطعيمها بالميناء فاطلق عليهم البريطانيون اسم Amarah Silver-smiths, واحتكوا بالسواح, ونقلوا التراث العراقي من خلال اعمالهم اليدوية, الفضية والذهبية, والتي احتوت على المناظر الاثرية البابلية والاشورية والساسانية والعربية, ولازالوا يمارسون هذه المهنة لحد الان, ولا غرابة ان نجد ان اكثر من ثلاثون محلا للصياغة في سدني هم من الصابئة الذين هاجروا لاستراليا. و لم تقتصر مهنة الصابئة على الصياغة بل كانوا يمارسون اعمال النجارة, وصناعة, القوارب والحدادة وادوات الصيد والزراعة. وقد برز منهم مؤخرا علماء, مثل المرحوم الدكتور عبد الجبار عبدالله رئيس جامعة بغداد وشعراء مثل لميعة عباس عمارة وغيرهم من اطباء ومهندسين واخرين, في كافة مجالات الحياة.

اللغة المندائية

واللغة المندائية اوكما يطلق عليها لغة العلم, هي اللغة التي كتبت فيها المخطوطات الصابئية, وتتكون الابجدية المندائية من اثنين وعشرون حرفا تجمعها الكلمات الاتية:
ابجد, هوز, حطي, كلمن, سعفص, قرشت, ويضاف اليها حرفان هما اد, آ وتقرا الحروف ممدودة على الوجه التالي:
آ, با, جا, دا, ها, وا, زا, ها, طا, يا, كا, لا, ما, نا, سا, ئي, با(فا), صا, قا, را, شا, تا, اد, آ. ويرمز للحرف الاول (آ) وهو موجود في اول الابجدية واخرها. ويمثلان رمز الكمال ونور الحياة, وبدأ ونهاية كل شئ, وان ترتيبها هو الترتيب الاصلي للابجدية العربية, وهي خالية من الروافد, كما اطلق عليها ابن النديم وهي: (ثخذ, ضغظ).

والمندائية لهجة من الارامية, والتي تنتسب بدورها الى المجموعة او الاسرة العربية او السامية, واشتقها العالم الالماني شولتزSchlozer سنة 1781 من قائمة الانساب الواردة في العهد القديم, ونسبها الى سام بن نوح. كما ان الدراسات والبحوث التي اجريت من قبل لغويين متخصصين, اظهرت بان المندائية هي من اسهل اللهجات العربية القديمة, واقلها تأثرا باللغات الاجنبية كاليونانية وذلك لعزلتها وانزوائها. وان صورة الحروف المندائية اقرب الى صورة الحروف العربية من غيرها من الابجديات القديمة. وان كثير من مفردات المندائية موجودة ضمن المفردات العربية, وكذلك معظم حروف الجر مثل اللام, من, الى, وعلى, وحروف النفي مثل لا, وما, ولا الناهية والواو, وغيرها. كما نجد كلمة (اكا) بمعنى هنا او موجود, والكلمة واردة في اللهجة الشعبية العراقية اذ تقول (اكو) وبالنفي تكون بالمندائية (لكا) وبالعامية العراقية (ماكو).

وكذلك الاعداد:

هاد	واحد	شبا	سبعة
ترين	اثنين	تمانيا	ثمانية
تلاتة	ثلاثة	تشا	تسعة
اربا	اربعة	اسرا	عشرة
همشا	خمسة	هاديسار	احد عشر
شتا	ستة	تريسار	اثنا عشر

والكتب المندائية المقدسة ليست مطبوعة, وقد قام بنسخها باليد,الكتاب الكهنوتيون طيلة قرون عديدة. ويعتقد افراد الطائفة ان امتلاكها يحفظهم من الشرور في الدنيا والاخرة. وان قليل من العامة من يستطيع ان يقرأ أو يكتب هذه اللغة, فتعلمها مقصور على الطبقة الكهنوتية. والجدير بالذكر ان اغلب المخطوطات ربما قد دونت ايام الساسانين, او بعد الفتح العربي لبلاد الرافدين, ويدون كتاب "كنزا ربا" قائمة بملوك البارثيين والساسانيين, ولم يلاحظ في كتبهم تاثير, او استعمال كلمات من لغات اخرى كالاغريقية, المستعارة في اللغات السورية والفلسطينية, لكنها استعارت كثيرا من التعابير الارامية_العبرية بصورة خاصة. ولا يسمح للغرباء الاطلاع على كتب الصابئة المقدسة, وذلك لاحتوائها على اسرار تخص الطائفة نفسها. وليس هنالك كثير من النسخ القديمة جدا, ويعود ذلك لفقدانها. فالصابئون كما هو معروف قد سكنوا مناطق اكثر مساكنها من اكواخ القصب, توقد فيها النار شتاء

وتنشب فيها الحرائق بشكل عام, وتوجد عند بعضهم نسخ قد اتلفت حواشيها بفعل الحرائق. ولا يسمح مطلقا بتدوين الكتب المقدسة على الجلد, (لان ذبح الحيوانات تدمير للحياة ولذا فالجلد غير طاهر). بل ان اكثرها دون على ورق البردي وعلى المعادن والحجر. وهناك بعض الكتب مثل كتاب "سدره اد نشماته" كتاب الارواح _ طقس التعميد قد دون على رقائق الرصاص, وربما يعود هذا التقليد باستعمال الصفائح ناجما عن ضرورة دينية, حيث يذكر بعض الكهان, ان جميع كتبهم تطهر بالماء الجاري قبيل استعمالها. ويحافظ على الكتب المقدسة بتغليفها تغليفا تاما بالخام الابيض, وتربط باشرطة من الخام ايضا. كما ان الكهان يقومون بصنع وتركيب الحبر بانفسهم, وعادة يكون اسود لماعا. والكتابة بحد ذاتها عمل طلسمي يجلب الخير للذين يقومون به. واكبر هذه المخطوطات هو كتاب "كنزا ربا" الكنزالعظيم, وقد ترجم هذا الكتاب في عام 1813 من قبل "ماثيو نوربيرغ" Mathew Norberg وترجمات وتعليقات اخرى كانت ذروتها ترجمة البروفسور ليدزبارسكي الى اللغة الالمانية في عام 1925.

ومن الكتب المترجمة الاخرى ما يلي:
كتاب "دراشة اديهيا", كتاب يحيى عام 1915 و يتناول شؤون النبي يحيى المعمدان عليه السلام.
كتاب "سدرة ادنشماته", كتاب الارواح – طقس التعميد 1920 .
كتاب "ترسر الف شياله", اثنيعشرالف سؤال ويتكون من خمسة اجزاء يتناول الجزء الاول الاخطاء في الطقوس وطريقة غفرانها وايضاح الشعائر ...... الخ.
كتاب "تفسير بغرا", ويعتني بالمعنى الداخلي للوجبات الطقسية.
ديوان "حران كويثا" حران الداخلية او السفلى.
ديوان "اسفر ملواشه" مخطوط لاغراض التنجيم والحسابات الفلكية.
ديوان"نهرواثا" وهو خارطة مزخرفة, ونص ايضاحي لانهار العالم, حيث يجعلها جميعا تتغذى من "فرات زيوا" اي الفرات النوراني.
ديوان " اباثر" وهو ديوان مصور وطوله 9 ياردات.
ديوان "الما الايا" وديوان "ملكوثا" ترجمت مؤخرا وتوجد نسخة منهما في المتحف العراقي.
كتاب "انياني" ويتضمن الطهارة الصغرى اي الوضوء – الرشامه.

يحتوي المتحف البريطاني على كتاب "شرح وطراسة تاغه اد شثلام ربه" التي تهتم بطقوس تكريس الكهان وطقوس تكريس المندي. وتحتوي مكتبة Bodleien على جميع المخطوطات المترجمة من قبل ليدي دراور.

ان الدين الصابئ دين قديم, يؤمن معتنقوه بانه من اقدم الاديان ان لم يكن اقدمها. فهم ينسبون كتابهم "كنزا ربا " الكنز العظيم الى ادم عليه السلام, كما يعتقدون ان سام هو جدهم الاعلى ونبيهم بعد ادم ونوح. وهم ليسوا فرقة من النصارى كما ورد ذلك لدى كثير من الكتاب وبخاصة الغربيين, وقد جاء هذا الوهم من تعظيم الصابئين للنبي يحيى عليه السلام, واعتباره نبيا لهم انقذهم من ضلال اليهودية وقام بالمعمودية, وتعظيمهم ليوم الاحد كما يفعل النصارى.

وهم ليسوا بمجوس لعدم تقديمهم وتعظيمهم للنار, فهم يعتقدون ان السجود للنار امر محرم كل التحريم "نوره واسغادي مبطل باطلي" النار والسجود لها باطل مبطل.

اما اعتقادهم باليوم الاخر, فقد يكونون من اكثر الاديان وضوحا وتشددا في هذا الشان, فالعالم الدنيوي في عقيدتهم, ما هو الا منفى وسجن مؤقت للروح التي ستنبعث بعد الموت متحررة من سجنها المادي, لتلتحق بالملأ الاعلى, وفق حساب عسير يعد لها, ووفق وزن توزن فيه, فاما الى الجنة, او المطهر "المطراثة" حيث تعذب فيه بدرجات متفاوتة, الى ان تتطهر من ذنوبها فتلتحق بالملأ الأعلى هي ايضا, فالروح في عقيدتهم خالدة والجسم فان.

اما القوة الثانية في دينهم, فتتمثل في تجسيد عالم الانوار "ملكه دنهورا" او مجموعة الملائكة النورانيين, او الارواح النورانية, الذين بواسطتهم يمنح الخالق البشر نعم النور والصحة والقوة والفضيلة والعدل.

والقوة الثالثة في دينهم هي الأعتقاد بخلود الروح وبصلتها الوثقى بارواح اسلافها, صلة آلهية مباشرة .

والدين المندائي يشابه الاديان التوحيدية الاخرى بالتعبد الى الخالق, فان التهيأ للقيام باي عمل يومي او حياتي ضرورة سبقه بذكر "بشميهون اد هي ربي" اي بأسم الحي العظيم وضرورة الانتهاء بذكر أسم الخالق أيضا "هي زكن" أي أسم الحي مزكى, كما ان كل اية تبدأ وتنتهي بذكر الخالق بنفس الطريقة.

وتوصي الديانة الصابئية المندائية بالأخلاق الحسنة, والعمل الصالح وتعتبر ذلك أول مبدأ من مبادئ الدين الحق . فالصوم الأعظم يكون بالأمساك عن السيئات, وقد ورد بهذا المعنى في كتاب "كنزا ربا" القسم الايمن ما يلي:

صوموا صوماعظيما لا عن
مأكل او مشرب هذه الدنيا
امسكوا اعينكم عن الغمز والرمز,
ولا تنظروا بسوء او تعملوه,
امسكوا اذانكم عن التصنت
لابواب الاخرين.
امسكوا افواهكم عن قول الكذب
والزيف والتأويل ولا تحبوا
الاباطيل.
امسكوا ضمائركم عن ظنون السوء
والبغض والفرقة ولا تدعوها
تحتل افئدتكم.
ان الذي يحتل قلبه البغض
لا يعتبر مسلما مؤمنا.
امسكوا ايديكم عن ارتكاب القتل
وعن السرقة.
امسكوا اجسادكم عن معاشرة
ازواج الاخرين.
امسكوا ركبكم عن السجود
للشيطان.
امسكوا ارجلكم عن السعاية في
السوء.
امرناكم كلكم ان اسمعوا
الله.

ومن تعاليم الصابئة ان من واجب المعلم, ان يعلم غيره, وان من واجب الجاهل التوجه لطلب العلم, وقد ورد بذلك ما يلي:

راس علمك ان تعلم الآخرين
بكلمات طيبة زكية.
ويل لعالم لايعطي من علمه
ويل لجاهل مغلق على جهله.
كل من يعلم ولا يعلم يطرد
ويلعن.
كل من لا يقود ابنه الى المعلم
يكون مذنبا في يوم الدين.

وفي عبادة الخالق وتحريم عبادة الاجرام جاء مايلي:

لا تسبحوا للكواكب والابراج
ولا تسبحوا للشمس والقمر
المنورين هذا العالم وسبحوا
للذي وهبها النور.
هذه كلها اشباح لا تهبكم قوة
ولا تعين حظوظكم وليس لها
عليكم سلطان من اليوم الى يوم
الدين ولا ياتيكم من لدنها علم.

طقوس الاغتسالات

الاول – ويدعى "الرشامه" اي (الوضوء) وتتم بدون مساعدة الكاهن, وتجري يوميا قبل شروق الشمس, وتشابه الوضوء لدى المسلمين ويعتبر هذا عماد صغير للتخلص من النجاسات الصغرى, ولوقاية المرء من الاخطار اليومية, كما انه تكرار للايمان بالحياة الابدية.

الثاني – ويدعى "طماشة" وهي ثلاث ارتماسات في النهر بدون كاهن, وهي ما تجريها المرأة بعد الحيض وبعد الولادة. كما تجرى بعد لمس جثة الميت, وبعد الجنابة في المضاجعة والاحتلام. او حتى من نجاسة او اتصال بشخص نجس فالنجاسات معدية.

الثالث – "مصبته" أي التعميد أو الصباغة, وتتم بواسطة كاهن في اوقات الزواج, الولادة او التماس مع الميت .... الخ. والتعميد يجري يوم الاحد وفي اعياد معينة, وخاصة في الايام الخمسة الكبيسة "البنجه". ويتم ذلك في المندي او بيت العبادة ويطلق عليه ايضا "مشكنه" والمندي من السمات البارزة في الدين المندائي, ويجب ان يجاور النهر او قناة ماء جار, وهذا ما يشير الى الارتباط بعبادة الماء القديمة البدائية. ويحاط المندي بسياج لحجب الطقوس عن الأعين المتطلعة. تلتحق بالمندي بركة التعميدالتي تقع في جنوبه, وتتصل بطرفيها قناتان واحدة لاخذ الماء من النهر والاخرى لصبه فيه لغرض ابقاء الماء جاريا بصورة مستمرة. والمندي عبارة عن بناء بسيط من القصب والبواري المطلية بالطين, وهو مشابه لاكواخ القصب التي يقطنها سكنة الاهوار في جنوب العراق. وهو على شكل جمالي مستطيل الشكل, اطول جداريه هما الشمالي والجنوبي. ويواجه الداخل اليه من الباب الاتجاه الشمالي, الذي يتوجه اليه الشخص عند اداء الصلاة. ولا توجد في المندي نوافذ ولازينات داخلية والنور الوحيد ياتيه من الباب. ولا تجرى في داخله اية مراسيم دينية, بل يتم اجراء اغلبها في الساحات المحيطة به. ويطهر المندي سنويا من قبل الكهان وتكون هذه المراسيم طويلة نسبيا, وقد بني حديثا مندي في منطقة القادسية على احد فروع نهر دجلة في بغداد وأن بنائه قد تم بالطابوق والخرسانة المسلحة.

الملابس الدينية – "الرسته"

الملابس الدينية الصابئية وتدعى "رستة" وتستعمل في مراسيم التعميد والزواج والوفاة وهي بيضاء ترمز الى كساء النور الذي ترتديه الروح الطاهرة. ويحتفظ اغلب المندائين بهذا الرداء لاستعماله في هذه المناسبات. ويعتقد الصابئة بانهم في زمن ما كانوا لا يرتدون الا البياض, وان من الخطيئة ارتداء الملابس الملونة.

والرستة الكاملة تحتوي على تسعة قطع للكهنة, وسبعة قطع لافراد الطائفة عامة وتتكون من:
القميص – "سدره" وهي من قماش قطني ابيض يعمل حسب المقاسات المطلوبة حوالي ستة اذرع للرجل الحي وسبعة الى ثمانية للميت.

الدشة – او "دشا" وهي رقعة من نفس القماش تخاط من الخارج اعلى الناحية اليمنى من فتحة الصدر.

السروال – "الشروال".

التكه – "تكه" وهي الخيط الذي يشد السروال الى البطن ويترك احد طرفي التكة بدون خياطة وحين يربطان يتدلى الطرف المخاط الى جهة اليمين.

العمامة – "برزنقا" وهي من الموزلين الابيض عرضها حوالي الذراع تلف ثلاثة مرات حول الراس وتترك احدى النهايتين مدلات فوق الكتف الايسر.

االقبوعة – "النصيفة" وهي قطعة طويلة من الخام او الموزلين تلقى على الكتفين.

الزنار – "الهميانة" وهي نسيج مجوف من ستين خيطا صوفيا تحاك بطريقة خاصة. تربط بمسكها بالمنتصف امام الجسم ثم تلف الى الخلف وتقاطع طرفاها ثم تلف الى الامام حيث تعقد عقدتين. وتكون احدى النهايتين مشرشبة وتسمى كركوشة والاخرى مخاطة وتسمى عروه وهذه تكون فوق الكركوشة اثناء الربط وتتدلى الكركوشة الى الجهة اليسرى. ويقول العامي اثناء عملية الزنار هذه الكلمات:
(هميانه اترس, بترين طابى, بترين كطري) اي ارسم الزنار بطهارتين وعقدتين.

التاج – التاغه للكاهن فقط وهي حلقة من الحرير الابيض او القطن.

حلقة ذهب – شوم ياور للكاهن فقط تلبس في خنصر اليد اليمنى مكتوب عليها "شوم ياور زيوا" (الروح العظمى).
كذلك يحمل الكاهن عصا من الزيتون او الصفصاف. فبينما تكون "الرسته" للنور فالعصا وتدعى "مركنة" ترتبط عادة بالماء ويقال عنها (عصا الماء الحي). وتدفن مع الكاهن عند موته.

التعميد

يطلق الصابئة على اول تعمييد للفرد الصابئ اسم تعمييد "زهريثه", وهو التعميد الذي يدخل ذلك الفرد ضمن مجموعة "المندائين الصابئين" وبدونه يبقى الفرد معلقا.

ويجرى التعمييد الاول بعد اليوم الثلاثين من عمر الطفل في يوم الاحد بمساعدة حلالي (فرد من العامة ذو طهارة طقسية معينة) ويقوم هذا الرجل بدور الاب للطفل. يبدأ الكاهن بتعميده اولا ويتلو الكاهن الدعاء اليومي لطلب الرحمة باسم الطفل وفي نهاية الدعاء يلبس الطفل الرسته, وياخذ الاب الطفل ويطلب الاذن من الماء حسب الصيغة المعتادة ثم يدخل الى الماء, ويغمس جسم الطفل في الماء ثلاث مرات ويرش الكاهن الماء فوق رأسه. ويعطى الطفل ثلاث رشفات من الماء ويمسح جبينه بالماء ثلاث مرات, وبعدها يخرج الاب والطفل من الماء. وينطق الاب الدعوات "لكم الصحة والطهارة ايها الملائكة وايها الناس ولكم المياه الجارية والانهار وجميع ما في عالم النور".

اما الانواع الاخرى من التعمييد فتتم في مناسبات الاعياد السنوية, وعيد الخليقة المسمى "بنجه" وكذلك قبل الشروع بتطبيق مراسيم دينية مختلفة. وليس التعميد مقتصرا على الاشخاص بل ايضا يتم تعميد الاواني والادوات التي تستعمل لتحضير الطعام وأية حاجات اخرى.

نرى ان المندائيين يتعمدون عدة مرات على خلاف الدين المسيحي حيث يكون
التعمييد مرة واحدة بحياة الشخص فقط.

شعائر النحر – الذباحة

ان الحلال من الطعام هو كل نبات لة بذر. لحم الأغنام. انواع الطيور, كالدجاج والبط والوز وغيرها. وكذلك الاسماك, ويحرم اكل الغراب والزاغ والزركي وكذلك لحم الجمل والحصان والخنزير والكلب والفار واالارنب والقط. ويعتبرون ذبح الجاموس أو البقر من الجرائم الكبرى ولاتوجد اية اهمية دينية للبقرة. وتناول اللحم لدى الصابئة قليل عمليا. والاتجاة بخصوص عملية النحر اعتذاري مشوب بالندم, وحسب اعتقادهم من الخطيئة أن تنحر حتى اذا كان ذلك حسب طقوس النحر المعتادة . ويجوز النحر في جميع ايام السنة ماعدا أيام الصوم عن اكل اللحم (المبطلات). ويوصى بالنحر في أول كل شهر وفي المناسبات الاخرى كالأعياد والاعراس والمأتم وغيرها.

وتراعي الاموراالتالية عند القيام بنحر الحيوان.

1. تطهير الحيوان المراد نحرة بالماء, والتأكد من نظافته وسلامته البدنية ولايمكن ذبح الحيوان الناقص الخلقة.
2. تطهير السكين بتسخينها وغسلها بالماء, وتكون عادة من الحديد وبدون ممسك خشبي, يستعاض عنه بقطعة من غصن التوت او الغرب.
3. يرتدي القائم بالنحر ملابس دينية خاصة "الرسته", ويكون شخصا صحيح البدن.
4. ضرورة وجود شخص ثاني يشهد بصحة قيام الناحر باصول النحر وبموجب الاصول الدينية ورغبة منه في توفير طعام للناس.
5. يكون الناحر جالسا والشاهد واقفا.
6. تبدأ المراسيم بقراءة الرهمي أي الدعاء التمهيدي وتدقيق الملابس الدينية قطعة قطعة.
7. تتلي صيغة الذبح المرافقة لها وهي:

بسم الحي ربي العليم وباسم
ملائكته النورانيين, نحرا
زكيا يهب قوة وعافية لكل
الذين يأكلون منه واسم الله
العليم مذكور عليك.

بعد الانتهاء من عملية نحر الحيوان يقوم الناحر بغسل يديه وذكر اسم الله تعالى والتحلل من خطيئة الذبح وهو يتلي الدعاء التالي:

باسم الحي ربي العليم ذبحت
بالحديد وحللت يدي بالماء
انا الخاطئ والهي الغافر
قوني واغفر خطاياي وحوبائي
وزلاتي وذنوبي ومساوئي
انا فلان بن فلانة, اسم الله
العليم مذكور علي.

شعائر الزواج

الدين الصابئي يشجع الزواج ويعتبر الاعزب مذنبا تجاه دينه في الدنيا والآخرة, وحسب قول احد الكهنة لو لم تخلق المـرأة لما كـان هناك شمس ولا قمر ولا زراعة ولا ماء.

ان تعدد الزوجات عادة مايكون استثناء لضرورة الخلفة, ويفضل الصابئة الزواج بالواحدة. والمقاييس الاخلاقيـة عندهـم صلبـة. ولا يعترف الدين بالطلاق بل يكون الافتراق هو الحل. ويسمح بزواج الاقارب مثل ابناء العم وابناء الخالات. وليس هنـاك الحـاح على الفتاة اذا ما رات في الزيجة المطلوبة شيئا لا ترغب نفسها فيه. كما لا يوجد حدود للمهر وانما يعتمد على رضا الطرفين. ويتـم عقـد الزواج في يوم الاحد.

وتجتاز الفتاة اختبارا لتحديد عذريتها التي يوليها الصابئة اهتماما كبيرا والتي تحدد بموجبهـا نـوع الطقـوس, ومرتبـه الكـاهن لاجـراء مراسيم الزواج.

وتسال العروس عادة وهي في مكانها من قبل احد الكهان, وامام الشهود لثلاثـة مـرات مـااذا كـانت راغبـة بـالزواج مـن الرجـل, ويسأل العريس مرتان عن رغبته بالزواج بالفتاة.

وخلال قراءة الادعية واجراء المراسيم, تكسر مشربتان فخاريتان رمزا لكسر الشر والباطل, ويؤدي الزوج قسم الأخـلاص والامانـة (كشطا ياقرا) ويقول فيه:

> هذا عهد قطعته على نفسي امام الشهود باني سأأخذ
> فلانة بنت فلانة زوجة شرعية لي, يشهد الله الحي العظيم
> ويشهد رسله وملائكته الاثيريون ويشهد هؤلاء الكهنة
> والمندائيون, كلهم شهودي باني لن احيد عن عهدي وميثاقي,
> ولن اخون زوجتي أو اغشها وسوف اوليها رعايتي واسالمها
> بالحق وافي بعهودي التي ربطتني بها أمام اللة تعالي.

اما القسم الذي تؤديه الفتاة فيكون بعد ان يناولها الكاهن قطعة الرغيف الذي اكل منه الزوج ويطلب منها أن تقسم انها سوف لاتأكل إلا منه. فتفعل وتكون بذلك قد اعطت وعدا بانها تشاركة الحياة هو وحده.

شعائر الموت

يعتقد الصابئون بان الجسد هو وعاء النفس, وان نفس الانسان نسمة من ذات الله تعالي, وانها لابد عائدة اليه ومتحدة به بعد الموت, لذلك نجدهم يحرصون على طهارة الجسد والنفس قبل الموت, وذلك بالمحافظة على جسم المريض وملابسه وكذلك وجوب حضور احد رجال الدين او احد المتدينين قبيل الوفاة بغية الاستماع الي كلماته الاخيرة والصلات علية قبل الموت. اما بعد الموت فانهم يقيمون الصلوات ويقدمون طعام الغفران في اليوم الاول والثالث والسابع ثم الثلاثون واليوم الخامس والاربعون.

وتقدم الصدقات وتقام الصلوات في ايام الاعياد والمناسبات الدينية طلبا للرحمة ولراحة نفس الميت من لدن الله تعالى. وهذه بعض الاقوال:

لاتبكوا موتاكم, ولا تنهبوا
اموالهم وابلهم, واطلبوا لهم
الصحة, واقرأوا من اجلهم
الصلوات والادعية والكتب
والاسفار طالبين أن تغمرهم
الرحمة الالهية.

التقويم المندائي

تقسم السنة لدى الصابئين الي اثني عشر شهرا ولكل شهر ثلاثون يوما, ويضيفون خمسة ايام كبيسة تسمي (بروانايا) أو البنجة قبل الشهر التاسع, فيكون طول السنة عندهم ثلاثمائة وخمسة وستون يوما, وتنقص سنتهم لربع يوم عن السنة الشمسية (الميلادية), وتبعا لهذا الفرق نجد ان اسماء الاشهر والاعياد والمناسبات لديهم لم تعد في اماكنها من فصول السنة, التي عينت لها في الأصل. واستمر هذا الفرق, وتراكمت الايام, حتى غدا عيد راس العيد السنة الكبير وهو عيد التكريس يقع في اواخر تموز حاليا, في حين ان موقعه الاصلي كان في اول شباط. والصابئون يحسبون بدء الاربع وعشرون ساعة للنهار والليل, من الفجر اي ان يوم الثلاثاء مثلا تتبعها ليلة الثلاثاء. وهذا ينطبق على تقديمهم للنور على الظلام مع تلازمهما فالنهار يسبق الليل والنور يسبق الظلام.

ومن الاعياد المهمة:
عيد راس السنة (التكريس) او العيد الكبير, وهو ذكرى هبة الله تعالى "الحياة". ويقولون ان الملائكة الاثيرين قد صعدوا بهذه المناسبة للشكران. ولكن الروح الخبيثة او الشيطان لم يصعد بل بقى لافساد حياة الانسان, ومن اجل ذلك يفضل الصابئة الاجتماع في بيوتهم وتكريس اوقاتهم للعباده والدعاء حتى يتقرر مصير الانسان بتغلب قوى الخير وانتصارها. وتكون مدة التكريس ستا وثلاثون ساعة يخرجون بعدها ويقيمون شعائر العيد في اليوم الاخير من السنة المنتهية اي نهاية كانون الثاني.

العيد الصغير_ وهو عيد الازهار وموعده الاصلي الثامن عشر من ايار (مايس) ويطلق عليه هبة الله الصغرى, وهو ذكرى عودة الملاك الرسول جبرئيل (هيبل زيوا) الى السماء بعد نزوله للارض مبشرا بانتشار النور واندحار الظلام.

عيد البنجة – او عيد الخمسة ايام ويسمى عيد الخليقة (بروانيا), وهي ذكرى الايام التي بلغ بها الخلق تمامه. وتدعى هذه الايام ايام الذكرى (ذخرانا متقريا) وهي ايام مضيئة لانها تمثل فجر الحياة المكتمل, ويقع في نهاية الشهر الثامن, ويقام فيه التعميد والصلوات وتقديم الطيبات على ارواح الموتى.

عيد التعميد – (دهوا اد مانا) وهو ذكرى تعميد الاباء الصالحين القدامى, كشيت وانوش وسام ويحيى يوحنا عليهم السلام. ويقع هذا العيد في نهاية الشهر العاشر.

ان دراسة دين الصابئين مهمة جدا للبحث في العقائد الدينية الاخرى, فهي مهمة حيث المكان والزمان والموضوع, لانها قديمة العلاقة بكل مكان تتعلق به مسيرة الاديان الاخرى, ثم ان لغتها المقدسة تشير الي زمان متوسط بين اللغات القديمة المهجورة واللغة السريانية الحديثة, كما انها ترينا ملتقي التوحيدالقديم والوثنية القديمة.

INTRODUCTION

The first Mandaean book which came into my hands was a small volume of two hundred and thirty-eight pages in a poor handwriting. It was presented to me by an old Mandaean silversmith a year or two after the first world war. This volume inspired me with curiosity, and later, when I had read Lidzbarski's translations and had studied Nöldeke's Mandäische Grammatik, I found that it contained prayers for the minor ablutions, the daily office (the 'niania) and the masiqta prayers.

An early visit to 'Amarah resulted in the acquisition of a damaged and imperfect copy of the entire codex, I mean prayers considered canonical and still used by priests. A head priest (a ganzibra) copied into it some of the missing pages, and to these I added others when I had had access to other MSS. Complete copies of the collection are hard to come by, for they are in constant use.

It was not until many years later, in the spring of 1954, that I persuaded the owner of a prayerbook, himself a ganzibra, to give me his in exchange for a money gift, for sacred manuscripts are never bought. This codex, No. 53 of my collection, is in a good hand and from it very little was missing. That little I was able to supplement from D.C. 3 and other fragments of the liturgical prayers that I had acquired or seen. It is this manuscript which is photographed and reproduced for the present volume, and into it, regardless of desecration, I have pasted numbering to correspond with the numbers in the translation, following throughout the arrangement of the prayers in the original.

Of the canonical prayers used for centuries by the priests fragments had reached Europe. In 1867 Euting transcribed the Qulasta (a word which means "collection") from manuscripts in Paris and London, and this provided Lidzbarski with the greater part of his Mandäische Liturgien published in Berlin in 1920. Whilst this volume contains all the baptism prayers and masiqta prayers, it represented only about a third of the complete book possessed by Mandaean priests. Important sections, such as the Blessed Oblation prayers and the Coronation prayers are missing.

In presenting the full version I ventured to re-translate into English, and sometimes to differ from the translations made by Lidzbarski. His was a brilliant and scholarly achievement. However, the possession and study of a number of texts unknown to him and, above all, a personal knowledge of Mandaean rites as I have seen them performed and explained by celebrants, elucidate some obscurities although, indeed, far too many still exist, for the language used by gnostics is purposely archaic, symbolic and intended to mystify. Translation often limps when forced into literal rendering of obscure passages. I have been helped by the perusal of ritual texts. These, forbidden to the Mandaean layman, contain traditional teaching about the symbolism and true meaning of the ancient rites during which prayers are recited.

That an ancient gnostic sect should have survived into our time is remarkable: that so many of their writings, their magical texts, their secret doctrine in the ritual scrolls and their liturgical literature has been preserved, is little short of a miracle.

The sect is dying out rapidly: priests are few and old and the numbers of the faithful dwindle year by year. I feel it a privilege to have been brought so nearly into contact with a religion which may before long become extinct.

THE CANONICAL PRAYERBOOK OF THE MANDAEANS

My Lord be praised!

In the name of the Great First Other-Worldly (lit. "strange") Life! From far-off [1] worlds of light that are above all works may there be healing, victory, soundness, speech and a hearing, joy of heart and forgiving of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš through the strength of Yawar-Ziwa and Simat-Hiia!

I

In the name of the Life and in the name of Knowledge-of-Life (Manda-ḏ-Hiia) and in the name of that Primal Being who was Eldest and preceded water, radiance, light and glory, the Being who cried with His voice and uttered words. By means of His voice and His words Vines grew and came into being, and the First Life was established in its Abode.

And He spoke and said, "The First Life is anterior to the Second Life by six thousand myriad years and the Second Life anterior to the Third Life by six thousand myriad years and the Third Life more ancient than any 'uthra by six thousand myriad years. And any 'uthra is older than the whole earth and older than the Seven Lords of the House [2] by seven hundred and seventy thousand myriad years. There is that which is infinite.

At that time there was no solid earth and no inhabitants in the black waters. From them, from those black waters, Evil was formed and emerged, One from whom a thousand thousand mysteries proceeded and a myriad myriad planets with their own mysteries.

The Seven were wroth with me, were outraged and said, "The man who set out and came towards us hath not bound a circlet [3] about his head!" Then I turned my face toward my Creator who created me, the celestial Lord of Greatness, and I said to Him, "O my Creator who created me, (O) Lord of lofty Greatness! As I went (my ways) the Seven were wroth with me and said, 'The man who went and came towards us hath not bound a circlet about his head!'."

[1] Yatiria (masc. plu.) could refer either to "the Life" (plu.) or to "worlds". The meaning of yatiria ("many", "exceeding", "surpassing", "many", "far-off", "strange" etc.) is vague. Elsewhere in this book I vary the translation, which is uncertain.

[2] "the House" = the earthly world.

[3] In all later texts klila (lit. "circlet") and here probably "crown", means always "wreath".

Then that Lord of Lofty Greatness took a circlet of radiance, light and glory and set it on my head; He laid on me His hand of Truth [1]) and His great right hand of healings and said to me, "Upon thee shall rest something of the likeness of Sam-Gufna and of Sam-Gufaian and of Sam-Pira-Hiwara (Sam-the-White-Fruit?), whose radiance gleams and whose appearance beams, for they are holy and believing beings in the Place of Light and in the everlasting[2]) Abode."

And Manda-ḏ-Hiia, the valorous 'uthra, taught, revealed and said "Every Naṣoraean man who is righteous and believing, on arising from sleep, must take a white turban symbolising the great mystery of radiance, light and glory and shall recite this prayer thereon. And he shall twist it round his head and repeat the prayer secretly. It will be his praise in the house of the great Celestial Father. And all persons [3]) who behold him will be subdued in his presence: any persecutor, or one who inciteth to wrath, will stand before him in fear, terror and trembling, (their knees) knocking together. And for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, who have prayed this prayer and (these) devotions, there will be forgiving of sins and I shall be pure in all my words. And Life is victorious.

Illumined and illuminating is [4]) Zihrun, the great Mystery of radiance, light and glory, from whom Manda-ḏ-Hiia emanated and was divulged, and from whose very Self noble sons of the mighty and sublime Life proceeded. He created 'uthras at his right and his left and installed them in their own škintas. 1) And they gave out light and were effulgent in their own raiment and gloried in the knowledge that their Father had transplanted them from the House of Life. And it is incumbent 2) on a pupil to honour his Master like his parents, (so) the 'uthras rose on (their ?) thrones of radiance, light and glory and took off the crowns on their heads and placed them on the thrones of radiance, light and glory, saying, "A teacher is superior to parents! Rise, our Father, in praise, and lay on me Thy hand of truth and Thy great right hand of healings!" And Life be praised!

[1]) Kušṭa = Right, Troth, Truth, Sincerity, "a pact" "oath" etc. It is the name given to the rite of giving the hand in pact, and is personified. The hand-ceremony is linked with a kiss.

[2]) Taqna has a double meaning (a) lustrous, gleaming (b) enduring, durable, constant (particularly when in antithesis to baṭla in daura baṭla, "the abode that comes to nought".

[3]) Almia ("world") is also "persons".

[4]) Zhir umzahra also = "secure and assured". A play on words.

In the name of the Life!

Life created Yawar-Ziwa4), son of Light-of-Life, Hamgai-Ziwa son of Hamgagai-Ziwa. Illumined and illuminating is the Great Mystery of Radiance, Zihrun, a Crown of radiance, light and glory from whom a flow of living water streamed out to the škintas. For he is the revealer (lit. opener) of radiance and light and displayeth his treasure 5) which emanated from him, to eager 'uthras. All worlds adore and praise the mighty First Life in its Indwellings, and Life is victorious.

As the 'uthras stand in their škintas they adore and praise the Great Place in the Light which is eternal, and praise Manda-ḏ-Hiia and speak with him. When the 'uthras are standing in their škintas they adore and praise that Tarwan-Nhura. To what shall they

And Life be praised!

[This is the prayer of dedication of "Life created Yawar-Ziwa]

In the name of the Great Life!

Let there be light, let there be light! Let there be the light of the Great First Life! There shone forth wisdom, vigilance and praise of the First Mana [1]) which came from its place. He who twineth the wreath is Yufin-Yufafin: the bringer of the wreath is 'It-'Nṣibat-'utria. 'It-Yawar son of 'Nṣibat-'utria set on the wreath. He brought it and placed it upon the head of the implanted mana which was transplanted from guarded (?) [2]) manas. The wreath flames and the leaves of the wreath flame! Before the Mana there is light, behind the Mana glory, and at either side of the Mana radiance, brilliance and purity. And at the four corners of the House and the seven sides of the firmanent silence, bliss and glory prevail (lit. are found). And Life be praised!

A crown of ether-light shone forth dazzlingly from the House of Life. 'Uthras brought it from the House of Life and the mighty First Life established it in His *škinta*s. He who setteth it up shall be set up and he who uplifteth it shall be raised up into the world of light and he who establisheth it into the enduring Abode. Ye are established and uplifted to the place (in which) righteous (beings) are established.

And Life be praised.

These three prayers "In the name of that Primal Being", "Life created Yawar-Ziwa" and "Let there be light" read near thy crown [4]) and place it on thy head. And read "Manda created me" over the myrtle-wreath and put it on thy head above thy crown. And twine a myrtle-wreath for thy staff and hold it with thy crown. And when thou goest to the jordan read "Answer me, Father, answer me!]

In the name of the Great Life!

There shall be healing for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš! Strengthened and enhanced [1] is the great mystery of radiance, light and glory which resteth on the mouth of the Great Life! for from it came into being and was manifest [2] Knowledge-of-Life (Manda-ḏ-Hiia) who knew and interpreted the thoughts of the First Life, which are wondrous.

And Life be praised!

[Read this prayer and hold thy pandama [3] for thy baptism.]

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the mighty, first, sublime Life from worlds of light, the Ineffable above all works! for the ancient Radiance and for the Primal Light, for the Life which emanated from Life and for Truth (Kušṭa) that was pristine, from the beginning.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for Yukabar-Ziwa who was mighty in his radiance, and came in his light and his glory (as) messenger [4] to the first righteous elect (people). He crossed over the worlds and came and rent the firmament and revealed himself.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for Yuzaṭaq-Gnosis-of-Life, source of Life, who interpreteth silence and giveth hope and taketh [5] the prayers of spirits and souls of righteous and believing men, the virtuous and wellpleasing, into the Place of Light and into the Eternal Abode.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the Father of 'uthras, the Ancient, Lofty, Occult and Guarded, the Man who is high (yet) remaineth deep and hidden. He seeth and understandeth that which the worlds and generations do in the worlds of darkness.

Incense that is fragrant, incense, that is fragrant! yea for the dwelling of Life and the planting of 'uthras. Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the dwelling of four beings, sons of Perfection. Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea for the Dwelling of Abathur. Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the dwelling of Hibil, Šitil and Anuš [1]), sons of a living, brilliant, healthy and steadfast stock, beings not removed by sword, nor burnt by flames of fire, nor drowned in water-floods; whose (very) sandal-straps on their feet are unwetted by water. They sought and found, went to judgment and were vindicated, spoke and were heard. They are complete, lacking in nought; perfect are they and not imperfect. They came from a pure place and go to a pure place.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the lives of the men who were our ancestors, of righteous and believing men who rendered up (their souls) and departed from their bodies; and of those who yet live in their bodies. They testified and the door of Sin will be shut to them and the door of light open to them and they will be knit together in the union of Life, in which there is no separation. [2]) Pray ye for us from there, and we will pray from here for you! All fruits perish; all sweet odours vanish, (but) the perfume of Life is established for ever and unto world's end upon those who love His name of Truth.

Those souls who descend to the jordan and are baptised shall be without sins, trespasses, follies, mistakes and evil deeds: they will rise and behold the great Place of Light and the Eternal Abode. And praised be the Great Life in light. And Life is victorious.

[This saying, "Incense that is fragrant, yea for the First Life" recite over both incense and sandalwood and put them before thee on the jordan-bank in a new incense-pan. And make a fresh fire on the copper [3]) incense-pan - (these) are aids of all order which ye carried, put (lit. "performed") at the jordan. Then read the baptismal "We acknowledged" "Praises" "Thee, Life," "I sought to raise eyes" (Prayer 77) and "Raising eyes".]

Raising [1] my eyes and lifting up my countenance [2] toward the Place which is all portals of radiance, light, glory, beauty, repute and honour and to the Abode which is all beams of light; I adore, laud and praise the Mighty, Strange (other-worldly) Life, and the Second Life and the Third Life; and Yufin-Yufafin, Sam-Mana-Smira, and the Vine which is all Life and the great Tree which is all healings. I adore, laud and worship the precious and guarded Place, the secret and guarded manas and the Lord of Greatness from the Secret Place and, from the Hidden Place, the pihta [3], need(?) [4], truth and faith.

I worship, laud and praise Sam-Smira, the great radiancy of the First Life, son of the Great Primal Life who thought and was manifest, seeking His own: His shecinah resteth on waves of water. The assembly of souls which proceeded from Him, on the Last Day, when they leave their bodies, will rejoice in Him, will embrace Him and will rise up and behold the outer Ether and the everlasting Abode.

I worship, laud and praise the multitudinous Radiancies and great mighty Lights: I worship, laud and praise Piriawis, the great Jordan of the First Life which is all healings. I worship, laud and praise the pure Yušamin who abideth on treasures of the waters and upon mighty celestial wellsprings of light. I adore, laud and praise the life which proceeded from Life and the Truth which existed before, in the Beginning. I worship, laud and praise Yukabar-Ziwa, envoy of the Life and the Word of the first Elect Righteous ones. I worship, laud and praise the Ancient, Supernal, Occult and Guarded Abathur, who is high, hidden and guarded, whose throne is placed at the gate of the House of Life. He sitteth with the scales set before him, weighing deeds and (their) recompense. He seeth and discerneth that which the worlds and generations do. I worship, laud and praise Manda-ḏ-Hiia lord of healings, the being whom the Life summoned and bade him heal the congregation of souls, divesting the congregation of of souls of (their) darkness and clothing them with light; raising (them) and showing them that a great restoration of life exists, a place where the spirits and souls of our forefathers sit clothed in radiance and covered with light; showing the great restoration of life which is before them.

[1] The infinitive of a verb used for an action during its performance is an idiom found fairly often in Mandaean texts: hence here "to raise" = "raising".

[2] Read gilia parṣufai. Lidzbarski (M.L. p. 15) translated Wellen des Antlitzes. Gilia suggests rounded contours, hence "features". In translation it is best omitted.

[3] Pihta, "the opened", "The "opened up" is the sacramental bread.

[4] Ṣarka. The meaning is doubtful.

I worship, laud and praise Šilmai and Nidbai, the two delegates of Manda-ḏ-Hiia, who rule over the great jordan of Life, for they baptise with the great baptism of Light.

And Life is victorious.

10

On the day that the Jordan was bestowed upon Sam-Smir, the great pure radiance[1]) of the First Life which flowed forth[2]) from Him, Bihram and Ram-Rba-Hiia went with him [3]) (and?) four hundred and forty-four thousand myriads of 'uthras, sons of light, who descended to the jordan. He baptised them and they rose to the bank. He raised them up and conferred upon them some of the glory and some of the greatness which was (conferred) on himself.

I have worshipped and praised that Yawar-Ziwa whose škinta is situate in the world of Outer Ether and in the Enduring Abode. I have worshipped and praised the seven holy and guarded mauas which were transplanted from it. I sought in prayer the First Life, and, in the presence of the mighty sublime Life, discovered that which offendeth in myself, (in me), Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš and about what which causeth my friends to offend, and my friends' friends and the friends of the great Family of Life.

[1]) "The great pure radiance" must refer, not to Sam-Smir, but to the Jordan,

[2]) The verb NGD as Lidzbarski comments, (M.L. p. 18, n.1) is usually connected with water or with the drabša (light or banner. The mss. vary, D.C. 53 ngad, D.C. 3 ngid: M.L. has 'tingid.

[3]) The first part of the hymn is obscure. Were it "aus Bihram" as Lidzbarski translates, it would be minḫ mn Bihram, moreover, the word ma before "four hundred" is meaningless. The baptist is Sam-Ziwa, although one would expect Bihram-Rba to be the officiating baptist. The formula at baptism is "Thou art immersed (baptised) with the baptism of Bihram-Rba". The names of Bihram and Ram are coupled in Prayer 25.

And Life is victorious.

[Pray these three prayers, " Raising eyes", "The day that the Jordan was bestowed" and "I have worshipped and praised that Yawar-Ziwa" on the jordan-bank after "I sought to raise eyes". They are the helpers (aids to) baptism.]

12

I am Yur son of Barit (I shone forth). In great effulgence the radiance glowed (with heat?). The *tanna*1) dissolved and a škinta came into being, a škinta came into existence and was established in the House of Life.

And Life is victorious

[Read this prayer and grasp thy kanzala (stole). 2). It is the opening prayer for the jordan. Then recite "I went to the jordan"].

13

I went to the jordan, but not I alone, (for) Šilmai and Nidbai, my helpers, went with me to the jordan; Hibil and Šitil and Anuš went with me to the jordan - they who baptise with the great baptism of Life. Piriawis-Ziwa and Piriafil-Malaka give free movement3) to the limbs of my body!

I go down before these souls whom the Life delivereth and saveth, and protecteth these souls from all that is evil and from those who give nothing, but take away; and from those who lend nothing and

1) This very obscure prayer does little to elucidate the meaning of the word tana (Tanna ?) but here, and in other passages, it might mean vapour here or a matrix. Tannas are often personified, as in prayer No. 305, and mentioned with niṭufiata ("Drops"). Lidzbarski always left the word untranslated, and so must I!

2) The kanzala, a long strip of white material, is used to loop round the staff when the baptist goes into the river and sticks the end of his staff in the river mud. The loop prevents the staff from floating away, and frees both the baptist's hands.

3) D.C. 53 pralia hindamia, D.C. 3 pralia handamia, M.L. prulia handamia. See also p. 17. The verb PRA (cf. פרע "to break through", "to loosen") also means "cause to move or to flow". (See Pet. v. 17: 20; D.C. 36: no. 174 etc.) when used for the command to clear channels to the baptismal pool so that water may flow through it without obstruction.

Their hands fell (powerless) on their knees; their eyes were blinded and unable to see and their ears became deaf and unable to hear. And Life is victorious!

[Recite until thou reachest (the words) "Piriafil, loosen the limbs" (etc.). And descend (into the water) up to a fourth of thy thighs. If thou art baptising a single soul, say "my body, and I go down before this the soul of N."

If there are several souls, recite as written (above), and at the place where it said "secure, seal and guard" say "secure, seal and guard this soul of N. and establish it" and then recite thy saying over the staff.]

In the names of Yusmir the First Vine, from whom Yawar took a staff of water and went to the bank of the jordan, covered, as it were, with radiance and clothed in light. Over it he pronounced secret sayings - these mystic names: "In the name of Yusmir-Yusamir, and of Sam-Mana-Smira; in the name of Hauran-Hauraran by which the first Yawar raised up 'uthras, flourishing Vines of life, in the jordan. By it (by its power) Hibil raiseth up living souls in the jordan, those worthy of the great Place of Light and of the Everlasting Abode. By it they will be established and raised up in the House of the Mighty Life. It will raise these souls who go down to the jordan and are baptised: they will behold the Great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.

[This saying is for the staff. Recite it over the olivewood staff and stick it into the jordan (-bed), then recite the baptism(al prayers.)]

I am secured and sealed, I, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, and these souls who are descending to the jordan and will be sealed by the seal of the Mighty Sublime Life, and by the great MA [4]) and the great YA and the great BAZ and by the great AZIZ and by the great AS and by the great ASIN and by the sea (of?) AS. Bound are (Magian) priests [5]), slaughterers [6]), priests who cut up victims,[7]) scorners, those who make evil signs and the seven mysteries which are in the sea. Every demon (exorcised) by name, every evil spirit by his appelation, every amulet-spirit and all idol-demons who raise their heads and show their countenances, lifting themselves in pride against the Sublime Being and directing their evil Eye [8]) towards these souls who are going to the jordan, shall be struck down and smitten by Yaha-Yaha and by Zha-Zha and by angels which were sent and come against them. Flee in fear before them! and before the glory which is mighty upon them. Depart in fear and avaunt! Seven walls of iron have been set around me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, with which Haiašum, the first Kušṭa, surrounded himself.

I am a perfected gem [9]): into the midst of the worlds and ages am I cast down. I am an iron club, a great rocky crag. Any demon that dasheth himself against me will be shattered and if I strike at him he will be dashed to pieces. Any demon which reareth its head, any amulet-imp which setteth its countenance [10]) against these souls in malice, overlooking them, will be thrashed and struck [1]) by 'Usfar-Manharbiel-'Staqlus [2]), the little child who dwelleth upon pure springs of light, (yea) beaten with the mace of water by which Fire was beaten out and extinguished; (and) by the strength of Mān the Healer and by the strength of elect righteous (men).

Avaunt! flee in fear all (ye) evil, restricting, wrathful spirits! Flee, begone, be vanquished and brought to nought before the glory and light of Manda-ḏ-Hiia! Piriawis-Ziwa and Piriafil-Malaka have set moving [3]) the limbs of my body: I descend (to the jordan) before these stedfast, flourishing souls of the living [4]). Šilmai and Nidbai, fly, approach, arrive! Bear ye witness to these souls who are going down to the jordan to be baptised. Ye four 'uthras, sons of light, Rhum-Hai, 'In-Hai, Šum-Hai and Zamar-Hai, be ye my witnesses on the great day of departure (from the body). Great Jordan of Life, I laud thee and adjure thee by 'Uṣar-Nhura (Treasure-of-Light), the great solace and support of life, that thou givest no room to evil beings (who are) against these souls who go down into thee. Healing shall be theirs in the name of the Sublime (Strange) Life from worlds (of light). May Life be established in Its indwellings, and Life is victorious.

18

In the name of the Life!

Piriawis, the great jordan of the First Life, which is all healings [5]), is afire like the glory flaming in the Tanna [6]). When Life was ardent[1]) and life burst forth in the great glory which flameth therein, Life arose and founded its škinta above the Tanna.

[1]) Like Lidzbarski, I suggest that the verb should be Ethpeel.

[2]) 'usfar in D.C. 3 and D.C. 53 (M.L. p. 24:2 'sfar). As 'usfar occurs in D.C. 21 with the seeming meaning of a cutting instrument, I take it here to be part of the name of a spirit.

[3]) See p. 9, n. 3.

[4]) ḏ-hiia, not here "of the Life", but as translated.

[5]) Lit. "healings": plural to agree with hiia.

[6]) The proximity of 'qad to yaqid twice over justifies the translation. It is tempting, however, to think of the Syriac and ܥܩܕ Arabic عقد "bind together", "materialise", "determine." The obscure language which priests no longer understand, suggests the spontaneous emergence of life from a fiery matrix. For Tanna, a word of doubtful meaning, see p. 9, n. 1.

The radiance waxed ardent, the Tanna dissolved. They opened the waters and Life was established by its own waters[2]). Yur (brilliant light) established Yur: Life was increased in power by its own radiance and by the great glory which flamed in It.

And in the waters Life established living (creatures); above the the waters fruit appeared[3]) and a škinta was founded.

Thee do I invoke, great Jordan of Life, by (in the name of) Treasure-of-Light, the great support and solace of the Life, and by pure Yušamin[4]) who dwelleth upon the treasures of the waters and upon wellsprings of light; by Yusmir, the being who united with water; by Adatan and Yadatan who sit at the Gate of Life and seek spirits and souls in the Place of Light; by Šilmai and Nidbai who bear witness before the Great Life. Behold these souls who quit destruction for construction, (go) from error to truth and (leave) the abode of fear of the deity of the House (i.e. world) for the great Place of Light and the everlasting Abode!

If he to whom I speak listeneth and he to whom I call is established (in the faith) and is knit into the communion of Life and built into the great fabric of Reality[5]), I will take his hand and be his saviour and guide to the great Place of Light and to the Everlasting Abode. If I speak to him and he hearkeneth not and call to him and he is not uplifted, he will be put to the question (tortured). (But) I shall not be put to the question, because of the Word of Truth (Kušṭa) and its uplifting by Yukabar. And Life is steadfast in its Dwellings, and Life is victorious.

[Then cry] "In the name of Life! Let every man whose strength enableth him and who loveth his soul, come and go down to the jordan and be baptised and receive the Pure Sign; put on robes of radiant light and set a fresh wreath on his head".[Here baptise the souls. Thou hast been baptised with the baptism of the great Bihram, son of the mighty (life). Thy baptism will protect thee and will be efficacious. The name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia are pronounced upon thee!"

And give them three palmfuls of water to drink and say to them "Drink! and be healed and be strengthened! The name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia have been pronounced upon thee". Recite "Manda created me" over the myrtle-wreaths and place them upon their heads. [4]) When placing thy hand on their heads recite these secret names: "The name of the great mystic First Wellspring [5]) be pronounced on thee; the name of the great First Palmtree [6]) be pronounced on thee; the name of the great Šišlam be pronounced on thee; the name of the great 'Zlat be pronounced on thee; the name of the great Yawar be pronounced on thee; the name of Simat-Hiia be pronounced on thee; the name of the great Yukabar be pronounced on thee; the name of the Mana and its Counterpart be pronounced on thee; the name of the Great Mystery and the secret sayings be pronounced on thee; the name of the great first Shaq-Ziwa be pronounced upon thee; the name of Sam-Ziwa-Dakia, the Eldest, Beloved, great First (Being) be pronounced on thee; the name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia be pronounced on thee."

Then reach them (perform with them the rite of) kušṭa [7]). And he shall go up before thee (on to the bank). Then dip thy phial, fill it with water and give it to whoever standeth on the bank. Then dip thy bowl and recite the hymn "At the waterhead I went forth" and "Blessed art thou, Outer Door", and recite the dedicatory prayer for the jordan.

[3]) The signing consists of drawing the wet forefinger of the right hand across the forehead, horizontally, from right to left.

[4]) This should be "the myrtle-wreath upon his head" etc. as only one person at a time stands in the baptismal pool with the baptist.

[5]) Ritual mss. explain the "Wellspring" as the female or "Mother" aspect of creative power.

[6]) The Sindirka, "palmtree" symbolises the male or "Father" aspect of creative power.

[7]) See p. 2, n. 1.

When thou recitest "Bound is the sea", "I am a perfected gem", "Avaunt, flee in fear", "Piriawis" and all as it is written, speak as written if there are two, three or many souls; but if only one soul say "the soul of N. who descended to the jordan and was baptised and received the pure sign." (And pay close attention to thy baptism.)

Manda created me, 'uthras set me up, radiance clothed me and light covered me: Haza-zban [1] set the wreath on my head, mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, and on these souls who descend to the jordan and are baptised. Its tendrils shine and its perfume is sweet, for they (the tendrils) wither not nor do they come apart, and its leaves do not fall off.

And Life be praised!

[This is the set prayer for the baptism wreath. Recite it over the myrtle-wreath and place it on the heads of the souls that thou baptisest [2]].

Blessed art thou, Outer Door, and blessed art thou, Everlasting Abode! Blessed are ye, great beings of radiance [3] and mighty and powerful beings of light. Blessed, lauded and honoured be the 'uthras which dwell on the jordan! Jordan! be gentle towards these souls which have descended into thee! Let healing be theirs by virtue of the Word of Truth and its uplifting by Yukabar-Ziwa.

[This is the dedicatory prayer of the jordan. When thou hast extolled the jordan, if thou baptisest several souls recite as it is written; if only one soul, say "The soul of N. who hath descended into thee" and rise to the bank and recite "I rose up from the Jordan" [4].]

[1] In D.C. 53 written haza zban, not as a single word. See ML p. 29 n. 2.

[2] Again, the singular would be better. Before the person baptised leaves the water, the baptist pushes a myrtle-wreath beneath the turban of the candidate.

[3] Lit. "radiances" and "lights". They are personified here.

[4] Not in D.C. 53.

In the name of the Life!
I rose up from the jordan
And I met a group of souls,
A group [1] of souls I met,
Who surrounded our father Šitil [2]
Saying to him "By thy life, our father Šitil,
Go with us to the Jordan."!
"If I go with you to the jordan
Who will be your witness?"
"Lo, Sun hath risen above us;
He will be our witness!"
"It is not he whom I seek,
Not he whom my soul desireth.
The sun of which ye spake,
Riseth early, setteth at dusk.
The sun of which ye spake, the sun
Is vanity and cometh to an end.
Sun cometh to an end and becometh vanity
And his worshippers come to an end and are vanity."

In the name of the Life!

Thou wast established, First Life; thou wast in existence before all things. Before Thee no being existed.

For [1] He hath fulfilled Himself and hath issued in His strength and His steadfastness and in the radiance and strength which His Father hath bestowed upon Him. For we have not changed that which thou hast commanded us. Thou enlargest our steps and liftest our eyes heavenwards. Thou descendest and givest us dwellings by springs of Life. Thou pourest into us and fillest us with thy wisdom, thy doctrine and thy goodness. Thou showest us the way by which thou camest from the House of Life and we will walk therein with the gait of righteous and believing men, so causing our spirits and souls to dwell in the dwellings of Life, the place where the spirits of our fathers abide, clothed in radiance and covered with light, rejoicing, laughing, dancing, exulting about the glorious splendour resting (upon them [2]) [?]

Yea, Life! lo, Life! Life hath triumphed over this world
And Life is victorious.

[This is a baptism hymn. Set up (recite?) the hymns, and where it says "souls" recite as written, but if it is a single soul say "amongst manas of light, the soul of N. son of N. who went down to the jordan and was baptised and received the Pure Sign" and chant "What did thy Father do for thee, Soul" and recite the antiphonal hymn "How lovely are plants which the Jordan (planted)" and "Rightly did my baptiser baptise me", "Šilmai baptised me with his baptism", "The jordan in which we were baptised", "I rejoice in my priests" and chant other hymns: "Truly do I say to you", "To you I cry, men who have received the Sign, and explain", and "A disciple, a new one, am I who have gone to the jordan-bank"

Then recite the "Blessed and praised" of Šum (Shem) son of Noah and at the place where it says "a wreath from the Vine Ruaz" (say) "will be set on the heads of these souls who have descended to the jordan, been baptised and received the pure sign and who were called, established and sealed by this baptism, and (on the heads of) our fathers, teachers, and brothers and sisters who have departed the body and those who are yet in the body". Should it be a single soul whom thou hast baptised, say "the soul of N. who went down to the jordan and was baptised" and finish.

And recite "Good is the good for the good" and end. And offer up the Petition and say the Rahmia[1] for the souls thou baptisest. Say "these souls who went down to the jordan and were baptised and received the pure sign." If it was a single soul, say "the soul of N. son of N. who went down to the jordan and received the pure sign."

And beware: from the beginning to this point recite all thy baptism(al prayers) with care, attention and knowledge. And again perform kušṭa with them[2] and say to them "Kušṭa make you whole my brother-'uthras! The communion of the living hath been performed[3] in the manner in which 'uthras perform it in their *škinta*s[4]. Fragrant is your perfume, my brother-'uthras, (for) within ye are full of radiance."

And they shall say "Seek and find, speak and be heard!" and kiss their hands [1]). If the souls be female or if the soul thou baptisest is one (woman), perform the kušṭa with them and say to them "Kušṭa heal thee and raise thee up. Thy kušṭa shall be thy witness and thine alms thy saviour. When they say "Seek and find, speak and be heard" and kiss their hands, then say to them "Your kušṭa shall be your witness and your alms shall be your saviour. Your prayer and praise will rise and obtain mercy for you. In the name of the Great Life; we have acted (according to) the goodness of the Great (Life). And we have arranged (all things?) according to Thy loving-kindness from beginning to end. We have called upon the great Jordan of Water of Life and upon the three hundred and sixty jordans in which Hibil-Ziwa was baptised [2])". And he (H-Z.) said "Warn them, deliver them, save them and protect those souls which went down to the jordan, were baptised and received the pure sign from adultery, theft, black magic, from going to temples and worship in temples and from eating temple-food. And eat not of that which was killed by lion or wolf, or of anything disgorged or (found) dead. But immerse yourselves and purify yourselves. Manda-ḏ-Hiia will be your helper, and your baptism will be efficacious." Then pray a prayer and Rahmia [3]) for thyself, and say "In the name of the Life! I worship the First Life and praise my lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia and that great Presence of Splendour which emanated from Itself". Then recite "The First Life be praised! Truth make you whole! Ye are established and raised up" and transfer thy staff to thy right arm and end (the prayer). Then return it to thy left arm and recite the "Blessed and praised be Life" of Šum son of Noah. And sit [4]) and recite "Good is good for the good" and bend thy knee, sit, and pour out [5]) at "forgiving of sins" (be there for) "our forefathers" (etc.) "and the souls of Mandaeans, priests, ganzivri, treasurers, chief men [6]) and ethnarchs" in the "forgiving of sins". Then rise to thy feet, take the pihta and mambuha and recite the eight pihta prayers for the pihta and the two mambuha prayers for the mambuha. Dip the pihta in the mambuha and recite "The Life spoke and Life opened" for thy pandama and unfasten it. Eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha and drink the rinsing-water [1] and take a second rinsing and recite "Life is fulfilled" and "The (Great) Life dwelleth on those who love Him" and cast in thine incense at (the words) "Radiance goeth up to its place" and at the place where it says "will forgive those that love his name of Truth" he shall say "those souls who went down to the jordan, were baptised and received the pure sign, and Life is victorious". Then throw (water) beneath thy staff, recite "Good is the good for the good" and make the Petition and repeat the Rahmia for thyself. Perform the kušṭa with the šganda [2] and when he goes down, recite "In radiance that is great am I immersed", slip aside thy pandama and honour thy crown [3].]

Radiance goeth up to its place and Light to the Everlasting Abode. On the day that Light ariseth, Darkness returns to its place. The Forgiver of sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes will remit them for those who love his name of Truth, and for those souls who went down to the jordan, were baptised and received the pure sign. Consuming fire will consume thee [4] and thy ministration will be (noted?) in the habitations. The fragrance of life riseth to the House of Life, and we (too) will rise up to the House of Life: we shall be with the victorious [5]. It is our support, and our confidence is in life in the Place of Light and in the Everlasting Abode. Life is established and set up in its indwellings, and Life is victorious over all works.

And Adam questioned, and spoke, "Through the power of Hibil-Ziwa have I attained my end!"[1])

Then Hibil-Ziwa arose, put on the seven vestments, and went to the jordan-bank. When Adam had placed the qauqa [2]) (and) fire before Hibil-Ziwa, Hibil-Ziwa twined a wreath for his staff and twined a wreath for Adam, then rose and went to the jordan and recited the prayer "Answer me, my father, answer me, for I have gone to the jordan in the strength of my father Yawar, and in the strength of Manda-ḏ-Hiia a wreath hath been set upon the 'uthras."

Then he arose and recited "In the name of that First Being" for his crown and set it on his head, then recited [3]) "Life created Yawar-Ziwa", "Let there be light" and Manda created me" for the myrtle-wreath and set it beside the crown.

And he held the end of his stole and recited "Strengthened and enhanced is the great mystery of radiance, light and glory" over his pandama, folded his pandama over his mouth and recited "Incense that is fragrant, yea, for the First Life" and cast incense on the fire. And he recited "We have acknowledged," "Praises", "Thee, Thyself", "I sought to lift mine eyes", "The day that the jordan was bestowed on Sam-Smir", "I have worshipped and praised that Yawar-Ziwa" and "I am Yur son of Barit; in great radiance". And he held his stole and recited "I went to the jordan, but not I alone" up to the place where it says "give free movement to the limbs of my body; I go down," and he went down into the jordan up to a fourth of his thighs. And he recited "In the name of Yusmir, the First Vine" over his staff, and at the place where it saith "covered with radiance and clothed in light" he cast the myrtle-wreath over the staff and "clothed" it with his stole [4]).

And he recited "Bound is the sea" and traced three circles [5]) thrice over in the jordan. And he recited "I am a perfected gem", and "Avaunt, flee in fear" and splashed the water in the jordan at his right, his left and in front of him and recited "Piriawis" as written. Then he chanted a hymn and said to him "Any man who hath strength thereto and who loveth his soul, let him come and go down to the jordan, be baptised, receive the pure sign, put on robes of radiant light and set a fresh wreath on his head."

[1]) Pthahil, who created Adam's body, was unable to give it life.

[2]) The qauqa (a small terracotta cube) is placed on the birihia. (See MMII, p. 106). See p. 6, n. 3.

[3]) In D.C.53 the narrative becomes directions to the priest in the imperative. I continue to use the narrative form.

[4]) The myrtle-wreath is slipped over the staff in the water and the knotted stole looped over the staff, which is pushed upright into the river-bed, in such a way that it cannot fall or float away.

[5]) Lit. "tracings", "drawings". The priest traces the circles about himself as he stands in the water, with the end of the staff.

And Adam descended into the jordan and submerged himself thrice behind him (Hibil-Ziwa), who took him by the right hand transferred him to his left, placed him between himself and his staff, dipped him thrice and signed him thrice in the jordan.

And he gave him three palmfuls of water to drink and recited "Manda created me" over the myrtle-wreath and set it upon his (Adam's) head and pronounced the secret names over him.

(Then) he took his hand in kušṭa over the staff and made him go up before him.

(Then) he took water from the jordan into his phial and recited the hymn "At the waterhead I went forth" and "Blessed art thou, Outer Door", and recited "I rose up from the jordan, and a group (of souls) I met". And he came up out of the jordan and completed it (the hymn). And he took up the oil and recited "We have acknowledged the name of Life", "Precious oil art thou" and "Thou wast established, First Life" over the oil. Then he signed him thrice and made passes over him thrice, and at each signing he laid his hand on his (Adam's) head and repeated those names which he had pronounced over him in the jordan.

And he performed kušṭa with him. (Then) he took the pihta and recited the eight prayers for the pihta over the pihta and the two prayers for the mambuha over the mambuha. And he gave him the pihta so that he should eat and gave him the mambuha that he might drink, and he drank the rinsing (water) [1]).

And he grasped his hand in kušṭa and seated him before him and recited the "sealing" prayers, "When a jordan of living water was bestowed upon Sam-Smir, the great Radiance of Life", "Bound and sealed", "By 'Uṣar-Hiia" and the greater (longer) "Bound and sealed" and laid his hand upon him and stood and recited "Ye are set up and raised up", "What did thy Father do for thee, Soul?", "How lovely are the plants which the jordan planted and raised up",

[1]) M.L. omits "and he drank the rinsing". It should be omitted.

"Rightly did my baptiser baptise me", "Šilmai baptised me with his baptism and Nidbai", "The jordan in which we were baptised will bear us witness", and "I rejoice in my priests and Naṣoraeans who hearken to my converse".

And he chanted the hymns "Truly do I say to you", "To you I cry and explain" and "A new disciple am I who hath come to the jordan bank".

And he read all the hymns and homilies unto their end and recited "Blessed and praised be Life" of Šum son of Noah and "Good is the good for the good". And he recited "In radiance that is great am I immersed" and loosed his kanzala (stole) and "honoured" his crown [1]).

And Life is victorious.]

[Then Hibil-Ziwa gave judgement and said "The Life hath anathematised and Manda-ḏ-Hiia hath cried out against and the Great First Word hath pronounced against any man, priest, who performed a baptism without his pandama. He shall be accursed by the Name (Vein) [2]) of the Great Wellspring: Šilmai and Nidbai the guardian 'uthras of the jordan will curse him and the Wellspring and Palmtree will curse him. Yukabar will take away his crown and his seal and hurl him back to his natural home, the Place of Darkness. Moreover, before any Naṣoraean who retains his pandama whilst performing a baptism, a vein of the Great Wellspring will heap up and all that he doeth will be confirmed. All mischances will avoid him and darkness will roll away from him. His vestments [3]) will be kept in our safekeeping. Whilst he is alive in his body the Seven will be powerless to loose fear against him and lofty strength will be sent to him.

When he departeth the body the clouds which precede 'uthras will come towards him and dread of purgatory-demons [4]) will be powerless over him (for) he will not pass through the Purgatories [4]).

And Abatur will clothe him in his glory and all the 'uthras will shed their light upon him.

And Life is victorious.

[1]) See p. 28 n. 3.

[2]) D.C. 3 and M.L. both have širiana for kiniana.

[3]) D.C.3 has "his head".

[4]) Mandaean literature, especially the Diwan Abatur, justifies this translation. The planetary watchhouses are places of purgation.

This is the limit [1] (end) of the baptism which came to this world, the (baptism) wherewith Hibil-Ziwa baptised Adam the first man and it was preserved in the ages for the elect righteous, for it was written down in the scroll of the Great Wellspring belonging to Ramuia son of 'Qaimat. And Bayan-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar wrote it here and distributed it amongst a hundred Naṣoraeans, (copying) it from his own scroll which he copied from the scroll of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat. [2]

It was written in the town of Ṭib and was placed with Haiuna daughter of Yahia, and Bainai son of Zakia.

Those who hold to it, (let them) expound it. (But) he who doth not establish it, let him keep away from it and not approach it.

And Life is victorious.]

Then said Yahia-Adam son of Sam-Saiwia, "When the scroll of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat found in the possession of Haiuna daughter of Yahia and Bainai son of Zakia came into my possesion [3] I put it together and arranged it as it was written originally, and removed nothing from it.

And Life is victorious.]

THE MASIQTA [4]

32

In the name of the Great Life may there be healing for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš!

Strengthened, enhanced was the great mystery of radiance, light and glory dwelling on the mouth of the First Life, for from It came forth Manda-ḏ-Hiia (Knowledge-of-Life). For he knew and interpreted the thoughts of the First Life and perceived that they are wondrous. [1]

[1] Lidzbarski translates Verordnung and gives the reason in footnote 1, M.L. p. 60.

[2] According to Yaqut Ṭib was in his time inhabited by Nabataeans who spoke Nabataean (i.e. Mandaic ?). According to the Haran Gawaita it was the first settlement of the Naṣoraeans when they migrated from Harran under the protection of the Parthian kings. In the same manuscript, as in many other colophons, Ramuia son of 'Qaimat is mentioned as a liturgist who collected scattered texts, edited them and distributed them in early Moslem times.

[3] Lit. "fell towards me" i.e. "fell into my hands".

[4] "The raising up" (i.e. spiritual resurrection or ceremony to aid the ascent of the soul).

And Life be praised!

[Recite this prayer and hold thy stole for the masiqta.]

33

In the name of the Life!

Water of Life [2] art thou! Thou art come from the Place which is life-giving and art poured forth from the House of Life.

(At thy) coming, Water-of-Life, from the House of Life, the good come and refresh themselves, (but) the wicked are discomfited and the children of (this) world abashed and say "Is there (not?) room for us in the Place of Light? For those that seek (ask) of it find, and those who speak of it are heard".

We have sought and found and we have spoken and been heard in thy presence, Manda-ḏ-Hiia, lord of healings. As water when poured out falleth on the earth, so (too) so doth evil fall abased before good. As the water falleth on the earth, so shall their sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes be loosed from those who love the name of Truth (kušṭa) and from the souls of this masiqta, and from (the souls of) our fathers, teachers, brothers and sisters who have departed the body, and those who (still) live in the body And say "Established is Life (or "the living") in Its (their) dwelling".

And Life is victorious.

[This is the mambuha prayer]

34

Hail [3] to the First Life before Whom none existed, the Sublime from worlds of light, the Ineffable which is above all works; to the Ancient Radiance and the Great Primal Light, the Life which emanated from Life and the Truth that was of old, from the beginning. Hail the ancient, lofty, esoteric and guarded father of 'uthras. Hail Yuzaṭaq, Gnosis of Life, Source of Life; He who unveileth the silence[1]), giveth hope and keepeth the prayers of the spirits and souls of righteous and believing men into the Place of Light. Hail to the life of sincere and believing men who have come to their end and departed the body, and hail to those who are still alive in the body. May the gate of sin be barred to them and the gate of light be open for them. May they be knit together in the communion of Life in which there is no separation.

[1] Or "noble" or "distinguished".

[2] Mia hiia could almost always be so translated in ritual mss. Lit. "living waters". In the material sense "living water" is flowing water.

[3] Hal here is best translated "hail". It is a salutation, a greeting. In Prayer 5 I translated it "yea for" (Lidzbarski M.L. ja für) because the incense is a tribute to the spirits named.

Pray ye from there for us and we will pray from here for you. All fruits wither: all sweet odours pass away, but not the fragrance of Gnosis of Life, which cometh not to an end nor passeth away for an age of ages and for world without end. May the souls of this masiqta rise up without sin, trespass, folly, stumbling and mistake unto the Place of Light and to the Enduring Abode.

And Life be praised!

[Read this ordinance for the incense and cast it on the fire. Then recite the prayers for the masiqta.]

35

In the name of the Life!

I sought to lift my eyes, shoulders and arms towards the Place which is all life, radiance and glory, the place where which is all life, radiance, light and glory; a place where they who seek of it find, those who speak of it are heard and to those who ask of it, it is given them, day by day and hour by hour. This hour I address to thee, my Lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia, a vital petition, large and not small, for this congregation of people[2]) who have bent their knees to the ground and stretched forth their hands to the intermediate and upper (worlds). They have forsaken images, pictures and idols of clay, gods (made) of blocks of wood[3]), and vain rites, and have testified to the name of the great, strange (sublime) Life. To them the gate of sin is closed and for them the gate of life is open. May our request, our prayer and our humble submission rise before the supreme Life which is above all works.

Before thee (in thy sight) all hands are thieving, all lips have lied. Water is in the jordan. Before thee (in thine eyes), Manda-ḏ-Hiia, no man is clean: we are slaves who are all sin, and thou a lord who art all mercy. When thou art with us, who shall conquer us and if thou justifiest us who will convict us? Judge us not after the fashion of earthly courts of law; despise us not for our follies and associate us not with the false rites practised by the worlds and generations.

[1]) See Prayer 8. Lit. "showeth forth silence".

[2]) Cf. ܟܢܘܫܬܗ "a body of people, congregation, company".

[3]) Cf. ܩܪܩܡܐ: plu. "tree-roots cast up by flood".

The worlds thrust hard at us, but we fell not. Backed by the Truth which is thine own, we have perfect confidence.

Establish life, and wilt thou not establish [1] human beings? Thou hast spoken to us in thy Word and hast commanded us with thy command "Ask on earth and I will supply you with heavenly fruit: ask from below, (from) reed [2], swamp and mud, and I will supply you from the lofty heavens. Make supplication with the fleshly right hand, and I will bring you (what ye asked) with the right hand of kušṭa. [3]

The first (generations) sought and found: let those that come after seek, and they will find. Seek and find for yourselves, for your friends, for your friends' friends and for those who love the great Family of Life. Your eyes shall not turn away from me unsatisfied." [4]

Thou art the father of all the 'uthras, the Support [5] which is all light, the Vine which is all Life and the great Tree which is all things. [6] For Thou knowest hearts, understandest minds and searchest out consciences (even) in the nethermost hells of darkness. Like a servant lying prostrate before Thee, our eyes are lifted to Thee, our lips give Thee praise and blessing seven hours of the day and the three watches of the night.

Those who seek of Him find, and to those who ask of Him it will be given. For to him that standeth at a closed door Thou wilt open the closed door. In the Place of Light Thou wilt wipe away and remove from us our sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes and wilt cast them into the hells of the earth and the nethermost limbos of darkness. Thou wilt raise us up as sinless and not as guilty, as virtuous and not as vicious before thee, Manda-ḏ-Hiia.

[1] The sentence is obscure. See M.L. p.66, n.2. The prefix mi shows it to be a question.

[2] Hurda not hurba. See M.L. p.66, n.3. The picture is of a swamp country, similar to that in which Mandaeans live today, the marshes of southern 'Iraq.

[3] Here kušṭa is the ritual act, see p. 2, n.1.

[4] Lit. "empty".

[5] 'Uṣṭuna, also "body", "corporation", "trunk", "pillar".

[6] D.C. 53 has mindia; D.C. 3 and M.L. mandia (a curious plural in classical Mandaic).

The good behold and are refreshed: the wicked are discomfited and the children of (this) world abashed. And they say "Is there no place for me[1]) in the Place of Light, since those who seek therefrom find, and ask thereof and it is given them?"

We beseech thee to let some of thy radiance, thy light and thy glory rest upon us. Thou art the Healer above all means of healing, a Raiser-up above (all) that raiseth up, a Radiance above all radiancies and a light above all lights. For thou openest doors of truth and revealest mysteries and wisdom and showest forth mighty deeds in Jerusalem. Thou confinest demons and devils and frightenest away the gods from their high places. Great is thy name and praised is thy name! Thou art the counterpart of the Life, for thou wast in existence before all. Thou art the Vine, for thou wast in the Ether above heaven and above the earth. When worlds came into being and creations were called forth. thou didst hold in thy grasp the worlds and generations. Thou hast laid down a road for sincere and believing men to the Place of Life. (Though) spirits and souls sit (here) as guilty, (yet) by thy name they shall rise as innocent, (thy name of) Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia. To support the hands of good people, thou wilt be (bring?) healing of life to the souls of this masiqta Life is established in its indwellings and Life is victorious.

[This prayer is good for all occasions: (it may be used) on occasion for the Rahmia (daily office), or for the masiqta, or for baptism and for all purificatory rites. For the masiqta, after thou hast recited over the pandama, "water of prayer" [2]) and the ordinance for the incense, pray "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "To Thee", "Lifting eyes" and "I sought to raise my eyes". And prepare the pihta, mambuha and klila (wreath) and set them out for the masiqta. And recite the ordnance for the oil, (placed) in something clean: in a glass or tin cup when washed and cleansed. And recite the masiqta.]

In the name of the Life!

I worship, laud and praise that great, secret, First Mana who abode for nine hundred and ninety-nine thousand myriads of years alone in his own Abode - for no Companion came to him; (none existed) save that great, secret, First Mana. For he came into existence therein and developed therein.

[1]) Read 'tlan as in M.L. D.C. 3, like D.C. 53 has 'tlun.

[2]) "Water of prayer" is water drawn from the jordan like mambuha, but that poured into the "inner phial" used for the commingling - the ritual addition of water to the hamra (wine).

Then I worship, laud and praise that great, occult, First Drop [1]) who emanated from Him. They existed, (but) She abode for four hundred and forty-four thousand myriads of years in Her own Abode, alone, for She had no consort

Then I worship, laud and praise Šar, that great occult first Vine, who was with them.

Then I worship, laud and praise Pirun, that great occult first Vine from whom there emanated eight hundred and eighty eight thousand myriads of 'uthras.

From Them and from those 'uthras proceeded one 'uthra, whose name is the Great Countenance [2]) of Glory who is (at once) less than his brethren and more venerable than his parents. Manda-ḏ-Hiia, the well-prepared 'uthra, divulged and revealed and said "Any Naṣoraean man who sitteth to recite "Established is the First Life" and breaketh bread [3]) will receive condemnation from the House of Life,"

And I am established, in the light of Life and Life is victorious.

37

I worship, laud and praise that Occult, great First Cloud of [4])

---

[1]) Niṭufta ניטופתא lit. "Drop". This curious appellation appears to designate the Female principle of Creation, the consort of the creator, or rather the receptive and productive side of creative deity. Because of its female character, the Niṭufta represents in certain texts the material side of the human spirit. For an analysis of her appearance in Mandaean texts see J.B. p. 227. Used in the plural niṭufiata = spirits of life of a productive (i.e. female) character.

[2]) Or, "Presence".

[3]) Pihta is the sacramental bread and the verbs PTA and PTH (or PHT) used in conjunction with it, describe the act of ritual breaking, of bread, and sometimes of the whole sacramental act of partaking of it. Mqaimatum (etc.) is repeated by a celebrant after making, baking and consuming his own pihta at the rite of preparation before baptism and again after the baptism and communion of the baptised. He usually makes and bakes three times, twice for himself and once for the person or persons baptised.

[4]) A Cloud is a spirit of life (female again, like a "Drop"). The word is used for a "divine consort", a "heavenly spouse". As priests are the earthly representatives of 'uthras and malkas, their wives are sometimes spoken of as "clouds" or "drops".

Life, with whom in secret, he [1] broke bread and gave thereof in secret to the Occult Life and to the Mighty First Life.

And Life is victorious.

38

I have worshipped and praised Yawar-Ziwa, who arose and praised that great mighty Mana at whose right and left hand there stand four hundred and forty-four thousand myriads of 'uthras. A thousand myriads of 'uthras, sons of light, worship and laud the rays of his Radiance.

He arose and broke bread in secret and gave thereof to the sons of men and establisheth his Abode in secret.

And Life is victorious.

39

I worship, laud and praise that secret saying which Yawar pronounced secretly. He made it known, and divulged and established a Life-ray therein. Radiance and light came and dwelt at his right and glory and resplendence dwelt at his left. And the 'uthras entreated the Life that they might behold the Likeness of Yawar-Ziwa in their own [2] glory.

Yawar-Ziwa the vigilant 'uthra divulged and revealed and said "Sixty-four sins daily will be forgiven a Naṣoraean man who repeats this secret saying, in the Great Place of Life and the Lasting Abode".

And Life is praised.

40

I have worshipped and praised 'Uṣar, who broke bread for the hidden first 'uthras, so that they (find) rest in their hearts.

The holy [3] 'uthras stood in their dwellings [4] and praise the mighty Life in its Dwelling, adorable in Its radiance and wondrous in Its light.

[1] Lidzbarski translates for pta pihta "das Pihta ..schuf" throughout these hymns. It may refer to the sacramental "breaking of bread" see p. 37, n. 3.

[2] I.e. in the glory of Yawar-Ziwa and his Dmuta (Likeness or Counterpart)? The plural seems unjustified by the context.

[3] Kasia plu. Kasiia, "mystic", "occult" can sometimes be better rendered by the word "holy".

[4] The various meanings of škinta must be borne in mind: i.e. "dwelling" "indwelling", "shecinah" and "sanctuary" or "shrine" (as of the cult-hut and its precinct).

I worshipped and praised that supreme First Vine, for within it is its Sap: its leaves are 'uthras and its tendrils rays of light. 'Uthras sit in its shade. And within the great first Cloud of Light there came into existence, within the Treasure-of-Light there was generated, the Secret Mana.

And Life be praised.

I worshipped and praised Treasure-of-Light, the great Awaker (yawar) of Life, who broke bread in the Hidden and gave (thereof) to the Mighty First Life in Its Dwelling. I praised the seven mystic precious and preserved manas who derived existence from Their Place and were transplanted from Their Treasure-house. I worshipped and praised the mighty First Life that transported Itself from Its Place, transferred itself from its own Treasurehouse in which it came into existence, was developed, dwelt and was established; and (whereof) It discoursed and wherein It had gloried.

It praiseth and speaketh, "Every Naṣoraean who reciteth these secret sayings will seek and find, will speak and be heard seven times daily. And seven sins will be forgiven him in the great Place of Light and Eternal Abode.

And Life be praised!

42

I worship, laud and praise that first secret Word which Yawar imparted in secret. He expounded and explained it and established therein that which is living, Rays (of his light). And Yawar said "Enlightenment and praise have come to pass". And Yawar came and his glory rested upon his own škinta. Radiance and Light came and were established before him: Glory and Enlightenment came and dwelt at his right hand. And the 'uthras[1] ask the Life to behold the appearance of Yawar-Ziwa in their (its?) radiance, and to commend the prayer and praise which they pronounced to Šilmai and Nidbai, the 'uthras who are the two messengers of Manda-ḏ-Hiia

Yawar hath said, "Every Naṣoraean who repeateth this secret prayer seven times daily, seven sins a day shall be forgiven him. And Life abideth in its Dwelling".

Life is victorious.

[1] 'Utria not in M.L. This word alters the sense of the passage.

43

Thou, Manda-ḏ-Hiia, hast established for thy chosen that which thou hast revealed to us from the book Nhur (Be light) and from Pta 'uṣra (They revealed treasure [1]) and from 'Uṣar Nhura (Treasure of Light), a solace, a great support of life, that which shineth in light, the light of which enlighteneth.

It (Manda, gnosis) came into being, was revealed, fulfilled and went forth in strength abundant and became mighty by growth of knowledge [2] It increased in radiance and was full of light which proceeded from the Counterpart(?) of [3] Life, a wondrous counterpart!

Thereupon the worlds were ashamed, for none had seen its like, its brilliance or its glory.

Kušṭa standeth by his friends and Manda-d-Hiia by his chosen ones.

For thou hast chosen (us), hast taken us out of the world of hatred, envy and disputes and hast set us firmly on paths of truth and faith, so that we stand and praise the holy and guarded place. And he who partaketh of this bread (pihta), put out [4] (for him) will be sinless in the Place of Light, the Everlasting Abode.

And Life is victorious.

[These are the prayers appointed for the pihta].

44

Biriawiš, source of living waters, first upsurging that sprang forth, great outburst of the radiance of all-abundant Life! (Be) life for the souls of this masiqta.

---

[1] Lit. "opened treasure".

[2] Rabut manda.

[3] Lidzbarski translated dimat hiia, Träne des Lebens (Life's tears), an unsatisfactory translation. "Distillation" (ܕܡܥܬܐ) is also doubtful. I take the word to be influenced by dmu, which follows closely, hence possibly an archaic form of dmut? See below, p. 43 n.5, where dimat hiia recurs - dmut hiia ḏ-mn dimat hiia (counterpart of Life that is from the likeness of Life ?).

[4] Brita. I suggest a connection with "food put out for mourners" (see Hif. of ברי "to strengthen, offer refreshment, esp. to mourners").

[This is the appointed prayer for the mambuha. If there are (several) souls, read as written; if one soul say 'for this the soul of N.']

45

Thy name, (O) Life, is excellent: its glory is great, its light abundant. Its goodness came over (or overflowed), inaugurating the First Mystery, life which proceeded from Life and Truth which existed before the beginning. This is a wellspring of life which sprang forth from the Place of Life: we drink thereof, of this Fount of Life which Life transmitted was established in the House of Life, which crossed worlds, came, cleft the heavens and was revealed.

Thou hast shown us that which the eye of man hath not seen, and caused us to hear that which human ear has not heard. Thou hast freed us from death and united us with life, released us from darkness and united us with light, led us out of evil and joined us to good. Thou hast shown us the Way of Life and hast guided our feet into ways of truth and faith so that Life cometh and expelleth darkness and goodness cometh and casteth out evil. (Like) the mingling of wine with water, so may Thy truth, thy righteousness and thy faith be added to those who love Thy name of Truth.

And Life be praised.

[This is the set prayer for the mambuga (sacramental drink). Make the pihta and the mambuha and place them (ready for) the masiqta, and then make the myrtle wreath.]

46[1]

In the Name of Life![2]

The Light became light, the Light became light! The Light became the light of the First Life. Glory[2] dawned[3] and (there was) praise of the Mana who came from his Place. He came (with) an ether-wreath, with benefits that are from the Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode. Yufin-Yufafin was the weaver of the wreath; she who brought it was 'Niṣbat'-Utria (She-planted i.e. was the mother of uthras). And he who set wreath on was 'It-Yawar-Ziwa (There-is-dazzling-Radiance) son of 'Niṣbat-'Utria: he brought it and set it on the head of the Mana, planted it (there) so that it was set up (thereon).

[1] Lidzbarski considers Prayer 5 so like Prayer 46 that he neither reproduces the text nor translates it. The priests, on the contrary, insist on a very exact pronunciation of the first words: (nhur nhura and nhar nhura) and say that there is a difference in meaning. In all the copies of the ʿniania the earlier pages and the last pages are those which become worn out most quickly, I am inclined to think that Prayer 46 is nearer the original version. However, whatever the variations in the text of the two prayers, they should be noted.

[2] 'ruta. I am reluctant to accept without reservation Lidzbarski's translation "Erleuchtung". The root could be 'R' as the ע would disappear: derivation from 'WR or AWR or unlikely.

[3] Nihrat "it became light" "was light" is freely translated as "dawned".

The wreath flames and the leaves of the wreath flame. Before the Mana there is radiance, behind the Mana there is light and glory, at either side of the Mana are radiance, brilliance and purity; and at the four corners of the heavens [1] and on the seven sides of the firmament dwell silence, bliss and glory.

Enlightened and enlightening are words of light to the souls of this masiqta. Sure, assured, [2] armed and prepared, resplendent and beauteous (are they) when the wreath with its mysteries is set on the heads of these souls of this ascent (masiqta) to the great gate of Abathur's house. They will open to them the great gate of Abathur's house and will guard them by secret and watchful manas. [3]

And Life be praised!

[These two prayers are said over the myrtle-wreath in the masiqta].

48

In the name of the Life!

Manda-d-Hiia went to the stars. His appearance [4] loosed the bound (souls): he knit (them into?) the communion that is without parting and without limit or number, by his word which issued from him in that place. All the worlds were confounded: the works of the House [1]) were destroyed and there was security for sons of the Great Family of Life.

[1] An obvious corruption, see Prayer 5.

[2] The play on words is intentional.

[3] Or, acc. to Lidzbarski, "in verborgenenen wohlverwahrten Gewändern bewahren".

[4] In support of his translation "des (schönen) Aussehens" Lidzbarski adduces GR 10,6 and JB 110,3. I cannot bring myself to agree, for the stars here are enemies, far from admirable. True, in Syriac we get gabra hizua "a man (of handsome) appearance" in proof of GR and JB, but hizua both in Syriac and Mandaic has also the meaning "a vision", "appearance". The reference is to Manda-ḏ-Hiia's (or Hibil-Ziwa's) descent to the planetary purgatories in which souls expiate sins committed on earth.

He planted his planting and descended to the earth, (where) the hand of Evil, of the Lord of the House, lay heavy upon them. And when wickedness oppressed them, they beheld his radiance, and some of the celestial fruits appeared to them, the strength and name of the Ineffable One Who is all light was revealed to them and some of His glory was communicated [2]) to them and Knowledge of Life (Manda-ḏ-hiia) was revealed to all who love his name of Truth at the place which is wholly (inhabited by) those convicted of sin.

And when they beheld him, the lords of the worlds were confounded but did not, from their thrones, loose (the bonds of) the captives.

He passed by: the captives were freed. He loosed them from their sins and trespasses: yea, release from their bodies was made possible to them. And (as for) the lords of the House who looked on, their ranks were discomfited and they were unable to reach him. Yea, the name of Abathur was (set) over them and the name of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia was fulfilled and revealed to those who love his name. And his name shall (aid) the souls of this masiqta: it will be his name.

And Life is victorious.

[This is the recitation appointed for the masiqta. Read it over pure oil in something (pure?) and place it before thee and then read the masiqta].

49

In the name of the Strange (Sublime) Life!

This, the glory and light of life, is to bring forth the spirit and soul from the body and to clothe the living soul in a living garment. Yea, she is solaced [4]) and liveth, the counterpart of Life, she that emanated from a.........[5]) of Life, with the Outer Life, with Hauraran and Karkawan-Ziwa, with Treasure-of-Light, the solace and great support of life, with life that emanated from the Life and with the truth which existed of old in the beginning. They live in their shecinahs, [1]) and the Great Light (abideth) in its purities.

[1]) The earthly world.

[2]) Lit. "went out over them".

[3]) The "pure oil" of the masiqta is the expressed oil of sesame and date juice. These are pounded together and strained. Baptism oil is sesame oil only.

[4]) Hadinat (Lidzbarski leaves untranslated) is probably a corruption of ha ʿdinat as translated; but the meaning is doubtful.

[5]) Dimat again (see p. 40, n.3.)

When any human being departeth from his body, there come towards him seven godlike appearances [2]), and each standeth by his own. And Ṣauriel the Releaser cometh - he who releaseth spirit and soul from the body. Up there, with those works, he standeth with the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia which releaseth (the soul). And Hauraran and Karkawan-Ziwa remove from her that in her which is of the body, and she putteth on the dress of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia. Garment on garment she putteth on, she arrayeth herself in robe after robe. When she weareth the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia there, she laugheth, rejoiceth, leapeth for joy, danceth, exulteth and is overjoyed about the glorious splendour [3]) resting (upon her) and the glory that accrueth to her.

Onward she goeth in the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia. The planets who are in their places were out of coutenance on seeing it: they clenched their fists, beat on the forecourt of their breasts and say "Woe on (us) planets! for they (we) are powerless, but the works of Their hands are victorious!"

And they say "How beautiful is this radiancy, how steadfast this light, how lovely this glory and how wondrous this appearance!" And they ask "Who will clothe us with this radiance? Who will cover us with this light and who will shed on us this glory? And what is it that passeth before us in this guise? for it is fair, shining and bright: in this world nothing made can be compared to it!" And they exclaim "How good is Kušṭa to the good, and Manda-ḏ-Hiia to all his chosen, (those) who stand in their bodies and dedicate themselves to the name of the Life and to becoming (thus)!"

She goeth on in the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia and they let those deeds of hers pass by and (escape) the hands of all the planets.

And on she [4]) went and reached Abathur's house of detention,

[1]) Or (see M.L. p. 80, 1.6) Das Leben ist in seiner Škina.

[2]) The seven planets, which wait to carry off the soul to their maṭarata (houses of detention, purgatories).

[3]) See above, p. 20, Prayer 24 "rejoicing, laughing, dancing, exulting about the glorious splendour" etc.

[4]) The narrative is here in the 1st. person "I went on" etc. but returns again to the original "she". I think it better to continue throughout in the 3rd. person.

(Abathur), the Ancient, Lofty, Holy and Guarded one. There his scales are set up and spirits and souls are questioned before him as to their names, their signs, their blessing, their baptism and everything that is therewith.

The soul of N. hath entered the House of Abathur and hath given her name, her sign, her blessing, her baptism and everything that is therewith!

The souls of our fathers were signed with the sign of Life and the name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia was pronounced over them. They put them in the scales, putting in their deeds and rewards [1]) and weighed them. And the perfect went in (also), the spirit with the soul, but they took them out (for they were) clean. Radiance issued from the radiance of Abathur and clothed them and they brought light and covered them (therewith).

(Like them) she (the soul) put on garment on garment and robe over robe like the vestments of Abathur. There she laugheth, rejoiceth, leapeth for joy, danceth, exulteth and is overjoyed about the glorious splendour which resteth (on her) and accrueth to her [2]). And she proceedeth in the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia and went on [3]) and reacheth the watch-house (house of detention) of four beings, sons of perfection, 'In-Hai, Šum-Hai, Ziv-Hai and Nhur-Hai [4]). Each of these beings clotheth her with his radiance and each covereth her with his light. Garment on garment she putteth on, with garment after garment doth she clothe herself. When she puts on the vesture of the sons of perfection she laugheth, rejoiceth, leapeth for joy, danceth, exulteth and is overjoyed about the glorious splendour, the honour resting on and belonging to her.

She proceeded in the vesture of Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia and went[5]) onwards and reached the Waters of Death [6]). The waters covered her, (but) Radiance crossed over - his name abode in his škinta: honoured and chosen, he created [7]) himself - and said "Life, I am Thine, and for Thy name's sake came I forth from the world of Pthahil, from amongst evil plots and from beneath the throne of Abathur the Ancient, so that we may bring out this soul of N. of this masiqta (so that) she cometh [1]) before him".

[7]) Or "called himself"? The tense continually varies.

He is a ray [2]) of the great radiance of Life, a being who resteth upon the *škinta*s, and upon *škinta*s doth his name rest.

He graspeth her with the palm of his right hand and handeth her over to two 'uthras, sons of light, to Adatan and Yadatan, of one gnosis and one mind. And Adatan and Yadatan hand her over to two 'uthras, to 'Uṣar-Hai and to Pta-Hai who open the Door [3]) of Life, plant the plant of Life and establish the first counterpart of the House of Life. They raised her up beside the living [4]) they bring her in, in the likeness of Life they support her in the Place where radiance, like light, flameth. And the spirit [5]) of N. went and became of the same nature as the soul and was established in the House of Life.

And Life is victorious.

[Note. The following hymn reads like pure nonsense. Lidzbarski suggested that it had been mutilated and misunderstood : Das Stück besteht aus abgerissenden schwer verständlichen, wohl auch stark enstellten Sätzen. (M.L, p. 84, n.4)].

Rightly did the baptist baptise me (in the waters of?) Yaluz-Yaluz [6]) for their spring is Hammamulai [7]). My name, Ksasar-Hamamulai is spoken, disseminated, guarded, hidden and pure. They (the waters?) knew the source from which they proceeded : its name was on the sky, its glory on the earth. For upon treasure, in treasure, the Great Life existed and was fulfilled in Its glory.

[1]) The translation is unsatisfactory, one would expect titia. I find Lidzbarski's translation unsatisfactory too: for the saviour spirit is explaining its purpose.

[2]) ṣurik with ziwa occurs fairly often. Lidzbarski translated "Ausfluss" (cf. ܙܪܐ); but a connection with ܙܪܩ is indicated, a verb used for lightning and meteors.

[3]) To justify the translation "door": see Levy, Targ. פִּתְחָא (syr. ܦܬܚܐ hebr. פֶּתַח) Eingang, Thüre. Lidzbarski translated (M.L.p. 84, n.2) die die Schöpfung des Lebens schaffen.

[4]) D.C. 3. arimlẖ kanfia hiia.

[5]) "Of the same nature as the soul". Commentaries say that after purification the spirit unites with the soul "as one". (ATŠ No. 282 "the twain become, as it were, a single body").

[6]) "joyful, rejoicing?" (עלין עליזא).

[7]) 'Ulai was the ancient name of the Karun river in Khuzistan. Here, Hamamulai perhaps = "the hot springs of the Karun"? There are hot springs at Shustar.

I sit on a perfected garment 1) and by the great fountainhead of Yukabar-Hiia, beneath a Vine which riseth above me. Praise-of-Life standeth before me. "Who will manifest himself and come and speak to me?" "I am he who is manifest, for I am great". The life that is beneath me is the Vine which riseth above me, Praise-of-Life standeth before me. This is my name and my sign which I received from waves of water and from treasures of radiance and from the great and lofty Mixing-Bowl (?).

And Life is victorious.

51

In the name of the Life!

I am baptised in the name of the Strange Life, the Sublime (Being) above all works. I am established in the name of Treasure-of-Light. Yawar from the House of Life revealed (himself?) and shone forth 2), establishing his counterpart, transplanting the Great Life in his light. The worlds thrust at us, but we fell not; backed by Thy truth, we have confidence. The first sprout hath burst forth - a ray 3) of the great radiance of Life in its triumphs; Truth (kušṭa) and the great Source (kana) 4) of its glory.

And Life be praised!

52

Whose son am I? (Of?) the guarded Mana, who is Yusmir, the First Great Radiance, son of the great Primal Life, who pondered and went forth seeking His own, that which came from Him. The congregation of souls, on the last day, when departing from their bodies, rejoice in Him, embrace Him and rising up, behold the outer ether and the enduring Abode and praise the Great Life in Its light.

And Life is victorious!

1) "In a perfected garment" would make better sense, if sense were possible in this obscure hymn.

2) 'Udna is "ear". In one copy only Lidzbarski found 'uṣrḫ on which he based his translation. I suggest that 'udna is simply a miscopying of udna "and shone forth". Yawar is always associated with light.

3) See p. 46, n. 2. Or, "a flash".

4) The word has kana has varied meanings: a receptacle, collection, assembly, group, stem, race, base, fundament, origin, place of origin, source, home etc.

A letter, union and victory have come to this the soul of N. from the House of Life. Its fastening is water, its wreath is light, its weapon the living word, and its seal the Chosen, the Pure One. Every man who openeth it and readeth therein shall live, be whole, and his name will be set up in the House of Life in the name of the Great Sublime Life. And the First Life is established in Its škinta.

[This is the seal of the masiqta. Up to this point recite the masiqta, and here take the pihta and break off a morsel from one upper faṭira [1] and the undermost faṭira and bring a portion of the Ba [2] and fold them together. And mingle the "water of prayer" [3] with the wine [4] and recite over them "Yukašar chose her (the soul) who passeth over" and recite "The Life spoke and opened" and part thy pandama and eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha and recite "The Water of Life burst forth in splendour in its škinta.]

Yukašar chose her that passeth (crosseth) over [5]; he chose her, called her forth and established her. He clothed her in radiance ineffable and brought light abounding and covered her therewith. He raised her up to the Great Place of Light and the everlasting Abode, and in his own škinta his (the dead man's) soul was assigned (a place) and found rest in his treasure.

Living waters (water of Life) from the House of Life burst forth (in splendour [6]) and (like them?) shall shine forth the souls who are called upon, raised up and signed [1] in this masiqta, (the souls of) our fathers, teachers, brothers and sisters who have departed the body, and of those who still live in the body. They shall rise upward on a smooth road and by the path of the perfect, shall behold the Place of Light and the everlasting Abode and be established by Him who opened (revealed) the great first light.

[1] A faṭira is a disc of dough without leaven or salt. A number of these (usually sixty) are made for a masiqta, but only two small fragments (as described above taken from a pile on the ritual table) are eaten by celebrants. The remaining faṭiria are buried in the sacred precincts at the conclusion of the rite.

[2] The word (always written bḫ) is pronounced Ba, and priests all say that it refers to the dove. The rite of slaughter of the dove is one of the ritual mss in a priest's library.

[3] See p.36 n. 2.

[4] Hamra (wine) is made just before the masiqta by macerating four raisins in a bowl of water.

[5] D.C.31 libraia (= לעבראיא) i.e. the soul crossing the "waters of death". Lidzbarski, M.L. 88:5, translates "den Jenseitigen". The context shows that one soul is meant.

[6] the verb עור 'UR, AUR in Mandaic has a dual meaning see M. L. p. 88, n.3.

And Life is victorious.

55

The Great Life spoke and revealed (opened [2]) with His mouth, in His own radiance light and glory.

And Life be praised.

[This is for the loosing of the pandama. Recite this "Yukašar chose her who passeth over" over the "water of prayer" and wine when they are mingled together. If it is for (several) souls that he has recited read as written, but if for a single soul say "the soul of N. shall be awakened" [3]. And say "The Great Life spoke and opened with His mouth" and part thy pandama, eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha. And recite "The living water shone forth in its place" then rise, and read one prayer after another until the (prayer) "Yukašar chose her that passeth over" hath been offered up.]

56

In the name of the Life!

Living waters shone forth (in splendour) in their škinta. The robes of [4] the good were resplendent in their place. The great Mana was dazzlingly bright in [5] His glory. So (too) shall these living, (brightly) shining, steadfast and vigorous souls shine in splendour in the great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.

[This is a prayer of dedication for the "water of prayer"]

[1] All the faṭiria have been signed. They represent the souls included in the masiqta, whereas the pihta, which has been "clothed" and to which a portion of dove's flesh and two morsels (see above) have been added, represents the deceased for whom the masiqta is celebrated.

[2] Priests associate this short verse with the opening up of the pandama for the sacramental eating and drinking.
This rite is, according to tradition, an "opening of the mouth" of the dead, as the celebrant acts as the proxy of the deceased. Cf. the Babylonian pit pi.

[3] Nitiairia (see p. 48, n. 6) could also mean "will shine forth".

[4] Read ḏ-ṭabia.

[5] l'qarḇ is written: (chez lui?).

57

Fragrant incense riseth to its place and Thou, Life, be victorious! The Forgiver of sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes will forgive all those who love his name of Truth (kušṭa) and (likewise) the soul of N.

And Life is victorious.

[A dedication prayer for the incense]

In the name of the Life!

Praised be the First Life, praised be the Word of the First Life: praised be that radiance, light and glory; praised be that Light which is boundless and endless and none know when it came into being. Praised be the Lord of Greatness [1] and praised be all the 'uthras that stand to the right and left of the Lord of Greatness and praise the Lord of Greatness. Praised be my father Yawar, praised be all the 'uthras who stand and praise my father Yawar. Praised be that great first Jordan in which the First Life was baptised. Praised be all jordans of living water: praised be the fruits, grapes and trees which stand by them. Praised be all the mighty and lofty worlds of light; praised be all those sanctuaries (škinata) of the Hidden [2] for in each and every škinta sit a thousand thousand 'uthras, ('uthras) without end, and the myriad myriad sanctuaries that are countless. Praised are those thousand thousand 'uthras without end and the myriad myriad sanctuaries beyond count.

Praised be all those banners of radiance, light and glory unfurled before them which give them light. Praised be the great gate of the House of Abathur; praised be all 'uthras who stand before Abathur and praise him. Praised be the three hundred and sixty scales which are set up before the ancient Abathur; praised be that first great Scales that was set up before Abathur the Ancient. Praised be that great occult Drop from which he proceeded. Praised be all 'uthras who sit upon thrones of rest and recite ordinances and masiqtas and secret prayers. Praised be those recitations, masiqtas, and secret prayers in which the Great (Life) is praised. Praised be those priests [3] who sit with them.

[1] A priest who instructs postulants for priesthood is called a rba and his office rabuta, so that Mara-ḏ-Rabuta could be translated "lord of instruction".

[2] D.C. 53 and D.C. 3 have kasia, M.L. kisia.

[3] Or "disciples".

Praised be all mountains of radiance, light and glory; praised be all roads and paths of light.

First Life! Lift up Thine eyes upon these souls called upon, raised up and signed in this masiqta and (the souls of) our father, brothers and sisters who have departed the body, and of those who still tarry in the body. Deliver them, save them and protect them from this world of the wicked and from those watch-houses (purgatories). Let thy mercy, Great First Life, rest upon them. And ye shall say "Life is established in its indwellings".

And Life is victorious.

[This is an offering-up of supplications. It is the dedicatory prayers of the masiqta. Pray "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "Thee, Thyself", "Raising eyes" and "I sought to raise my eyes". If thou recitest for (several) souls read as written, if it is one soul say "Lift thine eyes upon the soul of N"].

59

Life is fulfilled in its own glory and the Great Light established by its victories.

[This is the prayer offered up for the pihta].

60

The Great Life dwelleth in those that love Him, and His devotees dwell in the Great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.

And Life be praised!

[This is the dedicatory prayer for the mambuha.]

61

An earthly wreath fadeth, [1] but the wreath of Life is fresh and living [2]. The wreath of an elect righteous man is set and shineth on the heads of those who love the name of Truth (kušṭa). The wreath is from the world of light and the robe from the Everlasting Abode. The ether-wreath is set, with its purities [3], and shineth on the heads of these souls of this masiqta.

And Life is victorious.

[This is the prayer put up for the wreath of a masiqta. If thou recitest for several souls, read as written, but if for a single soul say "on the head of this soul of N."]

The worlds glisten (with costly) oil, but Naṣoraeans shine with the radiance of Life.

And Life is victorious.

In great radiance am I immersed and in steadfast light am I established. Manda [1] baptised me, Kušṭa confirmed me. A letter, communication (communion) and purity came to me from the House of Life. Its fastening is water, its wreath is light, its weapon the living word, and its seal the chosen, pure one [2]. Every man who openeth it and readeth therein shall live, shall be whole and his name will be set up in the House of Life, in the name of the great Sublime Life from worlds (of light?).

And Life is victorious.

[This is the prayer offered up for the masiqta oil.]

64

The Life dwelleth in its own radiance and light.

And Life be praised!

[This is the confirmation of the (prayer) "Yukašar chose her who passeth over". Here recite "Ye are set up and raised up" and the masiqta-hymns.]

65

Ye are set up and raised up into the Place where the good are established amongst manas of light, the souls called upon and raised up and signed by this masiqta and (the souls of) our fathers, our teachers, our brothers and our sisters who have departed the body, and of those who are(still) living in the body. Your manas shall be set up in the Light and ye will be established in the Light.

And Life is victorious.

In the name of the Life!

I am crowned with a wreath [3]) and lay me down [4])

[1]) Cf. Prayer 23.

[2]) The personified manda (this time the cult-hut and its precinct)? Or Gnosis?

[3]) Or "I have reached my end". The translation given above is probable, as a dying person is dressed in a spotlessly clean rasta (white ritual dress), and crowned with a myrtle wreath after being thrice immersed from head to foot.

[4]) "Lay down" or "slept", a synonym for death.

In a dress in which there is no blemish.
No spot is there in the dress,
Nor is there aught missing or lacking in it.
The Life knew about me.
Adam, who slept, awoke;
He grasped me with the palm of his right hand
And gave (not?) into my hand a palmbranch. [1]
Light cast me into darkness,
But the darkness was filled with light.
The day that light ariseth,
Darkness returneth to its place.
The souls of this masiqta
Approach a cloud [2] of light.
Their journey is to the Place of Light.
And Life be praised.

[This is a masiqta hymn]

67

With him, with the Deliverer [3]
The souls of this masiqta will ascend.
They will behold the Place of Light
And the Everlasting Abode.
On their road the Seven will not detain them,
Nor will the Judge of the False question them.
The Life will count you in His reckoning
And the good will set you up in their midst.
To the place to which the good go they will guide you
And in the place in which they stand they will set you up;
Lamps of radiance are found before you,
Beams of light behind you.
Kušṭa will come at your right
And Piety will smoothen your path.
For you there will be loosings [4]
From here to the Everlasting Abode.
For the ferry which ferries over the Elect
Will set out towards you and take you across.

[4] "Loosings" i.e. prayers of intercession.

(Then) from Abathur of the Scales
A saviour will come forth towards you.
The saviour that cometh towards you
Is all radiancy and light from head to foot
Like the wreath in his right hand.
And on his two arms is a robe.
Bestir yourselves! Put on your robes!
Put on your living wreaths, gird on your girdles
In which nothing is awry or blemished.
Above your head there will be fruit,
And there, at your time and season
Your *mana*s will be set up in the Light.
Your *mana*s in the Light will be set up.
(So) rise up,behold the Place of Light!
And Life is victorious.

Between the Hidden and the Radiance,
Between Light and the 'uthras,
Between the Hidden and the Radiance
Stand those who question the soul,
Saying to her "Speak! say, soul,
Who constructed thee? who was thy Builder?
Who built thee and who was the Being, thy Creator?"
The soul spoke and said —
The edified, well-constructed soul spoke —
And saith to the Being who questioneth her,
Said to him,"My father, One built me, One constructed me".
One was the Being who transplanted me;
One of the sons of salvation in his goodness
Took (accepted) his lot (duty).
He folded me in a wrapping of radiance,
Took (me) and gave me over to Adam.
Adam, in his simplicity, whilst he knew not nor understood,
Took and cast me into a physical body 1);
Took me and cast me into a physical body
That is all sour and bitter fluids and decaying substances 2).

Which he had bequeathed her: sitteth and watcheth over it

Reached 2) her Deliverer, ran (after) him
Who had bound her to her dwelling.
The soul and her Deliverer (go):

To it, and to that place, those souls
That are called upon in this masiqta
And signed by this sign, are summoned and invited.
They shall behold the great Place of Light
And the abiding Abode.
And Life be praised.

Bliss and peace there will be
On the road which Adam attained:
Bliss and peace there shall be
On the road which the soul traverseth.
The soul hath loosed her chain and broken her bonds;
She hath shed her earthly garment. 3)
She turned round, saw it and was revolted
She uttered an evil curse on the being
Who had clothed her in the body.
She provoked the Framer-of-Bodies, she roused him
From the lair in which he lay. She said to him,
"Rise up, look, Framer-of-Bodies;

1) Cf. G.R. Lidz. trs. p. 569: 29 ff.

2) D.C. 3 miṭia. (D.C. 539, M.L miṭiiḫ). "Hasted to reach" conveys the meaning better.

3) Lit. physical garment.

The hollow of thy hand is filled with water!"
The voice of the Framer-of-Bodies (is heard)[1],
Who howleth and weepeth for himself
And saith "Woe is me that the hollow of my hand
Is filled with water!" And to her he saith
"Go in peace, daughter of the free, whom
In the house of evil ones they called handmaiden.
Go in peace, pure pearl that was transported
From the treasuries of Life;
Go in peace, fragrant one who imparted
Her fragrance to the stinking body.
Go in peace, radiant one, who illumined
Her dark house. Go in peace,
Pure and chosen one, immaculate and spotless!"
Flying, the soul went
Until she reached the House of Life:
She arrived at the House of Life.
'Uthras went forth towards her,
Saying to her "Take and put on thy robe of radiance
And set on thy living wreath!
Arise, dwell in the *škinta*s,
The place where 'uthras abide, conversing;
And Life is victorious and triumphant is Manda-ḏ-Hiia
And lovers of his name".
And Life be praised!

70

Blessed and praised be Life
Who is filled with compassion for these souls.
Praised be thou, my lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
For thou raisest up these souls and dost not condemn them.
Praised be thou, pure Yušamin,
For thou wilt give them thy helping hand.
Be ye praised, Šilmai and Nidbai,
For ye will give true witness concerning them.
And be ye praised, Hibil, Šitil, and Anuš
For ye will ransom them from the House-of-Dues
And from Abathur of the Scales!

For toward you will go forth a messenger,

---

[1] The Fashioner of Bodies must be the unsuccessful creator, Pthahil.

And the messenger who goeth toward you
Is all radiance and light from head to foot.
In his right hand a kind of wreath
And on both his arms a robe.
Up! put on your robes, set on your living wreaths!
Gird on your girdles that are flawless and faultless!

Above your heads there will be fruit,
And your lamps will hang amongst lamps of light
And will shed light.
The Lord of Tolls will not confront you
Nor will lying judges put you to the question.
They will bring you liberating words [1]
From here unto the Everlasting Abode,
The building that was built for you in the House of Life,
Will not come to nought in an age of ages!
And may some of Manda-ḏ-Hiia's radiance and light
And the revivifying-breath of Life [2] rest upon us!
Blessed is the Voice of Life
And praised be the great Beam which is all light.
And Life be praised.

[After thou hast recited "The Life dwelleth in its own radiance and light", "Ye are set up", "I am crowned with a wreath and lay me down", "With him, with the Deliverer", "Between the Hidden and the Radiance", "Bliss and peace there will be", "My vigilance and my praise giving", "Go in peace, Pure Chosen one", "Well, well is it for thee, soul" and the other hymns, as many as thou art able, then recite the "Blessed and praised is Life" of Shem son of Noah.

If thou readest for (several) souls, read as it is written, but if only for one soul, say "The soul of N." and pay attention, with all watchfulness, clearness of mind and studious attention and recite "Good is the good for the good"; perform kušṭa [3] with one another and recite "In great radiance am I immersed".

And pray a prayer for yourselves and make pihta and mambuha

[1] Širiata in magic texts is "exorcisms", i.e. words that liberate. Lidzbarski translates Balken (from שָׁרִיתָא, שְׁרֵי).

[2] A free translation. Ruaha has the meaning of enlargement, refreshment, restoration.

[3] Just as in the Eastern Church the Pax marks a stage in the ritual of the mass, so in Mandaean rites the kušṭa is performed after every stage of a rite.

for yourselves [1]) and eat your pihta and drink your mambuha And offer up the prayer "Good is the good for the good", perform kušṭa [2]) with one another for yourselves and (then) honour [3]) your crowns.
And Life is victorious.]

In the name of the Life!
Blessed and praised be the Life!
Blessed and praised be the name of Life in the Place of Light!
Blessed and praised art thou, my lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia;
Thou and thy strength, thy radiance, thy light, thy glory and thy help.
Praised art thou, my father Yušamin the Pure,
Son of a transplanting of the mighty Life.
Praised art thou, Second Life, Life that is from Life.
Praised are ye, Šilmai and Nidbai, guardian 'uthras of the jordan.
Praised are ye, Nṣab and Anan-Nṣab.
(Praised are) [4]) our fathers Hibil, Šitil and Anuš
The name and chief of the whole race.
Praised art thou, Lofty Abathur;
Blessed and established is the great škinta in which thou sittest.
Praised are ye four beings, sons of Perfection, who go to meet the good;
Go forth to meet the good and clothe the good with robes.
Praised art thou, Earth of Light and blessed and praised Those who dwell in thee.
Blessed art thou, Road of the great [5]), path of the perfect
And track that riseth up to the Place of Light.
Blessed art thou, Naṣirutha [6]) from whom the elect learn;
From thee learn the elect, and deal out reward [7]) and pious gift [8])

[1]) The pihta and mambuha consumed by celebrants at the beginning of the masiqta and at its end are the ordinary sacramental bread and water. They are consumed by the priest as himself, whereas the pihta and mambuha of the masiqta are consumed by the priest as proxy of the deceased. Moreover the former is made of saltless flour, (the faṭira, to which scraps of ritual food are added) and the mambuha is hamra and water.

[2]) See p. 57. n. 3.

[3]) See p. 28, n. 3.

[4]) Missing in D.C. 3 and D.C. 53.

[5]) Or "teachers", see p. 50, n. 1.

[6]) A word which means true religion, the inner teaching.

[7]) The fees given to priests.

[8]) Offerings in kind, fruit, corn, vegetables, etc.

They deal with reward and pious gift and rise up and behold the Place of Light.
Praised art thou, jordan of living water, for from thee we obtain purity;
We obtain purity from thee and receive the pure sign.
My fathers beheld the Life and my teacher the Place of Light.
The 'uthras of light are victorious,
And victorious Abathur and the sons of Perfection
Who stand, praising the Life.
Enlargement [1] of life there shall be for the believing
Who have departed out of our midst;
The believers, the poor, the lowly and priests.
And my lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia will lend them his helping hand.
Thankfully received are the good gifts [2] (ṭabuta) of life,
The good gifts of life and of knowledge of life,
The pihla [3] that . . . . . at the name of the Life.
For any man who giveth an oblation,
His oblation will be his helper: elect and perfect men
Who bestow oblations will rise by Kušṭa's path.
To them [4] it shall be given.
Of the Ether-wreath they twisted them a wreath
Of speech and hearing, of joy, purity, goodness and greatness.
A wreath from the Vine Ruaz He will set on the heads
Of those souls called on, signed, and raised up by this masiqta;
(And the souls of) our fathers, our teachers, our brothers and our sisters, of those who have departed the body and those who are yet in the body:
(A wreath like that) set on Its head by the Great (Life)
And by the Great (Life) given to 'uthras
And given by 'uthras to their priests.
Healer, whose medicine is water, come!
Be thou a healer to thy devotees,
To thy devotees be thou a healer

---

[1] The meaning here is renewal of life, a larger form of life.

[2] Ṭabuta here refers to the ritual food placed on the ṭariania (sacred tables).

[3] I am still of the opinion that pihla here refers to the phallus which, on the table of oblation is modelled in dough and represents the male principle of creation. The meaning of the verb depends on that of pihla,

[4] With Lidzbarski (M.L. p. 107, n. 3), I read "them" rather than the written "you".

And to him that giveth oblation be thou a helper:
On him whom thou hast healed, do thou,
My lord, bestow soundness.
Behold him who standeth before thee and condemn him not.
My Lord, High King of Light, Revealer
Whose eyes are uncovered, seeking justice
And enacting justice for those who love it,
Do justice on those who persecute us,
Those persecutors who pursue us,
And on the wicked and furious ones
Who scheme to work evil upon us.
If it please Thee, High King of Light,
Look on us and condemn us not!
Behold these souls who believed in Thee
And for Thy name's sake stood by on earth
And were persecuted. Show us pure ether-air
So that we may forget earthly persecution,
That we may forget the persecution of earth
And the vexation of the wicked and liars.
Strengthen our insight, our voice, our vigilance and our praise!
Thereby the Great Life communed with thee
And set thee up completely(?) [1] with His radiance
And His light, Manda-ḏ-Hiia!
And may the vivifying-power [2] of Life rest upon us.
My elect, ye shall say "Blessed be the Voice of Life
And praised be the great Beam which is all light!"
And Life be praised!

[This is the "Blessed and praised be the Life" of Shem son of Noah. Afterwards, read here "Blessed and praised be Life" of the souls, and then recite "Good is the Good for the good".]

72

Good is the Good [3] for the good, and His nature [4] is set upon those who love His name. We will seek and find, speak and be heard. We have sought and found, have spoken and been heard in thy presence, my lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia, Lord of all healings.

---

[1] The sentence is obscure, but is addressed to Manda-ḏ-Hiia?

[2] Again ruaha ḏ-hiia is paraphrased.

[3] This is the chief sacramental formula and during its recitation, priests crouch near the ground. The exact meaning is doubtful. Ṭaba, the second word, probably means "the Good One" (warranted by similar use of ṭaba in No. 159 and elsewhere). ṬAB has also the meaning of "to be good, wholesome, well". The formula is an ancient one, and its place in the liturgy corresponds roughly to the Christian liturgical formula "The holy (agia) to the holy".

[4] Kiniana, a word of wide meaning; "a name" (tribal or generic name), "nature", "characteristic", "qualify", etc.

Forgive him [1]) his sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes and (those of) him who furnished this bread, masiqta and (ritual) food [2]). My lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia and (Thou) Great First Life, forgive the sins trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes of the donor(s) of fee and oblation, and their wives, children, their priests and those who placed (brought) this bread and food; (likewise) you, my parents, teachers, instructors and preceptors when ye support from the Left to the Right. [3]) And ye shall say "Life be established in Its Dwellings and Life be praised; Life is victorious over all works.

[Recite this "Good is the Good for the good" when thou readest a masiqta. When thou performest a baptism recite it, when thou distributest oil recite it, when thou recitest the Rahmia ("Devotions" [4]) recite it, and after the Rahmia. And recite it when thou partakest of the (ritual) dish. [5])

73

In the name of the Life!

A sealed letter which leaveth the world —
A letter written in good-faith (kušṭa)
And sealed with the seal of the Mighty (Life) —
Righteous men wrote it, believing men tied it on [6]),
And suspended it about the soul's neck
And despatched it to the Gate of Life.
The soul, in her wisdom,
Pressed her nail on the letter,
Her nail she pressed on the letter;
She imbued it with her mystic radiance,
Wrapped it and veiled it in her light.
How came it that Daium saw
That the soul bore a letter?

[1]) The person for whose benefit the masiqta is celebrated.

[2]) Ṭabuta "goodness" in ritual refers to the sacramental food, the bread and the fruit. Lahma (lit. "bread") can refer to any nourishing food.

[3]) I.e. from evil to good. The left is associated with evil, matter, materialism, darkness and "the Mother"; the right with spirituality, light and good.

[4]) Prayers recited at the three daily prayer-times.

[5]) Patura = any table, tray, large dish or food-mat on which the sacred food is spread out. The clause is missing in D.C.3

[6]) See J. חרז 3, "to tie around".

How was it that Daium[1] saw it
As her seven sons gathered about her
And said "Who hath written the letter
Whose secret no man knoweth?
Who wrote the letter that is sealed in
By these protective[2] strands?"
The letter is written in good faith,
And sealed with the seal of the Mighty(Life).
Righteous (men) wrote it, believing men tied it on
And hung it about the neck of the soul
And despatched it to the Gate of Life.
The soul flieth and goeth until she hath reached
The watch-house of the Seven.
The Chief-of-Dues, when he saw her,
(And) the Governor[3], when they saw her,
Murmur discontent[4] and say
"Who hath written the letter
Whose secret no man knoweth?
Who wrote letter that is sealed
By these protective marks?"
"The letter is written in good faith
And sealed with the seal of the Mighty (Life).
Righteous (men) wrote it;
Believing men tied it up
And hung it about the neck of the soul
And despatched it to the Gate of Life".
The soul flieth and travelleth on
Until she reacheth spirits of Purgatory[5].

[1] A name given to Ruha.

[2] Miṣra has a double meaning here, and in my translation I have tried to convey both. In general miṣra is a line traced about a sacred or untouchable thing or area. It isolates that which it contains from contact. In ritual, it refers to the furrow drawn about a purified area, which is purified by water, in much the same way as the Parsi priest pours water into the protective gutter (pavi) round a sacred area. The ceremony of "the Letter" is protected by such water-containing furrows. Miṣra (Aramaic מְצָרֵי could also mean a rope, "a twisted cord".

[4] DMDM = "to mutter angrily".

[5] The maṭaraiia, officers of the watch-houses, or places where travellers are detained at frontiers, are, as the Diwan Abatur shows, demons, spirits who torment and purge souls after death.

The spirits of Purgatory abased their heads
And the soul passed the purgatory-spirits by.
The soul flieth and goeth
Until she came to the waters of death.
As she reached the waters of death
There came forth towards her
A great Beam [1] of radiance (and) of life, (who)
Grasped her by the palm of her right hand
And brought her over the waters of death [2].
The soul flieth and goeth
Until she reacheth the House of Life.
When she reached the House of Life
She uttered a cry to the House of Life,
And when He heard her call, the Life
Sent a messenger towards her,
(Who) grasped her by the palm of her hand,
Conducted her, (came) to support her
In the likeness of the Life to the place
Of radiance, light and beams of effulgence [3];
To unite her to (the company of) 'uthras
And to set her up amongst beams of light [4].
Upon her head they placed a wreath of ether
And took her out of the world in splendour.
Life supported life: Life found Its own:
It hath found Its own, and my soul hath found
That for which she hoped.
And Life is victorious.

[Up to here recite over the flask of oil as it is put into clay up to the mouth of the bottle. And the clay must be pure and from the jordan.]

74

Bound (secured) and sealed are the spirit and soul of N. by the seal of Kušṭa and the great safeguard of truth by the word of Kušṭa and the raising (power) of Yukabar-Ziwa.

And Life is victorious.

[1] See p. 45, n. 6.
[2] See p. 46 n. 2.
[3] Read abrḫ as in D.C. 3 and M.L. p. 113:8.
[4] Pasimka = a beam or ray of light.

[This is the conclusion of the "Letter". Set (press) thy seal-ring and the nail of thy little finger of thy right hand into the clay, seal it and read this conclusion over it. And Life is victorious].

[Shouldest thou wish to administer oil (to a dying person), at the beginning and end order the chief (relative) or remaining (persons: i.e. of the family?) to throw water over the dying person[1]). If he is a Mandaean (layman) they shall purify [2]) the hand of the dying person and pour oil on it and sign it with three signings. And he shall join with him [3]) and shall place his hand on his mouth and then put the dying person's hand on his mouth. If immediate death is near(?)[4]) at the place where they apply the oil they shall cleanse with water and purify him and bring to him proxies (those like him)[5])]

In the name of the Great Life!

Health and victory be mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš.

When thou wishest to administer unction to anyone leaving the body (dying), say "In the name of the Great Life, union and renewal of life and forgiving of sins be there for this soul of N. son of N. of this "Letter and masiqta". And bring a clean new bottle never before used, press out pure oil and place in it. When enough, twine a wreath of myrtle about the bottle. And set it before thee and recite for thy crown "In the name of that First Being" and set thy crown on thy head. And recite beside thy crown "Life created Yawar-Ziwa", "Let there be light", and "Manda created me" for thy crown. And recite "Strengthened and enhanced is the great mystery of radiance, light and glory" and bind thy pandama over thy mouth.

And take the phial into thy hand and recite "Water of Life art thou" over the bottle. And recite "Hail to the First Life" for the incense and cast incense on the fire and recite "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "To Thee" and "Raising my eyes"; and the bottle shall be in thy hand. And recite "I sought to raise eyes " and at the place where it says "wilt wipe away and remove from N. his sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes and cast them into the hells of earth and into the nethermost Abaddons of darkness and wilt raise him up as guiltless and not as guilty and as virtuous and not as vicious before thee, Manda-ḏ-Hiia. With thy radiance thou wilt clothe him and with thy light thou wilt cover him, and wilt set thy living wreath on his head, (the head of) this the soul of N." And take care that thou readest to the end with attention!

[1]) Lit. "the departing" (i.e. soul).

[2]) MŠA with 'da = "to purify the hand (either by water or other cleansing substance or fluid).

[3]) This should mean the act of partaking of the sacraments, but I am in doubt.

[4]) 'u hawia 'ka lmifaq "If there is need for dying (to die) meaning that death appears to be near.

[5]) Should death take place before the rite is over, deputies qualified by age, status and astrological conditions act as proxies.

And recite the eight prayers for the pihta over the bottle and the two prayers for the mambuha over the bottle and recite over the myrtle wreath "The Light became light", "Enlightened and enlightening" and place the bottle on his head. Recite "Manda-ḏ-Hiia went to the stars: his appearance loosed" over the bottle and take with thy forefinger some oil from the mouth of the bottle and recite "(In the name of the) Strange (Sublime) Life, this, the glory and light of Life" and at the place where it saith "to send forth spirit and soul" say "ot N". and where it saith "And Ṣauriel the Releaser cometh, who releaseth spirit and soul" say "of N." and at "everything that is therewith" sign the mouth of the bottle; and at "the house of Abathur" sign the mouth of the bottle. And where it saith "the spirit of N. went and became like the soul and was raised up into the House of Life and Life is victorious" sign the mouth of the bottle. And recite "Truly did my baptiser baptise me", "I am baptised in the name of the Life", and "Whose son am I? Of the guarded Mana", cover the bottle with the clay and take thy seal-ring with three of thy fingers - thy thumb and the finger next thy thumb and the little finger - and recite "The sealed letter which leaveth the world" and at the place where it saith "a letter written in good faith and sealed with the seal of the Mighty (Life)", seal with thy ring and the nail of thy little finger. And until the end let thy seal and the nail of thy little finger rest in the clay. And recite "Bound and sealed are the spirit and soul of N. with the seal of Kušṭa and the great safeguard of strength in the word of Kušṭa and the raising-up of Yukabar-Ziwa".

And lift thy seal-ring, thy nail and thy little finger from it and set it before thee and recite "Praised be the First Life" and at the place where it says "Lift thine eyes" say "upon N.". And thy pandama must be over thy mouth. And recite "Ye are set up and raised up up in the place where the good are established amongst manas of light" (insert) "the soul of N. is established in that place".

And (recite) "I am crowned with a wreath and lay me down", "With Him, with the Deliverer", "Between the Hidden and the Radiance", "Bliss and peace there will be on the road which Adam attained", "My vigilance and praise", "Go in peace, chosen, pure and guiltless one in whom there is no spot", "The Mana rejoiceth in his treasures", "Well is it for thee, well is it for thee, soul that departest from the world", "Sunday, and Kušṭa and Oblation", "I am provided and provisioned", "He rose and took me up with him", "The day that the soul goeth forth" and "Ye are set up and raised up, my Chosen".

And recite the "Blessed and praised be Life" for the souls and here recite the "Blessed and praised is Life" of Shem son of Noah. And where it saith "To you it shall be given, of the Ether-wreath" say "to N. son of N." (it shall be given).

And recite "Good is the good for the good"; ask mercy for him and remit his sins and his trespasses. And give it to him to whom thou givest it and grasp in kušṭa the hand of him who holdeth (the hand) of the dying person and say to him "This kušṭa which I entrust [1]) to thee, do thou convey it to Abathur" [2]).

If it is urgent to carry him away, bestir thyself (hurry) when thou recitest "The sealed Letter which leaveth the world" and "Bound and sealed are the spirit and soul of N.". Give him that which thou givest him, and take in kušṭa the hand of him who taketh (the hand of)the dying person and say to him "This kušṭa I speak to thee do thou speak it to Abathur". Thy pandama must be over thy mouth. Then thou shalt recite "The First Life be praised", "Ye are set up and raised up." and (so on) till the "Good is the good for the good", just as I tell thee.

Offer up for him the devotional prayers, hymns and the "raising". (prayers) of the masiqta [3]) from beginning to end. And be careful (to insert) the name of him to whom thou didst administer the oil. Let nothing be lacking and recite with attention and care.

And Life is victorious.

Then, when thou holdest thy pandama over thy mouth, pray for thyself. Make pihta and mambuha for thyself, recite "The Great Life spake and opened Their mouth" and eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha. And recite "Life is full", and "The Great Life dwelleth" for thyself and recite "Good is the good for the good" and perform the kušṭa-rite for thyself and honour thy crown.

[1]) D.C. 53 has asbarlak here; asfarlak when the words are repeated below.

[2]) The ašganda holds the hand of the dying person, as the priest would be polluted by the touch of death.

[3]) "Of the masiqta" missing in D.C. 53.

And beware, beware and beware lest thou begin any of the "loosing prayers" [1] without thy pandama. (Do it) only after thou hast made petitions for thyself.

And Life is victorious.

This is the Benediction of Oil, which Bihram-Rba, son of Adam, celebrated for his mother Hawa wife of Adam when she departed the body, whilst Hibil-Ziwa sat before them.

This Benediction of Oil was in the Diwan [2] of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat of the town Ṭib, written by Zazai-ḏ-Gawazta son of Hawa. And Bayan-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar wrote it. Here he distributed it, with these books, amongst a hundred Naṣoraeans, from his own Diwan which he had copied from Ramuia son of 'Qaimat's Diwan that was found in the possession of Haiuna daughter of Yahia and Bainai son of Zakia.

And Bayan-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar said "Just as it was written, I wrote it and all the mysteries of the Oil were therein. As far as Jerusalem, the city of the Jews, their mysteries (sacramental ceremonies) are like these.

And Life is victorious.

Exhort those who administer the oil to be careful. If he (the apparently dying person) doth not depart the body, let them bring him to thee. Recite "In great radiance am I immersed", break open the seal, bear it away (?) and throw it into the jordan.

And when thou administerest oil, beware lest thou make a mistake. If thou hast committed an error, it will need a "masiqta of the sixty" [3] for him on whom the oil falleth and it will be well. If impossible to carry him [4] read a "sixty" masiqta for him with seven food-trays [5], and at "that which is with her" [6] sign him and at "the House of Abathur" sign him.

[1] Prayers of deconsecration.

[2] A diwan is a scroll, a miscellany comprising several texts.

[3] I.e. a masiqta at which 60 faṭiria are made and signed.

[4] Midirḫ; or "to reach him".

[5] The word arabata-variously spelt as arawata, (aruhata in D.C.3) — must be, I think, the rahbata or rahuata of the ritual mss. It seems to mean "spreadings". In actual modern ritual it is either a very large ṭariana, or a tray, or an area of purified and smoothened mud upon which food-offerings are laid out for a zidqa brika. (Blessed Oblation). It occurs only in the plural. Priests translate the word simply as "food-offerings", "sacred foods" but can never be relied upon for exact meanings. רְוַח, רַוַּח, רְחַב = to be wide.

[6] Prayer 49 ma ḏ-bḫ.

(If) the soul (be that of) a good, pious person, one who hath people who will do good after him, bring priests and celebrate sixty masiqtas for him in full with everything. In the upraising of the sixty" sign him[1]) alone at (the words) ma ḏ-bẖ; at the words bit Abatur sign him alone. And in the last upraising sign him alone at bit Abatur and (then) sign the souls of our fathers.

For a masiqta thou requirest meat, water of prayer, [2]) incense, pihta, hamra, wreath and oil. And in (on) the seven trays: - place there all that thou wishest in the trays together with those mysteries (named above).

And when (there is) a masiqta, read the homilies about the soul[3]); let them be many, and be compassionate. It is good (beneficial) for a soul on whom oil falleth. Recite over him and over the seven rahbata[4]) and (pray for) Mandaeans, Naṣoraeans and the faithful. And pray the masiqta prayers "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "Thee", "Lifting eyes", "I sought to raise eyes" and all the appointed prayers for the pihta and mambuha, the "bindings and loosings"[5]) of the masiqta from beginning to end.

Be careful; make enquiry, display kindness, show compassion (during?) the homilies, and loose him from his sins.

And Life is victorious.

Then Hibil-Ziwa taught and said "Great disgrace will fall on any Naṣoraean who (whilst) reading the masiqta openeth his pandama or adulterates the water of prayer. He will not behold his Creator and will be smitten with that blow which was administered to the First Eldest One because he sinned and blundered before his Parents. And I, Hibil-Ziwa, will not reckon him amongst my own, nor count him as one of my own".

And Hibil-Ziwa said "Any Naṣoraean who holds (to?) the pandama and doth not adulterate the water of prayer, as long as he remaineth in the body shall have increase[6]), speech and a hearing because he hath neither removed nor changed aught of that which his fathers commanded him, nor hath he performed the acts of Yušamin [1]) or rendered a portion to the Well Sumqaq [2]), nor did he stand in the heat of the Well Sumqaq".

[1]) "Him" here means the pihta representing the person for whose benefit the masiqta is celebrated. The other loaves represent other souls.

[2]) See p. 36 n. 2.

[6]) The word is misplaced in D.C. 53.

Every man who celebrateth these mysteries must hold (wear) the pandama. When he holdeth his pandama all the creatures of darkness are turned back from his presence, his appearance will shine and all that he hath done will be confirmed by us.

And Life is victorious.]

This is the Book of Gadana which Hibil-Ziwa gave to the chosen elect, which I have copied for myself. I am poor, lowly, child-like and striving, one whom the Seven and Twelve persecute; one of the Root of the First (Life), one insignificant amongst my fellow-priests and ganzibras, earth beneath the feet of Naṣoraeans and dust beneath the feet of the pious [3]).

I, a slave who is all sin, copied this Book of Gadana for myself so that there should be someone to commemorate my name on earth and yonder in the celestial worlds of light. For my heart hath loved the Life and mine eyes wait upon Manda-ḏ-Hiia, who will be to me a support, a deliverer and a rescuer from the sons of Krun [4]) And I testify to the Life and to my lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia with a true and faithful heart.

I am Rabbi Adam-Yuhana son of Bihram son of Sa'dan son of Msa'dan, Kamisia by name, Riš-Draz. I copied it for myself from the book of a righteous and upright woman, a believing (creature) whose mind is pure; in it there is no lechery, lust or harlotry. She consecrated herself to love of Truth (Kušṭa) and copied this Book of Gadana so that there should be for her a commemorator on earth and in the mighty celestial worlds of light, yonder. She was my own paternal grandmother, her baptismal name was Anhar daughter of Šarat. May there be for her enlargement of life! And the name by which she was called [5]) was 'diia, daughter of Adam son of Sa'ad-Juwiri. (She copied it from?) the copy of the great, lofty and respected R. Ram-Yuhana son of R. Yahia-Zihrun son of R. Zihrun son of R. Adam son of R. Yahia-Adam son of R. Šitil son of R. Ram son of R. Zakia son of R. Yahia son of R. Zakia son of a father of ganzibras, R. Mhatam son of R. Sam, known as Manduia, family name 'kuma (Black). He copied it from the book of the great, lofty and respected R. Yahia-Zihrun son of R. Yahia-Bihram son of R. Adam son of R. Yahia-Adam known as Manduia, family name 'kuma. He copied it for a šalmana [1]) — the craftsman Hadaiat son of the craftsman Qasum son of Bihram son of Zakia of the sons of the Dihdaria (tribe), family name Sabur, from the book of R. Zihrun son of Asṭa Faruk, Asṭa Nuruz, his baptismal name being Bihram son of Adam-Yuhana son of Br-Hiia son of Zihrun son of Yahia-Anuš, son of the great lofty and respected R. Mhatam son of Yahia-Baian son of Yuhana-Šadan, of the sons of the Dihdaria, family name Sabur. He copied from the book of Šaha whose baptismal name was Hawa-Mamania daughter of 'Aziz, family name Wašia. He copied it from a book (copied by?)Bihram-Br-Hiia son of Adam-Zakia-Br-Hiia son of Baktiar son of Adam-Bihram, family name Kuhilia, that was copied by the great, lofty and respected master-builder of knowledge and understanding, a noble and distinguished ganzibra, an excellent, accomplished man, devoted to the First Life, son of an orthodox family (root), son of a highly-distinguished family, our teacher, R. Yahia-Bihram son of a father of ganzibras, R. Sam-Bahran son of Yahia son of Zakia son of Yuhana known as Buhaiiar, Zakia by name. May Manda-ḏ-Hiia forgive him his sins for he was kindly and long-suffering, and wrote this book so that there should be commemoration for him on earth and yonder in the worlds of light. And he copied it with the rubrics which had been copied by the great, lofty, respected and reliable ganzibra Zihrun son of Br-Hiia son of Baktiar son of Adam-Bihram, family name Kuhailia—may Manda-ḏ-Hiia forgive him his sins! He copied it for Sam-Yuhana son of Mhatam-Bulbul son of Sam, family name 'Asakir from the book of R. Adam-Baktiar son of Yahia-Zakia-Zihrun son of Yuhana-Šitlan, family name Riš-Draz...

Hurdšaiia [1]) and travelled around a great deal, but found no reliable masiqta equal to this masiqta. When I saw that it was reliable I wrote this masiqta just as it was. And any priest or Mandaean who prays, shall hold to this masiqta.

And now, ye priests who hold to it, be staunch to this masiqta so that there may be forgiveness for your sins, and the Life and Manda-ḏ-Hiia and all the 'uthras sons of light will be your helpers. But we will abandon and not approach any man untrue to it.

And Life is victorious.

So these prayers were arranged from the "Explanation of Prayers of Baptism and the Masiqta" which was copied from the Diwan of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat: their father wrote (it?), Baian-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar and our master Baian son of Zakia. It was in his library. So that these injunctions were written by Baian son of Brik-Yawar. He distributed these books here amongst a hundred Naṣoraeans from his own library, which he had copied from the Diwan of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat which was housed by Haiuna daughter of Yahia and Baian son of Zakia.

For it was written in the town of Ṭib. And Zakia copied it from the Diwan of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat and Yahia (?) copied from the Diwan of Sam son of Anuš-Yahia, and Sam copied from the Diwan of Bihram son of Brik-Alaha. . . ? and Anuš copied from the Diwan of 'Qaiam son of Šarat and 'Qaiam copied from Qaiuma son of Brik-Alaha and Qaiuma copied from Šganda son of Yasmin, and Šganda son of Yasmin copied from the Diwan Zazai-ḏ-Gawazta br Hawa and Zazai-ḏ-Gawazta copied from the Diwan of the First Life.

And Ramuia son of 'Qaimat said "From the day on which it fell from (was written by) Zazai-ḏ-Gawazta son of Hawa till now, the years in which I wrote it, is (a space of) 368 years in the ages". And Ramuia son of 'Qaimat said "I wrote this Diwan in the town of Ṭib in the years when Anuš son of Danqa departed with the heads of the people (ethnarchs), in the years when the Arabs advanced".

Then Baian-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar wrote "I purified myself when I got possession of these mysteries. And I myself travelled around and went on foot to Naṣoraeans and took many diwans from place to place. And nowhere did I find "mysteries" as reliable as these Mysteries of Baptism and Masiqta and Oil-of-Unction. I have written them here and have distributed them to a hundred Naṣoraeans in order that they may hold to and be staunch to them.

[1]) Read Bit-Hudšaiia. The Hudšaiia are mentioned in the Asfar Malwašia, (Bit-Hudšaiia p. 52 1.7) and in the ATŠ.

"And now, ye priests! Hold and abide by this end (purpose), like 'uthras of light who stood by these mysteries, all of them, and confirm it in a communion to which Yawar is joined. [1])

"And any man who doth not confirm this end (conclusion) we will avoid and not approach him. He may go in his clothes and roll in his filth! His habitation will be the Sumqaq Well."

Then the writing of Ram-Ziwa-Bihram son of Baian: — "I have looked into the Diwan of 'The Great Wellspring' of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat. Any person who writeth the Book of Gadana and removeth any of the injunctions assigned and written therein, Thou wilt place in clouds of darkness. And anyone who writeth a book of rejection, or removeth any of the injunctions written therein so that they are broken, shall be cursed with a great curse. For this is the curse which the First Life uttered and pronounced, "Anyone who becometh hostile to the Life shall die the second death of an enemy: he will belong to the Darkness; he will fall and for him there will be no uprising".

(But) those who have not removed trust in the Life or (changed) any part of that which they wrote and taught about it, any individual, he and his opinion: and hath delivered them from their sins . . [2]) Moreover, anyone who cuts a copy, or extracts therefrom the name of its owner, shall be cut off (himself and sent) to the watch-houses (purgatories) of the planets. And at the Great Judgement he will stand up, but Abathur will not take his hand in kušṭa [3]).

Life is victorious over all works and victorious is Yawar-Ziwa and his helpers, his people, his priests, and his holding (partisans).

And Life and all Its works are victorious.

In the name of the Great Life!

May there be healing, victory, strength, soundness, speech and a hearing for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, from the Life!

[3]) I.e. grasp his right hand in the solemn act of fealty and friendship.

[4]) The prayer is called by the priests the Audin utušbihan.

We have acknowledged 1) and praises (are due)
To the mighty sublime First Life,
The Ineffable which is over all works.
(I come), bringing (dedicating) my head and my mouth
To the Life and to the implanted Word
And to 'Uṣar-Hiia, the great solace and support of Life
In order to praise, honour, magnify, bless and exalt Thee.
(Yet) who shall praise Thee 2), Life?
And who, Life, shall magnify the greatness of Thy victories?
Thou art lauded, Thou art magnified, thou art glorified
And Thou art exalted!

At Thy radiancy the riders were afraid 3),
At Thy light gates and kingdoms were troubled.
On seeing Thee the Jordan turned about,
The waves of the sea rolled back
And the islands of the sea were thrown into confusion.
Chariots were overthrown and they fell on their faces.
Cedars of Lebanon were rent, mountains shook and leaped like stags,
They opened and gave praise.
Does in the desert shed their young untimely;
The heights arise and speak in (Thy) honour.
The earth trembled and was shaken.
Jordan! whom didst thou behold that thou didst turn back?
Waves of the sea! wherefore did ye roll back?
Isles of the sea! why were ye thrown into confusion?
Chariots! wherefore did ye overturn and fall on your faces?
Cedars of Lebanon! why were ye rent?
Mountains! wherefore were ye shaken and why did ye leap like stags?
(Why) did ye open and give praise?
Does in the desert! on account of Whom did ye miscarry your young?
Heights! in Whose honour did ye arise and speak?
Earth! Whom didst thou behold and (at what) didst thou tremble? 4)

At the Light which surpasseth all lights,
And at the Good Being who crossed the worlds
And came and cleft the firmament and revealed Himself."
When the Life gazed (down) and looked on the earth
And Its Glory alighted upon the roofs of Its Building, (Lo!) they were sitting on thrones of rebellion.
They got down meekly from their thrones
And fell upon their faces. It eclipsed and took away
The glory of the worlds and generations
And quenched the flames of their lamps.
It set the eyes of the planets in the depths of the earth
And in the lower glooms of Darkness.

Spirit (ruha) lifted up her voice,
She cried aloud and said, "My Father, my Father
Why didst Thou create me? My God, my God,
My Allah, why hast thou set me afar off
And cut me off and left me in the depths of the earth
And in the nether glooms of darkness
So that I have no strength to rise up thither?"

All arose, prayed and praised the majesty of mighty (Life)
And their voices sang to the Glory that is mighty
Praising the Radiance which surpasseth (all) radiance
And the Light which surpasseth (all) lights,
And the Good Being who crossed the worlds,
Came, cleft the firmament and revealed Himself.
He sundered Light from Darkness and sundered Good from Evil,
He sundered Life from Death,
And He brought out those who love His name of Truth
From Darkness to Light and from Evil to Good
And from Death to Life and set them
On roads of Truth and Faith.
And Thou hast spoken to us with Thy Word
And hast commanded us with Thy commandment —
"Be My glory and I will be your Glory.
Be my light and I will be your Light.
And my name shall be in your mouths
And I will be with you".

Thou art He who overthrowest (false) gods in their high-places
And bringest reproach on the divinity of (false) deities.

They were broken down by shame on their way
And deep ignominy befell their temples
And fettered their might. [1]

Great is the splendour in which Manda-ḏ-hiia is arrayed!
Blest is that day of light, praised is that dawn
On which Thou didst travel and come from worlds of light!
(That day) is not reckoned in a count of days.
Nor in a reckoning of months;
Except that day on which Thou wast revealed from worlds of light.
We will reveal to them, that day on which Thou wast revealed,
To all who love Thy name of Truth (kušṭa).

We offer up our commemoration, our petition, our prayer,
Our submission, our ṭabuta [2] and our faith
In Thy presence, (O) 'Uṣar-Hiia, Delight and great Support of Life.
Were we to stand and praise Thee, Thy name,
Thy title and Thy goodness seven times a day, my Lord,
Who could praise Thee, Life,
Or magnify (worthily) the greatness of Thy victories?
Can the stinking body praise Thee? or the vain tongue?
Were our mouth like the sea, our lips like its waves
And our tongue like cleft mountains,
Then might we praise Thee, magnify Thee, honour Thee and bless Thee!

Thou knoweth him who feareth Thee with his heart
And him who confesseth thee with his lips.
With a pure mouth be Thou blessed
And lauded with a tongue of praise.
Supporters who do not waver, interpretations [3]
Of Truth (kušṭa) which vary not praise Thee.
Sons of Perfection beside Thee, (an) endless, countless
And everlasting (company), all shining with reciprocal radiance,
Praise Thee, for amongst them all hatred,
Envy and dissensions exist not.

Praiseth Thee. The ancient, lofty, occult
And watchful One, Abathur, who sitteth according
To his rank, like the Life, praiseth Thee,
The 'uthra Pthahil praiseth Thee and saith to Thee,
"Blessed art Thou, my Lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia
And praised. And blessed is the Place
From which Thou camest: praised, magnified
And honoured is the great Place from which Thou camest.
And praised, magnified and honoured is the great Place
To which Thou goest."
Elect righteous (men) from lower sanctuaries [1])
Praise thee; for Thy knowledge, Thy wisdom,
Thine understanding and Thy goodness do they praise Thee.

Thou hast come! Thou comest and art ready to reveal Thyself.
Thou art immeasurable, infinite and everlasting.
Thou art the Father, Thou art the Brother, Thou art the Son;
Thou art the Source, Thou art the great Root of Life;
Thou art the First, Thou art the Last,
Thou art the Future, for Thou preparest Thyself to come
And didst depart in order to reveal Thyself.
Put far from us Thy wrath and bring near Thy mercy.
Turn back, push back, remove and make impotent
Angels of wrath, frost and hail from my land
And my house — mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš —
In the twinkling of an eye and at a turn of the wheels,
(Let) our petition, our prayer and our submission
Rise up before Thee, Manda-ḏ-Hiia!
That which we have done forgive us,
And that which we do, forgive us,
(For) Thou, (O) Manda-ḏ-Hiia art a forgiver of sins,
Trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes.
If Thou, (O) Manda-ḏ-Hiia, didst not forgive our sins,
Our trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes,
Who would stand guiltless before Thee, Manda-ḏ-Hiia?
Slaves are we, who are all sin
And Thou the Lord who art all mercy.
Before Thee, all hands are thieving and all lips lying;
In Thine eyes, Manda-ḏ-Hiia (even) Jordan-waters are not cleansing.

[1]) The reference is again to the Mandaean škintas.

The worlds know not Thy name, nor recognise Thy light.
O (fie on) those who sit and eat and drink,
On those who quarrel and persecute!
O (fie on) those who fornicate and are adulterous!
O (fie on) those who worship portico and clay brick!
Day by day they sit on thrones of insolence
And persecute the name of the Life;
(Yet) they knew not the name of the Life,
Nor did the idea of the Life enter their minds.
(But) we have testified to Life and put our trust in Life;
And Manda-ḏ-Hiia stood by us, was of our company
And was our Helper.

The worlds reviled us and persecuted us.

Nor with the judgement of the world judge us:
Range us not with the world-guilty,

Life! From the Hidden accept Thy [2] prayers,
And we will establish delight in Thy light.
Thou art our Radiance, our Brightness, our Strength,
Our Help and our Enlightenment which thou didst reveal to us,

To the first lovers of thy Name, in rays of radiance.
We have confessed Thy truth and will spread Thy light
(Shed) upon us. Thy victories will bring it to pass
And we will be stablished in Thy truth (kušṭak).
The (false) gods in the height will see us
And will be convicted of guilt and put to shame.

Thou wilt show us the road
By which Thou camest from the House of Life
And therein we will walk the course

And the will of the three 'uthras [1]),
And according to the will of Manda-ḏ-Hiia

Of the Four Beings, sons of salvation.
In Thy presence there will be restoration

Thou wilt clothe us with Thy radiance

Which is above all names.

1) D.C. 53 has umištakilan in the next line. I think that the verb here is ŠKLL ("restoring our souls and "perfecting our souls"), see J שַׁכְלֵל. (M.L. has umištkalin).

And asking solace. And an 'uthra of Life
Cometh and resteth upon them day by day and hour by hour.
Praises (be) to the fame of the righteous
And to the existence of Chosen Elect (men),
And to the Unearthly (1) Being who standeth without,
Whose eyes are open and fixed upon those
Who love his name of Truth (kušṭa) —
Thou art he, Manda-ḏ-Hiia! for thou knowest
About that in which the perfect man is made perfect,
And about the virtuous man, in what his virtue consisteth (2).
And the Lie (3), of what doth it consist.
Not a word issueth from the mouth of a perfect man
But thou knowest it, hast understood and expected it
In the great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.
The mountain doth not boast its strength, nor a hero his doughty deeds, (4)
Nor doth a bowman vaunt his bow, nor the physician his drugs,
Nor the righteous and sage man the utterance of his mouth.
Not so: it is an 'uthra of Life which cometh
And resteth upon Thy devotees.
And those who seek from Him shall find, and to those who ask of Him
It will be given. Day by day, hour by hour, behold us
Who stand in Thy name and are upheld by (calling on) Thy name.
We hold to Thy Leader (5) of the great company of Truth
We have held staunch because of Thy victories.
Humiliate us not; cast us not into the hands of tormentors,
Liars, hypocrites and the censorious.
Let not torturers strike us nor condemners damn our souls!
The good will see and will be found ready (6),
(But) The wicked will be discomfited and the children of the world be shamed
Perfected (souls) will see that the Life existeth
,And will direct their gaze to the great Place of Light and the everlasting Abode.

---

(1) Lit. "Strange".
(2) Lit. "what there is belonging thereto".
(3) Both D.C. 3 and D.C. 53 have šaqara (lit "liar" M.L. 138: 6 ušrara).
(4) Read gabaruṯḇ.
(5) Br guda. (Not "curtain" here.)
(6) Or "are refreshed" i.e. partake of sacramental food, an ecclesiastical expression for eating and drinking at sacraments.

Thou, Manda-d-Hiia, callest the caller [1], nourishest the nourisher, buildest the builder,
Exaltest horns [2], enlargest footsteps and settest up a road [3],
And dost knit together in communion.

Thou art He who constructeth, and who takest out from amongst the peoples, nations and tongues every man who is summoned, worthy and invited. To every man whose term of life is over Thou wilt be a Helper, Saviour and Guide to the great Place of Light and to the everlasting Abode. As to one whose term is incomplete [4] and he standeth (liveth) in the body, (able) to open his mouth, lift up his voice, pray his prayers and to offer up his praise, and whose feet can walk to my House [5], thine 'uthra shall come and shall rest upon him, Thy friend.

Diffuse Thy light over all who love Thy name of Truth (kušṭa). Thou hast spoken with Thy Word and hast commanded us with Thy commandment, "Over your words My Word hath precedence: and at the raising of your right hands (towards Me?) My right hand will be lifted [6] towards you. Ye will call, and I will answer you quickly. Ye will seek My hand and I will not withhold it (from) your hands".

We will pray with Thee the 'uthras' prayer and ask of Thee, of the Great (Life),[7] a petition for ourselves, for our friends, for our friends' friends and for those who love the great Family of Life, for the whole Naṣiruta [8] of Life, fulfilled and disseminated on earth. Thou wilt bring us some of Thy radiance, thou wilt lend us some of Thy light. We will enter into Thy radiance will go forth in Thy light, will rise in Thy name and be kept right by Thy nature [9]. Truth is Thy name, Knowledge of Life is Thy name, precious is Thy name, magnified is Thy name, victorious is Thy name, victorious are the words of truth which issue from Thy mouth, and victorious are all Thy deeds 1).

[1] M.L. 139 : 5 qaruiia, D.C. 3 qaruia and D.C. 53 aqaruiia.

[2] A common expression for giving self-confidence.

[3] Dirka in both D.C. 3 and D.C. 53: M.l.139:6 kudka (boundary-stone).

[4] Lit. "who has his measure" (or "span"), i.e. has years of life still before him: everyone being allotted a fixed measure of years.

[5] D.C. 53 and D.C. 3 differ here from M.L. (which has lraurubia sigia ḏ-ligrḫ instead of ulbit sagia ḏ-ligrḫ.

[6] I.e. in blessing.

[7] I suspect a miscopying at some time, for in other passages we get šulta ḏ-rba ulazuṭa (a petition that is great and not small). But rbia in the plural implies that the Great Life is meant.

[8] Naṣiruta: here probably the whole body of believers, the teaching of the Naṣoraeans.

[9] Kiniana means both "nature" and "name".

And Life is victorious!

77

In the name of the Life!
Thee (O) life, (is it meet) to praise, to honour,
To magnify and to bless;
First Life, Second Life and Third Life,
Yufin-Yufafin 2) and Sam-Mana-Smira 3)
And the Vine which is All-Life
And the great Tree which is all healings.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour and magnify
And to bless 'Uṣar-Hai 4) and Pta-Hai 5)
Who open (reveal) the pihta of Life 6)
And transplant a planting of Light,
And instal the First Counterpart
In the House of Life.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless Nbaṭ 7)
The First great Bursting-Forth (Emanation),
The exigence of Life 8) in Its nature.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
The Lord of Great Fruition. the great and high Being
Who was fruitful, begetteth and produceth

1) Kušṭa is more than "truth". As antithesis to "lie": it is "sincerity", "good-faith", "rectitude", "fidelity".

2) Cf Yafefiyah "divine beauty" Targ.Y. Deut. xixv, 6. The verb יפה is not Mandaic, so that this is probably a name of foreign origin.

3) Lidzbarski always translates Sam Mana Smira as "Sam der wohlverwahrte Māna".

4) Either "Treasure-of-Life" or "Treasury of Life".

5) Literally "He (or "they") opened Life", i.e. "revealed or began life".

6) Or pihta ḏ-hiia = "Bread of Life".

7) The high-flown mystical language of this hymn is only comprehensible when the basic idea of creation as propounded in the inner teaching of the priesthood is brought to bear on its literal interpretation. Nbaṭ, "It or They burst forth" is the literal meaning, refers to the self-manifestation of a creative force after a period of quiescence. This "urge of life", this irrepressible impulse to express itself in worlds of spirit and matter, appears in the metaphor of springs of water, the bursting forth into leaf, flower and fruit of the vegetable world, the birth of creatures and so on.

8) Ṣurik hiia "need (or necessity) of life," could be almost rendered by the French "élan vital".

Great fruit for Himself.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Yukabar-Ziwa, who increased in his brilliancy
And was great in his light.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia, the life which proceeded from Life,
The truth (kušṭa) that was aforetime, in the Beginning;
Who was mightier in His radiance than the worlds of light.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Haš, 1) the Stem of splendour, 2) radiance, light and honour
Whose branches are a thousand thousand and its tendrils
A myriad myriad. Well is it for him
Who hath looked on that Tree!
Bihram 3), who saw it, lived, shone, was cured and established
And his name hath not died.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Ṣanaṣiel 4), who standeth at the Gate of Life
And prayeth for spirits and souls.
He interpreteth silence, inspireth hope
And taketh in keeping in the World of Light
The prayers of pious and believing people.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Haiašum-Kušṭa 5), messenger of Life,
The Word of the first chosen elect (men).
He crossed the worlds, came, pierced the firmament
And revealed himself.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Bhaq-Ziwa 6), who is called "He acted and succeeded in his škinta."
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Yukašar 7), source of radiance

---

1) Haš = "He pondered".

2) Hadra in D.C. 3 and D.C. 53, M.L. 142:3 has hidra.

3) The Bihram Rba in whose name all baptisms take place? This line hints at a human being.

4) Possibly from נָצַץ "to blossom"?

5) "May-the-name-of-Kušṭa-live".

6) The root BHQ means "to glisten, to be white".

7) It seems likely that the words of the preceding clause attached to Bhaq-Ziwa, were originally part of those attached to Yukašar, whose name seems to mean "the spirit of success".

Who bestoweth radiance and displayeth his light.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Biriawiš, the strong source (kana) [1],
The Kana took thought so that its radiance increased.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Ayar [2], the pure Vine which abideth
In the great and lofty Treasure-house [3] of Light.
(Meet it is) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
The pure Yušamin [4] who resteth upon
The treasures of the waters
And upon mighty wellsprings of light.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
The 'uthra Tauriel [5], the being who resteth by
The pastures [6] of the water.
When a fragment from the little finger of his right hand
Fell (off ?) There was consternation on earth,
And vexation(?) [7] in the world of falsehood.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Adatan and Yadatan [8], who stand at the Gate of Life
And praise and extol Life,
And pray for the spirits and souls
Of righteous and believing people
In the Place of Life.
(Meet is it) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Šilmai and Nidbai [9], two 'uthras
Delegates of Manda-ḏ-Hiia

[1] See p. 47, n.4. The Kana of the next line probably means the Divine Source of all Water of Life in gnostic symbolism. Biriawiš = Piriawis, the heavenly jordan, see p. 12 penult.

[2] Ayar, "ether", "pure air" is personified in Mandaean texts. He seems to correspond with the "most thin air" of the Essenes (Josephus, vol.iv, p. 155) and the Iranian Vayah (Ether).

[3] See p. 95, n. 5.

[4] Yušamin: see p. 7 and p. 13, n. 6.

[5] Tauriel is often invoked in phylacteries. An obvious cattle-spirit, he calls into mind the Mithra myth, in which the bull's blood released the forces of fertility and life. The verse is obscure. To lose a little finger is one of the causes of disqualification to priesthood.

[6] (See n. 5.) (Syr. ܦܘܚܡܐ).

[7] Or consuming (rage) ?

[8] Adatan and Yadatan, often mentioned as a pair: no function is assigned them, except here.

[9] Šilmai and Nidbai are the guardian spirits of the jordan.

Who are active and do (the work of) the Life.
With kušṭa and with the testimony of the Life
They immerse living, shining, bright and well-doing 1) souls
Who go in sincerity to the Jordan (and are baptised)
(But) not in the name of gods 2) or of a messiah!
(It is meet) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Šum-Hai, Rhum-Hai, 'In-Hai and Zamar-Hai 3),
Four Beings, sons of perfection,
Who come towards sincere and believing people,
And take them out of bonds
(Tied by) the hands of the wicked
And from beneath the claws of scheming men;
And lift them up to the great place of Light
And to the Everlasting Abode.
They knit them into the Bundle of Life
And build them into a great Building
Of sure strength 4).
(It is meet) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Hibil, Šitil and Anuš 5),
Sons of a Stock which is living, light-giving,
Vigorous and sturdy:
Beings that cannot be taken by the sword
Nor consumed by flames of fire;
Nor swept away by floods of water;
Nor will the thongs of their sandals
Be dipped in the water.
They were judged and were justified;
They sought and they found;
They strove and reached the Great Place of Light
And the Everlasting Abode.
(It is meet) to praise, honour, magnify and bless
Ṣihiun, and Pardun, and Kanfun 6),
'Uthras whose names, each one, are in the House of Life 7);

---

1) Vigorous, flourishing, full of vitality.
2) Lit. in the name of Allah-cult, Allahdom, i.e. heathen
3) Four beings mentioned in Prayer 17.
4) Šrara; see p. 80, n. 5 and p. 79, n. 4.
5) The three sons of Adam Kasca.
6) The names do not occur elsewhere as a trio.
7) D.C. 3 has ḏ-had had hawia šumaihun bit hiia adam kasia bihram uram utria ḏ-had šumaihun bit (hiia) utrin trin kinianun. The sentence is obscure.

And the 'uthras Adam-Kasia [1]), Bihram and Ram whose names are
Each one in the House of life, (but) their nature is two two, (dualistic?)
And the names of righteous and believing people
Will be established in the Place of Light.
Thy name giveth out light, Thy name is illustrious,
Thy name is pleasing and Thy name raiseth up.
Thy name is victorious and victorious are the words of truth
Which issue from Thy mouth, (victorious) over all works.
Make victorious and raise up this my soul,
(The soul of) Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš!
And Life is victorious over all works.

I copied these three prayers "We have acknowledged", "Praises", and "Thee (Life)" for myself so that there may be commemoration for me on earth and yonder in the mighty and lofty worlds of light. For my heart hath testified to the First Life and I endure the persecution of the world from sons of the planets. For one name - Yawar - do I strive with a pious and believing heart for the love of precious Truth.

My waiteth on the Life and mine eyes upon Manda-ḏ-Hiia; for they will be my support, my deliverer and saviour from the Place of Darkness to the Place of Light.

I copied for myself, poor and lowly a slave who is all sin, dust on the feet of Naṣuraeans ...etc.

(The rest of the colophon, which resembles the former colophon, is omitted).

THE RESPONSES. ('niania)

78

In the name of the Great Life!
May my thought, my knowledge and my understanding
Enlighten me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,
By means of these responses [2]) and homilies for baptism and the masiqta.

[1]) Adam Kasia, the occult Adam, has the occult Eve (Hawa Kasia) as spouse, Ram's spouse is Rud, but Bihram's spouse is unnamed.

[2]) 'niania means "answers", "responses", hence these hymns were probably chanted antiphonally, although this is not the case now. Henceforward I shall translate 'niana "hymn". Drašia = "homilies" or "canticles".

79

In the name of the Great Life!
When the myrtle [1], the myrtle, flourished
In the gardens of Hibil;
When the wild marjoram grew in the precincts of the manda [2],
They gave me two twigs of myrtle
From which they twisted a wreath for the jordan.
For it is wondrous and fragrant is its perfume!

[Recite this hymn and twist a wreath of myrtle for thy staff, then read the jordan-hymn "Hear me my father, hear me".]

80

In the name of the Great Life!
Hear me, my Father, hear me! Draw me upward
(O) Great One, son of the mighty (Life),
Our Father, son of the Life!
Šilmai and Nidbai, lords of the jordan, hear me!
Jordan, and both its banks, hear me!
Hear me, Hibil-Ziwa, whose strength
Resteth upon his brethren, the 'uthras!
Hear me, Yawar-Ziwa, (thou)
Whose creations rest on (depend upon?) the jordan!
Hear me, Mana-Rba-Kabira [3])
And raise that which ye have planted!
Hear me, hear me, Habšaba [4]) and Kana-ḏ-Zidqa [5]), Hear me, hear me, Abathur-Rama [6]), whose strength
Presideth over the Scales!
Hear me, great Bihram! and raise me up
Yuzaṭaq-Manda-ḏ-Hiia!
Hear me, (ye) Seven Mysteries which reside

---

[1]) The word also means "healed".

[2]) In the sacred enclosure of the manda (mod. mandi) myrtle must be grown. Formerly, perhaps, marjoram was grown also, but it is no longer intertwined in the myrtle-wreath.

[3]) The great mighty Mana.

[4]) The first day of the week, personified, Sunday.

[5]) The collection of food-offerings and offerings in kind brought for the Zidqa brika, Blessed Oblation.

[6]) The spirit which sits on the frontier of the worlds of light with his scales, weighing their deeds.

In the Great Wellspring
Hear me, (ye) three wellsprings which give out
Radiance, light and effulgence!
Hear me (ye) three manas
Who rest upon the jordan with your treasure!
Hear me, Anuš-'Uthra [1]),
Whose strength dwelleth upon me!

81

In the name of the Great Life!
Hear me, my Father, hear me!
And draw me upward, great Son of the mighty (Life);
Our Father, Son of the Life!
Šilmai and Nidbai, lords of the jordan, hear me!
Jordan and its two banks, hear me!
Habšaba and Kana-ḏ-Zidqa hear me!
Hear me, Great Life, from the height,
Hear me!

82 [2])

In the name of the Great Life!
At the Fountain-head came I forth,
At the Source of springs of life went I hence.
Three škintas (sanctuaries) did I found
And set over them guardians as rulers.
The guardians I appointed to rule over them
Are sublime, blessed and trusty
To the uttermost.

[Repeat this hymn when thou art baptising and takest up the mambuha [3]) into the phial from the jordan, and recite the prayer "At the Fountain-head of Water came I forth" and then recite "Blessed art thou, Outer Door".]

83

In the name of the Great Life!
How lovely are plants which the jordan hath planted

---

[1]) Anuš-'Uthra is a spirit active in helping the Naṣoraeans. See G.R., many passages.

[2]) Quoted G.R. p. 145.

[3]) The sacramental water or sacramental drink.

And raised up! Pure fruit have they borne
And on their heads they set living wreaths.
Yawar-Ziwa rejoiceth in the good plants
Which the jordan planted and raised.
The Plants rejoice and flourish
In the perfume of Manda-ḏ-Hiia
Which breatheth [1] upon them.

84

Truly did my baptiser baptise me,
Well did my baptiser baptise me,
Truly did my baptiser baptise me
And your baptism shall attain its end.

85

Šilmai hath baptised us with his baptism,
Nidbai hath signed us with his pure sign,
The great Anuš-'uthra hath placed living [2] wreaths on our heads.

86

The jordan in which we have been immersed
Shall be our witness that we have turned not away
From our sign, nor have altered our [3] pure Word.

87

I rejoice in my priests
And in Naṣoraeans who hearken to my converse.
I rejoice in you, my priests,
For ye have not changed my pure Word.

88

In the name of the great Life!
May the sublime Light be magnified!
Rightly do I say to you, my Chosen,

---

[1] Lit. "which resteth on them".
[2] I.e. fresh, or freshly cut, myrtle.
[3] D.C. 53 mimran, D.C. 3 mimrai. See M.L. 151; n.1.

Who went up with me to the jordan,
Pervert and change me not, alter me not by hand,
Pervert not nor alienate me,
Men who have heard the Voice of Life!
He who heareth the voice of Life
Will be edified, will be built up,
Built up and armed. (Such a man's) strength will be doubled.
Moreover, those who listen to the speech of the Life
Will be greatly increased,
Will be enriched and will not lack.
Into the communion that is great will he be knit,
He will enter the communion that is great
So that he will be united (therewith) and will arise
And will behold the Place of Light.
And Life is renowned and victorious,,
And victorious the man who went hence.

89

In the name of the Great Life
The great Light be magnified!
To you do I call and (you) do I teach,
Men who have received the Sign.
Hearken not to the talk of all peoples and generations;
Let not their stumblings cause you to stumble,
Stumble not because of their stumblings!
Be not interrogated at their tribunals,
At their tribunals be not interrogated!
Certainly have ye held to established truth,
Ye have held to the certainty about which
I instructed you. I call to my chosen ones so that Ye may not turn your thought away from Me.
Because any man who is not steadfast (in thought)
Whose mind is turned against me,
Whose mind is turned from me,
Great and not small will be his hurt [1]).
If ye have attained my strength [2])

---

[1]) Mhita = "blow", "wound".
[2]) Or "my army".

Bear (arms for) me[1]! If ye bear (arms for) me firmly
Stand by me from beginning to end!
But if ye have not attained my strength (or army[2])
Go from me, and approach not!
For he that entereth it and beareth (arms) for me,
His "garment"[3] will be adjusted to the House of Perfection.
But he that weareth it[4] and doth not perfect it
Will die and his spirit will extinguish.
He will die and extinct will be his spirit,
He will become the portion of the world.
Thou hast conquered, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
Good One, who confirmest Thy friends!
Renowned and victorious is Life
And victorious the man who went hence.

90

In the Name of the Great Life
The sublime Light be glorified!
A disciple[5] am I, a new one;
For I went to the jordan-bank
And took my name on my head
And in my heart I took a Sign.
My Sign is not that of Fire,
Nor is it that wherewith the Anointed One[6] anointed,
My Sign is a jordan of living water,
The strength of which none can attain.
He chose one out of a thousand
And from two thousand he chose two,
Making traders of them

---

[1] Lidzbarski translated traget mich (carry me), literal but somewhat unsatisfactory. I suggest that the word here was some form akin to the Syriac ܕܪܪ, hence "Fight for me! If ye fight for me firmly, stand by me from first to last".

[2] See above.

[3] Here a play on words: the garment is the mana, the imperishable soul, the "intelligence", "mind. See p. 4 note 1.

[4] Another play on words: another meaning of DRA "to bear, to carry, to take, to wear".

[5] Or "a priest". This is the meaning accepted by the priesthood here.

[6] The Messiah.

Who labour and ply their trade on earth.
And they trade for fee and pious gift,
And shine more than sun and moon.
I came to the congregation of souls,
For the Life sent me, sent me forth.
There were some who bought my wares,
There those who came to their end [1] and lay down [2].
There were those who bought my wares.
The eyes (of such a one) were filled with light,
Filled with light were his eyes
(On) beholding the Great (One) in the House of Perfection,
There were those who did not buy my wares.
They went on, reached their end and lay down.
They were blind and saw not,
Their ears were stopped and they heard not
And their hearts were not awakened
To behold the Great One in the House of Perfection.
As They called them and they answered not,
When they call, who will answer them?
Because it was given to them but they took not,
Who will give to them when they ask?
They hated the Way of Life and its Abode
But loved the abode of the wicked.
And lo! in the abode of the wicked
Will they be held captive.
They tied up their tribute, their money [3]
In a lappet [4] of their clothes.
When they wish to lift their heads (hold their heads high)
They hurl them down [5] to the Gates of Darkness
To my Chosen do I call, to my Plants

---

[1] The word has a double meaning: "to come to one's end" (i.e. "die") and "to be crowned with a wreath" (a death-rite, see MMII p. 179)

[2] Or "slept", "died".

[3] argbaiun uminunun. Argba uminuna in the G.R. is used for wealth, property". Purple, purple dye or murex (אַרְגָּמָן) appears at one time to have been used for barter, and the Hittite loan-word arkammana for "tribute" suggests that argba uminuna may be a corruption of this or some similar word. Cf. the Assyrian arqaman(n)u and Aramaic אַרְגְּוָן arguan (Delitsch, Ass. Grammar 1889. par. 44). Argamannu was given to temples.

[4] A corner of the robe. This, in modern ‘Iraqi villages, is often used as a purse, money is tied into it.

[5] A play on words.

Who stand [1] by the jordan. I say to them,
"My children (who walk). in my road,
My children (who follow) my road,
Swerve not from it or its boundary!
Let him who deviateth from its boundary
Cling to the boundary-stone.
He who hath turned aside from both
Will fall into the uttermost ends of the world".
Thou hast conquered, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
Good One, who confirmeth his friends!
Thou wilt forgive us who praise our Lord
Our sins and our trespasses.
Renowned and victorious is Life
And victorious the man who hath gone hence.

[Up to here are the hymns and chants of baptism; and from here to below are the hymns and chants of the masiqta.]

91

My vigilance and praisegiving
Are my ferrymen [2] across (the waters of death);
A transformation brought me over,
A cloud [3] of light took me over.
In purity shalt thou rise to the Place of Light.

92

In the name of the Life!
Go in peace, chosen, pure and guiltless one;
Thou art without spot.
Thou hast proven thyself by (thy sojourn on?) earth
And thy destiny leapt upward from its struggles [4]
From its struggles thy destiny leapt upward.
Above all the world thou hast spoken.
Chosen and pure one (saying),
"I am a seer, a diviner;
A seer am I and a diviner!"

[3] Mandaean priests translate "ship".

[4] Daria; as in hirba udaria umutana ḏ-hazin alma D.C. 22(r) 282 (Pet. (r) 287): "war and battles and the mortality of this world".

The worlds assembled for judgement,
For judgement the worlds assembled
And judgement was pronounced on them,
On them was judgement pronounced,
On those who did not perform the works
Of right-dealing Man.
But thou alone, Chosen and Pure One,
Fair mana, that art burnished bright,
Thou goest not to the judgement hall.
Judgement will not be pronounced over thee,
Over thee judgement will not be pronounced,
Because thou didst perform the works
Of right-dealing mankind.
This [1], that they endure and bear,
Thou (O) Chosen One, wilt not find before thee.
Escape the clutch of the planets
And the forces of this world!
Take, put on thy garment of radiance,
Set on thy living wreath!
Bow thyself! and worship!
Prostrate (thyself) and praise the Great Life.
Praise the Place of Life
To which thy fathers go.
Thou (O) Chosen One,
Wast not from here [2];
From this place thou wast not transplanted [3]
Thy planting, thy place was the Place of Life,
Thy home the Everlasting Abode.
They have set up for thee a throne of rest
In which there is no heat or wrath.
There is kept for thee a girdle
In which there is no trouble or fault [4].
Good one! Rise to the House of Life!
And go to the Everlasting Abode [5]!

---

[1] Not hazia as in D.C. 53, but haza as in D.C. 3 and M.L.

[2] The earth.

[3] Lit. "Not from here was transplanted thy transplantation".

[4] asga = trouble, tiresomeness. Cf. D.C. 22 (1) ḏ-asga umuma litbḫ (as above). (G.R.l. 80: 4)

[5] The double meaning of taqna must be borne in mind. Here, possibly, a "light' ,meaning.

They will hang thy lamp amongst lamps of light
And they will shine in thy time, and at thy moment.
Arise! Behold the Place of Light!
Renowned is Life and victorious
And victorious the man who went thither.

93

The mana rejoiceth in its treasure
And in the glory of Life
Which resteth on it.
I have acknowledged thee
(O) elect righteous one,
For thou settest my soul free
From transitory things.

94

Hail to thee, hail to thee, soul
That hast departed from the world!
Thou leavest corruption and the stinking [1] body
In which thou hast been: (thou leavest)
Its abode, the abode of the wicked,
The place which is all sinning,
The world of darkness,
Of hatred, jealousy and dissensions,
The abode in which the planets go about,
Bringing pains and blemishes,
Pains they bring, and blemishes,
Every day causing them tribulation.
Rise up, rise up, soul!
Ascend to thy first homeland.
Rise, rise to thy first homeland,
The place from which thou wast transplanted,
To the place from which thou wast transplanted,
To thy good dwelling, (the dwelling) of 'uthras,
Bestir thyself! don thy garment of glory
And set on thy living wreath. [2]

[1] Read saria as in other mss.

[2] Both D.C. 3 and D.C. 53 omit Tib 'l kursiak ḏ-ziwa ḏ-hiia tirṣuiḇ batar nhur (Rise, sit on thy throne of radiance which the Life set up for thee in the Place of Light.) See M.L. p. 160 n.1.

Rise! inhabit the *škinta*s
Amongst the 'uthras, thy brethren.
As thou hast learnt, praise thy first Home;
And curse this place, the house of thy fostering;
For (during) the years that thou didst spend therein
Every day the Seven were thine enemies,
The Seven were thine enemies and the Twelve
Beset thee with persecution.
Renowned is Life and victorious,
And victorious the man who hath gone thither.

95

Her Sunday, her kušṭa and her alms
Bear witness for the soul.
Ye will be her witnesses
And will pass her through at the toll-house.

96

I am provided and provisioned:
'Uthras of light equipped me.
I am provisioned; for Life provided for me.
And I am equipped by 'uthras of light.
They provided me with provision of Truth (kušṭa)
And armed me with all their wisdom.
Wherefore did Pthahil come into existence?
And why did he create the world?
Wherefore was a plan formed
Whereby they brought me from my home?
(Whereby) they sent me to a world of stumblings,
Filled with knots and seals.
It is all full of fire
And sown with thorns and thistles:
It is full of delusion,
All full of deception and lie.
The planets who dwell therein
Conceive plots against me daily
Plotting evil, and declare
"We will divert her thoughts!"
Of my heart that is full of true-dealing
They say, "From us shall come that

Which will make it stumble [1]".
(Of) my eyes that gaze towards the Light
They say "We will make them blink".
(Of) my mouth, which blesseth the Life,
They say "it shall speak untruth";
(Of) my hands, which give alms,
And offer the clasp of good faith [2],
They say "they shall commit murder".
(Of) my knees which bend and worship the Life
They say "they shall bend for the Seven".
(Of) my feet that tread paths of righteousness
And faith, they say, "they shall go on raids [3]" ("deeds of violence").
I lifted mine eyes to heaven
And my soul waited on the House of Life.
And the Life who heard my cry
Sent toward me a Deliverer.
The Deliverer who came to me
Brought me that which was lovely;
He opened out a robe and showed me its radiance
And I cast off the stinking body.
He grasped me with the palm of his right hand
And led me over the waters of death [4].
Over the waters of death he brought me
And led me onward; in the likeness of Life he supported me.
Life supported Life, Life found its own.
Its own Self did Life find
And my soul found that for which it had looked.
Renowned is Life and victorious
And victorious the man who went hence.

97

He rose and took me with him
And did not leave me in the perishable dwelling.

---

[1] Literally "We will cause it to stumble on account of us".

[2] The ritual hand-clasp, also used as a form of oath or promise.

[3] חיפא J. "impetuous attack": ("Barefoot", Lidzbarski's translation, is unlikely, as it is not considered a sin to walk barefoot. bhifia also means "in mourning")

[4] Hafiqia mia see p. 45 n. 6.

98

The day on which the soul goeth forth,
On the day that the perfected one ascendeth,
On the day that the soul issueth from below
The spheres of death, of contention 1),
Strife was thrown into the earth.
Ruha's slaves sit 2) bewailing
And the Seven sit in consternation.
The robe of the stars is rent
And dust is cast on Ruha's head.
The hell-beasts 3) weep
And the demons of purgatories are panic-stricken.
The Being who brought me hither,
Who brought me that which was beautiful,
Put on me a robe, clothed me in a robe of radiance,
In a wrapping 4) of light he covered me.
He set on (my head) a wreath of ether
And (gave me) of that which Life bestoweth on the 'uthras.
He set me up amongst 'uthras
And stood me up amidst the perfected (souls).
A wreath of ether he set on my head,
And gloriously he brought me forth from the world.
Life supported Life,
Life found its own,
Its own did Life find,
And my soul found that for which it had looked.
Renowned is Life and victorious,
And victorious the man who went thither.

99

Ye are set up and raised up, my Chosen ones,
By the Word and Certitude 5) that came to you

---

1) D.C. 53 p. 134 1.5, kišgiš, D.C. 3 kašgš, M.L. p. 164 1.1 ka šgiš. From the P. کشاکش kašākaš (distraction, contention, tumult).

2) Read yatbia.

3) Zangaiia "barkers, roarers, bellers" - a name given to the wolves, lions and dogs who attack souls in the maṭarata (purgatories. See Diwan Abatur).

4) Ṭarṭabuna, see p. 81. n. 1.

5) In both D.C. 3 and D.C. 53 it is ušrara. Lidzbarski translates "word of truth".

The Word and the Certitude that came to the good,
The True Word[1] which came to believers.
My Chosen, ye sought and ye found,
Moreover ye shall seek and ye shall find.
Ye sought and found, my Chosen ones,
As the first (souls?) sought and found.
Thou art victorious, Manda-ḏ-Hiia.
And thou bringest to victory all who love thee.
And Life is victorious.

[Here recite "Blessed and praised is Life, that souls".]

100

In a building which Life buildeth,
Good trees flourish.
Fragrant is the perfume of the trees
With the perfume of Manda-ḏ-Hiia
Which pervadeth them.

[Here recite "Blessed and praised be Life" of Shem son of Noah, and "Good is good for the good".]

101

The Life hath founded a dwelling,
And radiance dawned
In the sublime Ether!
I and my brethren, the 'uthras,
Have set out every good thing[2],
Have set out the allotted portion of the Great (Life):
We have offered it up in purity to the Place of Light.

102

The building that Life buildeth
Will never come to nought.

[Repeat this hymn after thou hast partaken of the communion[3]) and then say "Darkness is crushed back into the Dark 1) and Light set up in its place".]

---

[1] Read kšiṭa as in D.C. 3 and M.L. p. 165.

[2] "I and my brethren" means the celebrant and co-celebrants. The ṭabta refers to the small piles of ritual food ranged round the ṭarianas (tables) of the priests.

[3] I.e. have eaten a few mouthfuls of the ritual food.

103

Darkness is crushed back into the Dark
And Light is set up in its place.
The Life hath accepted your prayer,
The 'uthras have accepted your praise
The oblation is assigned to its lord,
And bounty to him who giveth it.
This soul of N. and the souls of this masiqta 2) rest at the great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.
And Life is victorious.

[Here recite "In great radiance am I immersed" and lift thy hand for the masiqta and pray a prayer for thyself.
And Life is victorious.]

[These hymns and homilies of baptism and the masiqta I copied for myself so that there may be for me commemoration on earth etc. (Cf. other colophons.)]

104 3) (The Rušma)

My Lord be praised!
May Kušṭa strengthen you! In the name of the great Life may healing and purity be thine!
O my Father, their Father, King Piriawis,
Great Jordan of living water,
In the name of the Great Life
We have cleansed our hands in truth (kušṭa)
And our lips with faith;
We have uttered words of radiance.

---

1) 'Uma in M.L. p. 166: 10, also in D.C. 53, D.C. 3 and most copies. 'Uma = "darkness", "gloom", "obscurity" (see ܥܡܡ rt.-meaning "to be dark, overclouded, and the Aramaic עמם "to be dark, obscure" and cognates). The formula occurs again in Prayer 391, but, this time, both my mss. have 'ma (mother). The alteration may be deliberate, for in Mandaean mysticism "the Mother" is associated with matter, the gross and the physical.

2) The soul of the person in whose name the masiqta was celebrated and other souls commemorated.

3) This prayer, which is not in M.L., is recited daily by every Mandaean, and by every priest before each stage of a rite and every morning, whilst performing the minor ablutions. The water used must be "living" i.e. running, and each action and the verse accompanying it, is repeated thrice.

My mind is absorbed 1) in (thoughts of) Light.
Blessed is Thy name, praised is Thy name
My Lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia, and blessed and praised
Is that great Countenance (Presence) of Glory
Which emanated from Itself. (Three times.)
I, N. son of N (or daughter of N.),
Am signed with the Sign of Life
And the name of Life and the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia
Were pronounced on me.
(Three times)
My ears have heard the voice of Life.
(Three times)
My nostrils have breathed the perfume of Life.
(Three times)
My Sign, that is on me, was not in fire,
And not in oil, and not that wherewith the Anointed 2) One anointed.
My Sign is in the great jordan of living water
And the Sign and name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia is mentioned upon me.
Darkness is crushed down, and Light set up
And the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia is mentioned upon me.
(Three times)
My mouth was filled with prayer and praise.
(Three times)
My knees bless and worship the Great Life.
(Three times)
My feet tread the ways of Truth (Kušṭa) and Faith.
(Three times)
I, N. son of N., am baptised with the baptism
Of the great Bihram, son of the Mighty (Life)
My baptism shall guard me and will succeed.
And the name of Life and the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia
Are mentioned upon me.
(Three times)

---

1) ṢHṬ, according to Lidzbarski is used almost always with fire in the sense of catch fire, and in Prayer 115 (M.L. p. 178, 1. 9) he translates 'ṣhiṭibun'' sich entflammten''. Above, however, we have 'shiṭabun in what is practically an identical passage. See J. ṢHṬ 2.

2) The Anointed, i.e. the Messiah.

My feet 1) — and the hands of the Seven and the Twelve
Shall be powerless to rule me.
The name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia
Are mentioned upon me.

105 [Known as the Asiet Malkia]

Kušṭa heal you!
In the Name of the Great Life!
Healing and victory 2) be thine,
O great Gate of the precious House of Mercies!
Healing and victory be yours;
My honoured First Parents
Healing and victory be yours;
Treasure of the great First honoured Life.
Healing and victory be thine;
King Mara-ḏ-Rabutha-'laita
Healing and victory be thine;
King Yušamin the Pure, son of Niṣibtun
Healing and victory be thine;
King Manda-ḏ-Hiia, son of Niṣibtun,
Healing and victory be thine;

Healing and victory be thine;
King Anuš-'uthra
Healing and victory be thine;
King Šišlam-Rba
Healing and victory be thine;
King 'Shaq-Ziwa-Rba-Qadmaia 3)
Healing and victory be thine;
King Sam-Ziwa, pure, eldest, beloved, great, first Radiance
Healing and victory be yours,
Hibil, Šitil and Anuš,
Healing and victory be yours
Adatan and Yadatan,
Healing and victory be yours

---

1) Out of place? Or should it be Ligraihun u'daihun ("The feet and hands of the Seven" etc.)?

2) Or, equally "health and purity" and for nihuilak "shall be thine". Asuta uzakuta is used in fact as a formula of polite greeting, a salutation. As this hymn is recited, the priest bows at every name. The prayer is not in M.L.

3) The-great first-Radiance-was-bright. (שׁחַק)

Šilmay and Nidvay, (ye) two guardian 'uthras of the jordan,
Healing and victory be yours;
(Ye) twenty-four 'uthras, sons of light,
Healing and victory be yours;

Nṣab and Anan-Nṣab [1]),
Healing and victory be yours;
Sar and Sarwan,

Zhir and Zahrun and Bhir and Bihrun,
And Tar and Tarwan

Healing and victory be yours;
King Barbag-'uthra,
Healing and victory be thine;
King Šingilan-'uthra,
Healing and victory be thine;
Simat-Hiia,
Healing and victory be thine;
Great 'Zlat [2]),

Šarat-Niṭufta [3]),
Healing and victory be thine;
Kanat-Niṭufta,
Healing and victory be thine;
Bihrat-Anana,
Healing and victory be thine;
King Abathur-Rama [4]),
Healing and victory be thine;

---

[1]) The prefix "anan" indicates the spouse of the spirit named.

[2]) 'zlat ("she-span") is a personification of pious wifehood of priestly caste. Šišlam-Rba, the prototype of Mandaean priesthood, took to wife 'Zlat, and the marriage is described as a pattern for earthly marriages.

[3]) See p. 37, n. 1.

[4]) There are two Abathurs, one appears to be an dmuta (or counterpart) of the other. In the less abstract form, he is Abathur of the Scales, the spirit of justice which weighs human souls in his balance.

King 'Uṣṭuna-rba [1]),
Healing and victory be thine;
King Abathur-Muzania,
Healing and victory be thine;
King Pthahil, son of Zahriel [2]),
Healing and victory be thine;
King Yahia [3])-Yuhana,
Healing and victory be thine;
King Adam, the first man,
Healing and victory be thine;
King Šitil, [4]), son of Adam the first man,
Healing and victory be thine;
O (ye) kings and 'uthras,
And Indwellings [5]) and jordans,
And running streams and *škinta*s
Of the worlds of light,
All of you, healing and victory (be yours!)
And (may there be) forgiving of sins
For myself, (Adam Yuhana) son of (Mahnuš), (N. son of N.)
Who have prayed this prayer!
May there be forgiveness of sins for me!

(Note.— The part which follows forms the main part of the RAHMIA or "Devotions", i.e. the prayers prescribed for the three prayer-times daily, i.e. at sunrise, at noon and before sunset; each day of the week having its own set of prayers. These must be got by heart, and their correct recitation is an essential part of every priest's training.)

My Lord be praised!

In the name of the Great First Sublime (Strange) Life, from the worlds of light, the Transcendent, above all works, be there healing and purity (victory), strength and soundness, hearing and being heard, joy of heart and forgiving of sins for me, Adam Yuhana son of Mahnuš. May my thought, my knowledge and my intelligence enlighten me by means of this treasure, a section of the Devotions (Rahmia), and the strength of Yawar-Ziwa and Simat-Hiia.

[1]) The "Great Body". The Great Life projected itself as a universe into the Great Body, shaped, according to gnostic tradition, like a man's body with worlds as limbs and organs. Here personified: also called Adam Kasia.

[2]) Zahriel was brought up from the underworld by Hibil-Ziwa, whose semblance wedded her there. Their offspring was Pthahil, who was therefore part darkness and part light.

[3]) John the Baptist.

[4]) Šitil, (usually one of the triad Hibil, Šitil and Anuš) died in order that Adam might live longer. Hence he is called the purest of human souls.

[5]) Mašknia. Or, just "abodes".

106 [1])

In the Name of the Great Life!
Up, up! (ye) Elect righteous ones,
Rise up, ye perfected and believing ones!
Rise, worship and praise the Great Life!
And praise the great king Šišlam-Rba,
And praise the Occult Tanna [2]) and Ham-Ziwa,
And praise the great Yawar and 'Zlat the great,
And praise Simat-Hiia,
From whom all worlds came into being;
And praise the Wellspring and Datepalm [3])
From Whom the Father of 'uthras came into being.
I worship and praise that lofty and great
King of light, the Compassionate One
Who is full of loving-kindness.

[Pray this prayer in the "Devotions" of the early hours (daybreak) for it is the opening (prayer) of the "Devotions". Here recite "My good messenger" and "I worship Life" and recite "In the name of..."]

107

In the name of the Great Life!
My good messenger of light
Who travelleth to the house of its friends,
Come, direct my speech and open my mouth in praise
That I may praise the Great Life
Wholly.

---

[1]) In Lidzbarski's Mandäische Liturgien, this part comes as II, Die Oxforder Sammlung (i.e. in the Bodleian Library). Prayer 106 is Prayer I of his Erstes Buch, on p. 171 M.L.

[2]) See p. 9, n. 1.

[3]) See p. 14, ns. 5 and 6.

108

In the name of the Great Life!
I worship Life
And I praise my Lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia
And that great Presence of Glory
Which emanated from Itself.

[Pray these two prayers after "Up, up elect righteous" in the early morning devotions, then recite "In their name... in the name of that Primal Being"]

109

In the name of the Great Life!
I worship Life and I praise my lord
Manda-ḏ-Hiia and that great Presence of Glory
Which emanated from Itself.

[Pray this prayer at the devotions of the seventh hour and then recite "In their name... in the name of that..."]

110

In the name of the great Life!
The time, the time for devotions arriveth
The time of the Lord of Prayer hath come.
My awakener is Hibil, my instructor [1]) is Šitil, Anuš lifteth up [2]) my hymns,
The immerser in my immersion [3]) is Šilmai
And he who establisheth prayers is Nidbai.

111 [4])

In the name of the Great Life!
My good messenger of light
Who travelleth to the house of its friends
Come, direct my speech and open my mouth in praise
That I may praise the Great Life
Wholly.

---

[1]) Lidzbarski Hymnensänger (M.L. p. 173).

[2]) D.C. 53 has damia, read ramia as in other mss.

[3]) The priest immerses himself at the early morning prayer.

[4]) A repetition of 107.

112 [1])

In the name of the Great Life!
I worship the Life
And I praise my lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia
And that great Presence of Glory
Which emanated from Itself.

[This prayer, "The time of devotions" is the opening prayer of the eventide devotions. Then recite "In their name (= In the name of the Life) and "In the name of that (Primal Being) and set on thy crown and recite beside is "Life created (Yawar-Ziwa)", "Let there be light" and "Manda created me" and then recite "Incense that is fragrant", and "Lo for the First Life" for the incense and cast it on the fire. And here recite the Sunday prayer.]

113

In the name of the Great Life, may healing be mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, through this Sunday prayer!

"On the light of Ether do I stand,
I stand for the Great Light with its purities!
I am Manda-ḏ-Hiia, emanation (lit. planting) of the Mighty First Life.
I cried to the first day of the week, (Habšaba)
The lauded, the pure guardian of the Light
Who enlighteneth 'uthras. To him I said
'Rise up, go, set off, descend to the earthly world,
To that world which is all birth,
To be with the Elect Righteous,
Men formed of flesh and blood.
Hold them in thy grasp, strengthen them,
Stand by them, take care of them,
Give them strength and fortitude
So that they may stand and worship and praise
The Mighty Sublime Life!' "
Then Sunday spoke, saying to Manda-ḏ-Hiia
"How canst thou send me to this world that is all birth
To be with elect righteous (men)
Formed of flesh and blood who do not respect me!
They treat me with contempt, hold me in no great honour,

---

[1]) A repetition of 108.

And remit not my sin and transgression?"
Then Manda-ḏ-Hiia spoke, saying to Sunday,
"Up with thee! Go, set off, descend to the earthly world
To this world that is all birth, to be with
Elect, righteous men formed of flesh and blood.
And grasp them in thy grasp, confirm them,
Stand by them and take care of them!
Turn back and drive away from them
The seven planets together with their demons and devils,
And their amulet-imps and their evil creatures;
So that they will forgive thee thy sins [1])
And thy transgressions; will hold thee in great esteem
And victory will be ours and will be thine".
Then Manda-ḏ-Hiia spoke and said to the elect righteous,
"Give heed to Sunday the Enlightener whom
I have sent to be with you in order to enlighten you,
To uplift you and make you upright,
And to bring you prayer and praise.
Forgive him his sins [2]) and transgressions
And hold him in great esteem."
Manda-ḏ-Hiia taught and expounded and said,
"Anyone who doth not forsake his sins and trespasses
On Sunday, nor holdeth him in high esteem,
Will have no seat amongst the 'uthras
Nor will he behold the great Countenance of Glory.
For Sunday is more precious, greater and more beauteous
And bright than all the 'uthras!"
Blessed and praised is Manda-ḏ-Hiia and the Confirmer".
And Life is victorious over all works.

114

In the name of the Great Life!
Sublime Light be glorified!
Early I arose from my sleep: I stood,
Into radiance that was great I looked,
I gazed into radiance that was great,
Into the Light which is boundless.

[1]) Read "they will forsake their sins and their transgressions".

[2]) I feel sure that this should be "Forsake on it (Sunday) sins and transgressions".

When clothed [1] in robes of radiance
And light was thrown on my shoulders [2],
A wreath of ether He set on my head
And set it on the head of all His race [3].
He hymned, and the 'uthras with Him hymn,
And the Light-rays [4] answer His voice.
And it rouseth sleepers and maketh them rise up
From their sleep.
He said to them "Arise, ye sleepers who lie there,
Rise up, ye stumblers who have stumbled,
Arise, worship and praise the Great Life
And praise His Counterpart, that is the image of the Life [5],
Which shineth forth and is expressed
In sublime light."
And Life be praised!

115 [6]

In the name of the Great Life!
We have purified our hands in kušṭa (truth)
And our lips in faith
We have uttered words of radiance
And were absorbed [7] in thoughts of light.
Thou, my lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia, art blessed and praised
And thy praise is established (on high).
Great is the strength of Life;
Abounding the glory of the mighty (Life)!
Honour resteth upon the 'uthras who sit in glory.
This is prayer and praise which came to them [8] from

---

[1] Not as in M.L. "Ich war bekleidet". Possibly "When the dress of radiance was put on"?

[2] D.C. 53 lkadfḫ "on his shoulder" (D.C. 3 lkadfiḫ): M.L. (from the Bodley ms. lkadfai) "on my shoulder". As the Bodley ms. is the older I have adopted this reading.

[3] In both D.C. 53 and D.C. 3 "He set an ether-wreath on his head and set it on all his race".

[4] Pasimkia: see p. 63, n. 4.

[5] Is the sun taken here as a symbol or image of the deity?

[6] The first few lines are identical with 104 (the Rušma).

[7] D.C. 3 makes 'shiṭ abun two words (not 'ṣhiṭibun as in the Oxford Ms.) De Morgan has 'shiṭabun as in the Rušma and here. See Lidzbarski's note, M.L. 168 n. 2 on the meaning, which he associates with fire. Jastrow, סָחַט however, gives good reason for his second meaning "to absorb".

[8] D.C. 3 and M.L. "came to us"

The great place of Light and the everlasting Abode.
We praise (Him) with it when we have risen from our sleep,
Before any have spoken falsehood.

For any man who prayeth this prayer there will be forgiving of sins and transgressions in the great place of Light and in the everlasting Abode.

And Life is victorious.

116

Blessed be thy name and praised be thy name
My lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia!
Pure mountains that quake not have blessed thee:
'Ufania 1) (interpretations?) of truth which are unchangeable
Have blessed thee.
Sons of salvation who sit in thy company
Have blessed thee.
Yawar-Ziwa, the great king of Naṣirutha
Hath blessed thee;
Ayar-Nhura, the pure, the envoy who is all righteousness,
Hath blessed thee
And I 2) worship and praise that channel of light,
The messenger of all rays-of-light.
Blessed is thy name and praised is thy name,
Being who resteth upon the *škinta*s!
Upon *škinta*s 3) doth his name rest.
Every day, daily, they gaze on his likeness
And upon the great Countenance of Glory.
And Life be praised!

[Pray these four prayers, "On the Ether-Light do I stand", "Early I rose from my sleep", "We have purified our hands in kušṭa", and "Blessed be thy name and praised be thy name". Recite them for the "Devotions" for daybreak after incense.]

I worship, praise and laud
That Šrar, the great occult First Vine
Whose fruits are a thousand thousand,

2) D.C. 53 has ḏ-ana "whom I" etc.

3) M.L. "upon all *škinta*s."

And a myriad myriad His tendrils;
Upon Whom I called and He answered me.
Further, when I call on him, He will answer me;
For He will come and will heal me,
Will lift me up, raise me and confirm me ¹)
Will direct my eyes to the Light,
And my feet to steadfastness
My mouth to wisdom and my heart to vigilance.
Then I worship, praise and laud
That first great occult škinta
That is the house of dazzling beings.
Then I worship, praise and laud
That occult, first škinta
Which my Parents ²) inhabit.
Then I worship, praise and laud
Yon Ruaz, the great first secret Vine
Which loosed its milky juices ³) into the habitations.
Then I worship, praise and laud
That Ruaz, the great first Light
Who hath sovereignty over all worlds of light.
Then I worship, praise and laud
That great, occult, first škinta
To which the eyes of Naṣoraeans,
Men set apart, and the elect righteous
Look, that they may rise and behold
The great place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.
And Life be praised: Life is victorious.

[Pray this prayer in the Rahmia (Devotions) of the seventh hour, after incense on the fire (and after?) "On the Ether-Light do I stand"]

It is time to pray the "Devotions",
The great moment for humble worship ⁴),
For offering up propitiatory prayer ⁵)

¹) D.C. 53 unitaqnan, D.C. 3 unitraṣlia, also M.L. p. 181, 1.3.

²) "My Parents", i.e. according to priestly teaching the cosmic Father and Mother.

³) "Nourishing juices" is perhaps better. From HLB? Lidzbarski (M.L. p. 181, n. 1) rejects this derivation.

⁴) Lit. "to humble oneself".

⁵) Hilita from (חָלָה "to assuage by prayer or gifts"). French douceur.

To my lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
For arousing [1] the elect righteous.
The priests say to Manda-ḏ-Hiia
"We will abjure that which we possess
Of fee, alms and benefit
And the (false) deity [2] of the House [3].
We will come and will be believers."
Manda-ḏ-hiia saith to them, to the priests,
"Your Father hath great strength,
Surpassing all limit, (stronger)
Than passionate thoughts, vain things
And the devouring flame.
The Good One clotheth His children:
He covereth them and raiseth and showeth them
That there is great enlargement [4] of Life
And your souls shall rejoice
With clouds (spouses?) of light.
But other souls will die and become
As though they had never existed.
Ye shall receive your vestments: [5]
Ye shall receive your wreaths.
In the presence of the Great (Life?)
Ye will be great, and will be called
'Uthras amongst the 'uthras.
And ye will say "The Living stand
In the dwelling of the Life".
And Life is victorious over all works.

[Pray this prayer in the evening devotions after incense (and) after "For the Ether-light do I stand".]

In the name of the Great Life
Be the sublime Light glorified!
On Sunday, the first of days,

---

[1] Read as one word, lmitiauria. Different readings by scribes suggest corruption. Lit. "in order to awaken (or arouse)".

[2] Read ulalahuta.

[3] "House"here = the earth, the world.

[4] Or "rebreathing", "refreshment", "renewal".

[5] Titqablun 'uṣṭlaikun omitted in D.C. 53 : see M.L. 183 :4 and D.C. 3 p. 162, l. 5.

Who hath seen that which I have seen?
Who saw Manda-ḏ-Hiia
When he went and came to the world?
He went (thence) and came to the world.
The Earth lay prostrate and was affrighted.
He taught, and lovely was his voice!
And he lifted it up, in his mouth there was eloquence,
Eloquence he put into his mouth.
He revolutionized and forsook the world:
The world he revolutionised and forsook.
Spirit (ruha) sitteth in lamentation
In lamentation sitteth Ruha;
And the Seven sit in consternation;
They weep and prolong their mourning
Because their mysteries are disclosed,
Because disclosed are their mysteries.
They will be brought to an end
On the great Last Day.
Namrus [1] feared and trembled,
Her weapon fell from her shoulder,
From her shoulder fell her weapon
And her bows [2] from the palm of her hand,
Ruha addresseth her sons,
Her good-for-nothing idle (sons),
She saith to them, "Sons, when terror overtaketh your mother,
What will you Seven do?
When the Strange Being cometh,
Who will rise to confront him?"
A consuming ray [3] of light
Is in Manda-ḏ-hiia's hand; felling them
He cometh (to?) the rebels.
The Son-of-Life raiseth his Voice
At departure [4] of the Seven Saying to them "I have brought wares

---

[1] Another name for Ruha: varr. Nimrus.

[2] Plural.

[3] Or "a mace".

[4] paṭur occurs in D.C. 36 and DC. 6 of prayers, that they are the soul's paṭur (paṭurḫ hinun) i.e. "her discharge", her "permission to leave" seems the likeliest translation.

To my friends.
I brought truthful words to believers.
Men who buy my wares,
Their merits wreathe their heads
Twined are their merits,
And their horns are exalted
On [1] their heads.
They will arise and will behold
The Place of Light.
Renowned is Life and victorious,
And victorious the man who went hence.

120

My day — what is it amongst the days?
A day, My day!
What amongst the hours is one hour?
My day, what is it amongst the days?
The day on which the radiance of Manda-d-Hiia shone forth,
My day is Sunday, chief of days,
The day on which the radiance of Manda-ḏ-Hiia dawned:
On my day the radiance of Sunday dawned
Upon us and enlightened us beyond measure.

121

Before the Wellsprings were transmuted [2]
Before the Awakening [3] without,
Before ye were in existence
I was in the world:
The Voice of living waters (Water of Life),
(Waters) which transmute the turbid waters.
They become clear and shining [4]
They gush forth and cast out impurities.

---

[1] Literally "in" or "with" their heads.

[2] The whole hymn deals with the transmutation of turbid water by Water of Life: (šinia,, from ŠNA "to change" ?).

[3] In spite of Lidzbarski's note M.L. 186 n. 4, tirata is undoubtedly "awakening". In D.C. 43 ulabšinta ulabtirata "neither in sleeping or waking". Lidzbarski takes lbar in this line for lbab ('b' and 'r' are easily mistaken).

[4] Nasbia tuqna has the double meaning "take on restoration" and "assume luminosity".

Wherefore should the First (Life) desire sons from the dregs?
Voices cry aloud proclamations [1]
Planning schemes, all of them talk!
(But) one Voice cometh and teacheth all sayings,
One Being cometh and teacheth about this and that.
(As for) us, who have praised our Lord
Thou wilt forgive us our sins.
Thou wast victorious, Manda-ḏ-Hiia
And thou leadest all thy friends to victory.
And Life is victorious.

122

O Lord of devotions,
O Lord of Prayers
And of hymns and good [2] books,
O Lord of prayer and praise,
Hear my voice and condemn me not!

123

Except for six or seven nations,
Fruit is set up on the Tree;
On the Tree fruit is set up
And (other) trees gather together toward it.
Toward it do the trees assemble,
And a throne is set up for the Lord [3] of Radiance
For the Lord of Radiance a throne is set up
And the Lord of Radiance sitteth thereon.
Before him are set up recompenses
Which he delivereth to the perfect,
To the perfect doth he deliver them
And said "To each according to the works of his hands
It is awarded". And he said [4] "Every man who toiled [5]
And was long-suffering shall come and take with both hands,

---

[1] Or "sacred instruction" "scriptures".

[2] Reliable, orthodox books.

[3] Read Irab.

[4] Not in M.L.

[5] D.C. 53 is defective. For kulhin ḏ hua read as in other mss. kul man ḏ hla u'tangar. The verb is הֲלָא not חֲלָא (in Mandaic there is no distinction between the two hs.). Jastrow gives as the meaning of הלי, הלא "to be faint, to labor" i.e. to toil till fatigued. For 'tangar read 'tnagar (cf. نجر).

But he who did not toil nor endure,
Standeth empty in the House of Dues.
He will seek but will not find,
And ask, but nought will be given him,
Because he had in his hand and gave not,
He will search there in his bosom and will find nothing."
Thou art praised, Manda-ḏ-Hiia
Who dost not condemn thy friends.

124

I seek a boon from the Life,
From Thee, mighty Life.
I seek a boon from the Life —
That Ye will rightly guide Your praise [1]
For me.

[These three antiphonal hymns and three chants are for the first day of the week.]

125

In the name of the Great Life
At the beginning of the construction [2]
I issued from thee, everlasting abode:
At the beginning of the Building I emanated from the Builder,
The Great (Life) who built me.
From the Builder, who is the Great (Life)
Who constructed me, I came.
My Transplanter transplanted me.
I came: my Transplanter transplanted me
With advice that was counselled by the Great (Life),
With advice given by the Great (Life)
They sent me that I might build a building,
That I might construct a building for the good,
For true and faithful men,
I built and constructed it;
And at the beginning of the building I established,
I planted living plants therein,
True and faithful men.

---

[1] I.e. the worshipper's praise of the Life.

[2] Lidzbarski took banana to mean "in a cloud". The context, however, and the evidence of other texts proves the word to mean the act of building, construction, a building, and usually the act of creation.

I entreat my Builder (Creator) (saying)
"Keep Thine eye on my Plants
Upon my Plants keep Thine eye,
Lest, perchance, they droop [1] and lie down
Forgetting the good things commanded (them),
Until they sleep (droop) and until they lie down,
And until they forget Me (and) the good things commanded,
Until they forget Me!
(Then) will apostasy enter into them."
Beware of it, my brethren! Beware of it my friends!
Beware, my friends of Jesu, the pseudo-Messiah,
And of those who misconstrue appearances
And alter the words of My mouth.
If ye are wary, my brethren, if ye are wary, my friends,
If ye are wary, my brethren, when ye depart from your bodies
I will be a Helper to you.
A Helper and a Support from the Place of Darkness
To the Place of Light.
Thou hast conquered, Manda-ḏ-Hiia
And makest victorious all those who love Thy name.

126

At the beginning of the pure Kimṣa [2]
Accompanied by sublime Rays of Light,
I gazed and beheld a great (sprouting) [3] Shoot
Which was transplanted from within the great Jordan.
Sublime was his voice his perfume fragrant,
His appearance shining and splendid!
And Life is victorious.

127

A Being, chosen, righteous, sprang up
And shone forth in the world.
He appeared in the world and shone forth.
He spoke with the Mighty Life;
With the mighty Life he spoke,

---

[1] In the Middle East a gardener says of a drooping plant that it is nāima "sleeping", and here "sleeping" applied to a plant would mean "drooping".

[2] Kimṣa especially when used with KMṢ appears to mean "formation", "materialisation", "taking shape" or "consummation". Here, possibly "formation" is the word.

[3] Nibṭa. "a sprout", "outgrowth".

And revealed mysteries that were veiled,
Mysteries that were veiled he revealed.
His glory resteth on his friends,
On his friends his glory abideth.
But the whole world [1] persecuteth him.
When he saw that the worlds persecute him
He lifted his eyes to the Place of Light.
They opened the Gate of Light to him
And he arose into Life: They (Life) supported him.
Life supported Life,
Life found Its own,
And my soul hath found
That for which it had waited.
Thou art victorious, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
And thou bringest to victory
All those who love thee.
And Life is victorious.

128

O Man, whom acclamation chose out,
Who wast selected out of the world,
They will cause thine eyes to shine, good one! [2]
For they have clothed thee in a robe
Which is beautiful.
Because of thy cry and the sound of thy teaching,
The Great Life hath accepted thy prayer
And thy praise.

129

"Whither goest thou, chosen [3] righteous One
Whom all thy friends seek, for Whom all Thy friends
Long and desire Thine appearance amongst them?"
"I have gone to build a building [4]
Yonder in the world.
I built it [5] and constructed it

---

[1] Kulhun almia, often means "all persons", "everyone", "all the world"
[2] In D.C. 3 and Oxford ms ṭaba (not uṭaba).
[3] D.C. 53 has bhiria: read bhir as in other mss.
[4] For banta in D.C. 53 read binta as in other mss.
[5] Read bantḥ as in other mss.

And set it up in the beginning.
Into the Building I transplanted
Plants that were living,
True and faithful men.
I entreat my Builder,
The Being who guardeth the Building,
I entreat my Builder (saying)
'Direct Thine eyes to my plants,
Upon my plants keep Thine Eye;
For perchance they may wilt ¹) and lie down
And forget the good things They commanded;
Until they sleep and until they lie down
And until they forget the good things commanded (them)!'
The Being cried to the world from one end to the other,
To the world's end the Being called the world and said,
"Well is it for one who taketh heed to himself!
The man who taketh heed to himself
Hath not his like in the world! Moreover,
Men who are staunch shall live:
But those who turn aside shall come to an end.
Those who turn aside shall die ²)
But those who are staunch shall find certainty.
My brethren, hold firmly to your staves ³)
And endure the world's persecution.
The worlds' persecution endure
With a true and believing heart.
Worship Me with uprightness
And I will act as your Helper,
A Helper and support from the Place of Darkness
To the Place of Light.
And Life is victorious.

130

On the day on which They opened
The great gate of the Dwellings ⁴)

¹) See p. 119, n. 1.

²) So in both D.C. 53 and D.C. 3. The line is missing in M.L.

³) The olivewood staff (margna) is part of a priest's insignia, so that priests and not laymen are addressed.

⁴) Hilbunia is a literary word for "houses". Literally hilbuna means "egg", for which the usual word is bit (which also means "house"). In poetry, human beings as well as divine personages live in hilbunia.

The radiance of the King over the holy 'uthras
Was enhanced.
To true and faithful men there came
Prayer and thanksgiving.
They rejoice and delight therein
And raise their prayer and praise
To the Place of Light.

[These three hymns and three chants are for the second day of the week (Monday).]

131

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified!
"Thou camest from the House of Life;
Thou camest - what didst Thou bring us?"
"I brought you that ye shall not die:
That your souls shall not be pent back.
I brought you on the day of death, Life;
On the day of affliction, Joy. [1]).
I brought you a serenity
That existeth not in the unrest of nations".
"This, this hast Thou brought, Good One!
To the true man what hast Thou brought?"
"I have made him My treasurer,
Made him ruler over all that I have.
I have given him precepts of right-dealing
By which he entereth and departeth [2])
As a man who hath realised his desire.
Chosen ones! ye have asked and have found;
Furthermore, my chosen, ye shall seek and find
Just as the first (believers?) sought".
And Life is victorious.

132

Come, come, King of 'uthras,
Lofty Messenger, who came from His Father's House.
Come! receive my prayer and my praise
And lift it up in peace to the Place of Light!

---

[1]) Read hadua as in D.C. 3 and the Oxford ms.

[2]) I.e. "is born and dies".

133

Thou camest from the House of Good Beings.
(O) would 1) that Thou hadst not come into corruption
Into the evil and falsity of this world!
Would that Thou hadst not come into corruption
And hadst not been seen by my eyes!"
"If verily I came, if verily I appeared,
Thine eyes are eyes of falsehood
Whilst my eyes are eyes of truth.
Lying eyes are darkened utterly.
Eyes of falsity behold not the Truth!
If thou wishest to see, Ruha, 2)
Go to the house of him who knoweth Me,
Those who know me, for I dwell amongst them
In the hearts of my friends
And the thoughts of my disciples".
And Life is victorious.

134

Come, come, King of 'Uthras,
Lofty Messenger for whom my eyes look!
Hearken, hear my cry
And lift up my prayers and my praise
To the Place of Light.

135

Fragrance came from its place,
Truth came from its Home,
Fragrance came from its place,
It came and settled in the House
It crieth and maketh the dead live,
It arouseth those who who are dying
And lying prone.
It awaketh souls who are fit for 3) and worthy
Of the Place of Light.
This, this is what the Good One did,

---

1) 'dilma indicates a doubtful or sarcastic statement. or a negative form of stating a condition. Ruha is the speaker.

2) Both D.C. 3 and D.C. 53 have lruha: the Oxford ms. ruha.

3) D.C. 3 ḏ-šihia, D.C. 53 ḏ-šiha.

And set up that which liveth, His Sign.
The planets assembled, they went.
They confronted him that ruled them,
Saying to him, "Hast thou not seen, Alaha-Alihun [1]),
That a Fragrance hath come from its place,
A fragrance from its place hath come?
The (And that) Mana hath moved from its place?
It calleth and maketh the dead live,
And rouseth the dead [2]) and the sleeping;
It awaketh souls who are fit for and worthy
Of the Place of Light.
This, this hath the Good One done,
And hath set up that which liveth, His Sign".

Alaha-Alihun opened his mouth,
Saying to his sons, his first-born,
"Come, come, my children,
My first-born and my offspring!
Listen to the thing which I say unto you!
If ye find a righteous man,
Bow yourselves low before him,
One bow for himself, and the second
For the Fragrance of Life which resteth upon him".
Behold, Life is victorious!
Life triumpheth over this world.

136

Come, come, Manda-ḏ-Hiia!
The Mount of Darkness becometh light,
It groweth light, the mount of Darkness,
And the turbid waters become fresh [3]).

[These three hymns and three chants are for the third day of the week (Tuesday).]

137

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified!

---

[1]) I.e. God-of-gods.

[2]) D.C. 53 and D.C. 3 both bave mitia: The Oxford ms. maitia "dying", which Lidzbarski has translated "bringt her".

[3]) The antithesis of turbid. The adjective means "fresh" also of myrtle.

There was a Cry in the firmament
And thunder sounded in the House of Stars.
Ruha and the planets sit in lamentation,
They sit in lamentation over a man
Who sprang up from the Earth,
About a man who sprang up from the Earth
And rent a fissure in the House,
A fissure he rent in the House
And into it he cast dispute.
A dispute he cast into it,
Not to be resolved for an age of ages;
(Not) until Manda-ḏ-Hiia cometh
Bringing with him three chosen ones,
Bringing three chosen ones with him
And lifting them up to the everlasting Abode,
To the place which is light-giving and effulgent.
Summoned and invited (thither) are your souls,
And the souls of our good brothers
And those of our sisters who are believing.
Thou art victorious, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,,
Good One, who establisheth his friends!
And Life is victorious.

138

The voice of a hidden Sprout [1])
It spoke and discoursed from the Earth,
From the Earth it spoke and discoursed.
The Great Life, from the Occult, answered it,
From the Occult the Great Life gave it reply.
And It transferred thither and sent a Messenger.
The Messenger (whom) It transferred and sent
Subdueth the might of rebels.

139

I ascended the mountain Carmel [2]),
Thee I ascended, Mountain, Mount Carmel!
The mountain of Carmel I ascended.

[1]) I take "sprout" to be a young "plant", that is a young believer.

[2]) Karimla, Carmel, is mentioned in the 26th. fragment of the Drašia ḏ-Yahia.

Twelve vines [1] awaited me.
The vines saw me, the Vines beheld me.
When they saw me, the vines waxed great,
They spread out their foliage.
They increased, spread out their foliage,
Increased their fruit and their blossom.
(Yet) they knew me not, did not discern me,
Nor did they take heed of me.
They knew me not, did not discern who I was,
Nor whose son I was [2],
The man who saw me and discerned me,
His course is set for the Place of Life!
Thou art victorious, Manda-ḏ-Hiia
And leadest all thy friends to victory.

140

Between mountains twain,
And between three škintas,
Between mountains twain
Yawar, the Chosen One, founded a škinta [3]
A škinta did Yawar found,
And chosen righteous were established therein,
Therein were the chosen righteous established [4].
And they arise and behold the Place of Light.

141

Who will come, who will tell me,
Who will inform me, who will teach me,
Who will come and who will tell me
What 'uthras are like, what 'uthras resemble,
And what do rays-of-light resemble?

'Uthras resemble Radiance,
"Rays" resemble Light.
'Uthras pledge their word [5]
And do not lie.
The planets lie: they

[1] The twelve tribes?
[2] The second ana is a miswriting. (Not in D.C. 3.)
[3] Škinta: The cult-hut?
[4] The second mitqaimia is omitted in D.C. 53.
[5] Lit. "take oath".

Come to an end on the Great Last Day.
Life is extolled, and victorious
And victorious is the man
Who went hence.

142

The advent of Hibil-'Uthra —
Like Šitil, he goeth to the house of his friends,
Priests who hearkened to the voice of Anuš the great 'uthra;
They worship and praise the Great Life
From the beginning unto the end.

[These three hymns and three chants are for the fourth day of the week (Wednesday)].

143

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be glorified.
In the glory of my Father I stand,
And with praise of the Being who is my Creator:
In the glory of my Father I stand
And am upright in the House of Perfection.
At my voice the earth trembled;
At my radiance the heavens were shaken,
The seas dry up,
Flowing streams fall into barren wastes.
Destroyed, rent asunder are fortresses
And earthly men of might are quelled.
Mountains, however lofty,
Like bridges are laid flat.
As for the wicked, who rise up against me,
There is a Being who will hew them down,
Not with my strength but in the strength of the mighty Life.
And Life is victorious and victorious the man
Who went hence.

144

By my pure radiance am I protected;
And the 'uthras, my brothers, are covered with light.
Through the vigilance and praisegiving of the 'uthras,
My brothers, the glory of Life cometh and resteth upon me.

145

When the Mighty [1] (Life) speaketh
In the Great Place, the House of Perfection
The Great and Mighty One transporteth (or createth)
Šilmai and Nidbai: It transported Šilmai and Nidbai
And gave them to Nṣab-Ziwa as his helpers.
When Nṣab-Ziwa had reliance on the 'uthras,
The perfect beings whom They had sent down,
He spoke with his calm voice
And the chosen go out towards him [2]
Towards him go out the chosen.
And he giveth them some of his glory
Some of his glory he bestoweth on them,
And the chosen on earth are confirmed
The elect righteous are confirmed;
They rise up and behold the Place of Light.
Extolled is Life victorious,
And victorious is the man who went hence.

146

I am preserved by my pure radiance
Like the Mighty One [3] in His Glory.
My raiment shone forth in the House
And my prayer and praise rise upward to His Place [4].

147

Miserable [5] am I!
When shall I go (hence?)
(When will) my aching heart find relief?
My heart that aches (when will it) find relief?
And my soul, that they made an alien,
Find its vent?
In the place where they are much questioned
The glory of Life will rest on me.
And it will rest upon my priests and (those)

---

[1] The plural indicates the Great Life.

[2] The couplet is missing in D.C. 53: I take it from other mss. including D.C. 3 and the Oxford ms.

[3] Again, the plural indicates the Great Life.

[4] In D.C. 53 very plainly latrḥ.

[5] Ania means both "poor" and "miserable".

Whom the Seven persecute in this world.
(Yea) the Seven persecute sorely!
The worlds which persecute and wrong,
The Seven, they and their king,
Are bound for conflagrations of fire.
(But) the good, the elect, the just
And the perfect rise
And behold the Place of Light.
Life is extolled, victorious,
And victorious is the man who went hence.

148

"I am poor 1) and submissive,
An elect righteous one 2).
Listen, hearken to my cry!"
"Thou, poor one, with thy children,
Thine offspring and thy priest,
Shalt rise and thou wilt behold
The Place of Light".

[These three prayers and three hymns are for the fifth day of the week (Thursday).]

149 3)

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified!
At the door of the synagogue
Her mother meeteth Miriai,
Miriai her mother meeteth,
And she questioneth her straitly,
"Whence comest thou, My daughter Miriai?
That thy face plucketh (colour from) the rose.
Thy face plucketh (colour from) the rose
And thine eyes are full of sleep,
Full of sleep are thine eyes
And thy brow beareth marks of vigil!" 4)

---

1) See p. 128, n. 5.

2) That is to say, one of the bhiria zidqa, one of the Mandaean community.

3) The conversion and baptism of Miriai are described in G.R., see Lidzbarski's translation, p. 341; and in J.B. II p. 123. See also 162, p. 140.

4) שְׁהַר "to be awake: šaharta = "a vigil", "a watch"? Doubtful: the word could also mean "sleep"!

And she (Miriai) answered her,
"Yea, these two or three days
My brothers stayed in my Father's house;
In my Father's house my brothers stayed
Chanting wondrous chants.
At their voice, at the sound of the discourse
Of the 'uthras, my brothers,
No sleep cometh to mine eyes,
To mine eyes no sleep cometh
And my brow (keepeth) vigil". [1])
Hast thou not heard, daughter Miriai,
What the Jews say about thee?
The Jews say 'Thy daughter is in love with a man,
She hath hated Jewry and loved Naṣirutha;
She hath conceived hate for the synagogue-door
And love for the door of the maškna [2]).
She hath taken dislike to the phylactery-band
And loveth the fresh (myrtle-) wreaths.
On the Sabbath she carries on work;
On Sunday she keepeth her hands therefrom.
Miriai hath hated [3]) the Law
Which the Seven imposed (bound) upon Jerusalem'".
On the place where she was standing,
Miriai scattereth the dust with her foot
And sayeth "Dust on the mouth of the Jews!
Ashes on the mouths of all the cohens (priests)!
And dung beneath the horses' hooves
Be upon the Elders who are in Jerusalem!
That which I have come to love I cannot hate.
That which I (now) hate, I cannot love.
(No love have I) except love for Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
My Lord, who standeth by (me) and will be
My Helper, lending hand and support
From the Place of Darkness to the Place of Light".
Thou hast vanquished, Manda-ḏ-Hiia!
And bringest victory to all those who love thy name.
And Life is victorious.

---

[1]) Delete la?

[2]) The maškna is the Mandaean cult-hut and its enclosure.

[3]) In D.C. 3 sliṯ, Oxford ms. asliṯ "rejected".

150

On the day that the great gate of the Dwellings 1) opened,
The radiance of the King upon the holy 'uthras was increased.
The 'uthras bowed in adoration
And the Great Life accepted their prayer and their praise
From beginning to end.

151 2)

When will my Lord come from thee
Victorious heaven?
He will lift my head from my knees
And dry my eyes from my tears.
My lap that is full of ignominies
He emptied 3) before Him
I lay low 4) and I arose.
I will tell him everything: of how
All the worlds have harried me,
Many were the persons 5) who harried me.
(But) my brethren, sons of Kušṭa,
Do not fail me.
The worlds stoned me with stones
(But) my brothers were moved in words to anger thereat 6).
(O) that my Lord would come from thee
Victorious heaven! for He will lift my head
From my knees and dry my eyes from my tears.
My lap, which was full of ignominies,
He hath emptied out before Him, I lay low
And I arose 7). And I will recount to Him everything,
How all the worlds persecuted me;
Many were the persons who harried me,
(But) my brothers, sons of Kušṭa, do not fail me.
The world stoned me with stones,

2) This prayer differs considerably in the D.C. 53, D.C. 3 and D.C. 1 versions from the Oxford ms. which Lidzbarski used.

3) Oxf. ms 'nfiṣ qudamḫ "I will empty out before Him"

4) Oxf. ms rmia qudamḫ 'qum, for qudamḫ rmit uqamit in the other three.

5) Almia for "persons", see p.2, n. 3.

6) Lidzbarski is mistaken: the soul makes no complaint about her "brothers in Kušṭa".

7) See ns. 3 and 4.

(But) my brothers, in words were angry (thereat [1])
They said to me "Why weepest thou, Daughter of Kušṭa?
(Why) do thy tears [2]) fall down into thy bosom?
Thou knowest well thy road!
Thy boundary-stone is firmly erected!
Between lamps of light
They will lift up thy lamp,
Between lamps of light
Thy lamp they will set up [3]),
And they will shine forth.
In thy time and season arise,
And behold the Place of Light.
Extolled is Life and victorious
And victorious the Man who went hence.

152

Ye are uplifted and fortified
By a word of sure truth [4])
Which hath come to you.
A word of sure truth hath come to the good,
A truthful word to the believing!
To the Place which is all Life
Your souls are bidden and invited,
And the souls of your good brothers
And of such of our sisters who are believing.

153

A cleft was cloven in the earth:
Thunder sounded in great Sion,
The being who breached the breach
Was unable with (all) his might
To stop it up.
Another who was with him,
A weaver of a fishing-nets he was,
Cast his net for fishes great and small.
Fish who had strength thereto

---

[1]) Omitted in D.C. 53.
[2]) Read dimik as in D.C. 3.
[3]) The repetition is in D.C. 3.
[4]) Šrara is more than "truth": it is something sure, fact, something that cannot be shaken, certainty, also (physical) soundness.

Broke the net and got out.
Fish whose strength was not equal thereto,
Lay beneath the lead [1].
On the day that the breach will be closed,
On the day that the waterwheels [2] gush out,
On the day that the breach is blocked,
Ye fish, where will ye go?
O ye who sup on [3] scourge and despotism,
What will ye do on the Day of Judgement?
O ye who wear flowers and silk
What will ye say to the Being of the Scales? [4]
Voices have been voiced,
Opinions have been given, all (kinds of) pronouncements;
Yet there cometh one Voice
And teacheth all voices,
There cometh one Saying
And teacheth all sayings.
There cometh one Being,
Who explaineth them one by one.
We who praise our Lord,
Thou wilt forgive our sins and trespasses,
Our sins and trespasses Thou wilt forgive us,
Which we foolishly committed in the world,
For the sake of the strength of the holy
And the true-dealing of the believing.
Life is victorious and victorious the man
Who hath gone hence.

154

I have spoken and discoursed with my voice:
"O Lord of devotional prayer [5],
O Lord of prayer and praise,
Hearken and hear my voice,

---

[1] The silita is the selīya of the modern fisherman on the Tigris and Euphrates: a circular net, weighted round its circumference by lumps of lead.

[2] Wooden irrigation wheels. (P.) The naura is still employed but has been largely replaced by oil-pumps.

[3] I.e. "are avid of", lit. "eat." M.L. has šauṭa for šuṭa.

[4] Abathur (Muzania).

[5] I.e. the Rahmia, daily devotions.

And be Thou, Great Life,
To me a Helper".

[These three prayers and three hymns are Friday's.]

155

In the name of the Great Life,
Sublime Light be magnified!
Stand by Me, be steadfast,
(Ye who) know Me;
Stand by Me, be staunch,
My friends.
Stand by Me staunchly
(Ye who) know Me,
Like a stone column in storm-winds!
Tempest may go, tempest may come;
(But), My friends, change not
(The words of?) My mouth.
For men who stand firm will live,
(Whilst) those who turn away will meet their end;
Those who turn away will die
Those who remain staunch will find
Sure truth. My brothers,
Speak truthfully, not with lying lips
Prevaricate. Be not like a pomegranate
Which on its outer face is sound,
Outwardly sound is its surface,
But inside it is full of dry husks.
Be like a wine-jar full of Azmiuz wine;
Its outside is clay and pitch
But inside it is Azmiuz wine.

The Voice of Life calleth
And the ears of the chosen hearken.
Extolled is Life and victorious
And victorious the man that goeth hence.

156

By the bank of the great Jordan of the First Life,
A sublime Vine standeth erect.
Each and every day my prayer and praise
Riseth before it.

157

To the mountains I say
How fragrant are your odours,
How delightful your perfume!
Within you 1) all is full of brightness!"
They reply, "The Being who passed through our midst
Hath no tangibility or substance,
No substance or tangibility hath He,
Nor is there any kind of need in Him.
The Being who passed amongst us,
Released some of his vivifying power 2) amongst us."
The wicked hold their power of reproduction
(To consist of) questions 3) (?) and words.
But not in questions(?) and words can the vivifying power 4)
Of Life be comprehended,
But in truth and belief
Which the Elect hold as their vital principle.
Every man who holdeth to his vital principle
And is steadfast therein, raiseth up life,
To support it (life).
(But on) one who did not grasp his vital principle
And did not stand firmly upon it,
From yonder they loose strife,
They loose strife from yonder
And he will become the portion of the world.
And Life is victorious.

1) In mountainous regions, I suppose.

2) Niṣubta is a word of very complex meaning. It is primarily the urge to propagate, reproduce, the élan vital, the vivifying principle, procreation, planting, implanting. At the beginning of the hymn the poet, admiring the sweet herb-scented mountains, is told by them that it is the divine vivifying power of Life which has produced their perfume and beauty. The working of the vital urge in man is then described as a yearning for true life, the life of the soul. In later Mandaean literature niṣubta is an expression for a wife or bride, nṣab niṣubta = "he took a woman to wife".

3) Šulia. "Questions" is šuialia, not šulia. Šul שול is a word for "lower parts", "sexual part", and here possibly that is the meaning. A play on words may be intended.

4) The varying value of niṣubta makes translation difficult, and the whole poem is obscure.

158

O shoot which sprouted within the Tanna [1]
O prayer and praise
Which came to us from the Place of Light!

159

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified!
The departure of the sabbath
With its evening [2] (marketh),
The entry of Sunday for good.
At the departure of the sabbath
With its night,
The Good One set forth and came into being
And he took his lofty throne
And placed in it that which he brought [3].
And he took his shepherd's-pipe of Truth
That is filled with prayers [4] and praise.
Once on a time, Good One,
I played [5] thereon.
The door of the heavens opened!
A second time, Good One,
Did I hymn therewith,
And all the wicked became good!
And a third time, Good One,
I hymned therewith.
All were stirred to consciousness
And they arose.
It said to them, "Rise up, come [6]),

---

[1] Tanna, see p. 9, n. 1. A modern Mandaean legend was related to me which may be founded on this prayer. It was that a green shoot sprouted in Noah's wife's oven as a portent that the flood was imminent. See MMII pp. 259-260.

[2] Read brmaš. (Bar maš and brmaš, "son of groping", "son of searching", may be deliberate play on words.) I translate "with its evening", not in the Christian sense of an "eve", because with Mandaeans a day begins at dawn, not at sunset of the previous day. רְמַשׁ = "evening", "night".

[3] Another play on words : עיתא = "time"?

[4] Read pisnia. Dalman gives pisan as "prayer, supplication" (loanword from the Greek).

[5] Lit. "I discoursed, preached".

[6] Not in M.L., but in both D.C. 53 and D.C. 3.

Ye sleepers who lie sleeping!
Arise, ye erring ones who have stumbled!
Is not my rule hard upon you?
And doth not my high lash fall heavy upon you?"
They say to him, "By thy life,
Our father 1)), Son of the Life,
Because of the radiance and light
Thou hast brought with thee
Thy rule is not hard on us
Nor does thy high lash strike hardly upon us!
But as for the wicked,
The son of the wicked,
It entered his body
And felled him (to the ground)".
Once I cried to the evil one
"Keep aloof from my gnostic!" 2)) (or "Avoid my hand!")
I repeated, saying to him,
"Keep aloof from my friends!"
And a third time I spoke to him
To the wicked one, and I will not let him go free,
I will slay him utterly, the evil one,
And will cast him into world's end
Into world's end will I cast him
For I cried to him 3)) in his ear and he heard not,
In his ear I cried and he heard not.
I showed him, before his eyes, but he looked not.
I showed him, but he saw not with his eyes.
He will meet his end on the great Last Day.
As for us, who praise our Lord,
Thou wilt forgive us our sins and trespasses.
Life is renowned and victorious,
And victorious the man who went hence.

It revealed itself, and set off and came,

2) In D.C. 3 and the Oxf. Ms. ḏ-siṭar mn yadai huia; DC .53 ḏ-saṭar mn 'dai huia, "Be an avoider of my hand".

3) Read qrilḫ as in M.L.

The face of the day [1] the name of which is holy [1]).
Secret mysteries were revealed to the 'uthras
Enlightenment was revealed, and praisegiving
That was great and boundless.
The 'uthras who were transported thereby
Rejoice in its wondrous radiance
From beginning to end.

[These three prayers and three hymns are for the seventh day of the week (Saturday).]

161 [2]

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified.
The outgoing of the sabbath with its night [3]
Is the entry of Sunday for good.
(At) the outgoing of the sabbath with its night
The Life summoned me, from amongst Them,
And some of His serenity He imparted to my mind.
He issued a command, and they clothed me with radiance,
Brought me light that was powerful
And covered me (therewith).
They armed me with their armour
And gave command; to the earth they sent me
To voice the Call of the Life,
To found a society in the House,
To found abodes and to build in them sanctuaries [4],
To ordain priests [5] who are fit for
And worthy of the Place of Light,
To smoothen a road for the good,
To prepare a path for the believing,
To make plain and lift up
Probity [6] to its place;

---

[1] M.L. p. 223 translates Vorabend des Tages. Mandaeans begin a day at sunrise, not sunset the previous evening like Jews and Arabs: and this is a reference to Sunday, the morrow.

[2] This prayer is not in the Bodleian ms. (Oxford Marsh 691) — hence not in M.L.

[3] Three words are combined: b rmaš m'iil. See p. 135, n. 2.

[4] mašknia = cult-huts.

[5] Or "to teach disciples". The reference, however, is to the ordination of priests.

[6] Tuqna. Or "steady light", or "honesty" or "orderliness," "orthodoxy".

And to leave dross behind [1] at its proper place,
To deliver the whole congregation of souls,
(The souls) of Naṣoraeans and Mandaeans,
So that the sinner may have no power over them.
I set forth: with my radiance that is great
I came to this world,
I called with the voice of Life,
And I caused a society to dwell in the House [2].
I founded škintas, I built in them sanctuaries,
And I instructed priests (or disciples)
Who were fit for and worthy of
The Place of Light.
I levelled a road for the good
And prepared a path for the believing,
I made plain and set up probity
In its place
And left the dross behind at its place.
I delivered the whole congregation of souls,
(Those) of Naṣoraeans and Mandaeans,
So that the sinner should have no power over them.
Who told the sons of the Evil One
That they should go forth towards me?
They say, "Man, give us some of thy radiance
Which is great, and some
Of thy light which is boundless!"
I answer them, "Efface yourselves,
Be banished from before me
(Ye) dead ones, evil ones
Who have not beheld Life!"
Who giveth the portion of light
To Darkness, or truth to the wicked?
The truth which was mine I have given
To Naṣoraeans, righteous and believing men.
Behold, they dedicated themselves to goodness,
They will rise and will behold
The Place of Light.
Life is extolled and victorious
And victorious the man who went hence.

162[1]

In the name of the Great Life,
Sublime Light be magnified.
At the going-out of sabbath,
On the eve of the first day of the week, for good,
— The going-out of the sabbath —
At eventide Miriai went to the door of the sanctuary[2]
To pray her prayers and to praise the 'uthras.
All the evil ones who saw Miriai wore the qulab (tunic)[3]
All of them had put on clothing,
Wearing weapons they go forth toward Miriai,
Saying to her, "We adjure thee, Miriai,
By the Word, by truth and troth,
Moreover we adjure thee, Miriai.
By the Being from whom thy enlightenment proceeded,
The Being whom thine eyes beheld,
(Tell us,) What is He like?"
I do thus; I say to them,
"Be blotted out, be banished from my presence,
(Ye) dead, (ye) wicked men
Who beheld not the Life
Nor have ye seen that which mine eyes have seen,
Nor heard that which my ears heard.
The Being whom mine eyes[4] beheld —
There is not His peer in the world
(Though one were) to lift eyeballs
From bank to bank of the world!
At His tread and at His footsteps
The earthly world was alarmed.
The dead heard Him and lived.
The sick heard Him and were cured,
Lepers heard Him and were healed,
They got up, they arose, they were healed
By the healing of Manda-ḏ-Hiia

---

[1] Not in M.L. (see p. 138, n. 2).

[2] Maškna = that which is called to day a mandi, i.e. the Mandaean place of worship.

[3] קוֹלְבִּין A tunic without or with short sleeves (χολόβιον). See Jastrow, p. 1328. The word is omitted in D.C. 3.

[4] D.C. 3 ainik; D.C. 53 ainai

Which, in His goodness, He bestowed upon them.
And Life is victorious.

[Pray these two prayers in the Rahmia (Devotions) for candidates for priesthood, on Saturday evening after "It revealed itself and came". Then recite "Poor am poor I! from the fruits".]

163 [1]

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified!
On Sunday, on the chief of days,
Who saw that which I have seen?
Who saw Manda-ḏHiia who set out and came to the world?
He set out and came to the world and three 'uthras came with him.
When he had put [2] on a robe of radiance and light
Thrown [3] over his shoulders,
An ether-wreath he set on his head
And he set it on all his kin.
On Sunday, on the chief of days
Who hath seen that which I have seen?
Who saw the Stranger who went
And stayed at the house of his friends?
I, who saw the Stranger,
Mine eyes were filled with His light
Mine eyes with light were filled
And knowledge (manda) dwelt in my heart
In my heart knowledge dwelt
And my mouth filled with his praise;
His praise filled my mouth.
And I arose, and I praise my Father.
I arose and (gave?) praises to my Father
From dawn until the decline of day
I praised His great radiance
And I praised his lovely light:
And I praised my father Yušamin the Pure,
The being who dwelleth on the water-springs.
I praised the four beings sons of salvation,

[2] D.C. 3 has the correct lbišlḥ.
[3] D.C. 3 mramia, D.C. 53 mramai.

Beings who grasp the hand in troth [1]
Praises to the great First Palmtree! [2]
From it I brought me garments,
Garments I brought me from it
So that the good might come and clothe themselves.
Praise my Lord, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
Who will be my support in the world,
A support in the world will He be to me
And His hand will help me
To the Place of light.
Blessed and victorious is Life
And victorious the man who went hence.

164 [3]

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified!
I beheld a mountain,
White as the congregation [4] that had formed itself on it.
The day on which a wind breathes (over it?)
Nations delight in its perfume.
The day on which the wind holds the valleys [5]
They are illumined by its radiance.
When standing at my place, I made a great request,
A boon. I said "Grant me that from my mountain-home)[6]
And from the home of the great company that (dwelleth ?) therein
There may be (brought ?) a Healer of souls;
A Healer there may be for souls
Who healeth but taketh no fee".
As I was standing at my place
The boon I had asked was granted me,
Granted me from the mountain-home,
From the home of the great community therein.
I became a healer for souls!
I became a healer for souls

[4] Kana cf. kana ḏ-nišmata, "congregation" or group of souls.
[5] D.C. 3 has parata.
[6] 'qar, aqar, qar = the French chez: i.e. an habitual residence, hence "home" seems an adequate translation.

Who healeth but taketh no fee.
I set forth, came and reached
The gates of Babylon. Of the children of Babylon
There were some who shut their doors on seeing me:
There were those who shut their doors.
And there were those who opened their doors.
Those who shut their doors
Hated life and loved death,
They loved death and hated life
And will be held back in the Abode of Darkness.
Those who opened their doors
Loved Life and hated Death,
They hated Death and loved Life.
They will rise up in purity
And will behold the Place of Light.
Life is extolled, Life is victorious
And victorious is the man who went hence.

[These two prayers, pray them at the dawn of Sunday after "My day what is it amongst days" then recite "Poor am I; from the fruits".]

165 1)

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Life be magnified!
Poor am I! From the fruits... 2)
And displaced am I, from far away am I!
A poor one whom the Great Life afflicted 3),
A displaced (being), for the 'uthras removed me;
They brought me from the Abode of the Good;
Yea! they assigned me a dwelling in the abode of evil ones,
Yea they made me dwell in the abode of evil ones
Which is all full of wickedness.
All full of evil, full of consuming fire.
I willed it not, nor do I desire
To dwell in the futile dwelling,

---

1) M.L. p. 223.

2) This makes no sense. I suggest that originally piria was Piriawis, and that it was mn Piriawis atit (I came from P.)

3) A play on words; 'niun also means "answered me" : עני means (a) to answer (b) to afflict, oppress.

With my strength and with my vigilance (Perforce and with vigilance?)
Have I dwelt in the futile abode,
By my vigilance and my praise
Have I kept myselt alien from it,
From the world.
I have stood amongst them like a fatherless child,
Like a fatherless child, or like
A fruit tree with none to tend it [1]).
I hear the voice of the Seven,
Who murmur and confer together:
They say, "Whence is this being? (this) stranger,
Whose whose speech is not like our speech?"
I did not listen to their talk
And they were filled with evil rage against me.
The Life, who heard my cry, sent towards me a saviour.
He sent me a gentle 'uthra,
A being equipped and equipping.
He discoursed with me in his pure voice,
Just as 'uthras discourse in the House of Perfection
And he said, "Fear not, poor thing; and do not tremble,
Say not 'I am alone!'
Because of thee, poor one the firmament
Was thus outspanned, the heavens were outspanned thus;
And stars were created therein.
For thy sake, poor one,
This dry land came into being,
The dry land came to pass and became solid
And fell into the water.
On thine account, poor one,
The sun came; for thee was the moon revealed.
On thine account, poor one, did the seven [2]) come.
And those twelve [3]) went hither.
At thy right hand, thou poor one, abideth radiance
And at thy left are beams of light.

---

[1]) Lit. with no nurseryman.
[2]) The planets.
[3]) The signs of the Zodiac.

Stand firm! Rise in thy brightness [1] (?)
Until thy measure (of years) is complete.
When thy measure is complete,
I myself will come to thee, I will bring thee
Robes of splendour
Which the world, coveteous [2], will entreat;
I will bring to thee wrappings [3],
Good and pure, of the Light
Which is great and boundless.
I will deliver thee from the wicked
And save thee from sinners.
I will set thee in thy škinta
In the Pure Place. I will rescue thee!"
I hear the voice of the Seven
As they mutter and whisper and say
"Blessed is it that the poor one
Hath a father, and the fruit-tree one who tendeth it.
For us there is no father: our fruit-tree hath none to tend it!"
Well is it for him whom the Great Life knoweth
But woe to him whom the Great Life knoweth not!
Well is it for him whom the Great Life knoweth,
Who keepeth himself alien from the world,
From the world of imperfection
In which the planets sit.
On thrones of rebellion do they sit
And perform their deeds with a scourge.
They stir up trouble about gold and silver,
They cast into it (the world) strife,
They stir up trouble cast strife into it.
And they will go into the fire: will seethe,
They will go into fire and will seethe,
The wicked will seethe and their pomp
Will perish and be brought to a stop.
(But) I, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,
And my offspring and my kinsfolk

[1] D.C. 53 bmazrutak, D.C.3 bmazarutak, Oxf. ms. bamazrutak. Lidzbarski apparently derives from ZHR, (to take heed)· (It could equally be derived from the meaning "to emit light"). Here, perhaps (but not very probably) from MZR: see P.S. Thes. ܡܙܪ̈ܐ "stocks"...vulg. hardy, sturdy, unflinching"., hence "endurance". Doubtful.

In the name of the Life!
The 'uthras rejoice in His [1] treasure,
And 'uthras increase in glory
Through the Treasure.
The 'uthras rejoice and shine
In the vigilance and praise
Which your Father, the Mighty Life,
Inspired in you. [2]

167

In the Name of the Great Life!
Thee, my Lord, do I worship
And Thee, my Lord, do I praise.
Light-in-Truth do we call Thee.
Look on us, Lord, and condemn us not!

168

Upon the Beginning of the great Ether of Life
And upon the great Source of Healings
Do I, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, take stand.
I have made prayer and submission to
That great [3] Primal Mana and the Treasure of Treasures,
And to Bihrun, Kanfiel, Nṣab and Anan-Nṣab,
To Sar and Sarwan, Tar and Tarwan, 'Urfiel and Marfiel

And to Arsapan[1], the Youth of tender years,
And to Yawar-Tatgmur and to Haš-u-Praš
The 'uthra who is Nṣab and Anan-Nṣab,
Bihram and the great Ram — Life is His name —
Who receiveth prayer and praise
And uplifteth it (them) to the Great Place of Light
And to the Everlasting Abode.
He will accept my prayer and praise, mine,
Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,
And lift it up to the Great Place of Light
And to the Everlasting Abode
Into His own škinta; will uplift it and will not let Distortion or fault appear therein.
And Life be praised!

169

To thy name, Land (world) of Light
And to the great Door of the House of Life
Have I addressed my prayer and made submission,
And to that great First Mana
And that great first Source of glory who is Haš-uPraš (He pondered and declared) and Prišaia-rba-qadmaia
(Noble, great, First) is His name[2];
Our propitiation[3] and our Awe.
Wondrous is His voice,
And His converse other-worldly.
(He it is) who accepteth prayer and praise
And taketh it up to the great place of Light
And to the everlasting abode.
He accepteth my prayer and my praise,
Mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,
Who have prayed this prayer and (these) Devotions.
And he lifteth it up to the great place of Light
And to the everlasting abode
And delivereth it to the great Yawar.
This is prayer and praise which came to us
—To the Elect Righteous—to this world

Which is all birth.
For every man who prayeth this prayer
There will be forgiving of sins.
To every Naṣoraean man who prayeth this prayer
And standeth at his devotions,
And mentioneth these names sincerely,
A guardian-spirit of light will come
And will abide in his house,
(And will abide in my house)
Mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš.
And I, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš,
By means of this prayer will seek and find
And speak and be heard,
I will seek justice and win (my case);
I shall be without sin or trespass
In the Great Place of Light
And the Everlasting Abode.
Life be praised! and Life is victorious.

(These are five (?) [1] prayers which are fruits of ether (?). The first is the confirmation [2] of your "Devotions". Pray them after the hymns and psalms for the day before the major "Blessed and praised be Life".)

These are the prayers and chants and the offertory [3] of the "Devotions" which I, poor and lowly, a minor amongst brother-priests, have copied. I kiss the shoes on the feet of the pious [4] and (am) as earth on the feet of Naṣoraeans, dust [5] beneath the feet of ganzibras. I am Rabbi Adam-Yuhana son of Sam son of Bihram son of Sa'dan son of Msa'ad known as Kamisia and Riš-Draz by name. I copied for myself so that I might act and be successful therein and that I should have someone on earth to mention my name [1]) and yonder in the mighty and lofty worlds of light.

And Zazai copied from the Scroll of the First Life.

And Life, rejoice for ever! Life is victorious over all works, and victorious is Manda-d-Hiia and his helpers.

(Translator's note). — At this point prayerbooks used by priests vary in order, and D.C. 3 and D.C. 53 no longer run parallel. Into

D.C. 53 I have inserted the longer form of Commemoration used at every masiqta. It is called the Abahatan Qadmaiia. In the list of commemorations, family names, the names of local priests, friends or relatives are inserted according to the occasion, place, or priests, but the beginning is always the same, and in the Abahatan Qadmaiia the names of heavenly beings, patriarchs, ethnarchs and liturgists are permanently embedded.

This prayer, the major Ṭab ṭaba lṭabia, is not in its full form. in M.L.

I have included here also the six prayers which follow the Abahatan Qadmaiia in D.C. 3.

(Note. — 171 is taken from D.C. 3: in D.C. 53 it begins as No. 257, p. 287 of the Mandaic text of D.C. 53.)

In the Name of the Life!

Praised be the First Great Radiance and praised the Great First Light! Praised be the Wellspring and the great first Palm-Tree [4]) Praised be the mystic Tan(n)a [5]) which dwelleth in the great mystic First Wellspring. Praised be the great Šišlam [6]) who sitteth on the bank of the Wellspring and Palm-tree; praised is the great 'zlat [7]) Praised is the great Yawar who was formed from the loins of Radiance: praised is Simat-Hiia (Treasure-of-Life), Mother of all kings, because from them (both) all worlds proceeded — for she was appointed as the result of secret mysteries.

Yawar-Ziwa, the vigilant 'uthra, divulged, revealed and said, "Upon every Naṣoraean man who standeth at his devotions and prayeth this prayer and offereth up this (prayer of) dedication[3] the glory of the Life will come and will rest on him, and he shall have strength and increase like Anuš-'Uthra. Upon any Mandaean man who standeth at his devotions and prayeth this prayer and raiseth this dedicatory prayer the attention of the Life will descend, will rest on him and he will have strength and greatness like a priest. And he shall say "Thou art established First Life" and dedicate[4] (his crown) sixty-one times and make (this) petition[5]: (and say)

Ye are blessed, praised and magnified, revered and established with high honour which is great and boundless, O Life, and my Lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia and the great First Life, the Second Life and the Third Life; Yufin and Yufafin; Sam-Mana Smira; and the Vine which is all Life and the great Tree which is all healings. O Habšaba (Sunday)! deliver me from hell-beasts [1]) and from purgatory-demons [2]) and from water-penalties [3]), and from pots that seethe, from fire and ice, from the snare of the planets, from the plots of the planets, from the slaying of the planets and from the seven hell-beasts [4]), the chief Levier of dues [5]) and the children of darkness. Be there forgiveness of sins for me, and for my father and mother, and for my teacher [11]), for my wife and children, for my priests and for all souls who stood for the Name of Life and were firm in the sign of Manda-ḏ-Hiia with a sincere and believing heart.

They (Life) will not condemn those who love Their name: they will be joined in holy union. Life for those who know, Life for those who believe, Life for beings who instruct us[1]. Life is established in its dwellings: Life is victorious over all works.

172 [2]

Now (we beseech Thee), Life, (bestow) Thy pity, Thy clemency, Thine attention, Thy compassion, Thine, Great First Life! Show pity, be clement, be attentive to and show compassion on this, my soul, mine, Adam-Zihrun son of Mahnuš who have prayed this prayer and (these) devotions. May there be forgiveness of sins for me. (Three times) [3]. For me and for my father and my mother, for my teacher and for my wife and my offspring, and for my priest and for whomsoever hath offered this bread and ritual foods. And for you, my fathers, my teachers, and my instructors and those who taught me the faith when ye supported me from the Left to the Right, may there be forgiving of sins for you. May illness, malady, accidents, curses, vows and forfeitures [1]), pains, infirmities, violent fevers, the evil eye and the dimmed eye be loosed and removed from thee. They shall depart (rise) to the mountains and heights from thy body, spirit and soul, thy trunk and thy stature and (from) thine entire frame, thine, Adam-Zihrun son of Mahnuš, through the strength of my Father, their Father, Manda-ḏ-Hiia, through the strength of the treasure of the First Life and through the strength of Yawar-Ziwa and Simat-Hiia. I beseech the Life and my Lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia and the 'uthras and kings of the worlds of the light for a sponsor for this high mystery (ginza) so that no lacking or deficiency may appear therein. Should there be anything missing or deficient, do thou, O Hibil-Ziwa, (thou) great Fulfiller, supplement it from thy treasure which is not deficient and from thy plenty which lacketh in nothing. Rid it and loose it from its sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes, (and) mine, Adam-Zihrun son of Mahnuš who have prayed this prayer and (these) devotions. May there be forgiving of sins for me.

O Sunday, receive it, save it, establish it and raise it up to perfection!

175

In the name of the Great Life.

Then, when she reacheth the Seven Mysteries, servitors of the Seven go forth towards her. They come and surround her and question her and say to her, "O soul, whence comest thou and whither goest thou?"

I say to them, "I come from the Body[2]), the name of which is the Earth and I am going towards the Good Consummation [3])".

They say to me, "Whose servant art thou and whose envoy art thou called?"

I say to them, "I am the servitor of the Beloved Consummation, and the envoy of the vast Ether".

[3]) Kimṣa (see p. 119, n. 2.) here has certainly the meaning of final consummation.

Then they bless her (me) [1] and praise her and guard her and say to her, "Everyone who knoweth this saying will rise towards the Good Goal [2]" because they seek to grasp the mysteries of the Body. And they question her and then she riseth towards the Good Goal.

176

O King of all kings, O Father of all 'uthras; O Adatan and Yadatan; O Šilmay and Nedvay, ye guardian 'uthras of the jordan; O Hibil-Ziwa, great Fulfiller who deliverest us from evil plots and deliverest us from all that is evil and ugly, O high King of Light, thou wilt give me comeliness of body, compassion of heart, fullness of hand and integrity of eye. O Life, and my Lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia Thou deliverest me savest me and guardest me. O high King of Light!

177 [3]

In the Name of the Great Life.
Vines shone in the water
And in the jordan mighty they grew.
Ye are flourishing offshoots.
Messengers hither I bring you,
I give you great 'uthras.

I have twined for you and bring you
Garlands of myrtle and marjoram
For (lit. "in") the doors of the houses.

[3] This prayer exists in several versions and appears to be very corrupt. Its use may elucidate the original meaning. It is recited when, at the Little New Year's Feast, priests hang wreaths of myrtle and willow on the door of every house. I venture on a reconstruction of the hymn as follows: —

[Messengers (not a messenger) I bring you.]

And bring (them) to you.

And the baptism which is unfailing
From beginning to end.

Kušṭa strengthen thee, Great First Light,
Kušṭa strengthen you, my brother-priests,
Kušṭa strengthen You, Life, my Parents [3]),
Kušṭa strengthen thee, my treasure,
Kušṭa strengthen thee, Guardian of my treasure!
We kiss thee with a pure mouth. (Sixty-one times)
In an inner vessel they concealed thee [4]).
The Wellspring of living waters hath blessed thee,
And the Naṣirutha which emanated therefrom
Will be thine assuagement, it will be thy portion.
And treasure will arise to its owner.
And Thou, Life, wilt be victorious for ever and ever!
And Life is victorious [5]).

(Note.) — The section which follows in D.C. 53 p. 200 begins in D.C. 3 p. 357 after the Blessed Oblation Prayers. It is the section which deals with marriage and with the newly-crowned priest. I translated

(cont.) I suggest that the proximity of marua to yanqia led scribes to confuse marba ḏ-mrabia yanqia, D.A., p. 11, with the present line, especially as marba is pronounced marua. However, the verse is said at the New Year, when priests visit houses and distribute wreaths which are hung on doors of houses. My translation is free, based on this supposition.

[1]) The rains fill the river at New Year.

[2]) ASA in the sense of curing that which is sick, is unsuitable to the Mandaic form of greeting kušṭa asiak, especially as addressed to divine beings when "give thee thy full power" is implied by asiak.

[3]) The cosmic parents, the Father and Mother.

[4]) The taga (a silk fillet) is kept in a box.

[5]) This prayer is repeated at putting on and taking off the "crown", see p. 28, n. 3.

the marriage hymns in Biblica et Orientalia no. 12, Pontificio Istituto Biblico, Rome 1950, but am glad to alter certain prayers, for second thoughts have improved the earlier translation. The first prayer, No. 179, is found in a slightly different version in the G. R. (See G. R. Lidzbarski's trs. pp. 271-2).]

The path which leadeth up to the Place of Light.

For Thou teachest wisdom and faith [3] to all who love Thy name.
Ṭ. Well is it for him who heedeth and heareth Thee [4], my Lord,
And walketh his road following Thee.
Y. Thou art a day of gladness
In which there is no mourning or lamentation.
K. Thou art a Wreath of Purities (or "victories")
That is set on the heads of the enlightened.
L. Thou art a Tongue of Praise,

[2] D.C. 3 and D.C. 38 (p. 9, l. 5) both have šabilḫ. D.C. 53 like G.R. has šbila "path".

[3] In G.R. "wisdom and praise". D.C. 38 agrees with D.C. 53.

[4] Masculine in D.C. 53 and D.C. 38; feminine in G.R.

For every day thou praisest the Life.
M. Thou art the First Mana (Primal Mind),
Which Life constructed and built up.

P. Thou art a Fruit of pleasant taste,

Ṣ. Thou art the First Consort [1])
An Espousal [2]) that none preceded
Q. Thou art the First Cry:
The Life evoked Thee from its Nature.
R. Thou art the Teacher of head-priests,
And Thy glory resteth upon them.
S. The dead heard Thee and lived,

Men who have laid hold of and believed in Wisdom,
Good men, proven and perfect;
Truth dwelt in their hearts.
Life is renowned, (and) victorious.
And victorious the man who goeth hence.

In the Name of the Great Life!
'Uthras assembled and Dwellings [4]) came together
And they set up a throne for Yawar, King of 'uthras,
They set up for Yawar, King of 'uthras, a throne,
And placed on his head fresh wreaths.
And his light shone forth over 'uthras and dwellings.

[1]) Or "association". The reference here is undoubtedly to the Father-Mother union at creation.

[2]) Niṣubta here is better translated thus. It is used poetically for "marriage" or "bride". See p. 135, n. 2.

[3]) M.L. p. 232. These prayers describe the investiture of Manda-ḏ-Hiia and are read for the investiture of a new priest and also for the bridegroom. See Š.ḏ-Q. p. 45, n. 1.

[4]) Škinata: probably the cult-huts, personified.

The 'uthras and dwellings that beheld the radiance of Yawar,
king of 'uthras,
All flocked towards him, they all flocked towards him,
And laid their pure right hands on him and blessed him
With the great blessing wherewith Yawar-Ziwa the king
Was blessed in his dwelling (škinta)
And Life is victorious.

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they clad Manda-ḏ-Hiia in his vestment,
His radiance shone forth over worlds of light.
His brilliance shone forth on worlds of light,
And the worlds of light that beheld his radiance
All gathered to him, all flocked toward him,
And opened their mouths and blessed Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
Saying to him, "Blessed is thy radiance
That shineth over the waters!
How bright is thy radiance!
Thine appearance giveth out light and becometh not dim!"
(Give him to drink) [1])

182

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they tied the girdle on Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
His radiance shone forth over 'uthras and Dwellings.
The 'uthras and dwellings that beheld Manda-ḏ-Hiia's radiance
Were all afraid of his radiance,
At his radiance all were in awe,
And all gathered to him, all flocked towards him
And laid their pure right hands upon him
And blessed Manda-ḏ-Hiia, saying to him
"Blessed art thou, our father, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
And blessed is this girdle wherewith they have girt thee!"
(Give him to drink.)

[1]) The hamra (wine) given to a bridegroom is water into which grapes or raisins (symbolical of female fertility and of the Mother) and dates (symbolical of male fertility and of the Father) have been macerated into freshly drawn water.

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they invested [1] Manda-ḏ-Hiia with the tunic [2]
His radiance shone forth over 'uthras and dwellings.
The 'uthras and dwellings that beheld the radiance of Manda-ḏ-Hiia
All gathered towards him, all flocked towards him,
Laying their pure right hands upon him,
Blessing Manda-ḏ-Hiia and saying to him
"Blessed art thou, our father, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
And blessed is he who hath transferred to thee these vestments
For all the worlds which behold thee
Are awestruck at thy radiance.
(Give him to drink)

184

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they invested Manda-ḏ-Hiia
With the stole [3], Šamašiel,
Three hundred and sixty wellsprings of radiance sprang forth therein,
Three hundred and sixty wellsprings of radiance sprang forth.
And the radiance of the wellsprings was visible at the jordans.
And the (radiance of the?) jordans and the radiance of the wellsprings is bright
And illumineth all the worlds of light.

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they set the crown on Manda-ḏ-Hiia
His radiance shone forth upon the Houses [4],
Upon the Houses his radiance shone forth.
And He (that is) King of 'uthras, on beholding
The radiance of Manda-ḏ-Hiia's crown,

[1] Lit. "planted", "transferred" = "conferred on".

[2] The long tunic worn by a Mandaean (whether priest or layman) is called the ksuia or the sadra.

[3] A long strip of white cloth used sling-wise by the priest whilst baptising to secure the staff which he plants in the river-bed, from falling or floating away. This frees his hands. See MMII, p. 31 ff.

[4] Hilbunia = "eggs" (a bita is an egg, and bit "a house"). See p. 121, note 4.

Leapt up from his throne; he arose,
From his throne he leapt up, stood up,
And the three hundred and sixty thousand 'uthras
With the King, stood and, laying their pure right hands
Upon him, they bless Manda-ḏ-Hiia, and say to him
"Blessed art thou, our father, Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
And blessed this crown which they have set on thee.
All worlds thereby shine from end to end.
(Give him to drink)

186

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they invested Manda-ḏ-Hiia with the šarwala [1]) Nṣab,
His radiance shone forth over the Houses,
Over the Houses his radiance shone forth.
His radiance shone forth over the Houses.
And the niṭufiata [2]) (heavenly spouses) who beheld Manda-ḏ-Hiia's radiancy
Say to one another: "Whence cometh this radiance that shineth upon us?"
And a Youth standing in their presence said to them,
"This is radiance emitted by Manda-ḏ-Hiia's šarwala, Nṣab".
And all the heavenly women [2]) standing on the roofs,
Bless him and say to him, "Blessed art thou, our father,
Manda-ḏ-Hiia! and blessed be he
Who invested thee with these vestments!
This their radiance is surpassing!"
(Give him to drink)

187

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they invested Manda-ḏ-Hiia with the staff (margna),
Its radiance shone forth on the jordan.
The jordan that beheld the radiance of Manda-ḏ-Hiia's staff
Leapt and rejoiced in the radiance of Manda-ḏ-Hiia

---

[1]) The ritual leggings, part of the rasta or ritual dress.
[2]) Lit. "Drops", see p. 37 notes 1 and 4.

And said to him, "How abundant is thy jordan!
The fruits and grapes and trees that are by it
Will be established.
Great is thy glory, and thy Root shall be preserved
From beginning to end".
(Give him to drink)

[Read these prayers for the staff and the crown both for a priest who celebrates a masiqta (for the first time) and for a bridal pair and chant these hymns.]

188

In the name of the Great Life!
I twined a wreath of myrtle and marjoram
And set it on the head of Yawar, king of 'uthras
And said to him, "Rejoice, Yawar, rejoice in thy living wreath, Rejoice, Yawar, rejoice in the Spouse [1])
Of brightness who hath been bestowed on thee.
Rejoice, Yawar, rejoice
At the kingdom [2]) that is bestowed upon thee.
Rejoice, Yawar, rejoice in the jordans
That they made flow for thee.
Rejoice, Yawar, rejoice in Šahrat [3]),
The Cloud of radiance who is bestowed on thee.
That floateth and floweth onward in thy jordan
From its source to its end [4]).

189

In the name of the Great Life!
Who, amongst the 'uthras, was it,
That placed the Wreath of the Great (Life)
Upon his head?
The Tannas [5]) and the Niṭufiata [6]) embrace one another
In the shade of the Wreath.
In the shade of the Wreath they embrace one another

---

[1]) Lit. "cloud" see p. 37, n. 4. The wreath is the "consort" or spouse of the taga, "crown".

[2]) Malkuta. Or, better perhaps, "kingliness", i.e. status of kingship.

[3]) So in all my mss. M.L. has Šarhat.

[4]) See Š-ḏ-Q. p. 47, n. 3.

[5]) Tannas (tania), see p.9, n. 1. and p. 12, n.6.

[6]) Niṭufiata, "Drops", see p. 37, n. 1.

And they lay their pure right hands upon him
And bless him with the mighty benediction
Wherewith Yawar was blessed
In the Place of Light.

190

Our father, they made thee chief in Tarwan
And gave thee authority (lit. "word "or" speech") in the place of Light
Yawar set a crown upon thee
In the radiance whereof 'uthras shine,
'Uthras shine in its radiance
And the planets are in fear of it.

191

On thee, our father, they have conferred a pure sovereignty
And a command which the Great (Life) hath entrusted to thee.
They have given thee a banner of radiance,
By which all the worlds of light are illumined.
They have given thee a staff of living water,
A rod by which all rebels shall be laid low.

192

Who hath sent thee, new king,
Cause [1] of all these rites?
Thou hast illumined the world of Ether
And brightened the whole earth from end to end.

[193 [2]

Who sent thee, new king
That sitteth in the saka [3] of his teacher?
Thou hast watered it with a great watering (?) [4]

---

[1] Lit. "that from thee all these doings take place".

[2] The scribe of D.C. 53 has omitted No. 193, but, a repetition of these hymns includes it as No. 308. It is inserted here in its proper place.

[3] Saka is translated Bereiche by Lidzbarski, p. 242, l. 10 of the translation. Rbiḫ (quite plainly in the mss.) refers to the teacher. The word probably means that the novice is still under the tutelage of the priest who has initiated him. In Ṣ.ḏ-Q. I translated "booth", but saka is philologically unlikely to be the sukkah.

[4] Af. MSA (see Af. ܡܣܐ). Or (equally) "hast consolidated it by a great solidification". The former meaning seems the likelier.

And thou hast illumined and ordered
The 'uthras in their dwellings (škinata)
From end to end.]

194

Our father, Šihlun-Ziwa, rejoiceth in his crown
And the Mighty (Life) rejoiceth in His Word.
The Dwellings of the Mighty (Life) rejoice and are glad
With King Yawar-Ziwa who hath planted thee [1] (here).

195

Our father, They will guard thy wreath for thee,
And the fellowship of the Great Life will rest upon thee.
Thine eyes [2] shall enlighten thee, good one,
For as chief of the communion of Life [3]
Thou camest hither.

196

Our father, thy wreath is from the Vine Ruaz,
And the being who twined it is from the Place of Light.
Our father, the perfume of thy wreath is pleasing,
Like (the fragrance of?) the great Anuš-'Uthra in his Dwelling.

197

Planter of Plants, plant it (or "him") [4]
Twiner of wreaths, twine it [5]
Establisher [6] of purities, establish
The bridegroom [7] N. and make him prosperous.

198

I am small amongst 'uthras,
And a babe amongst Rays-of-Light;
Yet I grow great and my soul waxeth great,
For I have drunk water from the mouth of the Euphrates

---

[1] Nṣablak in most mss: M.L. nṣablun.

[2] Ainak.

[3] The exact meaning of this phrase is doubtful. The prayer is also intended for the bridegroom, hence the translation I gave in Š. ḏ-Q "Because thou comest hither for the chief function of life-union", is too free a rendering.

[4] Either the plant for the wreath, or the new priest or bridegroom; possibly both are included.

[5] If the priest is meant — "make him great".

[6] Read mtaqnanin.

[7] If a priest, "the priest N."?

199

May pure guardians guard thee,
May thy root be raised up and flourish exceedingly,
And thy doings be made prosperous.
And mayst thou rise up and behold the great Place
The House of Perfection.
And Life is victorious.

[These (antiphonal) hymns are to be recited over a priest who celebrates (for the first time) a masiqta, and over bridal pairs(?)
These are prayers for the vestments and clothing (investiture) which I have copied who am poor, lowly and striving, small amongst my brother-ganzivri and priests, kissing the shoes on the feet of Naṣoraeans. I endure the world's persecution with a faithful and believing heart. I copied for myself so that there might be a commemoration for me on earth, and yonder in the mighty and lofty worlds of light. A slave, am I, who is all sin. I am Rabbi Adam-Yuhana son of Sam son of Bihram son of Sa'dan son of Msa'ad known as Kamisia, Riš-Draz by name. I copied for myself so that I might work and succeed, I copied from the qulasta of the skilled craftsman Baktiar grandson of the skilled craftsman 'Aziz son of Kiria son of 'Aziz son of Faruk of the sons of the Dihdaria, Sabur by name. It had been copied by the great, lofty and honourable R. Ram-Yuhana son of R. Yahia-Zihrun son of R. Zihrun son of R. Adam known as Manduia, (family) name 'Kuma. He had copied it from a qulasta which R. Ram-Yuhana had also copied for himself — the son of R. Yahia-Zihrun son of R. Zihrun son of R. Adam, name 'Kuma. He had copied it for a "perfect" [1] craftsman Hadaiat son of craftsman Qasim son of Hadat son of Bihram son of Zakria of the children of the Dihdaria, Sabur by name. He copied from the qulasta of the great, lofty and honourable ganzibra, a reliable and tested (priest), a paragon in "treasure", and a high-(minded) and liberal dispenser (or "copyist") of his Naṣirutha (priestly wisdom), namely, R. His father copied it, Yahia-Yuhana-Bihdad son of Anuš-Mu'ailia, who copied it for Sam-Zakia and Anuš, sons of Br-Hiia, who copied it for Yahia-Zihrun son of Anuš who copied it for his pupil who copied it for for Bihram-Zakia son of Zihrun-Sakara, from the qulasta of Anuš-Mu'ailia son of Anuš-Bihdad who copied it for himself a second time from the manuscript of Bayan son of Zakia and his mother was Haiuna daughter of Yahia, which they copied from the library that was placed with them, from Ṭib, the town. And Ramuia son of 'Qaimat was its compiler in it (that city). Ramuia copied from Šganda son of Yasmin and Šganda copied from Zazai-ḏ-Gawazta son of Hawa. His father was Naṭar. And Zazai copied from the scroll of the First Life. And Life is victorious, and victorious are Hibil-Ziwa and his helpers, Hibil, Šitil, and Anuš. Finis.]

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be glorified!
(Lo) the Voice of Life from the fruits
And the voice of radiant-light from afar;
The voice of 'uthras from the Land of Light
Who speak in their sublime voices and say,
"Whence came we into being? By whom was implanted
Our power of reproduction? [2] Why was it implanted,
Our reproductive power? Our form, what doth it resemble?
Whence springeth our strength, that lofty strength
To which all the worlds cannot attain?
Whence came our voice, a pure voice
That is other(-worldly [3]), clear [4]) and dignified [5]) ?

---

[1] Yatiria could refer either to the worlds (almia) or to the Great Life (hiia rbia). It is difficult to decide to which the adjective belongs. See p. 1, n. 1.

[2] See p. 135 n. 2 and P.S. Supp. under ܢܘܚܡܐ. Here the question concerns the urge to reproduce, the vivifying principle, especially in reference to sex. This is a marriage hymn.

[3] Šanai = "other", "strange", "changed" etc.

[4] Baiar "luminous", "shining", "clear.

[5] Mitraurab (Palpel and Ethpauel of RAB) "magnified", glorified", "magnificent" etc.

Our praise is praise of the Great (Life),
And our form is in the likeness of the Place of Light.
Whence cometh our strength, lofty strength
To which all the worlds cannot attain?
Our voice is the pure Voice by which the bridegroom is summoned
Into the škinta [1]) in which 'uthras [2]) are sitting,
And he is instructed.
The king of 'uthras [3]) came,
He set off and came, the king of 'uthras
To the škinta in which the 'uthras sit.
He said to them "About what have ye been instructed,
(O) 'uthras?"
"About the Mana that is within the Occult,
About the Mana that came into being in the Hidden,
And about the Radiance that gloweth
In a hidden place".

201

O hang up [3]) light, let lamps of glory be hung up therein!
"Whose is this brightness? From whom cometh this light?
From whom doth this effulgence
That is vast and boundless emanate?"
"This is the radiance of Hibil,
This is the light of Šitil,
This is the effulgence of the great 'uthra Anuš,
Which is great and boundless."

202

The radiance of Hibil is beauteous,
The light of Šitil is bright.
And this is the effulgence of the great 'uthra Anuš
That is great and boundless".
O hang up light!
Let lamps of glory be hung therein!
O hang up light,
Let lanterns of light be hung therein!

---

[1]) The reference is to the heavenly cult-hut (or wedding-booth in which the priests and bridegroom sit for the ceremony).

[2]) I.e. the priests, who represent the 'uthras.

[3]) Talai Imperative, feminine: A female attendant is addressed.

203

"This building [1]), whose is it?
Whose is it, this building?
This building, whose is it,
That hath so sweet a fragrance,
Whose fragrance is so sweet
And in which fair trees are set?"
"This is Yawar's building,
This is the building of Yawar,
This is Yawar's building,
This, whose fragrance is sweet,
This, so sweet of odour.
And wherein fair trees are set".
Enjoy the perfume of the trees,
For the fragrance of Yawar hath rested upon them.
Enjoy the fragrance of the trees,
For the fragrance of Manda-d-Hiia hath rested on them."
O hang up light.
Let lamps of brightness be hung therein
O hang up light,
Let lanterns of light be hung therein.

204

They sent Hibil-Ziwa to make report [2])
Unto the 'uthras who sit there.
And he said unto them,
"From the Radiance proceeded Light,
And from Light proceeded Ether:
Ether proceeded from Light,
And glory [3]) is manifest to the 'uthras
Who are sitting here".
"Sweet is thy voice, youth Hibil,
When thou speakest in the garden of Adam

---

[1]) The 'ndruna or škinta in which the priests who perform a marriage sit is a light booth built of reeds and intertwined with myrtle and roses, so that it has a pleasant perfume.

[2]) This is a reference to the marriage ceremony. Here Hibil-Ziwa is the prototype of the priest sent to report that the bride is properly attired etc. to report that the bride is properly attired etc. (See Š. ḏ-Q.)

[3]) Or "companionship", "fellowship". Lidzbarski translates Glanz.

And chantest sublime hymns.
Sweet is thy voice! and its sound went thither".
And Life is victorious.

205 [1]

When the Proven One, the Pure One, went
To the Place where perfected (beings) [2] dwell
— Great is he, the Good (Spirit)! —
Towards his Father [3] was his course set,
His course was set towards his Father,
To say to Him that which was sublime and ineffable
In the Occult Place.
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
A Home of splendour [4] (and) glory [5]
Shall be founded therein,
Glory will be enshrined therein,
And 'uthras will seek one another in prayer,
'Uthras will pray to one another,
Each one will glorify his his brother,
His brother each one will glorify,
By counsel which goeth thither from thee".
"Thou art empowered, great Spirit!
Go, shed glory there,
Go, shed glory there: let them be glorified
With the glory that is Ours and thine.
They shall be glorified with that glory,
And receive the blessing that we have sent them.
The blessing we have sent them they shall receive,
They will grasp Thy benefaction,
It shall be so that 'uthras may know
That thou art the greatest of all the 'uthras;

[1] Lidzbarski omits this prayer till the lines Šaliṭit anat rba ʿzil (see M.L. 249 : 1).

[2] So literally. In Š. ḏ.-Q. 4. : 4. I took tušlimia, a plural, to be an epithet for the Great Life (also a plural). Several passages in this group of prayers confirm my original idea, that the Great Life is meant.

[3] Plural, because he is speaking to the Great Life.

[4] See op. cit. p. 54, n. 1.

[5] Or "honour".

For thou hast opened up and shown to them
And bestowed on them radiance and praise".
"I went thither, thither went I,
And shed upon them a blessing.
The blessing that I shed upon them
They receive, and in their blessing
We bless Thee [1]: We bless Thee with
A benediction, with theirs,
They will glorify Thy praise,
(And) will be glorified by Thy praise.
By Thy Word they will be raised up,
They will be raised up by Thy Word,
And from (that which is) Thine
They will not depart".
Priests bless the great (spirit) in secret
And bless the great (spirit) who honoured them
And honour dwelt upon them.
And Life is victorious [2].

May there come One from Thy radiance before me
And One from Thy light behind me!

(The alphabetical prayer on pp. 161 and 162 is repeated here)

207

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified!
A Vehicle [3] am I, a small one,
Light rested on my thought.
I travel on, I go on,
I and the life's traveller whom they bound to me.
I spoke to her, to life's travelling-companion
Whom they joined to me, saying,

---

[1] The 2nd. person plural indicates the Great Life.

[2] Only the latter a part of this poem is in M.L. p. 249, l. 1 ff.

[3] The word 'gla is derived from the root 'GL "to roll, עגל hence an 'gla עָגְלָא is a "roller", "wheeled vehicle". The idea of motion is conveyed. Here, in 'gla, the last meaning is possibly a typical Mandaean pun on one meaning of the mana. It is here, therefore, the mana, rolling onward on its life's journey. (The other possible meaning "calf" is, of course, unlikely).

"I travel[1]) by my own strength;
(But) thou, in whose strength dost thou journey on?"
She spoke, the life-traveller that is they joined to me
Saying to me, "Just as thou travellest onward
By thine own strength, I (travel) by faith.
Kušṭa (ruleth) my heart [2]), my eyes are
The eyes of Radiance.
And my heart hath been tested by chosen ones".
We entered into garments and covered ourselves
And the act of reproduction was brought into being.
The act of reproduction came into existence
And elect ones began and will be established.
Life is renowned (and) victorious
And victorious the man who went thence.

208

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified.
His nuptial couch is spread for the bridegroom
And bowls of wine are mixed for him.
The bridegroom's bolster is clods of earth,
(Earth) the bridegroom's pillow, his vault is the sky.
The bridegroom's robes are of pure .... [4])
The bridegroom's girdle is all of well-springs,
Full of wellsprings of radiance, light and glory.
The bridegroom's tunic is of foaming waters,
The bridegroom's wreath is of a pure kind of vine,
The bridegroom's staff is of camel-thorn tree [5])

---

[1]) This prayer is said whilst walking from the marriage booth to the bridal chamber.

[2]) D.C. 38 lbab like D.C. 53. D.C. 3 lbar.

[3]) I must stress that my translation of these curious and obscure poems is tentative. When translating D.C. 38 (Š.ḏ-Q.) p. 53) I took the "fellow traveller" to be the dmuta, the prototype, or spiritual counterpart. It seems to me now that the reference is to the bride.

[4]) In Š.ḏ-Q. (p. 15, l. 10) I assumed that D.C. 3's ruhzan was correct, and therefore suggested that the word was ruhṣan from RHṢ "to wash, perform lustration". D.C. 53, however, like D.C. 38, has quhzan. Arabic قهز qahz or qihz = "a cloth of wool and silk". The context suggests a rough cloth of some kind. It is possible, however, that my first conjecture, based on D.C. 3, was correct.

[5]) A flowering and highly scented shrub or tree common round the Mediterranean and in the Middle East. Its leaves are shaped like the print of a camel's foot in sand.

And they say "Come, that we may make
A great wedding-feast for the bridegroom
As hath been commanded us by the Great (Life),
To make his appearance bright,
To prosper him from beginning to end
And cause good fortune to rest upon him.
And we will say unto the bridegroom, hymning him,
"Rejoice, Bridegroom, rejoice,
Rejoice in thy living wreath!
Inasmuch as thy wreath is fresh,
Thine appearance shall be bright
And thou shalt be confirmed in the happiness (lit. "glory)
Which the Great Life hath sent thee".

209

They bring in white flour by the khor (heap)
They enter with sacks of fine meal and (household?) requisites[1],
And finest flour[2] without measure.
Sheep arrive in flocks, and numberless oxen.
They bring in myrtle by the load,
And trails of jasmine in bunches.
Okes of gold they bring in,
And silver tied up in moneybags;
Precious stones and pearls,
All the handiwork of craftsmen;
Oil and wine, all collected by experts.
All of them — a thousand standing on the ground
And two thousand standing on the roofs.
(And) the thousand thousands of 'uthras
Standing by the bridal-canopy, say,
"Come, let us make a great wedding-feast for the bridegroom,
As hath been commanded us by the Great (Life),
To make his appearance bright,
And to make him prosperous from beginning to end.
To cause good fortune to rest upon him.
And we will hymn the bridegroom, saying to him,
'This radiance, whose is it?
This light, whose is it?

[1] Šilia = requests, desires (things asked for or needed) needs, requisites.
[2] simad: סְמִידָא? Or simat "treasure"?

This effulgence, that is great and boundless,
Whose is it?'
"This radiance is Hibil-Ziwa's, this light is Šitil's;
And this effulgence is of Anuš the great 'uthra,
So great and boundless".
"The radiance of Hibil is beauteous,
And the light of Šitil bright,
And this effulgence of the great 'uthra Anuš,
Is great and boundless".

210

Sun in his majesty bowed down before the bridegroom
And shed some of the rays of light which clothed him
And clad the bridegroom therein and said to him,
"I and my warriors and doughty men,
Will stand and take care of thee
From beginning to end".
Moon, lord of crown and wreath,
Placed his crown and wreath on the bridegroom,
And said to him "Our father, thy wreath is the wreath of 'uthras,
And thine ardour [1] proceedeth from the strength of Radiance.
The king of 'uthras that beheld thee
Removed his robes of radiance;
He clad thee therein and said to thee,
'How lovely are thy robes!
Thine appearance is bright, and shall be confirmed".
Mars, lord of arms and war, put on his armour
And war-harness and standeth before the bridegroom's bridal-canopy.
And slayeth devils and demons,
Putting an end to and slaughtering his foes,
And he said to him "I, with my warriors and mighty men,
Will stand here and will guard thee from beginning to end.'
Mercury, learned and wise, instilled some of his wisdom
Into the heart of the bridegroom,

---

[1] D.C. 3 has šugandak, D.C. 38, like 53 šgandak. The word is an obvious substitution of a familiar word for one unfamiliar, probably a word derived from the root ŠNG which appears only in Ṣingilan 'utra, the name of a spirit. In Syriac ܫܢܓ = to be in love and ܫܢܓܬܐ (variously vocalised) = love, desire, passion.

And hymned the bridegroom and said to him,
"Who sent thee, new-made king?
These doings all take place on thine account.
Thou hast brightened the Ether-world
And hast made the whole world better
From one end to another".
Jupiter, Son of the water, bringeth his vesture to the bridegroom
And hymned him and said to him,
"Thy vesture, our father, is the vesture of 'uthras,
And the light thrown upon (thy) shoulders
Will make thee (weigh) light [1]) our father, in the Scales.
And sealeth thee with the Pure Sign".
Saturn, in his beauty and his ruddiness,
Bringeth his smock to the bridegroom.
And he hymned the bridegroom and said to him,
"O 'uthra in whose resplendence Naṣoraeans exult,
Vaunting themselves in the Word,
The world of light vaunts itself about thee,
(And) about the king Šihlun-Ziwa(?) who hath transplanted thee."
Venus, Lady of Beauty and Desire,
Brought her wreath and girdle-string to the bride,
Which they placed on the head of the bride;
And they hymned the bride and said to her,
"O crowned bride, who sittest upon columns of water [2]),
Rejoice, and rejoice in the spouse who hath taken thee to wife,
And rejoice in thy living wreath.
Inasmuch as thy wreath is living (refulgent)
So shall thine appearance shine,
And thou shalt be preserved until world's end."
And Life is victorious, and victorious the man
Who goeth hence.

211

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified.

(Refrain)

I and the bridegroom's groomsman
Are the straps of his sandals
And the poles of the bridal canopy.

---

[1]) It is easy to confuse the 2nd. sing. Imperfect of QLL with TQL.
[2]) See Š.ḏ-Q. p. 58 n. 5.

I and the bridegroom's groomsman
Washed in the waters of the sea: in the waters of the sea we washed
We revealed not our secret to the sea,
To the sea we revealed not our secret.
Nor did we broadcast our wisdom to the wilderness!

O crowned bride, who was it,
Fruit that is crowned for bridal [1]), who
Revealed our secret
And broadcast our widsom in the wilderness?
Perchance Sun revealed our secret
And broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness?
(Nay!) Sun revealed not our secret
Nor bruited our wisdom in the wilderness.
Sun, of whom ye spake,
Rose at dawn and set at dusk,
Sun revealed not our secret
Nor broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness!

(Refrain "I and the bridegroom's groomsman" etc.)

O crowned bride, who was it?
Fruit that is crowned for bridal, who
Revealed our secret and broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness
Perchance Moon revealed our secret
And broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness?
(Nay!) Moon revealed not our secret
Nor broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness.
Moon, of whom ye spake,
Rose at dusk and set at dawn.
Moon revealed not our secret
Nor broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness.

(Refrain repeated)

O crowned bride, who was it?
Fruit crowned for bridal, who
Revealed our secret and broadcast our wisdom in the wilderness?
Three 'uthras [2]) not of this world revealed it.

---

[1]) See P.S. Supp. ܟܠܠܐ.

[2]) The three ʿuthras, Hibil, Šitil and Anuš.

They are like one another in stature and dimension,
They are clothed in one (and the same) radiance
And one light is spread over them all.
When they speak, the speech of these good beings is one,
Like the speech of Mighty Beings
In the Great Place, the House of Perfection.
Betwixt them there is no hatred,
Quarrelling or division.
Life is renowned (and) victorious
And victorious is the man who goeth hence.

212

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified.
There is a Vine for Šitil and a Tree for Anuš [1])
Šitil hath a Vine yonder
In thee, Land of the Leal,
Laden with reward, laden with oblation and laden
With Naṣirutha. The tendrils that are at the leaf-ends
Bore prayers, hymns and sublime recitations.
When I rose in my place
I made a request that was great;
I asked that a tall ladder be given me
That I might place it against the Vine for ascent,
Against the Vine for ascent I might place it,
And might mount into my Vine,
Might wax great and grasp its foliage,
Might eat, be refreshed by its shade
And enjoy its leafiness,
Might twine me a wreath of its tendrils
And place it on my head.
When I rose in my place, they granted the request I made.
They gave me a tall ladder that I could set against the Vine for ascent.
Against the Vine for ascent I placed it.
I rose into my Vine, I waxed great, I grasped its foliage,
I ate, was refreshed by its shade and enjoyed its leafiness;
From the tendrils of my Vine I twined a wreath

---

[1]) Šitil (Seth) and Anuš in this poem symbolise the soul and human spirit which compose the personality.

And set it upon my head.
The worlds gathered together, the generations assembled,
Twiners twined (wreaths) in imitation of my wreath,
They twined that which had no resemblance (to it).
They went, they put vines (vine-leaves?) on themselves
And they say, "Man, whence is thy wreath,
And whence (came) the being who twined it?"
To them I reply, "Vanish, begone from my presence,
(Ye) dead, wicked ones who beheld not the Life!
As for me, my wreath is not from here;
The being who twined it is not of this world.
My wreath is of the Vine Ruaz
And the Being who twined it [1] is from the Place of Light.
The Being who brought it and set it on my head
Is from the Eternal Home [2]".
Renowned is Life Victorious
And victorious the man who went hence.

213

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified!
I am a mana of the Great Life,
A mana am I of the Mighty Life,
A mana am I of the Great Life,
A mana that emanated from Manas [3]
A mana that proceeded from Manas [3]
That went towards two lawful spouses [4] of this world.
I came and I opened living waters
And gave them to the terrestial pair to drink
I opened living waters and gave of them
To the bridal pair of this world to drink.
I sowed in them pregnancy and birth
And with sexual desire I enflamed them
And caused love to dwell in both of them.
With Kušṭa [5] I spread them a bed of leaves

---

[1] Three words missing from D.C. 53.

[2] See p. 2, n. 2.

[3] I translated this "the Mana" in Š. ḏ-Q., because the plural here might denote the divine Being.

[4] Kišria "legally-joined-together" i.e.: (allowed by ritual law).

[5] Here "troth", "vow" i.e. the marriage pact cemented by oath.

That were from (living?) [1] trees,
They will live and be happy and I, the Messenger Hibil,
Have performed and arranged
That which my Father [2] commanded me.
And Life is victorious, and victorious the man
Who went hence.

214 [3]

In the name of the Great Life
Sublime Light be magnified.
A. Thou art come, Pure Pearl, who hast illumined dark hearts!
B. Radiance sought to be [4], and Light to awaken.

D. I sojourned amongst them, but they, the Seven,
Knew not about me.
H. There shall be benefaction for the Elect who loved the Life.
U,W. Woe to the planets that scheme evil against my Chosen ones.
Z. He is the Great Radiance,
The Light which hath no limit.
Ḥ. He is the first Life

K. He is the pure Wreath which they set
Upon Hibil in his škinta.
L. My heart beseecheth the Life
That He, the Life, will seek me in His *škinta*s [6].

---

[1] Some adjective is missing, hiia or rauzia.

[2] Plural, for the Life.

[3] D.C. 3 inserts a rubric before this hymn. A version of Pet. (r.) 276. It is also in the Ginza Rabba, (p. 274 Lidzbarski's translation).

[4] D.C. 3 and D.C. 53 have Bi lmihuia, although the two words have been run together.

[5] Lidzbarski (G.R. trs. p. 274 : 30) "Er war der grosse Glanz". Pet.(r.) 276: 17. As Yura is unusual as a form of Yur it is tempting to consider יורה "the first rain", "spring", "early season".

[6] In G.R. bškinatun. D.C. 53, D.C. 3 and D.C. 38 lškinatun. Possibly should be read "will build me into his *škinta*s", a metaphor found elsewhere.

M. From the day that Hibil transplanted me
My soul hath acknowledged the Place of Light.
N. Thou art the first (Source of) Rest,
Because of Thee, 'uthras 1) find repose.
S. The Twelve Gates stray from the right path 2),
And do not ascend by roads (that lead) to Light.
The profundity of Naṣirutha is vast and boundless.
P. He is a sweet Fruit,
Pleasing of taste and without blemish.
Ṣ. I hearkened to the call of Life
In the Great Place, the House of Perfection.
Q. It is the Voice of Pure Radiance
Who speaketh and discourseth in his škinta.
R. It is the Pure Sign by which
The living 3) are signed in their *škinta*s.
S. I hear the converse of living (souls)
Who have been established in the Dwelling of Life.
T. He is the lovely Door, the Light which is Boundless.
Renowned is Life victorious
And victorious the man who went hence.

Here D. C. 3 has a rubric: —

[When thou hast recited this hymn "Thou art come, Pearl" and endest it, then recite the wedding songs (hadiata, hidiata) "Behold, the wicked degrade" etc. but thou shalt not recite the wedding songs for a widow. Instead, they shall recite "Pure guardians shall guard you" only, without the wedding songs. (These) thou shalt not recite for a widow.]

The wedding songs are purely lay in character and I do not propose to include them amongst the liturgical prayers and hymns. They are essentially folk-songs and have a popular flavour. For my attempt to translate them, see Š. ḏ-Q. They are: —

215. 'hai qašaflia "Lo the wicked degrade my people" Š.ḏ-Q. 18 : 3
216. 'hai ya daragai "Behold, my portal" Š ḏ-Q. 18 : 8

---

1) Read *'uthra*s as in GR.
2) סור (J. to turn from the right path):Pael.
3) Hiia here refers to spirits living in bliss, not to the Great Life.

217. 'hai ya rabutia [1] "Lo, my little mistress" Š. ḏ-Q. 18 : 13 [2]
218. 'hai ya rabutia "Lo, my little mistress" Š. ḏ-Q. 18 : 17
219. 'hai ya rabutia "Lo, my little mistress" Š. ḏ-Q. 18 : 20
220. 'hai ya rabutia "Lo, my little mistress" Š. ḏ-Q. 18 : 23
221. 'hai ya rabutia "Lo, my little mistress" Š. ḏ-Q. 18 : 27 [2]
222. 'hai ya ṭawasta ḏ zahba "Lo, O thou (bride) that glitterest (with gold)" Š. ḏ-Q. 18 : 30
223. Brata ḏ man anat "Whose daughter art thou" Š. ḏ-Q. 19 : 1
224. Mn yuma ḏ 'uraš rba atalia "From the day that the great 'Uraš came for her" Š. ḏ-Q. 19 : 4
225. Hiduia man ḏ amarlak "Bridegroom, who told thee" Š. ḏ-Q. 19 : 7 [2]
226. Man ḏ araslḫ lhiduia "Who wedded the bridegroom". Š. ḏ-Q 19 : 11
227. Brakinkun hibil ziwa "Hibil-Ziwa hath blessed you" Š. ḏ-Q. 19 : 16
228. Hda 'dai atutia rišḫ "One of my hands beneath his head" Š. ḏ-Q. 19 : 25
229. Atutia diqla qaima "Standing beneath the palm-tree" Š. ḏ-Q 19 : 27.
230. Htimitun b'sqat hiia Ye are sealed with the seal of Life" Š. ḏ-Q. 19 : 23
231. Ṭiriankun (ṭariankun) "Your table" Š.ḏ-Q. antepenult.
232. Ninaṭrunkun naṭria dakiia "Pure guardians watch over you" Š. ḏ-Q. 19 ult.

[This is the conclusion of the wedding songs (hadaiata).]

In the name of the Great First Strange Life from worlds of light, the Ineffable that is above all works, be there for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš healing, victory [3], strength, soundness, speech and a hearing, joy of heart and forgiveness of sins, (also) for my father Sam son of Anhar, my mother Mahnuš daughter of Hawa-Simat, my wife Hawa-Simat daughter of Maliha, my offspring Adam Yuhana and Šarat-Mumania the children of Hawa-Simat.

And may our thought, mind and intelligence enlighten us, (enlighten me) and my offspring, for the treasure of the First Life in these hymns and psalms of "When the Proven One, the Pure one went".

[1] Variously spelt, D.C. 3 has rabituia.

[2] See M.L. pp. x - xi.

[3] Or, of course, "purity".

233

In the name of the Great Life!
When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where the perfected [1] dwell
To the Place which is all Radiance
And light and glory abound (there),
The Proven Pure One speaketh to the Perfect One [1]
Hidden and guarded within Its veilings [2],
Set apart by Its glory
And giving out light in all Its wisdom.
The Proven One, the Pure One speaketh
Saying to the Great (Life),
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
The Ether hath all been made, [3]
Created [3] is the Ether, all of it.
And in it, great Radiance will form itself
And sublime Light be set up therein.
In it there will be 'uthras
And Rays-of-Light will be established therein,
Appearances that shine with lovely radiance.
Enlightenment [4] will be raised up
And will watch over all the 'uthras
'Uthras will shine in the enlightenment
Which went thither from Thyself.
The Great Predestinate speaketh [5]
To the Proven One, the Pure One,
Saying to him "These be (welcome) words
That thou hast spoken to us.
Go thou, and become guardian to them,
And all will shine through thy strength

---

[1] Either "perfected (ones)" or "the Perfect Being". Mandaean theologian apparently accept both meanings

[2] Lit. "coverings", "raiment".

[3] D.C. 53 titbid, D.C. 38 mitbid, D.C. 3 titbar. The difference in meaning is slight.

[4] Or "vigilance". It is personified. As the next phrase refers to guarding, "vigilance" may be more suitable.

[5] Lidzbarski (p. 251 M.L.) begins at this line.

And will praise thy Garment
And will honour thine appearance".
The Chosen One gave praise with a pure mouth
Because of that which the Great (Life) said to him.
And Life is victorious.

234

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where perfected (beings) dwell,
To the Place which giveth out light,
And its praise is unsullied [1],
Unsullied is its praise;
Foreordained and blessed is its benediction:
Foreordained is the blessed benediction
Which holy *mana*s pronounced,
Which was pronounced by holy *mana*s
Predestinate, calm and perfected.
The Proven, Pure One speaketh,
Saying to the Great Life,
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
A world of light hath been made,
Created [2] is a world of light
And a company hath been established therein,
Dwellings [3] have been set up therein.
It will be bright in Thy praise
In Thy praise it will shine,
And will be blessed with Thy blessing.
Mystic Sprouts (offspring) will come into being
And at Thy Word they will flourish,
They will flourish at Thy Word
And Sprouts that are worthy will be raised up".
The Great Life speaketh with Its pure mouth [4]
Unto the Proven One, the Pure One.

---

[1] Taqna "firm", "reliable", "constant" has also the meaning when applied to light, "steady", "unwavering", "steady", "continuous". P.S. Thes. under part. adj. gives "unsullied", which suits here admirably.

[2] Again, D.C. 3 has titbir "created".

[3] Škinata, could be translated better by some word like "sanctuaries".

[4] A few lines of this hymn were translated by Lidzbarski, M.L. p. 252 II.

It saith to him, "Thou art Our Thought,
"Our Knowing and Our Understanding,
Our Heart that is limitless, Our First Voice,
Our Pure Garment and Our well-equipped
First Discerner; for Our sake
Thou wast transplanted.
Go! Perform thy work, and thy pure offspring
Shall attain perfection,
They shall attain the highest, thy pure offspring,
And be joined in union inseparable.
Make a World of Light,
And they will shine therein, yea, it shall be
All radiance and light
And will attain perfection".
And the Great Life be praised.

235

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where the perfected dwell,
To the Tana[1] of glory
Whose blessing hath blessed[2] the Place
In which the Secret One sitteth[3]
And uttereth in Its Awakening[4]
Giveth utterance there in its Arousing[4]
And giveth out light by Its own thought;
The Proven Pure One speaketh
To Predestinate Perfection,
Saying to Him, to the Pure Vein
And Tongue that is limitless,
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life)
May it be that we transport jordans,
Permit that we transport jordans

---

[1] In Š. ḏ-Q. I translated this "glowing heart", a very free translation. See p. 190, n. 1. and p. 9, n. 1.

[2] D.C. 3 has brik not brika as in D.C. 53 and D.C. 38.

[3] See Š. ḏ-Q., p. 73, n. 2. Plural, indicating the Great Life.

[4] Here 'ruta (See P.S. Thes. ܥܝܪܘܬܐ) should be thus translated. The idea appears to be that the Great Life has its periods of quiescence, ceasing to be, and that 'ruta is its awaking, its renewed activity, 'ruta also has a "light" meaning-"light which awakens", "enlightenment".

And a Pure Sign shall be established therein,
A Pure Sign we will establish therein
And there will be increase for all 'uthras,
And 'uthras will be baptised
As ye were baptised, they will confirm themselves
By themselves, [1] (as) ye were confirmed
Completely. They will shine, will enlighten one another
And instruct one another about Thee, and Thy pure Vesture
Which is sublime, and brighter than any (other) appearance;
And about that which was transplanted from its place [2],
And about that which is destined to exist,
And about that which was created in a hidden covering".
The Great Predestinate spoke [3],
Saying to the Proven Pure One,
To His pure Garment [4] (?)
There is nought without limit! [5]
All that thou hast done shall be established.
All thy vines will be illustrious,
And in all thine actions there will be nought
Lacking or amiss. In none will there be blemish
And they will not go foolishly astray".
And Life is victorious!

236

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where perfected beings dwell,
To the Place where His appearance is lustrous,
His countenance shineth and His Counterpart
Is supported each and every time
That they seek and find and discourse of their Creator.
The Proven Pure One speaketh,
Saying to the Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life)
If it please Thee, Great (Life)
Great (spirits) sit in glory,

[3] Lidzbarski begins here, see M.L. p. 253, III.

[4] Doubtful.

[5] Lidzbarski p. 253, 1. 6, ul'tia ḏ saka litlḫ, which he translates "zu dem Wesen, das endlos ist", probably a better version.

In glory they sit, the great (spirits),
And converse in their speech that is not mortal [1]),
They talk in their gentle voices,
And Thou sheddest upon them some of that which is Thine.
And they sit in fellowship with Thee
And employ themselves with Thy praise;
And in Thy place, in prayer to Thee, do they converse.
We will confirm their works,
Their works we will confirm:
We will raise up the horn on their heads
And will establish their Root.
And we will increase their victories: we will increase
Their victories derived from Thy strength,
Transmitted from Thy strength,
(That) went forth, came and dwelt with Thine own".
The Great Predestinate spoke to him [2]),
Saying to the Proven, Pure One,
"Go! invest [3]) the great (spirits) with radiance;
Settle them in a place which is unsullied [4]), Reveal [5]) and give them pihta [6])
And in praise thy (spirits) will shine!
Act (thus) and support the Mana.
Life will show Itself grateful to thee.
Life be praised: Life is victorious.

237

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the place where the Perfect One dwelleth,
To the place where His converse is calm
And His appearance wondrous,
To the place where all are kings
And where lust and misdoing exist not,
To the place which is full of goodness

[1]) Lit. "not vain", "not worthless", "not temporary", "unending": "not mortal" is a very free translation.

[2]) Lidzbarski begins at this line: p. 254, IV. M.L.

[3]) Lit. "plant", "implant", "transplant", "transfer".

[4]) Taqna, see p 187, n. 1.

[5]) Lit. "open", "open up".

[6]) The sacramental bread, lit. "the opened" ("broken into pieces"? or "revealed"?). See M.L. p. xxiii l. 1 ff.

(And) where Their raiment is prepared
For the pure arriving (spirit) 1)
And for him whose form giveth light,
The Proven Pure One speaketh
And saith to the Great (Life)
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, mighty (Life)
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
There shall be built a wondrous building,
A wondrous building shall be built.
Thy right hand shall erect it,
Thy right hand will set it up
And Thou wilt not cut it off from Thee.
Thy first plan 2), it will rise towards Thee,
It will be set up, it will rise Thee-wards,
And thou wilt not cut off from Thyself
The First-born that Thou hast created.
He shall be set up as Thy counterpart.
He is a fair portal, he will rise Thee-wards,
He will be established, will mount,
Will direct himself Thee-wards;
And will converse in Thy speech that is eternal.
He will not sever from Thee nor from Thy society.
Condemn him not!"
All that the Proven Pure One had said 3)
Everything the Proven Pure One said
Pleased the Great (Life),
And Sublime-Light riseth:
He said to him "Thou art possessor of will,
And lord of all victories.
Thou hast conquered and hast prevailed over thy brethren
And thy Father, (Whom) in secret thou blessest.
Go, show light (ziwa) to Yušamin and reassure his heart!
Say to him he shall not fear and reveal to him
That which is established here.
Explain it to him so that his heart may lighten
And confirm it that his mind may be enlightened.

---

1) The couplet is obscure and translation tentative. Read 'taqnilḫ for taqnalḫ ?
2) Or "thought", or "device".
3) See M.L. p. 254 V.

Be gracious and kindly to him and bless him
And show him the light of thy countenance,
The light of thy countenance show to him,
And say to him that he shall not be cast down,
(But) be meek and humble, and he will illumine
The 'uthras".
The Proven One did that which was commanded him,
And the Mana thereupon supported the Proven One
So that he performed that which was commanded him.
And he went to the House-of-Life,
He went, he said to Them, "Thus have I done,
It hath been set in order. Should it not be so,
Set Ye in order".
The Great (Life) blesseth the Proven One
With His pure mouth for having made his report.
And Life is victorious.

238

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where Perfection dwelleth,
To the Mighty-in-Glory, to the Well-Ordered and Well-Ordering,
(Who) speaketh in His calm voice
And ordereth His ordinances;
Uttering in His calm voice
His trustworthy teaching, His mystic [1] prayers,
And His wise discourses [2] which are not vain,
The Proven One, the Pure One speaketh
And saith to the Great (Life),
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
We will twine circlets [3] of radiance,
Circlets of radiance will we twine,
And will set them on the heads of the 'uthras,
We will bring them from the Great Light.

---

[1] D.C. 3 has šutaikun.

[2] NṬF has as a derived meaning "to let fall a weighty observance" "to prophesy". (The usual meaning of niṭufiata "drops", "consorts of divine beings" is impossible here.)

[3] Lit "wreaths": "crowns" of priesthood is the understood meaning.

We will watch over them.
If Ye do not thus,
In what can the 'uthras prosper?
In what can the 'uthras delight?
How can there be certainty for Rays-of-Light?
From what will they derive fame and honour?
And how can we preserve them,
And with what will they seek and find,
Speak with Thee and be heard?"
The Great Predestinate speaketh; [1])
He saith to the Proven One, the Pure One,
"Go, join with (unite with?) [2]) Radiance
Take heed that they .... [2]) raiment.
Give them of my Wreath of Ether [3])
And all the 'uthras will rejoice.
And from Us and from thee
They will acquire renown and honour,
Renown and honour they will have,
And in strengthening honour they will be preserved.
Our name and thy name shall be upon them
And they will give praise in the Secret Place".
And Life is victorious.

239

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the place where the perfected dwell,
To the place of pure wrappings,
Vestments which radiance illumineth,
To the place of Living Flame
Where all are full of goodness.
All open their eyes in radiance,
In the radiance they open their eyes,
And they shine in that Light;
The Proven, the Pure One speaketh
And saith to the Great (Life),
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),

---

[1]) See M.L., p. 255 VII.

[2]) An obscure line. "Change raiment" is unlikely, but I can make nothing else of it. M.L. has "und bewahre die wundersamen Gewände."

[3]) Read ahbalun klilia ayar ("give them ether-wreaths")?

If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
I would say one word to Thee,
One word to Thee I would say,
That is sublime and illuminating
And not (to be?) cut short!
How superexcellent is Thy Likeness
And how greatly hast Thou increased
And established Thy sublime company!
In the Ether (World) there is no water!
As there is no water in the Ether,
By what can the 'uthras be invigorated? 1)
How can the 'uthras thrive? 1)
And (how can) priestly knowledge be installed into their hearts?"
The Great Predestinate speaketh 2)
Saying to the Proven One the Pure One,
"How zealous thou art, Yawar!
And how dutiful and faithful
Are the words which thou hast spoken!"
They created stocks 3) of living water;
They let it flow down to the ether,
They sent it down, caused it to flow down,
To the ether, to the dwelling of the 'uthras,
All of them savoured it and it was fragrant!
'Uthras savoured it and it was fragrant!
All 'uthras will savour it and it will please.
The 'uthras all drank and throve,
They drank and rejoiced thereat.
And into their hearts Naṣirutha
Was poured. Life is renowned and victorious
And victorious is Manda-ḏ-Hiia
And those who love his name.

240

When the Proven One, the Pure One went

---

1) Niriuzun: or "will be glad".
2) See M.L., p. 256 VIII.
3) So D.C. 53, Both D.C. 3 and D.C. 38 have the singular. The passage was not properly understood in Š.ḏ-Q.

To the Place where Perfection dwelleth,
To the Place where dwelleth the pure perfected Being [1])
Which proceedeth [1]) from Itself, and Its speech (Word),
Which proceedeth from Itself —
And its speech and words are from It
And from Its Counterpart [2]).
The Proven One, the Pure One speaketh
To the Great (Life), saying to Him,
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
We will summon Zihrun-Raza,
Zihrun-Raza we will summon — him and his seven
Mystic brethren who are with him.
One is called "Radiance", another is called "Light".
We will plant (them?) and they will shine forth
And will be made manifest.
And we will transfer for them jordans (flowing streams)
That are transcendent, transcendent jordans
We will transmit for them.
They will govern a Kimṣa [3]) (treasure?) of living flame
And the Root which the Son of Hidden Mysteries led forth.
They will be baptised and established
And we will establish the Kimṣa [3]).
In their vestments we will establish their strength.
There it shall come to pass, and at Thy name
The elect thus far [4]) will be established.
If Thou dost not act thus,
Transitory matters may cause the Kimṣa to stumble away from Thee,
Things which lead to destruction may cause it
To fall away from Thee, and all sacramental rites [5])
Will become marred.

---

[1]) The verb is plural in agreement with tušlimia, here undoubtedly the supreme Being.

[2]) Dmut-Hiia, the female aspect of creative Life.

[3]) Kimṣa here seems to refer to the body of believers, the Mandaean "Church" as a whole.

[4]) Lhaka lit. "to here"; "up to this point".

[5]) Razia, "mysteries" = sacramental rites.

When the Proven Pure One said this [1]),
A Voice went down into all the worlds
From the Secret Radiance.
It spoke, it called Zihrun-the-Mystery;
It spoke, it called on Zihrun-Raza,
On him and on his seven mystic brethren
Who are with him. It summoned them
And it transported for them jordans.
And it set them in rule over the jordans;
Over the jordans it made them rulers
And (over) never-ceasing well-springs.
Renowned is Life victorious
And victorious the man who went hence.

241

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where perfected beings dwell,
To the Place which was self-created
And a Presence (Parṣufa) set up therein,
A Voice issued from the Presence
Announcing to the Chief of Rays of-Light,
And causing the Great(est) Ray-of-Light to hearken:
Teaching him about every matter,
About every principal (important) subject,
So that it was explained: — thus it is.
The Proven One, the Pure One speaketh,
Saying to the Great (Life)
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
I will tell Thee all that I have seen.
I have seen — and I desire to call forth [2]) 'uthras
— If it please Thee!
I will call forth three 'uthras,
And I will instal them in my abode (škintai).
One shall be my companion,
Another shall be, as it were, my counterpart,
Another shall be young, and be

---

[1]) See M.L. p. 257 IX.
[2]) Or "summon".

Satisfactory to my mind.
They shall chant sublime hymns
And read in secret books
And recite therefrom,
In all their wisdom performing rites that are seemly.
Walking with me in the boundary of the Self (?)
Walking according to my commands
And not departing from (my word)
From (my word) they shall not depart,
Nor alter my pure Word,
Nor change my rites which they perform
And were ordained (to carry out).
I have created them according to my design,
And have set the Sign of Life upon their minds,
Have marked them with the mark of the Great Life
And placed my own name upon them."
And Life is victorious.

242

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where the Perfected dwell,
To the Place which is all radiance,
And nought is as sublime or of like purity!
(The Place) which is full of serene (beings)
Honouring Thee with their praises [1];
The Proven, Pure One speaketh
And saith to the Great (Life)
"If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
I will call forth from my 'uthras, one,
One from (amongst?) my 'uthras I will summon.
And I will clothe him in my radiance
With my radiance will I clothe him,
And with my light I will cover him.
I will cover him with my light
And he will be protected by my name.
He will have that which was apportioned him;

---

[1] The construction is curious - "in Your praises honouring", i.e. "praises of the Great Life".

He will arise with his great (spirits) and [1]) his host
And will take to himself Knowledge of Life (Manda-ḏ-Hiia)
Who went thither.
He will go to the world of Abathur,
From whom imperfection originated,
From him imperfection came into being
And he sowed bad seed [2]).
Bad seed did he sow and created creations
Not worthy of him [3]), who asked no advice,
Received no baptism, nor did they (he?)
Grasp the right hand of his (their) father,
But did that which was not commanded
And performed that which was useless.
One of my 'uthras shall go and shall confound
All (those) creations, he will confound
All the creations which he created,
(Creatures) that have neither hand nor foot.
He will straighten a road in the world,
Whereby chosen ones will mount hitherwards.
At his call [4]) they will come
And will set up my boundary-stone
And testify to the one, great, pure Name.
The horn on their heads will be exalted."
Renowned is Life and victorious,
And victorious the man who went hence.

243

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where perfected (beings) dwell:
Pure is the place, there is no grief in it,
No infirmity existeth therein, nor is disquiet admitted there,
Friction is not accepted therein,
Wrath and violence have no place therein,
Therein are no wrath and violence

[1]) In D.C. 53 plainly sagiiḫ. D.C. 38 and D.C. 3 both have niqum bsigia "will arise to go".

[2]) "Bad seed" refers to Pthahil, the unsuccessful creator, who was Abathur's son.

[3]) Or, which were not accomplished successfully for him.

[4]) So in D.C. 53. D.C. 3 and D.C. 38 have "my call".

But all is calm, all is kindliness,
Because they within it are in harmony [1].
The Proven One, Pure One speaketh
And saith to the Great (Life)
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
Thy will shall be (wrought) on the 'uthras,
Upon the 'uthras Thy will shall be (done);
All that Thou hast willed Thou doest!
I have seen, I have spoken,
And him whom I mention in Thy presence,
I will reveal to him — this Abathur-Rama —
Why he is fallen from his throne,
Why from his throne he is fallen
And went and became Him-of-the-Scales [2],
When I call in Thy name a second time,
Lay Thou Thy right hand upon him!
The Great Predestinate speaketh [3]
Saying to the Proven One, the Pure One,
"Thou knowest all hearts and discernest all thoughts,
Thine eyes are well-open
And thou distinguishest all those who know thee [4].
For thy fame's sake and for Our name's sake,
When he is sinning, who will (can) permit it?
Who will let him be when he offendeth?
And casteth Our root into polluted waters?
(One) who accepteth favour from Us and then goeth
And casteth it nito the abode of the dark (powers)!"
When the Proven, Pure One heard this,

[1] The root is ܫܘܐ, and elsewhere I have discussed the varied meaning of the Ethpe. "Smoothened", "equalised"?

[2] Abathur-Rama is the higher counterpart of Abathur-Muzania (Abathur of the Scales). The latter is in charge of the balances in which souls are weighed, with the soul of Šitil, the purest of all human being) in the opposing scale. See p. 105, n. 4.

[3] M.L. (p. 258) here has twelve lines (only) of this poem. Owing to ignorance of the context, Lidzbarski has misunderstood it. Yawar is pleading for Abathur but the Great Life explains that he cannot allow Abathur's conduct to pass.

[4] Yadak = "thy knowers": see N. 177: 18 and for paršit, ibid p. 22 n. 4.

He prostrated himself before Him and worshipped:
He bowed himself and prostrated himself before Him
And uttered much praise and said,
"How sublime 1) is this that I have heard from Thee!
I have accepted and am corrected by Thee!"
And Life is victorious.

244

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the place where the Perfected (One) dwelleth,
(He said) "I will speak to Thee, Mystic Perfection,
Who art hidden and guarded by Thy Veilings:
I would tell Thee, Mystic Perfection,
Secrets told by the 'uthras.
One whom, according to Thy plan, I created,
I sent to that world.
How hideous and without beauty
Was everything that he saw in that world!
A world of sons of perfection
From whom there was imperfection.
He who went from here a noble 2)
Yonder they made him a slave,
A slave they made him yonder.
From the seven planets he suffered,
He suffered from the seven planets
And was tormented in the world.
He who went from hence rich 3) (or "having plenty")
Was in need in the world.
Yonder they made him their fellow,
Yonder their associate they made him.
From the seven planets he suffered,
He suffered from the seven planets
Was reduced to misery in the world".

---

1) D.C. 53 omits šanai. D.C. 3 has kma šanai etc.

2) Or "free".

3) Both D.C. 53 (p. 263 text) and D.C. 3 omit the lines in italics, viz. lhil abda šawiuih̲ sawiuih̲ abda umn šuba šibiahia sbal sbal mn šibiahia asniq bgauh̲ ḏ alma yatira ḏ azal mn haka. For the missing lines see No. 272 (D.C. 53, p. 312 text), D.C. 3 p. 411 text, and D.C. 38, Š.ḏ-Q. p. 24, l. 11 ff.

4) Or "virtuous". Yatira from יָתַר to be rich.

The Great (Life) with pure mouth (speaketh) 1),
Saying to the Proven, Pure One,
"This that one of thine 'uthras hath told thee,
If virtuous is he about whom one spoke,
He about whom one of thine 'uthras spake,
One of thine 'uthras shall bring thee information,
We are creating (?) 2) an earth of fire,
And the planets who enslaved him
Will go to fiery chains.
Pthahil, who made the earth shall be baptised
Here in the white Jordan.
The thousand thousand vestments 3)
That will go out towards him
And presences without end
Will have compassion 4) and will together
Stretch forth (their hands) in pact and peace 5)."
"How sublime is that which Thou sayest to me!
Thou hast reassured my heart!
Thou dost indeed support and lift up,
Equippest with arms and givest enlightenment!"
And Life is victorious.

245

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where the Perfected (Being) dwelleth,
To the Place where the Almighty
Empowereth Itself and its Presence (Parṣufa),
And steadfast and shining is its Countenance,
Showing forth Its Likeness in the Secret Place;
The Place where Their Voice is lovely
And the sound of Their speech is sweet;
And sublime is the Place where the Great (Life) abideth!
Praise of Them is unbounded 6)

---

1) M.L. p. 258 has the following lines only in a slightly different form.

2) Lidzbarski (M.L., p. 259 1. 2 f.) anin tibil nura qria. Read qrainin we have created". (Š-ḍ-Q qrainḫ)

3) A punning equivalent for mania.

4) Lit. "will be theirs", i.e. compassion for Pthahil.

5) A free translation, they "extend (their hands) in kušta".

6) An idiomatic form, see p. 197, n. 1 and elsewhere. In this type of hymn it is always difficult to distinguish whether the plural refers to the Supreme Being or the spirits surrounding Him.

And mighty (beings) shine in their hierarchies
And perform all that They (He) desire (desireth);
The Proven Pure One speaketh
And saith to the Great (Life)
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
Reveal to me the mysteries of blessing (prayer)
And about the armour [1] of their souls,
And about the radiance transmitted to Thyself".
The Great (Life) with His pure mouth (speaketh) [2]
And saith to the Proven One, the Pure One,
"Thou art blessed from the Place (in which) we are blessed [3]
And from the Place in which We came into being Thou camest into being.
And from the Place in which We were (self-) planted
Firm and implanted was thy native strength? [4].
Our radiance and thy radiance are victorious,
Victorious is Naṣirutha [5] that is of Us
And victorious is he whom I summon into it.
And (those whose) eyes open in radiance and light".
And Life be praised!

246

When the Proven One, the Pure One goeth
To the Place where Perfection dwelleth:
When, filled with innocency
And bright in all his goodness,
When beautified by his great radiance
And by his pure being [6]
They(?) travel to that Place,
The Proven, Pure One spoke,
Saying to the Great (Life),
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),

---

[1] Širiana = (a) a vein, artery, channel", "stream", (b) "body-armour, cuirass".

[3] The verb is passive.

[4] As indicated on pp. 135 and 171 the meaning of the verb NṢB and the word niṣubta is wide and vague. Hence the couplet is paraphrased with misgiving.

[5] Here, the vocation of priesthood.

[6] The verse is obscure. My former translation is impossible. Should it be "with a pure being"? 'tia is always abstract!

If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
Support my words! Let there be thrones
And we will set them up in the worlds of light.
So that 'uthras shall sit (thereon)
And recite thereon.
So that their ranks [1]) will shine thereon.
By their words they will edify them,
So that their ordered array may beseem their splendour.
And the revered ones, when sitting on their thrones,
Sitting on their thrones,
Will shine with a steady light.
He spoke with His pure voice,
The Great (Life) who dwelleth in that Place [2])
Spoke with His pure mouth
And said to the Pure One,
"Thou art a pure Helper! (Go),
Do all that thou desirest (to do)".
"According to Thy will and mine
I have constructed thrones,
Thrones I have provided
And have instructed the 'uthras who sit on them.
The 'uthras who sit on them I have instructed,
And they praise the Great (Life) Who counselled me.
They praise me, for I prepared for each one
His throne. The 'uthras stood and praised
That which I had sought and found
Through the goodness of the Life.
For them had I sought and found
Through the goodness of the Life
Who supported them."
Renowned is Life and victorious
And victorious the man who went hence.

247

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where perfected beings dwell,
The Chosen One, whose vesture becometh him

---

[1]) Sidria also means "recitations", "chants".

[2]) See M.L., p. 260, XIV.

And maketh his personality [1] greater
Than all the ‘uthras,
His personality maketh him greater than all the ’uthras
Greater than all ’uthras doth his personality make him,
Because he beheld the Form of the Great (Life),
Because he hath seen the Likeness of the Great (Life)
Their radiance controlled his thought
And Their thought: it was reciprocally outpoured.
And They pray a prayer for the ’uthras.
All ’uthras trust one another,
Love one another in sincerity.
There is no division amongst them
Such as the Second [2] brought about,
So ’uthras are undivided from one another,
All are armed with one armour,
They are equipped with one armour
And their speech is one in sincerity,
In sincerity their speech is one.
And they dwell in lovely radiance,
In lovely radiance do they dwell
The Being whose love filled them,
And whose tranquillity and love rested upon them.
Life be praised and Life is victorious.

248

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the place when perfected (beings) dwell,
—Great is he, the good (spirit)! —
He set his course towards his Father,
Toward his Father was his course set,
To say to Him that which was sublime and precious
In the secret place.
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
May it please Thee, Great (Life),

---

[1] In these poems nafša is often used for "soul". Properly speaking it is a thir component of man's make-up; the self, or individuality as distinct from the ruha and nišimta

[2] "The Second", "Second Life"; the manifestation of the material world. ?

[3] Read rhamtḫ . . . šidqḫ.

(That) a home of splendour [1]), honour within it,
Be established, dignity resident therein,
And 'uthras will seek one another,
'Uthras will seek one another (in prayer).
Each will reverence his brother,
Everyone will reverence his brother
According to the counsel which went thither
From Thee".
"Thou art empowered, Great (Spirit)!
Go, let Honour abide in that place.
Let Dignity rest on that place.
And in Our glory and thine they will become glorious,
They will become glorious with that glory
And will accept the blessing that We sent them:
The blessing We sent them they will accept
And be grateful to thee.
It will take place so that 'uthras may know
That thou art the greatest of all 'uthras;
For thou hast revealed and shown them light
And dost give them the praise".
"I went, I went yonder,
Yonder I went;
I caused blessing to rest upon them.
The blessing I shed upon them
They (thankfully) receive.
And we will bless them with a benediction [2]),
Benediction we will pronounce upon them
And in Thy praise they will (themselves) gain honour.
They will gain honour in praise of Thee,
They will establish Thy word.
Thy word they will establish
And will not depart from Thee."
Priests in secret bless the great (spirit)
Who honoured them and caused honour to rest upon them.

---

[1]) A pun on 'qar and 'qara follows; play on words is characteristic of Mandaean poetry.

[2]) Read dilkun for dilun? ("and bless Thee with a benediction").

249

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where perfected beings dwell,
To the Place where dwelleth the Perfected [1],
Hidden within its Self and aloof,
He goeth towards Him, speaking to Him,
(Uttering) a sublime saying.
"If it please Thee, great (Life),
If it please Thee mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, great (Life),
I will speak: accept Thou mine (utterance).
There shall be pure signings;
And there shall be perpetual watchfulness.
It will be Thine armament;
With it 'uthras will equip themselves.
Thou equippest them with Good-Faith (kušṭa)
And Good-Heed [2].
Nor will they rest idle when Thou hast armed them
With Good-Faith and Good-Heed.
They will keep silence and observe obedience.
Thinking like Thee and acting like Thee,
Thinking and acting like Thee.
And their deeds will be honest,
Reliable will be their rites [3].
And zealous counsel will issue from them.
Kings, they will counsel one another
And unite, great and small, in communion."
And Life is victorious.

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where the Perfected One abideth,
To the Place where the sound of His voice [4] is mild,

[1] I.e. the great Life.

[2] Or "Truth and obedience".

[3] Both translations of this line are possible.

[4] Again here the reversion to the singular points to tušlimia as an epithet for the Great Life. The narrative returns to the plural after "luminous and lovely".

His appearance fair; and luminous and lovely
Are Those [1] who dwell there
And to Themselves absolutely true;
Truth and armed-readiness are at Their head;
In Their place They discern, know and distinguish
And in their inmost [2] Self They are watchful.
The Proven, Pure One speaketh,
Saying to the Great(Life)
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
Speak [3], open (reveal) Thy treasury,
Speak [3], reveal Thy treasury
And take therefrom a boon,
A boon take out of it
And grant to me a servant.
A servant give to me in whom
There is no lacking or fault.
With him bring my brethren, with him bring
All my sons, bring my sons;
So that in him and in Thee they may be raised up,
Be raised up in Thy resurrection
And be blessed with a benediction
That is from Thee."
The scheme which the great (spirit) planned [4],
He planned it for good. (At) the place
That the great (spirit) thought out
The 'uthras bow down and give praise,
The 'uthras worship and praise
The Being who opened His treasury,
The Being who sent them a benefit.
The 'uthras bowed in adoration
And were grateful for all His favours.

251

When the Chosen One, the Pure One went
To the Place where the Perfected (Being) dwelleth,
To the Place where deeply reverenced
Is His steadfast Form, he (the Chosen One)
Spoke, saying to the Great (Life) Whose Form is constant,
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
(Let us) open a Light-Euphrates,
A Light-Euphrates we will open up
And set therein a sturdy root
So that from the root there will be pure Vines
Who will offer up praise to Thee;
So that from the Vines which appear
Sprouts may grow out, healthy offshoots;
So that from the offshoots that show forth
We may institute, reward and oblation [1]).
We will institute reward and oblation,
We will lead in a congregation of souls [2]),
In a congregation of souls we will take the lead.
From it (the Euphrates) water will gush out,
There will be assurance for all Rays-of-Light,
They will be full of faith and put their trust in Thee".
"Thou hast spoken and thou hast established ,
Do thou confirm it and bring it to a successful conclusion".
"I came, and I opened up a Light-Euphrates
And established therein a baptism that is efficacious [3]),
I set up thereby a sturdy Root
That giveth forth light and is bright
And will not be cut down".
And Life is victorious.

252

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the place where the Perfected (Being) dwelleth,

[1]) Or "fee and oblation", i.e. the offerings of the faithful in money or kind which constitutes the stipend of every priest.

[2]) Individuals, see above p. 204, n.1.

[3]) Lit. "that is not void", "not useless".

To the Place where His speech is pleasant
And His converse sublime and foreign (to the earthly world),
To the place where personality and manhood exist not;
[He spoke to the Great (Life) saying:]
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
We will set up a pure Crystal,
A pure Crystal will we set up
And arcana that are within it
Shall be established. The 'uthra Hibil
Shall come, shall dwell on the Euphrates
And will guard it. At his right hand
Two beings will come. We will establish and found 1)
Three škintas. On them Thou wilt cause blessing to rest:
Blessing Thou wilt bestow on them.
The arcana concealed therein, one by one
Will come into being 2). There will be
A Pearl that will enlighten darkened hearts.
All will be filled with faith,
It will arouse the fallen (who have stumbled).
He who is aroused by it will get up,
(But) he who causeth stumbling
Will perish on the spot.
He who is worthy, deserving and perfect
Will not be cut off from his place.
He will be completely confident,
(For) the Life will be his support,
His support will be the Life
And he will he protected in his own place."
And Life be praised!

253

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the place where the perfected dwell,
To the place of Safe-keeping
That is set apart for the company 3) of the Great (Life).

1) Ñistiknat ? (D.C. 3 Ništaknat, also D.C. 38. Read (mistiknia ?).

The Proven, Pure One speaketh
And saith to the Great (Life)
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
I will speak a word [1]: uphold it!
I word I would speak, uphold it!
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
This shall be done [2]; a secret watcher
(Be appointed?) set over Man,
His guardian. I will remain a long time,
— And I will guard him! —
To cheer [3] him and to raise him up toward Thee;
To cheer him and to raise him up
Towards Thyself, so that he may come
And behold Thy countenance, may come
And grasp Thy right hand in fealty [4],
May rise up and listen to Thy converse
Which is not of this world [5])".

"Thou hast said it! Go, seek him out
And bring him here: seek him out [6]
And bring him hither
And the Life will be mindful of thy goodness".
Bringing abundant radiance and boundless light.
Bringing radiance in abundance I went;
To the secret watcher I came. "Rise up",

---

[1] I.e. "make a suggestion".

[2] D.C. 38 (Š. ḏ-Q. p. 26, ult.) nitbad hazin.

[3] I have been in doubt about this word. In D.C. 53 it is spelt biuiḫ and in Š.d.-Q. p. 27:1 buiuia. The verb BAA (Arm. בעי "to seek" is the first and easier solution, but the unusual first 'i" in biuiḫ makes this unlikely. It may come from a verb equivalent to the Aramaic בוע "to rejoice" בעי and this is confirmed by the Syriac Pa. ܒܝܐ "to console" (i.e. "gladden") (ܒܘܝܐܐ consolation). According to the poem, there is no need for the speaker to seek the watcher, since, apparently he is already with the watcher (a priest, or priesthood, personified ?).

[4] It is usually necessary to paraphrase sentences which refer to the act or rite of kušṭa.

[5] Mnakria lit. "estranged" foreign, removed i.e. "not of the mortal world". "transcendent", "ineffable" convey the meaning.

[6] Buiḫ.

(I said to him) "Rise up! Watchers [1] are many.
Thou hast kept thy watch; arise, put on
(The robe) which the Great (Life) hath sent thee
And go towards Him. Come! He hath required thee with Him
And I have sought thee, so come to us
And hearken to His converse which is ineffable [2].
The Great (Life) hath stretched forth His right hand to thee [3]
Put away passion from thy thought.
Thy thought shall be filled with Ours
And thy garment and Our garment will be one".
Life be praised and Life is victorious.

[These two "responses and two hymns are to be recited for the owner of a crown [4] when thou celebratest his wedding. Recite them after the chant "To the place where speech is pleasant". And recite them for the novice in the škinta: (but) do not recite them for a layman's wedding. Beware! for they are recited for the owner of a crown [4]. And then recite the hymn "To go and to perform his works" unto its conclusion [5].]

254

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the place where the Perfected dwelleth,
To go and to perform his works
And to be manifest therein
And to institute a guardian [6]
....
I, whom the Great (Life) had commanded
To relieve [7] all the *škinta*s,
I, the First (Life?) enlightened Him.
"Because of me, the 'uthras were set at rest,
Because of me, the 'uthras were satisfied
And the Rays-of-Light ranged in their degree;
All of them shone in one another's radiance

---

[1] Maṭaraiia : a rare use of the word in this sense.which usually means inhabitants of the maṭarata.
[2] See p. 210, n. 5.
[3] See p. 210, n. 4.
[4] The "owner of a crown", i.e. a priest.
[5] The rubric of D.C. 38 is slightly longer.
[6] A passage here is apparently missing.
[7] Or "to serve", "to gratify".

And light was established in all minds.
Over all the works that I had made
I set up the Great (Life).
And I became a guardian in them
I was a guardian within them
And I upheld[1] all the worlds of light
In their places."
And Life is victorious over all works
And victorious the man who went hence.

255

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the place where the Perfected One dwelleth,
To the place of veiled radiance
(Where) His Likeness is beauteous;
The Proven Pure One speaketh
And saith to the Great (Life),
"Thy disciple am I, for I have grasped
And understood some of Thy wisdom
I stood before Thee like a son
Who standeth before his father.
Thou spakest to me and I hearkened,
And that which Thou didst command I did.
The glory which Thou didst bestow on me
I transmitted to all the worlds of light.
With that which Thou didst vouchsafe to me
I benefitted all the Rays-of-Light.
From Thee I have not departed
And the speech of others existed not for me".
The Great (Life) praiseth the Proven One, the Pure One,
With His pure mouth, (saying to him)
Who had made his report,
"How submissive and humble thou art, Yawar!
What an alleviator[2] and peacemaker thou art!
Thou makest 'uthras agree and pacifiest them
And givest stability to the Rays-of-Light!"
And Life is victorious.

[1] Š. ḏ-Q. p. 27: 23 uasmikit.
[2] Lit. "smoothener", "straightener" (of rough places).

256

When the Proven One, the Pure One went
To the Place where the Perfected One dwelleth,
To the place in which the Transcendent [1] abideth,
Dwelling therein in a set limit
Within an appointed limit abiding therein,
Resting within it, in the Holy [2] Place,
The Proven, Pure One speaketh
Saying to Them, the Great (Life),
"If it please Thee, Great (Life),
If it please Thee, Mighty (Life),
If it please Thee, Great (Life),
The works which I have performed are set in order,
They are set in order, the works I have performed.
And all that I did in Thy presence
Will be established, and these words
Which I spoke before Thee (also).
And (as for) me, they will realise my vision.
I have acted as thou didst desire".
When the Proven Pure One had spoken thus,
The Great (Life) rejoiced thereat, embraced him
And kissed him with His pure mouth.
And he veiled him with esoteric veils [3]
With esoteric veils did He cover him.
And a cloud which emanated from Himself
He spread over him: it hid the great (spirit)
Which He had concealed therein.
And they called him "All- 'uthras-confirm him"
And "One who arrangeth-ordinances-and-sublimates-
All-minds" is he called [4] (?)
And Life be praised.

Translator's note. — The preceding hymn-cycle, known as the Kt azil bhira dakia must be a selection from a volume of gnostic poems with this title. Three other poems from this lost composition are included in the G. R. (right side). The first two of these were translated by Professor Mark Lidzbarski in his Ginza, der Schatz oder das grosse Buch der Mandäer, (in these pages referred to as G.R.) pp. 355-370. They were also translated into Latin and transliterated into Syriac by M. Norberg in his Codex Nasaraeus (3 vols. 1815-1816) pp. 3-23. (Lidzbarski belittled Norberg's work in a somewhat unfair fashion.) The third poem, included in some codices of the Ginza Rba, as in my own copy, D.C.22 (dated 1274 A.H.), but missing in copies seen by Lidzbarski and Norberg and also in Petermann's facsimile (1867), is undoubtedly from the same lost book.

[1] Lit. Strange.

[2] Yaqra = "precious", "venerated"; "holy" conveys the idea.

[3] Mania gawaiia "inner vessels", "inner garments", "inner vehicles"? — in any case, something which conceals, or covers up.

[4] My translation of the last few lines is very tentative, it is obscure.

To take the first two of these, both deal with 'uthras who have in some manner bungled their parts in the cosmic plan; namely, Yušamin, Abathur and Pthahil. The first two become reconciled to the Great Life. Yušamin's re-instatement after intercession by the "Pure, Chosen One" is the theme of the latter half of hymn 237 in the present collection, and hymn 243 is an attempted intercession for Abathur. Pthahil, however, persists in rebellion and turns to the planets and demons for support. The Great Life intervenes in Yušamin's plan to punish Pthahil, and, softened, the latter at last makes his submission.

In the second Ginza poem the 'uthras urge Manda-ḏ-Hiia to reprove Yušamin for mistreating the "pure pearl" (the soul) and Manda-ḏ-Hiia tells Hibil-Ziwa to remove the "pearl" from material creation. Light, loveliness and perfume thereupon depart from the earth. Yušamin and Pthahil protest, Pthahil from the chains into which he was cast for his rebellion.

The story is a complicated one, but all ends satisfactorily with the restoration of the soul to earth and the triumphant supremacy of light and order.

The third poem, that which is missing in G. R., is in the style of all the poems of the collection, including the formula "If it please thee, Great (Life)". It describes the resentment of Pthahil who is still in bonds. He complains and threatens 'u haizin akšalta makšlitlia hašta mšawina lpisusta ḏ-lahuat (If thou hast made me fall thus, then now I will make such a breaking-up as has never been") and he summons the planets one by one and arms them.

Just in time, a message reaches him from the Great Life, and meditation and repentance change his attitude to one of humility. He is immediately surrounded by hosts of 'uthras and re-instated in favour, whereupon he calls the planets to order.

Translator's note. — Following the Kt azil bhira dakia in D.C. 3. D.C. 53 and D.C. 38 there is an astrological section bound into the prayerbook for the convenience of priests performing marriages, for they are always consulted by bridegrooms as to the propitious day and hour for the consummation of the union. It would endanger the happiness of the pair if the act took place under unfavourable astrological conditions. The section, known as the Šabania Šaiia was translated by me in the Šarḥ ḏ-Traṣa ḏ-Qabin ḏ-Šišlam Rba (Š. ḏ-Q.) so that I propose to omit it here together with the long colophon which follows it. A third part therefore begins on page 257 of D.C. 53. It contains prayers which have occurred earlier in the manuscript, for the same prayers serve on a variety of occasions: those for marriage are used at the consecration of a priest, and so on. When duplication occurs, I shall refer back to the prayer by number and page of both translation and text, but will not retranslate.

See no. 171, p. 154 of the translation, p. 287 of the Mandaic text (D.C. 53).

(These are hymns of "When the Chosen One, the Pure One went" I copied for myself so that there should be commemoration (of my name) on earth and yonder in the mighty and celestial worlds of light, and for love of holy truth and (with) reliance on the high King of Light, His name be praised in the great place of light! I am poor, lowly and infantile, a slave that is all sin and as dust beneath the feet of Naṣoraeans, one who kisseth the shoes on the feet of the pious, the least of my brother-ganzivri. I am Rabbi Adam-Yuhana son of Sam son of Bihram son of Adam-Yuhana son of Msa'ad known as Kamisia, family name Riš-Draz. Following, prayers 293 to 304 inclusive are identical with prayers 188-199: trs. pp. 166-169 and pp. 335-338 Mandaic text, D.C. 53. The colophon which follows differs from other colophons in the book, and I omit it. The series of hymns which occupies the next section are for the ordination of priests, known as their "coronation". All the features of coronation are present, the immersion, oath, unction, and investiture with royal insignia. The "crown", however, is a tubular silken fillet. Šišlam-Rba is the prototype of priest and bridegroom.

305

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they placed the crown on Šišlam-Rba
Jordans formed themselves at his right,
At his right jordans formed themselves.
In them signs were graven,
Signs were graven in them,
Banners and holy vows[2]),
Banners and vows,
And kings, Tannas[3]) and Drops
All bow down and worship the great Crown
And the Vine which they had transplanted from it[4])
For ever and aye.

306

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they placed the crown on Šišlam-Rba

---

[1]) Haqiriun

[2]) Kuštia yaqria (Or, "precious pacts").

[3]) Tannas and Drops are mentioned together in Prayer 189. Lidzbarski translates "Drops" as "women". The reference may be to bystanders, probably women of two classes.

[4]) Some obscurities in these hymns defy translation! The "vine" which has been transplanted is, presumably, the new priest. Could the "crown" (taga) at one time have been of vine-tendrils?

Treasure of Life (Simat-hiia[1]) shone therein.
And in his vesture twelve mirrors were formed,
Twelve mirrors were formed in his vesture
And seven others in his seal-ring[2].
And five Drops...(?)[3]
And eyes discern in them sublime treasure.
They twine[4] trees with gold (Trees are twined with gold?)
Bountiful is their load of pearls!
Who, amongst all the kings,
Will confirm and view the crown
Which they set on him
For ever and aye?

307.

In the name of the great Life!
On the day that they set the crown on Šišlam-Rba,
The jordans, frolicking and dancing,
Restless, and giving the two banks[5] no peace
Rejoicing, laughing and disporting themselves,
Say, "Our glory hath shone here,
It hath shone in this new crown,
The like of which existeth not.
Blessed is this new crown
And blessed are its leaves, which shall not fall!
For ever and aye.

308.

In the name of the great Life!
On the day that they set the crown on Šišlam-Rba
The jordans all assembled, and Rays-of-light,
And wellsprings and *Tanna*s;
And palms are interwoven[6] into the tendrils
Of the crown and brighten Šišlam-Rba's crown.
And they submit themselves to the glory

---

[1] Prayer No. 388 (text p. 469) omits hiia.

[2] Gušbanqa = "a cylinder-seal, signet-ring" גֻשְׁפַּנְקָא

[3] Perhaps ainia here should have been ainaniata (see No. 308) and that scribes inserted a gloss?

[4] Sarsin (P.S.Thes. ܣܪܣ "to twist, to twine".

[5] For the missing line, lkifḫ trin see D.C. 53, No. 389 p. 470 text) and B.M. Or. 6592 : 352. (It is also missing in D.C. 3.)

[6] In all versions 'strik, except D.C. 3, which has 'utrik.

Conferred upon it. And all kings
Do homage to its radiance, light and effulgence.
Eternally.

309

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they set the crown on Šišlam-Rba,
Rays-of-light summon the kings,
They call to the kings, the rays-of-light,
And škintas say to one another,
"Come! let us go and see Šišlam-Rba
Upon whom the Great (Life) hath set a crown;
Seven reliable kings [1] set it upon him
And King Manhiriel conferered the sign (insignia) upon him
And took his hand in holy troth [2],
And raised him, set him up
In the House of the Perfected,
For ever and aye.

310

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they set the crown on Šišlam-Rba
Channels of light were formed [3] therein
Channels of light formed themselves (therein)
And the glory (or "praise") of the 'uthras shone bright.
There was radiance, there was light!
Sublime ether was in them,
It was diffused into flowings of water
And streams without end.
They (all?) come and kiss the crown of Šišlam-Rba
And rest in its shelter
Evermore.

311

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they set the great crown

[1] At the "coronation of a king", i.e. ordination of a priest, seven "kings" (priests) must assist the ganzibra who is chief celebrant.

[2] A free translation: the rite of clasping the right hand in oath. "King Manhiriel" = the chief celebrant at the "coronation".

[3] For 'ṣṭria read, as in No. 392 (the same prayer) 'ṣṭararbḫ. D.C. 3 p. 336 has 'ṣṭria, (so has D.C. 34 and B.M.O. 6592 : 380).

Upon the Teacher of 'uthras, Šišlam-Rba,
Jordans formed themselves at his right,
At his right jordans formed themselves
And the cloud Šašqaliel[1] (journeyed?)[2] with them,
With them (journeyed?) the cloud Šašqaliel
And a škinta was founded for (him her ?) in the jordan;
For (him her ?) in the jordan a škinta was founded[3].
And in the ether a banner was unfurled for him.
Kings of the worlds of light assembled,
All laying their pure right hands upon him,
Laying their hands of troth (kušṭa) on the crown of Šišlam-Rba,
And blessing it and honouring it
In the highest degree.

[These seven prayers of Šišlam-Rba shall be recited by the ganzibra when placing the crown on a postulant and the priests shall recite these seven other hymns and make the antiphonal response.]

312

In the name of the Great Life!
Blessed is this pure voice and blessed your planting!
Blessed is this new crown and blessed this hymning!
And blessed is this sanctuary (škinta) in which kings are sitting!
For ever and aye.

313

In the name of the Great Life!
O king, thou art a mirror! (Yea)
Radiance art thou, of genuine form;
Oh thou art a lofty force!
For all strength[4] is derived from thee!
Blessed is this new crown
And blessed its treasure which thou hast shared with them
For ever and aye.

---

[1] The root ŠŠQL (Šaf. ŠQL) is used with sails or wings. The "cloud Mašql'il" (var. Mišql'il) is mentioned in the (Lidzbarski's trs. p. 402) l. 26.

[2] Here rdibun, but in the same prayer later (No. 393) qrabun. B.M. Or 6592 : 391 rdabun. D.C. 3 p. 337 : 6 has rdubun. The reflection of a cloud in water is a symbol of marriage. Cf. Prayer No. 188.

[3] Probably "for him".

[4] Lit. "all strengths" in the plural.

314

In the name of the Great Life!
How wondrous is the strength of the Great (Life) [1],
And how great is the glory which thou sheddest on us!
Thou hast illumined us with thy great radiance
And we praise thee and the crown of Šišlam-Rba.
We magnify it and honour it
And bring it our homage
For ever and aye!

315

In the name of the Great Life!
Our father, thou art a king, a son of kings,
For thou puttest on the crown for kings,
The crown thou puttest on is for kings [2]
And thou bestowest victory on palm-trees [3].
Šišlam blesseth his crown
And 'uthras and sanctuaries (škinata) establish it.
Cause some of thy glory, which is great,
To rest upon us, and give us ..... [4]
So that our minds may rejoice in it
For ever and aye.

316

In the name of the Great Life!
Hail to him! Again, hail to the king of kings,
Šišlam-Rba! Hail to him on whom the hand of a king
Hath set his crown[5]; whose kingdom abideth and passeth not away.
It passeth not away, the kingdom of a king
As long as air and water flow -
For ever and aye.

317

In the name of the Great Life!

---

[1] D.C. 3, p. 338 : 9 "of 'uthras".

[2] In Prayer No. 397 the couplet is tagia lmalkia tarṣit tagia tarṣit lmalkia (thou puttest crowns on kings).

[3] The palmtree is the symbol of "the Father", (see p. 14, n. 6.) also of priesthood.

[4] "Give us thereof? No. 397 has uahbilan ḏ 'uṣran hadibḫ; D.C. 3 p. 339 : 1, uahbalan etc. ("Give us that in which our minds delight").

[5] Bis.

Thou art the Teacher [1] of ganzibria [2],
Thou art the King of all 'uthras!
Good is it for him who beholdeth Thee with his eyes,
Good is it for him who discerneth Thee in his thought! [3]
He shall rise with Thee to the Place of Light.

318

In the name of the Great Life!
My day, what is it amongst days? A day.
My day, what is it amongst hours? A single hour.
What is my day amongst the days?
The day on which a kingdom was accepted.
My day, what is it amongst days?
The day on which treasure was divided.
The King divided His treasure
And gave his kingdom to Šišlam-Rba.
Šišlam-Rba shone in his crown
And we praise and magnify Thee
Because Thou art called the Teacher of 'uthras
For ever and aye.

[These are seven antiphonal hymns. The response [4] to these hymns of "Šišlam-Rba" shall be recited by the priests. Should the ganzibra recite those hymns, the ganzibra shall recite one and the priests one.]

319

In the name of the Great Life!
Thy strength shall increase, our father,
And grow mighty by means of this secret mystery, Zihrun,
By which all 'uthras are fortified.
Be strengthened and increased in might and power
By this seal-ring [5] which is bestowed upon thee,
And thou hast authority over it.

---

[1] Rbaihun = "their teacher".

[2] Ganzibria, (plu. of ganzibra). Now the title of the chief priest.

[3] The words b'uṣriḫ, "in his thought", omitted in No. 317, are in No. 398 (which includes both Nos. 316 and 317), and also in D.C. 3, p. 339 : 12. The line is repeated in No. 398.

[4] Pasuk = response; the part read by the priests in an antiphonal hymn.

[5] At coronation (ordination), the new priest is invested with his ring of office; a gold seal-ring upon which are engraven the words Šum yawar ziwa ("the name of Yawar-Ziwa"). It is worn on the little finger of the right hand.

Thou hast been given authority over a treasure 1)
Of living flame, and over a Root
Which is the product of gardens 2).
Go, become great and glorious! 3)
Guard thyself, be confirmed (in office)
By this seal-ring which is set upon thee
So that thy strength may increase Yonder,
And the Elect righteous may be uplifted by thy fame!
And Life is victorious!

[This hymn for the seal-ring shall be recited by the ganzibra and priests over the seal-ring for the novice-priest when he assumeth thereby his kingship.]

320

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that they set the crown on the king
And the king accepted his kingship,
His radiance was seen in the light of the banners 4),
And the water-springs that were in the jordan
Waltzed 5) with one another!
The king took his crown
And was resplendent in its sublime radiance.
And he distributed crowns to the kings,
To the kings he distributed crowns 6).
And his brilliance, his light and his great glory
Rested upon them
For ever and aye.

[The ganzibra chants this hymn to them (whilst) distributing crowns amongst the 'uthras 7) and kings, and the 'uthras and kings give him myrtle;they give him myrtle.] 8)

---

1) Kimṣa, see p. 195, n. 3 and p. 119, n. 2.

2) A play on words br gninia, lit. a son of mysteries (things hidden) is also "a son of gardens".

3) In D.C. 3 'tgadal is repeated.

4) The word drabša comes from the P. درفش = a bright or glittering object "anything glittering or flashing".

5) Or "whirled round together", i.e. danced for joy.

6) At the coronation rite of a postulant to priesthood, newly woven fillets ("crowns") are distributed to ganzivri and priests present at the rite.

7) The word 'uthras refers to the ganzivri, just as malkia ("kings") means "priests".

8) The rubric in D.C. 3 differs: it directs the ganzibra to distribute myrtle with the crowns.

321

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that the kings assembled (to be)
In company with the king, the son of kings,
And he distributed crowns and treasures to the kings[1]),
The kings extended their right hands,
Their right hands the kings held out,
And they received crowns from the king,
Crowns they received from the king.
And they bless him with a great benediction
And honour him who gave them crowns and treasures
For ever and aye.

[The priests shall repeat this hymn, taking the crowns from the ganzibra who set the crown on the postulant.]

322

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that a vision was verified by eyes [2]) (?)
And the newly-inaugurated [3]) banner was purified (?) [4]) thereby
Its inauguration (consecration) [3]) was shared amongst the banners
And the banners shone in its radiance,
They shone with great radiance and praised the king's crown.
They praised the king's crown [5]) and said to it
"Thy counterpart [6]) shineth in the ether,
In the ether thy counterpart shineth
And the ether delighteth in thee!
'Uthras, kings and jordans praise thy counterpart
For ever and aye.

[The ganzibra shall recite this prayer for the sewing of the postulant's crown. When praying the devotions before the secret prayer is said, he shall sew the postulant's crown and shall recite this prayer over the crown.] [1]

---

[1]) Lines in italics are missing in No. 321, but are given in No. 402 (p. 477 in the text), also in D.C. 3 p. 341, and B.M. Or. 6592 : 423.

[2]) Or "his vision". Tiqnat = was stabilised i.e. realised.

[3]) Mšaria = "begun", "new, "inaugurated": as a derived meaning "consecrated". The new priest has his own banner, a new one. Read drabša here as in Prayer No. 403 (text p. 347) not drabšia.

[4]) Both D.C. 53 and D.C. 3 have here 'ṣṭalalbḫ (ࡀࡑࡈࡀࡋࡀࡋࡁࡄ = "prepared "purified") B.M. Or. 6592 : 4 has 'ṣalalbḫ. D.C. 53 No. 403, however has 'tkalalbḫ = "is perfected thereby".

[5]) No. 404 has "praised the great crown".

[6]) Or "thine archetype".

323

In the name of the Great Life!
Shine forth, give out light, pure Mirror!
For in all worlds thou wilt be called "Illuminator".
Rise to thy feet, great 'uthra!
Let all thy treasure awake [2] for us
That we may shine and rejoice thereat:
'Uthras and kings who sit in this sanctuary
Will beam and rejoice thereat!
From beginning to end.

[The priests and ganzivri who are sitting in the sanctuary shall recite this hymn when the postulant comes and sits upon a chair. Then he shall rise to his feet and recite the appointed prayers (mandiz) as far as the prayer "Darkness is crushed down"; with witnesses, one on his right and the other on his left.]

324

In the name of the Great Life!
Thou enlightenest them by thy word(s)
Sublime [3] and pure,
And glorifiest the worlds by thy glory.
Our father, thou enlightenest them
By thy pure eloquence
And thy root shall be exalted
And attain the summit.

[The priests and ganzivri shall recite this hymn when the postulant is ending his set pieces, and the witnesses shall sit and recite this hymn, as below.]

---

[1] The crown is tubular. At the consecration of a priest long tubes of woven silk and cotton are cut by the ganzibra into short lengths: two of silk for himself and the postulant, 24 of cotton for other priests (if the postulant is the ganzibra's first pupil). Women present sew the ends together so as to form "crowns", but it appears from the above insertion that the ganzibra himself completes the silken crown of the new priest.

[2] The "treasure" which the new priest is to "awake" or "illumine" (the word means both), is his accurate recitation of the Book of Souls before the assembly of examining priests.

[3] Only D.C. 3, p. 342 has šania. B.M. Or. 6592 : 126 also omits.

325 1)

In the name of the Great Life!
The Great (Life) rejoiced, It was glad
That Yawar hath looked 2) for a banner of radiance.
And the Rays of Light rejoiced because
We have crushed down darkness
And brought to nought the rebellious Voice.
If thus we have acted, and thus it was ordained,
Then it is You, the Well-Ordered,
(Who hath) ordained it.

[The witnesses recite this hymn whilst sitting on chairs, and shall recite all the hymns (given) below.]

326

In the name of the Great Life!
Our father, thou art a pure mirror!
In all worlds thou hast become an Illuminator.
Rejoice, our father! and take joy
In all thy kingliness!
Thou, our father, art he in whom we shine and glory,
And (in whom) the 'uthras and kings
In this sanctuary shine and glory
For evermore.

[All shall recite this hymn; then the postulant (when) he has risen 3), shall kiss them on their heads, give them myrtle to smell at, and shall kiss the ganzibra and take the book 4) from him.]

327

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that Myrtle emerged from the Wellspring 5)
And her waters, it grew upward 6) in its glory.
The waters rushed forth and were divided
And ether emanated from light.

1) This prayer (No. 325) is the only one of the coronation series translated by Lidzbarski; (M.L. p. 272).

2) I suspect strongly that the original had sakaklḫ = "planted", ("stuck in") the banner. The pointed end of the pole is driven into the earth.

3) The Perfect tense.

4) The Book of Souls.

5) The "Wellspring" = the "Mother", see p. 14, n. 5.

6) 'tgadal = "became great", "was raised up" (to dignity).

The king took the first myrtle 1)
From the hand of the new king
Who by him had been instructed in the sublime mystery.
He twined him 2) a (myrtle-) wreath;
On the jordan he bestowed its purity.
The king was ratified (?) 3) by the myrtle
And the jordan crowned 4) by the king,
They are reciprocally crowned 5), mutually aggrandised
And rise and behold the Place of Light.

[The ganzibra recites this hymn, takes the myrtle from him, smells at it, twists a wreath for himself, twists a wreath for the postulant and gives it to the postulant who takes the wreath and staff. Then he gives the order that they should honour (their crowns).]

328

In the name of the Great Life!
Blessed be this škinta of the Mighty (Life)
In which crowns have been formed
Crowns have been formed in it
And a crown for a king, son of kings, was set on,
A crown was set on a king, son of kings.
All the kings pay homage to thee 6)
And kings, 'uthras, Tannas and Drops
All bow down and reverence thee
In whom crowns (or "his crown") and mysteries
Have been confirmed
And škintas; an indwelling of the Mighty (Life)
Hath proceeded from thee (?) 7).

---

1) One would expect "from his first-born", but the bukra refers to the first myrtle that the new king twines as a king into a wreath.

2) D.C. 3 omits gdalḫ and has asia for asa.

3) D.C. 3 has triṣ for tqun. Cf. the barsom as confirmation of Persian kingship.

4) The Ethpe. and Ethpe. pf KRK (to turn, surround, enfold, encircle etc.) have many derived meanings. 'tkarak "crowned" occurs in the phrase hu taga 'tirṣa ḏ-malkia bgauḫ 'tkarak (D.C. 36) "it is a crown set on, wherewith kings were crowned".

5) D.C. 3 has the correct mitkarkin: D.C. 53, No. 408 p. 480 1.1. has mitgadlin

6) In the other mss ldilak. The cult-hut, scene of the coronation, is addressed

7) Škinat kabiria minak praš, The meaning appears to be that the Great Life is incarnate in the priest's office. Škinat here might be rendered as "shecinah", "indwelling"?

And in thee the elect righteous will be uplifted;
They will worship and give praise
For thou wilt be called
"A škinta which nourisheth sucklings"
For ever and aye.

[This is the prayer for the consecration of the cult-hut (škinta) when thou intendest to take thither the first postulant on the Sunday. The priests recite this hymn before entering the cult-hut; (they recite it) and then they enter the cult-hut.]

329 [1]

In the name of the Great Life!
Oh a burnished treasure art thou!
Oh a glittering thing [2] art thou!
(Thou) mirror [3] of kings!
In its glory kings shine; they shine in its glory.
They prepare crowns with his; [4]
Crowns they fashion with his.
Watersprings are crowned (?) by his (crown) [5]
And watersprings, radiancies [6] and mirrors
Worship the great Crown: they praise it, guard it
And say to it "Blessed is this (thine) appearance
Which we praise; and by it, in thy škinta
We shall be guided aright, we shall be rightly guided [7]
In thy škinta, and with thee we shall be united
For ever and ever.

[This is the hymn for the releasing [8] of crowns on the Sunday when the ganzibra wishes to consecrate [1] the cotton crowns for the priests [2]. Wearing all his vestments [3] and all his clothes [4], the crown in his right hand and the staff in his left, he goes to the bank of the Piriawis, the jordan, and takes also in his right hand with his own crown the cotton crowns which he wisheth to consecrate. Then he performs the ritual ablution in the jordan and comes towards the kinta [5] and the banner. And he examines all the clothes and recites the Asuta [6] to the Gate of Mercies [7] and the kings as much as he is able. And after that he entones this prayer over each crown, once over every one. And Life is victorious.]

[1] This prayer is the last in Lidzbarski's collection, but his version differs from those in my collection, cf. the two texts. He takes it as an address to the banner (which it is not, even in the Oxford version, see l. 2 of the prayer) for it is addressed to the crown and its wearer.

[2] Drabša here is "that which glitters" see p. 226, n. 4; not "banner": the crown is meant. (P. درفشان = "to shine".)

[3] Or "vision".

[4] The reference, as the insertion which follows it shows, is to the preparation and presentation of crowns to all the priests present at the ceremony.

[5] Lidzbarski (and the Oxford ms.) bziwḫ mitkarkan. Bziwḫ is missing in D.C. 53, and I translate mitkarkan in the same sense as "And the jordan crowned by the king". see p. 230, n. 4'

[6] Or "radiant beings". (Lidzbarski Glanzwesen.)

[7] Nitriṣ. (TRṢ to make or set right, etc.)

[8] Or "inauguration", "consecration" see p. 227, n. 3.

These are the antiphonal hymns of Šišlam-Rba and their refrain, the hymn of the ring, and all the hymns for postulants (ordination hymns). I copied this collection from beginning to end for myself, so that I might act and be successful in the world and that there may be one to mention my name on earth and yonder in the mighty and lofty worlds of light. For I have copied with a sincere and believing heart: my heart hath testified to the Life and to my lord Manda-ḏ-Hiia, so that they would be my support and my saviour. I am poor and lowly . . . (etc.)

(The colophon resembles other colophons in the book) . . . .

This miscellany of the Coronation was set in order and brought to successful conclusion from beginning to end in the name of the Life and as a token of Knowledge-of-Life and trust in the high King of Light, and in the names of Hibil, Šitil and Anuš — praised be their names in the great Place, the House of Perfection! It was completed on Friday (yuma ḏ-rahaṭia) which is 'rufta (Friday), the fourth of the month Akir-Paiiz (Last-of-Autumn) which is Ṭabit, Capricornus, in the year of Wednesday (i. e. which began on a Wednesday) in the year 1217 by Arab computation — may the world founder upon them and Manda-ḏ-Hiia bring to nought their rage against the congregation of souls!

It was copied in Huwaiza, by the waters of Karka . . . (etc.)

---

[1] See p. 227, n. 3.

[2] Plural in D.C. 3.

[3] Mania in D.C. 3

[4] I think that this means the new priest's clothes later inspected at the kinta.

[5] An altar in box form.

[6] The "Asut-Malkia" no. 105.

[7] The North, the North star.

[The end of the autobiographical part of the colophon of D.C. 53 is missing.]

THE BANNER HYMNS 1)

In the name of the Great Life! may there be health, victory and forgiveness of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš because of these antiphonal hymns for the banner.

330

In the name of the Great Life!
When radiance came forth the white land, Paris 2),
A young lad, Arsapan, son of radiant-beings,
Unfurled a banner 3). He unfurled a great radiance
So that 'uthras and *škinta*s shone in the banner's brilliance,
They shone in the brilliance of his banner
(That was) like the radiance in the House of the Mighty (Life)

331

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that Šišlam-Rba 4) unfurled his banner
Over corporate beings 5),
Three hundred and sixty wellsprings
Of radiance, light and glory were formed by him.
The glory of Šišlam-Rba's banner
Shone forth over three 6) Wellsprings of Radiance
And the three wellsprings of Radiance
Who beheld the brightness of Šišlam-Rba's banner
Prostrated themselves before its glory:
They prostrated themselves,
The three wellsprings of radiance,
Praising the banner
To all eternity.

---

1) Lidzbarski included nineteen of the banner hymns in his collection (M.L. pp. 264 ff.).

2) Lidzbarski (M.L. p. 264, n. 1) suggests that "Paris" is "Pars, Persis im Gegensatz zum Schwarzland (sawwād) Babylonien so benannt".

3) For the banner as a light-symbol see p. 231, n. 2 and p. 226, n. 4.

4) The great Šišlam is the archetype of king (priest) and bridegroom.

5) 'Usṭunia = lit. "bodies" (headless). 'Usṭuna is the word used in priestly commentaries to connote the physical; the trunk (column) of Adams "Body", i.e. the universe conceived as a human shape.

6) "Wellsprings" are, I imagine, a poetical name given to the three celebrants necessary for a masiqta: other ceremonies require seven concelebrants. See l. 5 of the next hymn.

332

In the Name of the Great Life!
On the day that Šišlam-Rba unfurled his banner
Its glory shone out over three hundred and sixty thousand jordans,
The glory of the banner of Šišlam-Rba
Shone out over seven wellsprings,
And the wellspring Ṣihmai 1) spurted upward
Before the radiance of Šišlam-Rba's banner.
The perfume in the banner was delightful
And (as) it appeared over the škinata (sanctuaries).
How it becometh Šišlam-Rba when he is illumined
By the wondrous banner Zihrun!
How beauteous it maketh Šišlam-Rba
When he is proclaimed King of all beams of light!

333

In the Name of the Great Life!
On the day that Šišlam-Rba shook out the banner Pirun
And unfurled it at the head of the škinta,
Its glory shone out over Wellspring and Palmtree 2).
(When) the Wellspring and Palmtree beheld 3)
The glory of Šišlam-Rba's banner,
A gush of radiance inundated Šišlam-Rba's banner
And made his banner, Pirun, bright
Beyond measure.

334

In the Name of the Great Life!
On the day that the banner Šišlamiel was unfurled,
Its radiance beamed forth over three hundred and sixty
Worlds of Light.
Over three hundred and sixty worlds of light
Its radiance beamed forth.
And the three hundred and sixty worlds of light

Which beheld the brightness of the banner Šišlamiel
All flocked towards it,
Towards it they all gathered
And uttered a benediction on the banner of the Great Bihram 1), Saying to it, "Thy radiance, (O) banner Manhariel,
Hath dawned and thine appearance shone out,
And thy jordan hath strength and flow 2)

In the Name of the Great Life!
On the day that Bihram the Great unfurled the banner Šišlamiel,
Its radiance shone out over the waters,
Over the waters its radiance dawned,
Its radiance dawned over the waters
From the waters its radiance flooded upward
Its radiance surged up from the waters
And shone out over the worlds.
Worlds and kings who beheld the radiance of
The banner Šišlamiel, all gather towards it,
All gather towards it and utter blessing
Upon the banner of Šišlam-Rba and say to it
"Blessed be thou, Šišlamiel-Banner,
And blessed be the man that hath unfurled thee.
Great glory hath he given thee
And great is the crown 3) he set on thee!
He hath given thee myrtle which strengtheneth 'uthras:
Jordans exult 4) in thy radiance
And 'uthras delight in thy fragrance
Exceedingly".

1) In the Vendidad (19:37). Varathragna's epithet is barō-χᵛarəna: usually translated "glory".

2) Motion.

3) At the consecration of the banner, which is extended full length before the white silk is draped over the crosspiece, a myrtle-wreath is slipped over the peak by the priest or priests officiating.

4) D.C. 3 has šaḥfia "flow out", D.C. 53 (like M.L.) šaḥbia (ŠHB to exult in, vaunt, joy in etc.).

The radiance of Bihram-Rba's banner
Shone forth like the great mirror
That resteth in the Jordan.
Its radiance appeared and his škinta
Shone, and his people [1]) were confirmed in victory.
And Life is victorious.

[Recite these seven hymns for the banner when unfurling it [2]).]

337 [3])

In the name of the Great Life
It hath risen, it hath shone forth
Thy radiance, king of 'uthras!
It came; upon the 'uthras and *škinta*s it shone.
The 'uthras and the *škinta*s who beheld thy glory
All bless thee with a blessing,
A blessing they pronounce upon thee
And the 'uthras honour thee
Because thou camest into existence
Through the hand of a king.
The king blessed thee with a great blessing
And gave it (thee?) to me, Hibil-Ziwa.
To me, Hibil-Ziwa he gave it
To give light to worlds, to kings
And to jordans and *škinta*s
All of them, fully.

338

Hibil blessed thee with a great blessing
And gave thee to the Occult Adam [4]),
Adam blessed thee with a great blessing
And gave thee to the Chosen Elect.
He gave thee to the Chosen Elect
To enlighten and stabilise their counterparts [5])
Fully.

[1]) Šurbta, a race, tribe, family, descendants, kinsfolk.

[2]) These seven prayers are said by a priest over the banner during the recitation of his daily office.

[3]) This prayer and 348 are said whilst crouching and holding the staff of the banner.

[4]) This Occult Adam, is the cosmic Adam, archetype of the physical Adam.

[5]) The dmuta is the over-soul, the counterpart of the earthly being in the ideal world of Mšunia Kušṭa. It often acts as conscience or guardian angel, according to commentaries,

339

The Chosen Righteous rose to their feet
And grasped thee with their right hands.
They went to the jordan of living water
And set thee up, so that thy radiancy
Might be shed on the jordan.
The water and thy brightness become blended together;
Thy brightness and the water are combined
Enhancing (the brilliance of) Šilmai and Nidbai.
And these, the elect who go to the jordan,
Are illumined by thy radiance.
Do thou guard them and establish them
And make their baptism successful!
Life is victorious.

[Chant these hymns before thou conveyest the banner to the jordan.]

340

In the name of the Great Life!
Who took up the banner Zihrun
In which the worlds and generations glory
And went to the bank of the jordan Piriawis?
The jordan Piriawis on beholding the brilliancy
Of the banner Zihrun, leapt towards its radiance:
The waters and jordan and springs which dwell
In the jordan (Piriawis) leap towards the radiance
Of the banner Zihrun and exult exceedingly.

341

In the name of the Great Life!
Yawar took up the banner Šišlamiel
In which the worlds and generations exult,
And went to the bank of the jordan Piriawis.
The jordan Piriawis when it beheld the banner Zihrun
Rejoiced with a great joy, exceedingly.

[Chant these hymns and take the banner to the jordan and plant it on the bank of the jordan. Then recite "Shine forth, shine forth, brightness of Yawar".]

342

In the name of the Great Life!
Shine forth, let Yawar's radiance shine forth
Over the jordan. The brightness of the banner
Hath shone forth over the living waters! It shone forth:
The waters dance towards its radiance
And the radiance towards the waters. Waters and radiance
Are intermingled [1], are interlaced, and its brightness
Inspiriteth the 'uthras in their *škinta*s
Immeasurably.

(Recite these hymns when thou graspest the banner on the jordan-bank. Then recite "As the head of three škintas".)

343

In the name of the Life,
As head of the three škinata [2] —
Who was set up as their head (Chief)?
Whom did they set up as their chief?
Who unfurled the banner at the jordan,
Who at the jordan unfurled the banner?
And who took the staff into the jordan?
As the head of the three škinata
Who placed the great crown on their heads [3]?
On their heads and banners Yukašar placed the great crown;
He unfurled the banner at the jordan,
Yukašar unfurled at the jordan the banner
And Yusmir took the staff into the jordan.
And Life is victorious.

[Recite these hymns whilst grasping the banner on the jordan bank [4], then perform thy baptism).[5]]

In the name of the Great Life!

[1] Or "embraced one another".

[2] Three cult-huts? Or are, as I think may be the case, three concelebrants meant?

[3] D.C. 53, p. 363 and D.C. 3, p. 235 have brišaiin udrabšaiin. Lidzbarski, using De Morgan's transcription, (D.M. p. 175) has brišaian. "on our heads" and omits mention of the banners.

[4] The banner is grasped first below the peak and then, standing, above the peak.

[5] Or "perform thine immersion".

The Great (Life) rejoiced; It rejoiced when Yawar looked [1]
Towards the banners of radiance and beams of light.
It rejoiced that we have trodden down darkness
And have brought to nought the rebellious Voice.
If we have done thus and it was brought about,
Nevertheless it is You, the (well-)ordered,
Who have ordained it!

345

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that 'uthras put into order
A jordan of living water
And a baptism was performed therein,
They took the banner Bihram
And brought it into the škinta of Šišlam-Rba.
And at the door of his House of Radiance
They unfurled it so that 'uthras and *škinta*s
Might shine in its brightness and rejoice
Exceedingly.

[Recite these two hymns after thou hast performed the baptism, and take the banner into the cult-hut.]

346

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that great Bihram furled his banner
Three hundred and sixty guardians presided thereat [2].
They concealed it in its strong-box [3]
And set the seals of the mighty (Life) upon it.
The mighty (Life) blesseth with His pure mouth
The Being who had settled here, and saith to him
"Lend with increase some of thy radiance,
And illumine the whole world with thy light!"
Our father enlighteneth with his wondrous voice;

[1] For skarlḫ, D.C. 53, p. 363, 1.17, read skalḫ as in D.C. 3, D.M. and other mss.

[2] I.e. were present, lit. rested upon it.

[3] Lidzbarski (M.L. 273 : 9) transliterates בסאפטיא and translates "Ketten von Edelsteinen". D.M. however (178: penult.) like D.C. 53 (364 : 11) and D.C. 3 (236 : 21) has bṣafṭia hiliḫ. Safṭa (the more usual form of the word) in Arabic and Persian = "chest for valuables", "wallet", "purse" "casket" etc. and occurs several times in Mandaean texts in this sense. (e.g. bsafṭia ḏ-zahba, D.C. 36 II no. 189). The banner is, in fact, kept in a box.

And he said, "Any man who is pious and believing,
Who went not early in the morning to the jordan
Nor is signed with the sign of the jordan...... [1]))
Utterly.

[Recite this hymn and fold up the banner on the great day of Daima [2]), by itself. And, any day on which thou baptisest, fold the banner [3]) and cover it up with this hymn.]

347

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that the radiance of the banner Šašlamiel [4])
Was hidden in its casket of radiance,
All the 'uthras rose from their seats.
And pronouncing a sublime blessing upon Zihrun-Šašlamiel [5])
The banner, they took it from its pedestal [6]) of radiance
To inner houses [7]) so that it was hidden.
They cover it, bless it, guard it and say to it,
"As surely as thy radiance waiteth safe in its casket,
Will thy form be kept safe. All worlds which behold thee
Will bless and praise thee for ever and aye".

[Recite this prayer and furl the banner when thou hast finished all thy rites. Recite it by itself alone and fold it before they cover (put away) the banner of the day, whilst thy crown is on thy head, except at the festival of Daima. (On that day?) read both hymns. Then roll up the banner and hide it in its chest (or "casket"). And Life is victorious!)[8]]

348 [THE BLESSED OBLATION PRAYERS]

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that Ayar (Ether, Air) emerged from the Wellspring
The waters flowed hither, hither flowed the waters
And radiance in the jordan. (The use of)

[1]) A line must be missing, condemning such a man, for the daily ablution and signing at the jordan is a religious duty. The version given is on all copies I saw, including D.M. p. 178.

[2]) The feast of Daima, a baptism-feast, occurs ninety days after Panja (Parwanaiia), the five intercalary days.

[3]) The banner is about three meters long and an ell wide.

Myrtle was appointed.[1] they twine its sprigs
And its destination[2] is the sacred table[3].
We ašgandia (acolytes) have become acolytes[4]
And were admitted into the radiance of the mighty (Life);
By the radiance of the mighty (Life) we are sheltered.
And the Wreath is set up, into circlets it was twined,
It was plaited with myrtle leaves.
Trees bore their fruit (lit. "burden")
Naṣirutha was manifest in the full jordan
And they were refreshed in the full jordan,
Before you, 'uthras, my brothers,
Fully.

The šganda reciteth this hymn for the Blessed Oblation when the myrtle and phial are in his hand. Then the ganzibra taketh the myrtle and phial of wine[5] from the acolyte and reciteth "Come, come, lofty acolyte, from the House of my Father".]

349

In the name of the Great Life!
Come, come, lofty messenger[6],
Come, come from the House of my Father!
Come and irradiate us with the radiance of Life,
With the radiance of Life irradiate us!
And refresh us with some of the good things[7]
Provided there[8]. For thou[9] art called
Sustainer[10] of 'uthras for ever and aye.

[1] Myrtle and its ritual inhalation is an important rite in the "Blessed Oblation". Cf. the barsom in early Zoroastrian ritual.

[2] Lit. "its course, ("its journey) is to".

[3] The patura, corresponds to the sacramental table or altar. It may be a clay table, or a mat, or a purified washed surface. The sacred meal is arranged on it, see p. 61, n. 5.

[6] Šganda, in its more ancient meaning, see p. 5, n. 4.

[7] Ṭabuta ("goodness", "good things") here refers to the food-offerings.

[8] A better version of this prayer occurs in D.C. 42 ls. 617 ff. uṭaibinan mn ṭabuta ḏ-'šra (var. 'šria) 'lḫ aminṭul ḏ-mṭaibana ḏ-'uthria 'tiqrit. The same version occurs in D.C. 50. The form is Afel. Cf. Hif. שרי (J., 2) "to provide a living for".

[9] 'tiqria in both D.C. 3 and D.C. 53. I prefer 'tiqrit, see n. 8.

[10] Mṭaibana = one who refreshes or provides with food and drink, "sustainer", "food-giver" etc.

[The ganzibra shall recite this hymn and take the phial of wine and the myrtle from the acolyte]

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that a root of fresh myrtle
Was set up before the king,
The king stretched forth his right hand for it
And gave it to the 'uthras and acolytes
And said to them "Take from me this fresh myrtle
And bless the škinata [1]) with a blessing,
A blessing pronounce on the škinata
And illumine and restore the 'uthras and škinata

For ever and aye. [2])

[The ganzibra shall recite this hymn and distribute myrtle to the 'uthras [3]) and priests. Then they shall recite the "sealing" prayers, [4]) to the end of that which blesseth (bless) the Blessed Oblation, and he shall seal (conclude) it.]

And we shall be blessed by means of these prayers and benedictions of the pihtania [5]) of the Blessed Oblation, and our thought, mind and understanding shall be enlightened by the might of Yawar-Ziwa and Simat-Hiia.

Kušṭa his friends regaleth,
He hath prepared and blessed it with his blessing.
I testify to Yawar-Ziwa
Of whose bounty we have partaken(?) [1]

In the name of the Great Life!
I am the white Pihta [2]
From Life's treasure-house was I transplanted;
I was transplanted from the treasure-house of the Great Life,
With [3] the jordan they sent me to earth,
With the jordan to earth they sent me
To spread truth in the world,
In the world to spread truth,
To enlighten darkened hearts,
My treasure, which I instilled into it [4].
I illumined and transformed it completely
Completely did I illumine and transform it.
I brought and [5] set down in it a good [6] (gift)
I removed from it the misery [7]
Which the Seven had brought to bodies
(That) the Seven had brought to bodies
And they dwelt in darkened hearts.
Pihta they ate not. (but) his Creator spoke
And made man, who ate not pihta,
Listen to Him. And He said,
"Look to it lest ye eat with a lie!
Beware that ye eat not falsely!
Look to it lest ye partake of it hypocritically!"
For the wicked and liars who eat it with falsehood

[2] Wheat for the pihta is the best and whitest. Ground by the priest, it is mixed with water from river or jordan (salt being first added). Formed into discs, the dough is baked over the ritual brazier just before use. The pihta consumed during the masiqta by the priest as proxy for the deceased is made otherwise. See W.W. pp. 242-255 for full description of the rite.

(But) the good, who eat it with sincerity
Arise and behold the Place of Light.
Their eyes behold the light
And their feet find firmness.
And Life is triumphant.
I testify to Yawar-Ziwa
Of whose bounty we have partaken[2].

353

In the name of the Great Life!
The white Pihta am I!
The creature of light, I came into existence.
Pihta am I, the white,
For Yawar was my Transplanter[3]
My Creator was Yawar, from his treasury he brought me.
Yawar-Ziwa took me and gave me to Nṣab-Ziwa.
Nṣab-Ziwa took me and gave me to Zarziel-Nhura-Rba.
Zarziel-Nhura-Rba took and gave me to Hibil-Ziwa.
Hibil-Ziwa took and brought me into the earthly world;
He took me, brought me down; set me down in the earthly world.
As food for Adam and all his sons.
Whilst the first generation existed
They ate me in good faith,
In good faith did they eat me;
No trickery[4] did they perform with me,
They performed with me no misuse[4].
Nor did they omit or subtract from[5] me
They committed no omission or subtraction

And the creatures of the Seven
Had no dominion over me.
When a second generation came into being
They (too) ate me aright,
Sincerely they ate me:
No trickery did they perform with me,
They performed me with no crooked dealing,
They did not omit or subtract from me,
From me they neither omitted nor subtracted
And the creatures of the Seven had no power over me.
When a third generation arose,
Adonai [1] built a House,
A house did Adonai build,
And the Seven obtained a hold [2] in it,
Then it was dispersed amongst the three hundred
And sixty two nations [3].
And then I was taken from their midst
And they cast me amongst the three hundred
And sixty-two nations.
Then they ate me with falsehood,
With falsehood did they eat me,
Wrongly did they use me,
They used me falsely
And did with me that which was deficient and lacking,
That which was deficient and lacking they did with me
And creatures of the Seven gained dominion over me.
Then strength was taken from me,
And radiance, order, taste and glory.
And they made me the fodder of beasts.
Souls departed from bodies without their measure.
Naṣoraeans who eat me falsely
Will be burnt upon coals of fire.

They assumed an air of arrogance;
An air of arrogance they assumed
And going into the presence of Pthahil[4]
Bend and bow themselves before him
And prostrating their forms and uttering compliments
They say: "By thy life, our father Pthahil,
Grant us a commission, that we may go
And may create a creation from start to finish".
Then their father Pthahil arose and gave them commission
And said to them "Go, create the thing that ye have wished (to create)".
Thereupon, with the mystery of ashes and red dust[5]
And the overflow and dregs of the clouds
They went, they created Rice,
They went, they created Rice.
And held it before Pthahil.
Pthahil, when he saw it
Clenched his fists and beat on the forecourt of his breast
And he said "From this creation that ye have created
How can bread (pihta) come therefrom?
How can bread be produced therefrom?
Or food from that thus prepared
From beginning to end?"
Then They summoned an angel, one of (those)
Before Them, by whom Pihta was produced,
By him was Pihta produced.
And they held it before Pthahil.
When Pthahil saw it he brightened

[5] Lit. "the fallen that fell", i.e. any fragments or crumbs.

[6] "Jordan" is not necessarily consecrated running water.

[7] Lit. "Do not put your feet on it".

From the Place which is life-giving it came;
It was transplanted from amongst
Worthy treasurers. My Elect!
Hearken and hear, and take care of my benefaction
Which came from the House of the Great Life!
And Life be praised!
I testify to Yawar-Ziwa
Who quickeneth us 1) with his bounty.

355

The white Pihta am I
Which the Life summoned and sent
In His benevolence.
In the strength of Hibil-Ziwa
He sent me to this world;
Made me chief of His Kimṣa (hidden treasure? 2))
And called me Uplifter of prayers.
I came, and became an offering set apart
For the world, and source of strength for the priests. 3)
I held a portion of Life,
And called with the voice of a son of the Mighty (Life);
I set apart Sunday and the morn of the day
Whose name is reverenced.
And I dwelt therein to reveal its glory.
I revealed (it) to the priests
And dwelt in their hearts.
Goodness I give to them: enlightenment in plenty
So that they be not lacking or faulty.
They shall offer up prayer and praise
And put them up in a sublime voice.
They will shine in the Treasure of Life
And the Word that came from the House of the Great Life.
They shall be established in sanctuaries:
They will rise up, they will behold the Place of Light.
And Life is victorious.

1) Here not ṭaibinin but ṭaibinan in both mss.

2) Riša d̮-kimṣa. Kimṣa is a word of obscure meaning. It sometimes seems to be derived or influenced by KMS (not KMṢ) as here. (כמס Ass. כמס "to hide, store away".

I testify to Yawar 1)
Who refresheth us with his bounty.

356

In the name of the Great Life!
The voice of Manda-ḏ-Hiia
Calling to the chosen righteous,
To the chosen righteous it calleth
Warning them about my Oblation.
It uttered to them a first warning,
Admonishing them about my Oblation.
He said to them: "Behold my oblation,
Behold my oblation, behold my oblation
That was transplanted from the House of the Great Life;
My oblation translated from the House of the Great Life!
Partake thereof in sincerity, silence and purity".
With a second warning he admonisheth them about my oblation
He said to them "Behold my oblation,
Behold my oblation, behold my oblation
Transplanted from the House of the Great Life!
Partake thereof with prayer and praise".
With a third warning he admonisheth them about my oblation.
He said to them "Behold my oblation,
Behold my oblation, behold my oblation
Transplanted from the House of the Great Life,
My oblation transferred from the House of the Great Life.
With hymns and recitations partake thereof.
Behold my oblation, behold my oblation, behold my oblation!
Eaters of 2) my oblation are like ṣibia 3)
Like ṣibia are those who eat my oblation,
Like a lion lying 4) halfway on the road.

1) D.C. 6 Yawar-Ziwa.

2) D.C. 53, p. 378 ult. has aklḫ man; D.C. 3 p. 249: 13 f. aklḫ mn. The latter appears the more likely version.

3) Ṣibia. My attempted translation in Z.D.M.G. p. 141:12 (op. cit.) is unconvincing. The whole passage is obscure. The mention just below of the lion lying in the road suggests that ṣibia was in the original ṣidia (hunted, ambushed), but such a simile appears out of place. Ṣibia are evidently people who misuse the zidqa in some way.

4) See n. 3. Rmia (past part. RMA = "cast", "placed", "laid down" or "lying". In Z.D.M.G. I took it as a miscopying of ramia.

My zidqa (charity) [1] is like a mountain,
A mountain over which no highway hath been levelled.
My charity is like a sea,
A sea over which there is no way of crossing. [2]
He who eateth my oblation but surrendereth nothing [3]
Is cut off and will fall into the great Sea of Suf; [4]
He that hath but giveth nought,
His eyes will not behold the Light.
This is a Blessed Oblation!
Kušṭa regaleth his friends,
Kušṭa his friends regaleth!
He prepared and gave it his blessing.
I testify to Yawar-Ziwa [5]
Who refresheth us with his bounty.

357 [6]

Behold my oblation, behold my oblation, behold my oblation!
Who ate it?
The Jews, an evil nation, accursed and blasphemous ate it.
The Kiwanaiia [7] ate it, who cut it (?) in flames of fire.
The demented Yazuqaeans ate it, who reverence fire
Crazed creature who reverence fire
Serving a thing that is powerless.
Idumaeans ate it, who destroyed their virility,
Cast away, destroyed is their manhood,
And they set up Death [8], worshipping him.
Zandiqs (Manichaeans?), who rest on supports of falsehood, ate it,
On pillars of falsehood do they rest
And cut off their seed from the world.
Arabs ate it, evil liars, a wicked race
Who drink blood. Naṣoraeans ate it,

[1] Here zidqa has the more abstract meaning of "charity".

[2] D.C. 3 has mabuta, D.C. 53 mabra "traversing".

[3] Or "Is not made perfect therein". Again obscure. My translation is influenced by what follows.

[4] The Sea of Reeds, which swallowed up Pharaoh and his host.

[5] Here, and at the end of the next hymn, D.C. 53 omits Ziwa.

[6] This hymn is not separated from that which precedes it.

[7] Kiwanaiia: "people of Saturn", "Saturn-worshippers"?

[8] Or "a corpse" (מִיתא).

A people, a stock, a family group ¹).
The faithful of heart ate it,
Righteous and believing people ate it,
Those baptised in water ate it who at their baptism
Arise and behold the Place of Light.
And Life be praised! Life is victorious!
I testify to Yawar-Ziwa who quickeneth us with his bounty.

In the name of the Great Life be there healing and victory and forgiving of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!

In the name of the Life!
When He opened His Garment ³)
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance appeared, to whom was light given?
To whom was light given and to whom was enlightenment revealed?
Enlightment, to whom was it revealed,
And on which of the 'uthras did They bestow it?
When He opened the Garment of Life
And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
(When) Radiance appeared in its Place,
Light was given to Yawar,
Light to Yawar was given,
And he, Yawar, told it ⁴) to all the 'uthras.
The 'uthras who listened to the enlightenment (teaching)
Of Yawar, rejoiced and gloried therein to the uttermost.
Without measure they rejoiced and gloried therein
And were stablished thereby completely
He said to them "Rejoice and be edified, (ye) 'uthras
By the enlightenment which your father hath transmitted to you

¹) ama kana umkanana (a free translation).

²) The series which follows is devoted to praise of Yawar. The name is derived from YWR or 'WR, and illustrates the use of a regular but rare form of Peal active participle of roots ending in 'r', usually connoting an active agent, e.g. dakar (a mentioner), pašar (a loosener, exorcist) naṭar (watchman, guardian). See N. p. 230. Hence Yawar means one who blinds or dazzles with light.

³) "Opened His Garment", a mystical expression meaning "revealed Himself", "appeared".

⁴) 'mrḥ in in both mss.: better perhaps "caused it to rest on all the 'uthras".

From the Mighty (Life)!" And they say to him,
"Blessed art thou, our great 1) First Enlightenment
Brought hither for our sakes, by virtue of which
We (too) give light. And we praise the Great (Life)
Who gave thee". And Life be praised!
I testify to Yawar, who quickeneth us
With his bounty!

When He opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,

To whom was (the work of) construction given?

Who was named as head of reproductive power?

When the Life opened Its Garment,
And the Radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared;
When Radiance was manifested at its place,
Production was entrusted to Yawar,
To Yawar was (the work of) construction given.
He, Yawar, was named head of reproduction 3),
He was created chief of mighty ones.
He implanted the reproductive power
In his brethren, and set them up
And instructed them in their places,
He established them and instructed them
And showed them archetypes
So that all should not pass away.
For the radiance of Yawar 4) is not cut off
From above them in the Secret Place.
The Life accepteth 5) the dues and oblations
Of Yawar who quickeneth us with his bounty.
And Life is victorious.

2) Tuqna in both its meanings, "light" and "construction".

3) See p. 135, n. 2.

4) Or "dazzling", "dazzler". Yawar is not a loan-word from the Persian yawar "assistant". See p. 252, n. 2.

5) D.C. 3 hiia qabliḫ, D.C. 53 hiia qabluiḫ. The sentence is somewhat suspect.

360

When He opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance formed itself,
On whom did the Great (Life) bestow a good [1] gift
On whom did the Great (Life) bestow bounty?
And whom did They endow [2] with blessing?
When Life opened His Garment,
And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
(When) Radiance manifested in its place,
The Great (Life) bestowed bounty on Yawar,
Yawar took the good gift
And therewith refresheth (both) great and small.
He refreshed Yušamin and refreshed the 'uthras his sons,
And the 'uthras, sons of Yušamin.
Rejoice in the benefaction [3]
In the benefaction they rejoice
Wherewith Yawar had refreshed them completely.
Of his benefits they partook [3], all of them,
For the radiance of Yawar is not cut off
From above them in the Occult Place.
And the Great (Life) accepted the fee and oblation
Of Yawar. They partook of his bounty fully.
And Life is victorious.

361

When He opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance appeared,
Upon whom was Understanding [4] bestowed?
To whom was Perception given,

---

[1] It must be remembered that these hymns refer to the sacred bread, fruit, vegetables and wine of the Blessed Oblation, i.e. to natural products eaten sacramentally. Hence ṭabta and ṭabuta refer to the good gifts of the Life, and the Pa. of the root ṬUB applied to the sacramental acts of eating and drinking, which impart life and strength to body and soul, is best translated by such words as "refresh", "quicken" and "partake of". The latter word is employed in the same sense that Christian communicants employ it.

[2] Lit. "in whom They made blessing dwell".

[3] Ṭabuta, see above, n. 1.

[4] Madihta = Understanding, perception, discernment. Part of the line missing in D.C. 53.

To whom did They give explanations?
To whom did They explain about all the distinctions 1),
And whom did They proclaim as the Voice of Life
That is not interrupted?
When Life opened His Garment,
And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
Radiance appeared in its Place,
Understanding was given to Yawar,
Perception was bestowed on Yawar,
And he, Yawar, hearkened and received understanding of Life.
He was instructed by by Their Word,
And he hearkened to Their pure Voice.
And he came and summoned all the 'uthras.
They came, and heard that which the Life had said to him.
Heed that which the Great (Life) taught!
Heed that which the Great (Life) explained!
And following it, be ye all united!
Hear its praise from me. Rise to the Place of Light!
And Life is victorious.

362

When He opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance appeared,
(As) envoy, whom did They send? 2)
Whom did they send as Life's messenger?
Whom did They set in command over them all? 3)
Whom did They put in command over them all?
With Their warning whom did They warn?
When Life opened His Garment,
And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
When Radiance appeared in its place,
Yawar They sent (as) Envoy
As Envoy They sent Yawar.
They sent not all (any of) the 'uthras

1) D.C. 3 has lkul afrišta: "about every explanation" (or "distinction"), D.C. 53 lkul afrišata, as translated.

2) The construction is curious but, the context makes it evident that Yawar was the Envoy and not the being to whom an Envoy was sent.

3) For kulhun D.C. 3, 255 : 8 and kulhin D.C. 53, 385 : 3 read lkulhun as in the next line.

They did not send all 'uthras;
Nor did they teach all worlds (persons),
All worlds they did not teach
That they will rise, that they will see Us
That they will rise, and will see Us
And be established in praise of the Mighty.
They say to him 1), "Blessed and lauded be the Great Life
Who raised thee up that we might praise the Life
And thyself who art sent to us as Life's Envoy".
And Life is victorious!

363

When He opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance appeared,
To whom was prayer and praise given?
Prayer and praise, to whom were they given?
And for whom was glory (ziwa) reserved and appointed?
The Great (Life) invested Yawar:
He (They) called him and gave him command, saying to him,
"Go, go, Yawar and make thine appearance
To the Elect Righteous yonder.
Come! rejoice in Us, and gladden the 'uthras with thee.
'Uthras shall be joyful: 'uthras shall rejoice
And 'uthras shall know who is more revered
Than any other 2).
And Life is victorious.

364

When He opened His Garment,
And when Radiance was formed 3)
When Radiance made its appearance.
To whom was mystic converse 4) given?
On whom was mystic converse bestowed?
And into whose heart was it poured?
Into the heart of whom was it poured,

---

1) I.e., the 'uthras say to Yawar.

2) Lit. "than whom".

3) 'ṣṭarar in this line is missing in D.C. 3.

4) D.C. 3, 256 : 14 has šuta kasiata "talk (of) secret things", but below like D.C. 53, šuta kasita.

Awaking all its perfections?
When the Life opened His Garment
And the Radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared in its Place,
Mystic converse was given to Yawar.
Yawar was on guard 1) and was watchful!
And came and kept watch over all the 'uthras!
And Life is victorious.

365

When He opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance appeared,
Who was the architect of the ether-world?
In the ether-world who was the architect? 2)
Who built a building therein,
In it who built a building?
Who designed it 3), set it in order, 4)
And upheld it so that it shineth
From end to end?
It was to Yawar that They gave charge of it,
Because of his radiance They set him in charge,
And he whose glory is sublime sheddeth light upon it;
In his building he standeth 5).
It is not vain, or void, not hath it come to naught
Because he consulted the Life,
Because he was advised by the Life about it.
Life designed and founded the building
And Life is victorious.

366

When He opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance appeared,
Radiance (Ziwa) appeared with Yawar.

---

1) These two lines might also be an address to Yawar (naṭar is an alternative form of nṭur).

2) A line is missing here in D.C. 3, p. 257.

3) J. בִּיְנָה to lay out, plan (a city) (Pi. BNA?)

4) D.C. 3, 257 : 7 tiqnḫ

5) Or "confirmeth his building".

They (the Great Life) created Light within the Garment.
When Light approached [1]) Radiance,
They called to Yawar and commissioned him, saying,
"Go, go thou Dazzling One,
Show thy divine image to the elect righteous
That they may see thee and shine
And may exalt Laufa (communion) [2]) to its rightful place.
At its rites [3]) they will behold Us
And will be confirmed in praise of the Mighty (Life).
They will behold the Great (Life)
And the Place which hath no end!
And Life is victorious.

367

When He opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance appeared,
To whom was his mystic archetype [4]) given,
A mystic counterpart, to whom was she given
And for whom was she guarded and established?
When He opened His Garment,
And when Radiance was formed,
When the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared
And Radiance appeared in its place,
A mystic counterpart for Yawar
Was concealed and guarded.
And Life is victorious.

368

When he opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance appeared,
For it, Transmitters were appointed
For it, there were appointed Transplanters.

[1]) In such texts as the Alf Trisar Šuialia it is assumed the nhura (light) is the (female) complement of the (male) force ziwa (radiance, glory).

[2]) Laufa (union, communion), is the simplest form of commemorative meal for the dead. See W.W., pp. 232-5. Its modern name is lofani.

[3]) D.C. 3 p. 258 : 2 l'bidatak "at your rites".

[4]) Dmuta, translated in No. 366 as "divine image", is the ideal counterpart; also "appearance", "likeness". See p. 236 n. 5.

(But) yonder, yonder They covered up its arousing 1) brilliance,
It doth not flash forth amongst dull-witted Plants!
But was reserved for one, one (only),
And will rise with him to the Place of Light.
And Manda-ḏ-Hiia will watch over him in his place;
He will guide him, will rejoice with him
And be his companion for ever and ever.
And the Great Life be praised in his light!
Life is victorious!

When He opened His Garment
And when Radiance was formed,
When Radiance appeared,
Who was king over the Light?
Who became king over Light?
And who, in his realm, was named chief,
Who was named chief in his realm
And who became Captain of the mighty?
Who was it who twined (wreaths) of virtues 2)
And set them on the heads of enlightened ones?
When Life opened His Garment
And the radiance of the Mighty (Life) appeared,
Radiance appeared in its place
Yawar became king over Light,
He it was who became King over Light.
In his realm he was named Captain,
Captain he was called in his realm
He became Captain of the Mighty.
He twined 3) (wreaths of) virtues
And set them on the heads of enlightened ones.
(Yea), Yawar arranged all, and did nought therein
Amiss or lacking, Nought was wanting, nought defective.
Nothing grieved him, (for) in it all
There was nothing awry!
And Life be praised!

In the name of the Great Other Life, be there health, purity,

1) 'ruta (from 'WR, YWR, AWR) I have translated by two words to convey the double meaning here.

2) Or "purities".

3) 'Uṣṭun, 'uṣṭuna (see p. 233, n. 5.) I.e. the body of the cosmic Adam.

strength and soundness, speaking and a hearing and the aid of mighty 'uthras, sons of light, for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam, and for my offspring, Adam-Yuhana and Šarat-Mamania children of Adam-Yuhana.

May it establish our names in the House of Life and may the eye of Manda-ḏ-Hiia be directed upon us, with the help of Hibil, Šitil and Anuš!

370

They appointed, and the Body [1] consisteth of Radiance within radiance, ether within Ether,
Counterpart of Life within Counterpart of Life [2]
Piriawis within Piriawis!
The Being who came and opened their eyes
To the living waters (Water of Life)
And poured them into their hearts
And (bestowed) wisdom and faith on the 'uthras:
He, (that) Being, will come and will open my eyes,
Mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
And pour into my own heart wisdom and faith,
So that I may stand and may worship and praise
The Mighty, Other-world (Strange) Life;
That I may bless this kana ḏ-zidqa [3] and Table.

……………………………………………

And (bless) thee (also), our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam [4],
And the priests and laymen of the škinta (cult-hut)
Who sit at thy right and thy left,
For an age of ages and for world without end;
And Life is victorious.

371

In the name of the Great Life!

[1] See p. 259, note 3.

[2] Both have dmut hiia bgu dimat hiia. Here dimat undoubtedly is dmut, counterpart" and not "tear"! See p. 40, n. 3.

[3] Kana ḏ-zidqa. The word kana (receptacle, storing-place, assembly, assemblage, gathering, congregation; base, fundament, origin, place of origin etc.) in the series of hymns which follows refers to the various ritual foods set out on the holy table or platter for the sacred meal, in short, the foods collected for the purpose.

[4] This part of the hymn refers to the celebrant, and is chanted antiphonally by the priests present. (Today, owing to the lack of priests, the celebrant himself repeats the whole hymn.)

At the Source of the great Stream[1]
Of the predestined[2] Ether-World do I stand!
I am the Word of the First Life.
Pre-existent am I to all 'uthras,
For the Life created me and blessed me
And gave me strength, benison and goodness[3],
And sent me to bless my mystic brethren,
All the 'uthras; to speak and to be obeyed.
And I came and blessed them and gave them strength,
Benison and goodness, just as my Father[4]
Had given them to me.
And I, likewise, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam —
Or any man who is sincere and believing
And utters this saying sincerely —
Will receive a blessing like the blessing
And outflow[5] of the Ether-Land,
Foreordained and blessed by the Second Life.
And all 'uthras of the world of Light
Are blessed by it.
It came to this world which is all birth
And to sons of the great Family of Life.
And Life is victorious.

372

At thy name, Predestinate One,
Predestined by the Life, and at the source
Of the great Outflow of the Ether-land,
— Predestined and blessed is all the Ether,
Son of plenteousness[6] (?) from which Light emanated!—
Again it happened: the Life produced[7] Radiance.
The Tanna dissolved:[8] waters came into being

[4] Plural, i.e. Life.

[7] Cf. these lines with that obscure hymn, No. 12, substituting ham ziwa for sam ziwa.

[8] D.C. 3 p. (262 : 8) has praš for pšar.

There were freshet springs [1],
There was union without division,
Abundance that never lacked
And blessing never incomplete.
Lift up thine eyes!
Behold yon great mystic primeval Šar-Ziwa! [2]
He is from the lofty, secret and protected Place,
From mighty and celestial springs of light (he emanated),
A being who spoke and heard,
Was judged and was vindicated
Before the celestial Mara-ḏ-Rabutha [3].
Come! Lay thy hand of truth (kušṭa)
Thy great right hand of healings
Upon this kana ḏ-zidqa [4] and thy table,

Of the living [5]; bless (also) and mention

Rest upon them for an age of ages
And world without end".
And Life is victorious.

[1] Mambuhia = mambugia, i.e. natural springs, in ritual the sacred drink.

[2] Šar-Ziwa is an epithet applied to Hibil-Ziwa (See G.R. trs. pp. 163, 28).

[3] Mara-d-Rabutha, "Lord of Greatness" is, in the texts which describe the ordination of priests, the prototype of rba or rbai, the priest who initiates and trains the young postulant to priesthood.

[4] See p. 260, n. 3.

[5] Haiania. This might mean either the dead who are commemorated, or living persons, the relatives or teachers of the priests.

[6] Mana here has this (foreign) meaning (Avestic manah), and not the Aramaic meaning ("garment", "vessel" etc.) Mandaean writers love word-play, and therefore references to a robe or vessel are sometimes hidden references to mana meaning "soul" or "mind".

In my dwelling! And I will administer all works
And will create a world of ether
And make a durable 1) Abode.
There shall be mystic 'uthras
By whom elect righteous (people) will be set up (fortified)
Prepared for the everlasting 1) Abode.
And then He, the great and powerful Mind 2)
Pondered and created mystic 'uthras.
And he created one mild 'uthra
Who was sublimer than all the 'uthras.
And He blessed him, established him and strengthened him.
To him he gave the waters, and spread
Abundance in the worlds of light.
He set him over all jordans and streams
And over the Root which originated therefrom.
He showed him favour, blessed him and confirmed him.
And over the kana ḏ-zidqa (Oblations) and the Table 3)
He made him ruler. And He made him ruler
Over all sanctuaries (škinata),
So that they should exist through his strength.
And they will thrive in their sanctuaries
For through him all the 'uthras are refreshed,
They rejoice and are completely enlightened.
And they praise Manda-ḏ-Hiia who instituted for them
This kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
In their sanctuaries. So that from him
There was ṭabuta 4), and by him it was bestowed
Upon the righteous elect who were worthy
Of the Everlasting Abode. Because it was prepared for them 5)
By him. And by (means of) that kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
By which their souls are uplifted 6),
Everyone who partaketh thereof in silence
Shall have strength and firmness like 'uthras,

And his name shall be established with his Father.
(But) he who doth not partake of the Oblation in silence,
- And there is nought which hath not its limit! —[1]
Will have neither lot nor portion[2] in the House of Life.
The great Mighty Mind (Mana) taught and revealed:
He said "From him who refresheth himself[3]
By this Kana ḏ-zidqa and Table in silence,
And pronounceth over it the name of the Life
And the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
My charity will not be cut off".
So I worship, laud and praise the Life,
My Father, who planted me and raised me up,
Gave me strength and water
And set me in authority over
Kana ḏ-zidqa and Table.
I accepted[4] it from Him and went towards the škinata,[5]
I came and established the 'uthras in their škinata
So that in them they should speak and be heeded,
Should have strength and increase
And praise the Being who placed them therein.
(But) any man who doth not partake
Of this kana ḏ-zidqa in silence
And doth not pronounce the name of Life
And of Manda-ḏ-Hiia over it,
A great retribution will befall him,
He will no more be counted among 'uthras.
For when this kana ḏ-zidqa and Table were transported hither,
I was its guardian, it was I who transferred it (them?)
From my Father, and distributed it (them)
Amongst the škinata of all the 'uthras.
When elect righteous (men) have come into existence
I will go towards them with guardian(-spirits);

---

[1] This tag, probably a proverb, occurs in several Mandaean compositions, it means roughly, "and there is always an exception". See G.R. pp. 75, 290, 291 and 292.

[2] Hlaq umnaq = hlaq umna.

[3] Or, in ritual language "partaketh of".

[4] Lit. "I took it from Him".

[5] The škinata of the 'uthras are the prototypes of earthly sanctuaries (the cult-huts), and 'uthras are depicted as performing in the world of light the sacred rites which men perform on earth.

I will give them strength, and water and abundance,
And knowledge like (that of) mighty 'uthras,
Sons of light. I will set up for them
A kana ḏ-zidqa and Table.
In their houses, and by association therewith
Their souls will be uplifted.
For this kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
Were the product of the great First Vine.
And when He appeared and came into being
And created companionship [1] for Himself,
He said, "For me there shall exist an Ether-world,
And in it there will be sanctuaries (škinata)
We will set up 'uthras in them.
Upon them will rest (my?) glory [1]:
They will speak with the voice of Life
From beginning to end. And we will transport to them
Sublime and illumined jordans [2], and we will bless them
With a blessing. So that there will be bounty [3]
From them, and the kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
Will be given (furnished) by them.
Strength and soundness will result to all the worlds of light,
And (also) to the elect righteous who are refreshed
By this kana ḏ-zidqa and Table.
And they will speak and will be heard.
Now I worship, laud and praise
That great First Vine who ruleth all the worlds of light
And blesseth the elect righteous with His blessing
And with the bounty (good food) brought to them,
By which they are strengthened and increased in might.
Their hearts leap for joy: they are elated
And their appearance becomes bright in every way.
They praise Manda-ḏ-Hiia who bestowed upon them
This kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
Set up for them in their sanctuaries.
(But) anyone who doth not partake in silence

[1] Ṣauta has at least six possible meanings (including "thirst" and "obedience"!)

[2] Rivers are meant here, I think.

[3] Ṭabuta. Here better rendered "wholesome food"? See p. 254, n. 1.

Of the kana ḏ-zidqa and Table and omitteth to mention
The name of the Life and the name of Manda-ḏ Hiia, thereon,
All demons and devils will not absent themselves from his table!1)
Because he heedeth not every word of his Father 2)
The Seven will become his persecutors 3)
He will be put to the question before his Father.
The great and mighty Mana taught and told
The elect righteous and the Naṣoraeans
Who are to exist in the earthly world 4),
"When ye beget generations and when ye teach them
Their knowledge, Explain to them,
Show them and tell them
About the rites which ye have performed;
About the kana ḏ-zidqa and Table.
(Teach them) to partake thereof in silence
And to mention the name of Life and the name
Of Manda-ḏ-Hiia thereon. "Partake of it,
And when ye have refreshed yourselves
Pronounce this blessing upon it
And a Helper will be yours!"
Then I worship, praise and laud
That Mystic, Great First Cloud 5) (Spouse)
From whom all good things came forth,
And all the 'uthras who (were found?) worthy 6)
When these wholesome things were transplanted.
They gave me orders concerning them
To set them down and protect them everywhere
In every place where partakers refresh themselves.
And they shall have strength and (bodily) soundness in their škinata (dwellings);
When they refresh themselves therewith
They rejoice and their souls exult exceedingly.
They praise Manda-ḏ-Hiia who gave them
This kana ḏ-zidqa and Table of which they have partaken
And praise him eternally.

1) Lit. "From before his table".
2) Plural, (Hiia rbia).
3) Lit. "his persecution".
4) D.C. 3 has mistakenly šaiatlḫ for šaialtḫ
5) Anana: "Cloud", see p. 37. n. 4.
6) Or zealous".

Manda-ḏ-Hiia revealed and said
"Any man who partaketh in silence
Of this kana ḏ-zidqa and Table and pronounceth thereon
The name of Life and the name of Manda-ḏ-Hiia,
'Uthras of light shall bless him with their blessing;
He shall be protected by the Secret Name
And it will protect all the 'uthras.
There shall be one Helper for him:
All that he hath said will be heard by hosts
Of 'uthras of the Ether-world".
And Life be to (those who) know,
Life to the believing and Life to men
(Who) instruct us (in the faith)
And Life is victorious over all works.

In pure raiment do I stand;
In that glorious splendour in which I stand
I worship, praise and laud
The four hundred and forty four thousand names
Of Yawar-Ziwa, son of Nbaṭ-Ziwa, King of 'uthras,
The great Viceregent of škinata (sanctuaries),
Chief over mighty and celestial worlds
Of radiance, light and glory;
Who is within the Veil, within his own škinta,
Before whom no being existed.
Then I worship laud and praise
The One Great Name, which is great
And the Name which is powerful.
Moreover I worship laud and praise
That Mystic First Mind (Mana) of Glory,
Who emanated from Himself, Whose brilliance
Exceedeth all (other) mystic glories;
It is greater than word of mouth (can describe)
And His light mightier than lips can express.
For He is the great mystic First Mind (Mana)
Whose glory was transmitted
Neither from the uttermost ends of the earth
Nor from gates within it.
For He is the Mana (Mind),

The great, the Mysterious, the First,
Whose glory was transmitted by redoublings [1] of radiance
By intensifications [1] of light.
Then I worship, laud and praise
The redoublings of radiance
And intensifications of light by means of which
The great mighty Mana was formed and made.
Then I worship, laud and praise
That pure Staff [2] which was conveyed to him
By Šar-Gufna, the great mysterious First.
Then I worship, laud and praise
That pure Wreath which was transmitted to him
By Pirun, the great, mystic, First Vine,
Then I worship, praise and laud the pure vestments,
And the coverings of radiance which were transmitted to him
From the mighty Tannas [3] of the jordan.
Then I worship, laud and praise
That banner Zihrun, which was unfurled before
The great mighty Mana, in the radiance of which banner
Three hundred and sixty-six mighty celestial worlds of light shine.
Then I worship, laud and praise
That 'Uthra whom they summoned
From amongst a thousand thousand 'uthras, 'uthras
Innumerable. They clothed him with radiance,
Covered him with light, transmitted to him strength
From the strength of the Great First Life his Father,
And "speaking and being heard" [4]
From the "speaking and being heard" of the great Mana,
The mighty, mysterious, First, of the glory of Life.
They called him, armed him and sent him saying to him,
"Arise, go to Mšunia-Kušṭa [5], to the chief of worlds,

[1] A typical play on words. "Aufia = increase, doubling, output, sprouting, foliage. (Cf. Syriac ܥܘܦ and ܥܦ "to fold over, double, multiply, increase".

[2] The ritual olivewood staff, part of the regal insignia of priests.

[3] Like Lidzbarski, I am mystified by this word. It dissolves, (ham ziwa pšar tana No. 19), it is personified in company with niṭufiata, "Drops", suggesting "vapours" No. 308, also No. 378, p. 284. (See p. 9, n. 1).

[4] This is a religious expression for prayer and communion in thought.

[5] I cannot understand why Mšunia-Kušṭa, a world of immaterial ideals or prototypes, should here be called "of the darkness". The line may have been inserted by accident.

That which is called 'of the darkness',
And teach pious, believing and amiable Naṣoraeans
That they should set up their Table,
(A Table) replenished with food;
And their Cup (a Cup) full of mambuga [1]).
So that the good may behold and be refreshed [2]),
The wicked be discomfited and the children of the world
Put to shame.
The righteous [3]) will see that the Life existeth.
They will raise their eyes
Toward the great First Father of Glory
And toward the Lord of Celestial Greatness [4])
Who giveth light (and?) sure strength
To the righteous,
And [5]) to thee, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam, (be there)
Lofty strength, great and mighty confidence,
Grace, fame and honour!
And shouldest thou seek the honour that is hidden,
The Mana will come and will rest upon thee,
Our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
And (upon) thy brother-priests here.
And the right hand of the 'uthras
Will be laid upon thee, thyself, our father
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam and (on) all the priests
And laymen of the sanctuary (škinta).
And Life is victorious.

375

I have blessed, my Lord, all the good things [6])
Which Thou didst make for the ancient world in the beginning,
(For) from Thee they opened and came forth.
This is a tree [7]) which is a Tree of Life,
And a Vine, a Vine of Life!

[1]) Mambuga, see p. 262, n. 1.
[2]) Or "partake thereof".
[3]) Šalmania = those who are perfect, the righteous.
[4]) Mara-ḏ-Rabuta, see p. 262, n. 3.
[5]) This part of the hymn is probably chanted by the assistant priests.
[6]) Food, ritual food, wholesome food.
[7]) "The tree" here probably refers to the priestly bridegroom, and the "vine" to his bride? See the rubric at the end.

Satisfying (fare) that is superior to all means of healing
Is that which thou hast brought, revealed
And given to these souls!
Blessed is this pure oblation
Which goeth before its Giver.
In joy he (or "it") opened his mouth
At the Judgement and pleadeth his cause
Before the Being sitting in judgement!
(It is) a deliverer of the bound,
It cheereth those who are in affliction,
Causeth sucklings to flourish,
Is the sight of the blind
And the hearing and pleasure of the deaf.
It establisheth speech in the mouths of the stammering,
And the deaf and the dumb.
Its presence is praised,
For thereby souls are held together.
And (it provideth?) means of ascent
To the Great Place of Light
And to the everlasting Abode.
And blessed art thou, our good father!
For we have eaten of thine Oblation
And have lived [2].
And we have drunk from thy mambuga [3]
And were refreshed (have benefited by)
Thine unction, thine oblation, thy bounty [4],
Thy basket [5] when full of food
And thy bowl when full of spring-water [3].
And may this kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
Increase and be plentiful in thy house,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
As was the table of Adam the First Man,
Which lacked nothing, nor was it stinted.
(So be it with) this kana ḏ-zidqa and table

In thy house, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
For an age of ages and for ever and ever!
And Life is victorious.

[This petition of "The great Father of Glory" is a blessing bestowed on a bridegroom,]

(Note. — Probably for the marriage of a priest. One such marriage forms part of the consecration of a ganzibra.)

In the name of the Great Life!
And in the name of the great Father of Glory!
Now thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that benediction wherewith
The great first Palm-tree 1) was blessed.
And the Palm-tree blessed the bursting forth 2)
Of its foliage. It was so, and the sprouting 2) (branches)
Blessed runnels (of sap) and established them
And established the waters of life.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing conferred upon
The eight hundred and eighty thousand banners 3)
And conferred upon the great Mirror.
And the jordans were blessed thereby and the running streams
And (that) whereby the seven mystic mirrors were blessed.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
And the 'uthras and the škinata, by that blessing,
Bestowed upon the 4) Tanna and Ham-Ziwa (Radiance-glowed 5)),
And upon the First Word given them.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing wherewith the Great Mystery was blessed.
And the Great Mystery blessed the two manas
Who dwell with one another.

Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Wherewith the secret and guarded Treasure was blessed,
And a mystic Sprout [1] emerged therefrom.
And the mystic Sprout [1] blessed the Eggs (hilbunia [2])
And the Drops concealed within them.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam
With that blessing wherewith Smandr'iel [3] was blessed,
Whose fragrance is pleasing like the fragrance of the Vine
When in leaf, like the foliage of the fresh myrtle
Which was set up before the King, also the blossom
Which came from them.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Wherewith the mystic Table was blessed,
And wondrous apparel, and the great Crown,
Were blessed therewith.
Then thou art blessed, our father Adam-Yahia son of Sam,
With that blessing wherewith were blessed
Zihwat-Aina, Kihwat-Aina, Piršat-Aina and Nibṭat-Aina [4].
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Wherewith Nbaṭ-Mana-Kasia was blessed
When He was sitting in his House (hilbuna) and had no consort.
When He was blessed with this blessing
A Wellspring gushed up [5] before Him
And She, the Wellspring, parted for the niṣubta [6] Planting? (Bridal?)
Within the Tanna [7]).
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing wherewith was blessed
King Ganzaiel, so that the treasure of 'uthras

Then thou art blessed, our father, with that blessing
Wherewith the covering seal was blessed;
And the covering seal blessed the drops
Which were directed towards it, and the seven drops
Blessed the 'uthras, the lords of seals.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Wherewith the great kinta[2] of two kings was blessed
So that they were completely established.
And the great kinta blessed the two kings.
And the two kings blessed the 'uthras, guardians
Of the kinta. And they said to them,
"As abundantly as flow the waters in the jordans which travel on,
May your love and favour flow to the 'uthras."[3]
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing wherewith was blessed
The great kindly Aether-air of Life.
And they (the Life) said to it,
"Just as rare air delighteth (the soul)
So doth thy fragrance give delight,
O lord of the house and these benefactions![4]
And thou shalt have increase like holy manas
In their perfection[5]: Thou shalt have the lustre and glory
Of (like?) the jordan[6]. As abundantly as jordans (rivers)
Flow, so will love of thee[7] increase before thee
In the minds of thy brother-'uthras!
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing wherewith was blessed
The mystic Tanna. And the mystic Tanna

[1] All this is very doubtful.

[2] Kinta (Lidzbarski "ein Wort kosmischer Bedeutung"). In modern ritual a clay box used as altar, it is found in such varied meanings as "wrapping", "veil", "receptacle", "box", "cavity", "hole", "community", "foundation", and "constitution". D.C. 3. p. 276 : 15 has kinta ḏ-rba trin malkia for kinta ḏ-rabtia trin malkia in D.C. 53 410 : 4f.

Blessed the rivers and running streams
And said to them, "Whoso amongst 'uthras drinketh water from you,
Shall have strength, increase and perception;
Strength and soundness will abide with him
Like beams of light".
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing which Ham-Ziwa bestowed upon
The Beam-of-Light whom he set beside him,
And he endowed her with his wisdom and his faith.
And from them proceeded fertility (niṣubta).
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
By that blessing which two pure manas
And holy kings pronounced.
And They say to him "Arise,
Go, lay down an earth: spread out a firmament
And hang up therein three hundred and sixty lamps.
Found a dwelling-place, draw down rivers
And distribute streams; make worlds of light;
Cause kings to dwell therein and give them fame,
Honour and increase. Bestow on them the power of reproduction [1])
And mystic treasure, so that they may worship,
Praise and raise up prayer and praisegiving
To the great Father of Glory."
And the great Father of Glory gave them living waters, [2])
And wholesome food [3]). And he conferred on them Pregnancy and birth and increase and benefaction [3]).
And He set up a Table for the good
So that they might eat well and be refreshed
He gave them banners of radiance and beams of light
And He gave them pure-air (Aether) [4]) which delighteth them
And sweeteneth the sanctuaries (škinata).
He gave them rays (of light) in which the Table (might be) set up
And draw (the faithful) into their sanctuaries
And running streams of living [5]) water —

Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith the Vine of Life
Was blessed and liveth [1])
And the wondrous Vine blessed her young vines [2]), her sons,
And said to them "Ye shall have strength and increase,
And the lustre and glory of the Jordan, [3])
And an assignment in the worlds of light".
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Wherewith the great Ganzaiel [4]) was blessed;
And he blessed three 'uthras
And gave them strength and firmness and said to them
"Like as the bud which appeared in that Vine
And remained and sent forth a shoot [5]),
May the radiance that resteth on its tendrils
Have blessed thee" [6]). And he said to them
"As long as water flows will the lovingkindness
Of the mystic Mana [7]) flow on, and He will enlighten thy mind [11]) D.C. 3 has "which 'uthras created" (ḏ-qrun ʿutria; p. 280 : 4).

Which They bestowed upon kings [1].
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing wherewith the three kings blessed Ayar [2],
They appointed and made him Chief of the škinata
And he was signed with a great seal
And set up (as chief?)
For ever and ever. They erected a throne for him;
Spread above him a canopy of radiance,
Hymned him and said to him,
"Since the day that the great Jordan extended itself
And a channel [3] was allotted to each of the škinata,
They made thee a king, our father!
A collector of dues (of) portions allotted [4] to the Life,
And a twiner of the wreath for postulants (to priesthood).

(O) establisher of its treasures! Our father!
O mana which passeth not away!
Troth is not broken and Union
In which there is no imperfection or fault!
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
By that blessing wherewith Ziwa-Kasia (Mystic Radiance)
And Nhura-Yaqra (Holy light) [6] were blessed:
And ye shall have abundance, renown and honour.
And honour, "speaking and being heard" will be thine,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam
Like the great Father of Glory by Whose word
Worlds were created, and by Whose utterance
Dwellings (škinata) came into being.
And He gazed, looking upon His Likeness,
And created 'uthras in His likeness;
Made Seed and gave (it) to the 'uthras.

[2] Ayar, or Ayar-Rba, see p. 86, n. 2, in ritual scrolls which describe rites performed by spirits as prototypes of those performed on earth, (see p. 264 n. 5), is always cast for the role of chief celebrant.

[3] D.C. 3, p. 280 : 15 has the probably correct version, giuza, "channel". D.C. 53 (414:ult.) has ginza, "treasure".

[4] מְנָה, and מָן = "portion", "food".

[5] Here probably the young priest.

[6] The reference is to the "holy union" of the male and female principles of light.

Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing which the great Father of Glory
Bestowed on His First-born, and the First-born
Blessed the Palmtree and Wellspring [1]
Which proceeded from Him.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father.
With that blessing which King Nbaṭ bestowed
Upon the Egg, the secret mystery which proceeded
From himself.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing which the Egg, the Secret Mystery,
Bestowed upon its inner covering
Which proceeded from the Hidden.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing which Yawar bestowed
Upon the Living Flame.
And it increased and was increased.
And (may) the kana ḏ-zidqa, Table, and this mambuha
Increase and become plentiful in thy house,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
And the 'uthras and škinata
Who sit at thy right and thy left.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing which the mystic Vein [2] pronounced
And burst forth into sixty watersprings.
And it said to them, "Your images will shine
In my image, and your roots [3]
Will become numerous [4], and my root,
And ye will have renown and honour
Like holy manas in their škinata.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing bestowed upon
The great mystic First Škinta.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,

[1] Palmtree and Wellspring, see p. 14, notes 5 and 6.
[2] The mystic Vein (or Mystic Channel) = the Jordan.
[3] "Root" (širša) here has the extended meaning of "stock", "kin".
[4] The double meaning of the root NFŠ is implied, i.e. refresh", "revive".

With that blessing bestowed upon the great Sacred Unique One [1]:
And He blessed the 'uthras, his sons,
And the 'uthras and škinata blessed the postulants
Who stand before them.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing which was bestowed on the three holy manas
When remaining in their hilbunia [2] ("eggs", "houses"?)
So that none can behold their forms.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing bestowed on the pure Niṣubta [3].
From the jordan she arose, she endowed 'uthras with radiance,
Gave light to the škinata, wreaths to the Drops
And a chart [4] to postulants. Blessed is this (chart):
By it they are strengthened and praise
The prolific Vine and the source of the flowing channel
Which hath no end.
The three holy manas will bless thee,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.
They will hymn thee and say to thee,
"As a leader of radiant spirits [5] art thou come hither:
As a captain of light thou goest thither,
As head of the škinata thou twinest a wreath
For the rays of light.
Jordans will come into being, Yawar, in thy brilliance,
And in thy Root [6] (amongst thy kindred) rays of light will be set up
At thy call and at the sound of thy preaching
'Uthras gather about thee.
Many vines will be raised up for thee.
And they said to thee, "Just as jordans become many,
So may thy charity to 'uthras increase".
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,

[1] This mysterious Person is often mentioned in the religious texts. A masiqta is in his name. In the secret scrolls he is Adam-Kasia.

[2] See p. 121, n. 4.

[3] What are we to make of niṣubta here? Is she the personified spirit of procreation, or "the Bride", or..? See p. 171, n. 2 and p. 135, n. 2 for possible interpretation.

[4] Paršigna P., = "information (conveyed by a document) as chart, declaration, explanation, report, manual".

[5] D.C., 3, p. 283 : 15 has ziwa. D.C. 53 ziwia (p. 418 : 6).

[6] See p. 278 b, n. 4.

With that blessing bestowed upon Simat-Hiia [1].
And Simat-Hiia was blessed when she arose,
(And) came from the worlds of darkness.
They retreated(?) [2], and worlds of light were established.
And all the 'uthras gather about Yawar,
Blessing him [3], Yawar, father of all worlds
And founder of all škinata.
The 'uthras and škinata arose [4]
Blessing the sublime one, Yawar, great ruler of the škinata,
And saying to him, "Blessed art thou, Yawar,
And blessed is the Bride of Life who was thus proven [5] (?).
Blessed is the breach which thou, Yawar, hast broached!
Thou didst come and didst broach a breach.
Thou hast exalted horns and hast separated
The goodness of the good (good beings?) from the evil (evil beings?)
And the wicked from the good and orderly.
(Of all worlds of light) [6]
And the Disposer (of all worlds of light and? [7])
Of worlds of darkness transported his Bride [8]
From her pit [9], that Place.
The škinata were blessed, and their Disposer,
So that they were illumined
By the blessing he bestowed on 'uthras. (?) [10]
And he set up a Table for kings,
Spread out the firmament
And stars appeared therein.

---

[1] Simat-Hiia is the consort (here the bride) of Yawar, and they are usually mentioned together as a pair. From this passage it would seem that Simat-Hiia is identified with Zahriel, who came form the worlds of darkness as bride of Hibil-Ziwa.

[2] D.C. 53 (418 ult.), uthaṣab; D.C. 3 (284 : 9) uthaṣib. For uthabiṣ?

[3] One would expect mbarkilḫ!

[4] D.C. 53 (419 : 5) qam; D.C. 3 (284 : 9) qum.

[5] D.C. 3 (284 : 16) ḏ-šarat; D.C. 53 (419 : 8) ḏ-šrat.

[6] I suggest that "of all worlds of light" is obviously misplaced, and should follow msadrana, making the next line "and the Disposer of all worlds of light and of darkness".

[7] See n. 6.

[8] That is to say, Simat-Hiia who had left the worlds of darkness to become his spouse.

[9] Gibta (Gubta "hill" or "pit") Or, "by her choice"? Doubtful. The word is rare, but occurs in Pišra ḏ-Ainia (J.R.A.S. 1937, 590 : 20).

[10] The construction makes translation doubtful.

Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing bestowed upon beloved 'uthras
Formed from the loins of Radiance
And nurtured by beams of light.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that benison bestowed upon the holy Mana
When He was in His own škinta.
He blessed the jordan and extended it before Him
And blessed the Table and set it up before Him
So that they might eat at it and be refreshed,
And be sustained thereby on their thrones
Of radiance, light and glory.
And He created the Crown, set it upon His head,
Blessed it and held it on his right arm [1].
And He, the Holy [2] Mana taught and said,
"Any man who crowneth himself
Will have neither lot nor portion [3] in the House of Life".
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing wherewith the great First Mana
Blessed Himself [4]. And the great First Mana
Blessed the eight hundred and eighty 'uthras
Who grasped the banner [5] of the king.
And they hymn Him, saying to Him,
"When Yawar was successful, (with his Bride?)
She was neither wanting nor unworthy,
There was nought in her imperfect or amiss".
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing bestowed on the disembodying (spirits [6]))
Of good ganzivri, and thou wilt be blessed

[1] The crown, when not on the head, is slipped over the right arm and kept there until the preliminary prayers are over.

[2] For qra in both mss, read yaqra as translated.

[3] Hlaq umnaq = hlaq umna.

[4] The First Mana was without predecessor.

[5] A reference to the consecration of the banner before baptism. The priests (and later persons to be baptised) grasp, first the lower part of the pole and then the peak when reciting the banner hymns.

[6] See J.B. trs. p. 181, n. 4, "für die den Körper abstreifenden Seelen"; i.e. spirits casting off the body.

(With a blessing bestowed) by Dmut-'Qara, and Niṣubta-Qadmaita[1])
And The Drop upon whom the seal of a king was placed.
And the Beloved 'Uthra [2]) blessed thee when he was baptised
In those jordans. They immersed him, but he was not purified,
(He was still imbued with) the hue of darkness
Until Simat-Hiia arose. She took a pot of frankincense
And a king's crown, cried in the jordan
And blessed Yawar. And Simat-Hiia spoke
Hymning the jordan and saying to it, (and) say ye it (too [3])!
"From two mountains didst thou come into being!"
How fitting it is that 'uthras pronounce blessing
Upon Yawar, blessing him and uplifting him,
And raising his Bride up to the Place of Light!
They twine for him a wreath, a wreath of purities,
So that Darkness on beholding it
Is confounded and ashamed. When (thus) confounded
The plots which it had in mind are nullified".
When Simat-Hiia had said this,
All the 'uthras observed silence [6])
(But) Yušamin and Simat-Hiia bless Yawar
Saying to him "Blessed art thou, Yawar;
And blessed are 'uthras who abide with thee
With that benediction wherewith the copious
Flowings and upsurgings of mighty springs of light
Were blessed; and wherewith was blessed,,
. . . . [7]), the mystery which resteth within the Well-spring.

Further, thou wilt be blessed, thou, Yawar;
And thou, our father Adam-Yuhana son of Sam;
With that blessing wherewith Šišlam was blessed

[1]) Literally the names of these personifications are "Counterpart-of-Glory" and "First-Bride" or "First-Propagation". Obscure allegorical references make the text unintelligible.

[2]) "The beloved 'uthra" "is probably Hibil-Ziwa, who was baptised after his sojourn in the world of darkness and marriage with Zahriel.

[3]) Timarulḫ D.C. 53, 421: penult, but D.C. 3 has himarulḫ.

[4]) This could mean "I came into being".

[5]) Niṣubta. Could here be either "his procreation", "his fertility" or "his Bride"!

[6]) More literally "held their peace".

[7]) D.C. 3, (287 : 15) has sar udnasar, D.C. 53 (422 : 14) sar utnasar. Possibly a miswriting for saq udna "rose up and appeared".

When he ascended and abode in his škinta,
In his own House (Egg).
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father with that blessing
Bestowed upon the Occult Radiance and sublime Light
(Which) inspired the 'uthras.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father with that blessing
Bestowed upon the mystic Vein [1] that dwelleth
Within the Wellspring.
And thy root will multiply (branch out)
And the root of the 'uthras, thy sons,
Like the Vein which is lodged within the Jordan.
And thou wilt have chosen righteous ones
Who will exalt Treasure of Life.
And we will assign thee thy Niṣubta [2] of Life
(Spouses?) who bear witness [3] to Life,
Acknowledge Knowledge-of-Life
Give alms and offer up this (prayer of) blessing
Which was bestowed on the holy Mana.
And Life is triumphant over all works,
And victorious is Knowledge-of-Life
And his devotees and his people for ever and ever.

377

And they address a hymn to him:
"The Egg, the Hidden Mystery, hath blessed thee
And establisheth thee.
The Vein [4] which hath no end hath blessed thee;
Jordan and Table have blessed thee; Holy Kušṭa [5] hath confirmed thee;
The three Wellsprings which give benediction in the Jordan
Bless thee, our father! [6]
Crowns, and the secret treasure of the Egg of holy Manas
Have blessed thee. The Spouse (cloud) hath blessed thee;
A sublime Vine confirmed thee.

[1] Širiana. See p. 277, n. 2.

[2] Reproducing power? Or "planting" in the spiritual sense?

[3] The verbs which follow niṣubta are fem. plu.

[4] The references appear to allude to the various offices of a head priest, beginning with simple baptism.

[5] The kušṭa rite in all ceremonies, and at marriage.

[6] The triple baptism necessary in cases of pollution. (Read birkak).

The Great Life blesseth thee with His pure mouth
And the sublime Treasure which is with thee confirmeth thee 1).

[This prayer seeketh blessing on an infant, a postulant, or a masiqta. And when they brought Adam into his body, it consecrated him.]

378

In the name of the Great Life! may there be health, purity, joy of heart and forgiving of sin for Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing which Hibil-Ziwa pronounced upon Adam,
The first man. Moreover, thou shalt be blessed,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
And all thy škinta and the ritual food (ṭabuta)
And these priests and Mandaeans (laymen)
Who sit to right and left of thee,
With that blessing wherewith Manda-ḏ-Hiia was blessed
When he sprang forth and proceeded from the waters
And from celestial springs of light.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that benediction wherewith Sam-Gufna was blessed.
And Sam-Gufna blessed jordans and running streams
And said to them "Just as ye have increased,
(Ye) jordans and running streams,
So shall the progeny of Adam the first man increase.
His race, his planting and his disciples 2) (pupils),
Adam's", and thine (also) our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
Shall be plentiful as this spring of living water —
And how profound it is no man knoweth! 3)
Thou wilt be blessed, our father, with that blessing
Pronounced upon Hibil-Ziwa by three 'uthras.
They said to him "Go, bring us joy, purity and goodness!
And bring us living waters (Water of Life) to the škinata (sanctuaries).
And bring us a sturdy stock 4) by which sanctuaries and 'uthras

1) This prayer, like some of the more ancient and obscure prayers in the early part of the Book of Souls, makes the translator despair. It is full of esoteric and forgotten symbolism.

2) Šualania and ašualania i.e. postulants for priesthood.

3) D.C. 3 has, instead of this line, ulika ḏ-adam 'utra (a miswriting).

4) Širša, see p. 277. n. 3.

May be maintained.
In it they will shine and Rays-of-Light thrive".
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
By that blessing conferred upon the jordan Sindiriawis [1])
And the great and lofty Fruit-tree [2]);
And that which the great and lofty Fruit-tree
Conferred upon its offspring, that is, its foliage.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father, that that blessing
Conferred upon the jordan Hus and the torrent Pirun,
Conferred upon jordans (rivers) and running streams,
And upon the Table [3]) which is without stint
And given to 'uthras and to škinata so that
They may eat thereof and be refreshed.
And pronounce the blessing of the Table
Laying their pure right hands on it
And saying to it, "May this kana ḏ-zidqa and Table be life-sustaining [4])
And plentiful" (and) in thy house, thine,
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam, (thy table and that of) thine [5]) offspring,
Adam-Yuhana and Šarat-Mamania the children of Adam-Yuhana,
Shall resemble that kana ḏ-zidqa and Table which the Great and Mighty Mana
Brought and bestowed upon His offspring and sons.
Then thou wilt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing conferred upon Šar-Ziwa,
The First Being, who emanated from the vapours [6]) (?) of the waters,
When he rose to the bank of the jordan, blessed the jordan
And blessed (all) jordans and running streams.
And he blessed the abundance-producing [7]) utterance
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
Like that speech that bestoweth plenty [7]).

---

[1]) The "jordan" or river Sindiriawis is often mentioned, in G.R., as "a jordan of Life" (145 : 4, 146 : 37) and J.B. (p. 12 n. 1).

[2]) Pira = "fruit" and "fruit-tree".

[3]) See p. 260, n. 3 and p. 61, n. 5.

[4]) The root NFŠ has two meanings, and there is a play on these in this passage: i.e. also "abundant and increased".

[5]) In D.C. 53 "my offspring", D.C. 3 "thy offspring".

[6]) Tanania: see p. 268, n. 3; p.9. n. 1.

[7]) Pa. YTR, active participle fem. yatarta.

So that thy treasure, thy oblation and thy goodness [1]
And thy prayer and thy praise may be much;
Be increased, be life-giving and refreshing [2];
— Thine, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam —
Like the Sprout [3] which came and grew great
In the worlds of Light.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing imparted to the mystic Crown
They set upon the 'uthras.
Thine appearance will be radiant and bright
Like that crown that they set upon Manda-ḏ-Hiia [4].
And thou wilt have plenty and renown
Like the great Crown, which hath [5] great renown
In the worlds and ages. Thou wilt have honour
Like that of teachers [6] and postulants
When they perform (rites) and give instruction
And (so) acquire fame and increase.
Then thou shalt be blessed our father.
With that blessing wherewith Sar-and-Sarwan [7] was blessed,
The Emanation which came into being of Itself;
And thy radiance will be vital and wax great [3]
Like His radiance, and thy light increase
Like His light. Thou shalt have jordans.
And abundance like His abundance,
That of the Emanation which emanated from Itself.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing bestowed upon the living waters
And given to škinata. And they (the waters) spread and come[8]
To the škinata: Hibil drew them down
And sent them to the worlds.

---

[1] Here again probably refers to the food-offerings.

[2] The word-play on the two meanings of NFŠ occurs repeatedly in this hymn.

[3] Naṣiruta (the cult, priestly gnosis, etc.) here might have this unusual meaning of "offshoot", "sprout". (J. נֵצֶר ii) (Cf. Tan Lekh, ed. Bub. 9).

[4] D.C. 3 ḏ-traṣlun, D.C. 53 ḏ-traṣlḥ.

[5] Read ḏ-'tlḥ for ḏ-tla.

[6] Rbania (the rabbis) i.e. the priests who initiate postulants into the priesthood.

[7] Sar and Sarwan, usually a pair, here an "emanation" are mentioned in Prayer 45, also in G.R. 172 : 5, 221 : 4 and 374 : 14.

[8] D.C. 3 (293 : 3) ṭafin bisšar qiriš (uatin etc.) Corrupt.

(And thou shalt be blessed with) the blessing
That Hibil-Ziwa gave to Adam. He pronounced benediction
And said to him "Thou art blessed, Adam, First Man,
And thy plants (offspring) [1]) shall be blessed,
And thy dependants [2]), and thy basket when full of bread
And thy cup when full of mambugia [3]), and thy sons
When they stand before thee."
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith the 'uthra Smandriel [4]) was blessed.
And the 'uthra Smandriel blessed fruits, grapes and trees.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith mighty fruit (trees) were blessed,
And wherewith was blessed the Living Flame
And the Table that lacketh nothing.
Rham and Rhamiel-'Uthra were blessed by it
And Rham and Rhamiel-'Uthra blessed clouds of mist and rain.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam, with that blessing
Which blessed all clouds so that they are not wanting or lacking,
And so that this kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
Shall be neither wanting nor ill-provided
In thy house, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith those seven stars
Were blessed, and sovereignty was given to them.
Thou shalt be blessed, moreover, our father,
With that blessing wherewith were blessed
Those twelve constellations of the Zodiac.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
Wherewith the five sensitory organs [5]) were blessed.
Moreover thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing bestowed on heavens and earth;
And they blessed the covering of Smandriel [6])-'Uthra
And spread it out. Then thou shalt be blessed,

[1]) Šitlia.
[2]) Or "postulants"?
[3]) "Watersprings", i.e. the sacramental drink.
[4]) The spirit of blossom, see p. 272, n. 3.
[5]) Gidia.
[6]) The "covering" is over the earth only, since here it must mean vegetation, the province of Smandriel.

Our father, with that blessing wherewith
The two pure mountains are blessed,
In which (lie?) outstretched [1] the earth and sky,
And they do not move, and are not removed.
(Neither) shall be removed this kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
From thy house, Adam-Yuhana, son of Sam.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing bestowed upon the First Word,
Assigned to 'uthras and škinata.
And on beholding the First Word,
The 'uthras and škinata all rose from their thrones,
And addressed a hymn to Him saying to Him,
"Our father! the Guardian of Truth (Kušṭa) hath blessed thee
And the Naṣiruta from which thou camest into being hath blessed thee.
Our father! the Cloud that gave thee being blesseth thee
And a sublime Beam-of-Light will establish thee".
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith the holy Tanna was blessed,
And by which the three hundred thousand 'uthras
Who sit on the bank of the Tanna are blessed.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith Ṣihmai [2] was blessed,
The Pure Mirror into which all the worlds of light gaze.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith the Mystic Vein was blessed,
And it was divided into three hundred and sixty thousand channels,
And was given to the 'uthras and škinata.
And 'uthras and škinata shine therein,
And are established thereby.
And thine appearance, our father, shall shine
Just as 'uthras and škinata shine, and thou wilt be established,
And plants (offspring) will be raised up unto thee,
Thy sons, like those. There came a glory
Which resteth on 'uthras, and it shall come and shall rest upon thee,

---

[1] The probable meaning is that from these two mountains a wide horizon, sky and earth, lies extended below?

[2] ṢHM = to beam, gleam.

Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
Then, our father, thou shalt be blessed
With that blessing wherewith are blessed
Fruits, grapes and trees, and that conferred on
The beloved 'uthra. And the beloved 'uthra
Blessed the plants, his children: he gave them strength
And increase and water.
Then thou, our father, shalt be blessed,
With that blessing wherewith was blessed
The holy Splendour (Banner) [1]: it was endowed with radiance
From beginning to end, and to the 'uthras
It gave the pure Word which they speak
And which they hear (and obey).
Hence those 'uthras blessed the holy Banner.
And they come and bless thee [2],
And hymn thee, our father. They shed radiance,
They blessed thee and the škinta of the mighty (Life)
Blessed thee, and the great Tree which is all-healing. [3]
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith were blessed
The Seven Ships [4] which float and traverse the Dwellings.
Thou shalt have progress-onward [5] like those Ships.
And thou shalt have speech and hearing
Like the 'uthras who dwell in them.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith are blessed
Books and reliable teachings; moreover, our father,
Thou shalt be blessed with the blessing
Which 'uthras pronounced upon Yawar
When he brought his treasure and came towards them.
Those 'uthras who blessed Yawar
Will come and bless thee and hymn thee
Saying to thee "(O) Advent of a pure Mirror! (Thou art)
Chief of all enlightened beings!"

---

[1] See p. 226, n. 4. Here personified as a divine light.

[2] D.C. 3, (297 : 1) has "bless us".

[3] Lit. "all healings".

[4] The planetary ships. The illustrations to D.A. show the planetary ships and their occupants.

[5] Sagia (a) way, moving forward, "procedure" etc. (b) "abundance" "plenty".

They pronounce blessings in the jordan
(Saying?) "An Overlord [1] (?) of fair mirrors (art thou),
Bestower of blessing in the jordan,
And an Establisher [2] (?) of all purities" [3].
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
With that blessing wherewith holy manas were blessed.
And the holy manas blessed the jordan of living waters
Which they drew down hither and it cometh from its place.
(So also) may kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
Be drawn to and come to thy house,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith was blessed
Sindiriawis, jordan of living waters,
That was drawn down [4] to the Earth and given
To Adam, the first man.
And a kana ḏ-zidqa and Table will come
To thy house, our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam,
Like the Sindiriawis, jordan of living waters
Which overflow [5] and come (hither). (In like manner)
They will come, and a kana ḏ-zidqa will come
And the Table and (all manner of) good things [6]
And will flow abundantly to thy house,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing which the three Vines bestowed
Upon the holy Mana, imparting to Him strength and increase.
They said to Him, "Go, appoint vines like thyself
(Vines) which they have blessed (consecrated?) to the Holy Mana".
(And they will come and will bless thee (also), our father! [7])
"With Thy strength, (O) conquering Radiance!
And conquering is the Cloud [8] from which thou didst derive being".

[1] Should probably be šaliṭun ḏ as translated.
[2] Should probably be mqaimanun ḏ-zakwata as translated.
[3] The hymn is obscure and translation tentative.
[4] Or "flowed", "spread".
[5] Both MSS have a miswriting — ṭatin for ṭafin (perhaps for ḏ-atin)
[6] I.e. foods for the ritual table.
[7] This reads as if in parenthesis.
[8] I.e. the "Spouse", i.e. the Mother.

Rejoice, our father rejoice! rejoice in thy škinta!
Rejoice in the Plants, thy sons!
How great is the glory of thy banner!
Thy brightness our father, waxeth and increaseth
Over thy škinta and all the 'uthras!,
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith was blessed
The Pure Pearl, and she came and dwelt in the generations.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith were blessed
The Three Wellsprings of Radiance,
Whose light is lent to one another.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith is blessed
The fair [1] Radiance, whose like is not found
In the worlds and generations.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith was blessed
The pure Kimṣa [2] in which there is no fault
Or falsehood, from which 'uthras had being,
And from which polished mirrors appeared.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father,
With that blessing wherewith
A Mystic Emanation [3] was blessed,
And the Mystic Emanation blessed the Ether Earth [4]
And established the corporate forms [5] that dwelt therein.
Then thou shalt be blessed, our father.
With that blessing they bestowed
Upon the Cloud Šarat. And thee (likewise)
Will they come and bless: they will hymn thee and say to thee,
"O Son of Treasuries of Radiance! [6]
O Son of škinata [7] of the mighty (Life)

[1] The adjective indicates that which commands reverence and admiration, hence "holy", "fair", "valuable" and "important" are legitimate translations. In Mandaic it cannot be translated "heavy" in the literal sense.

[2] Kimṣa, see p. 119, n. 2.

[3] See p. 271, n. 2.

[4] The immaterial world is meant, a counterpart of the earth.

[5] 'Uṣṭunia.

[6] Or "thoughts of radiance".

[7] Here perhaps "indwellings of" etc.

O Son of banners erect (firmly set),
Who goest towards thy Father! Thou art steadfast 1),
Alterest not, nor changest aught
Of that which the Life hath given thee.
Evil (spirits) never held thee back!
Thou dost walk according to the word of the wicked.
Ruha was no enchantress 2) for thee (?)
Nor did she cast thee into her dark cauldrons!"
And Life is victorious over all works

[This prayer, for the blessed "priest's portion" (?) 3) is for a postulant, and the booth 4)(?), Parwanaiia, a book 5) and the Great Baptism. 6)]

Health, purity and forgiving of sins be there for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
Thy propitiatory gift shall provide thy portion.
For each one (for whom) thou didst intercede and help over,
And didst pile up 7) (gifts) here, Manda-ḏ-Hiia will lay up
A thousand thousand (gifts) in the world of light.
Thou wilt have joy of heart, ease of body and fulness of hand!
And thou shalt clothe with garments and cover with coverings 8);
Shalt break bread into fragments and set it in place,
Shalt recite masiqtas, celebrate Oblation and make ṭabuta (ritual meals).

1) This should be šarit, as translated and indicated by the context.

2) La huat lak ruha baznaqita D.C. 53 (437: penult.), D.C. 3 (306 : penult.) baznarita. "Ruha was not to thee an aznaqita". As a second meaning under זנק J. gives "to make a person's mouth water". Here perhaps "to make lovesick", or "desirous". This meaning fits Ruha's character as representing physical desires.

3) Hilita = (a) propitiatory gift, propitiation (b) a gift to the priest. (J. Pi. HLY "to make sweet by a gift", "propitiate"). See p. 113, n. 5.

4) Saka is a word used for the novice's booth. Gifts of money are given to the priests for the novice-priest.

5) A zidqa brika should be celebrated by the copyist on completing a holy book. A sheep is killed for a lofani in which he and those who commissioned the copying share.

6) Three hundred and sixty baptisms, necessary to expiate a serious pollution.

7) Amart (עמר) may have this meaning here as it is with nidgar.

8) I.e. perform the ceremony known as Ahaba ḏ-Mania, a zidqa brika performed for one who dies naked or in lay dress; a proxy wearing the rasta for the deceased.

Then strength, soundness and victory will be thine;
And goodness, beauty, repute, honour,
Glory, aid, speech and hearing; such as that
Which the Life, His Father, gave to Yawar and Tauriel.
And which Yawar and Tauriel bestowed on Hibil-Ziwa;
And Hibil-Ziwa came and blessed three 'uthras
And the three 'uthras blessed Adam and all his descendants.
With that blessing shalt thou be blessed, our father,
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.
Moreover, we bless thee for [1]) the Unique Great Sacred (Being)
Whose name is called "the great Mighty Mana (Mind)".
When He came into being, formed Himself in His own perfection,
Alone, in His škinta, for with Him there was no companion.
Then He, the Great Mighty Intelligence pondered
Within mighty inner Eggs that are hidden
And created Companionship for Himself.
In the beginning, He uttered a first cry [2])
And created four hundred and forty-four thousand 'uthras
And set them upon His right.
With his second Cry [2]) he created three hundred and sixty-six-Thousand [3]) 'uthras and set them at His left.
And at His third Cry he called into being
Twenty-four thousand 'uthras and set them
Before Himself. And He clothed them in His radiance
And covered them with His light;
And placed upon their heads outflowings [4]) of Radiance and light
And created for them wreaths in the likeness of
His (own) wreath, the Great Mighty Mana's.
He placed in their hands a staff of living water
And established in their right hand
The holy handclasp of troth [5]).
He spoke with his pure mouth
And blessed them with his honest tongue
And with faithful lips of radiance, light and glory.

[2]) Qrita = "a calling-forth", "a creation"; "a cry".
[3]) A gloss in D.C. 53 has "and six".
[4]) Ṭaufia lit. "overflowings".
[5]) The act of kušṭa.

He created habitations (škinata) [1] for them
And drew down jordans of living water for them
And said to them, "Ye shall rejoice and be glad
In your škinata [1], like a jordan (river)of living water
Your consort [2] will resemble the Cloud [3] (divine Spouse)
From which ye came into existence,
And your perfume and sweet odour like the fragrance [4] of 'uthras.
And a škinta was created: it was founded, it was, it appeared
Of itself. It was a great Canopy (or pavilion?)
For the Great Unique Holy One,
A canopy of radiance, light and glory
Which was all eyes.
In the (eyes? . . . . [5]))
It stretched out before Him, so that
It doth not reveal to them, the 'uthras, His appearance.
Then the Great Mighty Intelligence (Mana) planned and created
Vast and pure worlds of light.
Jordans He deployed, He made škinata [1])
Installed [6] 'uthras and appointed ašgandia [7]
Chief of these (ašgandia) envoys before Him
Was Adakas, "the Great Word" is his name;
For he is a "go-between", taking out [8] praise,
Blessing, prayer, heedfulness and enlightenment [9].
And them he giveth and he bestoweth on the jordan
His blessing. So the 'uthras arise, worship his name
And praise his title: they do not oppose his calling (name)
For he, (as) the ašganda (envoy), receiveth the praise of the 'uthras
And conveyeth it into the presence of the Great Mighty Mana
And layeth it up in His treasure-house.
Then those seven-hundred and seventy-eight thousand 'uthras,
Who were created by the Second Cry of the Life, will bless thee.

[1] Or "sanctuaries" the word has its customary vagueness!

[2] Or "companion"?

[3] "Spouse"? See p. 37, n. 4.

[7] The Akkadian aš-gan-du meaning "Messenger", "ambassador" conveys the meaning of a "go between", "an envoy" and ašganda here is exactly that: "an intermediary", a "go-between".

[8] D.C. 3 mafaq.

[9] Or, "glory and vigilance".

By Them, and from those 'uthras one 'uthra was singled out,
Younger than his brethren and older than his fathers.
They assigned to him [1] his name, "Mahzian [2]-the-Word,"
That is Yuzaṭaq [3] Manda-ḏ-Hiia is his name —
And he gave them prayer and praise, (so as)
To furnish the 'uthras in the Divine Presence [4]
With praise (befitting) the worship
Of their Father, the Great, Mighty Mana.
And a messenger came to them, an envoy from the Presence
Of their Father, the Great Mighty Mana, (saying)
"The 'uthras' prayer is acceptable [5] in the Presence
Of your Father, and your prayer fitting
In the eyes of [6] the Chief of Envoys,
The Messenger who came to Mahzian-the-Word,
To rectify the rites of 'uthras, (to purge them)
From fault and to put in order the worlds of light".
Then the great Mighty Mana, when summoning Manda-ḏ-Hiia
From His left, seated him on His right,
And pronounced blessing on him and made him —
— The younger brother, more reverend than his parents —
Made him ruler over mighty and celestial worlds of light,
Over jordans and running streams
And over all dwellings, in order to regulate and to station
The 'uthras in their (appointed) places.
And by his brother-'uthras he is called "the Capable".
Manda-ḏ-Hiia called three 'uthras and blessed them.
And he summoned his elder brother Hibil-Ziwa
And clothed him with his radiance
And covered him with his light and shed on him
Some of his glory, and held him (by the hand)
In the presence of the great and mighty Mana,
And said to him "At thy command have I summoned him,
And I wish to send him to the worlds of darkness,
To the powers of Siniawis, the under-world".
The great Mighty Mana blessed Hibil-Ziwa,

Gave him lofty strength and aid.
And Hibil-Ziwa said "I will come,
And with me will come Habšaba (Sunday)
And Kana-d-Zidqa. With me will come lofty strength
And help: with me will come sixty-six jordans,
And within each jordan nine hundred and ninety-nine
Škinata. And in each škinta
Fifty thousand 'uthras will dwell!"
With that blessing thou art blessed, our father,
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam! Moreover the mystic
Well-ordered and well-ordering Mana will bless thee,
And the hidden (unseen) and watchful 'uthras will bless thee,
For their names abide in the secret and guarded place
The radiance of which burneth and its light
Was set up for all the 'uthras of the Ether-world.
They acknowledge and praise it and the Great Life also
Who is concealed in praise (addressed) to Itself [1]) (?).
Praised be all generations of living beings
Which issue therefrom and exist and praise
That mystic Intelligence, and the Radiance which burneth,
And the Light set up in the great Presence of primal Glory
In the Place where They sit, speak and are obeyed.
(Yea), concerning everything that Ye have planned,
Word came, and was obeyed in each aerial world!
So also shalt thou speak and be heard, our father!
Thou wilt ask, and it will be answered thee
By that mystic and (all-) arranging Intelligence,
For all that He planneth cometh into being.
For He made, and establisheth before Him,
Sixty worlds of light: when He spoke there came into being
The 'uthras of the Ether-world, with their mysteries
And their own speech.
And then the mystic Intelligence, who giveth to every individual
Strength and glory, appointed an 'uthra,
An organizer, a great and lofty teacher of Truth,
A pleasing being, an Enlightener,
And He set him up as chief of all the 'uthras,
And granted him speech and hearing so that

[1]) Or meaning perhaps addressed to the Mana?.

He speaketh with him and he heareth Him,
And He gave him dominion, and (granted him)
To speak and be heard, from yonder radiance[1] unto the depths of the earth.
With that blessing thou shalt be blessed, our father
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam.
Moreover, the Tree Ṣṭarwan[2] shall bless thee,
From which proceeded wreaths of radiance,
Light and glory for the Great mighty Mana.
Then that supreme Vine shall bless thee,
That which was revealed from below the First Vine Ruaz[3].
It came to the earth (world) of Tarwan
And Nṣab gave it to Tauriel-'Uthra
Who extended it over the Ether-earth.
And he made gushings forth of water
And made it flow to the world
Of sons of Perfection.
Then the First Life will bless thee,
And the Second Life will bless thee;
Manda-ḏ-Hiia will bless thee
And the pure Yušamin[4] will bless thee.
All the 'uthras of the world of light will bless thee;
Sons of Perfection will bless thee;
Šilmay and Nedbay will bless thee;
Hibil, Šitil and Anuš will bless thee;
Abathur of the Scales will bless thee;
The Place that is all radiance and beams of light
Will bless thee. Those who are covered
With holy and well-kept garments will bless thee.
Radiant beings, lights and beams of light will bless thee,
And 'uthras, škinata and jordans.
Vigilance will bless thee, and the praise-giving
In which all 'uthras shine. Holy, predestinate,
Calm and perfected *mana*s will bless thee,
And the Fellowship which existeth in the škinata will bless thee,

And which they worship and praise.
It created Ether, (It) created 'uthras for Itself,

And dwellings (škinata) and lovely *mana*s
Proceeded from It. It will bless thee,
That sublime Ether, from which there came to life 7)
A living flame. And it is incorporated in all 'uthras
And (in?) all that exists. Its name in secret and its appelation

The great body (corporation) of Piriawis will bless thee:
The Treasurer of the world of light will bless thee
And the pure mountain the radiance of which shineth forth
And its light flameth, will bless thee.
All these names will bless thee, our father,
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam!
Moreover, thou wilt be blessed with the blessing
Pronounced in the Jordan and in the land of Hauraran,
The great land of light. And upon thee shall rest
Its glory and joy, that which abideth in the Innermost [2]).
On account [3]) of its magnificence they rejoice, embrace one another
And take one another's hands in troth [4]).
Thy fragrance will be sweet like the scent
Of trees of the world of light. Thy brightness
Will break forth and thy light shine out
In the earthly world like flashings of radiance,
And beams of light, going forth to bring into existence
And illumine a thousand thousand
And eight hundred and eighty-eight thousand myriads
Of mighty and celestial worlds of light.
Thou wilt arise in the name of Life
And wilt walk in the road of the upright.
Mighty ones, sitting in glory, the living,

[2]) Status constructus of giuta is unexpected, as the sentence ends here. It was probably suggested to the writer by the frequent expression giwat 'qara, especially as 'qara occurs in the following line.

[4]) Freely translated; i.e., perform the kušṭa rite.

Will ask about thee, and living (souls) will discuss thee
With praise of the Mighty Life.
Filled with glory will thy heart be,
And its joy rightly directed.
And thou wilt ask and wilt find
In the presence of the Great Life,
Thou wilt speak and thou wilt be heard
In the name of Yukabar-Kušṭa.
And thy fame will be the fame of the Life
And thy renown will be the renown of Yukabar-Kušṭa.
And thine appearance will be (like unto)
The appearance of mighty 'uthras, sons of light.
Thou wilt be made great with the greatness of Manda-ḏ-Hiia.
On earth thou wilt be as one of the 'uthras,
And on earth thou wilt be named as
One of the men (who were) the first Chosen Elect.
Thou wilt be great and lofty, (they will ascribe to thee?)
Fame and (good) taste, (name thee) head of the age,
And thou wilt be a father of honour, who provideth
His friends and the elect and the distinguished,
With viaticum, (thou wilt be one) who appointeth
'Uthras in their place and helpers of the Chosen
Whose Signs were taken from the jordan.
(Thou wilt be) the support of the discerning
Who discern with their minds;
The helping hand of the perfect
Who, from first to last, establish perfection.
The guide of sons loving the fellowship of Life,
The deliverer of the righteous who are (True) graftings [1]) from the Stem of Life.
Thy perfume, our father, is fragrant; thine appearance
Is effulgent and giveth out light.
Thy presence giveth joy.
Thou makest thy conversation alien to[2]) the worlds (the worldly) (?)
And thine actions we will make wholly fair and bright.
Thy speech will delight and be pleasing
And will resemble (that of) the worlds of life.

[1]) Lit. "who are planted from the stock (or stem) of Life".

And thy words be like radiance, light and glory.
Thou wilt seek an earthly dwelling:
Thou wilt ask for and tread out roads to the Place of Light.
Manda-ḏ-Hiia will set up for thee a kana ḏ-zidqa
And a Table in thine own house, our father.
And thy basket, so that it is filled with bread,
And thy cup, so that it is filled with mambuga [1])
And thy Table he will set up.
Thou wilt gather together friends,
Wilt satisfy the hungry and refresh souls.
Then came the glory of Life! It will rest on thee
And the Likeness of the Great (Life) will protect thee
From all that is hateful.
Thy radiance will shine forth with the sun,
Thine effulgence with the moon and thy glittering
With the stars. Thy strength will be like
(The strength of) the waters,
Thy pleasantness like (that of) pure air [2]).
And thy glory like fire.
All the planets and the Twelve Gates [3])
That look on thee will bow themselves before thee.
Care will remove itself from thy heart
And sighing from thy thought. Thou wilt have
Joy of heart, wilt speak and be heard,
Wilt ask, and there will be granted thee
The strength of gods, with the command of angels.
Thou wilt seek in the day and find by night.
We will confirm thy speech in thy mouth
And will set up thy throne in majesty.
Thou wilt be the companion of the perfect
And friend of the righteous and believing.
The words of thy mouth will bring thee victory
And thy good fortune will rejoice thee.
Thou wilt act and succeed, wilt be on trial
And be vindicated; wilt strive and wilt attain.
Thy strength will be that of the storm-wind:

Thy race will multiply (spread) like the waters.
And — however long thine existence in the body — [1]
No illness, sickness, pain, blemish, wound
Or (other) plague of the planets will reach thee
Or get the mastery (over thee), our father.
Great is thy blessing! Nevertheless, I (too) have blessed thee
With a mouth of flesh! Manda-ḏ-Hiia blessed thee
With a pure mouth. I have blessed thee with a tongue of flesh:
Manda-ḏ-Hiia blessed thee with a true tongue of praise.
I have blessed thee with lips of flesh,
But Manda-ḏ-Hiia with faithful [2] lips of radiance,
Light and glory.
When thou bearest him to the earth [3]
And mentionest thy fathers [4] at thy time and moment,
When thy measure (of years) is accomplished,
In a blessed old age when thou hast become
A greybeard full of honours and blessing,
We will bring thee into a state of peace.
One will set forth towards thee to set (thee) free,
Adakas-Mana, thy father[5]. And he will take thee
Out (of the body) upon a road in which there is no heat,
Or trembling or quaking. He will pass thee over
The watch-houses of the planets and thy brightness
Will shine out over the purgatories
Until fear cometh upon those purgatory-dwellers
And guilty (souls) and (those) who have pined away (there [6]).
From their purgatories they will plead for thy favour
And will say "How great is the radiance, how mighty the light
Of the elect righteous being who passeth over us!"
And thou wilt free and bear away with thee

In the name of the Life!
I worship, praise and laud that great mystic First Jordan
From which there was praisegiving,
And its brightness inspired the 'uthras.
From it living waters came into being
And its light reinforced all light-beams.
From it resulted the enlightement of the 'uthras:
In it they rejoice, and from it a wellspring of radiance
Came into being. From it, fruits, grapes and trees
Came to life; from it pihta (bread) derived its existence.
And it was broken and given to the One Great First Mana.
And He, the Great First Mana was invigorated thereby[3]
And worlds of light, 'uthras and all škinata
Refresh themselves therewith,
Exist (live) and flourish.
And they worship and give praise.
Glory, serenity[4] and delight come upon them;
They rejoice, are glad, laugh and make merry,
Exult and disport themselves.
And on thee (too), our great, lofty and respected father,
Glory, bliss, perception and felicity will rest.
Yea, that jordan will bless thee

And good things (food) will abound and be plentiful
In thy house. Thy strength here on earth will be firm,
And yonder, in the worlds of light like (that of)
The great First Mana.
Thou shalt have speech and hearing;
Thou wilt speak and be heard.
Thou wilt call thy brother-priests here on earth
And they will answer thee. There, thou wilt call on
'Uthras and they will answer thee.
Here on earth thou shalt have assurance
Because two of Kušṭa's witnesses stand in thy presence,
Seeing and noting what thou doest and what thou thinkest
Day after day and hour by hour.
Yonder, thou wilt be accounted as one of the 'uthras.
Life will joy in thee and the 'uthras will hymn thee
And say to thee [2]
"Thou wast from the First Jordan, our father!
From a Stock of great brilliance
Did they call thee forth! Ninṣab clothed thee in vestments of water,
Tunics of righteousness cover thee.
On thy head he set a wreath, a wreath of praise,
For 'uthras and škinata are twined[3] into the leaves of thy wreath."
Moreover the Great Unique Sacred One [4] will bless thee,
Whose throne they set up at the kana ḏ-zidqa.
He measureth [5] the pious offering of each individual
And according to his works, He recompenseth him.
He delighteth in the Chosen Elect and bestoweth raiment of light.
And four Beings, Sons of perfection, bless thee,
They who guard treasures of life and confer
Garments of radiancy on the elect who dwell in the world.

[1] Utnafšat in both texts. Either "was great", "increased", or perhaps "refreshed"?

[2] D.C. 3 [323 : 9 inserts before nimarlak (read nimarulak?)] Probably a miscopying.

[3] A play on words, mitgadlia also means "glorified".

[4] See p. 292. He is identified with the Mana Rba Kabira and with Adakas.

[5] D.C. 53 is defective here: D.C. 3 (323 : antpenult.) has ukaiil zidqa ḏ 'niš 'niš.

It is they who make abundant [1] thine oblation and thy Table
Which is set before thy brother-priests.
All thy brother-priests gather about thee
And open their mouths, all of them, in a loud voice,
With acclamation, prayer and praise, they bless thee,
Hymn thee and say to thee, "All that thou doest will be rightly ordered:
All thy vines [2] will give light,
And in all thy works there will be nought lacking or in fault.
And some of the blessing of the mighty First Life
Will rest upon thee."
And Life is victorious.

381

Darkness is crushed back into the Dark [3]:
Light is established in its place.
Life hath accepted your prayer
And 'uthras have received your praise,
In the name of Šarhabiel, the First Great Radiance,
To support the Great Mana at His Place;
And to uphold the hands of good people.
There shall be healing (power) of Life
And blessing upon this kana ḏ-zidqa and thy Table,
Our father, Adam-Yuhana, son of Sam!
We establish thy consecration [4] (as ganzibra)
And thy confirmer [5] ratifieth thy consecration
In the world of light. And thy confirmer is sinless,
Thine advent is [6] with sinless ones [7] and thy confirmer sinless.
Come! as (one) fulfilled, deemed worthy, and established
In future honour and ample blessing.

---

[1] Ninifšuia (or, perhaps, "inspire with life thine oblation"?).

[2] By "vines," the ganzibra's pupils, postulants to priesthood or his sons, are meant.

[3] See prayer 103, p. 102, n. 1.

[4] Tarṣa, taraṣa (lit. a "setting-up") is a ceremony of dedication or consecration, e.g. of the cult-hut before a masiqta, of the "crown" when set on the head of a new priest, and of a ganzibra newly appointed to office.

[5] Mqaimana here is the celebrant at the service of consecration of the new ganzibra. He must himself be a ganzibra.

[6] Or "induction", his coming as ganzibra.

[7] Ritually clean priests and head priest.

He will be possessor of fee and alms [1] (flowing like)
The great rill of Water of Life which was drawn down (hither)
And came from its Place. Tauriel-'uthra drew down to earth
(Those waters) which come and come; come and cease not;
They are never cut off, or lacking, or deficient.
(In like manner) this kana ḏ-zidqa and Table
Shall never lack or be wanting in thy house,
Adam-Yuhana son of Sam, our father,
For an age of ages and for ever.
And Life is victorious over all works!

[Then they shall set up the table [2] of Blessed Oblation in (on) the altar-table [3]. And when they finish the dedicatory prayer [4] the ganzibra takes the phial of wine [5] and reciteth the hymn "Vines shone in the water", and he poureth [6] (the wine) into the drinking-bowl and giveth it to the baruka [7] and the two witnesses.]

382

In the Name of the Great Life!
Vines shone in the waters:
Mighty ones were confirmed [8]
For perfecting, for clearing the waters,
Establishing Your likeness and giving us light
Let your radiance shine upon us, great 'uthras!
Shine, shine forth, come in mystic transfiguration [9],

---

[1] Agra uzidqa, "reward and oblation" i.e. fees received by priests for their services, and offerings in kind and money brought to them by the faithful.

[2] As I have seen this rite, I can explain the nature of "table" here. It is the earthen tray, or small earthen altar-table (tariana) on which the ritual food is laid out.

[3] The larger altar-table (tariana) on which the smaller (see n. 2) is placed.

[4] Qaiamta.

[5] Water in which grapes or raisins have been macerated.

[6] (Cf. Hif הירייק).

[7] The priest who has recited the foregoing prayers of blessing for a ganzibra.

[8] This prayer (given in another form in Studi e Testi 176, p. 64) is hopelessly garbled. D.C. 3 (326 : 7) has (for lka lhil in the latter) lkalḫ (D.C. 53 divides the word on two lines.) My translation in Š. ḏ-Q. was governed by the variations. Hence for mitqaiam which here obviously refers to the elevation of the ganzibra, I had "were established" (here). See also Prayer 177.

[9] bhilfa kasia. In the Š. ḏ-Q. I translated "instead of concealing it". I think the translation given above may be the truer, but the whole prayer is obscure.

Let your radiance shine forth and the radiance of the king.
Let your fragrance come and overpower (us with its sweetness)

[This hymn the ganzibra shall pronounce over the wine-bowl, giving it to the baruka (blesser) and to the two witness.]

383

In the name of the Great Life!
On the day that Hibil-Ziwa
Walked with Yawar,
Myrtle with them was plentiful, [1]
Plentiful was the myrtle,
And to Yawar he gave it,
Into his right hand.
And he said to him,
"Take from me fresh myrtle
And pronounce blessing in the škinata
Its blessing pronounce in the škinata.
Then Yawar opened his mouth,
Blessing Hibil-Ziwa, blessing Hibil-Ziwa
And said to him, "Blessed art thou,
Our father, Hibil-Ziwa!
Like the myrtle that is in thy right hand
Thy Root shall flourish
Like the root of fresh myrtle:
And thou shalt have strength and increase
Like the living waters"[2].

[The "blessers" recite this hymn and give myrtle to the ganzibra].

384

Myrtle, myrtle! The king took it;
The king was surrounded by the perfume of myrtle,
The king was surrounded by myrtle-perfume,
And blessing Hibil-Ziwa,
He said, blessing Hibil-Ziwa,
"Blessed art thou, our father Hibil-Ziwa,
Who hast brought this plant of fresh myrtle
And hast set it up in the dwellings of 'uthras.

---

[1] There is a characteristic play of words on the two meanings of SGA.

[2] There are variants of the myrtle-hymns: I translated some in Studi e Testi, 176, p. 65.

The dwellings shine in its brightness
And delight in its fragrance for ever [1]).

[The ganzibra recites this hymn and taketh the myrtle from the "blessers".]

385

In the name of the Great Life!
All who inhale thy perfume and are crowned [2]) by thee
Sixty heinous sins will fall away from him.
And all pure spouses will be made perfect, [3])
Delivered from evil actions.
(Those) who twine the wreaths and set them on our heads [4])
Will arise without spot and behold the Place of Light.

(The ganzibra reciteth this prayer over the myrtle, [5]) inhaleth its fragrance and giveth it to the šganda (acolyte) to smell, and to the "blessers" and all persons present; then he throweth the myrtle into the jordan and (folds and) putteth away the banner. And (then) they "honour their crowns.") [6])

Note. — Here D. C. 3 p. 328 has a colophon which begins: —

These are the prayers for the pihtania (breads) and all the blessings of the Blessed Oblation which I copied for my brothers and parents so that there may be support and a guardian for us on earth and forgiving of sins before the Life, my Parents, in the worlds of light, so that they may be instructed therein. I am poor, lowly... etc.

(Note. — Before No. 386 D.C. 3 inserts "In the name of the Great Life! On the day that Radiance appeared" etc. Prayer No. 414, p. 316).

[1]) See the variation, op. cit. p. 66.

[2]) D.C. 3 (327 : ult.) ubgauak mitkarak; D.C. 53 (468 : 1) ubgauak mitkarkia. For the rendering "crowned" (certainly applicable here) see p. 230, n. 4.

[3]) D.C. 3 (328 : 2) mištalmibak; D.C. 53 (468 : 2) mištalman, (fem).

[4]) D.C. 3 (328 : 4) ubrišaian; D.C. 53 (468 : 3) brišaiia.

[5]) These myrtle prayers and the ritual inhalation recall the Persian barsom rite. Its perfume was apparently inhaled ritually and was also a symbol of kingliness as appears in the Shahnameh (Shāhnāmeh, ed. Sa'id Nafīsī, Teherān, 1914, vol. 9, p. 2995, 1.496 ff.). In this passage the king asks for barsom when food is offered: "food should be taken (only) when barsom is there". His request for barsom reveals that he is the king and results in his death.

[6]) I.e., take off their "crowns" and kiss them, see p. 28, n. 3.

See Prayer No. 329.

(The rubric differs slightly, so I give it)

[This is a hymn for consecration of crowns on the Sunday when the ganzibra wishes to consecrate the cotton crowns for the priests. Wearing his vestments, with the (novice's) vestments and the crowns in his right hand and his staff in his left, he goes to the bank of the jordan, grasping the crowns which he wishes to consecrate together with his own in his right hand. Then, after performing ritual ablution in the jordan, he approaches the cult-hut and examines each (item) of the vestments, and recites the 'Salutation' at the Door of Mercies (i.e. facing North), to (as many) kings as he is able. After that he shall recite this hymn once over each crown. And Life is victorious!]¹)

In the Name of the Great Life!

Health, victory and forgiving of sins be there for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš, who have prayed this prayer and (these) Devotions. Forgiving of sins be there for a man whose eyes wait upon his Father and whose thought is directed to the Life and whose mind doth not stray from Knowledge-of-Life.

Poor am I who make this petition: a lowly man who hath kept aloof from the Seven. And I say "O Lord of the lofty firmament, (O) Being who accepteth request, receive my prayer and my praise here; guide it with Thy directing (power), grant me a place in Thy Place, give me a dwelling in Thy world. Do not question me about my sins and the burden which hath weighed down my soul in this world. Behold me, who have sought purification before Thee! Look on me, who have borne persecution for Thy name! End for me acts of violence, for I am Thy servant and Thy child. Now I humble myself and my children to Thy name, for I have been true to Thy name, and speak (it) in my heart and talk (of it) in my mind. And I subdue my form and my loins, (O) .... 1) superior to all glories, before the pure Light which is above all lights.

And I say, "O Lord of gleaming banners, Lord of mystic books, Lord of "Letters-of-Truth" 2). Lord of prayer and praise, He who uplifteth the prayer of 'uthras and sponsors the praisegiving of kings, Support of prayerful thoughts! Let there be strength and constancy for all lovers of Thy name! Look upon me with Your eyes and pity me in Your heart! Support me with Your strength, clothe me with Your glory, cover me with Your light. Cut me me not off from Yourself! And put far from me fear, dread and terror of the seven stars and the twelve constellations: deliver me from the hands of the wicked, and loosen my feet from the bonds of death. Cut me not off from Your presence. Arm me against all that is evil: be for me a bulwark against rebels and a Hand of Truth against the destructive powers of this world. Turn away, repulse

1) Šihrialia šilia? Šihrialia = "rulers", "governors", as plural might be read as "(Divine) Ruler". Šilia might be the plural of šilta = "need", "want", "desire". Obscure.

2) A reference to the rite for the dying. Preceded by a form of immersion (the "proven Sign") the ceremony of "The Letter" or the Letter of Kušṭa is performed, during which a phial of oil is placed in the pocket of the ritual dress, and a ritual handclasp (kušṭa) is given to the dying or his proxy.

from me insecurity[1] (?), poverty, ill-luck, lack of sleep and hours of agitation, an evil day and blows (onslaughts) which occur all the time. Be to me Life in life; give me to drink of freshly-flowing Water of Life. Set up for me a kana ḏ-zidqa, a Table and good fortune so that they are fully supplied[2] by Naṣirutha. And my brethren will be with me and will provide (me with) a peaceful transplanting[3]: my wife, my plants (children), and my priests shall accomplish it.

I shall depart and come towards You after a (ritually) perfect departure (death), with pure oil[4], and with the proven Sign; in ripeness of years[5], without feebleness[6], in a blessed old age, in my own home[7].

Look on the plants, marvel at the šualania (those entering the priesthood under tuition); then let there be with You a forgiver of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš who have prayed this prayer and these "Devotions". Forgiveness of sins be there for me, for my father and mother, for my teacher, for my wife, for my offspring, for my priests and for all souls who arose at the name of Life and verified the sign of Manda-ḏ-Hiia with pious and believing heart.

Yea, Life, verily Life, life with the victorious there shall be for those love Their name! They will not sever the holy union knit between living ones, with those who know the Life and believe in the Life, and with those who teach us the faith. And Life abideth in Its Dwellings and Life is victorious over all works!

And now (I ask) of Life, Your compassion, Your forgiveness, Your reconciliation[8] and Your compassion, Yours, Great First Life! Pity, forgive, awake and have compassion upon this my soul, mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnuš who have prayed this prayer and these "Devotions". Let there be forgiveness of sins for me! (thrice); for me and for my father, my mother, my teacher, my wife and my wife and my plants (children) and my priests who have placed bread and (ritual) food [1] (here), (and) you, my fathers, my teachers, my instructors and those who taught me the faith, when ye supported me from the Left to the Right. Forgiveness of sins be there for you!

[2] This is the great Commemoration prayer known as the "Our forefathers". It is usually preceded by the Ṭab ṭaba lṭabia prayer as in prayer 170. It is recited at every rite for the departed.

[3] Nöldeke suggested "End" for kimṣa (root KMṢ), noting that 'k' and 'q' are often interchangeable. Lidzbarski doubted this interpretation (see J.B. p. 192, n. 1) and in his note to Prayer 126 (M.L. p. 192, n. 1) suggested an "Ort im Jenseits". In Prayer 126 I translated the word "a formation", "taking shape" etc. The word is of a very nebulous meaning. See p. 119, n. 2.

[2]) The union of wreath and crown is symbolical of marriage.

[3]) The hymn is for the marriage of a priest.

Note. On Names

In Mandaean literature spirits, angels, demons, and persons are given names denoting abstract qualities, activities, virtues, vices and so on. The abstract nature of the divine First Cause is divested further of any tinge of anthropomorphism by use of a plural form: It is named Hiia, from the verbal root HIA "to exist"; hence it means "existence", "life". To this appellation are attached such adjectives as "First", "Second", "Third", "mighty", "majestic" and "multiform".

Abstract qualities of varied shades of related meaning are covered by the name Kušṭa, a personification of "truth", "pact", "sincerity", "good faith"; whilst category or species is personified in such names as Adam—"man", "mankind" and Anuš "humanity" "human being".

It is not always possible to discover the original meaning of a name. Most, indeed all of them, derive from a verbal root, or from a substantive. The suffix 'il or 'iil (corresponding to the "iel" of angel-names in English) is often attached to such names, for instance, RHM Rham'il "to love"; Tauri'il (ṭaura, a bull); Nuri'il (nura, fire); Gadfi'il (gadfa, wing) and Gabri'iil (gabra, male, man). In magical texts angel and devil-names are legion. In the Canonical Prayers they are comparatively few.

Einleitung.

Die Mandäer sind die einzige gnostische Sekte, die bis zum heutigen Tage, wenn auch in geringen Resten, fortlebt. Diesem Umstande haben wir es zu verdanken, daß sich ihre religiösen Schriften erhalten haben und wir sie mehr als die anderen Sekten aus ihren eigenen Schriften kennen. Neben Werken lehrhaften Inhaltes sind liturgische Sammlungen vorhanden. Im Mittelpunkte des Kultus steht bei ihnen die Taufe und die Feier im Augenblicke, wo die Seele vom Körper scheidet, beim „Aufstieg", ihre Totenmesse. Die beiden Liturgien sind in einem Werke vereinigt, von dem schon früh Handschriften nach Europa gelangt sind. Diese Sammlung ist im vorliegenden Bande an erster Stelle mitgeteilt.

In den Nachschriften der Abschreiber wird das Ritual „Lieder und Hymnen für die Taufe und den Aufstieg" genannt. Daneben findet sich die Bezeichnung „Seelenbuch" (vgl. p. 3, n. 1) und Qolastā. Dieses Wort, das arabische خُلَاصَة, bedeutet „Quintessenz, Auslese" und findet sich auch sonst als Bezeichnung für Sammlungen religiöser Lieder. Der Name hat sich aber für die vorliegende Sammlung eingebürgert, und ich habe ihn auch hier beibehalten.

Im Jahre 1867 hat Euting nach Pariser und Londoner Handschriften das Werk mitgeteilt. Der Inhalt war ihm halb verschlossen, und so beschränkte er sich darauf, eine Handschrift autographisch nachzuzeichnen und aus den anderen die Varianten mitzuteilen. Er hatte während der Arbeit die Pariser Handschriften vor sich, und es scheint, daß seine Wiedergabe bis auf die Buchstaben und Buchstabengruppen, die er nicht auseinanderhalten konnte, zuverlässig ist. Nach dem von Euting vorgelegten Material suchte ich hier einen Text herzustellen. Da in Deutschland keine mandäischen Typen vorhanden sind und eine Autographie nicht in Betracht kam, gab ich den Text in hebräischer Umschreibung. Bei der Herstellung des Textes befolgte ich dieselben Gesichtspunkte, nach denen ich das „Johannesbuch“ herausgegeben habe. Ich suchte von den gegebenen Lesungen die beste aus, eigene setzte ich selten ein. Ich gab diese gewöhnlich in den Anmerkungen; wo sie in den Text aufgenommen sind, kennzeichnete ich sie durch einen Stern.

Das Buch zerfällt in vier Teile. Der erste Teil enthält das Ritual für die Taufe, der zweite das Ritual für die Totenmesse, aber so, daß die Stücke 1—6 des ersten Teiles mit zu diesem gehören. Der dritte Teil enthält drei längere Gebete, die bei der Taufe und der Totenmesse gesprochen werden. Sie werden auch in den sonstigen Ritualen oft angeführt. Der vierte Teil bietet wiederum Lieder und Hymnen, die teils bei der Taufe (78—90), teils bei der Totenmesse (91—103) rezitiert werden.

Die einzelnen Stücke der Rituale sind sicherlich zu sehr verschiedenen Zeiten entstanden, aber bei unserer Unkenntnis der Geschichte der Mandäer ist es nicht möglich, sie irgendwie zeitlich zu fixieren. Über die älteste Geschichte der Rituale finden sich in dem Werke Angaben (vgl. p. 60 und 120). Selbstverständlich wurde schon in ältester Urzeit nach ihnen verfahren (p. 54, 120). Das Taufritual soll aus einem Werke „Die große Quelle“, die Totenmesse aus dem „Buch des Gaddānā“ genommen sein. Wir wissen von jener Quelle und diesem Gaddānā sonst nichts[1]). Auch die sonstigen Angaben über die ersten Abschreiber helfen uns nicht, da wir von diesen Personen nichts wissen. Dieselbe Herleitung findet sich auch bei anderen Ritualen.

Auch die Handschriften des Qolastā enthalten lange Mitteilungen der Abschreiber über ihre Vorgänger. Über den Wert dieser Angaben siehe Joh., p. IX; ich habe sie hier weggelassen.

An zweiter Stelle ist die liturgische Sammlung in der ausgezeichneten Handschrift der Bodleiana zu Oxford Marsh. 691 mitgeteilt. Die Handschrift ist bei PAYNE-SMITH, Catalogi Codicum Manuscr. Bibliothecae Bodleianae Pars VI, Codices Syriacos etc. complectens, Oxonii 1864, col. 648, s. n. 205 genannt. Sie stammt aus dem Jahre 936 d. H. (siehe p. 277) und ist die älteste der uns bekannten mandäischen Handschriften. Sie ist hier als A bezeichnet.

An der Spitze steht die Liturgie für die Tagesgebete, dann die besonderen Gebete für die einzelnen Tage der Woche. Dieser Teil ist auch in einer jungen, schlechten Handschrift enthalten, die DE MORGAN aus Babylonien mitbrachte, und die in schlechter photolithographischer Reproduktion[1]) in seinen Textes mandaïtes (hier B) mitgeteilt ist. Doch ist in ihr der Anfang erhalten, der in der Oxforder Handschrift fehlt. Der größte Teil findet sich auch in der Pariser Handschrift Code Sabéen 15 (hier C), vgl. ZOTENBERG, Catalogues des manuscrits syriaques et sabéens (mandaïtes), p. 229, s. n. 15.

Das zweite Buch enthält Lieder für die Hochzeitsfeier. Eine vollständigere Sammlung findet sich in den Pariser Handschriften Codes sabéens 15 und 25. Die letztere Handschrift gelangte nach der Abfassung von ZOTENBERG's Catalogue nach Paris. Sie ist ganz jung; sie stammt aus dem Jahre 1285 d. H. (Anf. 24. Apr. 1868). Sie ist hier als D bezeichnet. Einige Stücke finden sich auch in einer mit C zusammengebundenen kleinen Handschrift (hier E).

Das dritte Buch enthält Teile einer Sammlung, die vollständig in den beiden Pariser Handschriften C und D enthalten ist. Die in A vorhandenen Stücke finden sich auch in E.

Das vierte Buch enthält Gebete für das „Banner", d. h. das Kreuz, das bei den kultischen Handlungen aufgestellt wird, vgl. Joh., S. 185⁴. Sie sind auch bei MORGAN erhalten.

Ich suchte in erster Linie die Oxforder Handschrift wiederzugeben. Da sie weit besser als die anderen ist, brauchte ich aus diesen nicht viele Lesungen in den Text aufzunehmen. Der Wert der einzelnen Teile der Sammlung ist ungleich. Am wertvollsten ist das erste Buch. Da das dritte Buch hier nur einen Teil der vollständigen Sammlung in den beiden Pariser Handschriften 15 und 25 enthält, erwog ich, ob ich nicht die ganze Sammlung mitteilen sollte, wie ich denn auch in das zweite Buch Stücke aus diesen Handschriften aufnahm. Aber nach reiflicher Prüfung schien mir die ganze Sammlung eine Herausgabe nicht zu verdienen. Andererseits hielt ich es für ratsam, die Oxforder Handschrift ganz zu geben[2]). Es ist wünschenswert, daß von dieser eine photographische Reproduktion veranstaltet werde; da wird das hier Gebotene den Schlüssel zu ihr bieten.

Einen großen Teil der in den Liturgien vorkommenden Wendungen und Benennungen habe ich im Kommentar zum „Johannesbuch" behandelt. Ich konnte daher auf die dortigen Ausführungen verweisen. Damit die Erklärung der Namen der Genien leichter gefunden werde, stellte ich die Namen mit ihren Erklärungen in alphabetischer Folge am Ende zusammen. Auch bei der Bear-beitung dieser Texte kam mir sehr zustatten, daß ich das gesamte handschriftliche Material aus der mandäischen Literatur verwerten konnte, das in europäische Bibliotheken gelangt ist. Der Göttinger Gesellschaft der Wissenschaften bin ich zu Dank verpflichtet, daß sie trotz der Schwierigkeit der Zeit und der hohen Kosten den Druck des Bandes übernommen hat.

Verse werden wohl allgemein in der Literatur als solche gekennzeichnet. Man trennt sie durch Absatz, Spatium oder besondere Zeichen ab. Dies gilt auch von der semitischen Poesie. Schon im alten Babylonien war es üblich, Verse in einer Zeile für sich zu schreiben, ja die Teile innerhalb des Verses durch Spatien zu kennzeichnen und die Strophen durch Striche von einander zu trennen. Wie die Mandäer keinerlei Interpunktion kennen, so werden bei ihnen auch poetische Stücke nicht von Prosa geschieden. Ursprünglich wird es wohl seitens der Dichter geschehen sein, aber die Abschreiber haben es später vernachlässigt. Das mandäische Schrifttum ist ja fast durchweg in gehobener Sprache geschrieben; Prosa und Dichtung sind in ihrem Inhalte nicht wesentlich verschieden. Wie im Alten Testament, so kann man auch bei manchem Erzeugnisse der mandäischen Literatur schwanken, ob man es der einen oder anderen Gattung zuschreiben soll. So verlernten es die mandäischen Abschreiber mit der Zeit, Prosa und Dichtung auseinanderzuhalten, und auch die europäischen Gelehrten haben bis jetzt eine Scheidung nicht versucht.

Die Poesie der Aramäer kennen wir erst aus später Zeit. Sehen wir von einer kurzen Grabschrift ab, die etwa im 5. Jahrh. vor Chr. in Ägypten entstanden und anscheinend in Versen geschrieben ist (CIS II, 141), so reicht unsere Kenntnis der aramäischen Poesie über das Syrische nicht hinaus. Die syrische Poesie ist christlich. Wir haben es nur einem Zufalle zu verdanken, daß zwei kleinere Dichtungen nichtchristlicher Herkunft uns erhalten sind. Es sind zwei in die Thomasakten eingefügte gnostische Lieder, die von Bardesanas oder eher aus seiner Schule herstammen. Einen gewissen Ersatz für das Verlorene bieten volkstümliche Lieder, die in der zweiten Hälfte des vorigen Jahrhunderts bei den nestorianischen Bauern in der assyrischen Ebene und den kurdischen Bergen aufgenommen wurden[1]). Es sind kleine Liedchen von 3—4 Zeilen zu drei Hebungen, die bei Hochzeiten gesungen werden. Die Sprecher sind teils Burschen, teils Mädchen. Er preist ihre körperlichen Vorzüge, ihre Kleider, ihren Schmuck, sie seine Tapferkeit, seine Waffen. Sieht man sich nun das erste der beiden gnostischen Lieder in den Thomasakten an, so ist man überrascht zu sehen, wie nahe es diesen kleinen Volksliedern steht. In jenem Gedichte wird die „Tochter des Lichtes“ als Braut gefeiert. Wie in den Bauernliedern werden ihre einzelnen Körperteile, ihre Gewänder beschrieben, das duftige Brautgemach, die Brautjungfern und Brautführer geschildert. Wahrscheinlich wurde schon früher eine volkstümlichere Göttin in ähnlicher Weise in Anlehnung an das Volkslied gefeiert. Es war wohl die Dea Syra, die Atargatis, die Hauptgöttin der Aramäer, deren Liebeleien auch Anknüpfungspunkte an das volkstümliche Liebeslied boten.

[1]) Vgl. SOCIN, Die neu-aramäischen Dialekte von Urmia bis Mosul, p. 127 ff.; LIDZBARSKI, Die neu-aramäischen Handschriften der Kgl. Bibliothek zu Berlin I, p. 394 ff., II, p. 327 ff.

Der Inhalt des mandäischen Hochzeitsrituals ist fast ganz religiös. Doch sind auch volkstümliche Liedchen eingefügt, die den Hochzeitsliedern der nestorianischen Bauern gleichen. Es sind Vierzeiler mit kurzen, dreihebigen Versen. Bei ihrem volkstümlichen Charakter, der vom Inhalt des sonstigen mandäischen Schrifttums stark abweicht, ist das Verständnis sehr schwierig. Auch die nestorianischen Lieder wären uns ja ohne die arabische Übersetzung zum größten Teil unverständlich. Ich teile hier einige aus den beiden Pariser Handschriften mit.

[1]) Var. משאילליא, „wenn sie mich ausfragen“.

[2]) Ein häufiger Eingang in diesen Liedern. Statt ראביתויא haben die Handschriften auch ראבאתויא, an einer Stelle ראבותיא. Die Erklärung der Form ist mir nicht sicher; vielleicht ist die Endung ויא hypokoristischer Art. Siehe auch Joh., S. 149⁶.

[3]) Die beiden Liedchen stehen zusammen, aber מאלכא ist im zweiten anders gedacht, als im ersten. Dort ist es, je nachdem das Gedicht auf türkischem oder persischem Gebiet entstanden ist, der Sultan oder der Schah, hier ist es der Bräutigam. Über den syrischen Bräutigam als König vgl. WETZSTEIN, Zeitschr. für Ethnologie V (1873), p. 288 ff. – Statt נהית Var. ניתיב „er setze sich an seinen Ort“.

Du Bräutigam, wer sagte dir,
wer zeigte dir die Wege,
daß du als Geschenke zu meinem Papa sandtest

Hibil küßte meinen Papa,

du sandtest Ezlath die Große,
daß sie mir den Ring an die Hand legten.

Daß Form und Inhalt dieser Lieder aus dem Norden entlehnt seien oder umgekehrt, ist nicht wahrscheinlich. Die Absonderung der Mandäer ist zu groß und reicht zu weit zurück. Dazu sind die mandäischen Lieder reimlos, während die nestorianischen durchweg gereimt sind. Der Reim ist innerhalb der syrischen Poesie jung und erst unter Einfluß der arabischen Dichtung eingeführt. In einer Hinsicht ist eine Verbindung freilich denkbar. Die Schiffer auf den Booten, die den Tigris befahren, sind Nestorianer aus dem Norden, vorwiegend aus Tell-Kēf. Sie hätten ja die Lieder nach dem Süden bringen können. Aber dieselbe Form des Liebesliedes finden wir auch im Hohen Liede. Wir dürfen hier also altes poetisches Gut annehmen, das über den Bereich der Aramäer hinausgeht[2]).

Wie bei den Syrern, so hat sich nun auch bei den Mandäern die religiöse Dichtung an das Volkslied angelehnt. Die Hochzeitslieder gehen schon ins Religiöse über, und die anderen Sammlungen enthalten kleine Gedichte rein religiösen Inhaltes, die in der Form jenen Hochzeitsliedern gleichen. Hier p. 150 f., 156, 159, 161 finden wir kleine Lieder dieser Art, außerdem seien aus dem linken Ginzā angeführt (p. 83, 102, 113):

[1]) Aus der religiösen Welt übernommen, vgl. p. 257, 9.

[2]) Natürlich können im Einzelnen die Stücke jung sein und sind es auch, wie die arabischen Wörter zeigen.

על שבילא קאימא נישימתא   ועל עותריא אמרא
לאיאדיתון עותריא אהאי   ד̄אנא בינאתאיכון דארית

Auf dem Wege steht die Seele

daß ich unter euch wohnte?“

למאליא ד̄אתית ודאריבה̄   בעצטונא נכילא באטלא
למאליא ד̄אתית ודאריבה̄   ד̄לאסאליק מינאי לאתאר נהור

Was frommt es mir, daß ich kam und wohnte im trügerischen, nichtigen Rumpfe?
Was frommt es mir, daß ich kam und in ihm wohnte,
wo er nicht mit mir zum Lichtort emporsteigt?

אלאנפיא דמות נאפיקנא   ודמותאי אלאנפאי נאפקא

Ich gehe meinem Abbild entgegen, und mein Abbild geht mir entgegen.
Es kost und umarmt mich,
wie wenn ich aus der Gefangenschaft käme.

Auch diese Lieder bestehen aus kurzen Versen zu drei Hebungen, von denen je zwei enger zusammengehören und zu einem Doppelverse vereinigt sind. Der Halbvers besteht in der Regel aus drei Wörtern, zu denen nur Wörter von geringerer Tonstärke treten. Dieser Vers ist der herrschende in der mandäischen Dichtung. Die beiden Halbverse hängen auch hier im Sinne enger zusammen, und der zweite ist gewöhnlich durch „und“ oder das Relativum ד̄ eingeführt. Daß der kurze akzentuierende Vers von drei Hebungen in weit auseinanderliegenden Gebieten im Volkslied erscheint, weist auf seine Ursprünglichkeit hin, und er hat sich wohl im Volkslied an einen Dreischritt-Tanz angelehnt. Soweit wir in der literarischen Poesie der Syrer zurückblicken können, ist in ihr freilich schon die Silbenzählung durchgeführt. Aber da hat wohl fremder Einfluß eingewirkt. Wie Andreas mir mitteilt, ist in der persischen Dichtung schon in ältester Zeit die Silbenzählung üblich[1]). Von der Aussprache des Mandäischen wissen wir sehr wenig. Aber wenn man selbst bei den besseren Gedichten alle Möglichkeiten der Aussprache in Betracht zieht, kann man zu einer einheitlichen Silbenzahl im Verse nicht gelangen.

[1]) In den beiden gnostischen Liedern der Thomasakten sind die Verse sechssilbig, im übrigen haben in ihnen fast alle Verse drei Hebungen. Die von Ephräm mitgeteilten Verse des Bardesanes sind fünfsilbig. Ephräm selber wandte neben diesem Maße mit Vorliebe ein siebensilbiges an, ebenso Narses in seinen Bei einem der bekanntesten manichäischen Gedichte aus den Funden von Turfan suchte ich zu zeigen, daß es ursprünglich aramäisch abgefaßt sei und den üblichen mandäischen Vers von drei Hebungen habe [1]). Die Verse sind zu Strophen von zwei Doppelversen vereinigt. Der Umfang einer solchen Strophe entspricht also dem jener kurzen volkstümlichen Gedichte. Ich teile hier die ersten beiden Strophen in der von mir hergestelltn aramäischen Form mit:

תארמידא אנא מאודיאנא   ד̄מן באביל ארקא ניבטית
ניבטית מן ארקא באביל   ועל באבא ד̄כושטא קאמית

קארויא אנא תארמידא   ד̄מן באביל ארקא ניפקית
ניפקית מן ארקא באביל   ד̄עצרוך קאלא באלמא

Sieht man im Mandäischen von den Gedichten ab, in denen die Wiederkehr gleicher Perioden durch den Inhalt gegeben ist (vgl. p. 31, 46), so läßt sich ein regulärer Strophenbau in den Gedichten nicht nachweisen. Das manichäische Gedicht kann sich danach nicht an die mandäische Poesie angelehnt haben, sondern muß von der Dichtung eines verwandten Kreises abhängen. Doch ist in dem Gedichte der zweite Halbvers des ersten Verses im ersten Halbvers des zweiten mit anderer Stellung der Worte wiederholt, eine Form, die dem mandäischen Schrifttum sein eigentümliches Gepräge gibt. Auch in der gehobenen Prosa wird sehr oft ein Satz mit umgekehrter Stellung der Worte wiederholt, man sagt:

Komm, du König der Uthras, | der Uthras König du, komm.

Ich habe diese stilistische Eigentümlichkeit mit der in der bildenden Kunst der Semiten hervortretenden Tendenz, ein Bild symmetrisch zu wiederholen, es nach beiden Seiten hin zu entfalten (Wappenstil) in Zusammenhang gebracht [2]). Aber die Art, wie die Wiederholung in der Poesie geschieht, zeigt, daß diese Auffassung nicht richtig ist. Der semitische Vers ist etwas in sich Abgeschlossenes. Wäre bei ihm das Augenmerk auf das Symmetrische gerichtet, Wechselliedern. Diese bestehen aus Vierzeilern, die in der Form den oben mitgeteilten kleinen mandäischen Gedichten sehr nahe stehen.

so müßte der Vers an sich symmetrisch gebaut, d. h. der zweite Halbvers eine symmetrische Umstellung des ersten sein. In Wirklichkeit findet die Aufnahme der Worte und ihre Umstellung erst im folgenden Verse statt. Danach scheint die Haupttendenz vielmehr darauf gerichtet zu sein, den neuen Vers inhaltlich an den vorhergehenden anzuknüpfen, die beiden Verse mit einander zu verketten. Ähnliches haben wir an einzelnen Stellen bei den alttestamentlichen Propheten, indem dort der erste Vers einer Strophe an die Worte des letzten Verses in der vorhergehenden Strophe anknüpft (D. H. Müller). Auf aramäischem Gebiete zeigt sich die Verkettung in den Mēmrē des Narses, und von ihm beeinflußt wird sie besonders in der neueren Dichtung der Nestorianer angewandt. Selbstverständlich haben die mandäischen Dichter die Wiederholung niemals durch ein ganzes Gedicht durchgeführt, da es zu ermüdend wirken würde.

Wie in der Dichtung anderer Völker[1]) stehen auch in der mandäischen die Worte „er sagt, er sagte“ u. s. w. außerhalb des Verses.

Neben den Gedichten mit regelmäßigem Versbau stehen andere mit freieren Versen. Die Verse sind in ihnen von sehr verschiedener Länge, und sie stehen meistenteils für sich ohne Paarung. Die anderen Gedichte sind gewöhnlich länger, diese kurz; jene enthalten Schilderungen und Betrachtungen, diese in der Regel Gebete. Die Mandäer unterscheiden selber zwei Arten und sprechen von דראשיא und עניאניא. Die beiden Wörter sind von Stämmen gebildet, die auch von den Syrern in ihrer Nomenklatur für die Dichtungsarten verwandt sind, in ܡܰܕܪ̈ܫܐ, sowie in ܥܘܢܳܝܐ und ܥܘܢܝ̈ܬܐ. Die Gedichte XXI, XXX, LXVI—LXIX werden in den Nachschriften als דראשא, LXXIX—LXXXII als עניאנא bezeichnet. עניאנא mit und ohne רמא heißt auch im Mandäischen zunächst „Antwort“, so GR 152, 11; 343, 12, 19, 22 und sonst, und die עניאניא waren wohl ursprünglich Responsionen, die nach dem Vortrage der דראשיא von den unteren Priestern oder der Gemeinde gesprochen wurden, vgl. 177, 10:

ודארשיא עותריא לואתה̄ ואנילה̄ פאסימכיא לקאלה̄

und Joh., 128, 9: אהאי ד׳ארשיא דראשיא ואהואתאי עניאניא ראמיאן. Doch wurde die spezielle Bedeutung von דראשא und עניאנא später vergessen und die beiden Wörter durcheinandergeworfen. In den Gebeten für die einzelnen Tage der Woche p. 183 ff. steht erst ein דראשא und dann ein עניאנא, die Nachschriften sprechen aber von עניאניא und דראשיא, und auch sonst stehen die beiden Wörter in den Nachschriften der Abschreiber in dieser Reihenfolge[1]). Das Stück p. 271 XIV wird עניאנא und die gleichartigen Stücke XVI und XVII דראשיא genannt. Richtig gesagt heißt es דראש דראשא und רמא עניאנא, aber in den Nachschriften sind auch diese Wendungen durcheinandergeworfen, und p. 269, 13 lesen wir עניאניא דרוש, dagegen 273, 5 דראשיא רמיא. An sich stand das עניאנא unter dem דראשא, aber gerade weil עניאנא die Bezeichnung für das volkstümlichere Lied war, drängte es die Benennung דראשא zurück. Die bei de Morgan an erster Stelle mitgeteilte Sammlung, die דראשיא, עניאניא und Gebete in Prosa (באואתא) enthält, wird schlechthin עניאניא genannt. Da עניאנא nicht mehr, wie ursprünglich, „Responsion" bedeutete, mußte hierfür eine neue Bezeichnung eingeführt werden, und man wählte das persische پَاسُخ. Dieses wird פאסוך, פאסוג geschrieben; für „respondieren" wird יהב פאסוך gebraucht: Oxf. Rolle F, Z. 1097, 1254, 1365.

[1]) Vgl. Sievers, Metrische Studien I (1903), p. 360 f.

Die Länge der Verse in den עניאניא schwankt sehr, und es ist oft unsicher, wie sie abzuteilen sind. Bei vielen עניאניא ist es überhaupt zweifelhaft, ob sie als Gedichte oder als Prosastücke anzusehen seien. So habe ich die Stücke p. 264 ff., obwohl sie den Stücken p. 233 ff. nahestehen und als עניאניא bezw. דראשיא bezeichnet werden, nach mehrmaliger Prüfung als Prosastücke setzen lassen.

Die[2]) mandäische Religion bietet eines der schwierigsten Probleme auf religionsgeschichtlichem Gebiete. Sie setzt eine Umwälzung von ungewöhnlicher Intensität voraus. Ihre Schöpfer suchten sich überall neue Werte zu bilden; sie schufen eine ganz neue religiöse Sprache. Das uralte semitische Wort für den Gottesbegriff ilāh, das alle anderen Umwälzungen innerhalb der semitischen Religionen überlebt hat, das noch jetzt im Islām ebenso wie im orientalischen Christentum und im Judentum im Mittelpunkte der Religion steht, ist aus ihrer Sprache verbannt. Sie gebrauchen es höchstens für fremde Götter, für Götzen. Erst später kam es unter Einwirkung des arabischen allāh wieder auf, vgl. Uthra, p. 545. Sie haben in ihrer sonst so reichen religiösen Terminologie auch kein anderes Wort für den Gottesbegriff. An der Spitze der Wesen, denen sie Verehrung zollen, steht das absolute Leben, an zweiter Stelle das Licht. Auch die Wesen, die in den sonstigen semitischen Religionen die Gottheit umgeben, die Engel (mal'ak), sind aus ihrem Glauben gebannt; sie bekämpfen sie als Dämonen der Zauberei. Zweifellos steht der Mandaismus in enger Beziehung zu der gnostischen Bewegung, die in den ersten Jahrhunderten des Hellenismus im Orient einsetzte. Die Vorstellung von der γνῶσις ζωῆς, die Personifizierung dieses Begriffes und die Stellung des personifizierten Wissens vom Leben, oder vielmehr vom Heil im Vordergrund des Glaubens kann nicht an verschiedenen Stellen unabhängig von einander entstanden sein. Die Mandäer haben sich von den Gnostikern allein bis zum heutigen Tage erhalten, und wir besitzen von ihnen größere Literaturwerke. Trotzdem ist die Herkunft und die älteste Geschichte der mandäischen Religion ganz in Dunkel gehüllt. Die Schriftsteller bewegen sich mehr im Himmel als auf Erden. In den seltenen Fällen, in denen sie historische Ereignisse berühren, wird die Wirklichkeit verschleiert und in einen apokalyptischen Dunst gehüllt. Ich habe mich schon früher bemüht, die Entstehungszeit und die Heimat des Mandaismus zu ermitteln und hebe hier einige weitere Punkte hervor.

[2]) Die folgenden Betrachtungen wurden in der Göttinger Gesellschaft der Wissenschaften am 13. Dezember 1918 vorgetragen.

Die Mandäer bezeichnen sich neben מאנדאייא als נאצוראייא. Von Nöldeke und anderen wird angenommen, daß sie diese Benennung den Christen entlehnt haben, daß sie zu einer Zeit, als sie dem Christentume sympathisch gegenüberstanden, Christen genannt sein wollten[1]. Im griechischen Neuen Testament wird Christus Ναζωραῖος und Ναζαρηνός genannt; ersteres findet sich AG 24, 5 auch als Bezeichnung für die Christen. Der Syrer hat für beides ܢܨܪ̈ܝܐ, und im Syrischen war für die Christen nur diese Bezeichnung üblich. Da die Mandäer den Namen nur den syrischen Christen entlehnen konnten, würde man den Namen נָצְרָיָא, nicht נָצוֹרָיָא erwarten. Der Name Ναζωραῖος ist aber an sich noch nicht erklärt. Die wichtigste Stelle dafür ist Mat. 2, 23. Da heißt es von Joseph, dem Manne der Maria: καὶ ἐλθὼν κατῴκησεν εἰς πόλιν λεγομένην Ναζαρέθ· ὅπως πληρωθῇ τὸ ῥηθὲν διὰ τῶν προφητῶν ὅτι Ναζωραῖος κληθήσεται. Der Name Ναζωραῖος für Jesus wird hier einerseits von einem Ausspruche bei den Propheten, andererseits von Ναζαρέθ hergeleitet. In den uns bekannten prophetischen Schriften des Alten Testamentes findet sich kein Wort נָצוֹר, das Matthäus oder seine Quelle im Auge haben konnte. Der alttestamentliche Kanon war damals schon abgeschlossen; daß etwa eine uns unbekannte prophetische Schrift gemeint sei, ist unwahrscheinlich. Ich glaube mit anderen, daß auf נֵצֶר Jes. 11,1 angespielt wird, aber aus diesem נֵצֶר kann nicht die Bezeichnung נְצוֹרָיָא entstanden sein. Nicht anders steht es mit Nazareth. Schon die Fassung der Worte bei Matthäus macht es unwahrscheinlich, daß Jesus Ναζωραῖος genannt wurde, weil seine Eltern in Ναζαρέθ wohnten. Es sieht eher danach aus, daß man Jesu Eltern in Nazareth wohnen ließ, um damit den Namen Ναζωραῖος zu erklären. Ich will auch davon absehen, daß die Existenz eines Ortes Ναζαρέθ in vorchristlicher Zeit überhaupt bestritten wird. Aber ein Mann aus Ναζαρέθ konnte wohl Ναζαρηνός oder Ναζαραῖος, nicht aber Ναζωραῖος genannt werden. Nach Ναζωραῖος wird angenommen, daß Nazareth auch den Namen Ναζωρέθ geführt habe. Aber wenn diese Form des Namens existiert hätte, so stünde sie gerade an der Stelle, an der aus ihr der Beiname Ναζωραῖος erklärt wird. Man lese die Ausführungen bei Guthe PRE^3 XIII, p. 677, und man wird sehen, zu welchen gezwungenen und künstlichen Erklärungen man bei den Herleitungen aus Ναζαρέθ greifen muß. Tatsächlich bietet Mat. 2, 23 keine Erklärung für Ναζωραῖος, und man muß sehen, ob man es nicht aus sich heraus erklären kann.

[1] Siehe Nöld., p. XX; Brandt, Rel., p. 140; Schr., p. XIII; Jahrb. für protest. Theologie XVIII (1892), p. 599.

Von anderer Seite wurde bereits die Ansicht ausgesprochen, die Bezeichnung Ναζωραῖος habe unabhängig von Jesus und vor Jesus existiert. Es geschah namentlich von Will. Benj. Smith in seinem Buche Der vorchristliche Jesus (Gießen 1906), p. 42 ff. Er verwertet die oft zitierte Angabe des Epiphanius über eine jüdische Sekte der Νασαραῖοι, die aus vorchristlicher Zeit stamme (Haer. 29, 6, 1). Aber sein Versuch, Ναζωραῖος und die verwandten Formen zu erklären, ist in sachlicher wie sprachlicher Hinsicht unmöglich. Ihm schwebt eine Form Nasar-Jā vor, die der Form Z'kar-Jā entsprechen (p. 49 f.) und gleichbedeutend mit Ἰησοῦς und σωτήρ sein soll. Die Form Naṣar-Jā hat Smith aber nur durch eine Verlesung des syrischen ܢܨܪܝܐ erhalten.

Meine Erklärung von Ναζωραῖος ist folgende. Im Thalmud hat Jesus das Beiwort נוֹצְרִי. Dies ist die ursprüngliche hebräische Form, die den anderen voranging. Sie geht von נצר im Sinne „beobachten“ aus und zwar Satzungen, Gebote. Der Ausdruck findet sich namentlich in den jüngeren Schriften des ATs, besonders in Ps. 119; in den älteren wird dafür mehr שמר gebraucht. Eine Richtung im Judentum, deren Anhänger sich mehr als die anderen als die Beobachter gewisser Gebote ansahen, nannten sich נוֹצְרִים „Beobachter, Observanten“. Ursprünglich war wohl die

Bezeichnung für den Einzelnen נוֹצֵר. Die Bezeichnung נוֹצְרִי mit ī relativum entstand, als die Nōsēr sich zu einer engeren Gemeinschaft zusammengeschlossen hatten und der Einzelne sich als Glied dieser Gemeinschaft fühlte. נוֹצְרִי bezeichnet also einen, der zu den Nōṣēr gehört. Was die נוֹצְרִים beobachteten oder beobachten wollten, besagt das Wort nicht. Ich vermute, daß es besonders Reinheitsbräuche, vielleicht in erster Linie Baptismen waren.

Man sprach damals in Palästina aramäisch, und so formte man auch נוֹצְרִי nach dem Aramäischen um. Für נוֹצֵר kann im Aramäischen das Partizip נָצַר oder auch das nomen agentis נָצוֹר eingesetzt werden, so wurde denn נוֹצְרִי zu נָצְרָיָא und נָצוֹרָיָא. Dem hebräischen Stamme נצר entspricht eigentlich aramäisch נטר. Aber נוצרי war der lebendigen Sprache entzogen, es war halb zum Eigennamen geworden, so konnte das Wort zum Teil erstarren.

Jesus wird aus dem Kreise der נוצרים hervorgegangen sein, und dieser Beiname ist ihm geblieben. Der Name hat sich aber unabhängig von Jesus und den Christen in jüdischen Gemeinschaften erhalten, die in einem Vetternverhältnis zum Christentum standen. Diese Judenchristen werden bald als Ναζαραῖοι, bald als Νασαραῖοι bezeichnet. Letzteres ist wohl נָצְרָיָא mit nachklingendem kurzem a hinter צ. Man braucht es nicht als נָצָרָיָא anzusehen.

Auch die Mandäer haben die Bezeichnung נאצוראיא aus der alten Quelle, nicht von den Christen übernommen. Sie haben ja auch das jüdische פרישאיא unabhängig von Φαρισαῖος des NTs entlehnt (vgl. Joh., p. XXII). Daß die Entlehnung von נאצוראיא alt ist, zeigt auch die Form des Abstraktums. Dieses ist nicht von נאצוראיא gebildet, man sagt nicht נאצוראיותא, sondern נאצירותא, wofür sich auch נאצארותא findet. Beide Formen gehen wohl auf נָצְרוּת zurück, vgl. p. 257, 4 und Nöldeke, Gram. p. 155, 11. Die mandäischen Schriftwerke waren in den ursprünglichen Niederschriften viel ärmer an Vokalen als jetzt. Dort wird weder נאצירותא noch נאצארותא, sondern נאצרותא gestanden haben. Ein Vokal klang hinter צ nach, der bald als i bald als a aufgefaßt wurde, und dementsprechend wurde das Wort vokalisiert. Übrigens schwankt jetzt noch die Schreibung, vgl. p. 260, 5.

Die Form נאצארותא erinnert an die Benennung Νασαραῖοι, Ναζαραῖοι, die wohl auf נָצְרָיֵא zurückgeht. Freilich konnte in der christlichen Überlieferung auch Ναζαρηνός auf das a einwirken, das erst zu einer Zeit entstand, als Nazareth als Heimatsort Jesu galt. In Νασαραῖος wird צ richtig durch σ wiedergegeben, während Ναζωραῖος wie Ναζαρέϑ ein ζ hat. Guthe hat sonstige Beispiele für diese Wiedergabe erbracht (PRE^3 XIII, p. 676). Es scheint mir aber, wie anderen, nicht unmöglich, daß נָזִיר Ναζιραῖος auf das ζ eingewirkt hat.

Für die Frage nach dem ursprünglichen Sitze der Mandäer habe ich Joh., p. XVI ff. eine Reihe Momente hervorgehoben. Am wichtigsten scheint mir noch immer die Rolle, die der Jordan bei ihnen spielt. Wahrscheinlich wurden schon ursprünglich häufige Taufen im Jordan gefordert; dies setzt ihren Sitz nicht allzu weit vom Jordan voraus. Ich möchte hier noch einige andere Punkte hervorheben.

In den Gebeten begegnen wir öfter dem Genienpaar האוראן und האוראראן, siehe p. 280. Der zweite Name ist eine Erweiterung des ersten durch Wiederholung eines Konsonanten, wie in יופאפין יופין und האמגאגאי האמגאי. Der Name האוראן ist also der primäre. Ich identifiziere ihn mit dem geographischen Namen חוֹרָן. Es könnte an sich die Haurān-Ebene wie das Haurān-Gebirge sein. Aber gerade für die Vergottung von Bergen haben wir viele Beispiele aus der semitischen Welt. Daß nun der Haurān unter ihren höheren Wesen erscheint, setzt voraus, daß er in ihrem Gesichtskreise gestanden hat. Die religiöse Nomenklatur der Mandäer läßt auf eine rege landwirtschaftliche Betätigung schließen, vgl. Uthra, p. 544. Daher ist nicht anzunehmen, daß jene Urgemeinschaft ihren Sitz in den öden Gebieten östlich vom Ḥaurān-Gebirge hatte. Hingegen kommt die im Westen liegende fruchtbare Haurān-Ebene, in deren östlichem Horizont das Gebirge sich erhebt, gut in Betracht[1].

Für diese Gegend, die Heimat des alten Dusares-Kultus, paßt auch die hervorragende Rolle, die die Rebe in der religiösen Terminologie der Mandäer spielt. Welche Stellung die Rebe in der Literatur der Nabatäer hatte, wissen wir nicht, da diese verloren gegangen ist; in ihrer Kunst begegnet sie uns auf Schritt und Tritt. Die Stellung des Weinstockes im mandäischen Schrifttum ist um so bemerkenswerter, als der Weingenuß verworfen wird. Nur für den sakralen Trunk wird Wein mit Wasser gemischt, vgl. p. 88 f. Die mandäische Religion bietet also selber keine Erklärung für die Verehrung der Rebe, und diese muß anderswoher übernommen sein.

[1] Epiphanius läßt die Ναζωραῖοι in der Βασανῖτις, d. h. in der Haurān-Ebene und den Nachbargebieten wohnen; ἐντεῦθεν ἡ κατὰ τοὺς Ναζωραίους αἵρεσις ἔσχεν τὴν ἀρχήν (Haer. 29, 7, 8). Aber diese Nazoräer sind mit den Mandäern nicht identisch.

Umgekehrt als mit dem Wein steht es mit dem Öl. Mit Öl wird die „Siegelung“ der Gläubigen vollzogen, die im mandäischen Kultus eine so hervorragende Rolle spielt. Trotzdem wird der Olivenbaum oder die Olive im mandäischen Schrifttum fast gar nicht genannt. Jetzt und wohl schon seit alter Zeit wird bei ihnen die Ölung mit Sesamöl vollzogen, und dieses wird mit dem Euphrat in Verbindung gebracht, vgl. p. 36. Anscheinend war die Olive dem Heimatlande des Mandaismus fremd, was für das eigentliche Palästina nicht paßt. Der Stab, der bei den kultischen Handlungen getragen wird, der מארגנא, ist zwar ein Olivenstab, aber der ganze kultische Apparat scheint fremden Ursprunges zu sein. Ein Stück Holz kann auch leicht aus der Ferne geholt werden, und einmal besorgt kann es lange in Gebrauch bleiben. Man beachte übrigens, daß p. 21 der Stab vom Weinstock genommen ist.

Für ein Gebiet zwischen Palästina und Arabien spricht auch eine lautliche Erscheinung. Bei einer Reihe von Wörtern, die teils aramäisch, teils dem Kanaanäischen entlehnt sind, erscheint ס statt eines zu erwartenden ש, vgl. Nöld., p. 46. Als Folge arabischen Einflusses ist diese Erscheinung leicht verständlich.

Die Nabatäer nannten sich nach ihren eigenen Denkmälern Nabatu. Aramäisch mußte der Name Nbaṭ, nach mandäischer Schreibung נבאט lauten. Nun ist נבאט bei den Mandäern eines der höchsten himmlischen Wesen. Er ist der erste Sproß, der große, erste Glanz, vgl. p. 282. נבט hat im Aramäischen den Sinn „hervorbrechen, hervorsprießen“ und wird z. B. im Thalmud von der Weinrebe gebraucht, vgl. Levy, Neuhebr. Wrtb. III, p. 326b. Nun verwenden allerdings die Mandäer mit Vorliebe Wörter dieser Art zur Bildung von Namen höherer Wesen, vgl. Uthra, p. 544. Immerhin ist es bei den sonstigen Indizien, die auf das Gebiet der Nabatäer hinweisen, bemerkenswert, daß der Volksname der Nabatäer als der Name eines der höchsten Wesen bei den Mandäern erscheint. Wie sonst haben ja wohl auch die Nabatäer sich aus ihrem Volksnamen einen Stammvater geschaffen, den sie in die Urzeit verlegten, und sie mögen ihn auch נבטא קדמיא „erster Sproß“ genannt haben.

Die Nabatäer vermittelten den indisch-arabischen Warenverkehr mit Syrien. Sie sind sicherlich nicht nur bis zu den jemenischen Stapelplätzen im Hiǧāz gelangt, sondern viele von ihnen kamen bis zu den südarabischen Häfen, wo sie mit Leuten aus den östlichen asiatischen Gebieten, besonders mit Indern in Berührung kamen. Andererseits waren sie Ägypten am nächsten benachbart, und auch dahin führte sie der Handel. So wäre es denn begreiflich, wenn sich gerade bei ihnen fremde Einflüsse in der Religion geltend machten.

Ich möchte hier noch einige Wendungen der religiösen Sprache erörtern. Mit אינא „Quelle“ wird oft zusammen סינדירכא genannt, siehe p. 59, 171, 266. Nach der traditionellen Erklärung bedeutet סינדירכא „Palme“, vgl. Florilegium de Vogüé, p. 373 zu 178 und Nöldeke, ZA XXX (1916), p. 152[1]. Die Verbindung der Quelle mit einem Baume war mir immer ein Rätsel, und Nöldeke's Erklärung a. a. O. berücksichtigt diese Verbindung nicht. Nun finde ich in einem Aufsatze von Karl v. Spiess, Der Brunnen der ewigen Jugend, in Orientalische Studien, Fritz Hommel zum sechzigsten Geburtstag gewidmet, Bd. II, p. 328, daß man die Lebensquelle immer zusammen mit einem Baume darstellte, gewöhnlich mit einer Pinie. Der immergrüne Baum ist als Lebensbaum gedacht. Als Palme läßt sich סינדירכא nicht erklären. Hingegen ist Sandarak das Harz der Callitris quadrivalvis, einer der Thuja, dem Lebensbaume, nahestehenden Gattung. Im Persischen heißt سَنْدَروس und سَنْدَرَه das Harz des Wacholders, und das mit ersterem identische סאנדרוס, סאנדלוס bezeichnet im Mandäischen auch den Baum. GR 346, 23 heißt es nach der Aufzählung anderer wohlriechender Pflanzen: „Du sandtest den reinen Wacholder, dessen Duft von unterhalb des Thrones des Königs der Uthras gekommen ist. Du sandtest den reinen Wacholder, doch sie übten an ihm Mangel und Fehl“[2]. Der Wacholder spielt ja auch anderwärts im Volksglauben eine Rolle, vgl. das Grimm'sche Märchen vom Machandelboom und Grimm, Deutsche Mythologie II^4, p. 543; A. v. Perger, Deutsche Pflanzensagen, p. 346. Danach war סינדירכא ursprünglich der Wacholder oder ein anderer immergrüner Baum, den man sich als Lebensbaum dachte. Die Übertragung auf die Palme erfolgte erst später. Als Name einer heiligen Pflanze wurde dann סינדירכא wie גופנא zur Bezeichnung sonstiger heiliger Dinge und höherer Wesen verwandt. Schon in der alten Bleitafel Florilegium de Vogüé, p. 364, 177 steht מאנא וסנדירכא und GR 320, 20 זיוא וסינדירכא.

Im Qolastā begegnet öfter פתא = פתח im Sinne von „schaffen“. Da der ägyptische Ptah der Schöpfergott ist, prüfte ich die Frage, ob diese Bedeutung von פתח in ältere Zeit zurückgehen und auf die Namengebung des Gottes eingewirkt haben könnte. Eine Rücksprache mit SETHE führte zur Verneinung der Frage. Ptaḥ ist von Haus aus kein Weltschöpfer, sondern Kunsthandwerker, besonders Kunstschmied. Erst hieraus entwickelte sich seine Rolle als Weltschöpfer. Für Ptaḥ in seiner älteren Funktion würde ja die Bedeutung von ptḫ passen, vgl. GESENIUS, Handwörterb.^{16}, p. 667b, s. פתח II. Wäre eine spätere Entlehnung des Wortes möglich, so könnte man annehmen, daß פתח von Kanaan aus, nachdem dort ptḥ und ptḫ zusammengefallen waren, nach Ägypten gelangt sei und die Ägypter das ursprüngliche ptḫ als ptḥ übernommen hätten. Aber der Kult des Ptaḥ geht in uralte Zeit zurück, in eine Zeit, in der die Semiten vielleicht überhaupt noch nicht in Kanaan ansässig waren. Die Frage eines ursprünglichen Zusammenhanges des Namens Ptaḥ mit פתח muß also dahingestellt bleiben. Da aber פתח sonst im Semitischen nicht die Bedeutung „schaffen“ hat, scheint es mir möglich, daß der Name des ägyptischen Schöpfergottes die Bedeutung des Wortes פתח im Sinne „schaffen“ beeinflußt hat.

[1] Die Stelle im Pariser Diwan lautet (Z. 802): עו האוריא נאפיל מן סינדירכא אנאת מיסיקתא ד̄סאמאנדאריעיל קרילה̄.

[2] Nun fasse ich auch סאנדלוס hier p. 14, 8, wofür die Handschriften auch סאנדרוס, סינדרוס, סאנדורוז, סינדירכא haben, als Wacholder auf, das Holz oder das Harz; beides wird zum Räuchern verwandt.

Vom Gottesnamen Ptaḥ wurde anscheinend in später Zeit innerhalb des Ägyptischen für Arbeit an Metallen ein Verb ptḥ gebildet (nach Sethe). In kosmologisch interessierten Kreisen konnte dann von der anderen Eigenschaft Ptaḥs her ptḥ im Sinne „schaffen“ in Aufnahme gekommen sein. Da nun wie פתאהיל beweist, der Gott Ptaḥ in dem Kreise, aus dem der Mandaismus hervorgegangen ist, Eingang gefunden hat 1), so konnte auch das Verb פתח im Sinne „schaffen“ zu ihnen gelangen.

Hängt nun mit diesem פתח im Sinne „schaffen“ פיהתא als Bezeichnung für das sakramentale Brot zusammen? פיהתא kommt ja tatsächlich im Sinne „Schöpfung“ vor. Hier p. 84, 3; 141, 5 und an der Parallelstelle GR 189, 16 steht פאהתיא פיהתא ד̄הייא parallel כאצביא ניצבתא ד̄נהורא und p. 76, 1 finden wir פיהתא und בריתא zusammen. In gnostischen Kreisen herrschte die Vorstellung, daß die Initiation eine Neugeburt, eine Neuschöpfung des Gläubigen hervorrufe. Ein wesentlicher Bestandteil der Initiation ist die sakrale Speise, und es wäre begreiflich, wenn gerade dieser die Funktion der recreatio zugeschrieben würde. Aber aus folgendem Grunde nehme ich hier nur eine Möglichkeit an. ZIMMERN führte פיהתא und מאמבוהא auf die babylonischen Riten pit pī „Öffnen des Mundes“ und mis pī „Waschen des Mundes“ zurück¹). Nun findet seine Erklärung von מאמבוהא eine Stütze darin, daß dieses tatsächlich als „Waschung, Spülung“ bezeichnet wird²). Daher sehe ich es als möglich an, daß auch פיהתא „Öffnung“ bedeute und auf den babylonischen Ausdruck zurückgehe.

1) In פתא עוצרא und פתא נהורא (siehe p. 283) liegt Ptah ohne אֵל vor. פתא האי enthält vielleicht eine Entlehnung aus dem Kanaanäischen und bedeutet „Lebenspforte“.

Bemerkenswert ist der ausgedehnte Gebrauch von קאיים im Mandäischen. Die Grundbedeutung ist „standhaft machen, sichern, festigen“, und so wird es oft gebraucht. Es ist begreiflich, daß es so auch im Sinne von „schaffen“ angewandt wird; es steht aber auch auf einer Stufe mit צבא „taufen“³). Durch die Taufe wird ja eine Art Neuschöpfung vollzogen. Wie man es sonst in späterer Zeit liebt, die Gottheit als „stehend, feststehend“ zu bezeichnen⁴), so wird auch vom Leben in einer häufigen, anscheinend alten Formel gesagt, es stehe fest⁵). Erst davon abgeleitet ist der Gebrauch von קאיים in einer Linie mit „preisen“⁶). Es heißt ursprünglich von einer Gottheit sagen, sie sei קַיָּם. So ist auch die Formel וקאיומיא יוכאבאר זיוא (26, 11; 30, 10 und sonst) zu verstehen. Der Gebrauch von קאיים in diesem Sinne entspricht dem des arabischen كَبَّرَ.

Auch Lobpreisungen und Gebete sind Objekte zu קאיים; sie werden gefestigt (93, 4; 110, 9 f.; 139, 11). Ein höheres Wesen kann ein Festiger von Gebeten sein (173, 11). Aber in der Regel festigt sie der Betende selber durch andere Gebete. Unklar ist der Sinn von ומקאימאנא 177, 4. Ich habe das Wort am Ende mit א abgeschrieben, und auch bei Morg steht ein א. Es ist mir unwahrscheinlich, daß man ומקאימאנה̄ zu lesen habe und daß es „und sein Festiger“ oder „und sein Preisender“ bedeute. An sich könnte es ja „der Festiger“ bedeuten und damit Sonntag gemeint sein, vgl. 176, 10, aber ich habe den Eindruck, daß die Stelle nicht in Ordnung ist.

2) האלאלתא p. 53, 1 und sonst oft in den Ritualen. Dieses האלאלתא ist wohl sachlich und etymologisch identisch mit tēliltu, das in den babylonischen Texten in Zusammenhang mit mis pī genannt wird.

3) Siehe hier p. 46²; 85, 10; 95, 1; GR 293, 5; 352, 20; GL 66, 1.

6) GR 1, 22; 352, 12.

Häufig ist auch der Gebrauch von קאיאמתא. In den Nachschriften zu einzelnen Gebeten schwanken die Handschriften des Qolastā zwischen בותא ד̄קאיאמתא und בותא קאיאמתא, d. h. zwischen קאיאמתא als Substantiv und Adjektiv. Möglich sind beide Lesungen. קַיָּמָא ist ja zunächst ein Adjektiv, und בותא קאיאמתא könnte heißen: ein Gebet, das ein anderes Gebet oder eine kultische Handlung festigt, ihre Wirkung verstärkt. Aber קאיאמתא steht auch vielfach allein. Hier p. 231, 1 steht קאיאמתא ד̄ראהמיא und Pariser Diwan, Z. 58, 65 steht קאיאמתא in Parallele zu בותא. Daher fasse ich קאיאמתא als Substantiv auf. Es gehört zu der Reihe der Nomina der Form קַטָּלְתָּא, die Nöld. p. 122 besprochen hat.

In den Nachschriften zu den Gebeten wechselt שריתא mit קאיאמתא, siehe p. 7 ff. Ich bin über die Bedeutung des Wortes zu keinem abschließenden Urteile gelangt. Daß es an sich „Lösung“ heißt, steht fest. Lond. Rolle B, Z. 532 heißt es האריא שריתא למאן ד̄עסיר, Z. 252 ff. שריתא אבאדלה̄ „er löste ihn“ [1], im Pariser Diwan, Z. 104 עסיראן ולאמיתקאבלאן ושריתא בדאריא ליתלון. Hier 123, 3 ist von אסאריא ושיריאתא ד̄מאסיקתא die Rede. Aber was bedeutet es, wenn ein Gebet die „Lösung“ eines anderen Gebetes oder des Weihrauchs (p. 54, 10) genannt wird, wenn ferner שיריאתא eine Bezeichnung für Gebete ist (Pariser Diwan, Z. 113, 164; Lond. Rolle A, Z. 99, 475, 481)? Die Verwendung in magischem Sinne, wie sie in der Londoner Rolle und anderwärts (Code Sabéen 27, f. 51 a, 53 b, 85 b) sich findet, bietet keine Gesamterklärung für die Verwendung des Wortes. קאיים und שרא haben ja gegensätzliche Bedeutung; jenes heißt „festigen“, dieses „lösen“. Aber dieser gegensätzliche Sinn ist bei קאיאמתא und שריתא nicht wahrzunehmen, wie denn שרא מאסיקתא anscheinend im Sinne „die Messe abhalten“ gebraucht wird, siehe p. 239, 6; 245, 1. Da wie bei קאיאמתא, so auch bei שריתא die Lesungen mit und ohne ד̄ schwanken, habe ich erwogen, ob nicht בותא שריתא (vgl. auch p. 89, 6) zu lesen sei und dieses „ein freies Gebet“ im Gegensatz zu den festen, feststehenden Gebeten bedeute. Über diesen Gebrauch von ܫܪܝܐ im Syrischen vgl. Payne-Smith, col. 4308. Aber es scheint doch, daß wie קאיאמתא, so auch שריתא als Substantiv gebraucht ist. Es ist einer der Fälle, in denen man gern die traditionelle Auffassung wüßte.

das gewaltige erste Leben festigte ihn in seiner Škīnā. Sein Aufrichter wird aufgerichtet, sein Festiger wird gefestigt werden, sein Aufrichter auf der Erde des Lichtes, sein Festiger in der lichten Wohnung. Ihr wurdet aufgerichtet und gefestigt an dem Orte, an dem die Guten gefestigt werden.

Und gepriesen sei das Leben.

Dies ist das Gebet der Lösung des (Gebetes) „Es leuchtete das Licht“.

Diese drei Gebete „Im Namen jenes ersten Mannes“ (= I), „Das Leben schuf Jāwar-Zīwā“ (= III) und „Es leuchtete das Licht“ (= V) lies neben deiner Krone[1]) und lege sie dir auf das Haupt[2]). Lies „Mandā schuf mich“ (= XIX) über den Myrtenkranz und lege ihn dir auf das Haupt über deine Krone. Winde dann den Myrtenkranz für deinen Olivenstab und halte ihn bei deiner Krone. Wenn du zum Jordan gehst, lies „Erhöre mich, | mein Vater, erhöre mich“ (= LXXX).

VII.

Im Namen des großen Lebens werde Heilung zu teil mir NN.

Mächtig und groß ward 1) das große Mysterium des Glanzes, des Lichtes und der Herrlichkeit, das auf dem Munde des ersten Lebens ruht. Aus ihm ist Mandā d̲Haijē entstanden und hervorgegangen, der durch den Sinn des ersten Lebens erkannte und einsah, daß es hervorragend ist.

1) Die Bedeutung von האיאל ist nicht ganz sicher; ich vermute, daß es aus עהאיאל < עתהאיאל entstanden ist.

zwischen קאדמאייא und קאדמאיא. Dieses bezöge sich auf זידקא. Ich ziehe קאדמאייא vor.

[1] Geist (רוהא) und Seele (נישימתא) werden gesondert genannt. רוהא ist die Lebenskraft des Körpers, נישימתא die beim Tode sich abtrennende dem Jenseits zustrebende Seele. Beim Tode werden רוהא und נישימתא vom Körper getrennt, vgl. Qol 29, 29. Nach 31, 17 wird die רוהא der נישימתא gleich gemacht und findet einen Platz im Hause des Lebens. Nach Qol 14, 4 erhalten Geist und Seele einen Sitz in der Škīnā des Lebens. In der Oxforder Rolle G, Z. 690 ff. findet sich die Reihenfolge פאגרא ורוהא ונישימתא. Die umgekehrte Folge I. Thessal. 5, 23 ὑμῶν τὸ πνεῦμα καὶ ἡ ψυχὴ καὶ τὸ σῶμα ist syrisch durch ܪܘܚܟܘܢ ܘܢܦܫܟܘܢ ܘܦܓܪܟܘܢ wiedergegeben. Hier ist also ܪܘܚܐ das Höchste. Dem entspricht der Gebrauch von נפש und רוח bei den Hebräern, vgl. besonders Grüneisen, Der Ahnenkultus und die Urreligion Israels, p. 22 ff. In den liturgischen Stücken und im linken Ginzā findet sich oft die männliche Form נישמא. Diese ist sekundär gebildet. In dem Paare רוהא ונישימתא sind beide Glieder von Hause aus weiblich, da wollte man wohl in dem Paare ein männliches Glied haben.

[2] אבא ד̄עותריא „Der Vater der Uthras“ wird sonst mit Abathur identifiziert, dessen Name so gedeutet wird, vgl. Joh., p. XXIX. Hier p. 16, 13 und GR 288, 21 steht auch an einer entsprechenden Stelle Abathur. In diesem Stücke wird Abathur nachher noch besonders genannt.

Der Handschlag, angeblich das Symbol der Kušṭā, ist als solches unverständlich; vielleicht gehörte er ursprünglich zum לאופא. Vereinzelt ist der Gebrauch in בריש לאופא ד̄הייא אסגית לכא im zweiten Buch der Oxf. Sammlung, St. XVI, wo לאופא nicht die abstrakte Gemeinschaft, sondern die mit dem Leben Verbundenen, die Gemeinde, bezeichnet.

1) Die Lesung schwankt in dieser häufigen Verbindung durchweg zwischen תיקלאתא und תאקלאתא, doch so, daß תיקלאתא besser bezeugt ist. In den Targumen wird תַּקְ' vokalisiert.

3) Das Gebet wird fälschlich als zwei Gebete angeführt, danach mehrere Irrtümer im Text.

XIV.

Im Namen Jōsmīrs, des ersten Weinstocks, von dem Jāwar den Stab des Wassers[1]) nahm und zum Ufer des Jordans ging, bedeckt mit Glanz, bekleidet mit Licht. Er sprach | über ihn geheime Sprüche und diese geheimen Namen: Im Namen des Jōsmīr, Jōsamīr und Sām, des wohlverwahrten Mānā, im Namen des Hauran-Hauraran. Durch ihn stellte Jāwar der Erste Uthras im Jordan auf, prangende Weinstöcke des Lebens. Durch ihn stellte Hibil die lebenden Seelen, die des großen Lichtortes und der glänzenden Wohnung würdig sind, im Jordan auf. Durch ihn wurden sie im Hause der Gewaltigen aufgerichtet und aufgestellt. Mögen diese | Seelen, die zum Jordan hinabgehen und die Taufe empfangen, emporsteigen und den großen Lichtort und die glänzende Wohnung schauen.

Und das Leben ist siegreich.

Im Namen des Lebens.

Pirjawis, der große Jordan des ersten Lebens, der ganz Heilungen ist, flammt wie Glanz im Tannā. Als das Leben flammte, als das Leben emporkam durch den großen Glanz, der darin flammt, stieg das Leben empor und gründete eine Škīnā über dem Tannā. Der Glanz erhitzte sich, und das Tannā schmolz. Wasser wurde geschaffen und entstand, und das Leben fand Bestand in seinem eigenen Wasser. Es stellte Jūr in Jūr auf[1]), und das Leben wurde verherrlicht durch den eigenen Glanz | und den großen Glanz, der in ihm flammt. Das Leben stellte das Leben im Wasser auf. Über dem Wasser blühte die Frucht empor und ließ die Škīnā sich nieder.

[1] ניארא findet sich oft in den kultischen Anweisungen im Sinne von Becher oder Schale. Aus der Flasche (קאנינא) wird Wein oder Wasser in das ניארא gegossen (Lond. Rolle A, Z. 321, 667). Es ist Synonymum von כאסא (ebda. Z. 328). Andererseits werden Trauben in das ניארא gelegt (ebda., Z. 563, 669; Oxf. Rolle F, Z. 506), und die Priester legen auch ihre Hand hinein (Lond. Rolle A, Z. 519; Oxf. Rolle F, Z. 394). Die Herkunft des Wortes ist mir nicht bekannt. Mit נְיָר „Papier“ kann es nichts zu tun haben, und auch ein Zusammenhang mit הביות ניירות in der Mišnah (vgl. ZDPV XLI, 1918, p. 60) ist nicht ersichtlich. Daß ניירות dort Papier oder Papyrus sei, halte ich für ausgeschlossen.

[2] In St. XXVII erscheint Hazazban als Name des Kranzes, trotzdem sehe ich hier wegen der Parallele des vorhergehenden Verses, in dem höhere Wesen das Subjekt sind, in Hazazban ein Wesen für sich, getrennt von כלילא. Der Name findet sich sonst in diesem Zusammenhange nicht. GR 181, 17; 182, 9; 208, 14 ist זאן האזאזבאן Inhaber einer Mattartā.

1) Qol 32, 3 wird Jāwar שאכין דמו, Qol 27, 28 der gute Vater der שאכין des ersten Geheimnisses genannt. שכן steht hier in der gewöhnlichen Bedeutung „gründen“, wie besonders aus 31, 15; 58, 29 zu ersehen ist, wo שאכניא דמותא קאדמאיתא parallel פאהתיא und נאצביא steht. Nach dem dortigen דמותא קאדמאיתא ist wohl auch hier דמותא im Sinne von Urbild aufzufassen. Erwogen habe ich, ob שאכין nicht das akkadische šaknu „Verwalter“ sein könnte. Da das Wort in Babylonien entlehnt sein müßte, wäre die Schreibung שכן am Platze, anders als bei dem in Assyrien entlehnten סגן. Doch nach den Stellen 31, 15; 58, 29 muß es „Gründer“ bedeuten.

2) Vgl. ZDMG LXI (1907), p. 694[1].

3) Zu אדיא inbezug auf die Ölung vgl. Brandt, Schr., p. 67 zu GR 37, 16. Nach den folgenden Bemerkungen über die Wirkungen der Ölung muß man annehmen, daß der Gläubige sie an sich selbst vornimmt, siehe auch p. 37, 4; 39, 2. Jetzt wird die Ölung vom Priester besorgt, und so sind auch die kultischen Anweisungen.

Er füllte sich[1] und zog hinaus mit seiner Kraft und seiner Helligkeit und mit dem Glanz und der Kraft, die sein Vater in ihn gelegt. Wir änderten nichts an dem, was du uns befohlen. Du gossest in uns und fülltest uns mit deiner Weisheit, deiner Einsicht und deiner Güte. Du zeigtest uns den Weg, auf dem du aus dem Hause des Lebens gekommen bist. | Auf ihm wollen wir den Gang der wahrhaften, gläubigen Männer gehen, auf daß unser Geist und unsere Seele in der Škīnā des Lebens weilen, der Stätte, in der die Geister unserer Väter ruhen, mit Glanz bekleidet, mit Licht bedeckt. ---

[1] Hier ist nicht mehr das Leben gemeint, wie der Singular und אבויא zeigt, sondern Mandā d̲Haijē, siehe auch den Schluß von Stück LXXV.

[2] So, nicht zu den Höhen.

[3] Im Mandäischen sind עִקָּרָא und יְקָרָא in der Schreibung zusammengefallen. Bei der mehrmals vorkommenden, wohl alten Wendung עקאר גיוא sind sich die Mandäer selber nicht im Klaren, welches Wort vorliegt. GR 303, 9 „Eine sanfte Rebe bin ich, der ich aus עקאר גיוא gepflanzt wurde“, paßt für עקאר besser der Sinn „Wurzel“. Ebenso GR 360, 20: „Sie belehrten mich . . . . . . über das reine עקאר גיוא, das aus dem Jordan gepflanzt wurde“. Auch in dem Satze Cod. Par. 25, f. 12a, 46b עו הינאלכון רביא עקאר גיוא עקארא בגאוה̄ נישתכין läßt sich עקאר so auffassen: „Wenn es dir beliebt, großes (Leben), mag in der herrlichen Wurzel Herrlichkeit ruhen“. Aber GL 8, 18 heißt es: „Sie lachen, hüpfen, sind stolz und wohlgemut über das עקאר גיוא. Sie prangen in der Herrlichkeit, die auf ihnen ruht“. Da ist offenbar עקאר im Sinne „Ehre, Herrlichkeit“ aufgefaßt. Im Qolastā hier und weiterhin 30, 2 scheint mir nun diese Stelle sinnlos zusammengezogen zu sein. Ein verwandter Ausdruck liegt auch in der zweiten Sammlung, Buch I, St. X, 6 vor.

Dies ist das Öl, das Öl des Glanzes, des Lichtes und der Herrlichkeit, das Mandā ḏHaijē mit seinem reinen Munde segnete und allen Freunden des Namens der Kušṭā gewährte. Von Adatan und Jadatan heißt es am Ende von St. XLIX האד מאנדא והאד עוצאר, was wohl sagen will, sie seien „eines Wissens, eines Sinnes“, nicht daß der eine Mandā, der andere Oṣar sei. Von anderen Wesen heißt es am Ende von St. LXXVII, sie hätten je einzeln ihren Namen, zu zweien ihren Beinamen.

Am Tage, da das Licht emporsteigt,
wird die Finsternis an ihren Ort zurückkehren.

Der Erlasser der Sünden, Vergehen, Torheiten, Strauchelungen und Irrungen wird den Freunden des Namens der Kušṭā vergeben, sowie diesen Seelen, die zum Jordan hinabgestiegen sind und die Taufe empfangen haben.

Das verzehrende Feuer wird dich verzehren, und dein Dienst wird in den Wohnsitzen sein.

Der Duft des Lebens wird zum Hause des Lebens emporsteigen, und auch wir werden zum Hause des Lebens emporsteigen, wir werden siegreich sein. Unsere Stütze und unser Vertrauen wird auf das Leben sein am Orte des Lichtes und in der glänzenden Wohnung.

Das Leben steht fest, es ist aufgerichtet in seiner Škīnā, das Leben ist siegreich über alle Werke.

Dies ist die „Lösung“ des Weihrauchs bei der Taufe.

2) Die Handschriften weichen hier stärker von einander ab. אזלא und die Nebenformen scheinen mir zu זלח, זהל zu gehören. Dies wurde auch sonst mit אזל zusammengeworfen, siehe zu Qol 44, 12. [2]) Zu אדיא inbezug auf die Ölung siehe p. 35[3]. Nach der vorliegenden Stelle sieht es aus, als ob außer der Zeichnung mit Öl noch eine Bestreichung stattfände, während sonst mit אדיא eben die Ölung gemeint ist. In der Lond. Vor ihnen mag das Tor der Sünden geschlossen und ihnen das Tor des Lichtes geöffnet werden. Mögen sie der Verbindung mit dem Leben teilhaftig werden, für die es keine Trennung gibt. Betet ihr von dort her für uns, und wir werden von hier für euch beten. Alle Früchte gehen zu Ende und alle Düfte vergehen, doch nicht der Duft des Mandā | d̲Haijē, der nicht zu Ende geht und nicht vergeht in allen Zeitaltern und aller Ewigkeit. Mögen die Seelen dieses Aufstieges ohne Sünden, Vergehen, Verfehlungen, Strauchelungen und Irrungen emporsteigen und den Lichtort und die glänzende Wohnung schauen.

Und gepriesen sei das Leben.

Lies diesen Spruch über den Weihrauch und wirf ihn ins Feuer. Alsdann lies die Gebete der Totenmesse.

XXXV.

Im Namen des Lebens.

Ich wollte Augen, Schultern und Arme hochheben nach dem Orte, der ganz Leben, Glanz, Licht und Herrlichkeit ist, dem Orte, von dem man sucht und findet, man spricht und wird erhört, man bittet und es wird gewährt, Tag für Tag, Stunde für Stunde. Zu dieser Stunde richte ich an dich, mein Herr Mandā d̲Haijē, eine inständige Bitte, | groß und nicht klein, für diese Körper, die ihre Knie zur Erde beugten und ihre Hände nach der Mitte und oben hin streckten[1]. Sie verließen die Abbilder, Bildwerke und Götterschreine aus Ton, die Götter aus Klötzen und sonstige nichtige Werke und bezeugten den Namen des großen, fremden Lebens: Vor ihnen werde das Tor der Sünden verschlossen und ihnen das Tor des Lichtes geöffnet. Unsere Bitte, unser Gebet und unsere Unterwerfung steige empor vor das erhabene Leben, | das über allen Werken steht. Alle Hände stahlen vor dir, und alle Lippen logen . . . .[2]. Niemand ist sündenrein vor dir, Mandā d̲Haijē.

[2] מיא ביארדנא paßt schlecht zu כאדיב. Die Stelle scheint verderbt zu sein, obwohl die Worte auch Qol 54, 20 stehen. „Sie täuschten“ oder „verleugneten das Wasser im Jordan“ soll hier schwerlich gesagt sein. Nöldeke's Auffassung Gram., p. 402 unt. scheint mir nicht richtig. „Rein“ von Wasser heißt nicht זאכאיא sondern דכיא, und die Lesung זאכאיא ist wohl die ursprüngliche. Sie ist, wie Nöldeke selbst hervorhebt, besser bezeugt als זאכאייא.

1) Die Worte 'אסארה̄ מיא וש sind hier auf ענגירתא bezogen, wie der folgende Satz und St. LXIII zeigen. Sie passen besser zu נישמתא, namentlich wegen זאינא, und auch die Seele wird umbunden und gesiegelt, vgl. p. 43 f. Vielleicht gehörten sie ursprünglich in anderem Zusammenhange zu נישמתא.

2) בהירא דאכיא findet sich öfter als Bezeichnung für höhere Wesen, besonders im dritten Teil der Oxforder Sammlung. Wie dort in St. VIII Jāwar genannt ist, so ist wohl auch hier Jāwar gemeint. Der Siegelring, den die mandäischen Priester tragen, hat die Inschrift שום יאואר זיוא „Name des Jāwar-Zīwā“, vgl. Siouffi, p. 123, 2.

3) Ich fasse hier האתמא, anders als האתאמאתא p. 40, 10; 45, 8, im Sinne von „Abschluß“ auf, freilich wird wohl auf האתמה̄ בהירא דאכיא in dem Stücke angespielt. האתמא steht in derselben Anwendung bei einem liturgischen Stücke auch Cod. Par. 25, f. 29a. Die Messe hat wohl ursprünglich mit diesem Stücke abgeschlossen, siehe auch den Anfang der folgenden Bemerkung.

Jōkašar erwählte den Jenseitigen[2], er erwählte ihn, schuf ihn und festigte ihn. Er bekleidete ihn mit Glanz in Fülle und brachte Licht in Menge und bedeckte ihn damit. [1] Das Verb steht im Plural mit Beziehung auf die einzelnen Mānās.

[2] Vgl. auch St. XXIX.

[3] Ich habe früher mit Nöldeke, Gram., p. 83, 21 für עתכאלאל den Sinn „ermatten“, für מכאלאל „ermattet“ angenommen: Joh., S. 180, 11; 201, 7. Dies scheint mir nicht richtig. כאליל gehört zu ܟܠܠܐ, כלולא „Hülle“ und bedeutet „einhüllen“. In diesem Sinne ist es GR 147, 18 gebraucht. Zahriēl soll sich vor Hibil verhüllt, verschlossen halten, vgl. dazu Joh., S. 107, 12. Daher הידותא מכאלאלתא „die verschleierte Braut“ in Hochzeitsliedern Cod. Par. 15, f. 14b = Cod. 25, f. 18bf. Diese Wendung wird vielleicht die alte Erklärung von כַּלָּה als „die Verhüllte“ wieder zu Ehren bringen. Auch in St. LXXIII, 8 paßt nur der Sinn „verhüllen“. In der häufigen Verbindung mit שכיב heißt es auch „sich in Decken einhüllen“, um sich zum Schlafe hinzulegen.

LXVIII. 1)

Zwischen dem Verborgenen und dem Glanze,
zwischen dem Lichte und den Uthras,
zwischen dem Verborgenen und dem Glanze
stehen sie da und fragen die Seele aus.
Sie sprechen zu ihr:
„Sage, sage, Seele,
wer dich gebildet hat.
Wer hat dich gebaut, wer dich gebildet,
wer war der Mann, dein Schöpfer?“
Darauf erwiderte und sprach die Seele, die gebaute, wohlgebaute Seele.
Sie erwiderte und sprach
zu dem Manne, der sie gefraget.
Sie sprach zu ihm:
„Mein Vater! Einer baute mich, Einer bildete mich,
Einer war der Mann, mein Schöpfer.

LXXIII.[1]

Im Namen des Lebens.
Ein wohlversiegelter Brief ist es,
der aus der Welt hinausgeht.
Ein Brief, geschrieben mit Kušṭā,
gesiegelt mit dem Siegelring Großer.
Vollkommene haben ihn geschrieben,
gläubige Männer ihn gesichert.
Sie hängten ihn um den Hals der Seele
und sandten ihn[2] an das Tor des Lebens.
Die Seele in ihrer Weisheit
drückte ihren Nagel auf den Brief[3].
Ihren Nagel drückte sie auf den Brief,
legte ihn in Glanz und verdeckte ihn,
tauchte ihn in Licht und verhüllte ihn.
Wie kam es, daß Daium sah,
daß die Seele den Brief trug?

---

[1] Steht auch GL 108.

[2] Schlechter bezeugt ist die Lesung שאדריויא „sandten sie“, die Seele.

[3] Auf das Tonstück, mit dem der Brief versiegelt wurde. Der Nagel wurde nicht in den Brief selbst gedrückt, so daß man daraus schließen könnte, dieser sei auf Ton geschrieben. Siehe auch die Nachschrift.

Diese sprachen:

[1] Bei dieser häufigen Wendung, vgl. GL 38, 1; 78, 11; 90, 9, schwankt die Lesung zwischen ואשכאת und ואשכית. Bei dieser Lesung hätte der Satz den Sinn „und ich fand meine Seele, daß sie hoffte“. Obwohl die Lesung ואשכית häufiger ist (vgl. auch עזלית ונישמאת אשכית GR 367, 15), ziehe ich doch ואשכאת vor, das dem Satz einen besseren Sinn verleiht.

Wenn der Zeitpunkt für ihn kommt abzuscheiden, so sollen sie an der Stelle, wo sie ihn hinlegen, Wasser sprengen und ihn reinigen. Ihn sollen Gleichstehende hinlegen*[4]).

[1]) Die Worte ברישא ער לבאתראיא sind mir unverständlich. Die Varianten על באראיא, לבאראיא, לבאתראייא helfen nicht viel. ברייש in Paris X läßt sich verstehen: „so befiehl ihnen zuerst"; aber wie sollten die anderen Lesungen entstanden sein? In der Oxforder Rolle F, Z. 1014 ff. wird gesagt, daß der Ganzibrā die Hand desjenigen aus der Reihe der Priester, der obenan steht (ד̄האך תארמידא ד̄ברישא), ergreife, dieser dann die Hand des nächsten anfasse. Vielleicht hat hier להאך ד̄ברישא gestanden: befiehl demjenigen, der obenan steht, oder dem letzten.

[2]) Der Priester, andere Lesung נימשולה̄ „sie sollen ihm waschen".

[3]) Wohl durch Handschlag, vgl. p. 13[3].

[4]) Paris X hat hier zum Teil eine bessere Lesung. ניזיהלון, das ich aus ניזלון und איזיהלון kombiniere (siehe auch p. 56[2]), gehört zu זלח, das im Mandäischen zu זהל wurde, vgl. Nöld., p. 66, 16. Ob ich die letzten Worte richtig auffasse, ist mir zweifelhaft. Ich vermute, daß gemeint ist, daß wenn es ein einfacher Mandäer ist, einfache Mandäer ihn bedienen, wenn es ein Priester ist, Priester ihn bedienen sollen. Ähnliche Anweisungen finden sich öfter in den Ritualen.

Diese Segnung des Öls stand in der Handschrift des Rāmōjā, Sohnes der Eqaimath, aus dem Dorfe Ṭīb, die von Zazai von Gauwaztā, dem Sohne der Hawwā, geschrieben war. Jene schrieb Baian Hibil, Sohn des Brīkh-Jāwar, hier ab und säte sie aus durch diese Bücher unter hundert Nāṣōräer aus der eigenen Handschrift, die er aus der Handschrift des Rāmōjā, Sohnes der Eqaimath, abgeschrieben hatte, die sich | bei Hajōnā, der Tochter des Jahiā, und Bainai, dem Sohne des Zakiā, befand. Baian Hibil, Sohn des Brīkh-Jāwar, sagte: „Wie sie geschrieben war, schrieb ich sie ab, und alle Mysterien des Öls waren in ihr“ [1]).

Und das Leben ist siegreich.

(G) Wenn du jemand die Ölung erteilst, so befiehl den Leuten, daß sie wohl acht geben. Wenn er nicht aus dem Körper scheidet, | sollen sie ihn zu dir bringen. Lies über ihn „Mit reichem Glanz bin ich getauft“ (= LXIII), nimm das Siegel ab, schaffe es fort und wirf es in den Jordan.

(H) Wenn du die Ölung erteilst, siehe zu, daß du dich nicht irrest. Wenn du dich irrst, so erfordert es sechzig Messen [2]). Für denjenigen, auf den Öl fällt, ist es schön [3]). Wenn er nicht darauf drängt, ihn fortzutragen [4]), lies für ihn sechzig Messen und sieben

[1]) Hier steht noch eine kurze, mir unverständliche Notiz, in der Urašlam (Jerusalem), die Stadt der Juden, genannt wird.

[2]) Doch wohl so gemeint. Da steht „die sechzigste Messe“.

[3]) Mir unverständlich. Es ist kaum gemeint, daß wenn auf jemand zufällig etwas Öl fällt, es gut für ihn sei.

Wir sprachen mit den Ordnungen des Lebens und offenbarten verborgene Geheimnisse. Die Welten schmähten und verfolgten uns, doch du, Leben, nimm aus dem Verborgenen das dir zukommende Gebet entgegen, und mag Ruhe über deinem Lichte errichtet werden. Du[2] bist unser Glanz, unsere Helligkeit, unsere Stärke, unser Beistand, unsere Erleuchtung, der du dich den ersten Freunden deines Namens in Strahlen des Glanzes offenbartest. | Wir bekannten deine Kušṭā, mag dein Licht auf uns abgeschnitten werden; mögen wir mit deinen Siegen sein und in deiner Kušṭā aufgerichtet werden. Ich spreche zu ihnen:
„Meine Söhne, [wandelt] 1) auf meinem Wege, wanket nicht vom Damme ab.
Wer vom Damme abwankt,
stütze sich auf den Wegstein.
Wer von beiden abwankt,
der sinkt in das Ende der Welt“.
Du warst siegreich, Mandā d̲Haijē,
Guter, der du deine Freunde festigst.
Uns, die wir unsern Herrn preisen,
wirst du unsere Sünden und Vergehen erlassen. —
Das Leben wird hochgehalten und ist siegreich,
und siegreich ist der Mann, der hierher gegangen ist.

Bis hierher reichen die Lieder und Hymnen für die Taufe, von hier nach unten hin sind die Lieder | und Hymnen für die Totenmesse.

XCI.

Meine Erleuchtung und meine Lobpreisung führen mich hinüber.
Der du durch die Wache hindurchführest, führe mich hinüber, die Lichtwolke, und sie steige empor
siegreich zum Orte des Lichtes.

Im Namen des Lebens.
Geh in Frieden, Auserwählte, Reine [1]),
Sündenlose, ohne Fehl.
Du hast deinen Platz aus der Tibil heraus erwählt,
und dein Los ist aus den Äonen herausgesprungen.
Herausgesprungen aus den Äonen ist dein Los,
über aller Welt stehst du.
Du sagtest, Auserwählte, Reine:
ich bin eine Seherin, Unterscheiderin.
Eine Seherin bin ich, eine Unterscheiderin,
und die Welten versammeln sich zum Gericht.
Zum Gericht versammeln sich die Welten,
und ihnen wird Recht gesprochen.
Recht wird ihnen gesprochen,
die nicht die Werke eines wahrhaften Mannes geübt haben.
Du allein, Auserwählte, Reine,
du hellglänzender Mānā,
du wirst nicht zum Gerichtshofe gehen,
dir wird nicht Recht gesprochen werden.
Nicht wird dir Recht gesprochen werden,
da du die Werke eines wahrhaften Mannes geübt hast.

Sollte ursprünglich בעמא oder בעמה̄ „in ihrer (der Finsternis) Mutter“, d. h. der Rūhā, dagestanden haben, so wäre die Abänderung zu בעומא unverständlich. Daß עומא eine dialektische Nebenform von עמא sei, ist mir unwahrscheinlich, ebenso daß בעומא aus בעומקא oder בעומבא verderbt sei. 1) Es ist der Betende, der spricht, trotzdem heißt es „mein Lichtbote“. Dies ist nur in einer Ansprache verständlich, in der „mein Lichtbote“ ebenso gesagt ist, wie „mein Herr“, „mein Gott“, „mein Vater“. Daher sind die Worte אתא ותראצליא als Imperative, nicht als Perfecta aufzufassen, vgl. auch St. XXVII ff. Es ist nicht nötig, ותראצליא zu ותרוצליא abzuändern, vgl. וניתראצליא p. 181, 3. Es wird wohl gesagt, daß der Bote vom Lichte her komme, nicht daß er das Licht selbst sei, daher lese ich mit B נהורא statt נהורא A.

Ich bin Mandā dHaijē, der Sohn der Pflanzung des gewaltigen, ersten Lebens. | Ich rief den gepriesenen Sonntag, den reinen Hüter des Lichtes, der die Uthras erleuchtet, und sprach zu ihm: „Auf, zieh hin, geh, steig hinab zur Erde Tibil, zu dieser Welt, die ganz Geburt ist, zu denen von erprobter Gerechtigkeit, den Männern, die aus Fleisch und Blut geformt sind, greife sie mit deinem Griffe, sei fest bei ihnen, steh ihnen bei, gib acht auf sie und gewähre ihnen Kraft und Festigkeit, daß sie sich hinstellen und | das gewaltige, fremde Leben verehren und preisen“.

a) Lies כשילא.

1) Vielleicht ist besser mit B ועוספאן zu lesen, das einen volleren Halbvers gibt; allerdings ist auch in v. 5 der zweite Halbvers kurz.

2) B besser mit ▫ (ועסהיטאבון). — Nöld. nimmt Gram., p. 238^1 für סהט den Sinn „ausbreiten“ an. Es steht aber in den mandäischen Schriften fast immer bei „Feuer“, vgl. GR 13, 5; 33, 13; 87, 15; 193, 4; 267, 7. Nur 153, 22 steht es bei חשוכא. Die Grundbedeutung mag „ausbreiten“, im Passivum „sich ausbreiten“ sein, und diese Bedeutung wird auch an letzterer Stelle vorliegen, aber infolge der Verbindung mit „Feuer“ hat es dann den Sinn „entflammen“, „sich entflammen“ angenommen, vgl. auch Pognon, Inscr. mandaïtes, p. 47. Der Sinn „ausbreiten“ könnte aus der Bedeutung „auspressen“ hervorgegangen sein, vgl. Gesenius, Handwörterb.^{16}, p. 781 b. In den Zauberschalen hat es den Sinn „packen“, siehe Pognon, a. a. O.

„Meine Söhne! Wenn Angst eure Mutter befällt, was wollet ihr Sieben tun?
Wenn der fremde Mann kommt,
wer wird ihm entgegentreten?“
Eine Keule des Glanzes ist in der Hand des Mandā d̲Haijē, er tritt an die Rebellen heran[1]) und wirft sie nieder.
Bar-Haijē erhob seine Stimme und sprach zu . . . . .[2]) der Sieben:
„Ich habe meinen Freunden Ware gebracht, 5
wahrhafte Worte den Gläubigen.
Den Männern, die meine Ware kaufen, werden ihre Verdienste um ihr Haupt gewunden werden[3]).
Ihre Verdienste[4]) werden gewunden werden um ihr Haupt, es sandte mich, einen Bau aufzuführen[2]).

Einen Bau sollte ich für die Guten aufführen,

Ich baute, ich erbaute ihn

Ich pflanzte in ihm des Lebens Pflanzen,

1) באנא könnte nur „Erbauer“ heißen (vgl. Nöld., p. 83); das paßt hier nicht. Es ist in בונא abzuändern. Die Schreibung באנא ist durch באנאנא und באנאן beeinflußt.

2) Er soll den Bau selber aufführen, trotzdem spricht er nachher von seinem Erbauer. Solche Widersprüche sind in den mandäischen Schriften nicht selten. Allerdings könnte בנא (בנן) auch heißen „bauen lassen“, aber die Darstellung ist so, als ob er die Arbeit selbst ausführen sollte.

Verharre standhaft in deiner Sicherung,

Wenn dein Maß vollendet ist,

Ich werde dir Gewänder des Glanzes bringen,

Ich werde dir einen trefflichen, reinen Turban bringen,

Ich werde dich von den Bösen befreien,
von den Sündern erretten.
Ich werde dich in deiner Škīnā wohnen lassen,

Ich höre die Stimme der Sieben,

Heil dem, den kennet das ⟨große⟩ Leben,
der sich der Welt entfremdet,
der Welt des Mangels,
in der die Planeten sitzen.
Sie sitzen auf Thronen der Auflehnung
und üben ihre Werke mit der Geißel.
Um Gold und Silber
sind sie beunruhigt und werfen Streit in die Welt.
Sie sind beunruhigt und werfen Streit in sie,
darum werden sie hingehen und im Feuer sieden.
Sieden werden die Bösen,
und ihre Pracht wird verloren gehen und gehemmt werden.
Doch ich mit meinen Sprossen und Sippen
werde emporsteigen und den Lichtort schauen, den Ort, dessen Sonne nicht untergeht,
und dessen Lichtlampen nicht verdunkeln,
jenen Ort, die Stätte,
an die eure Seelen gerufen und geladen sind,
sowie die Seelen unserer guten Brüder
und unserer gläubigen Schwestern. —
Das Leben wird hochgehalten und ist siegreich,
und siegreich ist der Mann, der hierher gegangen ist.

Die Männer von erprobter Gerechtigkeit stellten sich auf die Füße, nahmen dich in die Rechte, gingen zum Jordan lebenden Wassers und richteten dich auf, damit dein Glanz über dem Jordan aufgehe. P. 103, 5 nennt er „la fête appelée Dehvo-d-déimono, דיהוא ד̄דימאנא, „la fête de Deimono. Cette fête est d’un seul jour qui tombe le premier du second mois d’automne“. — Diese und die folgende Bemerkung des Textes sind unklar und widersprechend. Gemeint ist wohl, daß man am Tage דאימא und wenn man sonst die Taufe vollzieht, das erste Lied vortrage, dagegen beim großen Feste beide. Danach möchte ich an dieser Stelle ד̄דיהבא רבא streichen.

אז Az der Große אז רבא,

אזיז Azīz der Große אזיז רבא,

אס As der Große אס רבא und אס ימא As das Meer,

אסין Asin der Große אסין רבא 22, 5 f.

אזיז ist wohl mit der aramäischen Gottheit עזיז identisch. אז wäre dann eine Abkürzung davon. Mit dem persischen Āz (vgl. F. W. K. Müller, Handschriften-Reste in Estrangelo-Schrift aus Turfan II, p. 18, 20) hat es wohl nichts zu tun. — In אס ist kaum das Wort für „Myrte“ enthalten, denn die Bezeichnung von אס als Meer wäre dann unverständlich. Das Verhältnis der Form אסין zu אס ist unklar.

עזלאת Ezlath die Große, weiblicher Genius, עזלאת ראבתיא 28, 4; 171, 3. Im Pariser Diwan Z. 31 wird sie als Quelle des Lichtes, als Gemahlin des „Herrn der Größe“ bezeichnet. Ebenda Z. 297 wird sie die Hülle der Mysterien, die Mutter aller (himmlischen) Könige genannt. Häufig werden Segnungen und Lobpreisungen für sie ausgesprochen (Morg 8, 6; 10, 4; 112, 6). Verkehrt wird sie Mand. Diwan 7 mit Libat identifiziert. Siouffi nennt sie 40, 34 Zloth-Rabti. Wie andere Namen weiblicher höherer Wesen ist es 3. sing. fem. perf., so daß עזלאת „sie ging“ bedeutet.

עין האי In-Hai „Lebensquell“, einer der vier Söhne des Lichtes bezw. des Heils, 24, 12; 83, 3; 144, 5.

עוצאר Oṣar „Schatz“ 72, 5, häufiger עוצאר האי Oṣar-Hai „Lebensschatz“ 43, 9; 84, 3; 141, 5.

ארספאן Arspan „der jugendliche Knabe“ 229, 2; 264, 4; scheint iranisch zu sein.

עורפעיל Ur(u)pēl 229, 1 findet sich öfter in den Schalentexten, vgl. Ephemeris I, p. 92^{1}. Hier zusammen mit מארפעיל, wie auch GR 98, 1, „die die Herrschaft über den Zorn in der Welt haben“.

בהאק B'haq mit dem Beinamen זירא 142, 12. Ein demiurgisches Wesen. Die Urteile über ihn sind sonst weniger günstig als hier. Vgl. Brandt, Rel., p. 31, 35, 50.

Zusammen mit ראם genannt 18, 1; 41, 2; 145, 3; 229, 3. Als Beiname des Banners 273, 2. Der persische Genius konnte schwerlich von sich aus die bedeutende Stellung innerhalb der mandäischen Religion erlangen, so daß er selbst in der Taufformel neben dem Leben und Mandā d̲Haijē genannt wird, vgl. pp. 27, 40, auch Brandt, Rel., p. 105, 225. Wahrscheinlich ist der Name auf ein anderes Wesen übertragen, vielleicht wegen des Anklanges an בחר, בהר, vgl. z. B. ביהרה̄ יוכאשאר לבראיא p. 88, 5, auch den folgenden Namen.

ביהרון Bihrūn, ein höheres Wesen, „es (das Leben) erwählte mich“ 228, 11, vgl. auch כאנפעיל und Joh., S. 216^{3}.

Berichtigungen und Nachträge.

P. 7 l. Lösung[1]) st. Lösung[2]).

P. 27, Übersetzung Z. 14 l. getauft st. gezeichnet.

Zu Anm. 1. Bei 57, 3 schwankt die Lesung zwischen ולִיגטה̄ ביאמינה̄ ואשלימה̄ לסמאלה̄ und ולִיגטה̄ בסמאלה̄ ואשלימה̄ ליאמינה̄. Auch 27, 3 wird wohl ursprünglich gestanden haben לגוטינון ביאמינאך ואהדארינון לסמאלאך „fasse sie mit deiner Rechten und wende sie nach links hin“.

P. 35, Anm. 1, Z. 1 l. der Gute st. der gute Vater.

P. 49 f. Es sei bemerkt, daß die Worte וקאביל דאכיא רושומא hinter ועצטבא nur in einer Handschrift stehen.

P. 52, Z. 7 und 53, Z. 7. שדיא heißt eher „wirf (den Weihrauch) hin“.

P. 79, 4 l. שומה̄ st. שומא, und in der Übersetzung „seines Kušṭā-Namens“.

P. 96. Stück LXVI steht auch GL 120.

P. 119, 10. Die Worte עו מסארהיב למידירה̄ beziehen sich wohl auf den Todesengel: wenn er Eile hat, die Seele fortzutragen, vgl. Joh., S. 120.

P. 136, 6 l. עפיכא st. עפיבא.

P. 223, 1. אנפיא יומא steht hier in einem Gebete für den Samstag. Dennoch darf man nicht annehmen, daß damit der Vorabend des Sonntags oder der Samstag selber gemeint sei, siehe Joh., S. 68, 111.

P. 245. שאמוכטיא enthält wohl شَمْع. Die Endung scheint iranisch zu sein, doch konnte Andreas sie nicht identifizieren. ܫܡܘܟܬܐ bei Maclean, Dictionary of Vernacular Syriac, p. 308a „the crown of the head and temples“ ist jedenfalls ein anderes Wort.

Mandaean Prayer Ceremony

Archive Notes:

The texts below are taken from: E.S. Drower, Canonical Prayerbook of the Mandaeans, Leiden: 1959. Drower writes in introduction to this wor

"The first Mandaean book which came into my hands was a small volume of 200 hundred and thirty-eight pages in a poor handwriting. It was presented to me by an old Mandaean silversmith a year or two after the first World War. This volume inspired me with curiosity, and later when I has read Nodeke's 'Mandaische Grammatik', I found that it contained prayers for minor ablutions, the daily office (the 'nisania) and the masitqa prayers.

An early visit to 'Amarah resulted in the acquisition of a damaged and imperfect copy of the entire codex, I mean prayers considered canonical and still used by priests. A head priest (a ganzibra) copied into it some of the missing pages and to these I added others when I had had access to other MSS. Complete copies of the collection is hard to come by for they are in constant use.

It was not until many years later in the spring of 1954 that I persuaded the owner of a prayerbook, himself a ganzibra, to give me his in exchange for a money gift for sacred manuscripts are never bought. This codex N. 53 of my collection is in a good hand and from it very little is missing."

For further study, a complete edition of E.S. Drower, Canonical Prayerbook of the Mandaeans is also now available on Google Books.

The Book of Souls (Baptism Liturgy)

My Lord be praised!

In the name of the Great First Other-Worldly Life! From far-off worlds of light that are above all works may there be healing, victory, soundness, speech and a hearing, joy of heart and forgiving of sins for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnus through the strength of Yawar-Ziwa and Simat-Hiia!

Chapter 1

In the name of the Life and in the name of Knowledge-of-Life (Manda-d-Hiia) and in the name of that Primal Being who was Eldest and preceded water, radiance, light and glory, the Being who cried with His voice and uttered words. By means of His voice and His words Vines grew and came into being, and the First Life was established in its Abode.

And He spoke and said, "The First Life is anterior to the Second Life by six thousand myriad years and the Second Life anterior to the Third Life by six thousand myriad years and the Third Life more ancient than any 'uthra by six thousand myriad years. And any 'uthra is older than the whole earth and older than the Seven Lords of the House by seven hundred and seventy thousand myriad years. There is that which is infinite.

At that time there was no solid earth and no inhabitants in the black waters. From them, from those black waters, Evil was formed and emerged, One from whom a thousand thousand mysteries proceeded and a myriad myriad planets with their own mysteries.

The Seven were wroth with me, were outraged and said, "The man who set out and came towards us hath not bound a circlet about his head!" Then I turned my face toward my Creator who created me, the celestial Lord of Greatness, and I said to Him, "O my Creator who created me, (O) Lord of lofty Greatness! As I went (my ways) the Seven were wroth with me and said, 'The man who went and came towards us hath not bound a circlet about his head!'."

Then that Lord of Lofty Greatness took a circlet of radiance, light and glory and set it on my head; He laid on me His hand of Truth and His great right hand of healings and said to me, "Upon thee shall rest something of the likeness of Sam-Gufna and of Sam-Gufaian and of Sam-Pira-Hiwara, whose radiance gleams and whose appearance beams, for they are holy and believing beings in the Place of Light and in the everlasting Abode."

And Manda-d-Hiia, the valorous 'uthra, taught, revealed and said "Every Nasoraean man who is righteous and believing, on arising from sleep, must take a white turban symbolising the great mystery of radiance, fight and glory and shall recite this prayer thereon. And he shall twist it round his head and repeat the prayer secretly. It will be his praise in the house of the great Celestial Father. And all persons who behold him will be subdued in his presence: any persecutor, or one who inciteth to wrath, will stand before him in fear, terror and trembling, (their knees) knocking together. And for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnus, who have prayed this prayer and (these) devotions, there will be forgiving of sins and I shall be pure in all my words. And Life is victorious.

[This is the prayer of the turban].

Chapter 2

Illumined and illuminating is Zihrun, the great Mystery of radiance, light and glory, from whom Manda-d-Hiia emanated and was divulged, and from whose very Self noble sons of the mighty and sublime Life proceeded. He created 'uthras at his right and his left and installed them in their own shkintas, And they gave out light and were effulgent in their own raiment and gloried in the knowledge that their Father had transplanted them from the House of Life. And it is incumbent on a pupil to honour his Master like his parents, (so) the 'uthras rose on (their ?) thrones of radiance, light and glory and took off the crowns on their heads and placed them on the thrones of radiance, light and glory, saying, "A teacher is superior to parents! Rise, our Father, in praise, and lay on me Thy hand of truth and Thy great right hand of healings!" And Life be praised!

[This prayer is the opening prayer of "In the name of that First Being"]

Chapter 3

In the name of the Life!

Life created Yawar-Ziwa, son of Light-of-Life, Hamgai-Ziwa son of Hamgagai-Ziwa. Illumined and illuminating is the Great Mystery of Radiance, Zihrun, a Crown of radiance, light and glory from whom a flow of living water streamed out to the shkintas. For he is the revealer (lit. opener) of radiance and light and displayeth his treasure which emanated from him, to eager 'uthras. All worlds adore and praise the mighty First Life in its Indwellings, and Life is victorious.

[This is the prayer of the turban]

Chapter 4

As the 'uthras stand in their shkintas they adore and praise the Great Place in the Light which is eternal, and praise Manda-d-Hiia and speak with him. When the 'uthras are standing in their shkintas they adore and praise that Tarwan-Nhura. To what shall they dedicate the wreath upon their heads and upon what shall they hang it? They dedicate it to the Tree of Radiance and hang it (thereon).

And Life be praised!

[This is the prayer of dedication of "Life created Yawar-Ziwa]

Chapter 5

In the name of the Great Life!

Let there be light, let there be light! Let there be the light of the Great First Life! There shone forth wisdom, vigilance and praise of the First Mana which came from its place. He who twineth the wreath is Yufin-Yufafin: the bringer of the wreath is 'It-'Nsibat-'utria. 'It-Yawar son of 'Nsibat-'utria set on the wreath. He brought it and placed it upon the head of the implanted manamanas. The wreath flames and the leaves of the wreath flame! Before the Mana there is light, behind the Mana glory, and at either side of the Mana radiance, brilliance and purity. And at the four corners of the House and the seven sides of the firmanent silence, bliss and glory prevail (lit. are found). And Life be praised! which was transplanted from guarded (?)

[This is the prayer for the turban. Read it and set it on thy head.]

Chapter 6

A crown of ether-fight shone forth dazzlingly from the House of Life. 'Uthras brought it from the House of Life and the mighty First Life established it in His shkintas. He who setteth it up shall be set up and he who uplifteth it shall be raised up into the world of light and he who establisheth it into the enduring Abode. Ye are established and uplifted to the place (in which) righteous (beings) are established.

And life be praised.

[This is the prayer of "loosing", "Let there be Light". These three prayers "In the name of that Primal Being", "Life created Yawar-Ziwa" and "Let there be light" read near thy crown and place it on thy head. And read "Manda created me" over the myrtle-wreath and put it on thy head above thy crown. And twine a myrtle-wreath for thy staff and hold it with thy crown. And when thou goest to the jordan read "Answer me, Father, answer me!]

Chapter 7

In the name of the Great Life!

There shall be healing for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnush! Strengthened and enhanced is the great mystery of radiance, light and glory which resteth on the mouth of the Great Life! for from it came into being and was manifest Knowledge-of-Life (Manda-d-Hiia) who knew and interpreted the thoughts of the First Life, which are wondrous.

And Life be praised!

[Read this prayer and hold thy pandama for thy baptism.]

Chapter 8

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the mighty, first, sublime Life from,worlds of light, the Ineffable above all works! for the ancient Radiance and for the Primal Light, for the Life which emanated from Life and for Truth (Kushta) that was pristine, from the beginning.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for Yukabar-Ziwa who was mighty in his radiance, and came in his light and his glory (as) messenger to the first righteous elect (people). He crossed over the worlds and came and rent the firmament and revealed himself.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for Yuzataq-Gnosis-of-Life, source of Life, who interpreteth silence and giveth hope and taketh the prayers of spirits and souls of righteous and believing men, the virtuous and well pleasing, into the Place of Light and into the Eternal Abode.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the Father of 'uthras, the Ancient, Lofty, Occult and Guarded, the Man who is high (yet) remaineth deep and hidden. He seeth and understandeth that which the worlds and generations do in the worlds of darkness.

Incense that is fragrant, incense, that is fragrant! yea for the dwelling of Life and the planting of 'uthras. Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the dwelling of four beings, sons of Perfection. Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea for the Dwelling of Abathur. Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the dwelling of Hibil, Shitil and Anush, sons of a living, brilliant, healthy and steadfast stock, beings not removed by sword, nor burnt by flames of fire, nor drowned in water-floods;

whose (very) sandal-straps on their feet are unwetted by water. They sought and found, went to judgment and were vindicated, spoke and were heard. They are complete, lacking in nought; perfect are they and not imperfect. They came from a pure place and go to a pure place.

Incense that is fragrant, incense that is fragrant! yea, for the lives of the men who were our ancestors, of righteous and believing men who rendered up (their souls) and departed from their bodies; and of those who yet live in their bodies. They testified and the door of Sin will be shut to them and the door of light open to them and they will be knit together in the union of Life, in which there is no separation. Pray ye for us from there, and we will pray from here for you! All fruits perish; all sweet odours vanish, (but) the perfume of Life is established for ever and unto world's end upon those who love His name of Truth.

Those souls who descend to the jordan and are baptised shall be without sins, trespasses, follies, mistakes and evil deeds: they will rise and behold the great Place of Light and the Eternal Abode. And praised be the Great Life in light. And Life is victorious.

[This saying, "Incense that is fragrant, yea for the First Life" recite over both incense and sandalwood and put them before thee on the jordan-bank in a new incense-pan. And make a fresh fire on the copper incense-pan -- (these) are aids of all order which ye carried, put (lit. "performed") at the jordan. Then read the baptismal "We acknowledged" "Praises" , "Thee, Life,", "I sought to raise eyes" (Prayer 77) and "Raising eyes".]

Chapter 9

Raising my eyes and lifting up my countenance toward the Place which is all portals of radiance, light, glory, beauty, repute and honour and to the Abode which is all beams of light; I adore, laud and praise the Mighty, Strange (other-worldly) life, and the Second Life and the Third Life; and Yufin-Yufafin, Sam-Mana-Smira, and the Vine which is all Life and the great Tree which is all healings. I adore, laud and worship the precious and guarded Place, the secret and guarded manas and the Lord of Greatness from the Secret Place and, from the Hidden Place, the pihta, need(?), truth and faith.

I worship, laud and praise Sam-Smira, the great radiancy of the First Life, son of the Great Primal Life who thought and was manifest, seeking His own: His shecinah resteth on waves of water. The assembly of souls which proceeded from Him, on the Last Day, when they leave their bodies, will rejoice in Him, will embrace Him and will rise up and behold the outer Ether and the everlasting Abode.

I worship, laud and praise the multitudinous Radiancies and great mighty Lights: I worship, laud and praise Piriawis, the great Jordan of the First Life which is all healings. I worship, laud and praise the pure Yushamin who abideth on treasures of the waters and upon mighty celestial wellsprings of light. I adore, laud and praise the life which proceeded from Life and the Truth which existed before, in the Beginning. I worship, laud and praise Yukabar-Ziwa, envoy of the Life and the Word of the first Elect Righteous ones. I worship, laud and praise the Ancient, Supernal, Occult and Guarded Abathur, who is high, hidden and guarded, whose throne is placed at the gate of the House of Life. He sitteth with the scales set before him, weighing deeds and (their) recompense. He seeth and discerneth that which the worlds and generations do. I worship, laud and praise Manda-d-Hiia lord of healings, the being whom the Life summoned and bade him heal the congregation of souls, divesting the congregation of souls of (their) darkness and clothing them with light; raising (them) and showing them that a great restoration of life exists, a place where the spirits and souls of our forefathers sit clothed in radiance and covered with light; showing the great restoration of life which is before them.

I worship, laud and praise Shilmai and Nidbai, the two delegates of Manda-d-Hiia, who rule over the great jordan of Life, for they baptise with the great baptism of Light.

And Life is victorious.

Chapter 10

On the day that the Jordan was bestowed upon Sam-Smir, the great pure radiance of the First Life which flowed forth from Him, Bihram and Ram-Rba-Hiia went with him (and ?) four hundred and forty-four thousand myriads of 'uthras, sons of light, who descended to the jordan. He baptised them and they rose to the bank. He raised them up and conferred upon them some of the glory and some of the greatness which was (conferred) on himself.

And Life is victorious.

Chapter 11

I have worshipped and praised that Yawar-Ziwa whose shkinta is situate in the world of Outer Ether and in the Enduring Abode. I have worshipped and praised the seven holy and guarded manas which were transplanted from it. I sought in prayer the First Life, and, in the presence of the mighty sublime Life, discovered that which offendeth in myself, (in me), Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnush and about what which causeth my friends to offend, and my friends' friends and the friends of the great Family of Life.

And Life is victorious.

[Pray these three prayers, "Raising eyes", "The day that the Jordan was bestowed" and "I have worshipped and praised that Yawar-Ziwa" on the jordan-bank after "I sought to raise eyes". They are the helpers (aids to) baptism.]

Chapter 12

I am Yur son of Barit (I shone forth). In great effulgence the radiance glowed (with heat?). The tanna dissolved and a shkinta came into being, a shkinta came into existence and was established in the House of Life.

And Life is victorious.

[Read this prayer and grasp thy kanzala (stole). It is the opening prayer for the jordan. Then recite "I went to the jordan"].

Chapter 13

I went to the jordan, but not I alone, (for) Shilmai and Nidbai, my helpers, went with me to the jordan; Hibil and Shitil and Anush went with me to the jordan -- they who baptise with the great baptism of Life. Piriawis-Ziwa and Piriafil-Malaka give free movement to the limbs of my body!

I go down before these souls whom the Life delivereth and saveth, and protecteth these souls from all that is evil and from those who give nothing, but take away; and from those who lend nothing and (yet) are paid back; and from evil spirits which hasted yet did not arrive, and from liliths which fell down and did not arise.

Their hands fell (powerless) on their knees; their eyes were blinded and unable to see and their ears became deaf and unable to hear. In your names, Shilmai and Nidbai, and through the strength of Hibil, Shitil and Anush, secure, seal and guard these souls who go down to the jordan and will be baptised, by the great seal of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia, the healer, whose strength none can attain. And Life is victorious!

[Recite until thou reachest (the words) "Piriafil, loosen the limbs" (etc.). And descend (into the water) up to a fourth of thy thighs. If thou art baptising a single soul, say "my body, and I go down before this the soul of N." If there are several souls, recite as written (above), and at the place where it said "secure, seal and guard" say "secure, seal and guard this soul of N, and establish it" and then recite thy saying over the staff.]

Chapter 14

In the names of Yusmir the First Vine, from whom Yawar took a staff of water and went to the bank of the jordan, covered, as it were, with radiance and clothed in light. Over it he pronounced secret sayings -- these mystic names: "In the name of Yusmir-Yusamir, and of Sani-Mana-Smira; in the name of Hauran-Hauraran by which the first Yawar raised up 'uthras, flourishing Vines of life, in the jordan. By it Hibil raiseth up living souls in the jordan, those worthy of the great Place of Light and of the Everlasting Abode. By it they will be established and raised up in the House of the Mighty Life. It will raise these souls,vho go do,vn to the jordan and are baptised: they will behold the Great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.

[This saying is for the staff. Recite it over the olivewood staff and stick it into the jordan (-bed), then recite the baptism(-al prayers).]

Chapter 15

Bound is the sea, bound are the two banks of the sea! Bound are the devils and demons, the demon-visitants, haunting spirits, and satanic amulet-spirits. Bound are the three hundred and sixty mysteries that are in the House!

I am secured and sealed, I, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnush, and these souls who are descending to the jordan and will be sealed by the seal of the Mighty Sublime Life, and by the great MA and the great YA and the great BAZ and by the great AZIZ and by the great AS and by the great ASIN and by the sea (of ?) AS. Bound are (Magian) priests, slaughterers, priests who cut up victims, scorners, those who make evil signs and the seven mysteries which are in the sea. Every demon (exorcised) by name, every evil spirit by his appelation, every amulet-spirit and all idol-demons who raise their heads and show their countenances, lifting themselves in pride against the Sublime Being and directing their evil Eye towards these souls who are going to the jordan, shall be struck down and smitten by Yaha-Yaha and by Zha-Zha and by angels which where sent and come against them. Flee in fear before them! and before the glory which is mighty upon them. Depart in fear and avaunt! Seven walls of iron have been set around me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnush, with which Haiashum, the first Kushta, surrounded himself.

And Life is victorious.

Chapter 16

I am a perfected gem: into the midst of the worlds and ages am I cast down. I am an iron club, a great rocky crag. Any demon that dasheth himself against me will be shattered and if I strike at him he will be dashed to pieces. Any demon which reareth its head, any amulet-imp which setteth its countenance against these souls in malice, overlooking them, will be thrashed and struck by 'Usfar-Manharbiel-'Staqlus, the little child who dwelleth upon pure springs of light, (yea) beaten with the mace of water by which Fire was beaten out and extinguished; (and) by the strength of Mân the Healer and by the strength of elect righteous (men).

And Life is victorious.

Chapter 17

Avaunt! flee in fear all (ye) evil, restricting, wrathful spirits! Flee, begone, be vanquished and brought to nought before the glory and light of Manda-d-Hiia! Piriawis-Ziwa and Piriafil-Malaka have set moving the limbs of my body: I descend (to the Jordan) before these stedfast, flourishing souls of the living. Shilmai and Nidbai, fly, approach, arrive! Bear ye witness to these souls who are going down to the jordan to be baptised. Ye four 'uthras, sons of light, Rhum-Hai, 'In-Hai, Sum-Hai and Zaniar-Hai, be ye my witnesses on the great day of departure (from the body). Great Jordan of Life, I laud thee and adjure thee by 'Usar-Nhura (Treasure-of-Light), the great solace and support of life, that thou givest no room to evil beings (who are) against these souls who go down into thee. Healing shall be theirs in the name of the Sublime (Strange) Life from worlds (of light). May Life be established in Its indwellings, and Life is victorious.

Chapter 18

In the name of the Life!

Piriawis, the great jordan of the First Life, which is all healings, is afire like the glory flaming in the Tanna. When Life was ardent and life burst forth in the great glory which flameth therein, Life arose and founded its shkinta above the Tanna. The radiance waxed ardent, the Tanna dissolved. They opened the waters and Life was established by its own waters). Yur (brilliant light) established Yur: Life was increased in power by its own radiance and by the great glory which flamed in It.

And in the waters Life established living (creatures); above the the waters fruit appeared and a shkinta was founded.

Thee do I invoke, great Jordan of Life, by (in the name of) Treasure-of-Light, the great support and solace of the Life, and by pure Yusamin who dwelleth upon the treasures of the waters and upon wellsprings of light; by Yusmir, the being who united with water; by Adatan and Yadatan who sit at the Gate of Life and seek spirits and souls in the Place of Light; by SiImai and Nidbai who bear witness before the Great Life. Behold these souls who quit destruction for construction, (go) from error to truth and (leave) the abode of fear of the deity of the House (i.e. world) for the great Place of Light and the everlasting Abode!

If he to whom I speak listeneth and he to whom I call is established (in the faith) and is knit into the communion of Life and built into the great fabric of Reality, I will take his hand and be his saviour and guide to the great Place of Light and to the Everlasting Abode. If I speak to him and he hearkeneth not and call to him and he is not uplifted, he will be put to the question. (But) I shall not be put to the question, because of the Word of Truth (Kushta) and its uplifting by Yukabar. And Life is steadfast in its Dwellings, and Life is victorious.

[Then cry] "In the name of Life! Let every man whose strength enableth him and who loveth his soul, come and go down to the jordan and be baptised and receive the Pure Sign; put on robes of radiant light and set a fresh wreath on his head". [Here baptise the souls. And they shall descend behind thee and shall submerge three times. And thy staff shall be (rest) on thy left arm. Dip them with thy right hand, grasp them with thy left and place them between thee and thy staff and dip them under thrice and and sign them thrice with thy right hand. And thy face shall be toward the Gate of Prayer).

When thou hast signed them, say, "N, son of N., thou hast been signed with the Sign of Life and the name of the Life and the name of Manda-d-Hiia were pronounced upon thee. Thou hast been baptised with the baptism of the great Bihram, son of the mighty (life). Thy baptism will protect thee and will be efficacious. The name of the Life and the name of Manda-d-Hiia are pronounced upon thee!"

And give them three palmfuls of water to drink and say to them "Drink! and be healed and be strengthened! The name of the Life and the name of Manda-d-Hiia have been pronounced upon thee". Recite "Manda created me" over the myrtle-wreaths and place them upon their heads. When placing thy hand on their heads recite these secret names: "The name of the great mystic First Wellspring be pronounced on thee; the name of the great First Palmtree be pronounced on thee; the name of the great Sislam be pronounced on thee; the name of the great 'Zlat be pronounced on thee; the name of the great Yawar be pronounced on thee; the name of Simat-Hiia be pronounced on thee; the name of the great Yukabar be pronounced on thee; the name of the Mana and its Counterpart be pronounced on thee; the name of the Great Mystery and the secret sayings be pronounced on thee; the name of the great first Shaq-Ziwa be pronounced upon thee; the name of Sam-Ziwa-Dakia, the Eldest, Beloved, great First (Being) be pronounced on thee; the name of the Life and the name of Manda-d-Hiia be pronounced on thee."

Then reach them (perform with them the rite of) kushta. And he shall go up before thee (on to the bank). Then dip thy phial, fill it with water and give it to whoever standeth on the bank. Then dip thy bowl and recite the hymn "At the waterhead I went forth" and "Blessed art thou, Outer Door", and recite the dedicatory prayer for the jordan.

When thou recitest "Bound is the sea", "I am a perfected gem", "Avaunt, flee in fear", "Piriawis" and all as it is written, speak as written if there are two, three or many souls; but it only one soul say "the soul of N, who descended to the jordan and was baptised and received the pure sign." (And pay close attention to thy baptism.)

Chapter 19

Manda created me, 'uthras set me up, radiance clothed me and light covered me: Haza-zban set the wreath on my head, mine, Adam-Yuhana , son of Mahnush, and on these souls who descend to the jordan and are baptised. Its tendrils shine and its perfume is sweet, for they (the tendrils) wither not nor do they come apart, and its leaves do not fall off.

And Life be praised!

[This is the set prayer for the baptism wreath. Recite it over the myrtle-wreath and place it on the heads of the souls that thou baptisest].

Chapter 20

Blessed art thou, Outer Door, and blessed art thou, Everlasting Abode! Blessed are ye, great beings of radiance and mighty and powerful beings of light. Blessed, lauded and honoured be the 'uthras which dwell on the jordan! Jordan! be gentle towards these souls which have descended into thee! Let healing be theirs by virtue of the Word of Truth and its upliiting by Yukabar-Ziwa.

[This is the dedicatory prayer of the jordan. When thou hast extolled the jordan, if thou baptisest several souls recite as it is written; it only one soul, say "The soul of N. who hath descended into thee" and rise to the bank and recite "I rose up from the Jordan".]

Chapter 21

In the name of the Life!
I rose up from the jordan
And I met a group of souls,
A group of souls I met,
who surrounded our father Shitil
Saying to him "By thy life, our father Shitil,
Go with us to the Jordan."!
"If I go with you to the jordan
Who will be your witness?"
"Lo, Sun hath risen above us;
He will be our witness!"
"It is not he whom I seek,
Not he whom my soul desireth.
The sun of which ye spake,
Riseth early, setteth at dusk.
The sun of which ye spake, the sun
Is vanity and cometh to an end.
Sun cometh to an end and becometh vanity
And his worshippers come to an end and are vanity."

I rose up from the jordan
And a group of souls I met,

A group I met of souls
Who surrounded our father Shitil,
Saying to him, "By thy life, our father Shitil,
Go with us to the jordan!"
"If I go with you to the jordan,
Who will be your witness?"
"Lo, Moon who shineth above us,
He will be our witness!"

"It is not he whom I seek,
Not he whom my soul desireth.
The moon, of whom ye spake,
Riseth at dusk and setteth at dawn.
The moon of which ye spake,
the moon is vanity and cometh to an end
And his worshippers come to an end and are vanity."

I rose up from the jordan
And a group of souls I met,
A group I met of souls
Who surrounded our father Shitil,
Saying to him, "By thy life, our father Shitil,
Go with us to the jordan!"
" If I go with you to the jordan
Who will be your witness?"

"Lo, there burns a fire.
It will bear witness for us."
"That is not what I seek,
Not that which my soul desireth.
The fire of which ye spake
Once a day needs a firebrand.
The fire of which ye spake --
Fire, is vanity and cometh to naught
And its worshippers come to naught and are vanity."

I rose up from the jordan
And a group of souls I met,
I met a group of souls
Who surrounded our father Shitil,
Saying to him, " By thy life, our father Shitil,
Go with us to the jordan!"

"If I go with you to the jordan,
Who will be your witness?
"The jordan and its two banks
Will bear witness for us;
Pihta, kushta and mambuha
Will bear witness for us;
Habshaba, (Sunday) and Kana-d-Zidqa

Will bear witness for us;

The sanctuary in which we worship

Will bear witness for us;

The alms that is in our laps

Will bear witness for us;

And our father who is our head

Will bear witness for us."

"this is that which I seek,

This is that which my soul desireth!

When I rise to the House of Life

And travel to the Everlasting Abode,

When Life questioneth me, (these) witnesses

Will come and will bear witness.

Witnesses of the truth are they,

Sure is all that they say!"

And Life is victorious!

[Recite this prayer after "Thou art blessed, Outer Door."]

Chapter 22

We have acknowledged the name of Life: (believe in) the great celestial Womb, in that which is endless and countless, in Yaluz-Yaluz, in Sbabut, the mighty Will of Life; in Piriawis, fount of living waters; in "He-provided-a-Dwelling" giving His Likeness its dwelling in the House of Life; in the Life Whose Eyes were fixed upon the waters. He arose, gazed and beheld the Nest from which He derived His being.

We believe in Yufin-Yufafin, in Nbat, the first Upsurge and outflow of Life at its inception, in its second (outflow), Sam-Smir; in its third, Bihram son of the Mighty (Life), Yukabar, the Word of Life who came from the House of Life to righteous and believing men.

Any person sprinkled by this oil on which I have pronounced the name of the Mighty Sublime Life and upon whom I have pronounced these mystic names, will have health (healing) abundant in his body; health abundant and not poor.

And Life is victorious.

Chapter 23

In the name of the Great Life!

Precious oil art thou, son of white sesame, son of the Euphrates bank, son of the river -pleasaunce, son of water-pools, son of treasures of light. Upon thee, Oil, Life laid His hand and sent thee to this world which is all birth, to heal, uplift, raise up and ameliorate all pains, diseases, complaints, tumours (and) the seven mysteries that inhabit the body. I praise thee, Oil, and adjure thee, Oil, by the Life, by Manda-d-Hiia and by the 'uthras, sons of salvation (and) by this strange being, who is honoured, wondrous and perfect, who summoned chosen elect beings, sons of light, and said to them: "Give me precious oil, son of white sesame, son of the Euphrates-bank, son of the river-meadow, son of water-pools, son of treasures of light.

Anoint, and I will bring you oil: anoint with radiance, fight and glory, the Oil wherewith I anointed and (which) I bestowed, not in the name of a god, not in the name of spirit, not in the name of a messiah nor in the name of a temple-Ishtar. Nay, the oil with which I anointed, (the oil) which I bestowed is at my name, my Sign and (given) as the name and sign of a living, glorious, flourishing and steadfast race. Any man anointed by this oil will live, be whole and be strengthened: his mouth will assume the nature of Anush, within him he will take on the nature of Anush. >From him the seven dolours of death and the eight afflictions of darkness shall violently depart and be expelled. Demons, devils, shedim, demon visitants, amulet-spirits and liliths will be removed and driven out of him in the presence of that which increased the strength, radiance and light of Knowledge of Life".

And Life be praised!

Chapter 24

In the name of the Life!

Thou wast established, First Life; thou wast in existence before all things. Before Thee no being existed.

For He hath fulfilled Himself and hath issued in His strength and His steadfastness and in the radiance and strength which His Father hath bestowed upon Him. For we have not changed that which thou hast commanded us. Thou enlargest our steps and liftest our eyes heavenwards. Thou descendest and givest us dwellings by springs of Life. Thou pourest into us and fillest us with thy wisdom, thy doctrine and thy goodness. Thou showest us the way by which thou camest from the House of Life and we will walk therein with the gait of righteous and believing men, so causing our spirits and souls to dwell in the dwellings of Life, the place where the spirits of our fathers abide, clothed in radiance and covered with light, rejoicing, laughing, dancing, exulting about the glorious splendour resting (upon them) [?].

This is the Oil wherewith he anointed, the radiance, light and glory which Manda-d-Hiia blessed with his pure mouth and best-owed on all who love his name of Truth. From all those who are anointed with this oil every pain, disease, complaint, tumour, curse and physical evil will be removed. They will be freed from fetter and bond, from evil curses, from evil slander, from lying accusation, from the hand of the wicked, from the sword of enemies and from the third tongue which is softer than fat and sharper than a sword. (They will be delivered) from incubi and hobgoblins, from wicked outcry, black magic; from a spoilt wreath, from the male and female biruq and from the second death: they will be driven off and cast out by thy surpassing Name which is all life. It falleth on the dead man and he liveth: on the sick man and he stretcheth (himself); on the blind man and (his eyes) are opened; on the deaf man and wisdom and perception are infused into him. The accused is successful in his lawsuit and the prisoner is freed from prison. The hand of Truth and healing will come from the House of Healings in the name of the Life which emanated from Life and in the name of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia. Every man anointed with this oil will be sinless and blameless in the Place of Life.

And Life is victorious.

[Read these three prayers "We acknowledged the name of Life" "Precious oil art thou", "Thou wast established, First Life", upon the oil and sign the souls thou hast baptised, when they rise up out of the jordan. Say "N. son of N., thou hast been signed with the sign of Life and the name of Life, and the name of Manda-d-Hiia hath been pronounced on thee. Thou hast been baptised with the baptism of Bihram the Great, son of the Mighty (Life). Thy baptism shall protect thee and attain its end. The name of Life and the name of Manda-d-Hiia are pronounced on thee." Sign thrice and grasp their right hands in the kushta (rite). Then recite and pass (thy finger) over thine (own) face -- thine own sealing. And then they shall stand up before thee. Recite over the pihta and mambuha and give them pihta that they may eat and mambuha that they may drink and take their right hands in kushta. Then make them sit before thee and read the sealing (prayer) and lay thy hand on their heads.]

Chapter 25

In the name of the Life!

When a jordan of living water (Water of Life) was bestowed on Sam-Smir, the great Radiance of Life, nine hundred and ninety-two thousand myriad 'uthras, sons of light, opened their mouths, praising Manda-d-Hiia. "Praised be Manda-d-Hiia; praised be Yawar-Ziwa; praised be Bihram and Ram; praised be Tarwan-Nhura; praised be Nbat the first great Radiance; praised be Nsab and Anan-Nsab; praised be Sar and Sarwan; praised be that great and mighty Mana; praised be that great Presence of Glory; praised be that whole abode of those at rest; praised be all the ways and paths of the Almighty (Life); praised be all the mighty celestial worlds of Light; praised be all those occult dwellings (shkinata); praised be that Voice, Strength, Word and Command which come from the House of Abathur; praised be Abathur-Rama; praised be the myriad 'uthras who stand in the presence of Abathur; praised be Shilmai and Nidbai the guardian 'uthras of the jordan; praised be our father. Hibil, Shitil and Anush the head of the whole race.

Turn back, thrust back from me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnush and from these souls who have descended to the jordan and been baptised, terror, fright, fear of devils and demons, shedim, demon visitants, ghosts, amulet-spirits, liliths, gods, angels, demons of high places and shrines and idol-spirits: (all those) that the seven planets and the lords of the House loose against souls in this world.

Manda-d-Hiia! Lift up thine eyes, (behold) thy devotees, thine offspring and thy priest! Behold us who stand in this place which is all evil things! At the great Door which is all principalities do we stand, amongst the wicked, and dwell amongst sinners. Deliver us from this world which is all sinners and from the sorceries of the children of Adam and Eve. Forgive us that which we have done, and that which we do forgive us. Forgive us, Looser of sins, (our) trespasses, our follies, our stumblings and our mistakes. If thou dost not loose us from our sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings, and mistakes, no man is clean in thy sight Manda-d-Hiia!

Accept, (O) Life, Thy prayer from the Occult and assure (to us) bliss in Thy light in the name of Sharhabiel the great First Radiance. May the words of Sharhabiel the Great First Radiance, be established for all who love his name of Truth. And for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnush may darkness be overcome and light set on high.

And Life be praised.

Chapter 26

In the name of the Life!

Bound (together) and sealed are these souls who went down to the jordan and were baptised in the name of the Great Life. They have been baptised with the baptism of Bihram the Great. Their souls have been secured with bonds of righteousness and with the bonds of Zhir, the great light of Life.

And Life be praised!

Chapter 27

In the name of the Life!

We were set up and raised up by 'Usar-Hiia: through 'Usar-Hai and Pta-Hai union with the House of Life came to us: Manda-d-Hiia went to us with radiance that is great and light that is powerful, with our mana, our sign, our way, our jordan and our baptism; with Hauran our vestment; with Hauraran our covering and with Hazazban our wreath.

I call on the mighty, sublime, all-surpassing Life, supreme over all works and I say to It, "Behold, behold, Great Life, us who at Thy name, Life, descended into the jordan and for Thy name's sake, Life, we took our name and our sign from the great Jordan of Life and from the great source of healing, at the word of Truth and (the power) to uplift of Yukab1ar-Ziwa.

And Life is victorious.

Chapter 28

Bound (together) and sealed are these souls who descended to the jordan and were baptised. By Hauran-Hauraran, the out-thrust of the Great Life: by Its names, by Yufin-Yufafin and Sam-Mana-Smira; by Yusmir, vehicle of the First radiance; and by the being Yukabar, the (well-) equipped 'uthra; seal and guard these souls who descended to the jordan and were baptised, against the deities of the House, lest they gain dominion over them. (Protect them) from their devils and demons so that they shall not go near them nor harm them nor ruin them. Let all pains, diseases, afflictions and tumours be removed from them. Let all evil sicknesses and malignant curses of the body be removed and driven off, so that those who sit before Thee like men attainted shall stand up like clean men. And healing shall be theirs, those souls who went down to the jordan and were baptised.

And Life is victorious.

[Recite these four "sealing" prayers, "When .. was bestowed", "Secured and sealed" ".. By

'Usar-Hiia" and the longer "Secured and sealed" with a loud voice to the souls whom thou hast baptised after thou hast given them pihta and mambuha. If (several) souls, recite as written; if a single soul, say "for this, the soul of N." Then make them stand and recite "Ye are set up and raised up".]

Chapter 29

In the name of the Life!

Ye are set up and raised up into the Place of the Good. Established amongst manas of light are these souls which went down to the jordan and were baptised (and those) of our fathers and teachers and of our brothers and sisters who have departed the body and those who are still in the body. There, in the light shall ye be raised up.

And Life is victorious.

[Here recite "What did thy Father do for thee, Soul. "]

Chapter 30

In the name of the Life!

"What did thy Father do for thee, Soul,

The great day on which thou wast raised up?"

"He took me down to the jordan, planted me,

And took (me) up and stood me upon its bank.

He broke and gave me bread (pihta),

Blessed the cup and gave me thereof to drink.

He placed me between his knees
And pronounced over me the name of the Mighty (Life)
He passed into the mountain before me;
He cried loudly that I might hear,
That I might hear he cried loudly,
'If there is strength in thee, Soul, come!'
'If I climb the mountain I shall fall;
I shall overturn and perish from the world!'
I lifted mine eyes to heaven
And my soul waited upon the House of Life.
I climbed the mountain and fell not,
I came (thither) and found the life of my Self.

"What did thy Father do for thee, Soul,
The great day on which thou wast raised up?"
"He took me down to the jordan, planted me,
And took me up and stood me upon its bank.
He broke and gave me bread,
Blessed the cup and gave me thereof to drink.
He placed me between his knees
And pronounced over me the name of the Mighty (Life).
He passed into the fire before me;
And cried aloud that I might hear,
That I might hear he cried aloud,
'If there is strength in thee, Soul, come!'

'If I go into fire I shall burn,
I shall scorch and perish from the world!'
To heaven I lifted mine eyes
And my soul waited upon the House of Life.
I went into fire and burned not,
I came, and found the life of my Self.

"What did thy Father do for thee, Soul,
The great day on which thou wast raised up?"
"He took me down to the jordan, planted me,
Took me up and stood me upon its bank.
He broke and gave me bread,
Blessed the cup and gave me thereof to drink.
He placed me between his knees
And pronounced over me the name of the Mighty (Life).
He entered the sea before me;
He cried aloud that I might hear,
That I might hear he cried aloud.
'If there is strength in thee, Soul, come!'
'If I go into the sea I shall sink,
I shall be overturned and perish from the world!'
To heaven I lifted mine eyes
And my soul waited upon the House of Life.
I went into the sea and was not drowned,
I came, the life of my Self I found,

Yea, Life! lo, Life! Life hath triumphed over this world.

And Life is victorious.

[This is a baptism hymn. Set up (recite?) the hymns, and where it says "souls" recite as written, but if it is a single soul say " amongst manas of light, the soul of N. son of N. who went down to the jordan and was baptised and received the Pure Sign" and chant "What did thy Father do for thee, Soul" and recite the antiphonal hymn "How lovely are plants which the Jordan (planted)" and "Rightly did my baptiser baptise me", "Shilmai baptised me with his baptism", "The jordan in which we were baptised", "I rejoice in my priests" and chant other hymns: "Truly do I say to you", "To you I cry, men who have received the Sign, and explain", and "A disciple, a new one, am I who have gone to the jordan-bank".

Then recite the "Blessed and praised" of Shum (Shem) son of Noah and at the place where it says "a wreath from the Vine Ruaz" (say) "will be set on the heads of these souls who have descended to the jordan, been baptised and received the pure sign and who were called, established and sealed by this baptism, and (on the heads of) our fathers, teachers, and brothers and sisters who have departed the body and those who are yet in the body". Should it be a single soul whom thou hast baptised, say "the soul of N. who went down to the jordan and was baptised" and finish.

And recite "Good is the good for the good" and end. And offer up the Petition and say the Rahmia for the souls thou baptisest. Say " these souls who went down to the jordan and were baptised and received the pure sign." If it was a single soul, say "the soul of N. son of N, who went down to the jordan and received the pure sign. " And beware: from the beginning to this point recite all thy baptismal prayers with care, attention and knowledge. And again perform kushta with them and say to them "Kushta make you whole my brother-'uthras! The communion of the living hath been performed in the manner in which 'uthras perform it in their shkintas. Fragrant is your perfume, my brother-'uthras, (for) within ye are full of radiance."

And they shall say "Seek and find, speak and be heard!" and kiss their hands. If the souls be female or if the soul thou baptisest is one (woman), perform the kushta with them and say to them "Kushta heal thee and raise thee up. Thy kushta shall be thy witness and thine alms thy saviour. When they say "Seek and find, speak and be heard" and kiss their hands, then say to them "Your kushta shall be your witness and your alms shall be your saviour. Your prayer and praise will rise and obtain mercy for you. In the name of the Great Life; we have acted (according to) the goodness of the Great (Life). And we have arranged (all things?) according to Thy loving-kindness from beginning to end. We have called upon the great Jordan of Water of Life and upon the three hundred and sixty jordans in which Hibil-Ziwa was baptised ". And he (H-Z.) said "Warn them, deliver them, save them and protect those souls which went down to the jordan, were baptised and received the pure sign from adultery, theft, black magic, from going to temples and worship in temples and from eating temple-food. And eat not of that which was killed by lion or wolf, or of anything disgorged or (found) dead. But immerse yourselves and purify yourselves. Manda-d-Hiia will be your helper, and your baptism will be efficacious." Then pray a prayer and Rahmia for thyself, and say "In the name of the Life! I worship the First Life and praise my lord Manda-d-Hiia and that great Presence of Splendour which emanated from Itself". Then recite "The First Life be praised! Truth make you whole! Ye are established and raised up" and transfer thy staff to thy right arm and end (the prayer). Then return it to thy left arm and recite the "Blessed and praised be Life" of Shum son of Noah. And sit and recite "Good is good for the good" and bend thy knee, sit, and pour out at "forgiving of sins" (be there for) "our forefathers" (etc.) "and the souls of Mandaeans, priests, ganzivri, treasurers, chief men and ethnarchs" in the "forgiving of sins". Then rise to thy feet, take the pihta and mambaha and recite the eight pihta prayers for the pihta and the two mambaha prayers for the mambuha. Dip the pihta in the mambuha and recite "The Life spoke and Life opened" for thy pandama and unfasten it. Eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha and drink the rinsing-water and take a second rinsing and recite "Life is fulfilled" and "The (Great) Life dwelleth on those who love Him" and cast in thine incense at (the words) "Radiance goeth up to its place" and at the place where it says "will forgive those that love his name of Truth" he shall say "those souls who went down to the jordan, were baptised and received the pure sign, and Life is victorious". Then throw (water) beneath thy staff, recite "Good is the good for the good" and make the Petition and repeat the Rahmia for thyself. Perform the kushta with the shganda and when he goes down, recite "In radiance that is great am I immersed", slip aside thy pandama and honour thy crown.]

Chapter 31

Radiance goeth up to its place and Light to the Everlasting Abode. On the day that Light ariseth, Darkness returns to its place. The Forgiver of sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes will remit them for those who love his name of Truth, and for those souls who went down to the jordan, were baptised and received the pure sign. Consuming fire will consume thee and thy ministration will be (noted?) in the habitations. The fragrance of life riseth to the House of Life, and we (too) will rise up to the House of Life: we shall be with the victorious 5). It is our support, and our confidence is in life in the Place of Light and in the Everlasting Abode. Life is established and set up in its indwellings, and Life is victorious over all works.

[This is the "loosing" (consecration) of incense for baptism.]

[In the name of the Great Life! May my thought, knowledge and understanding be enlightened, mine, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnush, by means of these (prayers), admonitions and hymns of baptism, which were transcribed from the scroll The Great Wellspring. This is the baptism wherewith Adam the first man was baptised by Hibil-Ziwa when he breathed the pure mana into him and he got up, sneezed and lived.

And Adam questioned, and spoke, "Through the power of Hibil-Ziwa have I attained my end!"

Then Hibil-Ziwa arose, put on the seven vestments, and went to the jordan-bank. When Adam had placed the qauqa (and) fire before Hibil-Ziwa, Hibil-Ziwa twined a wreath for his staff and twined a wreath for Adam, then rose and went to the jordan and recited the prayer "Answer me, my father, answer me, for I have gone to the jordan in the strength of my father Yawar, and in the strength of Manda-d-Hiia a wreath hath been set upon the 'uthras."

Then he arose and recited "In the name of that First Being" for his crown and set it on his head, then recited "Life created Yawar-Ziwa", "Let there be light" and Manda created me" for the myrtle-wreath and set it beside the crown.

And he held the end of his stole and recited "Strengthened and enhanced is the great mystery of radiance, light and glory" over his pandama, folded his pandama over his mouth and recited "incense that is fragrant, yea, for the First Life" and cast incense on the fire. And he recited "We have acknowledged," "Praises", "Thee, Thyself", "I sought to lift mine eyes", "The day that the jordan was bestowed on Sam-Smir", "I have worshipped and praised that Yawar-Ziwa" and "I am Yur son of Barit; in great radiance". And he held his stole and recited "I went to the jordan, but not I alone" up to the place where it says "give free movement to the limbs of my body; I go down," and he went down into the jordan up to a fourth of his thighs. And he recited "In the name of Yusmir, the First Vine" over his staff, and at the place where it saith "covered with radiance and clothed in light" he cast the myrtle-wreath over the staff and "clothed" it with his stole.

And he recited "Bound is the sea" and traced three circles thrice over in the jordan. And he recited "I am a perfected gem", and "Avaunt, flee in fear" and splashed the water in the jordan at his right, his left and in front of him and recited "Piriawis" as written. Then he chanted a hymn and said to him "Any man who hath strength thereto and who loveth his soul, let him come and go down to the jordan, be baptised, receive the pure sign, put on robes of radiant light and set a fresh wreath on his head."

And Adam descended into the jordan and submerged himself thrice behind him (Hibil-Ziwa), who took him by the right hand transferred him to his left, placed him between himself and his staff, dipped him thrice and signed him thrice in the jordan.

And he gave him three palmfuls of water to drink and recited "Manda created me" over the myrtle-wreath and set it upon his (Adam's) head and pronounced the secret names over him.

(Then) he took his hand in kushta over the staff and made him go up before him.

(Then) he took water from the jordan into his phial and recited the hymn "At the waterhead I went forth" and "Blessed art thou, Outer Door", and recited "I rose up from the jordan, and a group (of souls) I met". And he came up out of the jordan and completed it (the hymn). And he took up the oil and recited "We have acknowledged the name of Life", "Precious oil art thou" and "Thou wast established, First Life" over the oil. Then he signed him thrice and made passes over him thrice, and at each signing he laid his hand on his (Adam's) head and repeated those names which he had pronounced over him in the jordan.

And he performed kushta with him. (Then) he took the pihta and recited the eight prayers for the pihta over the pihta and the two prayers for the mambuha over the mambuha. And he gave him the pihta so that he should eat and gave him the mambuha that he might drink, and he drank the rinsing (water).

And he grasped his hand in kushta and seated him before him and recited the "sealing" prayers, "When a jordan of living water and bestowed upon Sam-Smir, the great Radiance of Life", "Bound and sealed", "By 'Usar-Hiia" and the greater (longer) "Bound and sealed" and laid his hand upon him and stood and recited "Ye are set up and raised up", "What did thy Father do for thee, Soul?", "How lovely are the plants which the jordan planted and raised up", "Rightly did my baptiser baptise me", "Shilmai baptised me with his baptism and Nidbai", "The jordan in which we were baptise will bear us witness", and

"I rejoice in my priests and Nasoraeans who hearken to my converse".

And he chanted the hymns "Truly do I say to you", "To you I cry and explain" and "A new disciple am I who hath come to the jordan bank".

And he read all the hymns and homilies unto their end and recited "Blessed and praised be Life" of Shum son of Noah and "Good is the good for the good". And he recited "In radiance that is great am I immersed" and loosed his kanzala (stole) and "honoured" his crown.

And Life is victorious.]

[Then Hibil-Ziwa gave judgement and said "The Life hath anathematised and Manda-d-Hiia hath cried out against and the Great First Word hath pronounced against any man, priest, who performed a baptism without his pandama. He shall be accursed by the Name (Vein) Of the Great Wellspring: Shilmai and Nidbai the guardian 'uthras of the jordan will curse him and the Wellspring and Palmtree will curse him. Yukabar will take away his crown and his seal and hull him back to his natural home, the Place of Darkness. Moreover, before any Nasoraean who retains his pandama whilst performing a baptism, a vein of the Great Wellspring will heap up and all that he doeth will be confirmed. All mischances will avoid him and darkness will roll away from him. His vestments will be kept in our safekeeping. Whilst he is alive in his body the Seven will be powerless to loose fear against him and lofty strength will be sent to him.

When he departeth the body the clouds which precede 'uthras will come towards him and dread of purgatory-demons will be powerless over him (for) he will not pass through the Purgatories.

And Abatur will clothe him in his glory and all the 'uthras will shed their light upon him.

And Life is victorious.

This is the limit (end) of the baptism which came to this world, the (baptism) wherewith

Hibil-Ziwa baptised Adam the first man and it was preserved in the ages for the elect righteous, for it was written down in the scroll of the Great Wellspring belonging to Ramuia son of 'Qaimat. And Bavan-Hibil son of Brik-Yawar wrote it here and distributed it amongst a hundred Nasoraeans, (copying) it from his own scroll which he copied from the scroll of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat.

It was written in the town of Tib and was placed with Haiuna daughter of Yahia, and Bainai son of Zakia.

Those who hold to it, (let them) expound it. (But) he who doth not establish it, let him keep away from it and not approach it.

And Life is victorious.]

Then said Yahia-Adam son of Sam-Saiwia, "When the scroll of Ramuia son of 'Qaimat found in the possession of Haiuna daughter of Yahia and Bainai son of Zakia came into my possession I put it together and arranged it as it was written originally, and removed nothing from it.

And Life is victorious.]

The Masiqta ("The raising up")

i.e. spiritual resurrection or ceremony to aid the ascent of the soul

Chapter 32

In the name of the Great Life may there be healing for me, Adam-Yuhana son of Mahnush!

Strengthened, enhanced was the great mystery of radiance, light and glory dwelling on the mouth of the First Life, for from It came forth Manda-d-Hiia (Knowledge-of-Life). For he knew and interpreted the thoughts of the First Life and perceived that they are wondrous.

And Life be praised!

[Recite this prayer and hold thy stole for the masiqta.]

Chapter 33

In the name of the Life!

Water of Life art thou! Thou art come from the Place which is life-giving and art poured forth from the House of Life.

(At thy) coming, Water-of-Life, from the House of Life, the good come and refresh themselves, (but) the wicked are discomfited and the children of (this) world abashed and say "Is there (not?) room for us in the Place of Light? For those that seek (ask) of it find, and those who speak of it are heard".

We have sought and found and we have spoken and been heard in thy presence, Manda-d-Hiia, lord of healings. As water when poured out falleth on the earth, so (too) so doth evil fall abased before good. As the water falleth on the earth, so shall their sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes be loosed from those who love the name of Truth (kushta) and from the souls of this masiqta, and from (the souls of) our fathers, teachers, brothers and sisters who have departed the body, and those who (still) live in the body And say "Established is Life (or "the living") in Its (their) dwelling".

And Life is victorious.

[This is the mambuha prayer]

Chapter 34

Hail to the First Life before Whom none existed, the Sublime from worlds of light, the Ineffable which is above all works; to the Ancient Radiance and the Great Primal Light, the Life which emanated from Life and the Truth that was of old, from the beginning. Hail the ancient, lofty, esoteric and guarded father of 'uthras. Hail Yuzataq, Gnosis of Life, Source of Life; He who unveileth the silence , giveth hope and keepeth the prayers of the spirits and souls of righteous and believing men into the Place of Light. Hail to the life of sincere and believing men who have come to their end and departed the body, and hail to those who are stiff alive in the body. May the gate of sin be barred to them and the gate of light be open for them. May they be knit together in the communion of Life in which there is no separation.

Pray ye from there for us and we will pray from here for you. All fruits wither: all sweet odours pass away, but not the fragrance of Gnosis of Life, which cometh not to an end nor passeth away for an age of ages and for world without end. May the souls of this masiqta rise up without sin, trespass, folly, stumbling and mistake unto the Place of Light and to the Enduring Abode.

And Life be praised!

[Read this ordinance for the incense and cast it on the fire. Then recite the prayers for the masiqta.]

Chapter 35

In the name of the Life!

I sought to lift my eyes, shoulders and arms towards the Place which is all life, radiance and glory, the place where which is all life, radiance, light and glory; a place where they who seek of it find, those who speak of it are heard and to those who ask of it, it is given them, day by day and hour by hour. This hour I address to thee, my Lord, Manda-d-Hiia, a vital petition, large and not small, for this congregation of people who have bent their knees to the ground and stretched forth their hands to the intermediate and upper (worlds). They have forsaken images, pictures and idols of clay, gods (made) of blocks of wood , and vain rites, and have testified to the name of the great, strange (sublime) Life. To them the gate of sin is closed and for them the gate of life is open. May our request, our prayer and our humble submission rise before the supreme Life which is above all works.

Before thee (in thy sight) all hands are thieving, all lips have lied. Water is in the jordan. Before thee (in thine eyes), Manda-d-Hiia, no man is clean : we are slaves who are all sin, and thou a lord who art all mercy. When thou art with us, who shall conquer us and if thou justifiest us who will convict us? Judge us not after the fashion of earthly courts of law; despise us not for our follies and associate us not with the false rites practised by the worlds and generations.

The worlds thrust hard at us, but we fell not. Backed by the Truth which is thine own, we have perfect confidence.

Establish life, and wilt thou not establish human beings? Thou hast spoken to us in thy Word and hast commanded us with thy command "Ask on earth and I will supply you with heavenly fruit : ask from below, (from) reed , swamp and mud, and I will supply you from the lofty heavens. Make supplication with the fleshly right hand, and I will bring you (what ye asked) with the right hand of kushta.

The first (generations) sought and found: let those that come after seek, and they will find. Seek and find for yourselves, for your friends, for your friends' friends and for those who love the great Family of Life. Your eyes shall not turn away from me unsatisfied.''

Thou art the father of all the 'uthras, the Support which is all light, the Vine which is all Life and the great Tree which is all things. For Thou knowest hearts, understandest minds and searchest out consciences (even) in the nethermost hells of darkness. Like a servant lying prostrate before Thee, our eyes are lifted to Thee, our lips give Thee praise and blessing seven hours of the day and the three watches of the night.

Those who seek of Him find, and to those who ask of Him it will be given. For to him that standeth at a closed door Thou wilt open the closed door. In the Place of Light Thou wilt wipe away and remove from us our sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes and wilt cast them into the hells of the earth and the nethermost limbos of darkness. Thou wilt raise us up as sinless and not as guilty, as virtuous and not as vicious before thee, Manda-d-Hiia.

The good behold and are refreshed: the wicked are discomfited and the children of (this) world abashed. And they say "Is there no place for me in the Place of Light, since those who seek therefrom find, and ask thereof and it is given them?"

We beseech thee to let some of thy radiance, thy light and thy glory rest upon us. Thou art the Healer above all means of healing, a Raiser-up above (all) that raiseth up, a Radiance above all radiancies and a light above all lights. For thou openest doors of truth and revealest mysteries and wisdom and showest forth mighty deeds in Jerusalem. Thou confinest demons and devils and frightenest away the gods from their high places. Great is thy name and praised is thy name! Thou art the counterpart of the Life, for thou wast in existence before all. Thou art the Vine, for thou wast in the Ether above heaven and above the earth. When worlds came into being and creations were called forth, thou didst hold in thy grasp the worlds and generations. Thou hast laid down a road for sincere and believing men to the Place of Life. (Though) spirits and souls sit (here) as guilty, (yet) by thy name they shall rise as innocent, (thy name of) Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia. To support the hands of good people, thou wilt be (bring?) healing of life to the souls of this masiqta Life is established in its indwellings and Life is victorious.

[This prayer is good for all occasions: (it may be used) on occasion for the Rahmia (daily office), or for the masiqta, or for baptism and for all purificatory rites. For the masiqta, after thou hast recited over the pandamta, "water of prayer" and the ordinance for the incense, pray "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "To Thee", "Lifting eyes" and "I sought to raise my eyes". And prepare the pihta, mambuha and klila (wreath) and set them out for the masiqta. And recite the ordnance for the oil, (placed) in something clean : in a glass or tin cup when washed and cleansed. And recite the masiqta.]

Chapter 36

In the name of the Life!

I worship, laud and praise that great, secret, First Mana who abode for nine hundred and ninety-nine thousand myriads of years alone in his own Abode - for no Companion came to him; (none existed) save that great, secret, First Mana. For he came into existence therein and developed therein.

Then I worship, laud and praise that great, occult, First Drop who emanated from Him. They existed, (but) She abode for four hundred and forty-four thousand myriads of years in Her own Abode, alone, for She had no consort.

Then I worship, laud and praise Pirun, that great occult first Vine from whom there emanated eight hundred and eighty eight thousand myriads of 'uthras.

>From Them and from those 'uthras proceeded one 'uthra, whose name is the Great Countenance of Glory who is (at once) less than his brethren and more venerable than his parents. Manda-d-Hiia, the well-prepared 'uthra, divulged and revealed and said "Any Nasoraean man who sitteth to recite "Established is the First Life" and breaketh bread will receive condemnation from the House of Life,"

And I am established, in the light of Life and Life is victorious.

Chapter 37

I worship, laud, and praise that Occult, great First Cloud of Life, with whom in secret, he broke bread and gave thereof in secret to the Occult Life and to the Mighty First Life.

And Life if victorious.

Chapter 38

I have worshipped and praised Yawar-Ziwa, who arose and praised that great mighty Mana at whose right and left hand there stand four hundred and forty-four thousand myriads of 'uthras. A thousand myriads of 'uthras, sons of light, worship and laud the rays of his Radiance.

He arose and broke bread in secret and gave thereof to the sons of men and establisheth his Abode in secret.

And Life is victorious.

Chapter 39

I worship, laud and praise that secret saying which Yawar pronounced secretly. He made it known, and divulged and established a Life-ray therein. Radiance and light came and dwelt at his right and glory and resplendence dwelt at his left. And the 'uthras en- treated the Life that they might behold the Likeness of Yawar-Ziwa in their own glory.

Yawar-Ziwa the vigilant 'uthra divulged and revealed and said "Sixty-four sins daily will be forgiven a Nasoraean man who repeats this secret saying, in the Great Place of Life and the Lasting Abode".

And Life is praised.

Chapter 40

I have worshipped and praised 'Usar, who broke bread for the hidden first 'uthras, so that they (find) rest in their hearts.

The holy 'uthras stood in their dwellings and praise the mighty Life in its Dwelling, adorable in Its radiance and wondrous in Its light.

I worshipped and praised that supreme First Vine, for within it is its Sap : its leaves are 'uthras and its tendrils rays of light. 'Uthras sit in its shade. And within the great first Cloud of Light there came into existence, within the Treasure-of-Light there was generated, the Secret Mana.

And Life be praised.

Chapter 41

I worshipped and praised Treasure-of-Light, the great Awaker (yawar) of Life, who broke bread in the Hidden and gave (thereof) to the Mighty First Life in Its Dwelling. I praised the seven mystic precious and preserved manas who derived existence from Their Place and were transplanted from Their Treasure-house. I worshipped and praised the mighty First Life that transported Itself from Its Place, transferred itself from its own Treasurehouse in which it came into existence, was developed, dwelt and was established; and (whereof) It discoursed and wherein It had gloried.

It praiseth and speaketh, "Every Nasoraean who reciteth these secret sayings will seek and find, will speak and be heard seven times daily. And seven sins will be forgiven him in the great Place of Light and Eternal Abode."

And Life be praised!

Chapter 42

I worship, laud and praise that first secret Word which Yawar imparted in secret. He expounded and explained it and established therein that which is living, Rays (of his light). And Yawar said "Enlightenment and praise have come to pass". And Yawar came and his glory rested upon his own shkinta. Radiance and Light came and were established before him : Glory and Enlightenment came and dwelt at his right hand. And the 'uthras ask the Life to behold the appearance of Yawar-Ziwa in their (its?) radiance, and to commend the prayer and praise which they pronounced to Shilmai and Nidbai, the 'uthras who are the two messengers of Manda-d-Hiia

Yawar hath said, "Every Nasoraean who repeateth this secret prayer seven times daily, seven sins a day shall be forgiven him. And Life abideth in its Dwelling".

Life is victorious.

Thou, Manda-d-Hiia, hast established for thy chosen that which thou hast revealed to us from the book Nhur (Be light) and front Pta usra (They revealed treasure from the first treasure and from 'Usar Nhura (Treasure of Light), a solace, a great support of life, that which shineth in light, the light of which enlighteneth.

It (Manda, gnosis) came into being, was revealed, fulfilled and went forth in strength abundant and became mighty by growth of knowledge It increased in radiance and was full of light which proceeded from the Counterpart (?) of Life, a wondrous counterpart!

Thereupon the worlds were ashamed, for none had seen its like, its brilliance or its glory.

Kushta standeth by his friends and Manda-d-Hiia by his chosen ones.

For thou hast chosen (us), host taken us out of the world of hatred, envy and disputes and hast set us firmly on paths of truth and faith, so that we stand and praise the holy and guarded place. And he who partaketh of this bread (pihta), put out (for him) will be sinless in the Place of Light, the Everlasting Abode.

And Life is victorious.

[These are the prayers appointed for the pihta].

Chapter 44

Biriawish, source of living waters, first upsurging that sprang forth, great outburst of the radiance of all-abundant Life! (Be) life for the souls of this masiqta.

[This is the appointed prayer for the mambuha, If there are (several) souls, read as written; if one soul say 'for this the soul of N.']

Chapter 45

Thy name, (O) Life, is excellent: its glory is great, its light abundant, Its goodness came over (or overflowed), inaugurating the First Mystery, life which proceeded from Life and Truth which existed before the beginning. This is a wellspring of life which sprang forth from the Place of Life: we drink thereof, of this Fount of Life which Life transmitted was established in the House of Life, which crossed worlds, came, cleft the heavens and was revealed.

Thou hast shown us that which the eye of man hath not seen, and caused us to hear that which human ear has not heard. Thou hast freed us from death and united us with life, released us from darkness and united us with light, led us out of evil and joined us to good. Thou hast shown us the Way of Life and hast guided our feet into ways of truth and faith so that Life cometh and expelleth darkness and goodness cometh and casteth out evil. (Like) the mingling of wine with water, so may Thy truth, thy righteousness and thy faith be added to those who love Thy name of Truth,

And Life be praised.

[This is the set prayer for the mambuga (sacramental drink). Make the pihta and the mambuhamasiqta, and then make the myrtle wreath.] and place them (ready for) the

Chapter 46

In the Name of Life!

The Light became light, the Light became light! The Light became the light of the First Life. Glory dawned and (there was) praise of the Mana who came from his Place. He came (with) all ether-wreath, with benefits that are from the Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode. Yufin-Yufafin was the weaver of the wreath; she who brought it was 'Nisbat'-Utria (She- planted i.e. was the mother of uthras). And he who set wreath on was 'It-Yawar-Ziwa (There-is- dazzling-Radiance) son of 'Nisbat-'Utria: he brought it and set it on the head of the Mana, planted it (there) so that it was set up (thereon).

The wreath flames and the leaves of the wreath flame. Before the Mana there is radiance, behind the Mana there is light and glory, at either side of the Mana are radiance, brilliance and purity; and at the four corners of the heavens and on the seven sides of the firmament dwell silence, bliss and glory.

And Life is victorious.

Chapter 47

Enlightened and enlightening are words of light to the souls of this masiqta. Sure, assured, armed and prepared, resplendent and beauteous (are they) when the wreath with its mysteries is set on the heads of these souls of this ascent (masiqta) to the great gate of Abathur's house. They will open to them the great gate of Abathur's house and will guard them by secret and watchful manas.

And Life be praised!

[These two prayers are said over the myrtle-wreath in the masiqta.]

Chapter 48

In the name of the Life!

Manda-d-Hiia went to the stars. His appearance loosed the bound (souls): he knit (them into?) the communion that is without parting and without limit or number, by his word which issued from him in that place. All the worlds were confounded: the works of the House were destroyed and there was security for sons of the Great Family of Life.

He planted his planting and descended to the earth, (where) the hand of Evil, of the Lord of the House, lay heavy upon them. And when wickedness oppressed them, they beheld his radiance, and some of the celestial fruits appeared to them, the strength and name of the Ineffable One Who is all light was revealed to them and some of His glory was communicated to them and Knowledge of Life (Manda-d-hiia) was revealed to all who love his name of Truth at the place which is wholly (inhabited by) those convicted of sin. And when they beheld him, the lords of the worlds were con- founded but did not, from their thrones, loose (the bonds of) the captives.

He passed by: the captives were freed. He loosed them from their sins and trespasses: yea, release from their bodies was made possible to them. And (as for) the lords of the House who looked on, their ranks were discomfited and they were unable to reach him. Yea, the name of Abathur was (set) over them and the name of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia was fulfilled and revealed to those who love his name. And his name shall (aid) the souls of this masiqta: it will be his name. And Life is victorious.

[This is the recitation appointed for the masiqta. Read it over pure oil in something (pure ?) and place it before thee and then read the masiqta.]

Chapter 49

In the name of the Strange (Sublime) Life!

This, the glory and light of life, is to bring forth the spirit and soul from the body and to clothe the living soul in a living garment. Yea, she is solaced and liveth, the counterpart of Life, she that emanated from a Dimat of Life, with the Outer Life, with Hauraran and Karkawan-Ziwa, with Treasure-of-Light, the solace and great support of life, with life that emanated from the Life and with the truth which existed of old in the beginning, They live in their shecinahs, and the Great Light (abideth) in its purities.

When any human being departeth from his body, there come towards him seven godlike appearances , and each standeth by his own, And Sauriel the Releaser cometh -- he who releaseth spirit and soul from the body. Up there, with those works, he standeth with the vesture of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia which releaseth (the soul). And Hauraran and Karkawan-Ziwa remove from her that in her which is of the body, and she putteth on the dress of Yuzataq- Manda-d-Hiia. Garment on garment she putteth on, she arrayeth herself in robe after robe, When she weareth the vesture of Yuzataq- Manda-d-Hiia there, she laugheth, rejoiceth, leapeth for joy, danceth, exulteth and is overjoyed about the glorious splendour resting (upon her) and the glory that accrueth to her.

Onward she goeth in the vesture of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia, The planets who are in their places were out of coutenance on seeing it: they clenched their fists, beat on the forecourt of their breasts and say "Woe on (us) planets! for they (we) are powerless, but the works of Their hands are victorious!"

And they say "How beautiful is this radiancy, how steadfast this light, how lovely this glory and how wondrous this appearance!" And they ask "who will clothe us with this radiance ? Who will cover us with this light and who will shed on us this glory ? And what is it that passeth before us in this guise ? for it is fair, shining and bright: in this world nothing made can be compared to it!" And they exclaim "How good is Kushta to the good, and Manda-d-Hiia to all his chosen, (those) who stand in their bodies and dedicate themselves to the name of the Life and to becoming (thus)!"

She goeth on in the vesture of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia and they let those deeds of hers pass by and (escape) the hands of all the planets.

And on she went and reached Abathur's house of detention, (Abathur), the Ancient, Lofty, Holy and Guarded one. There his scales are set up and spirits and souls are questioned before him as to their names, their signs, their blessing, their baptism and every- thing that is therewith.

The soul of N. hath entered the House of Abathur and hath given her name, her sign, her blessing, her baptism and everything that is therewith!

The souls of our fathers were signed with the sign of Life and the name of the Life and the name of Manda-d-Hiia was pronounced over them. They put them in the scales, putting in their deeds and rewards I) and weighed them. And the perfect went in (also), the spirit with the soul, but they took them out (for they were) clean. Radiance issued from the radiance of Abathur and clothed them and they brought light and covered their (therewith).

(Like them) she (the soul) put on garment on garment and robe over robe like the vestments of Abathur. There she laugheth, rejoiceth, leapeth for joy, danceth, exulteth and is overjoyed about the glorious splendour which resteth (on her) and accrueth to her . And she proceedeth in the vesture of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia and went on and reacheth the watch-house (house of detention) of four beings, sons of perfection, 'In-Hai, Sum-Hai, Ziv-Hai and Nhur-Hai . Each of these beings clotheth her with his radiance and each covereth her with his light. Garment on garment she putteth on, with garment after garment doth she clothe herself. When she puts on the vesture of the sons of perfection she laugheth, rejoiceth, leapeth for joy, danceth, exulteth and is overjoyed about the glorious splendour, the honour resting on and belonging to her.

She proceeded in the vesture of Yuzataq-Manda-d-Hiia and went onwards and reached the Waters of Death . The waters covered her, (but) Radiance crossed over- his name abode in his shkinta : honoured and chosen, he created himself - and said "Life, I am Thine, and for Thy name's sake came I forth from the world of Pthahil, from amongst evil plots and from beneath the throne of Abathur the Ancient, so that we tray bring out this soul of N, of this masiqta (so that) she cometh before him".

He is the ray of the great radiance of Life, a being who resteth upon the shkinta, and upon shkinta doth his name rest. He graspeth her with the palm of his right hand and handeth her over to two 'uthras, sons of light, to Adatan and Yadatan, of one gnosis and one mind. And Adatan and Yadatan hand her over to two 'uthras, to 'Usar-Hai and to Pta-Hai who open the Door of Life, plant the plant of Life and establish the first counterpart of the House of Life. They raised her up beside the living they bring her in, in the likeness of Life they support her in the Place where radiance, like light, flameth. And the spirits of N. went and became of the same nature as the soul and was established in the House of Life.

And Life is victorious.

50

Rightly did the baptist baptise me (in the waters of?) Yaluz-Yaluz for their spring is Hammamulai. My name, Ksasar-Hamamulai is spoken, disseminated, guarded, hidden and pure. They (the waters?) knew the source from which they proceeded: its name was on the sky, its glory on the earth. For upon treasure, in treasure, the Great Life existed and was fulfilled in Its glory.

I sit on a perfected garment and by the great fountainhead of Yukabar-Hiia, beneath a Vine which riseth above me. Praise-of-Life standeth before me. "Who will manifest himself and come and speak to me?" "I am he who is manifest, for I am great". The life that is beneath me is the Vine which riseth above me, Praise-of-Life standeth before me. This is my name and my sign which I received from waves of water and from treasures of radiance and from the great and lofty Mixing-Bowl (?).

And Life is victorious.

51

In the name of the Life!

I am baptised in the name of the Strange Life, the Sublime (Being) above all works. I am established in the name of Treasure-of-Light. "I looked upon the Life and the Life looked upon me, and in the Life put I my trust. When this the soul of N. casteth off her bodily garment, she shall put on the dress of life and become a facsimile of the Great Life in light."

Yawar from the House of Life revealed (himself?) and shone forth , establishing his counterpart, transplanting the Great Life in his light. The worlds thrust at us, but we fell not; backed by Thy truth, we have confidence. The first sprout hath burst forth - a ray of the great radiance of Life in its triumphs; Truth (Kušta) and the great Source (kana) of its glory.

And Life be praised!

52

Whose son am I? (Of?) the guarded Mana who is Yusmir, the First Great Radiance, son of the great Primal Life, who pondered and went forth seeking His own, that which came from Him. The congregation of souls, on the last day, when departing from their bodies, rejoice in Him, embrace Him and rising up, behold the outer ether and the enduring Abode and praise the Great Life in Its light.

And Life is victorious!

53

A letter, union and victory have come to this the soul of N. from the House of Life. Its fastening is water, its wreath is light, its weapon the living word, and its seal the Chosen, the Pure One. Every man who openeth it and readeth therein shall live, be whole, and his name will beset up in the House of Life in the name of the Great Sublime Life. And the First Life is established in Its škinta.

[This is the seal of the masiqta. Up to this point recite the masiqta, and here take the pihta and break off a morsel from one upper fatira and the undermost fatira and bring a portion of the Ba and fold them together. And mingle the "water of prayer" with the wine and recite over them "Yukasar chose her (the soul) who passeth over" and recite "The Life spoke and opened" and part thy pandama and eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha and recite "The Water of Life burst forth in splendour in its škinta.]

Yukasar chose her that passeth (crosseth) over; he chose her, called her forth and established her. He clothed her in radiance ineffable and brought light abounding and covered her therewith. He raised her up to the Great Place of Light and the everlasting Abode, and in his own škinta his (the dead man's) soul was assigned (a place) and found rest in his treasure. Living waters (water of Life) from the House of Life burst forth (in splendour) and (like them?) shall shine forth the souls who are called upon, raised up and signed in this masiqta, (the souls of) our fathers, teachers, brothers and sisters who have departed the body, and of those who still live in the body. They shall rise upward on a smooth road and by the path of the perfect, shall behold the Place of Light and the everlasting Abode and be established by Him who opened (revealed) the great first light.

And Life is victorious.

55

The Great Life spoke and revealed (opened) with His mouth, in His own radiance light and glory. And Life be praised.

[This is for the loosing of the pandama. Recite this "Yukasar chose her who passeth over" over the "water of prayer" and wine when they are mingled together. If it is for (several) souls that he has recited read as written, but if for a single soul say "the soul of N. , shall be awakened" . And say "The Great Life spoke and opened with His mouth'' and part thy pandama, eat thy pihta and drink thy mambuha. And recite "The living water shone forth in its place" then rise, and read one prayer alter another until the (prayer) ''Yukasar chose her that passeth over" hath been offered up.]

56

In the name of the Life!

Living waters shone forth (in splendour) in their škinta. The robes of the good were resplendent in their place. The great Mana was dazzlingly bright in His glory. So (too) shall these living, (brightly) shining, steadfast and vigorous souls shine in splendour in the great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.

[This is a prayer of dedication for the "water of prayer"]

57

Fragrant incense riseth to its place and Thou, Life, be victorious! The Forgiver of sins, trespasses, follies, stumblings and mistakes will forgive all those who love his name of Truth (Kušta) (likewise) the soul of N.

And Life is victorious.

[A dedication prayer for the incense]

58

In the name of the Life!

Praised be the First Life, praised be the Word of the First Life: praised be that radiance, light and glory; praised be that Light which is boundless and endless and none know when it came into being. Praised be the Lord of Greatness and praised be all the 'uthras that stand to the right and left of the Lord of Greatness and praise the Lord of Greatness. Praised be my father Yawar, praised be all the 'uthras who stand and praise my father Yawar. Praised be that great first Jordan in which the First Life was baptised. Praised be all jordans of living water: praised be the fruits, grapes and trees which stand by them. Praised be all the mighty and lofty worlds of light; praised be all those sanctuaries (shkinata) of the Hidden for in each and every škinta sit a thousand thousand 'uthras, ('uthras) without end, and the myriad myriad sanctuaries that are countless. Praised are those thousand thousand 'uthras without end and the myriad myriad sanctuaries beyond count.

Praised be all those banners of radiance, light and glory unfurled before them which give them light. Praised be the great gate of the House of Abathur; praised be all 'uthras who stand before Abathur and praise him. Praised be the three hundred and sixty scales which are set up before the ancient Abathur; praised be that first great Scales that was set up before Abathur the Ancient. Praised be that great occult Drop from which he proceeded. Praised be all 'uthras who sit upon thrones of rest and recite ordinances and masiqtas and secret prayers. Praised be those recitations, masiqtas, and secret prayers in which the Great (Life) is praised. Praised be those priests who sit with them.

Praised be all mountains of radiance, light and glory; praised be all roads and paths of light.

First Life! Lift up Thine eyes upon these souls called upon, raised up and signed in this masiqta and (the souls of) our father, brothers and sisters who have departed the body, and of those who still tarry in the body. Deliver them, save them and protect them from this world of the wicked and from those watch-houses (purgatories). Let thy mercy, Great First Life, rest upon them. And ye shall say "Life is established in its indwellings".

And Life is victorious.

[This is an offering-up of supplications. It is the dedicatory prayers of the masiqta. Pray "We have acknowledged", "Praises", "Thee, Thyself", "Raising eyes" and "I sought to raise my eyes". If thou recitest for (several) souls read as written, if it is one soul say "Lift thine eyes upon the soul of N"].

59

Life is fulfilled in its own glory and the Great Light established by its victories.

[This is the prayer offered up for the pihta].

60

The Great Life dwelleth in those that love Him, and His devotees dwell in the Great Place of Light and the Everlasting Abode.

And Life be praised!

[This is the dedicatory prayer for the mambuha.]

61

An earthly wreath fadeth, but the wreath of Life is fresh and living. The wreath of an elect righteous man is set and shineth on the heads of those who love the name of Truth (Kušta). The wreath is from the world of light and the robe from the Everlasting Abode. The ether-wreath is set, with its purities, and shineth on the heads of these souls of this masiqta.

And Life is victorious.

[This is the prayer put up for the wreath of a masiqta. If thou recitest for several souls, read as written, but if for a single say "on the head of this soul of N."]

62

The worlds glisten (with costly) oil, but Nasoraeans shine with the radiance of Life.

And Life is victorious.

63

In great radiance am I immersed and in steadfast light am I established. Manda baptised me, Kušta confirmed me. A letter, communication (communion) and purity came to me from the House of Life. Its fastening is water, its wreath is light, its weapon the living word, and its seal the chosen, pure one. Every man who openeth it and readeth therein shall live, shall be whole and his name will be set up in the House of Life, in the name of the great Sublime Life from worlds (of light?).

And Life is victorious.

[This is the prayer offered up for the masiqta oil.]

64

The Life dwelleth in its own radiance and light.

And Life be praised!

[This is the confirmation of the (prayer) "Yukasar chose her who passeth over". Here recite "Ye are set up and raised up" and the masiqta-hymns.]

65

Ye are set up and raised up into the Place where the good are established amongst manas of light, the souls called upon and raised up and signed by this masiqta and (the souls of) our fathers, our teachers, our brothers and our sisters who have departed the body, and of those who are(still) living in the body. Your manas shall be set up in the Light and ye will be established in the Light.

And Life is victorious.

66

In the name of the Life!

I am crowned with a wreath and lay me down
In a dress in which there is no blemish.
No spot is there in the dress,
Nor is there aught missing or lacking in it.
The Life knew about me.
Adam, who slept, awoke;
He grasped me with the palm of his right hand
And gave (not?) into my hand a palmbranch.
Light cast me into darkness,
But the darkness was filled with light.
The day that light ariseth,
Darkness returneth to its place.
The souls of this masiqta
Approach a cloud of light.
Their journey is to the Place of Light.

And Life be praised.

[This is a masiqta hymn]

With him, with the Deliverer
The souls of this masiqta will ascend.
They will behold the Place of Light
And the Everlasting Abode.

On their road the Seven will not detain them,
Nor will the Judge of the False question them.
The Life will count you in His reckoning
And the good will set you up in their midst.
To the place to which the good go they will guide you
And in the place in which they stand they will set you up;
Lamps of radiance are found before you,
Beams of light behind you.
Kušta will come at your right
And Piety will smoothen your path.

For you there will be loosings
From here to the Everlasting Abode.
For the ferry which ferries over the Elect
Will set out towards you and take you across.

(Then) from Abathur of the Scales

A saviour will come forth towards you.

The saviour that cometh towards you

Is all radiancy and light from head to foot

Like the wreath in his right hand.

And on his two arms is a robe.

Bestir yourselves! Put on your robes!

Put on your living wreaths, gird on your girdles

In which nothing is awry or blemished.

Above your head there will be fruit,

And there, at your time and season

Your manas will be set up in the Light.

Your manas in the Light will be set up.

(So) rise up, behold the Place of Light!

And Life is victorious.

68

Between the Hidden and the Radiance,

Between Light and the 'uthras,

Between the Hidden and the Radiance
Stand those who question the soul,
Saying to her "Speak! say, soul,
Who constructed thee? who was thy Builder?
Who built thee and who was the Being, thy Creator?"

The soul spoke and said --
The edified, well-constructed soul spoke --
And saith to the Being who questioneth her,
Said to him, 'My father, One built me, One constructed me"
One was the Being who transplanted me;
One of the sons of salvation in his goodness
Took (accepted) his lot (duty).

He folded me in a wrapping of radiance,
Took (me) and gave me over to Adam.
Adam, in his simplicity, whilst he knew not nor understood,
Took and cast me into a physical body;
Took me and cast me into a physical body
That is all sour and bitter fluids and decaying substances.
(There) the soul remaineth and waiteth in the hostel of the body
Which he had bequeathed her: sitteth and watcheth over it
Till its measure and count were accomplished.

When its measure and count were accomplished

The Deliverer came to her;
To her came the Deliverer
Who loosed her and bore her away:
(Yea), he who had bound her, who had loosed the soul,
Went before her whom he had bound.

Coming behind him, the soul hasted
Reached her Deliverer, ran (after) him
Who had bound her to her dwelling.
The soul and her Deliverer (go):
Her course is to the Place of Light,
To the place whose sun goeth not down,
Nor do its lamps of light grow dim.

To it, and to that place, those souls
That are called upon in this masiqta
And signed by this sign, are summoned and invited.
They shall behold the great Place of Light
And the abiding Abode.

And Life be praised.

Bliss and peace there will be
On the road which Adam attained:
Bliss and peace there shall be
On the road which the soul traverseth.

The soul hath loosed her chain and broken her bonds;
She hath shed her earthly garment.

She turned round, saw it and was revolted
She uttered an evil curse on the being
Who had clothed her in the body.

She provoked the Framer-of-Bodies, she roused him
From the lair in which he lay. She said to him,
"Rise up, look, Framer-of-Bodies;
The hollow of thy hand is filled with water!"
The voice of the Framer-of-Bodies (is heard),
Who howleth and weepeth for himself
And saith "Woe is me that the hollow of my hand
Is filled with water!" And to her he saith
"Go in peace, daughter of the free, whom
In the house of evil ones they called handmaiden.

Go in peace, pure pearl that was transported
From the treasuries of Life;

Go in peace, fragrant one who imparted

Her fragrance to the stinking body.

Go in peace, radiant one, who illumined

Her dark house. Go in peace,

Pure and chosen one, immaculate and spotless!"

Flying, the soul went

Until she reached the House of Life:

She arrived at the House of Life.

`Uthras went forth towards her,

Saying to her "Take and put on thy robe of radiance

And set on thy living wreath!

Arise, dwell in the škintas,

The place where `uthras abide, conversing;

And Life is victorious and triumphant is Manda-d-Hiia

And lovers of his name".

And Life be praised!

70

Blessed and praised be Life

Who is filled with compassion for these souls.
Praised be thou, my lord, Manda-d-Hiia,
For thou raisest up these souls and dost not condemn them.

Praised be thou, pure Yushamin,
For thou wilt give them thy helping hand.
Be ye praised, Shilmai and Nidbai,
For ye will give true witness concerning them.
And be ye praised, Hibil, Shitil, and Anush
For ye will ransom them from the House-of-Dues
And from Abathur of the Scales!

For toward you will go forth a messenger,
And the messenger who goeth toward you
Is all radiance and light from head to foot.
In his right hand a kind of wreath
And on both his arms a robe.

Up! put on your robes, set on your living wreaths!
Gird on your girdles that are flawless and faultless!
Above your heads there will be fruit,
And your lamps will hang amongst lamps of light
And will shed light.

The Lord of Tolls will not confront you

Nor will lying judges put you to the question.

They will bring you liberating words

From here unto the Everlasting Abode,

The building that was built for you in the House of Life,

Will not come to nought in an age of ages!

And may some of Manda-d-Hiia's radiance and light

And the revivifying-breath of Life rest upon us!

Blessed is the Voice of Life

And praised be the great Beam which is all light.

And Life be praised.

[After thou hast recited "The Life dwelleth in its own radiance and light", "Ye are set up", "I am crowned with a wreath and lay me down", "With him, with the Deliverer", "Between the Hidden and the Radiance", "Bliss and peace there will be", "My vigilance and my praise giving", "Go in peace, Pure Chosen one", "Well, well is it for thee, soul" and the other hymns, as many as thou art able, then recite the "Blessed and praised is Life" of Shem son of Noah.

If thou readest for (several) souls, read as it is written, but if only for one soul, say "The soul of N." and pay attention, with all watchfulness, clearness of mind and studious attention and recite "Good is the good for the good"; perform Kušta with one another and recite "In great radiance am I immersed".

And pray a prayer for yourselves and make pihta and mambuha for yourselves and eat your pihta and drink your mambuha And offer up the prayer "Good is the good for the good", perform Kušta with one another for yourselves and (then) honour your crowns.]

And Life is victorious.

71

In the name of the Life!

Blessed and praised be the Life!
Blessed and praised be the name of Life in the Place of Light!
Blessed and praised art thou, my lord, Manda-d-Hiia;
Thou and thy strength, thy radiance, thy light, thy glory and thy help.

Praised art thou, my father Yushamin the Pure,
Son of a transplanting of the mighty Life.

Praised art thou, Second Life, Life that is from Life.

Praised are ye, Shilmai and Nidbai, guardian 'uthras of the jordan.

Praised are ye, Nsab and Anan-Nsab.

(Praised are) our fathers Hibil, Shitil and Anush
The name and chief of the whole race.

Praised art thou, Lofty Abathur;
Blessed and established is the great škinta in which thou sittest.

Praised are ye four beings, sons of Perfection, who go to meet the good;
Go forth to meet the good and clothe the good with robes.
Praised art thou, Earth of Light and blessed and praised Those who dwell in thee.

Blessed art thou, Road of the great, path of the perfect
And track that riseth up to the Place of Light.

Blessed art thou, Nasirutha from whom the elect learn;
From thee learn the elect, and deal out reward and pious gift
They deal with reward and pious gift and rise up and behold the Place of light.

Praised art thou, jordan of living water, for from thee we obtain purity;
We obtain purity from thee and receive the pure sign.

My fathers beheld the Life and my teacher the Place of Light.
The 'uthras of light are victorious,
And victorious Abathur and the sons of Perfection
Who stand, praising the Life.

Enlargement of life there shall be for the believing
Who have departed out of our midst;
The believers, the poor, the lowly and priests.

And my lord Manda-d-Hiia will lend them his helping hand.

Thankfully received are the good gifts (tabuta) of life,

The good gifts of life and of knowledge of life,

The pihla that ..... at the name of the Life.

For any man who giveth an oblation,

His oblation will be his helper: elect and perfect men

Who bestow oblations will rise by Kušta 's path.

To them it shall be given.

Of the Ether-wreath they twisted them a wreath

Of speech and hearing, of joy, purity, goodness and greatness.

A wreath from the Vine Ruaz He will set on the heads

Of those souls called on, signed, and raised up by this masiqta;

(And the souls of) our fathers, our teachers, our brothers and our sisters, of those who have departed the body and those who are yet in the body.

(A wreath like that) set on Its head by the Great (Life)

And by the Great (Life) given to 'uthras

And given by 'uthras to their priests.

Healer, whose medicine is water, come!

Be thou a healer to thy devotees,

To thy devotees be thou a healer

And to him that giveth oblation be thou a helper:
On him whom thou hast healed, do thou,
My lord, bestow soundness.

Behold him who standeth before thee and condemn him not.

My Lord, High King of Light, Revealer
Whose eyes are uncovered, seeking justice
And enacting justice for those who love it,
Do justice on those who persecute us,
Those persecutors who pursue us,
And on the wicked and furious ones
Who scheme to work evil upon us.

If it please Thee, High King of Light,
Look on us and condemn us not!

Behold these souls who believed in Thee
And for Thy name's sake stood by on earth
And were persecuted. Show us pure ether-air
So that we may forget earthly persecution,
That we may forget the persecution of earth
And the vexation of the wicked and liars.

Strengthen our insight, our voice, our vigilance and our praise!

Thereby the Great Life communed with thee
And set thee up completely (?) with His radiance
And His light, Manda-d-Hiia!

And may the vivifying-power of Life rest upon us.
My elect, ye shall say "Blessed be the Voice of Life
And praised be the great Beam which is all light!"

And Life be praised!

[This is the "Blessed and praised be the Life" of Shem son of Noah. Afterwards, read here "Blessed and praised be Life" of the souls, and then recite "Good is the Good for the good".]

72

Good is the Good for the good, and His nature is set upon those who love His name. We will seek and find, speak and be heard. We have sought and found, have spoken and been heard in thy presence, my lord, Manda-d-Hiia, Lord of all healings.
